

CHATTERGRAMS

BY JEANE SUITS

Everything's in its place. "All's right with the world." There is a fellow named "Pinky" Martin on the State Line Tribune at Farwell who is diligently keeping up with the number of shopping days till Xmas. He reported last week that there were only 204 more days so that leaves only 197 this week in which to do your buying. Don't wait until that last minute rush.

At first I was so afraid that somebody wouldn't keep up with the number of Xmas shopping days left, especially during this busy time of cotton planting and preparation of wheat harvest. And then I found Pinky's squib. It just looks like some people think of everything!

RELATION literally means "that which bears back." And after an extended visit from a host of your kinsfolk who put their feet under your table three times a day for say three months, you'll decide that the literal meaning of the word just about hits the spot (and bear at that). Relatives "bears our back" all right—of clothes to say nothing of the way they bear our cupboards. Since there will not be a big centennial celebration in this section that committeemen-forgot, we people will probably not be bothered with as many visitors as usual this summer. Instead maybe we can "bear a few backs" of our own kinsmen down state where hogs will be hogs.

Did you ever hear of anybody that was so good they smelled like the inside of a church? Egad, I guess that must be pretty goody good! However, I don't think you'll be bothered with any such odor around here. Ah, shut up, I know where you went last week-end and it didn't have anything to do with aisles, pews, choirs, or pulpits. Why, I bet me of you old cronies around here wouldn't even know the scent if you were to smell it. You oughta be ashamed of yourself for not going to church. It's a cinch that all of you would go if the church were to take over the government and started playing the old man with a white beard and red coat to you every week like Uncle Sam has for three years!

Nerve-graters: Liars, little or big, white or black; smart-aleck boys behind the business end of an automobile; the steering wheel-chronic grippers; tightwads out to skin their fellowman; the man who says "Sure I know some news, it rained," or maybe "the sands blowing"; makeup applied in blotches; the man who drives in front of you without looking behind; people who chatter but never seem to really get down to talking; girls who "put on" for the benefit of their associates. It is usually so obvious that it becomes a joke; people who always strike when they are the hammer but fail to bear when they are the anvil (partially Edwin Markam's idea and partially yours sincerely); hanky-up-the-sleeve social affairs; people too sophisticated to associate with the so called "common herd" but not sophisticated enough to rise above the average; women who won't ever do anything, not even their own fingernails or hair. According to that long list you'd think I would be a nervous wreck.

Some pleasant people to be around: Mrs. G. H. Phenix; Mrs. Bettie Counts; Mrs. Thelma Hodel; Mrs. Selina Guthrie; Bill Hodel; Paul Bybee; Mrs. Arthur Barker; Cip Hudson; Buck Sullivan; Mrs. Albert King; Ed Whitfill; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Patterson; Mrs. Virgil Teaver; Mrs. Robin Baker; Mrs. Bob Shelton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wells left Tuesday for Carlsbad, N. M., where they will make a weeks visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Mode Earp of Ft. Worth visited Mrs. Wright's brother, R. C. McGilvary, and family last week, they returned Sunday.

LOCKNEY, FLOYD COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1936

NUMBER 40

WPA Workers Asked To Register June 16 For New Program Outlined July 1

Those not Employed on Project To Be Interviewed by Officials; Others will be Interviewed by Supervisors

All persons in Floyd County whose names are listed on Works Progress Administration rolls, whether or not they are working on a WPA project, must fill out new registration papers in order to maintain their eligibility, the WPA district office at Lubbock has announced.

Those who are at present not employed on WPA projects—including persons certified but not assigned to a project; persons assigned who have failed to report for work; persons who have reported for work and have left or persons taken off a project to await reassignment to another project—are required to meet for interviews with WPA officials on June 16 in the WPA sewing room in Lockney, or on June 16 in the basement of the Floyd County Court House in Floydada, whichever place is nearest.

Those now working on a project are to be interviewed by their project supervisors or superintendent and are set to report as outlined above, it was said.

Failure to cooperate with officials on dates set for the interviews will indicate that those individuals are no longer seeking employment through WPA program, stated Miss Adeline Ziegenhals, Assistant Supervisor in the WPA division of employment. "Those who no longer wish their names on WPA rolls should write to the WPA district office at Lubbock, stating the reason."

Letters have been sent all persons in this county stating the time and place of meeting for interviews, and the letters should be brought along to serve as an introduction to interviewing officials, Miss Ziegenhals said.

County and City officials have been asked by the WPA district office to cooperate in the necessary effort to re-register all persons on WPA Rolls, required for starting a new WPA program July 1.

TWO MURDER CASES GIVEN CONTINUANCE

District Court Adjourned This Week but Will Convene Again Next Monday

Two murder cases on the docket of the 110th district court at Floydada were continued Monday for the term because a jury could not be secured while the farmers are so busy with their crops. The court adjourned Monday and will not convene again until this next Monday so farmers will have adequate time for planting.

The two murder cases are to be set for the term of court beginning Oct. 12.

The cases were those of J. V. Baxter, a blacksmith charged with slaying Donald Bennett, and Everett McArthur, indicted for murder of "Uncle Ben" Speegle, tourist camp operator, at Mador. The McArthur case will come up the week of Oct. 12.

Cooper Girl Gets School

Miss Wilma Cooper and her father, Arlie Cooper, of Denton were through here Monday night enroute to Olton where Miss Cooper secured a job teaching school. She was graduated from CIA in Denton this spring with a major in public school music. She will go from Olton to New Mexico where she will spend the summer months vacationing.

NEW RULING IS GIVEN ON GREEN MANURE CROPS

Farmers Having Good Wheat for Green Manure not Required to Practice any other Conserving

NO BASE ACREAGE ADDED

Those not Earning Soil-Building Payments May Earn Payments by Summer Fallow

Those wheat farmers who actually turned under a good crop of wheat as green manure will not be required to perform any further soil conserving practice or to plant any other soil conserving crops on the land on which the wheat was turned under, County Agent, D. F. Bredthauer instructed here today according to the new ruling sent out recently to him from the state office on how land should be taken care of after a green manure crop has been turned.

However, the new ruling states that the county committee should be very careful in permitting the turned under wheat to be called a green manure crop because it is not likely that the producer would have turned under his wheat crop if he had sufficient crop to qualify as green manure.

The state office further stated that farmers who turned under wheat as green manure that was inspected by a supervisor will not be required to strip crop or contour list as may have been formerly advised by the county agent office.

"Some farmers are of the opinion that they will be permitted to turn under volunteer weeds as a green manure and qualify for soil-building payments," Mr. Bredthauer said, "but we now have information that the state office or the Washington office will not approve of such."

Farmers who have not earned the soil-building payments but wish to summer fallow may substitute for a soil conserving crop and earn soil-conserving payments only if it is used in combination with strip cropping, contour listing, or contour furrowing.

Mr. Bredthauer wishes to inform the farmers that it is not likely under any conditions that the base acreage on any farm in the county will be increased. A number of people in making out their work sheets have asked to have their base acreage raised.

GRAIN COMPANY INCORPORATES

The Patterson Grain Company has just recently been incorporated under the laws of Texas. This concern was formerly known as the Home Grain Company or Collins Grain Co. R. E. Patterson is manager and one of the chief stockholders in this newly incorporated enterprise.

This new organization has been effected with the idea of being able to finance maximum advances on stored grain, with perfect security to the depositor of the grain.

The Patterson Grain Company is getting everything in readiness to handle wheat when the season opens.

Valca Thomas returned Saturday from Ft. Worth where he has been for the past two weeks. Carl Steinbough of Ft. Worth returned with him.

CITY PUMP AND WELL READY IN FEW DAYS NOW

Emergency Pump Cannot Supply Sufficient Water

Handle Drillers Working Day and Night in Attempt To Complete Well this Week-end

The new city Kimball-Krough pump and well will probably be ready for use by the end of this week and everybody will have plenty of water again, Mayor J. H. Hohlaus said here today in commenting on the scarcity of water this week. When completed the new improvement will cost the city around $1400.

The emergency pump that is being used during the drilling of a new well has not supplied enough water the last four days for summer weather use. Several times the city has been without for a number of hours. But Mr. Hohlaus assures everyone that the new pump of 1000 gallons per minute capacity will produce ample water for all purposes.

The old well is being enlarged from 12 inches to 16 inches. It is to have a depth of 240 feet whereas it formerly was only 120 feet. The Handley drillers, who have been working the last two weeks on the enlargements, began working night and day last Monday and will continue to do so until all is completed. Mr. Hohlaus informed the press today.

"The emergency pump has been running four days and nights without stopping," the mayor stated. This is the first time this pump has been used by the city in seven or eight years.

BASEBALL GAME AT AMHERST

Local Club Beat Quitaque 13-8 in Sunday's Game

The Lockney Baseball Club is scheduled for a game at Amherst Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in their first game with that club.

Quitaque was defeated by Lockney last Sunday at Quitaque with a score of 13-8.

Mrs. R. C. Bennett returned Tuesday morning from Mineral Wells where she has been for the past two months receiving treatment for health. She is reported greatly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McGilvary and family visited in Meador, Tex. and Palo Duro canyon Sunday.

Braying Of Donkey Answers Man's Prayer For Speech

Sitting on the banks of the sea of Galilee thousands of miles away from the Statue of Liberty shortly after mid-night, was a tired and lonely man who longed with all his homelick heart to hear the voice of an American once again who could speak clear articulate English. Then out of the night air as if the man's prayer had been heard came the braying of a donkey!

This lonely man whose yearning was so aptly satisfied was the Rev. A. L. Butler, pastor of the Mexico-Farwell Methodist Church, who spoke here Sunday evening at the Methodist Church on his trip abroad to the Holy Land last spring.

For the forty-sixth time since his return home the Rev. Mr. But-

SOUTH AND EAST OF TOWN HAVE HAIL

Crops Damaged From Twenty-Five to Thirty Percent in Places Tuesday

A heavy hail fell due east and south of Lockney Tuesday afternoon damaging the wheat and cotton crops from twenty-five to thirty percent. The immediate vicinity of Lockney received a nice shower the same afternoon but no hail.

The hail seemed to have been the heaviest east of here in the Cedar Hill community. Ed Teuton reported that his wheat suffered a loss of between twenty-five and thirty per cent. Olan Ridings' wheat near him was also damaged.

Claude Harris south of town said here Wednesday that his cotton and wheat was partially destroyed.

Travelers on the highway between Muncy and Floydada Tuesday afternoon reported that the hail was so large that they feared the tops of their cars would be smashed.

WHEAT APPLICATIONS LOANS OPEN THIS WEEK

No Definite Date Set for Time of Loans; Requirements the Same As Last Year

"All persons desiring wheat loans on the 1936 wheat crop should make application at Frank Perkin's local office as soon as possible as no definite date has been set for the time of the loans," C. C. Gibson of Childress, field supervisor of seven counties of this territory, said here Tuesday.

All wheat loan offices opened June 9 upon the close of the crop loan applications on June 10.

Loans may be obtained for summer fallowed wheat, seed and planting. The limit of the loan per farmer being $200 which is a cut from the $500 loan obtainable last year.

The requirements are practically the same as those for the previous years with farmers who obtained crop loans not eligible for the wheat loans.

Olin Huff left Sunday morning for Lovington, N. M., where he will direct the song services in a meeting conducted by Brother Henry of West Virginia. He was accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Huff, and sister, Mary Glenn. They returned Sunday night.

17 girls from here attended the annual girls' camp of Baptist District 9 which was held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at the Ceta Canyon.

Among the outstanding speakers were Miss Lillie Hundley, a missionary to China, and Mrs. Monjeot, young people leader for the state of New Mexico. Local girls attending were: Mary Dean Carroll, Thelma Joe Shaw, Doris Sams, Melba Teaver, Mildred Wood, Johnnie Joe Kenady, Tres Allen, Bonnie Faye Goodrich, Genelle Allen, Laura Bell Maggard, Billie Hamilton, Dorothy Nail Sartain, Velma Turner, La Dell Cox, Monette Harrison, Lovelle Belyeu, and Betty Ruth Allen. They were accompanied by Mesdames A. L. Shaw, Glenn Carroll, J. D. Allen, and Marvin Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Jackson spent the week-end visiting in Abilene.

BONUS BONDS TO BE ISSUED HERE TUESDAY, JUNE 16

Eighty Thousand Dollars To Be Distributed in This Northwest Part of County Tuesday

$183,000 FOR COUNTY

Bonds to be Issued to Addressee Only and Will not be Forwarded any Where Eighty thousand dollars in adjusted-service bonus bonds will be issued here to World War veterans Tuesday afternoon, June 16, at the insurance office of Frank Perkins, Joe McCollum, postmaster, announced this week.

Beginning at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of June 16, the bonds will be distributed to the ninety or more veterans in this northwest of the county in $50 denominations. Postmaster McCollum said the bonds absolutely will be delivered to the addressee only and no bonds will be forwarded to any address. You must call for your bonus in person and will have to be identified by the certifying officer, Mr. McCollum. Floyd county has around 300 ex-service men who will receive an average of $600, which will amount to around $183,000 for the entire county.

"Veterans desiring to cash their bonds now must sign the request for payment on the back of bonds at the time they are issued before the certifying officer," the postmaster said here today in giving instructions to the receivers. The bonds will then be sent directly to the Dallas Postoffice and the addressee will receive a check for the full amount within a few days that may be cashed at any bank or postoffice.

If the bonds are not cashed they carry a 3 per cent rate interest per annum but such an interest is not payable on any bonds redeemed prior to June 15, 1937.

Mr. McCollum will have sufficient help to take care of the issuance and receipting of the bonds.

The Soldiers' Bonus of $2,000, 000,000 to be put in circulation in the United States next week is expected to ward off the usual summer lull in business all over the country and help tide over until fall. Many of the bonds are already "soaked" by the veterans who have bought new cars, homes, and paid old debts since learning that the bonus was to be a reality and not a dream.

"Train Up A Child In The Way He Should Go, And When He Is Old He Will Not Depart From It"

This Proverb is of wisdom in deed, as spoken by the man of Galilee and it is being exemplified in the Vacation Bible School held at the Lockney Methodist and Baptist Churches each day except Saturday between the hours of 8:45 and 11:00 o'clock for a period of two weeks. The school now boasts an enrollment of 125 pupils and is open to any one of any denomination up to the age of 16 years.

In developing such a school the Rev. H H Hamilton and the Rev. A L Shaw seem to have heard the cry "Where may a seed be sown to bear most fruit when it is grown"? And as they ceived of planting it in the heart thought of many plans they conceived. It was then that this plan took form not to be tried once but to help yearly in teaching the children. They divided the school into four departments—the beginners, the primary, the juniors, and the intermediate with each department following a definite schedule.

Beginners
The younger "tots" supervised by Mrs R C McGilvary are taught devotional songs. They are told stories of the many Bible characters and as they become familiar with the stories they memorize passages. Recreation is overlooked. The beginners in all departments have a two minute recreation period.

Primary Department
As we entered the primary department we heard youngsters intoning the beautiful words of the twenty-third Psalm, and the passage "And that from a child thou hath known the Holy Scripture" (Tim. 3:15) came to our mind. Mesdames Stutta, J B Allen, Roy Turner, Henry Ford, Arthur Barker, M L Maggard and Virginia Hohlaus are assisting in this department.

Junior Department
In the junior department Mesdames J L Henson, C H Rose, H H Hamilton, Fred Brown and Miss Sandra Margaret Henson of Poteau, Okla., are aiding in the carrying on of the school's schedule. Miss Henson is the pianist. The juniors program is like that of the other departments. They study Bible stories, learn new songs and play new games. Miss Frances Humphries is the director of activity and has taught the children many interesting Chinese games.

Intermediate Department
The intermediate department is divided into two classes, one for boys and one for the girls. The youths following the Carpenter of Nazareth are constructing beds, cradles, what-nots, stands, etc. This department is under the direction of the Rev. H H Hamilton.

The intermediate girls are being taught the housewifely art of mending quilts. The girls are making two quilts, one to be sent to the Buckner's Orphans Home at Dallas and the other to go to the Methodist Orphans Home at Waco. When this work is completed the girls will make posters portraying the life of Christ. Mrs A L Shaw with the help of Misses Oleta Huggins and Mary Williams and Mrs McAfee are the directors.

Lets Talk About Clothes

White is tops for summer wear. You see it taking first place in all ranks of the fashion world, and particularly among women of the South. We especially point out the new white silk crepe ensembles that are being unpacked daily by fashion shops.

Dresses are mostly of the one-piece style with very short sleeves or a tiny shoulder cape effect. Skirts are pleated and the pleats stitched down to the neckline. Color contrast is achieved with belts, pocket flaps or trick lacings down the center of the best. The jackets are either hip length or belted swaggar type with fairly wide loose sleeves. - 5. CENTER-POISE RIDING COMFORT

NO MATTER how you classify your expenditures for car up-keep—it's your total expenditure that counts. How much "dollar mileage" is your car giving you?

Dollars do go farther in the Ford V-8. Modern improved carburetion gives you unusual gasoline mileage with brilliant V-8 performance. Most owners of today's Ford change oil only every 2000 miles and add none between changes.

And after the first few thousand miles you begin to understand what Ford V-8 "dollar mileage" really means.

It gives you more miles per dollar because it gives you all-round economy—low first cost, low up-keep cost, low depreciation and long life—as well as low gasoline and oil consumption. All these are big items if you aim to buy the most economical car.

Gone To Metzton

Paul Anderson, son of Mrs Anna Anderson, left Sunday for Metzton where he will spend several weeks visiting his aunt, Mrs W A Hughes.

Mr and Mrs Hugh Counts were Quitague visitors Sunday afternoon.

WORLD TRAVELER--

mortality," the speaker said in explaining the theory of the sacred beetle.

Water from Jacob's Well and the River Jordan. Sand from the Sahara dessert and a tablecloth from the birthplace of Columbus. Tapestry from Cairo, Egypt, two pieces of alabaster and an ounce bottle of perfume from two tons of the 2000 varieties of flowers found in Palestine, were all among his collections from four continents and thirteen nations that he used to illustrate the lecture.

Mr Butler saw the collection excavated from King Tut's tomb which included golden chariots and four boxes laden with gold in which the body rested. The luxurious coffin was of twenty-two carat gold. The King is believed to have died at the age of nineteen and Mr Butler dares not think of how rich he might have been had he lived the average life time.

The Coronation Mosque at Cairo was described by the speaker as being one of the most interesting places he visited. It is said that no infidel's foot has ever been on the Mosque floor because the guides meet you at the door and tie cotton shoes on your feet. "I didn't mind being called an infidel by that guy but I was just hoping those shoes would come off, and sure enough right out in the middle of the floor under the big dome I looked down and the string was dragging. An infidel's foot had touched the sacred ground to the Mohammed." Mr Butler amusingly told the audience.

"The seriousness of the Mohammedan religion makes it sacred and divine to the on-looker," he said. "The adherents are called to prayer five times every day. They immediately drop whatever task is at hand and go to the mosque when the call is heard. If they cannot get to the place of worship they take off their shoes and point them toward the mosque while going through the holy rites."

"I have observed that people are more interested in Palestine

Italy, Greece, or Europe," the speaker said. His childhood ideas of what this country would look like were blasted upon his arrival. He didn't see any angels with white wings nor rear melodious music from harps. But instead he was greeted by a mob of dirty beggars who used every hokum possible to inveigle him into spending his money.

"It is far worse for those to hornswozzle in Jerusalem than in Cairo because in the holy place it is all done in the name of religion," Mr Butler revealed. He said the cross on which Jesus was crucified has been sold one thousand times by the natives and almost any pillow of salt may be said to be Lot's wife by the guides for only a few cents.

Mr Butler said that his trip abroad did one outstanding thing for him. He was always a bit skeptic about some of the back-ground used in the stories of the Bible, but after visiting that land he says that anybody is a fool not to believe it all down to the least detail. The geographical conditions are just as they were thousands of years ago when Jesus tread the soil. He has gained a more sympathetic understanding of the Bible characters since his trip abroad.

He plans to return in 1938 if he can get his wife's consent.

Mr Butler is the nephew of Mrs M J Brotherton of Lockney.

IN MEMORY OF BURL PENN

By W W Martin of Silverton

You wonder why I look so sad to day
A telegram is here from far away
It brought me news I did not want to hear
A friend is gone and one I loved so dear.

Go tell my people so the message read
That Burl at seven left this earth it said
So that is why I am so sad you see
A veil of sorrow hovers over me.

I loved him as a pupil in my school
For as a lad he lived the Golden Rule.

Live and let man work and heard him sing and play
He always was so happy young and gay.

I've heard him sing of Heaven up above
Some cowboy songs and songs of only love
Perchance a song of mother he would sing
While a shoe from his music box would ring.

He sang a song for me at school one night
A concert while the moon was shining bright

But if I hear him sing that song once more
Then I must meet him on that golden shore.

We do not know nor can we understand
Why you, our boy, were taken from this land
Though you have gone and left us here below
We long for you and now we want to go.

Sweet memory of a son we love so well
The sadness of our hearts no tongue can tell.
Our sleep is broken often with a sigh
We dream of you and think that you are nigh.

We oft recline upon a sleepless bed
And looking back we think of all you said
Or in the daytime while the sky is blue
We often think of things you loved and you.

I think I read or heard some person say
That God above can wipe all tears away
He's gone, dear boy, alas we know not why
So now we turn away and say good-bye.

And when our journey on this earth is through
Up on the streets we read about so new
Up on these streets they say there is no pain
We'll meet you there and hear you sing again.

YOUTH AND OPPORTUNITY

Out of the nation's universities, colleges and high schools some hundreds of thousands of boys and girls are pouring this month to seek their places in the world of reality. Their formal education is finished. Their real education is just beginning. They have, if they have been diligent and receptive students learned a great deal about most of the fundamental principles of life. Now they are about to try their hands at the practical application of those principles to the problems of life itself.

The first thing that these young men and young women are going to learn is that there is no easy or safe road to success in life. Many of them may have got the impression that the world owes them a living. They are due to discover very soon that the obligation is the other way around. They have to prove themselves useful members of society before they can claim consideration for themselves.

There is a school of thought which holds that it is the duty of the social order to provide opportunities for all of these eager young folk. Those who hold that view are prone to declare that America is no longer the Land of Opportunity, that there are no such chances in our capitalistic industrial scheme of things as there were under a more primitive and dominantly agricultural civilization.

The plain truth, which these young graduates will learn soon enough, is that there is no ready-made opportunity for anybody.

There never has been, under any scheme of social organization, but for men and women of initiative, courage, industry and character, there are more and greater opportunities in America today than there ever were before. Each, however, must find his own opportunity for himself.

If the schools and colleges have not developed those qualities of industry, courage, initiative and character, then there is something wrong with the schools. But even the worst of schools cannot stifle the ambition or kill the spirit of adventurous youth. It is to the ambitious and the adventurous that the world of today offers even greater ones to those who are ready to take their courage in their hands and go forth to seek them.

JOBS AND MACHINES

One of the chief obstacles in the way of intelligent discussion of the absence of trustworthy facts and figures, and the lack of accurate information as to the causes of unemployment.

It is encouraging news that the Works Progress Administration at Washington has set on foot a program of research in which many fact-finding organizations—public and private—are cooperating for the purpose of learning how many persons in America are actually unemployed, why they are unemployed, and what the outlook is for their reemployment.

Those are facts which the nation ought to know. We have listened to countless theories and a wide variety of guesses, but facts to which one could pin one's faith have been very hard to get.

Early in the depression there was a great deal of talk about technological unemployment.

Men were being replaced by machines, and soon there would be no more work for men to do, we were told. That sort of talk has subsided, as men have come to realize that the machine, though it may and usually does cause a shift of workers from one kind of industry to another, in the long run creates many more jobs than it displaces. As Corington Gill, assistant W.P.A. Administrator, recently stated:

"We have only to look about us to realize the tremendous multiplication of labor opportunities within the vast new industries created by the machine."

It is hazardous always to prophesy, but it seems reasonable to believe that the truth about unemployment once it is fully disclosed will be that nowhere nearly as many persons who ever were workers are now unable to get work as is popularly supposed, and that very few of them, if any, are out of work because a machine has taken their jobs away.

The "Hard Money" boys and most of them are in the ranks of the Old Guard Republican organization, break out in a cold sweat every time inflation is mentioned. The reason for this rise of temperature among these gentlemen is that most of them are holders of bonds and mortgages. In case of inflation they do not benefit therefrom to any great extent. Bonds and mortgages have a fixed income. On the other hand owners of real estate, for instance, will benefit more from inflation than the bondholder. The price of real estate usually advances upon inflation and the owner can sell for a larger price, whereas, bonds remain about the same in price and the interest is low. Inflation causes high prices on almost all commodities, therefore interest on bonds wont purchase much. It may be turn about is fair play, now and then.

Al Smith and John W. Davis, two disgruntled Democrats and the main spokes in the Liberty League wheel, have been offered posts as vice presidents of the National Allied Republican Council. Neither one of them are Democratic or Republican. They are just anything that will help them enrich their own private coffers and give them a protecting them in their schemes to sell the common people "down the river." Yes, the Republicans can have 'em. They are no good, everybody is wise to their schemes.

Eaker's blind flight across the country has been a success. For many years Eaker had been contemplating this air flight to prove the reliability of planes instruments and now that his experiment has been proven aviation will be benefited. Many great aviators have given their time and risked their lives that aviation might progress. Amelia Earhart Putman, for one, although she is a woman, has done almost as much as Lindberg for aviation. She has just completed a test of a fog dispelling compound.

And speaking of the New Deal, could the Republicans be planning on making their campaign slogan "the Square Deal." Here's a suggestion to Father Coughlin for his third party's slogan "the I-Deal," and in the end we suppose that as usual we will get a "bum deal."

We Shall See
The Republican National Convention will meet next week. There will be great talk about the G. O. P. sweeps the Democratic Party the party will still be here.—Ralls Banner.

We Like To Throw Fits
Having lived in the Panhandle for almost 26 years we believe that this period of citizenship should entitle us to somewhat of an insight into the nature of our people.

Of all people on earth, Panhandle folks like to throw a fit. We like to get mad about things and bless some one out in real old fashioned style. We like to rave!

When times are good, there is no place on earth so good as the Panhandle. When the depression and drought hit, no place on earth needed so much help, and needed so badly as the Panhandle.

We like to go to extremes. That's the reason this is a great country. There is no middle busting for our people. We swing the full distance, to the right or the left, depending upon conditions.—The Canyon News.

Rev. E. B. Speck of Lubbock, Townsdenite, has announced as a candidate for Congress against Hon. George Mahon. Brother Speck is a Baptist minister and a good man, but we are wondering if he wouldn't be a misfit in Congress. As a Townsdenite he could accomplish nothing. We imagine that on the morning following the election, he will feel that his name is most appropriate.—Lynn County News.

A Dollar
A dollar is something the average business man enjoys more in anticipation than in realization. It is the price of a day's work for some men and the price of a drink for others. It is what the good wife frequently needs but seldom gets. It is the power that makes or unmakes men. It is the hardest thing to get and the easiest thing to get rid of. It is a blessing and a curse. No man ever had more than he wanted and no man ever will. A dollar is a delusion, and all of us are chasing the delusion.—Clipped.

WHAT WE SEE IN THE PAPERS

By Margaret Hage

Secretary Hulls has announced that the United States will not intervene directly or indirectly in the domestic concerns of any American republic, in commenting on the political disturbance in Nicaragua. Maybe experience has taught the United States not to intervene in their neighbors quarrels. Or maybe the makers of war don't value their property so highly that men have to be killed for their cause. The United States once intervened in Nicaragua and came out with a headache.

It is predicted that 11,565,400 will visit in Texas this year and will spend $446,225,700 during their stay in the state.

It has been charged by Senat or Borah that Gov. Alf Landon is an avowed friend of the New Deal and that this explained his silence on platform views. Landon is wise in keeping silent, because any Republican candidate who stands a ghost of a chance for election is going to have to incorporate a lot of New Deal principles in his platform.

A few months ago all the nations of the League were determined that Italy should have no part of that country, Ethiopia. At the bare suggestion of giving Italy a slice that her wrath might be appeased, caused England to "oust" Sir Samuel Hoare, who for years had been her foreign secretary and League delegate. Since that time L.L. Duce has taken all Ethiopia and now Sir Samuel is being reinstated as a member in Great Britains cabinet. Sir Samuel like Haile Selassie has come back to the cabinet without a country.

SADLER AT PLAINVIEW

Tent Show To Be There Three Days, June 15

Harley Sadler and his own company will be at Plainview for three days beginning Monday, June 15, with forty people and a thirteen piece orchestra. This tent show is the largest and finest motorized dramatic show on the road today.

The feature play will be "The Seige of the Alamo" written by Harley Sadler in keeping with the Texas Centennial Show.

The vaudeville included the Fox sisters Glendals quartette, Whitehouse twins, singers and dancers, Bob Kcheley, eccentric dancer, and several outstanding entertainers.

Ladies will be free Monday night with one paid admission adult ticket.

Mrs H B Alexander returned Saturday from Paris, Texas where she has been at the bedside of her brother.

Visit in New Mexico

Mr and Mrs Charlie Merrick and little Shirley McGhee visited at Tatum, N. M. Sunday with Mr and Mrs Curtis Evans.

VIEW HERD TRIP WAS A 'NATURAL'

The dairy cattle view herd for the Texas Centennial from the Panhandle-Plains dairy show and an exhibit of poulters from the Plains Cooperative hatchery attracted no little attention at Dallas and at intermediate points, according to Hale County Agent C B Martin, who with R B Davis returned Saturday morning.

Appropriate banners on the trucks proclaimed the nature of the exhibits, their origin and destination.

Police Chief Ote Martine arranged with other chiefs en route and at Dallas for police escorts for the vehicles through the cities. The Herald advised newspapers on the route of the itinerary and both Davis and Martin feel that much worthwhile publicity was gained for the Panhandle-Plains Dairy show and for the Plains country and Plainview.

Davis said that he was surprised at the buildings on the centennial grounds and that the centennial was certainly ready for visitors. The livestock department is especially well organized under the leadership of W L Stangel, Tech professor, and one of the real standbys of the annual dairy show.—Plainview Evening Herald.

Hobbs Visitors

Mrs O E Stevenson and son Glen, of Hobbs, N. M., were here Monday and Tuesday visiting old friends. Carl McAdams Jr. came home with them from Hobbs where he has been for a day or two on business.

Knew Lee When He Commanded Fort Mason

By FREDERICK GIPSON
284 East 22nd St., Austin, Texas.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Home Color Print Co.)

FORT Mason, established in 1851, and for a while under the command of Albert Sidney Johnston and Robert E. Lee, lies in ruins near the town of Mason, Texas, the ruins overgrown with a tangle of bee myrtle and cacti. The fort, a link in a chain of forts along the western border of Texas, was garrisoned by U. S. soldiers to protect settlers from marauding Indians.

Living near the old fort now is Mrs. Wilson Hey, age 85, who was a resident of the village of Mason when Robert E. Lee commanded the soldiers and Indian scouts stationed at Fort Mason. This was several years before Lee's appointment as general of the Confederate armies.

"Why, the first dance I ever attended was there at the fort in regimental quarters of Robert E. Lee!" said Mrs. Hey. "The soldiers wanted to give a dance, but having no room for such an event in the fort, Commander Lee let the boys use his regimental quarters."

Danced With Lee's Soldiers

"I was fifteen years of age," Mrs. Hey recalls, "and lived in Mason with Mrs. George Bowser. Having no suitable clothes for a ball room (clothes were hard to get in those days), Mrs. Bowser managed to dress me in some of her own clothes. I wore a hooped skirt of white silk and a black silk waist. For jewelry, Mrs. Bowser gave me her gold brooch, gold ear rings, watch and chain. As was the custom in those days, I placed the chain around my neck and the watch inside my belt. I was surely dressed up that night and could hardly wait for the dance to begin."

"The first man who asked me to dance was a soldier by the name of Crosby. I told him I had never danced before, and requested that he wait awhile until I could see how things went at the square dance. He danced with young Crosby, and he told me I was the best dancer on the floor. But I suspect, in passing the compliment, he just wanted to be nice to me because I was a beginner."

"No, I didn't dance with Commander Lee. He didn't dance with anyone, just sat and watched the rest of us, although he seemed to enjoy the fun we were having."

"Frontier folk," Mrs. Hey added, "did

The Origin of Straw Votes

HE seventeenth century English statesman and political writer, John Selden, advised his readers to "take a straw and throw it into the air—you may see by that which way the wind is."

Americans are taking him at his word. Never before has the air been so cluttered with straw votes. Political clubs, newspapers, magazines and organizations formed for that express purpose are blanketing the country with polls of public opinion as the 1936 Presidential election draws near and discussion over problems economical and political wax warmer.

It was in the latter part of the eighteenth century that straw votes came first into prominence. Local newspapers sponsored them, providing forms for the reader to fill in and return. But they soon fell into disrepute because they could not accurately gauge sentiment the nation over.

Within the last decade the straw vote has made a comeback. Some still reach only a restricted area; others only the readers of certain publications, excluding important segments of opinion. More recently attempts have been made to penetrate every class of society by use of both mail ballots and personal interviews. The argument is that the latter findings are as accurate, for example, as reports of grain inspectors who, from samples taken at random throughout a huge elevator of wheat, determine the average grade of wheat. In both cases the system is called the "sampling method," a well known scientific process.

The straw ballot may be given a sort of official recognition under a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Pierce of Oregon. He thinks the polls "often influence an election through their psychological effect on the people," and proposes an investigation of those which, he charges, try to influence public opinion in advance by "shaping their questions to bring just the answers desired."

not look upon dancing with disfavor. It was considered wholesome recreation for young as well as old, and dancing was permitted in homes of the best families."

Threat of Prowling Savages

While pioneers, as a rule, lived happily and contentedly, yet there was always the threat of prowling savages. Unguarded homes would be attacked by Indians—men, women and children killed, or taken captives. Mrs. Hey remembered a hairbreadth escape while the family lived in Llano county.

"It was milking time and my stepmother had let down the bars so our cows could enter the lot. Suddenly Indians came riding out of the brush."

"I shouted to stepmother to run. We dropped our milk buckets, caught up our dresses and fled, but the Indians almost overtook us before we could dash through the doorway. I slammed the door quickly, but was horrified to find part of my skirt had caught in the door jam. While pulling the skirt out, I saw a big savage scowl at me through a crack in the top of the door. He almost frightened me to death."

"Get the gun, daddy; get the gun!" I screamed.

"Just then our dogs attacked the Indians, who were always afraid of the white man's dogs. Before father could fire a shot the Indians galloped away, dogs in hot pursuit and growling fiercely."

Native Texan

Mrs. Hey, born in San Antonio, Texas, August 22, 1850, was Miss Hanna Korn before marriage. Her father moved the family by ox-wagon in 1858 from San Antonio to Castell, Llano county, then on the edge of the frontier. Later he moved to Mason, where Mr. and Mrs. Hey were married in 1871. Mr. Hey, born in England, came to Texas while a young man. He was county and district clerk of Mason county for 20 years.

At the time of Mrs. Hey's marriage her younger brother, Adolph Korn, was a captive among the Indians. He had been stolen by savages in Llano county at the age of 12. Twelve years later, he was exchanged for an Indian captive. "Adolph," said Mrs. Hey, "lived with us several years after his release from the Indians, but throughout his life he retained many of the habits and customs of the Indians. Always restless, he would sometimes take up his gun, leave home and be gone for days in the woods. When he came back he said little about where he had been; nor would he tell us much about his life while with the Indians."

At the outbreak of war between the few men left behind had to guard the settlements against Indian forays. All the soldiers, formerly stationed at Fort Mason, had been transferred to other points. We had to eat careless weeds and lambsquarter (native wild greens of the frontier) which were gathered and cooked the same as turnip greens. Our only bread for months was cornbread. Supper for us children was usually a bowl of mush without milk or cream. There was a little wheat flour now and then at San Antonio and Austin, but the price was almost prohibitive and it had to be hauled through the hills to Mason by wagon freight. Sometimes Indians would waylay the freighters, kill them and loot the contents of the wagons.

Eked Out Bare Existence

"Wild game was plentiful in the woods and on the prairies—bear, deer and turkey—but seldom could a man be spared to hunt the game. All men, and there were mighty few, had to guard us himself, which she prized highly, but later it was stolen and has not been recovered.

"Gen. Lee was a noble character, a fine gentleman, and liked by everybody in Mason," declared Mrs. Hey. "While he commanded Fort Mason the Indians let us alone."

With mental faculties unimpaired, Mrs. Hey can recall dates and events readily. She keeps busy most of the time, and her hobby is fancy needlework. All through the house are beautiful bedspreads, table covers and quilts made by this remarkable pioneer woman.

Mrs. Hey is an optimist and expects to live to celebrate her 100th birthday. She eats well, sleeps well, and does not worry. "The world has been kind to me," said Mrs. Hey. "My children, grand-children and great-grand-children vie with one another in doing something to please me. The Lord also has been good to me; has let me live a long and useful life. I have trusted Him and if more of us trusted the Lord we would be happier and get along much better."

MRS. WILSON HEY,
Mason, Texas.

"Suddenly Indians came riding out of the brush."

North and South, Mr. Hey joined the Confederacy and fought until captured and imprisoned at Memphis, Tenn. He almost died of fever while in prison.

"During the war," Mrs. Hey recalls, "it was a struggle with pioneer families to get enough food to eat. Most of the men were at the front fighting and the women and children from roving bands of Indians. We just eked out a bare existence and prayed to God that our husbands, sons and sweethearts would some day come home from the war."

Mrs. Hey cherishes the memory of Robert E. Lee. While commander of Fort Mason he gave her a portrait of

Interesting Things About Big Bend

By LEO A. McCLATCHY
U. S. Dept. of the Interior, National Park Service.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Home Color Print Co.)

An area in the Big Bend section of Texas and Mexico, greater than that of the Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona, is under consideration by the governments of the United States and Mexico as an international park.

A joint commission of the two nations has just concluded a survey of the region and outlined temporary boundaries of approximately 1,500,000 acres in Texas and the Mexican States of Chihuahua and Coahuila. Tentatively, the name agreed upon is the Big Bend International Park, a name taken from the big bend of the Rio Grande river.

The plan contemplates creation of an international park of 800,000 acres in Texas and 700,000 acres in Mexico lying on either side of the Rio Grande in a solid body, and to be connected by bridges across the river. Each area would be under the administration of its respective government, with access to the citizens of both countries. An international park thus created, it is believed, would bring Texas and Mexico into closer friendly relations.

Officially Recognized
Of the 800,000 acres in Texas, approximately 150,000 acres is State owned land. The balance, privately owned, might be acquired for an estimated amount of $2,000,000. All of this land would have to be ceded by Texas to the Federal government, in order to carry out national park requirements. Congress has already passed legislation, authorizing creation of the Big Bend National Park, when the 1,500,000 acres are available.

Most of the 700,000 acres of land on the Mexican side of the river is also privately owned, but members of the Mexican Commission report that it could be acquired by their government at a nominal figure, or by exchange.

The Big Bend country is that portion in Southwest Texas surrounded on three sides by a bend of the Rio Grande, forming a horseshoe curve that sweeps south about 100 miles and east and west about 150 miles, in the counties of Brewster and Presidio. It is the last of the old frontier and is uninhabited with exception of a few ranches and mining camps. Big Bend is a rugged section covered by the Chisos and Santiago mountain ranges. Mount Emory, the highest peak of the Chisos, is 7,635 feet above sea level. Next highest is Lost Mine mountain, 7,550 feet. This mountain gets its name from the legend that several hundred years ago Spaniards worked a mine in this mountain that yielded rich ores of gold and silver. For many years repeated efforts have been made to locate this lost mine, but so far without success on the part of searchers.

Famed for Scenic Grandeur

There are two small quicksilver mining camps in the Big Bend named

Where a curve of the Rio Grande forms the Big Bend.

Terlingua and Study Butte. These two mines are said to supply almost 50 per cent of the quicksilver of the United States.

The Big Bend section is noted for scenic grandeur. Nowhere in America are more picturesque peaks, gorges and valleys. It is here that the Rio Grande cuts through three walled canyons—the Santa Helena, Mariscal and Boquilla—sheer cliffs of sandstone rising 2,000 feet above the river bed, and the river water that rushes through narrow Santa Helena canyon gorge has been likened to the rapids below Niagara Falls.

The most spectacular view on the American side is from the south rim of the Chisos mountains, until recently almost inaccessible, but now a rugged horse-trail has been completed by a Civilian Conservation Corps working under supervision of the National Park Service and the Texas State Park Board. The view from the highest Chisos peak, looking down the river and over into Mexico, is sublimely beautiful. As a unit of the national park system, the Big Bend would soon arouse nationwide interest.

The scenery on the Mexican side of Big Bend is comparable to that on the American side, with "Sierra Del Negro," highest peak in the Fronterizas group, attaining an altitude of almost 10,000 feet.

Explored by Noted Geologists

Carroll H. Wegemann, formerly of the U. S. Geological Survey, and a leading geologist, says that "the Big Bend National Park, when established, will be recognized as one of the outstanding geological laboratories and classrooms of the world."

Dr. Charles N. Gould, regional geologist of the National Park Service, while exploring the Big Bend found specimens of petrified trees six feet in diameter and forty feet in length. Probably the largest hot spring on this continent is in the Big Bend, near the Rio Grande. Its authentic flow is 680,000 gallons daily, with a temperature of 114 Fahrenheit.

Wild life of the region is abundant. These animals include deer, coyote, black bear, antelope, mountain sheep, Mexican cougar, lynx, badger, peccary, gray fox, civet cat, beaver, rabbits, squirrels and raccoons. The commoner birds include quail, dove, pigeon, roadrunner, owl, hawk, eagle, raven, cardinal, flycatcher, wren, warbler, oriole, lark and finch. Winterbird visitors include duck, plover, snipe, coot, crane, avocet, and occasionally swan and pelicans.

The forest in the Chisos mountains is still virgin—Douglas spruce, pine, juniper, oak and hackberry predominating. Climatic conditions of the Big Bend usually are mild. There may be a light snowfall in the mountains each winter, but not sufficient to prevent year-round outings. Mid-summer nights are clear and delightfully cool.

Texas vacationists who want to see something different—something grand and imposing—should not fail to visit the Big Bend.

Drouth Couldn't Bluff This Co-Ed

MISS Joan Zollman, 28-year-old co-ed at Southwest State Teachers' College, Oklahoma, made up her mind not to be licked by the depression nor bluffed by the drouth of 1935. Because of this resolve she has made an outstanding success in more than one undertaking.

For twelve years Miss Zollman has successfully operated her farm near Elk City, Okla. She has won more 4-H club medals than any five western Oklahoma girls, and all this while supporting an invalid mother and a younger brother. She also has made enough money to provide for herself and her brother a college education. July 25th last year she received a bachelor of arts degree, having finished college in three years as an honor student.

In 1935, despite drouth and business depression, Miss Zollman produced 12 bales of cotton and made a profit of $1,200 from a 70-acre tract. She also canned more than 100 bushels of fruits and vegetables including apricots, peaches, peas, apples, berries, tomatoes, beans, pumpkin, corn, etc., and put them up in her cellar. If you are anything on the farm, you can't be bluffed out of it in cans for the family to eat.

Won 4 Prizes

While a member of the 4-H club, Miss Joan won 43 individual prizes on canned fruits and vegetables at the Beckham county fair in one season. She took the blue ribbon on canned peaches against 63 entries. She was sophomore in high school when her father died, in 1923, and at the close of the term she stayed away from school for one year, finishing in 1925. She was ambitious to enter college, but blood poisoning, suddenly contracted by her mother, frustrated efforts in this direction.

It is not "just luck" that brought success to Miss Zollman, but energy plus close attention to detail. Soon after her father's death she took charge of 60 acres of the home farm and has cultivated that amount of land ever since. Miss Zollman can do carpenter work and do it well. She helped build a 3-room annex to the family home and an additional 3-room house. That was in 1923 and 1926. Since then she has built a brooder house, a tool shed, a chicken shed, all by herself, besides erecting a small barn for the rent house and painting the home.

Kept Up Morale

Miss Zollman's mother died in February, 1933. This was unexpected and a severe blow, but it didn't break down her morale. She was soon working harder than ever, scrubbing, sewing, making bread, washing, ironing and cooking as well as supervising work about the farm.

From 1925 to 1932 she made a good deal of money, saved it and bought machinery, mules and made other improvements on the farm. She now owns four good mules, five cows and some heifers and calves. In addition, she owns 205 chickens, most of them pure breeds. Ten stands of bees provide honey the year round.

Miss Zollman is an advocate of diversified farming. Every year she plants cotton, corn, kaffir, cane, sweet clover and a garden. She makes practically all her own clothing, repairs and overhauls the truck and farm implements, and sees that everything around the farm is always in good shape. This 4-H club girl loves farm work and looks upon farming as a highly specialized business as well as a vocation.

Her rules for success are: "Contentment of mind. Learn to like your work, whatever it may be, then put heart and soul into it. Grow enough fruits and vegetables to fill the cellar. If you haven't an orchard, plant one. Make some use of everything raised on the farm—it's worth dollars and cents to you."

CURRENT (EDITORIAL) COMMENT

By Homer M. Price

Marshall, Texas.

The Second Money Crop

IT MAY surprise some of us to know that cotton seed is next to cotton lint in value of all Southern products. Its value is shown by the importation last year of 2,262,735,068 pounds of vegetable oils, chiefly to take the place of cotton seed oil. As these oils sell at an average of 8 cents a pound, it means that a normal crop of cotton would have brought an additional $171,018,805 to the South through increased yields of cotton seed.

Tariff Not So Helpful

We have a tariff on these imported oils, but apparently not high enough to keep down imports. And it would be folly to raise the tariff sufficiently to shut out imports, for if the South cannot furnish the material for cooking oils then the United States must look to Japan and other countries for the oils the South has been producing. A higher tariff would increase the cost of food, thereby not helping the cotton farmer to any great extent, and there is a demand for every pound of cotton seed he can produce.

What a Yankee Says

An article in a magazine by a Connecticut Yankee said that if cotton would grow in New England the farmers there could throw away the lint and yet make money on the seed and its by-products. Japan imports cotton seed from India and China, extracts oil therefrom and sends us hundreds of millions of pounds of this oil yearly.

A Lesson

There is a lesson in all this for the Southern cotton farmer. The time will surely come when government bonus checks will cease, but until that time does come any warning seems as one "crying in the wilderness."

Who Owns the Earth?

The conquering of Ethiopia by Italy and making it an Italian province has brought to the front the fact that four countries—England, the United States,

France and Russia own 57 per cent of all the land on earth. It is because of this that Germany, Japan and Italy are restless, discontented and ready to go to war to obtain additional territory for their surplus population. Thus all talk of peace is as "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal." This country stands alone as wanting no other country's territory, but in the confused situation we should be prepared to defend ourselves against the aggression of any or all nations. China and Ethiopia are living examples of nations that wanted peace, yet were unable to defend themselves against more powerful nations.

The G-Men

The government G-Men have been gathering them in. One week in May four of the most noted criminals in America were captured—Maham, Karpis, Robinson and Campbell—and not a shot fired. They were cowards when confronted by armed men ready to "shoot it out." The government G-Men have almost stopped kidnapping. And now these "bold, bad men" can ponder the rest of their lives in lonely prison cells on the subject of whether or not crime pays. But the lesson is hard to learn by fools who think they are too smart to be caught.

Nineteen Foreign-Born Law Makers

A man born in any foreign country, if a citizen of the United States, can hold any office except the Presidency. Consequently, there are nineteen foreign-born citizens in our national congress. Three are from Germany, three from England, two from Ireland, two from Austria, two from Italy, two from Canada and one each from Scotland, Sweden, Denmark, and one even from Russia.

How Many Unemployed?

How many persons are unemployed in this country? Most unemployment figures are merely guess work. The American Federation of Labor puts the number of unemployed at 12,154,000; the National Industrial Board at 9,649,000, and one other organization at 3,000,000. There are many listed as unemployed who work occasionally, many who have an income and do not have to work, and many more who will not work as long as they can live without it; therefore, it is erroneous to include all these as unemployed. If we take the Federation of Labor figures, we are back where we started in 1932. This is hardly possible.

In Defense of Women

The Prime Minister of England, Stanley Baldwin, comes to the defense of women in a matter that for centuries has been hurled at the fair sex, that is, they "can't keep a secret." Mr. Baldwin was not thinking of trifling bits of gossip that occasionally flit back and forth. He had in mind affairs of State, matters of grave import, which might have been disclosed and thus upset the appicart. He says government leaks occur, sometimes serious leaks, but never has the indiscretion been charged to women, although they knew official secrets that could have caused international complications had they been made public. This statement from so high an authority confirms what I have known for a long time, but lacked courage to express—that the worse gossipers are not the female of the species but the male.

National Advertisers Generous to Centennial

National advertisers have been generous to feature the Texas Centennial in radio broadcasts and in newspaper advertising. This free publicity will have much to do with increasing Centennial attendance from Eastern centers of population. One big national advertiser, the General Foods Corporation, not only gave half of their once-a-week hourly radio program to Texas history in connection with the Centennial, but used large space advertisements in newspapers offering cash prizes and 9x12 color gravure pictures of leading events in Texas history for answers that would best express the devotion, bravery and self-sacrifice of early Texas patriots.

The amount of Centennial publicity so far contributed by national advertisers—purchased direct by the Texas Centennial management—would have cost many thousands of dollars.

Cotton Highways

Texas is to use a large amount of cotton in road-building. The cotton so used is woven into sheets and placed as a binder on roads. That it makes superior road-building material is no longer questioned; it has been thoroughly tested by several States. In South Carolina a road built eight years ago remains in excellent condition. Test roads have been built in Alabama, Mississippi and Texas. It is claimed that about two-thirds the cost of concrete roads and, in many respects, are superior to concrete. Cotton at 10 cents a pound can be used economically for such purpose. Finding new use for cotton may solve a very serious economic problem in the South. Enough cotton sheets have been ordered to build 40 miles of highway in Texas.

A Contemptible Racket

A most contemptible racket has been worked on many aged men and women of Texas who have applied for old age pensions. In my section of the State old negroes are the principal victims. These old folk are approached by persons who claim they can help them to secure pensions, in many cases promising the Townsend Plan of $200 a month. The racketeers have printed literature they read to the old people which misrepresents their ability to secure quick action. The victim is asked to join some sort of an old age pension association, the initiation fee being $3. If the old persons solicited do not have $3 the "agent" takes what money they do have. I know of one case in my county wherein an old negro had but one dime, and the solicitor took that. These unsophisticated old people should be warned against slickers promising to secure pensions for a small cash fee in advance.

Hauptmann's Guilt and the Ransom Money

If there is any doubt of the guilt of Richard Bruno Hauptmann for kidnaping the Lindbergh baby, a statement by J. Edgar Hoover, of the Department of Justice, should go far to dispel the doubt. Mr. Hoover broke his silence on the Lindbergh case to tell a press correspondent that an analysis of Hauptmann's assets accounted for all but $4600 of the $50,000 ransom money. "Reports continually bob up," said Mr. Hoover, "that some of the ransom money was spent here and there, but it is untrue. We know where every dollar of it went except the $4600. None of the ransom money showed up anywhere except in New York City. As to whether he had accomplices, Hauptmann alone could tell. But he was certainly the prime factor in the case."

German Skill

In 1492 it took Columbus nearly three months to cross the Atlantic, while the Zeppelin, "Hindenburg," recently made the crossing in 48 hours, carrying 51 passengers and a crew of 44. The German's apparently are the only people who can successfully build and operate dirigible airships. This country spent $45,000,000 in the construction of the "Macon," the "Akron" and the "Shenandoah," and all of them have crashed. Germany built for us the Los Angeles that has flown more miles than all the other American built ships, and is still serviceable. England built three dirigibles, and all of them went down. The German, Graf Zeppelin, has made 500 voyages from Germany to South America, carrying both passengers and mail.

Italy's Greater Task

Now that Mussolini has conquered Ethiopia, we wonder what he is going to do with it? Italy, in order to make good her claims as a great power, must develop Ethiopia. The real endurance test has just begun. From now on is warfare without glory, heroics without the spotlight. A nation at war is always willing to make sacrifices, endure hardships in order to win, but when war is over and victory sits enthroned—well, that is something else. Mussolini's troubles will be multitudinous. Ethiopia is a poor country, inhabited by poor races of people, dominated by rival chieftains. The climate is no white man's climate, and its doubtful if the Duce can get Italians to live there long enough to develop the country, which so far has shown no great natural resources. It is estimated the war cost Italy $800,000,000, and before order is established it will cost many millions more. With financial budgets depleted, where will Italy get the money to colonize? No white nation has ever colonized in equatorial Africa. A great task now awaits the Facists regime—far greater than conquering those poorly equipped African natives.

Kind Hearts

A random paragraph in last month's "Current Comment" said I had but one pair of galluses for two pair of pants, that some day I hoped to have two pair of galluses for these two pair of pants. Well, my dream came true when the mail brought me, from an anonymous friend, a very fine pair of suspenders. Kind friends make life worth living. Tennyson said much in a few words when he wrote: "Kind hearts are more than coronets."

Serio-Comic Aspect of a Mock Duel

By JOE SAPPINGTON

422 Sedwich Ave., Waco, Texas.
(Copyright, 1936, by the Home Color Print Co.)

ALMOST every town has a half-wit, that is, some harmless fellow who is a little off balance mentally but not insane.

Cave Creek's half-wit was Zeke Holcomb, whose father and mother died when he was a child and who had been reared by a kind-hearted aunt.

Practically everybody liked Zeke and overlooked his eccentric manner. Sometimes he imagined he was on the hot trail of a desperate criminal. The obsession took hold of him at intervals, and when it did he assumed various detective disguises. If the criminal sought were a noted train robber, Zeke would lope around town on an old sway-back pony owned by his aunt, with coat collar turned up, hat pulled down, and wearing black false whiskers. He had a half dozen sets of false whiskers—from dark red to iron gray and coal black. When trailing arch criminals Zeke wore coal black whiskers. His friends, just to humor him, pretended not to recognize him in these various disguises.

While working on cases that, to Zeke, seemed fraught with grave personal risk, he would buckle on a pair of wooden six-shooters he had whittled out of soft pine.

The Town's Smart Aleck

Frank Blake was the town's smart aleck and joke-puller, whom nobody liked in particular because of his conceit and arrogance. One day, while Zeke stood at the corner of Main street disguised as a Pinkerton detective, Blake walked up to Zeke, jerked off his whiskers, stuffed them in his pocket and walked away, laughing derisively.

Among the persons who witnessed the incident was John Clawson, friend of Zeke. John's first impulse was to punch Blake's face, but on second thought he conceived a better way to humiliate him. After disclosing his plan to a few friends of Zeke's, who at once gave it their approval, Clawson went over to Blake's shop, slapped him familiarly on the back and said: "Say, Frank, that stunt of pulling off Zeke Holcomb's whiskers was the funniest thing I ever saw. What do you say that we keep up the fun by a mock duel between you and Zeke?"

Blake fell at once into the trap and readily agreed to the duel, laughing gleefully at the prospect of the fun it would afford him.

Early next morning Blake received a challenge from Zeke, demanding a public apology for profaning his beard, or to meet him on the field of honor. Blake accepted the challenge and set the hour at 4 p. m. that afternoon and the weapons wooden pistols.

Great Crowd Witnesses Duel

The news soon spread over town that a mock duel would be fought at 4 p. m. between Zeke Holcomb and Frank Blake. A great crowd gathered to witness the duel, expecting more or less fun from such a ridiculous event.

Blake arrived late on the dueling ground, walked with a swagger through the crowd, smiling and bowing. He wanted to know if everything was ready for the duel and what arrangements had been made for Zeke's funeral.

"Say, Zeke," he called out, "where do you want me to shoot you? If it's all the same to you I'll shoot you between the eyes like I did the last 'feller' I killed." Very few spectators laughed at Blake's remark, which seemed to puzzle him, for he thought he was the wittiest man in town.

Tom Hudson, acting as master of ceremonies, asked everybody to stand back, except the principals and their seconds, out of range of stray bullets. Blake boasted that when he killed the last three men in duels he had no seconds and would need none to kill Zeke.

"Have you seconds, Zeke," asked the master of ceremonies in a firm tone. "Yes, sir," replied Zeke, "they are Bill Thompson and Uncle Zack Parker, two of my best friends."

"Gentlemen, have you agreed upon the weapons and the distance you are to fight?" inquired Hudson.

"We are to use pistols at ten paces," replied Blake, smiling, "and let's have no delay, for if I must kill Zeke I want to get it over with quickly as possible."

Tom Hudson then stepped off ten paces, placed the duelists back to back, and handed each one a dummy pistol, warning both of them not to turn and fire until he had counted ten.

Just before the count started Zeke said he didn't want to hurt anybody and if Mr. Blake would apologize for pulling off his whiskers he wouldn't kill him.

"Apologize to a crazy nut like you," retorted Blake. "Stand up and fight, you big coward and quit your blubbering."

"All right, Mr. Blake, I'm ready," said Zeke, "but I'm going to use my own gun that I have loaded myself." Whereupon he dropped his dummy pistol and whipped out of his pocket a blue, steel-barreled 45-Caliber revolver and cocked the trigger.

"Please don't shoot, me, Zeke, the whole thing is a joke," pleaded Blake in a husky voice, his knees trembling. "Please, men, don't let him kill me, I'm not ready to die. I'll get down on my knees and apologize to him if he will only spare my life."

"Stand Up and Fight"

"Stand up and fight, you dirty coward," demanded Zeke.

"Why don't you run, you dern fool, before it's too late," yelled a spectator. Immediately Blake darted through the crowd and down a blind alley, Zeke right behind him, firing his 45 as he pursued.

The majority of the crowd (who had been tipped off as to how the duel would come out) roared uproariously and urged Zeke to "get his man."

After Blake emerged from the alley he came to a high plank wall and hesitated, but still hearing shots behind him he cleared the wall with one leap and tore across a field, running so fast that his coat tail stood straight out and fluttered in the breeze. A crowd of small boys followed Blake until he disappeared in the woods, two miles from the scene of the duel.

John Clawson and other friends of Zeke, who planned the mock duel, had coached Zeke how to act and what to say, when to throw down the dummy pistol and bring out the big 45 that they had loaded with blank cartridges.

It was three days after the duel before Blake showed up in town. He opened his shop again but had few customers. Eventually he sold out and left Cave Creek, never to return.

"Asked everybody to stand back out of range of stray bullets."

BRIEF TEXAS NEWS---from Over the State

TEXAS BUILDING GAINS

Building activities in Texas show a very substantial increase over the same period last year, but the gains are credited largely to Centennial preparations. Housing construction shows only about 6 per cent of normal, according to Federal reports.

BOY-GIRL WIN PLACES IN SPEAKING CONTEST

Impromptu speaking prizes, awarded in the State Interscholastic League contest, held at Waco last month, were won by Waco contestants, Richard Hawkins, Waco school boy took first place, and Emma Clare Jones, Waco schoolgirl, took second place.

TOTAL SCHOLASTIC POPULATION

The total scholastic population of Texas in 1934-1935 was 1,560,438. There has been a steady increase in the scholastic population over the last ten years, although there was a drop from 1933-34 to 1934-35, due probably to the strengthening of rules governing the taking of scholastic census in order to prevent padding of rolls.

PIONEER SETTLERS MEET

The seventeenth annual reunion of Taylor County Pioneer Settlers will be held at Buffalo Gap, July 17. Programs for the reunion will include a historical celebration in connection with the Centennial and an Indian pageant. The Texas Centennial Commission has given the pioneer settlers a place on the year's calendar of events.

HOUSTON SHIPS 1,500,000 BALES OF COTTON

1,500,000 bales of cotton shipped during the year 1936 was the record of the port of Houston up to May. For the same period last year, the quantity was 1,170,399 bales. Receipts for the 1935-36 season to date total 1,702,521 bales, compared with 1,061,899 to even date last year.

TO EXPORT PECANS

Exporting of pecans from Texas to foreign countries has been approved by the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture, according to H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, president of the Texas Agricultural Association, which adopted the program as suggested by pecan growers. Purpose is to reduce the surplus of the 1936 crop. Exports will be restricted to a limited quantity of nuts.

155 CARLOADS OF ROSE PLANTS

Approximately 155 full carloads of rose plants were shipped from Tyler, Texas, rose gardens during the winter season of 1935-1936. An area in fifty miles of Tyler produces over one-third of the world's rose plants, says the Tyler Chamber of Commerce.

TEXAS SCHOOLS GET $3,000,000

Release of warrants on public school funds to the amount of $3,000,000, representing $2.00 per capita, brought the total apportionment up to $15.00, late last month. The total for this year will be $18.50 per capita, the largest in the State's history. The remainder will be paid in July.

GEN. CASTRILLION'S UNMARKED GRAVE

The irony of fate was meted out to Gen. Castrillon who was killed in the Battle of San Jacinto. Castrillon, a Spaniard and able soldier, planned and led in person the assault of the Mexican army against the Alamo March 6, 1836. Buried near the San Jacinto battlefield, his grave, unmarked for a century, was recently identified.

PIONEER JUBILEE

The Cottle-King County Pioneer Jubilee, featuring the Centennial, was held at Paducah, May 26th, with hundreds of pioneers participating in a huge parade. Many chuck wagons from near-by ranches were entered as well as old-fashioned buggies and other vehicles. Women rode horses on side saddles. Prizes were awarded the best floats in the parade.

RANCHMAN KILLS MOUNTAIN LION

It is unusual for a mountain lion to range so far north as Palo Pinto county (West Central Texas). J. C. Howard shot and killed the lion, which measured 6 feet, 5 inches, near his ranch in Palo Pinto county, May 15. The animal charged Howard after being wounded, but fortunately was caught and held by hunting dogs until he could reload and shoot again. This lion marauded the ranges and had killed many sheep and goats owned by Howard.

TEXAS HAS 3,500 CITIES, TOWNS AND COMMUNITIES

There are approximately six hundred incorporated towns in Texas, (the number changes rapidly). There are about 3,500 cities, towns and communities. This includes all communities down to the crossroads store. There are 47-club organizations in Texas. The number of clubs is about 4,700.

BURGLAR'S LOOT—ONE NICKEL

One nickel was all the loot obtained by a burglar who entered the residence of H. C. Miller, 2521 Homan Avenue, Waco, by unlatching a rear screen. The nickel was taken from a purse belonging to Miller's daughter. Nothing else apparently was missing.

BIDS ON $2,800,000 ROAD CONTRACTS

The State Highway Commission called for bids June 10 and 11 on projects estimated at $2,800,000, which makes an approximate total of $7,000,000 in proposals already called for during the first eleven days of May.

PREDATORY WILD DOG CAPTURED

Fred Reynolds, on the Bishop ranch, near Segovia, (Southwest Texas), captured a wild dog that had preyed on livestock. It is estimated that the dog had killed over 200 head of sheep and goats in the past four months. Ranchmen in that vicinity had subscribed a bounty of $60 for the killer, dead or alive. Although he had been sighted and shot at, Reynolds caught the dog in a trap set with wolf bait.

RUG WOVEN ON HOME-MADE SPINNING WHEEL

S. H. Huntington, of Waco, displayed a wool rug which he made from raw wool after spinning it into yarn himself on a home-made bicycle-wheel spinning device. Five pounds of wool in the grease was reduced to about two pounds in cleaning. The rug measured two by three feet, weighed two pounds, and was in natural black and white colors.

REYNOSA-MONTERREY HIGHWAY

Joining up Texas highways with a net-work of Mexican Federal highways is in prospect with the work on the Reynosa-Monterrey division. Work is being pushed on this Mexican highway, and soon it will offer American tourists an outlet to all of the show places of Old Mexico.

VALUES WALKING CANE AT $1,200

G. E. Dunn, 83-year-old pioneer of Granbury, Hood county, has a walking cane which he values at $1,200. It is made of cedar and has on it 94 pieces of gold, contributed by friends, in the form of finger rings, lockets, etc. Among the pieces of gold is a locket lid more than 150 years old and a cuff link worn by Mr. Dunn 63 years ago.

BETTER ROADS FOR OLD WASHINGTON-ON-THE-BRAZOS

As a result of the efforts of State Senator Albert Stone, of Brenham, the State Highway Commission will take over construction on roads in the State park at old Washington-on-the-Brazos and will also help maintain the roads. It is expected that work will start in the very near future on converting the roads inside the park into permanent State highways.

MEXICANS WHO AIDED IN THE WAR FOR INDEPENDENCE

The story of Mexican-born citizens who took the side of Texas revolutionists in the war for independence has been compiled by Ruben Rendon Lozano, of San Antonio (Southern Literary Institute) under the title, "Viva Tejas," a little booklet of 50 pages. The book contains the names of 80 Mexicans who aided the colonists in their fight for independence.

SHEEP MEN REJOICE OVER HEAVY RAINS

The sheep men of Southwest Texas are highly jubilant over the bountiful rains which have fallen throughout the sheep-raising belt around San Angelo and Kerrville. It is estimated that the lamb crop will exceed that of previous years; prices for mutton lambs are good. Last year feeder lambs sold at from 6 1/2 cents to 9 1/2 cents a pound. Prospects are favorable for good prices this year.

FISHERMAN'S PARADISE

Down on the Mexican coast, south of Brownsville, come tales of some wonderful catches by Texas fishermen. The place known as the "Fifth River"

TEXANS REPAY DROUTH LOANS

Texas ranchmen have repaid more than $1,500,000 of their drouth relief loans made by the Farm Credit Administration. Nearly $7,000,000 was loaned to Texas ranchmen and farmers, of the funds appropriated by Congress in 1934. Loans due last November are now in process of collection.

TEXAS WOOL CROP 62,000,000 POUNDS

The wool crop of Texas for 1936 is estimated at 62,000,000 pounds, of which 55,000,000 is 12 months and 7,000,000 pounds 8 months wool. Recent prices have been as high as 32 1/2 cents a pound, but average price for 1935 was between 24 and 25 cents a pound.

TEXAS BONUSHOLDERS NUMBER 148,771

There are 148,771 bonusholders in Texas who should receive, beginning June 15, a total of $83,696,221, as a result of the Federal government issuing bonds to veterans of the World War. Six out of seven veterans have already borrowed money against their bonus certificates. The new bonds bear 3 per cent interest for ten years.

TEXAS MINERAL WEALTH ON EXHIBIT

Texas is second only to Pennsylvania in mineral wealth, but sources of available supply of untapped mineral wealth indicate that in the very near future Texas will be first. An exhibit of undeveloped resources will be displayed at the Texas Centennial in Dallas this summer. It will show marbles, dolomites, granites and other building stones, according to the committee on the Natural Resources Exhibit. It is proposed to make the exhibit permanent, in the hope of further developing these great sources of Texas' natural wealth.

THE LONE STAR FLAG OF TEXAS

The Wichita Falls Record-News wants to know, "when, where and by whom was the Lone Star flag of Texas adopted?"

The Texas Almanac of 1861 contained the following information about the Lone Star Flag of Texas:

"It is universally believed in Georgia, that the flag of the Lone Star was the work of Miss Troutman, of Crawford county, Georgia, now Mrs. Pope, of Alabama; and by her presented to the Georgia battalion (commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Ward) just before its departure for Texas."
"It was of plain white silk, bearing an eight-pointed star, with a white silk on the center."

... and down the road they went hand in hand. Up hill and down into the vale through time and tide gaily they traveled.

One day the maiden felt a tiny hand in her hand, and there was the child of their love drawing the two closer.

"Oh, my love," whispered the youth, "now there is more to live for."

The maiden sang a lullaby as they went along.

By and by more little hands clung to her hands and tiny fingers gripped her heart. There were so many stones on the road now and briars clutched at her skirts. The sun was overshadowed with fast moving clouds and the maiden was now a woman. There were so many little hands and so many things to do over and over that she never realized just when she let go of the hand of her lover-husband.

On and on she trudged, then the rain began to fall and the road was slippery and she fell under her burden.

"Youth," she cried, "where are you? Help me."

But there was no answer, only the crying of her children.

It was then she saw she had taken the wrong road and that her hand and those of her little children should hold fast to the hand of Youth and Faith who had been her mate.

"I can't go back," she cried, "that is the law of the road. Once traveled there is no returning. But I will go on and perhaps who knows our paths may meet again. I have learned my lesson."

As the woman who had been the maiden said this—the clouds rolled away and behold on the other side of the road was her husband.

"Oh, my beloved!" she cried, "take my hand and the hands of the little ones. It is only together we can walk this road, helping each other over the stones and removing the briars from the flesh of each other."

"Yes, together, only together can we succeed. I, too, found the path empty and hard without you. Come let us go on—it is only a little while when the little ones will be the maiden and the youth and they must find new roads and blaze new paths to happiness. Would that we might leave signs along the road of life to guide," the father and husband replied.

"That is not possible, my love," said the chastened mother. "Each must find the way alone. But we will tell them of the pitfalls and hold their hands as far as we can."

Now we see them near the end of the road. They are standing on the top of a hill that has been steep and hard to climb. Look, they are alone. At the foot of the hill there are many roads all leading away in different directions. These are the roads of their children.

At last we see an old couple, that had been the maiden and the youth, clasped in each others arms. They are looking back over the road they had traveled. Now they turn again facing the setting sun and hand in hand they start down the last long hill TOGETHER.

1 to 1 1/2 cup pecan meats, coarsely chopped
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix the above ingredients, adding the pecans last. Pour into a standard size pie pan or into an 8-inch square shallow pan. Place in a hot oven (350 degree F.) for about 15 minutes, then reduce the oven to a low heat (325 degree F.) and bake until the filling is firm. This will require about 30 minutes. After about 45 minutes, insert a silver knife blade into the filling; the pie is done when the blade comes out clean; continue baking until the test proves successful. Cool slowly. Slice this in a rich pie serve it in small pieces.

As our story opens we find the chosen people of God in the land of the Midianites. God had delivered the Hebrews from Egyptian bondage, but they disobeyed His commands and turning to their own lusts, had taken in their midst the wor-and bread on a rock; which Gideon did. Then the angel put forth the end of his staff and at once a fire arose and consumed the offering. Afterward, the angel departed out of his sight.

Gideon now realized he had actually talked with an angel of the Lord, and great fear fell upon him.

II.

The first task God assigned Gideon was to throw down the altar of Baal, cut the wooded grove beside it and build an altar unto the Lord. Gideon feared his father's household and the men of the city, so he secretly did this task by night. Slaying a bullock, Gideon cast down the altar, cut the grove and offered the bullock as a sacrifice to the true God.

In the morning when the people beheld what Gideon had done they were very angry and demanded that he be killed. But his wise old father told the people, "if Baal be a true God let him punish Gideon."

At the command of God Gideon began to rally all the men from far and near. However, he wanted to be sure he was called to deliver Israelites from the Midianites, therefore he asked God for further proof of the power to do this thing. He made a test by placing fleece upon the floor and asking God to send dew upon the wool and not upon the floor. In the morning Gideon was able to wring a bowl full of water out of the fleece while the floor remained dry. This miracle removed all doubt from Gideon's mind that God had chosen him to lead his people to victory.

Gideon's movements were now swift and decisive. He gathered a great army ready to march against the Midianites. But God knew that too many people are hard to manage, so he had Gideon send away 22,000 men. This left 10,000 men for the army. Still God told him to further reduce the number.

At God's command, Gideon led the men under him to water; those that drank hurriedly were set to one side and those that got down on their knees to drink were placed in a special group. Of the men that drank hurriedly there were three hundred, and Gideon knew they were the ones God had chosen to go with him to deliver Israel from the Midianites.

The battle of these three hundred men against the Midianites was the most unique in history. So small a number could not have won had not God helped them in His own way. Gideon divid-

ICED COFFEE TIME MEANS Admiration

On a sweltering day in June, or at any time during the Summer, there's nothing more refreshing than a tall glass of iced coffee... especially if it is Admiration Coffee.

To make the perfect iced coffee anywhere in the South where ice melts rapidly, make the brew double-strength—that is, use twice as much ground coffee as you use for hot coffee. And remember that you use less Admiration per cup than is necessary with any other brand. Admiration has more "punch."

CONTROL OF PREDATORY ANIMALS

One of the biggest jobs entrusted to the Bureau of Biological Survey, Department of Agriculture, is the control of predatory animals and rodents. Wolves, bears, panthers, prairie dogs and ground squirrels are so classed. Rodents alone are said to cost our farmers about $500,000,000 a year. The survey has now eradicated rats from thousands of acres of public and private lands.

Hunters in the service frequently risk their lives. One in Arizona shot a charging grizzly bear which dropped almost at his feet. In Wyoming another had a similar experience, the bear in this case being an old raider in the habit of tearing up camps for bacon and sugar.

The survey employs many hunters and trappers in Texas.

swear and down the road they went hand in hand. Up hill and down into the vale through time and tide gayly they traveled.

One day the maiden felt a tiny hand in her hand, and there was the child of their love drawing the two closer.

"Oh, my love," whispered the youth, "now there is more to live for."

The maiden sang a lullaby as they went along.

By and by more little hands clung to her hands and tiny fingers gripped her heart. There were so many stones on the road now and briars clutched at her skirts. The sun was overshadowed with fast moving clouds and the maiden was now a woman. There were so many little hands and so many things to do over and over that she never realized just when she let go of the hand of her lover-husband.

On and on she trudged, then the rain began to fall and the road was slippery and she fell under her burden, "where are you? Help me."

But there was no answer, only the crying of her children.

It was then she saw she had taken the wrong road and that her hand and those of her little children should hold fast to the hand of Youth and Faith who had been her mate.

"I can't go back," she cried, "that is the law of the road. Once traveled there is no returning. But I will go on and perhaps who knows our paths may meet again. I have learned my lesson."

As the woman who had been the maiden said this—the clouds rolled away and behold on the other side of the road was her husband. "Oh, my beloved!" she cried, "take my hand and the hands of the little ones. It is only together we can walk this road, helping each other over the stones and removing the briars from the flesh of each other."

"Yes, together, only together can we succeed. I, too, found the path empty and hard without you. Come let us go on—it is only a little while when the little ones will be the maiden and the youth and they must find new roads and blaze new paths to happiness. Would that we might leave signs along the road of life to guide," the father and husband replied.

"That is not possible, my love," said the chastened mother. "Each must find the way alone. But we will tell them of the pitfalls and hold their hands as far as we can."

Now we see them near the end of the road. They are standing on the top of a hill that has been steep and hard to climb. Look, they are alone. At the foot of the hill there are many roads all leading away in different directions. These are the roads of their children.

At last we see an old couple, that had been the maiden and the youth, clasped in each other's arms. They are looking back over the road they had traveled. Now they turn again facing the setting sun and hand in hand they start down the last long hill TOGETHER.

TESTED RECIPE

Pecan Pie
8 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup EARO corn syrup
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 lb. 1 cup praline meats, cracked, chopped
1 teaspoon vanilla
Mix the above ingredients, adding the pecans last. Pour into a standard pie pan or into an 8-inch square shallow pan. Bake in a hot oven (350 degree F.) for about 15 minutes, then reduce the oven to a low heat (250 degree F.) and bake until the filling is firm. This will require about 45 minutes. After about 40 minutes, insert a silver knife blade into the filling; the pie is done when the blade comes out clean; continue baking until the test proves successful. Cool slowly. About 1800 cars of onions have been shipped from the Laredo area so far this season. Prices were very low.

May 1st crop report of Department of Agriculture estimates Texas peach crop this season at 840,000 bushels, compared with 1,891,000 bushels last year.

Henry Pepper, well known Victoria county farmer, who lives near Victoria, says efforts to produce rust-proof oats, wheat and flax in that section apparently have proved successfully.

The Alvin Dairy Herd Testing Association, organized in the fall of 1935 in Brazoria county, has shown benefits in various ways to each of its members since the first month of existence.

The Weimar Future Farmers of America, under their leader, M. R. Henslee, Weimar vocational agricultural teacher, purchased 10 Hereford calves for experimental projects.

There are nine egg-processing plants in Texas. The list of products turned out by these plants in season include frozen eggs, dried eggs, dried yolk, dried albumen, powdered eggs and flacked eggs.

A recent report of the Waller county farm agent, J. V. Bush, states that the Waller county demonstrators have been seeding small plots of improved grasses and clovers for the past three years with good results.

William Edward McDaniel, 13-year-old son of W. C. McDaniel, of the Sodville community near Sinton, (South Texas), and pupil of the seventh grade, is owner of a Hereford calf that has gained 50 pounds in 16 days, an average of 3 1/4 pounds per day. The calf was fed scientifically under the supervision of H. W. Gist, head of the vocational agriculture department of Sinton high school.

East Texas tomato crop has turned out better than expected, due to timely rains. Last year Troup, principal tomato shipping point for East Texas, loaded out 150 cars.

The East Texas fruit crop was not so badly damaged by the late freezes as first reported. Inspection of orchards in leading fruit counties show a fair yield in prospect. Old trees are expected to yield the best crop.

Pleased with results of last year's terracing, D. B. Kirk, of the Holt community in Hutchinson county, has terraced an additional 110 acres this spring, and has sown it to barley and spring wheat. He plans to terrace more land as soon as the wheat is harvested this summer.

Terracing has been done in 220 of the 254 counties of the State, according to M. L. Bentley, extension agricultural engineer, College Station. Checking out possible duplications due to the need of re-terracing considerable acreage, Bentley estimates conservatively that some seven million acres either are terraced or contoured or both, at this time.

A consolidated county fair will result from the merged forces of Tarrant county Agricultural Agent, M. C. Counts, and the home demonstration club directors; it was decided at a late meeting of the Arlington Civic League. To be held early in September, this fair will climax the community fairs of the county estimated at 20 to 25. Choice exhibits of each of these fairs, including livestock, poultry, farm products, canned goods, home decoration, and sewing will be grouped for a consolidated showing. The county membership in such clubs is about 4,700.

Production of tomatoes in the Lower Rio Grande Valley this year is the largest in history, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The yield is placed at better than 1,062,000 bushels, or approximately twice the production last year. The acreage is 12,500 against 8,300 last year.

The high school judging teams, of Richland Springs, San Saba county, won the sweepstakes trophy over teams from 58 high schools in the State high school Future Farmers judging contests held at North Texas Agricultural College at Arlington last month. A total of 800 boys were present for the contests; 590 entered the competition.

Belief that the Federal government would aid onion growers by the purchase of 3,000 cars or more at 75¢ a sack was expressed at a meeting of growers at Laredo last month. Congressman Milton West wired them encouragement to this effect, and the meeting went on record as favoring the plan.

The drought of early spring is causing an increased planting of feed crops throughout the State, since the heavy rains early in May. Farmers have signed up in many counties for increased acreage of pinto beans, blackeye peas, melons, and other late vegetables and food crops. Nothing short of a severe summer drought will prevent a crop of food and feed this year. Prospects are most encouraging.

A $100,000 business has resulted from the hobby of a Houston oil man of growing fine mushrooms. R. E. Breeding has a growing crop of that value at Alameda, 12 miles south of Houston. He has experimented with numerous varieties since childhood, when he used to gather wild mushrooms around his home. His is one of the outstanding successes of its kind in the Southwest.

A former cattle country gone to strawberries, onions and spinach, is the story of Crystal City, Carrizo Springs, and Quemado districts of South Texas.

More than 70,000 youths are employed in Texas in the CCC camps with a pay roll of $2,000,000. Some of their most valuable work have been in the forests of East Texas.

Future Farmer boys sold home-bred and home-fed baby beehives to the Wills Point meat market for 10 1/4 to 12 1/2 cents per pound. For each pound of gain the calves consumed eight pounds of feed.

The members of the temporary board of the State Soil Conservation allotment service are Geo. G. Chance, Bryan; Geo. Slaughter, Wharton; A. H. Montgomery, Darrouzett, and A. L. Trousedale, Houston.

The Crockett Sale and Show will be held July 2, 3 and 4, this year, at Crockett. This is the ninth annual sale. The sale is a regular annual feature of the sheep industry. About 800 head of fine rams are expected to be offered for sale.

The first tomato carnival and festival for Van Zandt county will be held at Edgewood June 25, 26 and 27. A large parade of floats representing civic organizations will feature the carnival.

Run-off experiments gauged with accuracy have been under way at the Spur Experiment Station, Spur, Texas, for years and these have shown that a good stand of buffalo grass greatly retards the run-off of rainwater. Further experiments have shown that contour furrowing of pasture lands greatly increase the amount of rainwater, which is held where it falls, therefore contributing to a better soil and improved grazing.

General rains in May has substantially changed the year's outlook for a large part of Texas. Before rain came, drought endangered the livestock industry and threatened prospects of all field crops. Some sections of the State received the best rainfall since 1932.

Revised estimates of the U. S. Department of Agriculture places the Texas cotton crop harvested in 1935 at 2,956,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. Average lint yield per acre was 133 pounds. Total Texas cotton production in 1934 were 2,401,000 bales.

A cheerful kitchen makes a cheerful cook, believes Mrs. F. B. Perry, kitchen co-operator for the West Home Demonstration club, near Waco, who has repapered the wall and built a hood over her stove to carry out smoke from the burners, disagreeable odors and steam from cookings.

Texas has on its ranges about four-fifths of the Angora goats of the United States and produces approximately four-fifths of the mohair. Total number of all goats and kids in Texas up to January 1, 1935, were 2,810,000, with estimated value of $6,744,000. Sheep and lambs in Texas January 1, 1936, numbered 7,992,000 with value of $40,327,000.

A. C. Schreiner, Jr., Kerrville merchant and ranch owner, reported better than 95 per cent lamb crop on his Bundy-Ross Ranch, and said lambs were in good flesh with grass greening up after good rains.

W. B. Mitchell, livestock producer of Marfa, believes packing plants should be built along the Gulf Coast to solve the problem of exports and cheap transportation by water of meat to the Atlantic seaboard.

Thousands of Chinese elms and honey locusts trees have been planted on an 8-acre tract at Texas Tech College, Lubbock, to be transplanted later on in the South Plains in the government's effort to reduce soil erosion.

Yellow vegetables, such as carrots, cushaws and pumpkins, contain carotinoids which are almost insoluble in water, and should be cooked in a small amount of water in a steamer or covered vessel, says members of Highland Home Demonstration Club, of McLennan county.

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS:

It has been a great pleasure to know that so many have liked the "True Stories From the Bible." These stories are based on the St. James version of the Bible, are true to Biblical facts and told in simple language that children can understand. Words of praise for sunshine members received from Shut-ins should make all of us happy. Summer is with us, but we must still work hard to make the Sunshine Club a greater success. Wishing health and happiness for each of you, dear friends, I am, Your sincerely, AUNT MARY.

True Stories From the Bible

"Gideon—The Great Judge."

The story of God's people is written in the history of faith, trial and obedience. God continually had a plan for His chosen people, and when they followed the plan they prospered; when they disregarded the plan disaster and failure resulted. "And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord and the Lord delivered them into the hand of Midian seven years. And the hand of Midian prevailed against Israel, and because of the Midianites the children of Israel made themselves dens which are in the mountains, and caves, and strongholds." (Judges 6:1-2). The Hebrew people always have been industrious and thrifty. Since the earliest recorded time they have made two plants grow where one...

ship of Baal, a heathen God,

which was a willful and lustful worship. So God sent punishment, and let them fall under the rule of the Midianites, the Amalekites and the nations to the east swarming over the land of the Israelites, taking from them all their animals and the food, leaving them impoverished.

The only way the Israelites could get anything to eat was to thresh the grain secretly and hide it in the mountains. It was while thus engaged, threshing grain to be hidden, that Gideon, the son of Joash the Abiezrite, saw an angel under an oak tree.

"The Lord is with thee," spoke the angel.

Gideon said unto him, "Oh, if my Lord be with us, why then is all this befallen us?" "Go in this thy might and thou shalt save Israel," again spoke the angel.

Poor Gideon had so little faith that he asked the angel, "How can I save Israel; my family is poor and I am the least in my father's household?"

We thus see Gideon condoning himself with human excuses, doubtful of the grace and power of God. Then God told Gideon that his power should be so great he would smite the Midianites as one man.

Still Gideon hesitated and asked the angel for a sign that God had really called him. He asked the angel to wait while he made ready the customary offering of a kid, unleavened bread, an ephah of flour. The angel tells Gideon to pour out the broth and to lay the flesh...

companies; to each man he gave a trumpet and a lamp concealed in a pitcher. While under cover of darkness the Israelites surrounded the Midian camp. At a signal from Gideon, his men blew their trumpets, crying aloud, "the trumpet of the Lord and of Gideon," while they broke the pitchers and held the lamps high. Such a sudden and unusual attack frightened the Midianites; they became panic-stricken and fled in confusion.

Most of the other Israelites rose up, pursued the fleeing Midianites and killed thousands of them. The victory of Gideon was complete and his people glorified him.

"Rule over us," cried the men of Israel to Gideon.

Gideon said unto them, "I will not rule over you; but the Lord shall rule over you." Thus was Midian subdued and wiped out "before the children of Israel, so that they lifted their heads no more."

For forty years the "chosen people of God" (Israel) remembered their Creator and again prospered. But when Gideon died at a good old age and was buried his people turned to sinful and lustful ways again and made Baal, the heathen idol, their God. "Neither shewed they kindness to the house of Gideon according to the goodness he had shewed unto Israel." (Judges 8:33-35).

(Next month: "The Story of Samson." What story of the Bible would you like best for me to write? Let me know your favorite. Address Aunt Mary, Route 5, Box 179-B, Fort Worth, Texas.)

Nevertheless, your letters are deeply appreciated and when possible I shall try to respond to your requests. Sometimes the many responsibilities weigh heavily on Aunt Mary.

Lots of interesting letters this month. I know all of you are anxious to hear from old friends again. Wish I had space for all the letters.

Aunt Harriet Emigh, Millerton, N. Y., says: "Very few of us really know the obstacles Beulah Lamb (one of our Shut-ins) has been able to overcome. Her spirit is wonderful. While we have corresponded several years it was not until recently I learned of some of her trials and the marvelous way she met them. Truly, we could all learn many lessons from her." Yes, dear Harriet, Beulah is a very fine woman and an inspiration to club members.

Mrs. Beckie Ziegler, Lansdale, Pa., thanks all who have been so kind to her. She adds: "I would so love to write to many in the club, but do not have the postage. Please thank those who are so good to me."

Mrs. C. W. Shaw, Madill, Okla., sends the following: "Our boy, R. C., was operated on twice recently. He is doing as well as can be expected. Letters he has received mean so much to him at this time. He is unable to write himself, but wishes me to express gratitude to all who have been so thoughtful of his welfare."

Mrs. E. A. Rush, Mountain View, Okla., sends in the name of a Shut-in. I am sorry, Mrs. Rush, but I have no record of your sending in a name before. Thank you for a again writing me.

Mrs. W. A. Lewis, Hamilton, Texas, wrote me a lovely letter sometime ago. It was replete with laughter and with tears. Funny how often the two (laughter and tears) go together. Writes she is no longer a "Shut-in," which all of us are glad to know. She concludes with, "I shall always be a shut-out," which means she is deaf and shut-out from the sweet music and laughter of this world.

Mrs. Cora Sluder, Royce City, Texas, says: "I keep all the sunshine cards and letters for Louise and every once in a while I read them again to her and we talk of her dear sunshine friends. I have prayed that she may have some happy days, since she can't be like other children. One day I ran across a page of the Sunshine Club. I can't answer all of the letters for lack of postage, but we do love all of you so much. My heart is full of thanks to everyone who has been so kind to my little girl." Thus, in a few words, you have the picture of a home made happy because of this club's work. We must go on—and on—and on.

Aunt Susan Hughes, Galveston, Texas, writes her usual inspiring letter. Honest, folks, if you have not been one of the fortunate ones to receive a letter from this kind soul you are missing much. To the club she is like the bubbling spring...

few moments of rest under the shade of trees, all our petty cares seemed to vanish. Aunt Susan is like that. When I get "fussed and bothered" with the non-essential things of life, a letter from her revitalizes and restores all true values. Thank you, Aunt Susan.

Mrs. Chas. Debrodt, Jr., Pettus, Texas, calls my attention to the fact that her name has not appeared on the Shut-in list this year. Please forgive me, dear, but it has been an unfortunate oversight for you are surely a member in good standing and much appreciated by the members.

Aunt Agnes Pick, Berkley, California, sends love and best wishes to all. We could hardly get along without Aunt Agnes.

Lucille West, Troup, Texas, sends a lovely letter. She is a close friend to Leon Martin, Troup, Texas. We are proud to have these fine youngsters in our club.

Mrs. M. C. Dancan, Fairy, Texas, sends greetings to everyone and wishes to thank all who are so kind to her.

Mrs. J. W. Walker, Raymondville, Texas, makes us very happy when she writes: "I just want you to know that you have someone praying for you away down in the valley." She goes on further to say about being so busy (just like most of us) and that she plans to take her vacation in heaven. That is a fine thought. I should like to visit this fine woman, and hope I may have the privilege some day. We congratulate Leon Martin, Troup, Texas, for his graduation, May 25th, from Carlisle high school. We are all watching this young man's career with interest; believe he will make a success of life.

Mrs. Lucy Newman, Woodleigh, N. C., writes: "I greet all the club in the name of our Lord, Jesus Christ, as I sit here in my bed where I have been tied hand and foot for twelve years. I do not know why I have been laid aside all these years, but some sweet day I'll understand. I am thankful that I have many blessings, chief among them that I can see the lovely out-of-doors and hear the sweet melody of birds from my shut-in bed." Aunt Mary can add nothing to this beautiful letter.

and bread on a rock; which Gideon did. Then the angel put forth the end of his staff and at once a fire arose and consumed the offering. Afterward, the angel departed out of his sight.

Gideon now realized he had actually talked with an angel of the Lord, and great fear fell upon him.

II.

The first task God assigned Gideon was to throw down the altar of Baal, cut the wooded grove beside it and build an altar unto the Lord. Gideon feared his father's household and the men of the city, so he secretly did this task by night. Slaying a bullock, Gideon cast down the altar, cut the grove and offered the bullock as a sacrifice to the true God.

In the morning when the people beheld what Gideon had done, they were very angry and demanded that he be killed. But his wise old father told the people, "if Baal be a true God let him punish Gideon."

At the command of God, Gideon began to rally all the men from far and near. However, he wanted to be sure he was called to deliver Israelites from the Midianites, therefore he asked God for further proof of the power to do this thing. He made a test by placing fleece upon the floor and asking God to send dew upon the wool and not upon the floor. In the morning Gideon was able to write a bowl full of water out of the fleece while the floor remained dry. This miracle removed all doubt from Gideon's mind that God had chosen him to lead his people to victory.

God's movements were now swift and decisive. He gathered a great army ready to march against the Midianites. But God knew that too many people are hard to manage, so he had Gideon send away 22,000 men. This left 10,000 men for the army. Still God told him to further reduce the number.

At God's command, Gideon led the men under him to water; those that drank hurriedly were set to one side and those that got down on their knees to drink were placed in a special group. Of the men that drank hurriedly there were three hundred, and Gideon knew they were the ones God had chosen to go with him to deliver Israel from the Midianites.

The battle of these three hundred men against the Midianites was the most unique in history. So small a number could not have won had not God helped them in His own way. Gideon divid-

A LITTLE FUN Jokes to Make You Laugh

Tit for Tat

In a crowded street car sat a very thin lady greatly discomfited by the pressure of an extremely fat lady who sat next to her.

Turning to the fat lady, the thin lady remarked, icily: "They should charge by weight on these cars."

Fat lady: "But if they did, dearie, they couldn't afford to stop for you."

What He Didn't Know

Auctioneer: "What am I offered for this beautiful bust of Robert Burns?"

Man in crowd: "That ain't Burns; that's Shakespeare."

Auctioneer: "Well, folks, the joke's on me. That shows what I know about the Bible."

Taking No Chance

Alkali Ike was bothered with stomach trouble, and the foreman of the ranch sent him to Cheyenne to see a certain Dr. Blakely.

Ike returned next day in good spirits and the boss remarked, "The old doctor knows his business, doesn't he?"

"Well, boss," replied Ike, "I looked up that doctor you told me to but there was a sign on his door that said '10 to 1.' I wasn't going to take no such chance as that, so I looked around for better odds; finally I found one that said, 'Dr. Cole, 8 to 5,' so I went to him."

Tracing an Abstract

A Louisiana attorney, retained by an oil company to trace the abstract of a deed, went back to 1803, the year Louisiana was bought from France. The company wrote the lawyer he would have to trace ownership of the land farther back than that, which he did in due time, reporting by letter as follows:

"Dear Sirs: I traced your deed back to 1803, but here it is complete from 1803: As you probably know, Louisiana was purchased from France in 1803. France had acquired Louisiana from the Spanish as the result of a successful war against the Spaniards. The Spaniards acquired Louisiana as the result of the explorations of an Italian named Columbus. Columbus was financially backed by Isabella and Ferdinand. Isabella and Ferdinand were given permission for Columbus' expedition by the Pope. The Pope is the vicar of Christ. Christ is the Son of God. God made Louisiana."

Little Eric's Answer

A rather stout schoolmistress was talking to the class about birds and their habits.

"Now," she said, "at home I have a canary, and it can do something I cannot do. I wonder if any of you know just what that thing is?"

Little Eric raised his hand. "I know teacher," he said. "Take a bath in a saucer!"

Mere Statement of Fact

The pastor of a negro church pestered the bishop so much in making appeals for help that the bishop wrote him all such appeals would be ignored in the future.

Several months elapsed and one day the bishop received a letter from the struggling pastor. "Dear Bishop," the letter began, "This here ain't no appeal—it's a report. I has no pants."

The Broncho He Didn't Bust

I've busted bronchos off and on
Since first I struck their trail,
And you bet I savvy bronchos
From nostrils down to tail;
But I struck one on Powder Horn,
And say, hands, he was the first
And only living broncho
That your Uncle couldn't bust.

He went so high above the earth
Lights from Jerusalem shone.
Right then we parted company
And he came down alone.
At last I hit old mother earth—
His hard enough to see
A bunch of stars that came along
And danced in front of me.

Disliked Nicknames

William Watkins disliked nicknames. He used to say that most given names were ruined by abbreviations, which was a sin and a shame.

"I, myself," he said, "am one of six brothers. We were all given good, old-fashioned Christian names, but friends shortened our names into slang phrases. I shall name my children so that it will be impossible to curtail their names."

The Watkins family, in time, was blessed with four children, all boys. They were named Wallace, Stuyvesant, Osborne and Waldorf. They are all big boys now, and known to their friends as "Skinny," "Shorty," "Butch" and "Kid."

Buck Johnson's Plea

Marching thirty kilometers at a stretch over shell-torn roads played havoc with the feet of the doughboys in France. And although the doughboys were better shod and clothed than were the soldiers of other lands, it was not an easy matter to get a new uniform or a new pair of shoes before the old ones were worn clear through. Johnson seemed to have a talent for getting things by his ready wit. Buck's soles were thin and his feet were sore. He went to the Supply Sergeant for a new pair of shoes.

"Them hobs are okay—they ain't half worn out," said S. P., when Buck put in his application for a new pair.

"Did you say them hobs is okay?" asked Buck, almost moved to tears.

"That's what I said," snapped the Sergeant.

"Buck continued to push his plea. 'Sure, Sarge,' he admitted, 'them soles ain't wore through yet, but they're so thin that if I step on a dime I kin tell you whether it's heads or tails.'"

The Mexican Prisoner's Lament

After the Battle of San Jacinto the spoils of war included about 400 Mexican mules. Among the 700 Mexican prisoners captured and kept under guard near the battleground was a colonel by the name of Delgado. He wrote in his diary the following lament:

"It is amusing to see the Texas soldiers put saddles on these wicked mules and ride them. They adorn the mules with gay-colored cords taken from our uniforms and fasten the caps of our grenadiers on the ears of these mules. They would also bedeck the mules with the epaulets of our officers. They delighted in covering the beasts with all sorts of trappings and colors after the fashion of our bullfighting clowns. One young fellow mounted a mule thus bedecked and the surenigle broke and he and all the trappings were scattered over the field. How strange and undignified these fellows are. They act like wild Comanches."

Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Mat. 4:4.

"I WAS FORTUNATE—got started rollin' my own with Prince Albert," says Evan. That was 20 years ago. And, as you see in the snapshot above, Prince Albert is still his favorite "makin's." "I'll back P. A. against the field any day for quicker rolling and cooler, smoother smoking," he adds.

Avoid Crowding Pullets

Everybody talks it—but few practice it—the evil of over-crowding your pullets, costing you real money. Don't do it—don't for just once for a season and note the results. The more you crowd pullets the slower they grow and the greater the cost of raising them. Give your growing pullets plenty of room, on the ground, in the houses and on the roosts, as well as around the feed hoppers.

Select Cockerels While Young

It is good practice to select your breeding cockerels while still young, say about eight weeks. At this time you can select for such important characteristics as growth, feather development, vitality, some standard requirements, etc. It is wise to keep at least twice as many as you need to allow for future culling. Remember the male bird is an important part in your flock. He should be a good one. The successful breeder is rigid in his culling.

Dodging Blackhead in Turkeys

Turkey raisers should always bear in mind that clean ground, available by frequent moving of the brooder houses or coops, is the best safe guard against blackhead as well as many other turkey diseases.

Feeding Sulphur

Some information places a value on crude sulphur, in controlling and preventing coccidiosis in chickens. The amount generally recommended is 3%. Sulphur does not have any feeding value but it is claimed it kills, or rather prevents, the further spread of coccidiosis in the droppings. Since coccidiosis is spread through the droppings, if the sulphur acts as a disinfectant to prevent the spread of this disease, it may mean much in the growing of late chicks.

Sex-Separating of Chicks

This spring has been our first experience in a practical way with sex-separating of baby chicks. We have divided something over 10,000 chicks at this writing and are thoroughly convinced it is practical, profitable, and a service that many poultry raisers in the future will demand from chick producers. You can figure on 90% accuracy, or better. Like everything else, there are some "quacks" in the business. There are some who are always trying to do it cheaper than the other fellow but not better. Like a lot of other things—you get what you pay for. Nobody is in business to give something away. If you buy the cheapest you have no right to expect the best. The two—cheapest and best—just don't go together.
