CAPABLE MAN FAVORED FOR POLICE CHIEF

Ranger's chief of police will be appointed this afternoon, at a meeting of the board of commissioners. From a score of candidates, many of them self-chosen, Mayor M. H. Davenport and City Manager Turner, have narrowed down to two and of this pair, one man stands to the front. That he is a capable officer, known and feared by the vice element of Ranger, and is straight, is without doubt. Given a free rein, he will be a great police chief and will make good, if anyone can, on a real clean-up of the city.

The candidate favored by the commissioners has been on both sides of the law in several states and is known as a man of action. He is opposed to gambling, prostitution and the minor criminal activities that follow in their train.

That he played a part in the political arena, directed against the city administration, that immediately preceded the shake-up in the police department, is a mark against him. That he broke loose from that element long ago, before their plans were complete, is in his favor.

That the appointment of a police chief will come two promotions of officers at present connected with the department, whose work has shown that they are fitted for the positions to which they will be advanced.

SOME BELIEF STRIKE MIGHT BE AVOIDED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Hope was expressed today that the soft coal strike set for Nov. 1 would be postponed if not indeed actually called off. The announcement that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, had summoned a national scale committee to meet the international executive committee tomorrow in Indianapolis tomorrow is accepted as an indication that the miners' organization might be persuaded to accept the government's offer. In full belief that officers of the international union ordered the strike, have the power to stop it, officials today awaited the next step, which must come from the miners.

Confidential reports from the central coal field indicated, it was said, that not all of the half million miners would quit work.

Steps to be taken by the government to deal with the coal strike will be considered finally today at the cabinet meeting. Meanwhile the railroad administration continues to expedite the movement of coal from the mines to the ground to release the cars for immediate use.

REAL STUDENT CHORUS IS SEEN IN THE "SEE-SAW"

International News Service.
 NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The student chorus is the first novelty of the season in the New York theaters. With Henry W. Savage's production of the comedy with music, "See-Saw," the first musical success of the new season, this latest fashion in Broadway choruses was displayed—not in cap and gown, you understand—no, nor affected with horn-rimmed spectacles and short hair—these students of the "See-Saw" are presented to the playgoers. If it hadn't been for the tongue of Colonel Savage, it might never have been suggested anything but how they sing sweetly and dance.

Colonel Savage ventures to unusual qualifications of studies in "See-Saw" are of substantial interest. Him the most unusual history—and speak with authority. Not so many of the rich, Irene Schabell works of a matter. "Patrolman" and "Juggernaut" are small parts. Colonel Savage and Mr. Savage displayed a relationship between the chorus and the character John McKee. Director for Mr. Savage, "raison d'être of the theater public can be described as a soldier who makes just as much of the chorus as of the play. "See-Saw" is a matter of life and limb. The chorus is a daily program as the business of the chorus. "See-Saw" girls are a chorus. They live up to the unwritten law of the chorus. They must work hard while they play in the night.

When he became a theater manager, Mr. McKee has dreamed of a chorus. Individually he has had a chorus—that is, the development of choruses. All players who chorus and become a chorus. Mr. McKee provided, is the opportunity that talent. More and here is the chorus. This is the chorus of "See-Saw" to prepare. "See-Saw" has been planned. In the first place, the chorus of the four "See-Saw" girls. Mr. McKee has provided for these girls weekly and drills each week. At the end of the season each understudy is asked to give her part for Colonel Savage, and if she qualifies he immediately gives her a contract to play this part in a road company of "See-Saw" next season. Looking ahead still another year, if this same young lady plays her part well on tour and follows the advanced course of study prescribed by her producer, she can be sure, upon her return to New York, of a chance to play in the next Savage production.

Why, then, Mr. McKee's chorus? The girls who attempt to lace their shoes to the theater with education, broadening their health and ambition. "The student chorus will have to work hard," Mr. McKee. "Every day they will have class work with a physical instructor, a teacher of diction, a local instructor and a professor of singing. Twice a week there will be the professional rehearsals, and once a week Mr. Savage has promised to give an informal lecture or discussion. I believe will interest you in our own little field."

BRITISH WOULD RESTRICT U. S. IMPORTS.
 International News Service.
 LONDON, Oct. 27.—A circular issued by the National Union of Manufacturers has become public which informs the members that the administration committee has decided to conduct a vigorous campaign to bring every pressure to bear upon the Prime Minister to insist upon the fulfillment of the pledge he made to the Union to remove restrictions on imports not such time as he is able to formulate his national policy. The circular refers to the restrictions which have American manufacturers from British markets. Members of the Union are asked to make highly confidential inquiries and report immediately to the public relations committee. The committee will probably make a report on the subject.

LONDON HAS GOT DANCE "CRAZE" GREAT AS EVER

International News Service.
 LONDON, Oct. 27.—When the idea that the late war, with its four-year ban on dancing, was actually over at last began to permeate Britain, savages and pessimists held up despairing hands and cried that the prima for dancing would soon wear away. Nothing so intense could be expected to last. England, staid and sane as of yore, wouldn't be more than mildly bitten by the bug which sank officers, Y. M. C. A. misses and "collared" camp entertainers had brought to the shores.

But the late and unlamented war has been over close into a year and by all the reverbations from the West End, Britain's adoption of the Yankee dance craze, with its jazz and jangle, clang and clamor, hasn't really gone more than a step off to a slow and languid pace yet.

"Watch it grow" and "where will it ever end" are the typed comments of those daily and weekly journals which build circulation among the housemaids and East Enders by chronicling each and every move in the sense of ship lights and a m. homeward taxi.

Literally scores of new dancing clubs, "salons" and so-called private dancing parties have opened their doors at liberal prices in Oxford and Regent streets, in Piccadilly and Hanover Square.

From these comes the unmistakable sound of a bull turned loose in the pots and pans department of a hardware store, and one knows that perceiving drummer is reaching for mere five years ago over dynamite. He must rest, so the awesome call of a seven-foot trombone takes up the theme.

Across the street hurry a couple. He has silk-wrapped pumps tucked under one arm. The girl who is tucked under the other is clad in a manner to recall the megalomaniac scene of London's water-logged gentlemen, but miraculously she escapes. Although the sale of "pumps" in West End shops has been a "25% of astounding proportions, not all the men follow the rigid rule of years ago when a man without pumps simply didn't venture onto a ballroom floor. Intermingled with the bare-backed silks and the white shirt fronts are officers in uniform, wearing heavy knee boots with soles half an inch thick. There are many casualties, and apologetic officers lead fair casualties to quiet corners and make their peace with peach mebas at $1 to $1.50 per.

The men of means in the West End, the white light section of London but all the suburbs have their secondary attractions. Here the demand for shoes to dance has become such that the movie houses, in some instances are being cleared of seats and converted into dance halls.

PECOS OIL OPERATIONS TO EXTEND 3 MILES WEST.

GEORGE S. SMITH NOW IS ABLE TO WORK EVERY DAY

"Yes, sir, I go to my work full of vim and energy, like a boy going to a ball game, and don't feel a pain anywhere in my body since I started 'King Oregone' treatment," said George S. Smith, a headhunter, who says at Swift & Company's plant in North Fort Worth, and living at 2910 Clinton Avenue, Fort Worth, Texas.

"Yes, it's true," continued Mr. Smith. "I have gained in weight on Oregone, and I am stronger and feel better than I have in the last year. I don't believe that anybody could have been in a worse condition that I was for the past six months and kept on working. I suffered constantly with the most awful pains in my stomach and nerves all over my body, and I had such terrible headaches that sometimes I almost went distracted."

"My food soured on my stomach and formed gas that got up around my heart and smothered me so that I could hardly breathe, and my heart would flutter and palpitate so that I almost thought it would jump out. I got to where I didn't eat enough to keep a bird alive, and even that would come right back up in my throat undigested, and at last my stomach got into such a condition that it wouldn't even retain the lightest of foods. I saw in the papers where Oregone was so highly recommended by people nearly everywhere, that I got a bottle and started taking it."

"Right from the start I began to notice improvement. I have taken five bottles and am on my sixth, and I have had a pain anywhere. I don't start a bit, and have not felt so well for years. I have a big appetite and nothing that I eat hurts me at all. My strength and vitality have come back so that I feel fresh and fine upon getting up mornings and do not feel tired out like I did when night comes."

"The work of Oregone in my case has seemed more like magic than anything else, and it has done for me what all other medicines that I have tried failed to do, and I freely and fully recommend it to my friends whenever chance I have."

Oregone is not a secret remedy, but a natural substance that is absolutely safe and can be used by anyone. It is available at the pharmacy, or for the name of a special Oregone advertisement.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" --- Caught Between

BIG DRY GOODS MAN TO MAKE CITY HIS HOME

G. M. Brown, president of the Richardson-Brown company, which operates a chain of dry goods houses in Jacksonville, Athens, Waxahatchie and Ranger, is in the city visiting his store for a few days and making an inventory of his large stock preparatory to going to the North and East to make a large purchase of spring wearing apparel.
 Mr. Brown is so well pleased with Ranger that he has decided to move here in a short time, bringing his family. Incidentally he is to make the Ranger store the largest in the chain and to make Ranger headquarters of the company in Texas. The company has a large capital stock and is the biggest dry goods house in all West Texas.
 Mr. Brown is a live wire merchant. Under his direction of fairness and with close-cropped prices the business of the firm has grown by leaps and bounds until today it is one of the largest establishments in the state.
 Sometime ago the firm decided that Ranger was an admirable place to locate a branch of the firm. The large dry goods business of Patterson on Main street, between Commerce and Rusk, was purchased, the stock was enlarged and the building remodeled and twice the space of Patterson's was added, making it one of the largest dry goods houses to be found in West Texas. Business has been good with the firm ever since it entered the oil field. Because of the outlook Mr. Brown has decided to make headquarters here and reside in Ranger where he can better direct the operations of the business in the oil fields.
 In an interview with a Times representative Mr. Brown said he was enthusiastic over the outlook for Ranger. Not only did he see indications for improvement of all business lines and great volume of trade who were engaged in honest business here, but he could see the future of the city, and the like, and other factors that would make it a most desirable place to live.

CITY TAX RATE WILL BE $1.50; FEW PROTESTS

The tax board of equalization for the city and the school district met Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock to consider matters of tax adjustment. Few complaints have been received in connection with the work of Tax Assessor and Collector Ringold and the work of the board will be very light. The tax rate for the city will be $1.50 this year, and for the school district 50 cents.
 Collection of taxes for the city and the school will begin next Monday. The old fire hall will be headquarters for Mr. Ringold until the new Marston building on Main street is completed and the city officials move in.

"UNDESIRABLES" FLOCKING TO THE UNITED STATES

EL PASO, Oct. 27.—Urgent representation regarding the menace of the entire country arising out of the reported daily crossing of hundreds of alien immigrants of the "most undesirable class" at all ports of entry along the border, have been made to the United States public health service at Washington by Dr. J. W. Tappan, medical officer in charge of the El Paso station of the public health service. It is officially announced today.

Commenting upon his report, Dr. Tappan said: "At El Paso we get those immigrants who for some reason cannot slip by in any other way. By far the greatest number—and these are the most undesirable class—cross the border at points other than ports of entry."
 Because of lack of appropriations, 150 inspectors were dropped from the service July 1, last, according to F. W. Berkshire, supervising inspector of the United States immigration service along the entire Mexican border. Approximately 200 men still are at work along the international line, Mr. Berkshire said.

COTTON AT ABILENE BRINGS 38 CTS. POUND.
 ABILENE, Oct. 28.—The highest price on record, 38 cents, was paid here Saturday for cotton, but little of the staple changed hands even at that figure.
 Continued rains have held up picking and the crop is beginning to lose rapidly. There is a strong movement on foot in this section now to induce the farmers to hold their crop for 45 cents a pound, but as the grain crop has been denied them immediate cash, many will not be able to hold.

BURK REFINERY IS BOUGHT FOR $300,000
 FORT WORTH, Oct. 28.—The refinery of the Security Refining company at Burkburnett has been purchased by the Invader Oil & Refining company, the deal having been consummated last week. This refinery was completed a few months ago, having been put into operation in July. The refinery has a daily capacity of 1500 barrels.

The total consideration was $300,000, and the Invader company took possession of the property last Saturday, according to the announcement here.

PASSIN' 'EM IN REVIEW

State and A. and M. Monopolize Texas Football Title— Syracuse Passes the Buck, Won't Be Champion— Big Ten Eliminations—Iowa's Hard Luck.

Saturday's football games in Texas shed little excitement. There were no "crucial" games on tap, unless State-Baylor game can be so judged by the score, it could be fact, it nearly approached a standard score which State and A. and M. are wont to maintain at the smaller Texas colleges. Now and then one of these generally Baylor or T. C. U. rather good eleven in the state to hold the state institutionally good game, and once in a while for instance victory over Texas in may hold this team intact for three years. Then they have the rack and another small Texas team has ever in State and A. and M. in years.

In speaking, football teams may be divided into three classes: the premier honors; Rice and the denominational colleges; and the third place—and then again, there are the "college" colleges, which ever so often will wallow one of their (as our precise English call it). This kind occurred Saturday at Baylor college of over S. M. U. at Dallas. National eighty-five-yard game of two minutes of play. It was a mighty blow to the Southwestern conference is ranked by Dallas sport writers and the aspiring journalists down at the University of Texas as a considerable factor in football, tramped on by an "upstart secondary school." As a matter of fact, in its five years of football, this school has never shown itself to be in the class with Baylor or T. C. U. or Southwestern.

T. C. U. and Southwestern, by the way, played a very ladylike game at Fort Worth Saturday, according to newspaper accounts, Southwestern winning 10-0. T. C. U.'s unusually good respects of this year, based on a host of veterans from the successful teams of two preceding seasons, were wrecked by the unfortunate controversy between faculty and students over disciplinary matters, which resulted in the expulsion or withdrawal of practically every regular. Judging by the scores, the only creditable performance being a 14-7 loss to Oklahoma A. and M., the Christians haven't much this year, and probably would admit it. This being the case, Southwestern's small score doesn't buy much for them, either.

Rice's 5-0 victory over Baylor college and A. and M.'s 12-0 defeat of Trinity merely show scoring power over weaker eleven, and are no criterion for judging what these teams will do when they get together. Rice only beat Baylor 7-0, while State won 28-12, and an comparative score it could seem the Longhorns have the edge over the Houston collegians. However, Rice played the Bears at Waco, while Texas took them on at the University of Texas' smaller college—Clark field. A seemingly small difference in the score.

On account of the Farmers' success to have a shade the best of it for the state title and a possible look-in for the southwestern, but they're waiting now about the loss of all their support through injuries. What affects this will have on the outcome of the season's play, it is hard to say. No other Texas college seriously handicapped in this year.

Federal Trade Commission to Make Oil Probe

Special to The Times.— WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 28.—The Federal Trade Commission will conduct a thorough investigation of the situation in the Wagoner and Burkhardt fields. This announcement was made here by W. E. Clark, special representative of the commission, after a conference with the executive committee of the Wichita Falls Producers and Refiners' Association. Mr. Clark was sent here to investigate charges of unfair practices by eleven pipe line companies, advanced by members of the Texas delegation Congress.

Members of the association laid before Clark their grievances with respect to oil runs, mainly the alleged refusal of some of the pipe lines to accept oil for running except at a figure below the market price in this district. What course the investigation is to take was not disclosed by Clark.

Gillespie Well Near Abilene to Be Brought In

ABILENE, Oct. 28.—Rain and mud prevented activity at a number of Abilene tests during the past week, but most if not all of them are expected to get under way again early this week.

It is announced that the Gillespie well, located ten miles southwest of Abilene, is ready to be brought in. The well would have been brought in last week but for rainy weather. The well will be drilled into the sand Monday or Tuesday, and splendid results are expected. The depth is 2100 feet. Drilling likely will be resumed during the day at Hamilton No. 1, in Cedar Gap, which is at 1575 feet after passing through a rich oil sand. Nothing was done the past week at Hale No. 1, at Iberis, which is 1140 feet deep. Work is expected to be resumed today at Oscar Parker No. 1, four miles southeast of town, which is 1110 feet deep.

AGENTS MUST BULLETIN TRAINS AT ALL DEPOTS

AUSTIN, Oct. 28.—Allison Mayfield, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, is notifying all railroad officials to instruct their agents at all towns to bulletin "agents" in accordance with the state laws. Since the government took over the lines violations of the state statutes have been numerous. Upon instant complaints for better service the state is taking this action and unless the law is hereafter literally complied with complaints will be filed.

EAGLE PASS RETAINS WAR TIME TEMPORARILY

EAGLE PASS, Oct. 28.—This town has decided not to return to "pre-war time." In order to conform to railroad time the Chamber of Commerce and other large interests have adopted the new time. Eagle Pass is now in mountain time, making the pre-war time very inconvenient.

R. R. Commission To Hold Pipe Line Hearing at W. F.

Special to The Times.— WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 28.—The Texas Railroad Commission will hold a hearing in the near future to hear complaints advanced by operators against pipe line companies, according to the belief expressed here by oil men. It is understood that the matter will be thoroughly threshed out and the status of the various companies with respect to their being common carriers or not definitely established.

THESE ARE THE SHIPS THAT "DIDN'T GET A CHANCE"

SEATTLE, Oct. 28.—A gray fleet of forty-eight war-built, uncompleted, wooden cargo vessels tugs idly at its moorings in Lake Union, near the heart of Seattle. The boats, some of them barely more than hulls, are owned by the United States Shipping Board and are worth $12,000,000, it has been estimated. Most of them are ready to receive their engines.

"Ships that didn't get a chance" have been called, as the war rushed them onto the ways and into the water, ended before they reached the seas to do their share in forming a part of "Pershing's Bridge" to carry American men and supplies across the Atlantic to France. Side by side the ships lie, most of them in a long row near one of Seattle's lake boulevards. After being launched at various northwest yards, several at formal exercises, the ships, one by one, were towed to Lake Union to wait for the day when they will be completed and set to sail the seven seas.

There is talk of American, Swedish, British and other buyers for the "gray company" of vessels. Some of them have been advertised for sale but as yet none has been sold. Sixty watchmen are on duty at the ships day and night and five tugs ply around the fleet. On fair days they play their boss on the decks drenching them as fire protection.

JAKEHAMON TAKING AS OF REAL

Jakehamon is assuming the role of a town, with a thriving business program under way, according to George McQuaid, manager of the town for the Hamon & Kell interests. He has just returned from that contributing center of the field.

The Jakehamon hotel, owned by Captain F. H. McFarland and Mrs. Beulah Loudermilk, is rapidly nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by Nov. 20, according to the contractor. One of the store sites in the new hotel has been taken by the Woods Drug company of Dickinson, Texas, and others have asked for locations in the hotel. Captain McFarland will lease several offices in the new hotel.

J. W. Blakey of Dallas is putting in a lumber yard and the Kirkpatrick Lumber company is well along with its construction. An enterprising Jakehamonite has started a bakery in the new town and finds a ready sale for her wares.

"Vag?" Sez Judge

"Why, $104 Is More Money Than Court Has"

In the city court this morning a young man was acquitted after a trial on a charge of vagrancy. The testimony developed the fact that he had $104 on his person at the time of his arrest. Judge Davenport remarked he "had more money than the court."

A man pleaded guilty to violation of a traffic ordinance. Two boys who were arrested at four o'clock this morning by a local officer were held for investigation. They were recently implicated in a petty theft case, it is said, and they could give no satisfactory reason for being on the street at such an early hour this morning.

Local officers are having a great deal of trouble with boys ranging in age from twelve to seventeen. Recently a fifteen year old boy was arrested for alleged passing of forged checks. Another juvenile stole a horse and saddle, it is alleged, and many other offenses by idle and vicious youngsters have come to the attention of the police.

Brick Being Laid on Main Street

Laying of brick on Main street, between Rusk and Austin, was begun today. A large force of Mexicans was at work on the job. The cold weather might have had something to do with the zealous activity then displayed.

Completion of the two blocks of Main street, for which the concrete base is already laid, will give the city two blocks of paved streets.

Gravel and concrete for paving two blocks of Austin street are being loaded. The contract of the General Construction company calls for two blocks on Main, two on Austin and two on Rusk.

General Pershing's Chief of Scouts Visiting in Ranger

John Moore, a ranchman of El Paso, is visiting friends in Ranger. Moore is an old-time cowman known to the border, and active in scouting under General Pershing during the punitive expedition against Villa's forces in Mexico, following Villa's senseless attack on Columbus.

Moore said to know the trail between Texas and New Mexico through the wilds of north Texas as well as any man in the country.

HEIR TO THE

Society was startled to learn that Samuel Morgan, the sole heir to the Morgan millions, was scrubbing floors in an office building for twelve dollars a week. Apparently his allowance had been withheld since his marriage to Miss Constance Winwood, but no reason can be assigned by his friends for any opposition to a very charming girl.

Mrs. Lathrop winced at the last word. Yet? Her forty-eight years had never faced her so uncompromisingly before. Later on, as they walked along the board walk to the beach, she felt her heart beat fast at the thought of the impending meeting with the major. "Her little boy," she had called him, and he had really seemed to be that. It had been three years since she had seen him and he had been a little, awkward, half-grown cub of a boy, and now he was a man. She wondered if it would mean the end of her own midsummer romance. Would the major stand the shock? Suddenly Ralph gave a low whistle and looked ahead of them, his eyes keen with quick joy.

"Say, mother dear, excuse me just a minute, won't you? There's a girl
 I met out west."

She sat down to wait for him under one of the sunshade shelters and here the major joined her. He was delightfully proprietary and tender with her, and then he sighed and motioned to her to look down on the beach. Two figures showed behind a cheery red parasol.

"I told Irene this morning, and she laughed at me and fessed up. It seems she been engaged four months and didn't dare tell me because it seemed to be just a boy and girl affair. Have you any sympathy with them at all? I mean do you think they know their own minds?"

"I sympathize with romance always, and it is never so ideally beautiful as in youth," she answered.

Then the cheery parasol twirled in their direction. Just as she wondered how she could break the shock of Ralph, and coming leisurely toward them, were the two—Irene and Ralph. There was no mistaking their attitude toward each other, and the major smiled proudly.

"Nice sort of chap, isn't he? I like that military cut he has. First name's Ralph; didn't catch the last."

Mrs. Lathrop leaned forward, her eyes filled with sudden tears. "Whv, why—" she faltered before she thought, "It's my little boy!"

The major's hand closed over hers and they waited.

"I knew all along that you were Ralph's mother, but I didn't dare to say a word until he came," Irene said, blushing. "But I was so glad when Uncle Evarard thought you were so dear and wonderful for, of course, I suppose we'll be one family now, won't we?"

It was the major's cue and he arose to it with all the grace and ease he would have used in making a five-hour address before the legislature down home in Georgia.

"I cannot conceive of anything that would add more to your happiness and mine at this moment than that you should find an answer in the love of Irene, my because," and here the major's pleased with a touch of mis-"because this same contagion of romance that by some grace of has come to a war-weary world lighted the path ahead for us.
 I think possibly the months of the last two years have made us realize the uncertainty of human
