Fall Festival To Open Tomorrow

Hallowe'en Parade Will Be At 7:00 Tomorrow Night

Big Lions Club Carnival Will Open Tonight

Warmer weather is predicted tomorrow afternoon so the Annual Hallowe'en parade will be on schedule tomorrow night at 7:00.

The parade will form on Denrock Ave., west of the courthouse. Led by the Dalhart high school band, directed by C. W. Beene, it will move west on the mouth of the underpass, then turn west across Denrock to the Trans-Canadian clinic, south to the City Grocery, where it will disband.

Fifty-five prizes had been offered up to noon today, and in addition J. C. Parker will give every winner a pass good to either the Mission or La Rita theaters.

The following firms each will donate $1 worth of defense stamps: State Bank, Scott Motor Co., Mayfield Feed & Grain Co., DeFee Lumber Co., Lawler & Ashby, Foxworth-Galbraith Co., The Dalhart Texan, J. C. Cummings, C. R. Anthony Dalhart Gas Co., Burrow Lumber Co., HWB Grocery Co., West Utilities Co.

Prizes: De Soto hotel, De Soto dinner; Panhandle Grocery, Market, box of candy; Good Bakery, dozen cookies; Wanders Drug store, box of candy; Drug Store, Continental fountain; Herzstein's, choice of tie and kerchief; Sprouse-Reitz box of chocolate cherries; Drug store, pearl-handle H & B Variety store, All-American pocket knife; City Grocery, bag of Hershey kisses; J. C. Ashby Co., boy's high-neck polo; Bobby West Drug store, fountain pen.

The parade is open to every child 12 years old or under and is free. The only restriction is that they must register at The Dalhart Texan between 2 and 6 this afternoon and get a big number to pin on their costume. Judges will determine winners entirely by number.

Ins Bolster Family Record
DENVER, Okla. (UP)—It was too much of a surprise when the girls were born at the Warren household, Mrs. Robinson's twin, her grandmother is a twin, and Robinson's uncle is a twin. Mrs. Robinson's twin is Mrs. Robinson of Lawton, Okla.

Death Roll Corrected
GARY, Alta. (UP)—Believed in action in the Great War his name struck off the books of the lodge he had attended before he overseas, Lieut-Col. F. E. Dunn, Edmonton, Alta., died at a session of his lodge and paid his dues of $6.

TODAY
The Mission: Deanna Durand and Charles Laughton in "Started With Eve."

THE WEATHER
WEST TEXAS: Cloudy with drizzle in south portion, rain occasionally mixed with drizzle in north portion tonight. Colder in north and central portions tonight. Warmer in Panhandle Friday afternoon.

C.-C. Meeting Is Postponed

The regular chamber of commerce directors meeting tomorrow has been postponed, officials said today, because of the three annual events being held in Dalhart this weekend. The three-night Lions club carnival opens tonight; the two-day first annual Fall Festival opens tomorrow morning and the annual Hallowe'en parade will be held down town tomorrow night at 7:00 unless weather forces a postponement.

Dead Man Really Is James Kelly

The 60-year-old man found dead in the Rock Island yards in Dalhart Tuesday was James J. Kelly, as papers on his body indicated, but he used Richard Cook as an alias, Sheriff H. D. Foust has learned.

Why he used the alias was not disclosed. A prescription found on the body caused officers yesterday to contact Sacramento, Calif., hospital. It referred them to a sister in Dayton, O. and their wire to her was answered by Walter C. Kinney who said he was a nephew of the man but referred to him as Richard Cook.

Further correspondence with Kinney revealed that Cook was used as an alias, Foust said.

Replete with free entertainment stunts, shows and features, and offering every kind of midway game, the Annual Lions club carnival will open tonight for three nights in the Stewart building across from the Texas Cafe.

Dalhart boys tonight and tomorrow night will put on boxing and wrestling exhibitions, Athletics Chairman Eddie Jones has announced. Boys Ranch of Old Tascosa will stage boxing, wrestling and tumbling exhibitions Saturday night.

The carnival is again a Golden Heart event, meaning that it will give a substantial check to the Golden Heart Charities for Children which serves under-privileged children in Dallam and Hartley counties.

More than $500 in merchandise prizes will be given away. Bingo, pitch till you win games, novelties and refreshment stands will be among the myriad fun offerings.

Incorporated Town Has 9

SIoux FALLS, S. D. (UP)—Final population figures for South Dakota cities and towns show Witten, S. D., to be the state's, if not the nation's, smallest incorporated community. Witten, situated in Tripp county, lost 298 residents since the 1930 census. It now boasts a total population of nine persons.

Rock Island Ball Is Tomorrow Night

Final preparations are being made for an elaborate annual masquerade ball sponsored by the Rock Island Federation No. 7 to begin tomorrow night at 9:00 at the Trianon. The Rhythm Masters of Clayton will furnish the music.

Confetti and noisemakers will be distributed; everyone is asked to wear Hallowe'en costumes to complete the holiday scene. Prizes will be awarded for most attractive fancy dress. The committee in charge of arrangements explains however, that wearing masquerade apparel is optional.

Tickets may be obtained from Forrest Fitzpatrick, chairman; Ed Matthews, J. C. Farris, Clyde Aaron and E. H. Bevans, committeemen; and from any other members of the federation.

War 'Godmothers' Frowned On

OTTAWA (UP)—The national defense department has formally warned Canadian soldiers against allowing "war godmothers" to adopt them, incidental to general advice against communicating with strangers.

Judiciary Building Looted

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UP)—Burglars looted Alabama's new judiciary building, taking minor articles of furnishings.

Coal Strike Settled

Snow, Cold Clutch Panhandle

Snow and low temperatures have gripped the Dalhart area, while floods are rampaging in other parts of Texas and Oklahoma.

Drizzling rain yesterday, coupled with wet snow that began whipping out of the north last night, brought Dalhart .92 of an inch of moisture from 7 a.m. yesterday to noon today, according to Canadian River Gas Co. gauges, two miles east of town. The U. S. field station, four miles southward, could not be reached.

The gas company said the temperature last midnight was 41 degrees and at 7:00 this morning was 31. The Amarillo weather station recorded a low of 33 degrees, and many Panhandle pioneers say it is their first time to see snow fall ahead of the first frost.

The noon temperature here was still 31, the gas company said. Amarillo reported 33, but weather men warned it would drop to at least 30 tonight. However, warmer weather is forecast for tomorrow afternoon.

Wichita Falls has had 4.37 inches (Turn to Page 16, Column 1)

Catholic Mission To Close Sunday

The Mission which opened last Sunday at the St. Anthony's Catholic church will close Sunday night, Father J. L. Daly, pastor, announced today.

Evening services during the Mission begin at 7:30; morning services are at 7:30.

A short instruction on Catholic doctrine opens the exercises each evening. The Rosary is then recited by the pastor and the congregation. The choir sings a hymn before the sermon is delivered, Father Daly said.

The topics that are being discussed are concerned with the Sacrament of Penance (confession) and Indulgences.

Beginning Sunday, masses at St. Anthony's will be at 9:00 and 11:00 on Sunday, Saturday morning the Feast of All Saints, a Holy day, will be observed with masses at 7:00 and 9:00.

The far-flung U. S. coal strike, already beginning to hamper national defense, was settled today, while Germany started an all-out drive to take Moscow before winter and punched ahead on the Crimea front.

John L. Lewis, CIO-United Mine Workers chief, today accepted government terms for sending 53,000 miners back to work, some tonight, others tomorrow.

The men struck, demanding a closed shop. They agreed to return to work pending recommendations from the National Defense Mediation board which, however, will not be binding.

British military observes today said Germany has started another do-or-die assault to take Moscow before winter close the door of opportunity. If Hitler fails they said, he must withdraw his main armies at least as far west as Smolensk because they couldn't take the severe Russian winter in the open.

They said he would have to maintain (Turn to Page 3, Column 3)

Where Do We Go From Here?

Last week we announced another new department. It was the "Sunshine and Dry Weather" department, and its purpose was to confer with the weather man about the continued rains. It was a lofty purpose, a good organization and very timely, but—

The day after we announced the new organization the sun came out in all its glory and we started out to tell everyone that once again we had produced (referring to our successful efforts to put off the frost) and about the time we got started talking good it began to cloud up.

Well, you and everyone else know what happened. Yep, it rained. It not only rained once, but it rained twice, three times and right now it's cloudy and misty. We held a hasty conference with the President of the "Sunshine and Dry Weather" club and he told us confidently that he had been double-crossed by the weather man. We suggested that he call a meeting immediately of all his members and he agreed, but he couldn't find anyone who belonged or professed to have had anything to do with it.

After a lengthy conference with the one remaining member of the new club we decided that if we wanted to continue to have the confidence of the farmers; if we wanted them to continue using the reliable McCormick-Deering farm equipment; if we wanted to escape criticism for what happens to the weather, it might prove beneficial if we discontinued this "Sunshine and Dry Weather" department.

Now maybe we are a little hasty in this action; maybe we ought to give the club a better chance to prove its value; and then maybe we ought to go back to talking about the Farmall tractor, our repair and parts department, our Farm-Income purchase plan, and our faith in the Texas Panhandle. What do you think? Shall we quit the weather, let it take care of itself, or shall we keep trying to negotiate with the Weather Man?

We've been doing what our farm and ranch customers asked us to do for more than twenty years, and we are waiting now for you folks to tell us the next move.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

WASHINGTON.—The real inside regarding the indictment of George Hill, secretary to Congressman Ham Fish, makes the grand jury's action much more important than appears on the surface. It may turn out to be the springboard for cleaning up a situation inside Congress whereby a small group has prostituted the use of the Congressional franking privilege and played into the hands of the Nazis—perhaps without knowing it.

Worst of all, this group has besmirched the name of Congress and lessened public confidence in one of our great institutions at a time when we need to preserve one of the few legislative bodies left in the world.

George Hill, Ham Fish's secretary, was indicted for perjury. This, in itself, was significant, because witness after witness has appeared before the grand jury (which is investigating Nazi propaganda) and lied. The grand jury finally decided on action.

Ham Fish's secretary admitted receiving $12,000 during the last five months, in addition to his government salary of $2000. But he would not tell where the $12,000 came from.

However, the records of the Government Printing Office can be examined by any newspaperman, and they reveal that George Hill ordered hundreds of thousands of franked speeches and paid for them in cash. These payments totaled around $12,000.

In other words, Hill received the $12,000 from someone, used it to buy reprints of speeches from the Congressional Record. It happened that these speeches all tended to help the Nazi and isolationist causes. They were mailed all over the country—at the taxpayers' expense.

Although Hill refused to say where he got the $12,000, the Government Printing Office show where he spent it. It has been charged that about one ton of mail bearing Congressman Ham Fish's frank was rescued by Hill from the Make Europe Pay War Debts Committee.

Since the Justice Department charged the Make Europe Pay War Debts Committee with being financed by Nazi agents, it would seem that Congressman Fish's office—knowingly or unknowingly—was playing into the hands of Nazi agents.

Tragedy is that instead of wanting to clean up this mess and show who is guilty and not guilty, many Congressmen are crying "Hush! Hush!" and pleading with the Attorney General to call off the dogs. They don't seem to realize that one or two bad apples can spoil a whole barrel, and that the reputation of Congress is at stake. NOTE.—In Germany it was not until the German people had lost confidence in the Reichstag that they got a dictator.

PIQUE AND POLITICS

One trouble with Congress today is that too many people are voting according to personal pique and prejudice. The question of whether Roosevelt opposed them on this or that, or whether he gave them the patronage they requested, sometimes counts more than important national issues.

About the time the extension of the draft act came up, for instance, isolationist friends of Congressman Martin Dies urged him to vote against the Administration and veto a longer period of service for draftees.

"Why should I do that?" asked Dies.

"Well, Roosevelt opposed you, didn't he?" was the reply. "He ran Lyndon Johnson against you in the Texas primaries, didn't he?"

"Yes," replied Dies, "but this isn't an issue between me and Roosevelt. This is an issue involving the country. It's a question of whether we have an army or half an army. It's not a matter of personalities."

So Dies voted with Roosevelt to extend the term of service. The President won by a margin of only one vote. If the Congressman from Texas had voted on personal pique, the army today might be different.

INFLATION CURE

Here is the inside lowdown on Price Administrator Leon Henderson's own private preventive against inflation.

He disclosed it to a group of Charlestown, W. Va., business men during a speech on the dangers of runaway prices. One of the audience asked Henderson how a business man could best protect himself against inflation.

"Work like hell," was the prompt reply, "and go to church regularly."

ROOSEVELT HATER

Former Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, one of the big-name isolationist witnesses against the ship arming bill during the Senate hearings, entered the Foreign Relations committee room like a lion, but departed like a lamb.

Administrationites gave Reed, Pittsburgh chairman of the America First Committee, a working over he won't forget for a long time.

The fireworks started when he belligerently declared that certain members of the Foreign Relations Committee "favor this country going to war."

"To what senators do you refer?" promptly demanded Chairman Tom Connally.

"Everybody knows who they are," retorted ex-Senator Reed.

"Name them," snapped Connally. Reed coughed, squirmed in his chair, finally blurted: "Well—er—Senator Pepper, for one."

He had barely got the words out when Pepper jumped him, demanding that Reed cite one instance in which he had urged U. S. entry into the war. Reed had to admit he couldn't.

"If you had listened to my recent radio debate with John Cudahy," Pepper said icily, "you could have learned my position on war. I hate war and want to keep the United States out of war. That's why I favor repeal of the Neutrality Act. It is inimical to the defense of the United States."

With this rebuke off his chest, Pepper subsided, but Reed's pummeling wasn't over. Senator James Murray of Montana, a two-fisted supporter of Roosevelt's domestic and foreign policies, swung into the fray with, "I'd like to ask the witness to name one instance in which he has supported the President on any issue, domestic or foreign."

Reed again defaulted. "I didn't think you could answer that one," said Murray. "You've been against it is only natural for you to oppose the President on everything and pose him on this issue. You're just a Roosevelt hater, regardless of Enos, a sophomore in Dalhart high school, says his favorite sport is basketball.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

A sports commentator, sponsored by a shaving cream, called the Duke of Windsor in Baltimore, inviting him to appear as guest star on the radio program, the money to be paid to British charity. The Duke declined—even before he was told the offer was only $100. . . . Bill Bullitt, former Ambassador to France, was asked by photographers to pose with strip-tease queen Ann Corio, as the two happened to board the same plane in Hartford, Conn. Bullitt declined. Commented La Corio, "He'd better never run for office—my fans will snub him at the polls!"

"I enjoyed the movies he took on their trip, especially where he got stuck in the mud!"

More this and that: "Merry Christmas." . . . Ought to see about that furnace. . . . Need anti-freeze in the car, more clothes for the kiddies, and warm clothes for the wife if she would wear them. . . . Suggested some cotton hose and wool underwear, but don't think she took kindly to the suggestion. . . . Remember, "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

Come down and see the farm exhibits in the business windows. . . . "Clever idea on the part of someone" is the way Rev. Kenneth Marshall put it as he looked them over yesterday. . . . Best I can find out J. C. Parker and Jack Wade wanted them this way. . . . As usual I disagreed and wanted them all in the same building, but now I see the error of my judgment. . . . Some of the best windows I have ever seen.

Had a lot of fun yesterday with members of the Chow-Chow (don't think that is the exact name, but it's something like that) club from the Andy James community. . . . They fixed up two swell-elegant windows for us here at The Texan and let us help. . . . Mrs. Virgil Lively, Miss Lucille Barber, Mrs. H. D. Barber, Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. Fred Cooper really put some work on this display. . . . They even have mice playing around in the corn shocks. . . . Seems to me that all exhibits should win some kind of a prize.

Junior Lawson looks mighty swell in his U. S. Marine uniform. . . . And did you folks see Manuel Ortega recently? . . . Manuel is in the air corps over at Fort Bliss, near El Paso, and flies almost daily. . . . He's not a pilot, but is in the tow target department. . . . All he has to do is unwind a reel (to which a target is fastened) out about 15,000 yards from the plane when it is flying around 7000 feet high. . . . Nice pleasant work you can get it. . . . The former star footballer of the Dalhart Wolves expects to enter the Glove tournament again this year if he can get a furlough at that time. . . . Felix Crespin tried to get into the Army at the same time Pal Manuel did, but eye trouble kept him out.

After three weeks I finished reading "Berlin Diary" last night. . . . The author thinks Germany will invade the U. S. after defeating Russia and Great Britain—that's possible. . . . Says the German people are born hero-worshippers, believing that Hitler is a divine being sent to guide the world back to world power—they are willing to sacrifice their lives, and families at his slightest bidding, but they really want to live in peace. . . . He says British bombers have done little damage to buildings and factories in Germany, but have damaged the morale of the German people. . . . Says they "take it" like the British. . . . "mercy killings" are true, according to this book. . . . More than 1,000 mentally deficient people have been put to death before the Germans last December 5. . . . Parents and families of these people receive notice from the authorities that the bodies have been cremated and the ashes returned to their relatives. . . . But notices are not received by relatives until several days or even weeks after the "death of undetermined cause."

It is even intimated that the Germans bombed one of the islands themselves and blamed it on the British. . . . Hess is the man in the world Hitler trusts, says the author. . . . The book was written before the one-way trip to England. . . . Hermann Goering is the No. 2 man in Germany and Goebbels the No. 3. . . . A joke that went the rounds in Germany: "An airplane carrying Hitler, Goering and Goebbels crashes. All three are killed. Who is saved?" and the answer is "The German people."

The first commercial tung crop for Southeast Texas and Southwestern Louisiana is estimated at 500 tons. There is no oil mill in Texas, but there are two or more in Louisiana.

First aid has been prominent in programs for most 4-H Club groups in campments this year.

Why Aren't Men As Wise As Squirrels?

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 30. This morning I noticed the squirrels storing up nuts for the winter. We are so accustomed to these simple instincts of the animals that we fail to realize their great significance. How is it that these squirrels, which have never been to school, know that winter is coming and store up advance supplies in such a systematic manner? Yet, many humans with our public school system, newspapers, and radio fail to take these ordinary precautions. Is it possible that "education" is undermining these basic important instincts?

Talking With Roosevelt

A few years ago when I was once at the White House on business, President Roosevelt asked me to come into his private office. He said the Treasury Department believed that corporations were not declaring enough of their earnings in dividends and this enabled certain stockholders in the higher brackets temporarily to escape taxation. The corporation would, of course, pay the taxes on its earnings whether or not declared in dividends. To the extent, however, that the earnings were not declared as dividends, a stockholder would have a smaller personal income tax to pay.

I answered the President by saying that at certain times in the business cycle, as during a depression, it might be well to have such a tax law. His plan certainly would then put more money into circulation and help employment for the time being. I stated, however, that to have such a law apply at all periods of the business cycle would be very dangerous. He thanked me and that was the end of the conference. He certainly is a charming man with tremendous persuasive powers.

Famous 'Section 102'

Shortly after this interview, I learned that Representative Doughton's House Tax Committee was considering the same problem. In the old law there had been a clause prohibiting "unnecessary" undistributed profits but the law was difficult to enforce. Secretary Doughton's Committee, therefore, at the earnest request of the Treasury Department, prepared the famous

"Section 102" as a part of the tax law revision of 1938. This section certainly had teeth in it and has great powers for evil.

In short, Section 102 provides that if an Internal Revenue agent, who examines your books, thinks you have put aside too much as a reserve, he can inflict a severe penalty on ALL your reserves—not simply on the portion which he thinks is excessive. There have been informal rulings that a corporation may set aside 30 per cent; but even these rulings have caused much trouble. As a result of Section 102, corporations and employers have refrained from setting up proper reserves rather than risk the terrific penalty.

Taxes Cause Unemployment

It, therefore, was a happy surprise when Mr. Ganson Purcell, a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission recently told the National Business Conference here at Babson Park that large reserves SHOULD be set up today as a cushion to avoid after-war unemployment. Where it may be well to force employers to pay out as dividends most of their earnings during a period of depression, the reverse is now true. Mr. Purcell stated specifically that the country's industries should now build up reserves to offset the repercussions which the end of the war will bring. Let me quote him definitely.

"Corporate structures which are streamlined now will be that much better able to make a transition from production for war to peacetime production without having to drop men from their payrolls. Reserves not needed for defense activity must be carefully stored up against the day when they will be needed for this vital post-war purpose. Where these reserves are in excess cash they can, in the meantime, be put to defense work by investment in government securities."

Roosevelt vs. Changing Conditions

At first thought it appears that Mr. Purcell is taking an opposite stand to that of the Treasury Department a few years ago. This is not necessarily true. The Treasury Department's demand for a tax on undistributed profits was then possibly unjustified because during de-pressions corporations and investors hoard their money, refuse to make additions and improvements, and carelessly discharge employees.

Today the situation is entirely changed. Instead of employers hoarding money, many are wastefully spending it. New factory buildings and excess machinery are being acquired at a tremendous rate. I am sure that if President Roosevelt would carefully reconsider the question today he would reverse his position and agree that employers should be penalized for not setting up greater reserves! The need of the hour is, as the SEC is recommending, that, for the duration of the war, we should all set up larger reserves than ever.

Results of the War

I have no doubts as to how World War II will end with the defeat of Hitlerism. I have been absolutely sure of it from the beginning and I am surer of it now than ever. As to what will happen after the war, I am not so sure. This will depend upon two things other than, of course, the war's duration.

1. The Character of Our People. This war is largely a result of the world going materialistic and forgetting God and the fundamentals of life. If this war results in a great spiritual awakening throughout the world, then there is nothing to fear as to what will happen after the war. New industries will spring up to absorb unemployment.

2. The Question of Reserves. If Section 102 is allowed to stand and corporations and employers are robbed of reserves from now on, then great disaster may be expected after the war is over. On the other hand, if Section 102 is repealed for the duration of the war then reserves may be set up which, as Mr. Purcell suggests, can become a great cushion for after-the-war conditions.

Conclusions

The Treasury Department is now busy revising the administrative feature of existing tax laws. Let us hope that one of the features to be considered will be Section 102. In the meantime, each of us as individuals can begin today to store up reserves. We do not need legislation to follow the squirrels in the good example which they are setting us.

Library Tag Day Will Be Nov. 8

Annual Dallam County Library Tag Day, to be conducted Saturday, November 8, was planned last night at a meeting of the library association board.

The week, November 3-8, is National Book Week. All contributions from the tag day sales will go to the library fund for purchasing the latest books for the New Book shelf, a special feature of the library.

The most recent books are Alice Duer Miller's "White Cliffs," and A. J. Cronin's "Keys to the Kingdom." It was reported, "Reveille in Washington," by Margaret Leech, has been donated by Mrs. A. P. Edwards, Mrs. Charles Coombes, secretary, and member of the book committee, reported.

A new book that has been ordered is William Shirer's "Berlin Diary." It is expected within the next few days. Mrs. Earl McIlroy, librarian, said.

The books on the New Book shelf may be checked out for a seven-day period, but not for a seven-two weeks period. A fine of 50 cents per day overdue will be charged, if it was decided, to keep non-circulation to a minimum.

A new member of the board who attended the meeting last night was County Judge Floyd McNeill.

Dalhartans Attend Meeting At Clayton

O. E. Brown, A. W. Berryhill and E. L. House, members of the Rock Island Lodge No. 868, attended a meeting of the Clayton lodge last night. An entered apprentice and a fellowcraft degree were conferred.

Four Lone Star Conference Tilts For This Weekend

Commerce—Four of the five Lone Star loop clubs will be engaged in conference arguments this weekend, while Stephen F. Austin will face Texas A. & I. at Nacogdoches.

Austin last week took a 27-0 drubbing from Southwest State in a circuit game.

Interest this week centers on the East Texas State clash with the Sam Houston State Bearkats in Huntsville Saturday afternoon, because East Texas upset Ouachita, Ark. Teachers 14-0 last weekend to remain unbeaten for the season. Sam Houston last week lost a conference argument 19-8 to the North Texas State Eagles of Denton.

East Texas for the season has won five straight games. North Texas is second in all-season standings with four wins and a loss and this week will play a circuit match with Southwest Texas State Teachers at San Marcos.

The Eagles lead the conference standings with two straight wins. Southwest Texas, and East Texas each have taken their only conference start. Sam Houston has lost its only loop arguments, while Stephen F. Austin is in the cellar with three straight losses.

Dakota Badlands Film Declared To Be Outstanding

"Badlands of Dakota," playing tomorrow and Saturday at the Mission theater, is acclaimed by critics as one of the outstanding Westerns of the year.

The Mission tomorrow at midnight only will offer a Halloween special, "The Smiling Ghost." Stars are Wayne Morris, Brenda Marshall, Alexis Smith, Alan Hale, Lee Patrick, and David Bruce.

The story is a succession of chills, thrills and comedy as Morris runs through an amazing set of comical and mysterious adventures in an attempt to break a jinx. Top stars in "Badlands of Dakota," include Richard Dix as Wild Bill Hickok, and Frances Farmer as the storied Calamity Jane. Others are Bob Stack, Ann Rutherford, Brod Crawford, Hugh Herbert, Andy Devine, Lon Chaney, Jr., Fuzzy Knight and a novelty singing trio, the Jesters.

The story is epic in that it embraces a colorful period of the history of the West. Discovery of gold in the Black Hills of Dakota territory, founding of Deadwood and shooting of Hickok become vivid experiences.

The story also depicts the troubles with the Sioux that led inexorably to the fateful ambush and massacre of General Custer and his gallant band.

Happy Relief From Painful Backache

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys — and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

AAA Chief Loses 10 Pounds While On British Food

Waco—R. M. Evans, national AAA administrator who in six weeks lost ten pounds on a typical British ration, says that what he saw in England convinced him "that American farmers have in their hands the power to determine the course of history. The role of food," he added, "goes far beyond the present battlefield to the peace table."

Evans next Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 4, will speak at a state-wide Food-For-Freedom rally in Waco and will officially open the Texas campaign to provide food for America and then nations resisting aggression.

B. F. Vance, chairman of the State USDA Defense Board, said Evans' speech will be about as important to food consumers as producers.

WANT AD KEEPS W. H. LATHEM IN PRIVATE OFFICE

Trembling noticeably and definitely afraid for his life, W. H. Lathem, pioneer real estate agent and cattleman, sat in the privacy of his downtown office today and queried friends in an effort to find out who is attempting to take his life.

Lathem's worries started when the following classified ad appeared in The Texan Wednesday:

Wanted: Stevens 12-gauge double shotgun. Must be cheap as I want W. L. Lathem, Dalhart Texas.

Even after staff members of the Texan explained to Lathem that the ad was only a typographical error he refused to leave his office for a cup of coffee, at the expense of The Texan. "This in one time I sure hope the classified ads in The Texan don't get results," he said.

New Law Requires Title Certificate

All owners of motor vehicles are reminded by H. D. Foust, Dallam county sheriff and tax assessor-collector, that it is necessary to obtain a certificate of title to a motor vehicle before the 1942 registration can be completed, provided the vehicle was purchased after Jan. 1, 1936, as a new vehicle.

The new law became effective May 1, 1941. For a car that was purchased prior to Jan. 1, 1936, a certificate of title is not required, providing ownership of the car has not been transferred since Oct. 1, 1939.

Everyone is urged to obtain a certificate of title before appearing at the tax assessor-collector's office to register the car.

CHAPER THIRTY-FOUR

Mrs. Rider couldn't keep Jane at home. She was downstairs again by eleven, her eyes steady, her hair smoothly folded, winging from her small hat.

"I'm off to the Givens, Mother," she said. "They won't mind if I turn up an hour earlier on Monday." She was thinking of that Saturday they had minded her turning up.

She got into her coupé, glancing toward Kurt Helm's shack. No smoke curled from his chimney. Trees and bushes were perceptibly thinner, their fallen leaves a carpet turning brown.

The Givens house, exposed on its meager ground, was more desolate. The garage was open; empty. They were out. Groucho, the huge mongrel, prowled the unkempt premises. He slunk near to Jane, and something about him, this morning, aroused her pity.

"Grouch!" Jane called to him. Her up-turned palm went out. She stood very still until he sidled closer. "You're hungry!" she said loudly. "You're hungry, Grouch!"

He bared his teeth and backed away.

She took out her key, unlocked the side door of the porch leading to her workroom. She held the door open. Grouch slid in after her, sniffing along the faded carpet.

"I shouldn't have let you in," Jane went to her desk, stared down at it. Her papers were gone. She opened drawers; nothing in them. Yet on Friday afternoon, when she left, everything had been in place. Kurt's lecture had been postponed until next week because, he had said, his pamphlets weren't ready. But the checks had been coming in for tickets, and contributions. They were in a folder.

Perhaps the Givens had wanted to look over her stuff. But they should have put it back.

"Come on, Grouch!" She opened the door into the living room. "I'll find you a bone first, if there is one."

There wasn't any bone. There was practically no food in the kitchen. Jane toiled what there was to the lean dog who wolfed it, and padded behind as if he were afraid of losing her.

Jane was indignant. When she saw the small desk in the living room, she didn't hesitate to explore.

A few minutes later, Jane, a folder under her arm, walked out of the house, Grouch trailing her. He stood looking up at her, as she hurried into her car.

"They don't deserve you, Grouch!" she exclaimed. "Get in. But if you dare hurt my Timmy—"

Grouch got in humbly, curling up beside her, and her eyes were clouded with tears. For the papers she had found in that little desk exposed the Givens—and Kurt Helm.

Why, they weren't real Americans at all! They were—could they be—Fifth Columnists of which the newspapers published so much! She had the evidence in the notations, the lists, the first draft of Helm's so-called lecture. She had the proofs in other pamphlets she had found in that desk: such as a copy of the one Helm had taken from her the night of Carlisle's murder—and burned.

Now she was somewhat afraid. The Givens would know she knew. Kurt Helm would know. Beside her Grouch whined.

Jane said, "I didn't feel like working, Mother." She hid the papers under a vine. They wouldn't be safe in the house. She stood later on the lawn, watching Timmy and Grouch playing in the twilight.

Then Jane saw Kurt Helm. He walked slowly across the road, his green eyes narrowed on the Givens dog.

"The Givens just telephoned me, wondering where Grouch was," he said, smiling at Jane. "They were so sorry to be out when you came, this morning. You went there, didn't you?"

"Yes," Jane admitted. "Come in, Kurt." She moved nervously toward the house.

Kurt said, "I thought, for a change, you and your mother would have tea with me." Before Jane could protest, he was in the house and out with Mrs. Rider beside him. "I've taken so much from you," he said, his narrowed eyes and smile on Jane.

"Mother—" Jane began. "It'll do us both good, darling." Mrs. Rider walked on, her arm caught in Kurt's.

Jane followed slowly, staring up and down the road. There was no one in sight. The two dogs scampered after them; stopping at the rim of the road in a growling quarrel over a twig.

David stood at Lawyer Garrison's desk in the library. He was worried sick about Jane. She'd hung up on him earlier in the day, when he telephoned her.

"I've got to go out and see the Riders. You don't need me here now." His face looked haggard against the fiery disorder of his hair.

Richard Garrison, too, usually so immaculate, showed signs of deep strain. "I understand how you feel," he said.

"I've got to go," David repeated. "Just a moment." The older man motioned for silence. Sometimes Garrison wished that, after the last war, he had attended strictly to his legal practice; enjoyed his wealth and friends, instead of volunteering for special service. Yet he had felt strongly then—and still did—that America would always, unofficially, need men of his established connections—out of uniform.

David leaned forward, pressing his hands on the polished surface of the desk. "Look, Mr. Garrison, there's a killer loose, and he has the documents Carlisle wanted you to have. You don't believe, do you, that Fan murdered Mat Breanu and invented all that stuff about Sweitzer coming in and grabbing the envelope?"

"I believe it so little that I bailed her out, and have her in this apartment for protection," Garrison said gravely. "McGuire is on guard, and she has her maid with her." "Doremus is here, too. Poor man, he loved Breanu! He didn't know anything about the gun-running game."

David's voice sharpened. "That's not the point. I think the man who wrote those letters to Carlisle, which Fan gave me for you, is the one to look for. Probably Sweitzer. Don't forget those barrel number sevens he used—crossed like a sort of gallops. Suppose he's run to cover in Jane's part of the country? Suppose—"

Garrison said slowly, "It couldn't have been Breanu. I know his handwriting. But Mat barred his sevens. That isn't unusual." He took up a pencil, and absently traced on a pad, a row of sevens with a slash across their stems.

He wasn't seeing the sevens. He was seeing Carlisle's vivid laughing face; remembering that months ago, before she vanished, she had said to him, as they danced: "Would you die for a cause you didn't believe in any more? Because you found it was a wicked cause?" If he had only insisted then that she tell him more clearly what she meant!

David shifted restlessly beside the desk. "Believe in hunches or not, Mr. Garrison, I've got one. Jane's in danger. I talked to her mother again, after Jane had gone off to her job with some people called Givens—friends of Kurt Helm's. She's driving alone in her car—yes, the one in which we found Carlisle's body. Suppose Sweitzer—"

Dick Garrison was listening tensely now. "Helm? You never told me Jane was working for friends of his. The Givens—the Givens?" He rapped his fingers on the desk. When he spoke again, his voice had changed to urgency. "Go straight out there. Take my car. It's in the courtyard. I'll send word down to the doorman."

He got up; put his hand out to David. "I've been blind," he said. "Hurry, my boy!" He gave over his driver's license and a small card. "If you have any trouble with the cops, flash the card," he said.

As David rushed for the door, Garrison called him back. "Take that gun I lent you."

"I don't need a gun." David grinned.

Richard Garrison went back to his desk, his eyes chilly. He pulled his telephone over to him. He didn't bother to dial. "Give me Bardonia, Rockland County headquarters of the troopers," he ordered.

Garrison's was an open car, and it took the roads like a swallow, dipping, turning, climbing. David's mouth was hard, as he raced onward. It would have been pretty good to have old Bill Wright beside him.

The air was pungent with burning leaves. October twilight crept in. The lights in windows made him vaguely homesick. It was growing cold. With one hand, David drew up and buttoned the collar of his brown top coat, and jammed his hat on. . . . Perhaps somewhere ahead of him on the road, Jane sped for home. If only he knew where these Givens people lived!

She'll probably give me the gate, he thought bitterly. But a sense of excitement mounted as he took South Mountain Road; wheeled toward New City, and turned into the soft dirt country road which led to the Riders.

David slowed down. At this supper hour—it must be six by now—there should be lamps in the windows of the farmhouse. The short road seemed deserted. But ahead he made out the inky form of another car with no lights on. He edged nearer; stopped short; got out of the car, and advanced on foot.

His shoulders straightened, and his spirits rose. What a boob he was! They must have gone out to supper. Nevertheless, it was a shock to see the house unlit, crouching in the spicy evening.

David glanced at Kurt Helm's log cabin, opposite. Wisps of smoke dissolved above the chimney. And, through the branches of the trees, David saw a vague glow. So, at least, Helm was home.

Then David heard a sound that halted him as he was about to walk over to Kurt's. It was a scratching and a whimpering which undoubtedly came from behind the Riders' front door.

Timmy, the pup—shaggy little Timmy whom they never left alone! David ran up the path, unreasoning fear in his heart. The whimpering grew louder.

The door was locked. David ran around to the other side and tried the kitchen door. It opened. He switched on the kitchen light; stared. Littered over the table were carrots, celery, potatoes, some of them already peeled and in a pot of water. A cold leg of lamb had been dragged to the floor, the plate broken, and something was burning in the stove.

A frenzied, wagging pup flew into the kitchen, rolled over at David's feet, eyeing the roast which he, Timmy, had gone after when no one fed him.

"Timmy, where's Jane?" David's voice broke. Mrs. Rider never would have left things this way.

Timmy wriggled and got up, his broad head tilted, his shaggy ears cocked. He was a little dog, lonely and afraid, his eyes tried to tell his friend.

David followed Timmy into the living room. In the big rock fireplace, logs had split to glowing embers. This Monday's Nyack paper was slung on the couch. There was an account of Mattila Breanu's suicide. The headlines questioned, "Does this solve Carlisle's murder?"

"Jane!" David shouted. "Jane—"

No one answered. Timmy whined, tugging at David again. He wanted David to go upstairs. And David's heart seemed to swing through space. He followed the pup.

Periodic Candy Keeps Soldier's Energy At Peak

Uncle Sam, experimenting with his new Army, has found that soldiers have more energy output if sugar is consumed periodically during the day.

Accordingly the quartermaster corps is planning to issue to each soldier five pieces of hard candy per day. These will be consumed between meals.

Formerly soldiers ate an ounce of chocolate at meal time, but sugar at intervals rather than all at once keeps the energy at a generally higher flow, experiments indicate.

The candy will also be used to supplement the Type C field ration. In 1917-18 the doughboy carried an emergency field ration in a three-compartment can which contained corned beef, bread and powdered coffee.

Type C field ration gives the soldier a choice of meat and vegetable stew, meat and beans, or meat and vegetable hash. It also offers him nine three-quarter ounce square whole wheat crackers, tasting like graham crackers, and enough soluble coffee to make a pint of beverage. Three cubes of sugar are included. Each can has its own opening key. "Corned willie," a standby of other wars, went out the window when Type C came in the door.

Legion Convention Program Is Planned

The tentative program for the joint meeting of the 18th District American Legion convention and the Panhandle Plains Association to be held in Dalhart Saturday and Sunday, November 15 and 16, was announced today by Arrangements Committee Chairman R. U. Counts.

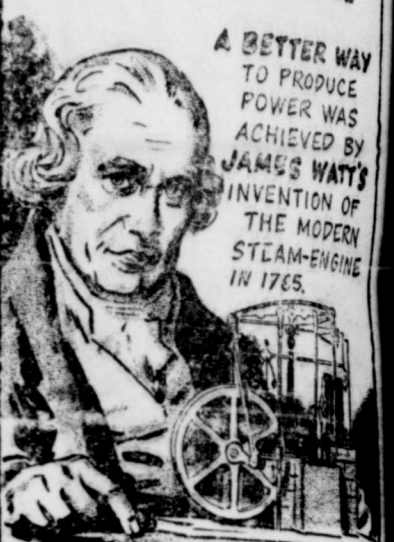

An outstanding feature will be the breakfast for service officers, commanders and adjutants Sunday morning. Granville Routh, State Service Officer of Amarillo, will preside.

Commander Roy E. Farden of Forgan, Okla., will be in charge of the Panhandle Plains Association meeting Sunday morning at 9:30 in the district court room.

Dave Peters, Amarillo, is scheduled to preside at the Sons of the American Legion meeting Sunday morning; Flake George, Shamrock, in charge of the business meeting and election of district officers.

Serving with Counts on the convention arrangements committee are Elmer Elliott, O. V. Hartshorn, and Roy Rhoades Post Commander J. E. Rainey.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. To what extent can inflation be prevented by the sale of Defense Savings Bonds?

A. To the extent they are purchased in volume sufficient to offset buying pressure from consumer prices go up. That is, if enough Americans save enough money lending it to their Government instead of spending all they can, further price rise tending to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar will be retarded.

Q. Are Federal employees buying Defense Savings Bonds?

A. A great majority of all Federal workers have voluntarily subscribed to regular plans where they use part of their earnings every pay period to purchase Bonds.

NOTE—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to your nearest post office, bank, or savings loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps on sale at retail stores.

FALL FESTIVAL—

ferred by Dalhart business and professional men.

Exhibits are the unit type, and will be judged like county displays at state and regional fairs. An exhibit must have at least 10 items and not more than 20. These items may be vegetables, canned goods, field crops, baking or sewing exhibits or any combination of them.

Six more exhibits have been placed since yesterday, the special chamber of commerce committee in charge of the Festival announced this morning.

They are by: Joe Clifton in Wolf Drug Store No. 2; Fred Cooper in Western Auto Store; J. A. Burrow in H & B Variety store; Lem White at the French Cleaners; R. H. Ruffner at the Panhandle Grocery & Market; the Teleschaw Home Demonstration club at The Dalhart Texan.

A. R. Pope, who runs Pope Shoe Shop on West Third street, placed his own display in the shop window several days ago and was listed as a competitor for a prize. "That was a mistake," he said, "I never did intend to compete for a premium because I'm in business in Dalhart and one of the hosts to the Festival."

There are several other non-competitive exhibits, including two by the county agent's office, one by Mrs. Dora Davis, FSA supervisor for Dallam and Hartley counties, and one by the Dallam County USDA Defense Council.

The Saturday afternoon entertainment program includes a variety of races, hog and husband calling, tug of war and milking contest.

There will be a sack race for boys, another for girls; but in the potato event boys and girls will compete in the same race. Prizes in each of the three races are $2 and $1. Entrants must be 12 years old or under. They must furnish their own sacks; also tablespoons which will be used in the potato race.

Prizes in the hog and husband calling events are $2 and $1. The tug of war is for six-man teams from any school in Dallam or Hartley counties, and is an elimination affair. Team members must be in the eighth grade or under. The winner gets $6. Each of Dalhart's three ward schools, Texline and Conlen have entered teams.

The cow milking contest is for women and girls only. The ones who fill a pint bottle quickest take the prizes which are $5, $3, and $2.

Persons wanting to enter any of these events should register at the chamber of commerce, but that is not essential. They may enter the event if they are on hand when it starts.

Sorghum Loans Still Are Issue

question of whether the Bureau Federation and county farm bureaus for high parity loans—per cent—on grain sorghum—be considered at the convention in Fort Worth, President J. Hammond said today. Hammond County Farm Bureau by John Henry of the community, and other agricultural leaders working for several higher grain sorghum sorghum area, limited the Southwest, has been several years for Commodity Corporation loans. this year for a loan per bushel or $1 per bushel. The corporation loan of 38 cents per bushel for No. 2 grade, the most common in the grain sorghum area. Producers immediately protested. They said the sorghum producer was as important to the national welfare as producers of cotton, wheat, and rice, who enjoyed an 85 per cent of parity loans. An 85 per cent parity loan on grain sorghums has been estimated locally at around 71 cents per bushel. Producers said the low loan rate would make it impossible for sorghum farmers, straitened by ten years of drought, to get sufficient money to harvest one of the finest crops in history and the first one of consequence since 1931. They also said that the markedly higher farm foreclosure rate in the grain sorghum area was largely due to the fact that sorghum producers had been denied a loan rate until this year; and that a 38-cent rate would not be sufficient to help much. Other questions to be considered at Fort Worth, Hammond said, will be: Shall the federation and its 200 affiliated county units follow up the 1941 victory of 85 per cent parity loans on cotton, wheat and rice? Shall they work for 85 per cent or 100 per cent parity loans on oats and barley, as well as grain sorghums? Shall they work for full parity prices on fruits and vegetables, and parity prices on livestock each year? Shall they work to prevent unfair price-fixing on agricultural products, and to prevent collapse of farm prices after the war?

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Jay, Abilene, who have just given $72,250 to McMurry college in that city, the money to be paid as certain oil leases are developed. The Jays recently sold leases on 1000 acres of oil lands in the Silver Valley field of Coleman county to the States Oil Corporation and specified that $72,250 of the selling price could be paid as oil is produced on the lease. They then transferred these payments to McMurry as a gift.

Kidnaped by a woman as he lay in his baby carriage in front of a Fitchburg, Mass., store, Baby Kenneth McLean, Jr., 8 weeks old, was found by authorities 20 hours later in the home of a childless couple living in suburban Fitchburg. The baby was snuggled in bed beside Mrs. Richard Wolsiewick, who insisted the infant was hers and that she had given birth to it the night before. Chief of Police Thomas J. Godley said witnesses had "positively identified" Mrs. Wolsiewick as the woman who took the baby from the carriage. Kenneth, Jr., is shown at home with his father, Kenneth McLean, Sr.

SNOW, COLD—

of rain in the past 24 hours. Holiday creek and the Wichita river are flooding. U. S. Highway 287 on each side of Wichita Falls is still blocked, except for trucks. Denver trains are also being delayed in that area. The northbound Denver, due in Dalhart at 10:40 this morning was two and a half hours late.

Floods in central and southern Oklahoma have driven a thousand persons from their homes and blocked 17 major highways. The North Canadian river in Oklahoma City was highest in 18 years and still rising. Muskogee is marooned, and the Arkansas river at Tulsa is out of its banks.

The first snow of the year spread over the Oklahoma Panhandle, giving Boise City two inches and bringing flurries to Guymon.

Rock Island offices here said snow is falling from Guymon west on this division, while rain is falling east of there. Schedules are intact.

Josephine Rossiter Heads Scout Patrol

A new Dalhart Girl Scout patrol was formed Monday afternoon at a regular troop meeting, Mrs. Chester L. Dunlap, leader, reported.

Leader of the new troop is Josephine Rossiter. Other patrol leaders are Barbara Pirtle, Bobby Jean Osburn, and Doris Pirtle. Each patrol has nine members now.

New Induction Plan To Go Into Effect

A modified plan for induction of trainees under the Texas Selective Service system will reduce the uncertainty with which registrants have heretofore been faced between local examination and the induction date.

The plan calls for the preliminary local board examination to be given within 30 to 60 days prior to the date of call for induction. General J. Watt Page, state selective service director, said today.

The plan will be put into effect with the Army's most recent call for 1375 men, he said.

Col. W. E. Corkill Visits Brother

Colonel W. E. Corkill was in Dalhart a short time Tuesday visiting his brother, T. H. Corkill, and family. Col. Corkill has been stationed at Indianapolis, Ind. for several months, but is being transferred to the Philippine Islands. He has been in the regular Army since 1917, having served in the Army of Occupation following the first World War.

Drivers License Schedule Changed

Drivers license schedules throughout Texas, including those in the Dalhart district, will be completely revamped by Saturday, State Police Director Homer Garrison said today.

The new schedules, he said, will make drivers license examiners much more accessible to the public. They result from an expansion program under the new Drivers License law which provided for 62 new examiners. They began work yesterday.

In this district, the schedule after Saturday will be: Monday, Dumas, 8 to 11; Dalhart 1 to 4. Tuesday, Stinnett 9 to 11; Perryton 1 to 5. Wednesday, Lipscomb 8:30 to 11; Spearman 1 to 4. Thursday, Dumas 8 to 11; Stratford 1 to 4. Friday, Texline 9 to 11; Dalhart Agricultural wage rates on October 1 had advanced to 155 percent of the 1910-14 average, points over July, 35 over a year ago, and were at the highest since 1930, says the USDA.

1 to 4. Saturday, Channing 11; Dumas 2 to 5.
