NRA Program Slow To Get Underway Here

The NRA program is getting off to a slow start in Lockney. Thirty-five business concern names are on the rolls around at the postoffice as members of the NRA which is practically every business concern in the city, however there are yet a few more that will come under the Blue Eagle protection before the deadline Saturday night.

Where Lockney is getting off to a slow start is in getting the consumer cards signed up. Individuals are anxious to do their part in this campaign for better times but they have not been given the opportunity. They have not been approached on the matter. The town should have been organized and ready to start on a house-to-house canvass Monday morning armed with pledge cards to be signed by individual consumers and have explained to them the program which they are asked to take part in. If this is not done we are not cooperating with the President in his recovery program.

Individual consumers are asked to patronize the business concern that is flying the Blue Eagle. When they sign the pledge card they pledge themselves to do this. If these pledge cards are not signed it makes the program one-sided and business will not show any increases and we will still be in the clutches of the depression in this community. Business houses have signed up and pledged themselves to do their part and raised the wages of their help and in some instances have employed additional help. If additional business is not forthcoming naturally

Lockney Schools To Open Monday

Sky Juice Descended On Us Again Since Last Issue

It has become a habit with us when it comes to reporting moisture received in these parts. We have received an abundance of Sky Juice since our last issue. Last Friday night, Saturday night and again Sunday night we received good rains, amounting to 1.84 inches. The sky overhead have been heavy all this week, hanging low and looks as if they might "let down" any minute.

Cotton and feed sure is looking good. In fact we have about the best crops in these parts. Wheat farmers are easy to get along with now, they are all smiles. To all of us "Old Timers" it is beginning to look like 1915, 16 and 17. Boy, and what years everybody had plenty and some to spare.

$10,000 Paid To Hog Shippers Monday

Approximately $10,000 was distributed at Fort Worth for the Government in the hog program in the hog available supply.

Half the counties of Texas were in the dry column Monday as additional returns on local beer elections continued to come in. In the face of new returns to appeared that the final score might be 122 counties dry, 108 counties wet and 19 counties part wet, part dry.

Of the 172 counties which held local option elections Saturday, 97 voted against beer at home, while 95 voted for it. Thirty counties were dry before prohibition and by holding no elections Saturday continued dry. Thirteen others were partly wet, partly dry and held no election.

The thirteen wet counties which held no election were Austin, Bexar, Comal, Fort Bend, Guadalupe, Harris, Jim Hogg, Kendall, Kinney, Lavaca, Raina, Zapata and, except for the county seat at Schleicher, Eldorado, county seat of Schleicher, had local option before prohibition, but turned it down in favor of beer in Saturday's election.

In fact the Lockney team has been defeated every time they faced the enemy with the exception of one time, and then they played the girls team. But they are going to change up their line up for the Plainview game and life the Plainview boys scalp.

Every member of the Rotary club must be present for this game. Get on the side line and cheer your team to victory. Make your arrangements right now to be there. The game will be started at six bells. The public in general is expected to be there in great numbers. What a game that will be.

Texas Voters Favor Beer By Large Majority

Victory for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in Texas, hitherto considered one of the driest States in the dry "old South," was a certainty Sunday as continued tabulation of returns by the Texas Election Bureau showed a repeal majority of more than 111,000 out of a total vote counted of 430,782. Texas thus became the twenty-third State to approve repeal in its statewide referendum election Saturday.

The election bureau, a semi-official organization maintained by the State's newspapers, estimated that less than 100,000 votes were outstanding and those so widely scattered as to have little final effect on the majority.

Returns from approximately 150 of the State's 254 counties were substantially complete, although 17 counties with a combined voting strength of 12,000 still had not been heard from. They were situated in remote West and South west Texas sections.

In Floyd county there were cast 815 against repeal and 387 for repeal. For beer 423 and against 787. In Lockney a large majority was piled up by the dry forces, the exact vote not being obtainable at this writing. The above standing for the county is not complete but is just about correct.

The Lockney club team journeyed to Plainview about a couple of weeks ago and was defeated in a fast and furious game. In fact the Lockney team has been defeated every time they faced the enemy with the exception of one time, and then they played the girls team. But they are going to change up their line up for the Plainview game and life the Plainview boys scalp.

TO PLAINVIEW

Paul Chick, who has been in the wholesale and retail oil business in Lockney the past few years, handling the St. Claire products, has been appointed wholesale dealer in the same product at Plainview and moved his family to that city this week.

We understand that for the present Mr. Chick retains his business in Lockney. He has built up a splendid business here in Lockney for the St. Claire products.

Mr. Chick has made this city his home for the past thirteen years, and it is with regret that we lose him and his splendid family. Mr. Chick is a member of the City Council and one of our outstanding leaders in the community. The connections he has made at Plainview is a promotion for him, and we join with the entire citizenship in wishing him success in his new field of endeavor.

Quick Credit For NRA Firms Now Assured

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 28.—President Roosevelt today directed Reconstruction Finance corporation to establish a medium for quick and temporary credit to the member firms of the N. R. A. to span them over the period between increased overhead and later returns.

He talked over with Jesse Jones, chairman of the three billion dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation his ideas for expanding credit to meet the needs of the new deal.

Jones left for Washington after the three-hour conference order. It is a question of getting the banks to turn loose their available credit to tide over the period of readjustment. While there are not general demands for increased credit, nevertheless in some scattered communities there are complaints that the credit to meet the new demands is not available. The problem results from increased overhead coming from the granting of more jobs and increase in wages.

About a 60-day credit is believed sufficient to carry the needs.

The Lockney Public School will open Monday morning Sept. 4, for the 1933-34 term of school. A brief opening exercise will be held at the grammar school auditorium at 9 o'clock. All students will meet there for the opening where further announcements will be made. All patrons of the school are invited and urged to attend the opening exercises.

He first became well known by doing evangelistic singing while still going school at Simmons, and later became pastor of the Baptist Church at White Deer where he has been for a number of years. Funeral services for W. A. Slaughter, 64, Aiken farmer, were conducted Saturday afternoon at the College Heights Baptist church, Plainview, under the direction of Rev. J. W. Shafie, Rev. I. J. Loyd of Aiken and Rev. Brice Fitzgerald of Olton.

William A. Slaughter was born July 27, 1869 in Meigs County, Tennessee where he resided for 25 years. He then moved to Collin, County Texas, where he resided for 8 years.

Wheat Plan Requires 15 Per Cent Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Secretary Wallace today formally announced that a reduction of 15 per cent in the seeded acreage will be required of farmers joining in the Government's wheat plan.

He made his announcement without waiting for final action on the London wheat agreement, explaining that he expected approval of a supplement to the general agreement to be reached tomorrow.

This supplementary agreement provides the method under which the four chief exporting nations will divide an aggregate export limitation of 560,000,000 bushels during the year which began Aug. 1.

Wallace said that neither Argentina nor the United States had signed this supplement, but that this country would approve it finally as soon as representatives of Argentina sign it. Wallace estimated that the 15 per cent cut in acreage to be required of farmers in order to become eligible for up to $136,000,000 in benefit payments would mean a cut of approximately 9,600,000 acres in the country's wheat acreage.

Based on past averages, this would reduce the production of wheat from the average in recent years, excluding this year's production of 124,000,000 bushels. The 15 per cent requirement will apply only to wheat plantings for harvest next year. Decision as to the extent of reduction for the 1935 acreage reduction in acreage is to be made from the average acreage of farmers joining in the plan from the base period for the years 1930, 1931 and 1932 with some expectations to provide a four or five-year base in instances where the three year base is considered "unfair."

GET READY FOR SCHOOL

Approximately 30,000,000 children, ranging from near-graduates to kindergarten, will converge on our streets and highways this September, all approaching central points. Through the summer have been scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land; now they are to be mobilized, crossing our city thoroughfares or country lanes in long lines going to school or coming home.

It is the solemn duty of every motorist to see to it that these youngsters have a safe passage. By following a few simple rules, he can help cut down the toll of 3,400 children killed and 152,550 injured in 1932. Every motorist should remember to approach a school zone with care; to slow down at all intersections; to watch his speed on curves in the country. Above all he should look out for the unexpected children who meet after two months' separation, become so absorbed that they forget about the danger of dashing into the roadway, darting from behind parked cars, or trying to retrieve a ball from under the fender of a moving vehicle. The motorist must do their thinking for them.

The reduction in motor accidents to children of school age in the United States, is the brightest picture in the safety movement, but there still remains much to be done to further reduce the number of tragedies—90 per cent of which are avoidable. Educators, school authorities and teachers constantly emphasize the dangers of modern traffic conditions to the children. The one person able to bring about great improvement is the motorist. He should drive at all times as he would if his child were out in that crowd ahead.

"Oh, John!" screamed the excited woman driver "the car is running away!" "Can you stop it?" asked the worried husband "No." "Well, then, see if you can't hit something dead."

Liquor Can't Be Legalized In Texas For Two Years

Technically, hard liquor sales in Texas cannot be legalized for at least two years.

Liquors "capable of producing intoxication" were barred by a constitutional amendment adopted May 24, 1919. This was amended by Saturday's election to permit sale of 3.2 beverages only.

Another constitutional amendment is necessary to permit beverages over 3.2 per cent. Constitutional amendments can be submitted to the required popular vote only at regular session of the state legislature. The next regular session will open in January 1935.

Changes may be made in the "Dean Law," the statute for prohibition enforcement at the special session of the legislature if the governor submits it as a topic for consideration.

The law imposes a one to five-year penitentiary sentence for violations. It also prohibits suspension of a sentence for an offender over 25 years old. Bills to conform its penalties to the federal penalties have been offered frequently, but have not passed.

Merely repeal of the Dean Act still would leave the one to five-year penalty in effect. For the constitutional amendment of 1919 fixed that penalty "until the legislature should fix other or different penalties." The legislature fixed the same penalty, so if the act were repealed the constitutional penalty would remain.

Mrs. Newrich was describing her travels to an envious audience.

"And have you been in South America?" somebody inquired.

"Many times," said Mrs. Newrich, rather bored. "In fact I know it from end to end."

"Then, of course, you went up the Amazon?"

"No, as a matter of fact, I didn't," said Mrs. Newrich; "but my husband went to the top. You know, I never did care for climbing."

Most great men come from small towns, perhaps, but you can't tell whether it's because of ambition or gossip.

What Is The NRA Week Going To Mean To You?

If you are a business woman you are going to have more time on your hands than you have ever had before. It is going to mean more time to dress and go places... places that hereto, fore have really meant nothing to you personally in the way of your entertainment. That means more clothes of a different type in which you can get yourself up. Then you are going to need clothes of the undress type. There is more time for you to rest and lounge and read in your rooms.

If you are the wife of a business man who is going to have more of his hours come under the heading of "leisure," then it is up to you to look your best during those extra hours with your husband. Little as you may think of it, this forty-hour week has brought you new problems. First, you're going to have more time for dress. There will be an extra game of golf, a fishing trip, or maybe it's tennis or bowling you'll do a few extra turns at during all this time off.

How grand all this new exercise will be for taking off weight. Once you had only Sunday to go at reducing. Now it's a little bit of every day. You can wax enthusiastic over all the active sports clothes, now Ridin tops slacks or shorts and shirts for tennis, an outfit for fishing; more golf dresses, more shoes of scuffed leather and walking heels and soles... that's what NRA means to you if you are going to take advantage of your freedom.

If you're a wise coed, you'll see that your back-to-college wardrobe includes at least one two-piece wool sports dress. One model that is sure to make a hit on any campus or in any classroom has a plain wool skirt in the new eel gray and a red and white and gray plaid blouse, worn outside the skirt. Top the outfit with an eel gray rabbit's hair hat and you'll be the last word in chic simplicity.

Smart Shoes

There are lasts to fit every foot—in every smart type, material and color of shoe needed for new fall wardrobes. We strongly recommend suedes, and here is a smart new leather called Sponj. Genuine reptilian leathers make excellent town shoes for continuous wearing, and there are satins and failies for evening. There is a classic restraint of design and trim, and interesting new combinations of material. Caviar, the smart new dark grey is with us—and plenty of blacks and browns.

College Girl Must Watch Her Footwear

The girl who hopes to gain a Bachelor of chic as well as a Bachelor of Arts when she starts to college this fall must watch her wardrobe. The campus girl's wardrobe this season appears Color combinations are another important collegiate note. Black is rare-ly seen, such subtle combinations as smoke gray and tobacco brown, dark leaf green and wood brown, burgundy red and champagne beige being the order of the day.

The coats in which the college girl will trip to class are as trim as a soldier's uniform. Notched lapels and broad revers take the place of costly furs on any models. Fasteners of leather, copper and wood often replace regulation buttons.

High necks and slender silhouettes are the rule for class room frocks. A bright scarf of wool or ribbon crossed over the collar bones, a shirred elastic ribbon fitting closely about the throat or a little upstanding frill finish the smartest dresses. A tobacco brown frock and hat with a smoke gray coat and a green coat belted in brown are two of the smartest collegiate combinations.

A wool suit or ensemble will be one of the most useful items in the school girl's wardrobe, since it is ready for travel, classroom or football game. A beige, brown wool suit with a high-necked red wool blouse and a dark gray suit with a sapphire blue wool blouse are two chic combinations.

The campus girl's hat may be a knitted wool in a round toque or pointed pixie shape, worn on one side of her head.

There are quite a few people who do not as yet understand the working plan of the NRA. When a business man puts the Blue Eagle in his window they expect him at once to step out and hire two or three extra people to help conduct his business, when in fact he does not have enough business to keep himself busy, for he only has a very small business. The Blue Eagle is a sign to the public that that particular business concern is cooperating with the President in his reemployment and recovery plan as far as it affects the conduct of his business. If he is a small business man it means that he will shorten his working hours, and then if he finds that he cannot conduct his business on the shorter hours, he will employ additional help, working this additional help the number of hours and paying the scale of wages as set out in his code.

Of course with the larger industries it is a different proposition. When the number of hours they can work a man is cut down, they necessarily must employ more men in order to keep their business operating on schedule. It is just like Will Rogers stated over the radio Sunday night "Santa Claus does not come in August and you need not look for him. He will be here in December," and it will be just about that long before we, in the small communities and towns, will see much results from the NRA program. The plan will work, but it is going to be a little slow, so we must not expect the impossible to happen overnight. Don't expect the small business man just because he has the Blue Eagle in his window to stop out and go to hiring more help right and left for he is unable to do that until his business shows an increase. He has no surplus cash to pay help with, but you can depend on him when additional business shows up, to employ more help.

We are gradually changing to a new era or a new Constitution. We have lived, prospered, and died and bled for the old Constitution for the past hundred and fifty years. But for the New Deal we are going to see something new in the way of government. Jeffersonian and Jeffersonian Democracy is passing history. It seems that a definite social control over economic life takes its place and in the future the task of democracy will be to see to it that governmental policies are really for the benefit of all the people, and not merely just for a favored few. The little fellow is going to be recognized and receive a just compensation for his labors. There is going to be a thorough understanding between capital and labor. Labor is going to be put on an equal basis with capital for we cannot survive without the other. We will gradually become accustomed to this new way of doing things, and when perhaps in a few years we will look back and wonder how we got along all under the old order. As the world advances in things scientifically, we too must advance our form of governmental policies.

Now that we have been back in Texas, what are the people going to do about it? Who is going to be able and willing to pay 20 cents a bottle for it? We admit that quite a few bottles will be sold at first when the celebration gets under way at midnight on September 14th, and then everything will quiet down and the sale will be slow. People are continually wanting some thing they think they cannot get, and when they get it they do not care anything about it. Some people think it smart to be able to get beer and liquor when it is a violation of the law to sell it. They think it real cute to be able to outsmart the law enforcement officers, when really they don't care anything about the stuff. Now that it will be lawful to sell beer in Texas after September 15th, what are the people going to do about it? What will they turn do next for a thrill? No more thrill in drinking beer, for it will not be a violation of the law.

Not since away back about Caesars time has one man possessed such powers as President Roosevelt. He has almost unlimited powers. He can fix the price of nearly everything that the people eat and wear. He can control the hours one may work and the wages they are to draw. He can tell an industry how much it shall produce and how its production shall be distributed and if they do not satisfy it condition he can refuse them the right to engage in business. He can fix the internal value of the dollar and can interfere in all manner of private contracts. Talk about Hitler and Mussolini, why they look like pikers to us. But all of these powers have been given freely to our president by congress, but they can be taken away just as easily as they were given, so no one should worry. But we all have the utmost confidence that President Roosevelt will not abuse these powers.

Up until Roosevelt took the oath of office as President of these United States big business boys were in the habit of making trips to Washington and telling the president what they wanted done. It is a different story now. They are still making those trips, but they are asking the President what he wants them to do. Darned if it isn't getting absolutely funny the way he has them doing circus tricks. But of course those big boys are just human after all. If they can rule things of course they are going to do it, but if they can't, then they are going to do what the other fellow says do. But there is one thing they all know, and that is Roosevelt can look 'em all in the eye and tell them to go where they don't believe snow if he don't like their proposition.

The public works program is entirely to slow in getting under way. The way things are moving along now it will be about Christmas before any new jobs will be created by public works. After approval has been given there is a lapse of from 30 to 60 days before jobs are created. It takes this long to unwind red tape. Too much time is wasted in the setup. It is not geared for speed, and speed is what we need. What is needed is a short cut to action. Everytime the Government undertakes to do anything they have to look around for about a hundred men to handle the proposition in a systematic way. This and that politician has to be consulted to see if the appointment of this and that man on the board is satisfactory to them. Cut out the politics and let's get things started before the snow flies.

W. W. Halcomb, formerly with the Moore County News, is to be the new editor of the Castro County News. Clyde Holland is owner of the News, but was recently appointed postmaster at Dimmitt, and of course that disqualifies him as editor of his paper or any other paper. In other words he has wandered from the path of journalism for politics and that will darn ruin him for newspaper work. Halcomb is one of the outstanding newspaper men of the Panhandle, and is better known in these parts as "The world's Worst Hick." We will continue to read the Castro County News and follow the writings of W. W. with much interest.

It seems to us that it is unwise for farmers of the South Plains to sell their hogs to the government in order to secure ready cash as we have a shortage of hogs for home consumption. By all means keep enough hogs for home use. There are hundreds of farmers in this region that do not have a hog on the place while others only have a few. We also realize that in parts of the United States there is a large surplus, but not so on the South Plains. Every farmer should have a hog or two in the pen right now that will be ready to kill along about the first of December.

And then there is the fellow that made the wise crack about "Hoover making monkeys out of the people and now Roosevelt is planting saplings for them to climb."

We are going to raise an abundance of feed in this country this year and right now is time for farmers to begin looking around for live stock to feed. Get some good yearlings, feed them out and sell along about next March and you will get a good price for your feed. Don't depend on hauling this feed off the farm and sell it at so much per ton. That is the old way of doing it. Adopt new methods, be prosperous and independent in your farm operations.

A Justice of the Peace in Allerton, Ill. refused to marry a couple at three a. m. in the morning, telling them to come back during his office hours, that he was a NRA Justice. "Overwork" has darned near ruined this country," he said.

We are looking every day for a code to be adopted by our congressmen and Representatives cutting down hours of work and raising their pay. But what are they going to do about putting on the extra shift. They don't want no extra help, they want a whole cheese. So guess they will pass it up.

Oh, yes, we are going to have another Special Session of the State Legislature pretty soon and the lawmakers will take another ride on the "gray train." Ten bucks per look good to them now. Who can remember when these lawmakers said ten bucks a day was a starvation wage?

WOMAN'S COLUMN

My! but the weather this week has been terribly depressing and gloomy. All of the trees, flowers, and grass look so drab and colorless. I actually believe fall is here one hundred per cent so we might just as well bid the sunny days adieu and turn our thoughts toward the new trend. I think autumn is the most inspiring season of all even though it is a terribly big jump from summer as far as color and temperature is concerned. What could be more thrilling than the rich brown, yellow, and red autumn leaves and the first sweet breath of a norther chilling you through and through.

It is almost time for daughter to pack up her wardrobe trunk and take off for the college campus, and in order to make a happy landing, she must have a little light weight woolen suit either of gray or tobacco brown. What could be more dashing than a gray skirt with a red plaid blouse, with the broad shoulder effect, and trimmed in buttons and worn over the skirt. Then top this costume with one of those gray and red berets—you know, that kind which is all "worked up" in the center. A pair of allegator shoes must not be overlooked to complete this collegiate attire. Next, sling a purse and a pair of gloves under your arm and strike out for your first day of college life. It'll be gobs of fun and besides that you'll know you are up to "snuff." Don't be surprised if you have to fan the boys away with your hat either.

Prof 1830 to 1837, the people of the United States were struck by a silk producing caterpillar, and the result of that period was raising Mulberry trees and breeding silk worms. I'll admit that was pretty goofy, but come to think about it we have a fad all our own, since this "New Deal" we have been trying to raise and produce NRAs for profit.

How many hours of one's life is spent in daydreaming can not even be estimated. It is sort of a play for our tired overworked mind and body. Such dreams are a means of getting for the moment the satisfaction of some desire, and if you will notice, the desire gratified is very often some variety of self-assertion. The dreamer always appears as the hero of the situation, either the conquering or the suffering hero. It's really great fun to feature yourself the idol of your friends and perhaps of the nation for some heroic deed that has never before been accomplished. People who have many disappointments in life are more inclined to daydream, for it seems the only means of escape from their plight.

Well, here is where we get a little inside information on which is more deadly—kissing or hand shaking. The majority of the medical scientists at the great French Academy of Medicine says the custom of bestowing a kiss on each cheek is more hygienic than the more common custom of shaking hands. They have found that there are more germs on the average person's hands than his lips. I certainly feel sorry for the English man who insists upon kissing the lady's hand when meeting and departing—I much prefer our custom what do you think?—less bacteria you know.

I feel a joke coming on, do you mind if I tell it to you? Agnes—What are patrons of husbandry? Pearl—They are agricultural associations. Agnes—Goodness, I thought they were movie actresses!

I guess we might as well eat a while and get rid of a few leftovers. Lets make some ham croquettes this time out of leftovers from yesterday: 3 cups left-over ham 1 cup milk 4 tablespoons chopped parsley 1-3 cup flour 1-2 teaspoon salt. Blend together flour, salt, pepper, and masa. Add hot milk and cook in double boiler about 10 minutes. Add chopped cooked ham. Cool shape into 6 croquettes. Dip in finely rolled cracker crumbs, then in egg beaten with 2 tablespoon water, then in fine cracker crumbs again. Fry in deep masa heated to 395° F. Drain.

- 1. To support the code and cut the arguments. 2. To give the iron ear to the fellow who has all those reasons why it won't work. 3. To remember that we are in a war, and that if it was all right for the government to ask a few million boys to give their lives to settle a disturbance in Europe it must be fairly reasonable to request a few million merchants to endure a little discomfort for the common good. 4. To bear in mind that, after all, this time Uncle Sam is not asking me to leave my home and my family and show a machine gun squad I can take it. 5. To realize that patriotism is patriotism, even when there are no bugles. 6. To regard the Blue Eagle as a Blue Eagle and not as a Chisel-beaked Woodpecker. 7. The Co-Ops Are Ready

Keep your eye on the farm cooperatives.

They're ready for recovery. They've had an important hand in legislation designed to bring it about. And they're all set to go now that it is coming.

They've come through ten years of depression—yes, the farmer has had it for that time, as compared with three years for the rest of us—with flying colors. They've labored mightily in the face of obstacles, and they've produced results. More farmers are organized—more farmers know what the cooperative plan is—more farmers are enthusiastic about its possibilities—than ever before.

The groundwork has been done. And the job now is to build a stable structure on top of it.

The average farmer has at last learned that non-cooperation is another word for sheriff's sale. He must sell his products in highly organized distributive channels. The buyer is going to buy at the lowest possible price—the unorganized farmers takes what is offered or goes without a sale. Fair prices are possible only when the selling and buying groups meet on equal grounds—when the cooperatives face the middlemen.

Industry's plan for recovery are all wisely based on cooperation—on enlightened self interest. And the farmer is in exactly the same position.

Wives Offer A Lot Of Reasons Dodge

528 housewives contacted by local NRA workers, only 461 refused to sign pledges to deal with NRA stores only. Of the 461, only one refused to explain. Among the 460 explanations were the following:

- "I am a Republican." "I'll sign after Christmas if I can see some results." "My husband isn't working. . . I'll buy where things are cheapest." "I know the stores are chiseling, so what's the use." "I'm too busy to be bothered."

Once a Scotchman didn't go to a banquet because he didn't know what the word grats on the invitation meant. The next day he was found dead before an open dictionary.

- 10. To have no time for the fellow who would rather obstruct a plan that might cost him a $500-a-year loss than support a plan that would enable 10 million people to eat regularly. 11. To stop talking about "interference with natural economic laws," "inevitable business cycles, etc." and to realize that nobody ever got a wrecked truck out of a ditch by citing precedents. 12. To remember that we were all demanding action—and that finally we got it. 13. To realize when in a critical mood toward Little Nira, that nobody has suggested a better plan for quick action. 14. To be willing to take it on the nose for a year (if absolutely necessary) to cure a national headache. 15. To keep ever foremost in the mind, when talking about the sacrifice being asked of me, that, after all, I'm not asked to put on a uniform, go to France, dodge shrapnel, sleep in the mud and get what comfort I can out of the fact a girl named Nellie is knitting me a pair of socks. 16. To work more and talk less, always realizing that it is impossible to pull a drowning man out of a well by throwing him a plate of boloney. 17. To remember that the only difference between a slacker in this crisis and a slacker in the World War is that the slacker in the World War had more good reason for being scared stiff. 18. To remember that we were all shouting for "a President who would do something."

Terms On Which Farmers May Cooperate With Gov. In Domestic Allotment Plan

Just how the individual Texas farmer may figure for himself on what terms he may cooperate with the Government in the domestic allotment plan for wheat is described in material just received by the Extension Service from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington. Suppose you live in a county where the county five-year average of wheat production just equals the county three-year average production, that you raised 1000 bushels from 60 acres in 1930, 1500 bushels from 65 acres in 1931, and 800 bushels from 55 acres in 1932. Your average production for these years was 1100 bushels and your average acres 60. Your domestic allotment would be 54 per cent of the 1100 bushels or 594 bushels, and this would be your allotment for this year and 1934 and 1935 without change. On this 594 bushels you would be paid by the Government in the form of an extra premium not less than 28 cents per bushel nor more than 30 cents per bushel, less the expense of local administration. You would receive from $166.32 to 178.20, less local administration cost, $118.80 soon after September 15th and the balance about June 1st 1934. The cost of local administration by county wheat production control associations is estimated at 2 cents per bushel or $11.98.

You would be free to sell your wheat crop when, where and to whom you pleased. If you have already sold your 1933 crop that would not matter. Your 1933 crop, however, must have totalled at least your allotment of 594 bushels, or the amount seeded in the fall of 1932 must have been enough at average yields to have produced at least this amount.

In return for these payments and similar ones which may be authorized by the Secretary not to exceed 20 per cent 1934 and 1935 you would sign a three year contract by which you would agree to reduce acreage as directed by the Secretary not to exceed 20 per cent. Your three-year average was 60 acres, therefore you would be asked to reduce your acres this fall by not more than 12, leaving you 48 acres. You would not be compelled to sow as much as 48 acres but you would have to sow enough to produce your allotment of 594 bushels, assuming average yields. Your three-year average yield was 18.3 bushels per acre, and at this rate you would have to sow at least 32.4 acres to comply with your contract.

To fulfill your contract you would have to sow and farm your wheat in a workmanlike manner and replace the retired wheat acres with no crops other than those for soil enrichment, prevention of soil erosion, food for home use, or feed for livestock to be used at home.

If you perform your part of the contract the Government will pay you the extra benefits described whether you make a crop or not. The payments this fall and next spring will be made regardless of whether your 1933 crop failed or made. In this respect the plan furnishes crop insurance.

To cooperate in the plan you must sign a contract in the coming campaign and cannot join as late as next year. You must abide by the contract the full three-year period 1933-34-35, and failure to live up to the contract will cause the Government to collect back any advances paid.

The contract attaches to the farm and not the farmer. If you move to another farm the tenant who follows you must abide by the contract. If you move to a farm where a contract is in force you must abide by it. Landlords and tenants share in benefits in exact proportion to their rental agreements.

In the example given above it was assumed that you live in a county where the three year average wheat production was the same as the average county five-year production. If you happen to live in a county where wheat acreage has been increasing and the three-year average for 1930-31-32 is higher than the county five-year average, your allotment would be reduced in proportion. On the other hand if wheat acreage has been decreasing in your county and the three-year average is lower than the five year average your allotment would be increased in proportion.

More detailed explanation of the workings of the plan, especially on how county wheat production control associations are to be organized and how they will adjust individual farm allotments, may be obtained from local county agents.

USES CHICKENS TO SAVE SUGAR BEETS

Farmer Allows Cockerels to Feast on Insects.

A Colorado farmer saved his sugar beet crop last year by letting his 900 young cockerels run in the field and feast on juicy worms and webworms which infested it.

At the same time neighbors around him lost practically all of their beets to these destructive insect pests. When he first noticed the worms moving in on his young beets, the World War veteran and former Colorado Aggie student pulled both brooders in which the Leghorn cockerels were housed to the edge of the field and turned them loose.

The birds spread out all over the field and followed along the rows, gobbling up the worms on one plant after another, the farmer told the extension poultryman for the agricultural college. It was much cheaper than spraying to kill the worms, he says. At the same time the young roosters grew rapidly.

Not a single beet was lost to the worms, he says, but a few plants were destroyed by being trampled by the chickens near the brooder houses. This could largely be prevented, it is believed, by placing the brooder houses some distance apart, and perhaps not too close to the beets.

It is suggested that other sugar beet growers might try the plan in controlling insect pests. It is recommended that cockerels used for this purpose be fed a grain ration for two or three weeks to put them into condition for the market. Large flocks of young turkeys have been used to control alfalfa webworms in many instances.

Keep the Cooties Off Biddy, Out of Henhouse

Any ex-soldier can sympathize most heartily with the plight of a hen or a pullet shut up with a good infestation of lice to make things lively for her.

The A. E. F. boys know how to get rid of their unwelcome visitors but unfortunately Biddy cannot "read her shirt." Neither can she dip her clothes in hot water or use a flat-iron.

It is easy, however, to put her through a de-lousing process which will liberally feed good laying rations and get her back to her normal state.

SHOWS FARM FLOCK PROVES CASH ASSET

Records Kept by 40 Farmers Rates Good Average.

How much money does the farm flock of poultry contribute to the farm income? This question was answered, by at least 40 farmers in southeastern Ohio, by an analysis of flock records kept on 40 flocks of about 250 hens. The amount is $218 net, with all expenses deducted except labor.

The records are for 1932 and involved six breeds of chickens. The cost figures were computed by P. B. Zumbro, extension specialist in poultry husbandry for the Ohio State university.

The hen that was kept through the whole of a season returned 87 cents to its owner for his labor. Including all chickens culled from the flock during the year, the average return was 67 cents a bird.

Prices received for the eggs varied from 11 to 28 cents a dozen, and the average price received by the ten farmers whose poultry income was greatest, was 19 cents a dozen. One flock owner received an average of 21 cents a dozen by shipping his eggs to an eastern buyer, and another maintained a high average price by selling some eggs for hatching purposes.

The ten who earned the largest net income succeeded by inducing their hens to lay most heavily during the period of higher prices, in October, November and December, they said.

Dark Yolked Eggs Not Favored by Easterners

Eggs with extremely yellow yolks do not meet with favor among dealers in Eastern markets. Such eggs fail to grade in the better grades even though they otherwise are perfectly good eggs. In fact the preference of dealers for eggs with yolks of lighter shades handicaps materially the eggs produced in the Middle West.

One should recognize the fact that the problem consists largely in controlling the intake of green leafy material. Hens running on pasture where there is an abundance of greens will naturally consume larger quantities of greens. However, the amount consumed can be materially reduced if the hen is fed liberal quantities of grains and a good laying mash. Where hens are liberally fed good laying rations the greens consumed are a supplement and not the staple article of diet.

For Storing Eggs The water glass method to preserve eggs is probably the most popular used in farm homes. The liquid water glass can be purchased at most drug stores. To each pint of this liquid add 10 pints of water that has been boiled and allowed to cool. Stir this mixture thoroughly in a three-gallon jar, and then put in the eggs. Care must be taken when placing the eggs in the jar so they will not crack when reaching the bottom. Cover the jar with a thick cloth and paper to exclude as much air as possible. After the mixture has been prepared, you may add the eggs as they are gathered until the jar is full, always being careful to cover the jar again each time. Store in a cool place and the eggs will keep for a year. There is also a commercial salve compound that can be purchased that is spread or rubbed on the eggs. This salve is said to close the pores of the egg shell and thereby prevent them from becoming stale.—Indiana Farmer's Guide.

Summer Feeding Pays

Flock owners sometimes feel that because their hens are not laying so much in the summer it is not necessary to feed them as well as they do earlier in the year. This is a mistake, for neither body condition nor egg production can be maintained under these conditions, says a writer in Successful Farming. Adult birds should be given careful attention as to feeding, since the maintenance of egg production will add considerably to the profits. This means seeing to it that they get a good egg-laying mash all the time and that this mash is supplemented by a grain ration fed at the rate of about ten pounds per 100 birds per day. An additional reason for feeding an egg-laying ration is that it is impossible to cull accurately unless an egg ration is fed. The proper feeding of adults also serves to prevent a molt. The longer a molt can be prevented, the better. As a rule the later that birds molt, the shorter time it takes them to get over it.

Nevada Turkey Outlook The market for Nevada turkeys this year should be as good as or better than that for other farm commodities produced in the state, according to the Nevada agricultural extension service and the Nevada agricultural experiment station. All indications point to a decreased production of the holiday birds in the state, but, say the extension and station men, even an increased Nevada production would not keep the outlook for turkeys from being as good as other farm products.

Plenty of Water

Water, an important part of the ration that is often neglected, should be kept before the growing birds all the time. As soon as the first chicks are laid, the pullets may be moved to their new home and supplied with water before coming into heavy production. As a result, winter months will fall and winter months animal protein in their ration will be increased until full production is desired, and the amount of scraps totals 20 per cent of gross

Poultry Briefs

A bantam rooster hatched at Leesburg, Ga., is so small its owner keeps it in a bird cage.

Grain is fed primarily for maintaining the body, whereas the mash contains the nutrients necessary for egg production.

The largest Asiatic roosters are the abnormal giants of races in which the males that are best in flesh development weigh about 12 pounds.

Massachusetts Extension Poultryman W. C. Monahan offers as the best substitute for "luck" in growing chickens "clean chicks, clean brooders, clean lands, clean feeding and watering, and clean management"—a worthwhile program.

The tobacco plant contributes still another valuable product to the poultry keeper. It is a new nicotine compound that is effective as a single dose flock treatment for intestinal parasites. Don't confuse this with tobacco dust, which is a repeat proposition.

Make Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rin' to Go

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931, C. M. Co.

Men's Meeting Sunday afternoon Men Only at 3 o'clock. Special message to men from the pastor—evangelist Rev. Carver.

B. T. S. 7:15 Mrs. Silas Ellis

Evening services starting at 8:15

The revival at the church is making wonderful progress under the spirit-filled messages of Rev. Douglas Carver. Good crowds have been present at each service and a number of definite stands have been taken for the Master. Men are either on the side of righteousness or on the side of sin and Satan. There are only two sides, only two classes, the saved in Christ Jesus or the lost out of Christ Jesus. Rev. Carver is making the messages plain and to the point and it is the utmost desire of his heart to lead every man possible to Christ and the side of righteousness. A hearty welcome awaits all who come worship with us. The meeting will continue through next week.

Miss Lena Moore is leading the song service in a wonderful way and Miss Lena is a talented and a capable leader. The public in general appreciate Miss Lena as a choir leader and because of her ability the singer who was to come Thursday was sent a message not to come as some thought best not to change singers in the midst of the meeting.

Your are welcome.

WILLIS J. RAY Pastor.

Attention, Listen: We desire the presence of every member of the church Next Sunday morning. Please, do not disappoint us. It is common to insist on attendance at the services, but this is a Special call for attendance. We are trying to make you the best pastor that it is possible for us to make, and it is so necessary that the membership be present to hear the message and to encourage us to do our best. I am wondering if any of the membership have discovered the pastor's faults? He has so many, and it looks like, that he can not help from making them, though he tries so hard not to make any mistakes. If any of you have, finally, discovered his faults, come to him and tell him about them, and may be it will help him not to make them any more. It may be that he has discovered the faults in the membership and that will give each of us an opportunity to discover things together and get things straightened, and all of us pull for a closing of the year's work. We are of us human, and subject to error, to be adopted by our congressmen and Representatives during their hours of mistakes. I wish I could keep from making any mistakes. I declare to myself so many times that I just will not make any more mistakes, but before I am aware of it, I have made them. Say, brethren, let us close our eyes to our faults, and come together next Sunday and begin anew to do our best for the success of the Church, we all love so dearly. I agree. Will you do the same? We shall not have any evening service next Sunday because of the Revival at the Baptist Church. Let us all go over and worship with them Sunday evening.

Yours for a great service Sunday Morning.

B. J. OSBORN, Pastor

 Wife, peering intently: "I'm sorry, dear, but I don't see a thing; but lets hurry and have our breakfast, then go for a swim in that beautiful lake."
