Thirty Club Members Hear Program Directed By County Agent D. F. Bredthauer

To Enter Contests

Aiken 4-H Club Cites Results of Cotton Program Used Last Year

The one variety cotton projects of the Aiken 4-H Club was the theme of the annual meeting of the Floyd County 4-H Friday June 4 when the members met at the Lockney city auditorium. Thirty members and parents attended the meeting.

The program was under the direction of the county agent, D. F. Bredthauer, and the assistant county agent, L. W. Chapman. Following the program a steak fry picnic supper was served.

The 4-H club decided to compete in the Anderson-Clayton contest and for the prize offered by George Sealy, president of the Galveston Wharf Co. These contests are based on cotton production, staple and grade.

In connection with the one variety program the 4-H boys will make preparations for a demonstration of their program at the county achievement day which is to be held in November. The youths will be assisted by Henry Schacht, sponsor of the Aiken club and Ed Whitfill, local ginmer, and the county agent.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Percy Tate, president; Curtis Kelley, Aiken, vice-president; Paul Kropp, Aiken, Secretary-treasurer; and Kenneth Martin of South Plains, reporter.

In taking the theme of the one variety cotton program it was brought out that the Aiken club had used this program last year with the result that the boys had been taught to raise a good grade of cotton and better staple.

This club selected the Pepper variety of cotton because of its adaptability to the climatic conditions. Each member studied the records sent out by the experimental station and when the crop was harvested they unanimously agreed that all participants would take their cotton to the same gin in order to keep the seed pure and market the lint co-operatively. In many cases youths entering this program with their fathers who were also growing the Pepper cotton under contract in the Aiken one variety program which has been underway the past three years.

Proposed Farm Bill Is Explained By Cliff Day

Fundamental Purposes of Bill Is To Protect Producer And Consumer Against Irregular Price and Supply.

Parity Prices Ahead

Bill Proposes To Control Production And Supply of Tobacco, Wheat, Rice, Cotton And Corn.

The proposed farm bill at Washington by farm association and commodity group advocates was discussed by Cliff Day, vice-president of the Texas Agricultural Association, in a district meeting of approximately 200 farmers and county agents at Lubbock Wednesday.

Day, who was one of the four Texans at Washington aiding in drafting the proposed bill, explained that the two fundamental purposes of the bill was to protect the consumer and the producer of agricultural commodities against irregular fluctuation in prices and supplies.

He said the bill proposes price and production control of five commodities, cotton, rice, wheat, corn and tobacco, with separate bases for each. The purposes of the bill are to obtain parity prices on these crops so that the total supply (carryover plus current production) will be kept at substantially a normal level.

"The consumer would not expect these desirable guarantees against abnormal cost without protection against unduly low prices for his products. It should be a partnership between consumer and producer. The consumer is assured of food prices attuned to his income, and the producer is assured a system of loans to protect him against low prices in years of excess production," Day explained.

Two other objectives are: Maintenance of an ever normal granary, but without interference with parity process; and prevention of waste of soil fertility (Continued On Back Page)

Missourians Here

Mrs. T. J. Dobson and Mrs. J. Smalley Honored With Visit

Mrs. W. F. Garren of Stella, Mo., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. T. J. Dobson, and niece, Mrs. J. J. Smalley, for several days. This was her first visit to Texas in fifty-four years.

She was accompanied by her grand-daughter and husband, the Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Campbell of Cartersville, Mo.

Miss Joy Hammonds of Collinsville, Tex., is here this week visiting her relatives, J. B. Reece and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cox left Sunday for Channing where they will be the guests of Mrs. Cox's parents.

Somebody asked me the other day why I didn't apply for a stenographer's job. I told them I couldn't meet any of the requirements except that one about sitting on the boss' lap. And they frowned in disgust. But they asked me and I thought they really wanted to know. Now, let that be a lesson to you. Honesty doesn't always pay.

The next thing I know the boys in the mechanical end of this shop will be breaking up the printer's towel and sweeping it out the back door. It seems they don't properly appreciate the foibles so characteristic of a newspaper office. Last week they chucked the old leaky dipper that's been hanging by the rusty sink for more than eight years.

That old dipper has quenched many a thirst in its day. But four years ago she sprung a leak. And what a leaky leak. But in spite of all this, she was faithful to the last drop. Each time she was filled with water, tears actually trickled down her ebony sides while she wept because of her inefficiency. I never did see her original color, but when she was carried out the back door she was already black.

It seems the boys figured they'd have to get rid of her with summer practically here. She embarrassed them on several occasions when visitors called for a drink. Of course the strangers weren't aware of her crying ways, and often received inky stains on their white shoes.

The college student who came home feeling sorry for the rest of the population for being so ignorant, should remember what Mark Twain once said about his father. He said that when he was 14 his father was so ignorant he could hardly stand to have the old man around, but when he got to be 21 he was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years.

You collegiate guys might well get wise to yours. If you have the sympathy. You'll need it for yourself when you embark upon the world with your "sheepskin" and try for that first job. You too will be surprised at how much John Jones, the hometown financial wizzard who didn't get to college, has learned in the past few years.

Several years after graduation you'll observe the outcome of your college mates and decide that all the nuts didn't stay at home.

The other reporter on this paper decided we needed news so badly this week that we would just make up some and run a correction next week. Thereby taking care of copy for two issues. There is only one little detail we haven't worked out yet. Where are we going between papers?

Isis Theater To Continue Bank Nite

Jack Astruc, manager of the Isis Theater, stated here today that he would continue the regular bank nights, Wednesday and Thursday of each week, until notified to stop.

Court of Criminal Appeals of Texas Tuesday held that the bank nights are legal. The court reversed a ruling in a picture show drawing involving the lottery law but did not pass on the instant question whether they were legal by statute.

The test case was against H. S. Cole, picture show manager at Benham. The court affirmed the $100 fine assessed against Cole on conviction of violating the lottery law.

According to the Lubbock Morning Avalanche, Lubbock theaters will have bank nights this week unless notified from main offices at Oklahoma City to stop.

Entered April 14, 1902, as second class matter at the postoffice at Lockney, Texas, by act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The Beacon, will be corrected gladly upon its being brought to the attention of the publisher.

Since the proposal of the president's court plan there are those who have given it their avid approval while others term this "packing the court." But few of us have looked at this measure without prejudice. Those who have opposed the measure on the grounds that it would be packing the court, are in reality packing the court in another form. They want a court packed to halt new deal proposals. Have we looked at this plan in the light of, not conservative or liberal courts, but an honest and scholarly court? One which will not be swayed by political dictates, but render decisions according to constitutional rights and enlarge upon these rights when the need arises.

suckers, and are still in that condition. The professor also states that these certain kind of fish did their thinking with their feet. Probably this accounts for the loose thinking indulged in by a great many of us. —Colorado Record.

We are wondering, has the professor been thinking with his feet too?

McGuffey's readers are possibly outmoded except for museum purposes, so J. G. over at Lockney has gone in for Higeria, according to a classified in the Lockney Beacon of last week. —Temple of Truth by the Apostile —Donley County Leader.

Justice Van Devanter retires from the Supreme Court today. He was one of the four obstructionists who have voted against all New Deal measures. The cry which has been raised by lawyers against the Supreme Court that the president seeks to "pack" the body falls for naught when it is realized that four members of the court have consistently voted against, and openly abused New Deal policies. The other five judges have been on both sides liberal and conservative. So far as these four are concerned, the Supreme Court is already "packed" against the will of the people. The appointment of a successor of Justice Van Devanter will probably be made in a few days. He will be a liberal, in keeping with the views of the New Deal. Whether the President will profit by this resignation in his fight for court reform remains to be seen, but the chances are that by the time the Supreme Court convenes for its fall term, several new faces will appear in the court room. —Canyon News.

COMMANDED ZEPPELIN

The dirigible Hindenburg's 1937 maiden voyage which ended in flaming disaster when the airship exploded just before landing at Lakehurst, N. J., marked the first time that Capt. Max Pruss commanded the sky liner on a flight from Germany to the United States. Last year he was a subordinate officer when Capt. Ernst A. Lehmann and Dr. Hugo Eckener, the veteran Zeppelin expert, handled the ship on her regular passenger schedule. Schooled in Zeppelin work for a quarter of a century, he took over command this spring. Gravely injured in the tragedy, he had more than a million miles of airship travel to his credit.

Mahon Asks For ROTC Unit

Congressman George Mahon appeared last week before the Senate Appropriations Committee urging that funds and officers for an additional ROTC unit at Texas Technological College be provided. The item would be included in the War Department appropriation bill which is under consideration by the Senate Committee at this time. He had previously presented the matter to Major General E. T. Conley, Adjutant General of the Army.

Texas Tech was given a Senior Engineering ROTC unit last year, and the work which has already been accomplished has received high recognition by War Department officials. The report of the ROTC Inspector from Fort Sam Houston, headquarters for the Eighth Corps Area, made March 1 of this year, recommended that an additional unit be established at the College, preferably a Field Artillery unit. This type of unit would make the training available to about 1200 students of the college who are ineligible for training in the existing Engineering unit which is open to engineering students.

The outcome of the matter will depend upon the disposition by the House and Senate of the proposed appropriation item for funds and personnel. The War Department advised Mr. Mahon that the Texas Tech application for such a unit was in excellent standing.

OLD GLORY'S 160TH BIRTHDAY TO BE CELEBRATED

June 14, 1937, marks the 160th anniversary of the American Flag, adopted June 14, 1777, as the emblem of the United States by the Continental Congress.

The American Flag Day Association, which for more than forty years has fostered the movement for the celebration of Flag Day will open this celebration by holding a patriotic-religious program in the Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge, June 13th. The ceremonies will begin at 2 p. m. Capt Theodore Gottlieb, of Newark, N. J., and the Rev. Dr. Weaver K. Eubank, of Philadelphia, will be the principal speakers. Their subjects will be, respectively, "Flag Day Calls for Americanism," and "Religion of Old Glory."

This event affords a splendid and striking opportunity for the expression of the ideals of American institutions in contrast with those subversive doctrines, Communism, Fascism and Nazism.

Natural Gas Proves To Be Cheaper Fuel For Irrigation In Floyd County.

If experiments in Floyd county prove successful in the use of natural gas for pumping irrigation wells and in the event that irrigation projects now under way in Moore County promise to open a New field to agriculture, the heart of Texas' greatest gas field may see development in future years, never dreamed of before.

For several months there has been considerable discussion as to the possibilities of irrigation in Moore county. There is a wide difference of opinion among many who have studied the irrigation problems. Some have advanced the theory that the underground water supply will not be sufficient enough to afford extensive irrigation in the county. Others are sure it will be sufficient.

The following news item is from a recent issue of The Lockney Beacon and should be of much interest to those interested in seeing the three irrigation experiments in the county go forward this summer.

Under the heading "Gas Is Cheap Means of Irrigation," The Beacon said: "Running expense of the John Hodel irrigation well west of town indicates that natural gas is one of the cheapest means of irrigating."

"Running part time last month, he watered 100 acres for $38.30. After every 50,000 cubic feet, the rate decreases. At the present time the well is running an average of 12c per hour.

"If the pump were run continuously for a month, it is estimated that it could be operated for 7c per hour."

The vicinity of Lockney is experiencing quite a boom in irrigation activities at present with indications for greater farm expansion along that line. Recently The Beacon published an elaborate special edition devoted to the progress of irrigation and its future in that section of the South Plains.

If the deep underground water supply in Moore County should prove abundant and the initial cost does not run too high, the Moore County gas field might eventually bring about one of the greatest expansion programs of development in all lines ever experienced in any one section.—

with maintenance of parity prices. Three-year contracts, beginning with 1938, would be tendered farmers. A separate contract is required for each farming unit, but covers all major agricultural commodities.

The bill also provides for soil-building payments but for no diversion or soil-conserving payments. In lieu of the latter, however, the producer is guaranteed the difference between the average market price of the five commodities and the adjusted parity price for his normal domestic and foreign supply of products for sale.
