Japan Ready For War, Says Dallas Business Man

DALLAS, Nov. 3.—The sentiment of China toward America is most friendly, although the Chinese feel that the United States at the Paris peace conference should have stood more consistently by those principles so strongly espoused by this country in the past," according to T. L. Camp of Dallas, who recently returned from a two months' study of conditions in the Far East. Mr. Camp was a member of the party of Dallas business men making the trip.

"In the developments arising after the so-called treaty between China and Japan during the war and in the climax that was reached by the Shantung incident," said Mr. Camp, "an unfriendliness that has existed long on the part of China toward Japan grew into a strong dislike, if not hatred.

"The feeling of China toward Japan has found an expression in an economic boycott in China of all things Japanese. China is living up to this boycott faithfully in every detail. On the other hand, America is commanding its share of China's trade, if not getting more than its share, and American goods are popular.

"In Japan I was struck with the prevailing spirit of unrest among the laboring classes. Our strike has just been concluded. It was, I think, the first strike in Japan."

Mr. Camp declares that he was treated with the utmost courtesy and consideration in Japan and the party of Dallas business men was royally entertained on every occasion. One particular thing that struck Mr. Camp's attention was Japan's preparedness for war. He declares that Japan is keeping her fighting forces fit for maneuvers that are held regularly. Korea is better off, he says, since going under the rule of Japan.

China's Insane Room at Large

International News Service.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 3.—In all of China's 120,000,000 population there is but one insane asylum. This is because the Chinese still believe that an insane person is "but possessed of the devil" and not subject to medical cure.

This is the disclaimer brought to this country by Dr. Charles C. Selden or Eric, Pa., who has returned from the Orient after twenty-two years' service there. He was superintendent of the John G. Kerr hospital for insane at Canton, where some 600 persons are continually being treated for insanity.

Dr. Selden will direct a campaign in this country with a view of returning to the Orient and establishing another hospital. Dr. Kerr, who founded the present institution, died in 1898 and turned over his work before that time to Dr. Selden.

"There are but few cases of insanity caused by alcohol," said Dr. Selden. "Many women become insane through jealousy and cruel treatment in their home life.

"Insane people, not violent, are allowed at large through China. If violent the families hold them prisoners sometimes chaining them. One woman was chained to a post for twelve years."

TEXAS FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES MAKE MONEY

"West Texas Four" Busiest Quartet in the Halls of Congress; Do Aggressive Work

Staff Special to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—This is the story of the "West Texas Four," the business quartet in the Congress of the United States—Fritz G. Lanham of Fort Worth, Lucien W. Parrish of Amarillo, and Claude Hudspeth of El Paso.

They represent the fast-growing action under the skies and they are not working young men themselves. In the last Congress three of the "West Texas Four" were from Houston, and of the quartet from the Free State of West Texas, only Congressman Jones was a member.

When the state was redistricted Houston lost two of her Congressmen and West Texas got them—Lucien W. Parrish and Claude Hudspeth, being the new representatives. Mr. Lanham came up at a re-election when he lost Jones. Will you want to be re-elected?

Similarity of interest drew them together, but it was not until the recent conference with Director General Hines on the rail situation that the strength of the combination became so apparent. The quartet sang together with such perfect harmony that the Director General started clearing up the freight congestion.

Apparently the four West Texans are early risers. They have important conferences with Department officials every morning, yet the things they go after, attend committee meetings, and yet are present at every House roll call. All of the four have some special distinction.

Mr. Lanham not only represents his District but he is a member of the House District of Columbia Committee, which makes him an alderman in the National Capital. Mr. Parrish is a member of the committee on oil and mines, which handles all petroleum matters, which is met for a man who represents the biggest petroleum producing district in the United States. Mr. Jones has won his spurs as a rough-and-tumble fighter. The Amarillo man came out first in a debate with "Uncle Joe" Cannon, the other day, and the western legislator acknowledged it and paid Mr. Jones a neat compliment.

And as for Claude Hudspeth, he had not been in Washington long until he became recognized as the leading authority in Congress on Indian matters.

The "West Texas Four" are modest when it comes to talking about Texas. There is just one element of discord among them, and that is all of them claim to represent the best district in Texas.

Legion to Punish Alien Slackers

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—In order to provide more drastic penalties than are now contemplated for alien slackers who withdrew their citizenship papers to escape the draft a special committee appointed by the national executive committee of the American Legion will recommend to the House committee on immigration and naturalization a more stringent amendment to the proposed Lusk bill, H. R. 2, 9416, which has been introduced in Congress with the support of the legion.

The first section of the bill provides that aliens who claimed exemption from military service of the United States on the grounds that they were citizens of other countries will not be permitted to apply for citizenship or be admitted to citizenship for a period of five years. It is the opinion of the committee that they were citizens of other countries will not be permitted to apply for citizenship or be admitted to citizenship for a period of five years. 'Nothing On Earth Like It,' Declares Mr. Bradley

When so many well known people of unimpaired integrity make statement after statement, and each and every one of them testifying to the same thing day after day, and each and every statement corroborating the truth of such statements can no longer be doubted.

One of the latest testifying to the merits of Orgatone, the treatment that has accomplished such remarkable results, is J. T. Bradley, one of the best known transfer men of Wichita Falls, Texas.

"I don't believe there is another treatment on earth that equals Orgatone when it comes to relieving trouble such as I suffered from," said Mr. Bradley while in conversation with the Orgatone representative the other day. "I have tried many different kinds of medicine but Orgatone is the best I have ever found.

"My stomach was in bad condition for five years before I began taking Orgatone and I suffered a real deal from indigestion. Several weeks ago I noticed this condition was getting more serious. I would get very dizzy at times and often have terrible headaches. I had that tired, worn-out feeling all the time and my energy had reached such a low ebb that I didn't feel like doing any work at all. In fact I was so generally rundown that I had to stay away from my work part of the time.

"I had heard so much about the wonderful work Orgatone was doing right here in this section that I decided it might do me some good, too. I bought a bottle and began taking it. I was actually surprised at the way I improved right from the start. Before I had finished my second bottle my appetite had improved so much that I was hungry all the time. Well, sir, I can go to the table now and eat meat, cabbage, pastry of all kinds or just anything I want and my stomach is in such fine condition that I never suffer a particle after meals. I never have those dizzy spells now, and I haven't had a headache for a long time. I am at my work every day now and am so well now in every way that I can attend to it as well as I could years ago. I can certainly recommend Orgatone Treatment to anybody, for it is one medicine that does what they say it will do."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent secret remedy but a new scientific treatment absolutely free from alcohol in any form and is sold in Ranger by the Ranger Drug Company exclusively under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.

AT THE THEATRE

MARY PICKFORD IRRESISTIBLE AS WIFE OF SLIMS

In the role of the wife of the London slum, in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," the great dramatic success by Frances Hodgson Burnett, and the five-part photo-adaptation of which will be shown at the Queen theatre today, Mary Pickford, the foremost star of the screen, is irresistible. Her role and characterization dominate the play and give it this celebrated subject a vitality and appeal which even its inherent strength would not possess without her. The latest production of Paramount will do much to advance its artistic standard and the immense popularity of Mary Pickford, Miss Pickford is particularly well adapted to the part of the unkempt but quick-witted, clear-minded and pure-hearted London wai known as "Glad." With a wealth of opportunity constantly at her command through out the entire characterization, the little star makes an impression that will linger as long in the memory, perhaps as her portrayal in that excellent photoplay "Tess of the Storm Country."

Although "Little Mary" is the center of interest in the production and the plot and its development revolve about her, she is exceptionally supported by a sterling cast.

HARD BOILED!

Harold Lloyd claims that he has discovered the world's champion heavyweight "hard-boiled egg." Mr. Lloyd is an enthusiastic boxing fan and never misses a night at the weekly glove contests held in Vernon, a suburb of Los Angeles; he has occupied the same ringside seat every Tuesday evening.

In talking with the trouper of the Rolin Film Co. he encountered a grouchy chap who had never sat in any other than the gallery benches. He complained that he couldn't tell one boxer from another, his chair was so high and far removed from the ring. Thinking to give him a treat Mr. Lloyd invited the sad faced fellow to sit at the ringside with him the following Tuesday evening.

"How do you like it down here?" Lloyd asked after two or three bouts had taken place. "I'll say you can tell them apart down here," cried the man. "O, I dunno," said the grouch, "I can't see any too well; the referee is allus getting in the way."

SESSUE HAHAKAWA WILL BE AT OPER HOUSE WEDNESDAY

The climax of "The Gray Horizon," Sessue Hayakawa's latest production distributed by Exhibitors Mutual, is one of the most unexpected and tense situations ever developed in screen drama. The production is a Robertson-Cole picture, made by Harbort, or the story by Clifford Howard under the direction of William Worthington.

Through hours of torture Yano Masata, the young Japanese artist had stood at his easel painting from a photograph the portrait of the man who had been killed—the man who had betrayed pretty O Haru San, Yano's sister. Yano had accepted the commission because the woman he worshipped had asked him to, and he dared not tell her the truth.

As the paint on the canvas took the form of the sinister features of the dead man, Yano's blood boiled. With a cry of rage Yano leaped on the canvas as if it were the living man slashing at it with a knife.

"What's the trouble here? Hurry or I'm crazy," required a voice, that of a man who resented Yano's attentions to his sister.

"Jealous of the dead! Why, you would kill Furthman himself if he were here!"

"I did kill him!"—shouted Yano. "He was a counterfeiter—a bigamist—a murderer—and I killed him because he betrayed my sister!"

"Yano! Yano! It isn't true. It can't be true!"

Yano, looking into the agonized face of the woman he worshipped, knew that if he showed the evidence that would save himself, he would wreck the life of Doris Furthman.

What he did furnish a tense and startling solution to a powerful drama.

"MICKY" COMING TO LIBERTY THREE DAYS THIS WEEK

For over a year we have heard and seen the name "Mickey." We have asked people a thousand times or more where it originated and what I meant and now the answer has arrived—it is "Mickey," the big Mack Sennett special comedy that will show at the Liberty theater for three days commencing Wednesday. Now that the suspense is over, something should be told concerning "Mickey." Mack Sennett claims it is the funniest and best play he ever made, since his first days in the motion picture industry, and that is some mouthful for Mack Sennett, the city name of the heroine, played by the rainbow girl, Mabel Normand. We see her in every sort of role from that of a modern Cinderella and frudge to that of queen of the ballroom.

But after all, Mickey is a lovable harum-scarum tomboy, who gets into all sorts of scrapes that make you laugh at her and cry with her in an instant. Whether with old Joe, her foster father and her foster mother Minnie Ha Ha, in the musing camps, or with her aunt in the city, she finds a place in the heart and holds on until the very last scene.

There is always an atmosphere of reality predominant and not a dull moment in the entire film. Every conceivable form of clean amusement that motion pictures provide with the sole exception of war is used in the production and Mack Sennett adds another feather in his cap through his able direction. But Mabel Normand isn't the only star in the play, there are so many, many others some of them the most prominent personages of the screen.

PATRONS OF LONE STAR GIVEN A TREAT TODAY

Who doesn't find that little thrill when scenes of mystic India are flashed upon the screen? Trills of a deeper character will present themselves when those who are to see "The Witness for the Defense," which is to be shown at the Lone Star theater today and tomorrow. A brute, a sensualist and an adulterer are the three characters which help carry this wonderful story to that high pitch—and to that surprising and least expected ending.

Just when all seems lost and no hope in sight—then that happy climax. A Briggs Saturday Evening Post story comedy, day when there were no gas, burgles, etc., entitled "Spire Party N'everything," will make a happy ending of this bill.

Special to The Times. ABILENE, Nov. 3.—The past week was quiet here at the oil field operations were concerned in the Abilene country. Bad roads held up operations.

Some progress was made at the Silesie well at Cape, which is waiting for fuel at around 2,200 feet. After drilling two days of the past week, rillers at Hamilton No. 1, in Cedar, had a fishing job on late Saturday. Oscar Parker No. 1, four miles southeast of Abilene, has been making some progress and is reaching an interesting depth.

Of special interest is the announcement that E. L. Foster and W. J. Barnhart, two California oil operators, have contracted for a 3,500-foot well north of Eskota, in southeastern Fisher county, thirty miles west of Abilene. These men have already shipped tools from California, and will start the test as soon as tools and material reach the site.

Mr. Barnhart is known in California oil circles as "Lucky Barney," having drilled forty producing wells. He brought in the famous Lake View No. 1 in the Midway field, good for 36,000 barrels, and Lake View No. 2, good for 125,000 barrels. Foster & Barnhart were also pioneers in the Stephens county (Texas) field, drilling a well 2,100 feet deep in that county in 1914. The contract called for only 900 feet, but they went down 2,100 feet, and had the work continued for a few hundred feet further; they would have had the honor of discovering a big field. This well was between Breckenridge and Cadogan.

Mr. Foster, who is a lawyer of Berkeley, Cal., as well as a mining engineer of note, said of the Eskota field: "We have no acreage or stock for sale and will spend our own money and the money of our friends on this test. I believe the Eskota dome is the most pronounced in Texas, having

REFUSED TO PART WITH DOG LEADS TO ARREST

International News Service. LA GRANDE, Ore., Nov. 3.—A woman's love for her dog has led to her arrest here of Mrs. E. W. McCarthy for alleged complicity in a bank robbery.

Police say that William Anderson and James Miller robbed the Bank of Springville, Utah, of $9,000 and that Mrs. McCarthy was with them. The police tracked her spotted dog to this city and arrested the trio. It was said that the men urged her to part with the dog in Utah; but she refused.

AERIAL DERRY PLANES FRIGHTENED WILD DUCKS

PORT CLINTON, Ohio, Nov. 3.—During the aerial derby wild ducks left their haunts in local marches frightened by the whirr of the airplane motors.

Now that the derby is over and quiet once more reigns over the marches they have returned in great numbers.

"BACK TO THE FARM."

The phenomenal growth of a city should not inspire us so enthusiastically as the great growth of our rural districts. But it does. We are all striving to make the best possible showing in the 1920 census. We want our city to eclipse all others in numbers of new inhabitants or in percentages of growth.

The nation should take more pride seeing its rural districts build up.
We are verily growing in populous-ties and decreasing in country communities. We are flocking to the city for the elusive dollar. We are taking the short cut (?) to financial success and seeking the luxuries and conveniences of a utopian age. We are leaving the farms for the "illiterate, the uncouth and the serf." And they—the farmers—are leaving the land for us.

The farm is abandoned. The city is being invested. Yet we complain at the high cost of living. What we need is more production. We must get boys back to the farm. Our "country cousins" must be shown the evils, pitfalls and poverty of city life.
We who don't know how to farm—and can't learn—should remain. But the farmer must be sent back.

The city, therefore, is growing rapidly at the cost of the country. Our high lights, our easy jobs, our conveniences—these are trespassing on the placid minds of the farmer boy.
We are decimating the country of its sons. Our production is rapidly being shorn. Our eggs are advancing. The country rooster has moved to the city.
Along with him have come his numerous wives. They have followed their masters and mistresses. The farm no more appeals!

The "Back to the Farm" movement initiated a few years ago should not only be intensified through the public print and from the housetop and pulpit, but it should be furthered by the state and the government in such a way that it will appeal to the slacker farmers, the "reformed" farmers and to the coming generations who want to earn an honest, remunerative living. The prospects of farming must be made alluring, if need be. They should at least be of such nature as to induce a willing return to the occupation that is the foundation stone to the world.

Unless such influences are brought to bear we—the United States—are lost. Our congested cities filling with new, untried sons of the soil, will become the festering parts of the nation. Already industrial unrest has a "half Nelson" on our throat and we are all fighting over what we know not is the cause—the lack of production. We must give this question our soberest thoughts in an infinitely short time. Our nation must respond with its subsidies, if necessary. We must discourage the wholesale influx of country people into the cities by making the farm a pleasant, congenial place to live. The statistics are startling in their revelation of the stampede for the cities. Thousands of New England farms have been absolutely deserted—the lands lying idle. The same situation is confronting us in Texas. Thousands of Texas farms are all but deserted. In South Texas the indolent Mexican is near poonag has usurped the place of the American on the farm. The farm home no longer houses the American, but the "hombre." The "farmer," or better, the landlord, lives a Croesus in luxury, a non-producer and hard taskmaster for his "hombres." "We have retired," he tells his city neighbors. And so he has. He is one of the thousands who are bankrupting the nation of the cheap labor which he can carry in handcuffs.

Side from the thousands of acres abandoned or tenanted by slothful, cheap labor, we have thousands upon thousands of acres of primeval land which has never known the glad fellowship of a plow. It lies idle for grazing purposes. It is despised for its appearance. It is passed up by the real farmer. These acres must be put in. There must be a full fruition of our fertile soils.

We must—if needs be—put a victrola in the farm home. Give the farmer an auto so he can spin to town.
A telephone to get market quotations.
Electricity to turn his machines, to give illumination, "a fan for his plow" or what not. We must help him through various channels to build up community centers so that there shall be no lack of entertainment to satisfy the youthful proclivities of the girl and the boy of the rural settlement.
The churches must be made as serviceable as those in the city. Intelligence must move in bigger "chunks" from the city to the rural centers.
Country fairs must be specialized upon. In short an incentive must be laid to stimulate "back to the farm" movements at once.

SANITARY CO. BACK ON JOB IN FEW DAYS

Crews of Mexicans, negroes and white men that had promised to report for duty on the sanitary company's wagons failed to appear this morning and the condition which has existed since the seven Mexican drivers demanded a third increase and walked out Saturday remains unchanged.

Though the situation is serious, the sanitary company, headed by P. R.
Hopkins, expects to meet it within a few days and to continue the disposition of garbage and waste according to its contract with the city. By the provisions of the contract, the garbage officer must dispose of the waste matter every thirty days, or as often as needed, and no other individual or company is permitted to do it.

"Those who are feeling the situation are those who have failed to connect up their toilets with the sewer lines and those who have not complied with the requirement that there be one toilet to every ten persons. In many parts of the city, many more than that number are using one toilet," said City Manager Turner.

"I will issue an order this week that every toilet within connecting distance of a sewer line must be connected or else closed, with a Board of Health sign on the door. The city has spent $165,000 to date for a sewer system, which is in operation and but 107 connections have been made."

According to the provisions of the ordinance granting the sanitary company the exclusive right to disposal of waste matter, the private disposition of night soil and garbage is for-bidden.

J. C. LACKLAND TELLS WORLD ABOUT LEERAY

Sidney C. Lackland, publicity agent for the townsites to be opened on the Cisco and Northeastern railroad, left to distribute advertising matter relating to the town of Leeray, which is to be opened by the Lackland brothers and Will P. Love, of Eastland, on Nov.
10.

Mr. Lackland plans to visit Desdemona,
De Leon, Gorman, Carbon,
Eastland, Moran, Breckenridge, Caddo, Wayland and other points, returning next Friday night.

He will distribute 50,000 copies of circulars advertising the opening of Leeray. From the large number of inquiries received daily from all parts of Texas the town of Leeray, and judging by the interest which has developed in cities of the oil belt, Mr.
Lackland predicts that Leeray will make a city in a month. He stated that the phenomenal growth of Jake Lamon will find a counterpart in Lee-ray, which is situated in the heart of the oil belt of southern Stephens county.

W. A. Taylor Made Asst. Agent T. & P.

W. A. Taylor, who has been associated with the local office of the T.
& P. railroad for the past six months, has been appointed assistant freight and passenger agent, to succeed John O'Rourke, who resigned to accept another position in the local office.

Mr. O'Rourke's services as assistant agent have been entirely satisfactory to the company and officials speak of him as one of the most valuable men along the line. He is making a change from his arduous duties to less confine employment on account of his health, which has suffered under the strain of the past several months.

Mr. Taylor is an efficient man and his work in Ranger has demonstrated his ability to measure up to his new position.

THE PRIZE FISH YARN.

International News Service.
NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., Nov. 3.
Hank Orvin, who lives near here, is the author of the prize fish story of the season. He was seated along Buffalo creek watching his line, he said, when there was a commotion in the water. A three-pound bass jumped out of the creek and into his basket on the bank. His theory is that the bass was pursuing a minnow. A minnow was found in the bass's stomach when the fisherman cut it up.

Dynamite, Widows and Matrimony Suicide and Hard Luck John Timps

By Paul C. Yates.

"Considerin' that I'd made a failure of everything I went at," said hard-luck John Timps, "I got desperate and decided there was nothin' left in life for me now and so I'd just as well git married. There was a teller named Swiggs that I ang a well for one time, when I was in the welllovin' business, that had an awfully lovely woman for a wife. I staid at Swiggs' house while I was diggin' this here well and I offer to take to Swiggs and Missus Swiggs."

"One day I used a big charge of dynamite in the well and set out a contract, as a was round away from the well Swiggs come down to see how fast I was diggin' and he hollered at him but he was deaf as a statue and he didn't hear me. I an ox, I hollered he mad but I couldn't make him hear, so I went up to the cause to break the news to his wife. They said he funeral—hit was just a make-believe funeral, for he wasn't there—that he deserted his life with a smile on his face, but I never could figger how they knew."

"Rigot now," I says. "In fact I've already onc so."

"The widder answers me and says,
'Timps, I can't comm' in no way if but if you 'sly my friends that all sly you'll do on a favor.'

"I promise solemn, I answer I
'What is it?'"

"This fellar Bill is to be wedded, said the widder, and says a love man as can handle dynamite. Maybe you've got some about you now?"

"No, I ain't."

"Promise me you will take no notice of Bill and won't make no an' no matter what he says."

"I promise," says I.

"Bill, I heard the slyer, says when the little widder that killed her husband. He ain't got no dynamite and he's home promised not to hurt you."

DODGE CITY, Kan., Nov. 3.—A H. Byers, an entomologist of the Department of Agriculture, has hit upon a new scheme which, he believes, will help rid Western Kansas of grasshoppers.

Recently Mr. Byers released a bunch of "infected" grass-disease among the hopper families and result in the thinning out of the pest in this part of the state.

No "400" in Mormondom Says Head of Church to a New York Girl Reporter

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—"It is easy for the humblest washwoman to interview the head of the Mormon church. We have no 'Four Hundred.' Literally, we live in a great brotherhood. I think that is why we have less labor unrest in Utah. Our religion makes us contented."

Heber J. Grant, president of the Mormon church, smiled genially as he said this. He is a very tall man, past middle age, with bald head, pointed white beard, blue eyes that look out keenly from behind gold-rimmed spectacles, and a large crooked nose that contributes strongly to an impression of forcefulness, which his whole face conveys.

He was dressed yesterday in a black suit of slightly clerical cut, with a tall standing collar and white tie. His manner was affable and easy. He told two stories with "damn" in them though the word in both cases was in quotation, and referred to the "damn nonsense" and "damn lies" which other people, not Mormons, have stated are spread abroad concerning the Mormon church.

Why He Came to New York.
 President Grant made two addresses yesterday, one in the morning before the New York branch of the church in Hawthorne Hall, No. 151 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and one in the evening at the Brooklyn church, No. 273 Gates avenue. He was resting in the home of Rev. G. W. McCune, No. 265 Gates Avenue, in the afternoon when he was interviewed by a reporter for The World.

"My visit to the East has no particular significance," he said. "I simply wished to speak to the people. I expect to visit Washington and Boston."

The young-at-two of President Grant's ten daughters have come from Boston, where Miss Emily is studying music and Miss Frances Marion is attending Radcliffe College. She spent a few days in New York with their father.

President Grant has had three wives whom he loved with tender and equal devotion, he said. This was before the Supreme Court decided that polygamy was unlawful. Since that time the church has put a ban on it, and it has become a dead issue, he said. President Grant very sternly quoted section 58 of the Book of Doctrine and Covenant:

"Let no man break the laws of the land, for he that keepeth the laws of God hath no need to break the laws of the land."
 "We are a law-abiding people," he went on, "and we ask only to be judged by our fruits. We have a high birth rate—the most valuable crop of Utah is its babies; we have a low death rate, a low disease rate, a negligible crime and insanity record, and we rank second in education and very high in music and the arts."

"But, putting aside all moral argument, I can't see how this doctrine of polygamy ever works out happily in practice," said The World reporter, who was a woman. "It seems to be that women have a jealous instinct for putting a high fence around their property, and keeping the fence well mended."
 The head of the Mormon church laughed.

Son of a Sixth Wife.
 "I am myself the product of a plural marriage," he said. "My mother left her affluent home in New York and went to be my father's sixth wife. My father died when I was very young, but my mother and one of my father's other wives remained living long friends. Whenever one visited the other they used to talk long past midnight, and I used to lie awake in the next room and listen to them. When I grew up and went away from Utah for the first time, one of my father's wives took me in her arms and told me that she had always loved me, next to her own son, better than any one in the world."
 "When I married my first wife I told her that I was born in plural marriage, and that I expected some time to take other wives. And her reply to me was that she wouldn't marry me unless she thought I would not if I were not good enough for more than one wife she wouldn't want me."
 "You see, in our church only men who could obtain the highest recommendations for honor and uprightness could get permission to have more than one wife. These requirements were so high that the number of Mormons amenable to the Edmunds-Tucker law was never larger than two per cent of the whole number of our faith. And the stories which have been printed—one of them was printed only recently—to the effect that Mormons are importing young girls for wives, or in any way using the slightest coercion to induce plural marriages, is absolutely absurd. As I said before, plural marriage is a dead issue since the decision of the Supreme Court."

This procedure was carried out in the case of the Lone Star and the Liberty. Trial of the cases is set for 10 o'clock morning.

Speaking of Ads

How Does This Hit You, Steve, Old Thing?

There is need of houses in the city. There are many people looking for real homes. And all of them are reading The Times want ads, according to evidence submitted by Byron Parrish.

In Sunday's Times this advertisement was to appear inserted by Mr. Parrish: "For Rent—Tent house." The inspired compositor, following the example of his forefathers at Boston harbor, dropped a "t." As the advertisement appeared it read: "For Rent—Tee houses." And applicants for ten times that many homes besieged Mr. Parrish.

'DOC' RUCKER LAMENTS DAY OF THE MOVIE

H. D. Rucker and Johnny Metcalf today took out a permit to operate a "medicine show" on the streets of Ranger.

Dr. Rucker is an old time "medicine man," having followed the circus with an entertainment and a line of patent medicines for the last twenty five years. Some years ago he had a large tent theater and a stock company which drew large crowds every night. He showed for some weeks on a vacant lot at the corner of 5th and Throckmorton streets, in Fort Worth.

In an interview with a Daily Times reporter he stated that the day of the small stock company is ended. He said he spent several thousand dollars this year in an effort to get a good stock company together, but was unable to complete an organization to take the road.

A decade ago, he explained, the profits in his line of business were enormous. The motion picture was unheard of, and the big circuses did not visit the smaller towns. A "medicine show" enjoyed the patronage of the whole country and in addition to the gate receipts from the show he sold many bottles of liniment and other medicines.

Even the smaller outfits, consisting of a "Doctor," a wagon and team and camping outfit, two or three negroes to furnish music and crack jokes on the street, and a line of patent medicine—even these outfits enjoyed enormous popularity and made big money.
