HALE COUNTY'S PIONEER ROUND-UP, MAY 25TH AT PLAINVIEW

The Hale County Round-up opens with a Pioneer Reception at the First Christian Church from 1 to 4 p. m. in Plainview, May 25. These visiting hours for the reunion of old friends is an enjoyable feature of the Round-Up. There will be story telling by a few of the old timers who will tell their "best stories".
A Chuck Wagon Supper will be served from 6 to 8 p. m. in the City Auditorium, during which time visiting hours will be resumed.

Old time music and other numbers in keeping with pioneer days will be included in the program beginning at 8 o'clock.

A square dance will be held on the stage of the City Auditorium from 9 to 12 o'clock. Blue Stevens, of the Trail Blazers Square Dance Club of Hale Center will be in charge. Old fiddle tunes will lead the dancers and all who wish to participate.

This is the Seventh Annual reunion of Hale County's Pioneers sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club. Pioneers of other counties who Sciatica, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, Muscular Pains, Periodic Pains, write that they have used Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills with better results than they had even hoped for.

Countless American housewives would no more think of keeping house without Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills than without flour or sugar. Keep a package in your medicine cabinet and save yourself needless suffering.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE

We hear quite a bit of discussion about our loss of foreign trade, in cotton, wheat, cotton good, etc. and how we can regain it, etc. According to our opinion it is caused by the natural trend of affairs of commerce, necessity and invention.

Since 1929 business in the United States has slowed up considerably. Manufacturers of machinery of all kinds reached the saturation point and began to look for other outlets for the sale of their products.

they sent their representatives into foreign countries that could produce cotton and encouraged them to produce cotton on a larger scale so they could sell them spindles, and they could manufacture cloth and would not have to buy this product from other countries. They have cheap labor as their living standard is not as high as in the United States, therefore keen competition has developed in this line of business and they buy less of our cotton and import more of the finished product.

Take the manufacturers of gin machinery. They had to find a new outlet, a gin had been placed in almost every community in the United States where cotton was produced. They could not close down and quit the manufacturing of gin machinery. The result was they sent salesmen down in Brazil and other cotton producing countries and sold them American made gin machinery and thereby encouraged the planting of more cotton. Naturally cotton oil mills followed in order to take care of the cotton seed production in those countries. England purchased considerable cotton from Brazil this past year because they could buy it cheaper, it was produced under cheaper conditions than in the United States. Other countries did the same thing when we began to buy cotton. We are the only country that can produce cotton. Other countries had not developed in this phase of farming until the past few years and more so in the past 18 months. They depended upon the United States to a great extent for a product because they had not been encouraged to produce their own cotton they did not have the modern machinery for the production, but now they are obtaining it from us and we are going to have a hard time regaining this trade and it is very doubtful if we ever do. So perhaps the solution is for the United States to cut down on cotton production and turn their attention to other products.

We are having practically the same trouble with our wheat business. Manufacturers of machinery for the planting, cultivating and harvesting of wheat also reached the saturation point for an outlet in this country and the depression brought their business to a standstill. They, too, began to look for other fields to conquer and turned their eyes to foreign countries that could produce wheat and find a ready market for their modern machinery, and this coupled with cheap labor turned the hammer down on our wheat exports. They produce wheat cheaper than we do in the United States.

Man's inventive brain has had a lot to do with our loss of foreign trade and unemployment in this country. Just how this will all be corrected we do not know, but we feel confident this same inventive brain will devise some plan whereby every thing will be worked out on a satisfactory basis.

WHEN WE PASS ON

A few weeks ago there died in Chicago an emaciated, poorly-clothed old man who for 25 years apparently had kept just about one long jump ahead of the poorhouse.

When his shabbyroom was searched, following his burial in a potter's field, well-thumbed bank books were revealed showing that he had about $150,000 on deposit. He had no known kin, so his money reverted to the state. He had lived and died a miser. He had made himself and everyone around him unhappy, and to what end?

Every sensible Floyd county citizen realizes that there are no pockets in a shroud, and that when we pass on we take nothing with us. Wise is the man who realizes that there are just two things to leave behind when he dies that are really worth while—some real friends to shed a tear at parting, and a few unfortunates whose lives have been made the richer and brighter because of his service to them.

There is foolish saving just as there is foolish spending. The Chicago miser offered an example of foolish saving. He revealed the abomination of hoarding, and proved that one can waste one's life even though they may not waste a few pennies. But the sad part is that he isn't going to get a chance to come back and try life all over again. That is another thing worth remembering. If you don't put as much into the world as you take out while you live in it, then you are sure to quit loser. Even the money you hoard, with one to pass it on to, is lost when the time comes to "cash in" eventually arrives.

The so called Soldiers Bonus is getting to be some political football. President Roosevelt is carrying the ball now, and according to all indications he is going to cross over the line for a touchdown Wednesday. (This is written Tuesday.) Members of Congress will more than likely bring the ball back and start the game all over again. The soldier boys will be paid off this session of Congress if we have it figured correctly. FDR is going to veto the Patman bill. This is being done in order to satisfy the money interests of the East, they are afraid to begin issuing new money on account inflation might get out of control, or rather they are offering that as an excuse, but what they really want is for the government to issue bonds so they can buy the bonds—tax free. This was all set by the American Legion boys of the East before the convention that was held in Florida and elected the big banker of California as National Commander. A new bill is to be introduced just as quick as the Patman bill is vetoed. This bill will give the President a choice of either three ways to make payment to the boys. He can either buy the bonus by borrowing (issuing bonds), by issuing new money or take it out of the $4,880,000 work-relief fund. We know no new money will be issued. FDR is not inclined to dip into the relief money, so the only course left is to borrow the money, and of course bonds will be issued in order to raise the money, this will satisfy the East and will also be satisfactory to the soldier boys of the South and West as they are only interested in getting their money. So everything will be lovely, political leaders will be satisfied as everybody fought a good fight, differences will be smoothed out with all factions and it will not bob up in the next presidential election.

Our citizens will rejoice to learn that we are getting somewhere as a nation industrially, even if our progress is slow. March production of automobiles in this country, 415,000 cars, was the largest in several years. Steel is running about 50 percent of capacity; exports and imports show a slight increase; car loadings are gaining steadily except in a few sections, and places of amusement are reporting steadily increasing patronage. Thus it is seen that we are not without purchasing power. We cannot increase our spending without increasing production, which in turn means more men at work. This is the process of evolution which must carry us back to normalcy. There are some dark clouds still hovering above us; that is true. But they are fewer now than they have been for the past five years, and a general move on the part of the people to buy the things they need now, but the things they don't need, will drive them away entirely.

—and the Worst is Yet to Come

LEGION CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN PLAINVIEW

Members of the American Legion of the 19th district, which comprises 25 counties of the South Plains, will convene in Plainview June 1 and 2. H. M. Mason, commander of the district, announces that Miller Answorth, commander of the department of Texas, has accepted an invitation to attend the meeting. He will be in Waco at an area conference on the first day of the convention, but plans to fly to Plainview to reach here before nightfall. Present plans are for him to come in a plane of the 36th Division air service, flown by Bill Ennis of Houston. Mason, incidentally, formerly commanded this air squadron.

TUMBLEWEED PICK-UPS

Here I come merrily rollin' rollin' along to unload a fresh pick-up of dirt but its not pay dirt by any means. IF You will look on a certain tailor shop you will find that they are wanting to take your measurements for an Easter suit. Whether the idea is a trifle late or a bit early, it is for you to decide. Realizing that competition does make one more alert and progressive I might think the idea in advance. But who ever thought anybody would be mean enough to steal up in the dead of night and tear off all those pages of the shops calendar. A COUPLE of boys here in town went out one night this week and turned up the next morning with each other's coat on. Why the mix up. The tumbleweed wouldn't know. HAZEL Ford, the gal with gold in her hair and rhythm in her fingers, was given a farewell handkerchief shower Wednesday evening by her friends. The Weed heard that she was moving to Plainview. THE Absent Minded professor, G. D. Tate, forgot to call the family roll when he left prayer meeting Wednesday night and was home before he thought about leaving his son peacefully lying in the land of nod at the church! I! Sounds like a case of one being asleep mentally and the other physically. KENNETH ANNING, the man who takes down lots and dashes at the depot, is said to be tempted to throw over his job and hit for the oil field near Kirkland and Childress where there is big money involved. I'd better discontinue this line and go milk the ducks in the lily pond or I won't be able to chat with you next week. Hold everything back! R. R. M. Winklerly is in Dallas visiting her mother this week.

The Big Demand of Truck Buyers Today is for Economy

IT PAYS 3 WAYS TO BUY CHEVROLETS

Today, when every wise buyer of trucks is particularly interested in getting dependable transportation at the lowest cost, the money-saving advantages of Chevrolet Trucks have a particularly strong appeal. Truck buyer after truck buyer is discovering that it pays three ways to buy Chevrolets. And truck buyer after truck buyer is deciding to take advantage of the big savings which Chevrolet offers. You, too, will get better haulage service at lower cost by buying a Chevrolet Truck because of these triple economies: 1. Chevrolet Trucks sell at the world's lowest prices. 2. They use less gasoline and oil because they are powered by six-cylinder valve-in-head engines. 3. They give longer, more dependable service because of the extra quality which Chevrolet builds into every part of its products.

PAYMASTER Big Boll Staple Cotton

"Lockview Farms" was established for the purpose of developing and improving a variety of cotton particularly for the Plains and West Texas that would combine early maturity, high yields, staple length, and good character.

Experiments were begun in 1928 with eleven varieties and as a result of those experiments this variety, which we have named "Paymaster", was selected as the most desirable and best adapted strain for this territory. Immediate steps were taken to begin work on the purification of this variety and each year improvements have been made on the quality until we now unhesitatingly use the brand "Paymaster" on this seed and offer it to the grower who appreciates the economic value of planting only the best seed available.

On our farms we now plant only Kemgas treated seed and recommend it highly. This process of delinting and treating assures a quicker germination and produces stronger plants. The added cost per bushel is offset by the saving in seed required per acre—8 pounds being sufficient for planting an acre. (Delinted seed planted through a corn plate with five, 5-8 inch holes will drop 3 to 4 seed every 17 to 22 inches).

"Paymaster" Seed may be purchased from the Oil Mill at Lockney at the following prices:

- "Paymaster", not delinted $1.50 Bu. "Paymaster", kemgas treated 10c lb.

An allowance of $2.00 per hundred pounds will be made on planting seed that you may have on hand—in exchange for "Paymaster" Planting Seed.

RESUMES RECRUITING FOR REGULAR ARMY

Fort Bliss Wants 200 Men At Once and Over 800 More In July

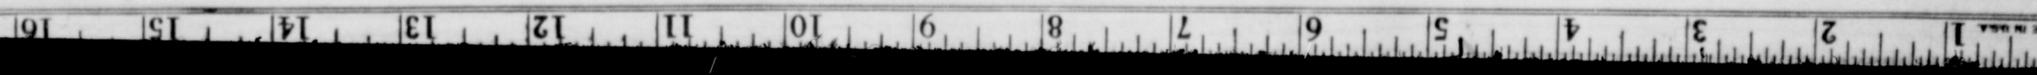

The War Department has ordered army recruiting officers to resume recruiting for the regular army, after a suspension of three months. Two hundred recruits are wanted at once for the garrison at Fort Bliss, Texas, and over eight hundred more will be needed when the increase takes effect in July. Troops at Fort Bliss are mostly cavalry and field artillery, with a sprinkling of quartermaster, medics, signal men and ordnance. Recruits must be at least five feet four in height and of corresponding weight, and must be in first class physical condition. They must be unmarried and must have no one dependent on them for support. They must be men of good character and must be over eighteen years of age. Character must be testified to by at least two well known and reputable citizens of the community. If under 18 years of age, age and consent to enlistment must be sworn to by parents. (Banks for character and age may be secured at any army recruiting office). In addition, the educational test is the equivalent of about the eighth grade in school. The main recruiting office for this district is located at Fort Bliss, Texas. Branch offices are at El Paso, Big Spring, and Lubbock, Texas, Clovis, New Mexico, and Phoenix, Arizona. Applicants for enlistment must make their own way to the branch offices. Then, if they pass the preliminary examination that is given by the sergeant, they can be sent at government expense to Fort Bliss. Full information will be furnished at any recruiting station. If you live very far away write a letter to the nearest office for special information that you need. No, there are no Infantry at Fort Bliss. Go to San Antonio.

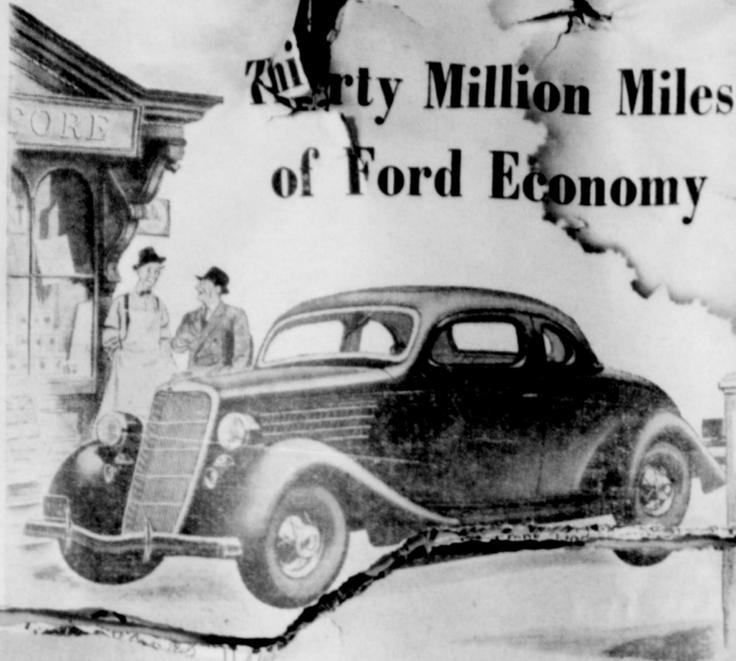

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Huls returned Monday night from a 3 weeks visit in Eastern Oklahoma and Kansas with their children and friends. Huls reports that Eastern Kansas is beautiful and that rainfall in that section has been sufficient for the crops. The first shipment of Imperial Valley cantaloups sold in the east for $1, a piece. So it looks as though somebody cut a melon.

Thirty Million Miles of Ford Economy

MORE MILES. Faster miles. Greater economy . . . that is the story of the Ford V-8. There are conclusive figures from owners to show that it is the most economical Ford car ever built.

A particularly interesting and complete report of costs comes from a national fleet owner who has owned 854 Ford cars which have run more than thirty million miles in business use.

175 were Model T Fords which were run 5,017,075 miles. 599 were Model A Ford cars which were run 24,041,632 miles. 80 are Ford V-8 cars which have been run 2,982,886 miles.

This owner's cost records show that Ford V-8 cars cost 12% less to operate than the Model A Fords and 31% less than the Model T Fords. And they covered more miles per month! The monthly average for the Model T Fords was 1509 miles. . . . For the Model A Fords, 1866 miles. . . . And 2571 miles for the Ford V-8.

Each year the Ford car gives you more in value and performance and costs you less to operate.

Laura Ruth and Katherine Bryant, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Bryant had their tonsils removed May 18.

Nadine Jack and Vera Ruth Stovall underwent tonsillectomies on May 20.

COTTON CLOTH IMPORTS PAY HIGH DUTIES

Japanese cotton cloth imports into the United States during the month of January paid duties of 14.2 cents per pound, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Of this amount, 8.7 cents per pound was the ad valorem duty on cotton cloth for January imports. The remainder, 5.5 cents per pound, was the compensatory tax which applies only to cotton used to make products sold in the United States, and competing cotton products, imported from foreign countries must pay the compensatory tax equivalent to the processing tax, in addition to the normal tariff duty imposed on imports of cotton cloth. Estimated out by Cully A. Cobb, Director of the Agricultural Administration's cotton division. Processing taxes on exports of cotton cloth are refunded.

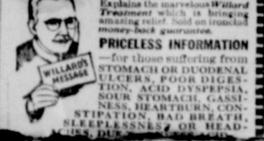

An analysis of cotton cloth imports from Japan during January, 1935 indicates that the total items were included in their cost before they could be put on United States market. Average invoice value at port of foreign departure, 31.7 cents per pound of cloth, plus 10 percent of port duty, 8.7 cents per pound of cloth; compensating tax levied to offset processing tax, 5.5 cents per pound which is equal to the rate of 4.2 cents per pound on raw cotton. To these costs must be added ocean shipping charges, insurance, and handling charges.

Delmar Ashworth, high school English teacher, left Saturday morning for Garmon where he will spend part of the summer visiting. His wife has been there for several weeks visiting her mother.

COUGHING, WEAK AND THIN AFTER FLU

"I nearly died from 'flu' last October, and it left me with a terrible cough. I saw Milks Emulsion advertised and started using it. It helped me right from the start. I had no appetite and my stomach was in bad shape. But 12 bottles have straightened me out entirely. I eat anything without distress, my cough is gone and I have gained back my strength and flesh."—Emma Withers, Box 10, Belmont, N. C.

Milks Emulsion restores health, natural bowel action. Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended for those whom sickness has weakened. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it can be eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Wonderful for weak, sickly children. You are urged to try Milks Emulsion. Take 12 bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. 12 bottles, $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.

to talk." In the powers of the demand of opponents hate being denied. It measure would arouse the senate. Jobbers and retailers of foodstuffs, of whom there are about 111,000 in the country, are much disturbed by these proposed amendments to them the processing taxes now imposed on food manufacturers, makes them subject to regulations not yet specified and requires that each one be licensed by the AAA.

FIRST of the list of projects to be undertaken under the works relief program is the Passamaquoddy tidal power scheme, and there is a lot of grumbling because it was placed at the head of the line by the President himself. This project was once turned down as an economic by Secretary Ickes, the assertion being that it would cost too much in comparison with the returns that might be expected, would take too long for completion and was in a region where so much work relief was not needed. But Mr. Roosevelt, whose Campobello summer cottage is near the location of the proposed dam site, is said to be personally interested in the project, believing it will bring new industries to the area. Another argument in its favor is that the old question of the practicability of harnessing the ocean tides may be settled by it.

Anyhow, this big Maine project is to go ahead, and Maj. Philip B. Fleming of the army engineers corps has been chosen to take charge of the construction. Major Fleming has been serving in the PWA for some time but has been released for this Eastport work.

IN AN executive order the President established pay rates under the $4,880,000,000 work-relief measure, dividing the country into four sections in setting regional wages. Pay will range from $19 a month for unskilled laborers in the South to $94 a month for professional and technical workers in the East. The wages will be from 20 to 30 per cent below the prevailing wage rate structure throughout the country.

WHEN Dennis Chavez was brought into the senate to be sworn in as successor to the late Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, six "liberal" members silently walked out of the chamber in protest against the efforts that had been made to unseat Mr. Cutting. Those who participated in this unprecedented action were: Senators Hiram Johnson, California; William E. Borah, Idaho; George Norris, Nebraska; and Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota, Republican Independents; and Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin Pro-out to the siding. Standard cars "wastefully destroyed food in any form."

Next day many of the visiting farmers were in the senate gallery and heard Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, Republican, score the President for characterizing critics of the AAA program as lars.

Senator Hastings then introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of agriculture to submit all correspondence between the department and the visiting farmers, together with any instructions sent out to county agents with a view of producing the "spontaneous" visitation. Mr. Hastings also demanded to know how the delegates were selected and what financial assistance "directly or indirectly" was extended to them by the agricultural officials.

Over in the house Representative Fish of New York started a lively debate on the same topic, and he was even more outspoken than Mr. Hastings.

Richberg has let it be known that he intends to retire from government work by July 1 and, after a long rest, to resume law practice. It is believed that W. Averill Harriman, NRA executive officer, and Sol Rosenblatt, head of the compliance section, also will resign.

RUSSIA'S immense airplane, the Maxim Gorky, largest land plane in the world, was destroyed when it collided with a small training plane over a Moscow suburb, collapsed at a height of 2,000 feet and fell in ruins. All on board, 48 in number, were killed, as was the pilot of the small plane. The victims were mostly engineers and workers of the Central Aerodynamic Institute and members of their families who were being taken for a pleasure ride.

The Maxim Gorky was a show plane rather than a practical ship and was used for spreading Soviet propaganda. It was built by popular subscription in 1934 and was an all metal, eight-motored monoplane with a wing spread of 200 feet and a fuselage 100 feet long, and was most elaborately equipped. The Soviet government announced immediately after the disaster that it would build three more giant planes of the same type.

NEVER recovering consciousness after a motorcycle accident, Col. Thomas E. Lawrence—the glamorous "Lawrence of Arabia" of war days—died in a military hospital in Dorsetshire, England. Yet in his twenties when he organized the revolt of the Arabs against Turkey, Lawrence gained undying fame. When after the peace King George sought to reward him, he refused on the ground that injustice had been done to his friends the Arabs. He changed his name to T. E. Shaw and devoted himself to experimental work in aeronautics. His writings included a brilliant account of his experiences in Arabia and a translation of the Odyssey.

year extension, the jobs enlarged powers were ignored. The changes called for in the Clark resolution provide for prohibition inclusion of business firms engaged wholly in intrastate commerce under NRA codes or regulations; banning price fixing except in mineral resource industries, and directing the President to revise all codes within thirty days to conform to the provisions of the resolution. Majority leaders in the house were prepared to fight for the two year extension, but admitted the Clark resolution was likely to prevail there also. In that case, in the opinion of many observers, the NRA will be practically dead.

While the senate was debating the matter, Mr. Richberg told a mass-meeting of NRA workers that the Clark resolution was "complete folly." This aroused the Missourian to wrath. He called it "the most brazen exhibition of impudence on the part of a bureaucratic official which has fallen under my observation during my lifetime," and next day, in a set speech, he told his fellow senators at length just what he thought of Mr. Richberg and "his ambition to be a Mussolini in the United States."

An organization called the Industry and business committee for NRA extension was called into action, as were the farmers for AAA, and its head, Ward Cheney, silk manufacturer, announced that a meeting of delegations of industries would be held in Washington May 22.

SENATOR HUEY LONG'S resolution for an investigation of Postmaster General Farley was rejected by a vote of 62 to 20, the "Kingfish" being the only Democrat recorded in favor of it.

The senate then passed the Norris amendments to the Tennessee Valley Authority act, increasing the TVA's bonding authorization from fifty to one hundred million dollars and protecting its electric power activities from court interference.

Next on the senate program was the Wagner labor relations board bill which its author declared was "responsive to the ominous industrial disturbances of last summer when blood ran freely in the streets and martial law was in the offing."

After several amendments designed to limit the power the measure inferentially gives the American Federation of Labor had been rejected, the bill was shoved through by a vote of 63 to 12.

PRESIDENT SMETONA of Lithuania saved from the firing squad four Nazis convicted of plotting to restore Memel to Germany, commuting their sentences to life imprisonment. Germany had been making a terrific row about the case, and was not at all satisfied with Smetona's action, holding that it did not correct the injustice.

a particular place (vs. 21, 22). The place's unimportant. The all-important thing is to have the right conception of God as revealed through the Jews. Since God is omnipresent, the true worshiper can hold intercourse with him anywhere and everywhere.

2. It must be spiritual (vs. 23, 24). God is Spirit. Therefore, only those who through regeneration have a spiritual nature can truly worship God.

V. A Psalm of Worship (Ps. 100).

1. Whom to worship (v. 1). Worship should be rendered to God, for he alone is worthy.

2. The spirit of worship (v. 2). Worship should be joyful. This joy should be manifest in the singing of praises to God.

3. Who should worship (v. 3). All the world should worship, not merely the Jews, but all nations. The peculiar mission of the Jews was to call all nations to the worship of the true God.

4. Reasons for worship (vs. 3-5). God should be worshiped because he is God. Being God, he is our Creator, Preserver, and Savior.

VI. The Soul Poise of the True Worshiper (Col. 3:15-17).

1. Peace rules the life (v. 15). The one joined to Christ by faith and resting in his finished work is at peace with God and should be at peace with all members of the body whose head is Christ.

2. Gives thanks to God (v. 15). In spite of all troubles which beset the Christian, they should all be drowned in his constant giving of thanks to God.

3. Christ's Word to dwell in the heart (v. 16). It is not enough to know the truth; the very words of Christ must be made real in experience. They must be made to dwell, that is, be at home in the heart.

4. The definite function of the Christian (v. 16). It is to teach and to edify others. Christ's words dwelling in the believer will result in blessing to others. The Christian should maintain a joyous attitude.

5. The supreme motive (v. 17). The Christian should be for the glory of God.

enthronement of God. Life means that all the duties are performed with the consciousness of union with Christ. He knows that his life belongs to Christ, who died that he might live.

...struck Thomas' line. Thomas returned the assault, confusing Bragg's plan. September 20, Thomas was again attacked. He frequently called for reinforcements, though he held his position stoutly. Finally Gen. Thomas J. Wood, misinterpreting an order, made a false move, which precipitated the Confederate attack on a weak point in the Federal line, and the day was lost. Rosecrans fled to Chattanooga, but Thomas kept fighting until Gen. James Abram Garfield was sent to summon him. The combat engaged 55,000 Federals and 70,000 Confederates. The Federals lost 16,000 and the Confederates 18,000. The battle of Atlanta took place July 22, 1864, in Atlanta, between Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman's army of the Tennessee, numbering three corps, and Brig. Gen. John Bell Hood's corps of Gen. Joseph Eggleston Johnston's army. The Confederates were defeated and driven back to their intrenchments within the town. Hood began the attack on Brig. Gen. William E. Hardee on Sherman's left. Gen. James B. McPherson, of the Federals, gained a position on a high hill, commanding the heart of the town, and then the fight went on all along the line. Battery F, Second United States artillery, was lost in a sharp skirmish on a country road, and McPherson, riding to its assistance, was killed. The battle lasted more than four hours. At four o'clock Hood plunged into the remnant of McPherson's line and drove it back 400 yards, carrying two important batteries in the face of murderous fire. Gen. John M. Schofield's batteries were hurried up to maintain this desirable position and aid the Fifteenth corps to regain its lost ground, in which he was successful. Hood retreated to his intrenchments, having lost all his guns except the two advance ones. Sherman lost 3,722 men and Hood many more. Atlanta afterward besieged by Sherman captured, on Hood's abandon'g September 2, 1864.

Confederacy

...and Bars flag was the original flag of the Confederacy, with three horizontal bars, red, white and red, and a blue union, on which were seven white stars arranged in a circle. The name is also sometimes applied to the later flag or Southern Cross, with blue St. Andrew's cross bordered with white on a red background, and having three white stars on each arm and one at the intersection. Only eleven states actually seceded, South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas. Two others, Kentucky and Missouri, were expected to do so but remained in the Union. The seven stars in the original flag represent the first seven states to secede.

...his glory could be increased by Chancellor Hitler, who was a corporal in the army of Austria.

"Sermons in stones, and good in everything."

There must be a sermon in the Chicago woodpecker that every morning woke his neighborhood drumming on a copper drainpipe.

The copper resisted, but the woodpecker drummed on until a boy with a slingshot stopped him forever. What is the sermon?

Does it deal with modern efforts to ignore the nature of man, stand old "Supply and Demand" on his head, and prove that super-intelligence can make the world over in ten minutes?

Professor Kemmerer, financial expert, of Princeton, worrying about inflation, "too much money in circulation," says the government is spending money twice as fast as it comes in. This, he says, is done by "pumping the banks full of artificial credit." Having done that, the government borrows its own money from the banks and pays them interest, which seems mildly amusing.

President Roosevelt may be right about professors. An eight-year-old girl missing in New York; all police detectives, plus 60 policemen, especially assigned, and troops of Boy Scouts searched the neighborhood vainly for 61 hours.

Prof. Taylor Putney, Jr., of New York university, said to the police: "I saw boys and girls digging a cave in the sand late on the day of the girl's disappearance; look there," and pointed. There at the foot of the concrete wall the girl was found, apparently smothered by sand that had caved in. There is much in knowing how to look for what you want to find.

In New York city racketeers collect $10,000,000 a year from poultry dealers, having, by way of persuasion, killed a few of them.

To discourage the racketeering, Police Commissioner Valentine tells merchants to "slug racketeers" at sight and offers to help them get revolvers for shooting.

An old poker player when he "raised" used to say: "The best way to discourage vice is to make it expensive."

Very old is the story of the fish in which was found a precious ring that the tyrant of Samos had dropped into the sea. And new is the story from Sydney about a captured shark that disgorged the tattooed arm of a man. The man had been murdered, his body dismembered, the parts thrown into the sea. The shark swallowed one arm, returned it as evidence and the murderer may hang. Invent something more improbable than that.

drily. "I've got to get out of this timber and I'm not good for much more travel in this sort of going. I haven't been on webs in several years and I've gone further than I should have."

"By George, that's too bad!" he said and hoped that none of his men, who would be trekking into camp by now, would shout or sing so their voices would break down the illusion of empty distances surrounding them which evidently possessed the girl. "Too bad! It's getting dark sure enough but it isn't very late. If you could sit down and get your wind, now—"

"But what good will that do? If we were here until it's really dark there'd be no getting out until morning. I have with me is a cake of chocolate and the prospect of a hungry, cold man in the woods with you isn't alluring."

He rubbed his chin. "I'm sorry. If the impression I make is as bad as—"

"I meant nothing personal. But I don't know you. I don't fancy being mixed with anyone, let alone a stranger."

"I thought she almost smiled, as if she were a bit from her brusqueness. "That's what I've heard about you," he said, pointing aloft to a break in the clouds near the stars. "It's going to clear. The stars are direct. Let me build a shelter and a fire here. A few hours of rest will do a lot of good for you. The stars we can get anywhere."

He stammered, seeming to consider. "I must admit the last half of the day has been hard."

"I'll use his belt ax, off went the ends of young hemlocks. In the woods it would take an ordinary man to lop the branches he had a pile of snow on a knoll covered with aromatic boughs and a thick carpet of them behind it. Then, with a huge birch stub he peeled a piece of bark. This he held over a match carried in a tight little and as the quickly shed a comfortable glow. He had built, he knocked a hole from a hemlock, fed a fire and then turned to a pile of a fallen maple, substantial faggots.

"I finished this the girl with her snowshoes, stuck in the snow and was sitting on the hemlock he had built for her. He was as he stood erect, his hands and spreading the warmth. "I said, 'that you should know the way you make your way in the woods I'd say you know woodcraft. It is as strange as it is to be lost!' I know of the woods was a long ago. One gets rusty. Who are you and what are you doing here?"

"I'm quite took his breath. "Right! But I'm not fit for that's encouraging from some source. All are happening and I'm off certain of them."

"I see." She looked away and considered her delectable lips as though to whistle. Ben rubbed his chin and was not even interested in the young men that he only laughed softly. "What's the joke?" she asked, almost defiantly. "I was just thinking that it's a funny situation when a man gets into a scrap and it looks so big to him that he thinks the whole darned country must be watching it and he's along comes a nice girl who's been in a position to hear all about it and who isn't interested a dime's worth."

She looked up at him slowly. "You mean that you want to talk about it?" "Perfectly natural that I should. I'm in one whale of a fight and I'm having the time of my life. It's the first job I've found in a coon's age that was hard enough and complicated enough to be worth working over."

"That's what I've heard about you." "You've . . . Oh, so you've heard about me?" "Of course, I live in Tincup. Few have any secrets in a town of Tincup's size."

Ben chuckled again. "Well, then, if you've heard that much about me and my job, maybe there isn't anything I could tell you that would be interesting."

"Maybe not," she said with an air of dismissal. Ben watched her closely as she slowly broke a twig to bits with her slim fingers. "Deer used to yard in the swamp back of here," she said. "When I was a little girl I used to come out and try to make friends with them. That's why I came out today . . . wondering if they'd started to yard yet."

"It's too early for them to yard."

"Yes, but the snow may get deep enough any day to bunch them."

"Snow!" he said and shrugged. "If it gets deep in a hurry the deer will yard all right and, maybe, I'll be licked and a little girl done out of all she has in the world."

"All she has in the world? Meaning just what?"

"If you live in Tincup and know the town you must know about the owner of this property. This is the Hoot Owl timber."

A queer smile twitched at the girl's lips. "Sometimes I think I do; as often, I wonder what she's like . . . really like. I happen to be Dawn McManus."

Ben Elliott opened his mouth as if to speak. Then closed it again and made a foolishly helpless movement with one hand. He stared at her and began to stammer.

Brandon now nodded slowly. "All right. Don't start until dark. And do just as I've told you; don't forget to give yourself plenty of time. You can't travel fast."

"I get you, Mr. Brandon."

"Have you . . . That is, has he ever seen you?"

"He came into the pool room and I sold him tobacco the other day. We visited a minute."

"Friendly?"

morrow, bright and early, they would start loading and by night his contract with Blackmore would be filled. He would receive a large check, a substantial part of it clear profit, in return.

His men were growing restless under the driving; whispers in camp had it that the job was broke beyond repair and he knew that to pass a pay day would send his crew scattering, a handicap which he could never overcome in time. But with the men held on the job and the mill ready to saw in another week he would be ready to give the Hoot Owl a fresh start, a new hold on hope.

After reaching camp he plunged into his blankets for a night's rest. And about the time he burrowed into the pillow Nicholas Brandon sat in his office talking to a pale, slender young man whose blue eyes smiled genially. Genially, yes, but in that quality was a flaw, one might have observed on close scrutiny. Familiarity with Limpy Holbrook might not breed contempt; but surely, in an alert man, it would stir an awareness for the need of caution soon or later.

"Friendly?"

"Nothing but!" The open smile had the cast of a leer as Holbrook made reply.

Brandon now nodded slowly. "All right. Don't start until dark. And do just as I've told you; don't forget to give yourself plenty of time. You can't travel fast."

"I get you, Mr. Brandon."

"Have you . . . That is, has he ever seen you?"

of her presence Ben directed the loading of the last car, conscious that the girl's eyes were often on him with an expression which belied her apparent indifference when he tried to engage her in conversation.

It was dark when the jammer man swung the last log into place and toggles were made fast. Able and Dawn rode with Ben in the locomotive as they trundled down the track to camp. "You boys have had a long day," Ben said to the engineer and fireman. "It won't get any darker. You eat your suppers here and we'll run 'em in this evening."

He turned to Able. "Our contract calls for delivery in time to meet the local. She's been coming through a little before eight in the morning. Want to take no chance of having this stuff held up now. That would be a tough break."

Serbia Always Markets Brides Through Broker

Many of the younger Serbians wish elders would abolish the custom of buying and selling brides, but the older generation can't see it that way. And the authorities are helpless to stop the practice, too, because negotiations between the parents involved are carried on in secret by a marriage broker, called the storjak, and no one is wiser until it is settled.

The supporters of the old order claim they are put to great expense in rearing their daughters, and it is only right and fair that the bridegroom should pay for the added help he thus obtains for his household in taking a wife.

Prices vary greatly in this Serbian bride market, some fetching as high as 30,000 dinars (about $600), others as low as 2,000 dinars. A bride's worth is measured by her health, strength and knowledge of farm and household affairs. Beauty is a secondary consideration, but should the prospective wife possess it her value is enhanced.

In many instances when a suitor has been too poor to pay the price asked by the girl's parents, he has abducted his bride with the aid of friends. And as only the spilling of blood can wipe out the deep humiliation and disgrace of having a daughter "snatched," feuds lasting through generations have in this way begun.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Foot-Worm Disease

The malady which has been termed a foot-worm disease, is an infection of the feet by a thread-like, white nematode worm known as the onchocera flexuosa, which sometimes reaches a length of 10 inches, says the Detroit News. These parasites are found extended in the subcutaneous tissues, and, in advanced stages, coiled in cysts near the surface. Deer afflicted with this malady usually have inflamed and swollen feet, are often notablene and in some cases the hoofs may even be loosened.

whatsoever." Then Senator Tamm told the senate:

"If you do not accept this amendment, talk of freedom for labor force."

Senator Hastings (then, Del.) was another opponent of the measure. He fought vigorously until the bill was called for a vote. He declared it was his feeling that the senate was passing legislation "to force every man in America to join a particular union whether he wants to or not." The amendment was killed.

The Wagner bill is an outgrowth of attempts to develop through the national industrial recovery act a policy compelling employers to bargain collectively with their employees. That is the famed section 7A was intended to make it impossible for employers to enter into an agreement with their employees except by dealing with a committee selected by a majority of the workers. It was the assumption when this provision was written two years ago that the American Federation of Labor would have a majority in all of the important industries. It developed, however, that company unions, not affiliated with any other organization, constituted a majority in scores of factories and plants. Thus, the A. F. of L. encountered an unexpected obstacle.

Now Senator Wagner, whose radical tendencies are well known, has attempted to give the Blue Eagle some claws by enactment of the labor disputes bill and the creation of a separate labor relations board.

The measure as it passed the senate makes it "unfair" for employers to do any of the following things:

1. To interfere with, or to coerce employees, in the exercise of collective bargaining through representatives of their own choosing.

2. To dominate or to interfere with the formation or administration of any labor organization or to contribute financially or aid in the support of any labor organization.

3. To encourage or discriminate in membership in any labor organization.

4. To discriminate against any employee for filing a complaint or testimony under the proposed act.

5. To refuse to bargain collectively with representatives of their employees.

No prohibitions against labor agitators are to be found in the legislation. From all of the debate and committee hearings which I have examined, it appeared that business interests were fighting the legislation not only because of the handicaps it places upon them but as much for the reason that it represents an entering wedge for labor agitators in all commercial lines. There seems to be no doubt that when an employer is prohibited from driving labor agitators away, he is handicapped in attempting to maintain industrial peace with his own workers.

whom you are not thinking at all, and never know anything about it. Just take the case of Mrs. Hooty and Danny Meadow Mouse. Danny always thought of Mrs. Hooty, just as he did of Hooty, as one of the enemies he must always be on the watch for after dark, and Mrs. Hooty always thought of Danny Meadow Mouse simply as a good dinner if only she could catch him. The idea of doing Danny a good turn never in all her life had entered her head. Nor had the idea that she could do such a thing ever entered Danny's funny little head. Yet Mrs. Hooty did do Danny a good turn. In fact, all unknowingly she proved to be a friend.

Remember that Billy Mink had hid Danny in a hollow log in the back yard. Billy couldn't get into the hollow log because the doorway was too small. So he promptly told Mrs. Hooty that he would keep watch until Billy Mink starved to death inside or came

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: In the past ten days I have read in the newspapers of thirty-four men committing crimes. I discovered, by keeping tabs on them, that twenty-eight of the thirty-four men ran away to Canada. How do you account for that?
C. KLUSIVE.

Answer: I am surprised, as I thought everybody knew that it was the only place "Toronto."

Dear Mr. Wynn: Don't you think a man will succeed better in life if he goes by the following rule: "Live and let live"?
Truly yours,
HAMMOND EGGS.

Answer: That is a great rule for every one excepting a butcher.

Dear Mr. Wynn: A friend of mine has just returned from a trip through the South American tropics and he said that some times, while walking along, he would sink 10 and 12 inches in the ground. What struck me rather peculiar was his assertion that farmers lived there and cattle grazed all around. How could cattle exist in mud like that?

Yours truly,
E. QUATER.

DELICIOUS FRUIT DRINKS

DURING the summer when much water is lost from the body by perspiration, more water should be taken in some form. The easiest drink one knows about is lemonade, refreshing, cooling and easy to take as well as make. Keep in the ice chest a jar of the lemon juice boiled with sugar and water to form a fruit sirup. A mixture of grapefruit juice, lemon and orange, is another drink well liked. Having a sugar sirup made to use for

Good and Poor Poultry

People often ask how many eggs a turkey hen will lay, and it is the general impression among those inexperienced with turkeys that they lay very few eggs, 20 or so during the spring, after which they go broody and from then on they loaf. This is a fallacy, states a writer in the Missouri Farmer. The egg production of turkey hens is comparable to the production of chicken hens in that there is a variation in the number of eggs among the individuals. If not allowed to go broody, they lay all summer and they have made production excess of 150 eggs per year. Others lay every month and more without a break. In the straits of geese kept, and as the Africans now seem to be better leads in egg production; though with all others it is more of a matter concerning the man who cares for the feed than it is in brood stock.

Feather-Producing Geese

As feather producers all breeds of geese are good, though the lords of the air are much harder to pluck alive or dead. As for eggs, the various breeds stand about in the following order: White Chinese, Toulouse, Canadian and Embden. These four are the ones largely kept in this country for various purposes and all of them are excellent and serve their purpose well. There is a great difference in the strains of geese kept, and as the Africans now seem to be better leads in egg production; though with all others it is more of a matter concerning the man who cares for the feed than it is in brood stock.

Shade for Young Poultry

Shade is of prime importance for all poultry, especially during the summer months. Where brood houses are not shaded and shade is not provided there will be a high percentage of loss. A cheap and adequate shade can be constructed by driving stakes into the ground and then covering with bagging or grass. Shelters, however, should be provided for droppings at regular intervals.

Poultry Joints

A cap about 3 or 4 inches in diameter brooder stove pipe is a good draft. After the first ten days of both mash and grain should be available at all times to the chicks. Chicks have no gizzard instead, but they will find feed if it has no grit with.

Fighting Fire With "Airfoam"

THIS is a scene at Feltham, England, during a demonstration of the "airfoam" apparatus which extinguishes fires in quick time with a smothering action. A mixture of 90 per cent air, 9.8 per cent water and 0.2 per cent soap produces a foam seven times lighter than water, which excludes air from the seat of combustion and can be pumped to great heights.
