

COAL FAMINE ALREADY HITTING SEVERAL STATES AND AID ASKED

TRAINS ARE TAKEN OFF IN MIDDLE WEST--STEPS TAKEN TOWARD RELIEF

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The dispute between the nation's bituminous coal operators and union miners remained deadlocked today with the leaders of both the producers and the miners agreeing that the blunt refusal of the Department of Justice to withdraw the injunction proceedings against the officers of the mine workers had destroyed all hope for an immediate settlement of the strike.

Steps were taken today to reduce the menace of the threatened coal shortage, already imminent in some sections. Six passenger trains have been taken off of the railroads in the Middle West. Several Iowa, Nebraska and California towns have requested relief from the shortage.

The mayor of Topeka, Kan., telegraphed the West coal director today that the city was without coal and that "hundreds of families are in immediate need."

The general conditions are declared to be unchanged.

"DON'T FEAR," SAYS HINES.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Information in the Department of Government officials indicated today that there is an increase in bituminous coal production, especially in the West Virginia fields.

A further defection in the union forces was noted, although officials were unable to say whether the break was increasing to any great extent.

Director General Hines of the railroads reiterated that no community need fear of becoming cut entirely off from fuel supplies as long as the stocks are under the supervision of the railroad administration.

MINERS TO TRY TO KILL U. S. ORDER

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 6.—Attorneys for the United Mine Workers of America same time today will file a motion in federal court for the dissolution of the restraining order which prevents officials of the union issuing instructions to the striking miners.

Officials in conference with attorneys are understood to have completed the writing of the motion. Such a motion is in accordance with court rule and must be filed two days in advance of arguments.

Hearing of the government's petition in the temporary restraining order is set for Saturday, this being the last day for filing motions.

DRIVE STARTED FOR MEMBERS OF RED CROSS HERE

A meeting of the Ranger Chapter of the American Red Cross was held at the First Methodist Church Tuesday, at 2 p. m. A quorum was present with the addition of Mrs. Pettit, a representative of the Eastland county organization.

Mrs. M. H. Smith was elected chairman; Mrs. Howard Gibson vice-chairman; Mrs. C. L. Phillips secretary; Mrs. Mills Davenport 2nd vice-chairman; Mrs. John Ghoslon 3rd vice-chairman; Mrs. Kent, 4th vice-chairman; and Mr. Freeman treasurer.

James Jenkins was selected as chairman of the home service committee and Mrs. Earl Riggs, secretary. George Hemmingson was elected chairman of the publicity committee, Mrs. M. A. Turner chairman of the nursing service and Mrs. Woods, secretary. Miss Hooker was elected chairman of the Junior Red Cross committee, with power to appoint her own assistants.

A financial report was made. Mrs. Pettit stated that the Red Cross is asking for $15,000,000 to complete its war work and that on previous occasions Eastland county had always over-subscribed its quota.

The executive committee decided to begin a membership drive, in line with the movement all over the United States and James Jenkins, Jr., was appointed chairman of the Ranger membership drive. Members to assist Mr. Jenkins are Mrs. Melvin, Mrs. Mills Davenport, Mrs. Essel Wilson, Mrs. Jack Rateliff, Mrs. L. F. Chapman, Mrs. George Hemmingson, Mrs. J. M. White, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Stockman, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. W. A. Hyatt, Mrs. Harry Madden, Mrs. Hect, Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. Ray Todd, Mrs. Earl Jones, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Oakley Mrs. Dr. Weir, Miss Pancoast, Mrs. Mabel Wilson, Mrs. Beataph, Mrs. Rider, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Boeman, Mrs. Powell, and Mrs. M. A. Turner.

It was decided to have a house to house canvass for membership in an effort to secure 10,000 members for the American Red Cross in Ranger. Mr. Jenkins was authorized to purchase some temporary stationery for use of the committee.

"INSURGENTS" BREAK UP DOCK STRIKE AT N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The strike of 40,000 longshoremen appeared to be broken today.

The deciding factor was the surrender of the "insurgent" strikers, who promised Mayor Hylan to return to work today at the old rate pending decision from the national adjustment commission.

ALFONSO TO FRANCE.
PARIS, Nov. 6.—King Alfonso is leaving England today for France. He is expected to arrive at Paris tonight.

City To Get After Streets With Grader

Ranger will get after its city streets and with the purchase of a power grader, at a cost of $4,500 and the creation of the position of superintendent of streets, will see that the streets are made passable, kept free from holes and that alleys of the business section are put in shape. This was the action of the board of commissioners at this week's meeting.

With the streets in the shape that they are now some of them too heavy for heavy teams with empty wagons, a grader cannot be as effective at first as it will be later. Wagons and men will be used to do the first grading on the worst streets and the grader will be used on those already in fair condition.

Superintendent of sewers and city auditor were positions also created by the board, on suggestion of City Manager Turner, who considers these positions necessary to complete the machinery of administration.

The superintendent of sewers will have entire charge of the sewer system and the disposal plant, and will be responsible for the maintenance of the system. A fence will be built around the disposal plant at once.

All accounts of the city will be kept by the city auditor, who will make a weekly report to the city manager and to the board of commissioners and will make a monthly report which covers all receipts and expenditures of the city. This report will be made public through the Times.

The franchise of the Ranger Light and Power company was read for the third time and becomes effective.

OHIO WETS STAGE COMEBACK AND ARE LEADING

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—Late returns shatter the prediction that the "drys" had carried the prohibition proposals. Fairly complete returns, which are however unofficial, from 59 to 88 counties give the "wets" a lead of 14,000 on the repeal of the amendment, 27,000 on the beer proposal and 48,000 on ratification and 78,000 on the Crabb bill.

The previous 29 counties last year gave a "dry" majority of 32,000.

In Doubt In Kentucky.
LOUISVILLE, Nov. 6.—The fate of the statewide prohibition amendment in Kentucky is still in doubt.

Only forty counties of the 120 have been heard from, showing a majority of 16,000 against the amendment.

DEPUTIES FEAR PEPPER RIOTS, WEAR GOGGLES

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 6. Deputy sheriffs appeared at the entrance to the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company today wearing goggles as a protection against a recurrence of the "red pepper" riots which occurred Tuesday and Wednesday. Women rioters threw pepper in the officers' eyes and then tried to seize their revolvers.

Apparently discouraged by the arrest of twenty-four women yesterday, the women rioters failed to appear today.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 6.—The naval trans-Atlantic flyer NC-4 left at 7:15 o'clock this morning on a non-stop flight to Cincinnati, a distance of 700 miles.

WANTS SPAIN TO FORM ALLIANCES.
MADRID, Nov. 6.—Alliance of Spain with friendly powers to insure the avoidance of war were urged by former Premier Romanones in a speech here today, saying, "Treaties of alliance with France, Great Britain and the United States would be a safe guard that would keep us out of war."

BIG REVOLT IS DUE IN GERMANY, PAPER ASSERTS

ESSEN, Germany, Nov. 6.—Investigators for the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung in Berlin claim that they have discovered plans for a Communist uprising to depose the present German government and establish one modeled on the Russian plan.

Associated with the Russia soviet system, the investigators assert that the proposed revolution is to be aided and abetted by Russian Bolsheviks and its outbreak will have its beginning in the Ruhr coal district.

The newspaper responsible for the story publishes the warning from what is said to be a well-informed quarter, and that account is given more credence than the many rumors which are now in circulation.

'WAY BACK IN '16 HUNS KNEW LAND WAR WOULD LOSE

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—The official archives, which have been disclosed at the sessions of the sub-committee investigating the war, have brought the astonishing revelation that army authorities went on record in 1916 as declaring that land warfare could not win the war for Germany.

They declared, so the records show, that Germany must win the war "diplomatically and politically."

Negro Trials Start at Helena

HELENA, Ark., Nov. 6.—The trials of the negroes charged with nightriding in connection with the Elaine disturbances began today in the Phillips county circuit court.

French Minister Told to Resign.
PARIS, Nov. 6.—Premier Clemenceau has summoned Albert Lebrun, minister of blockade and the invaded regions, and has demanded his resignation.

CHARGE THAT GOVERNMENT COTTON REPORTS INCORRECT

Special Leased Wire.
FORT WORTH, Nov. 6.—The Texas Farmers' Union, through its president, has issued a statement in which it is charged that the last cotton crop report of the Department of Agriculture is incorrect, the allegation being that persons who are incompetent to gather the statistics have been put in charge of getting the reports.

ONLY TWO OF THE AMENDMENTS IN TEXAS APPROVED

DALLAS, Nov. 6.—With the further election of the vote in Tuesday's election in Texas, the failure of the amendments which were considered doubtful yesterday was more conclusively brought to the fore, and trained observers predict that only two of the issues voted on have been approved.

They are the amendments increasing the amount of Confederate pensions and permitting the city of Galveston to issue $5,000,000 in bonds for harbor protective work.

While the vote on the amendments proposing the separation of the University of Texas and the Agricultural and Mechanical College and to allow the dependents of convicts to share in prison profits, still was close, the early lead in their favor has been cut down and the latest returns show a tendency toward defeat.

There is virtually no change in the relative majorities by which the other three issues were defeated.

WILL DISCLOSE HOW PRES. VIEWS RESERVATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Wilson's views on the reservations proposed by the Senate to the Treaty of Versailles will be given by Senator Hitchcock at a White House conference within the next day or two, Secretary Tumulty said today.

An arrangement is being made with the President's physician, Dr. Cary Grayson, whereby the President and the senator can meet soon.

THEY CAN SLIDE LIKE KELLY AT FIRE HALL NOW

The conventional "pole" of the fire hall is being installed at the local fire station. From this time on, the firemen will not have to lose time coming down the stairway. They will merely grab the pole and slide to the ground floor.

No fires of any magnitude have occurred in Ranger for the last several weeks. On account of the failure of the sanitary department to remove trash from downtown premises in accordance with its contract and the consequent accumulation of large quantities of inflammable material, the danger of fire is very great at this time.

A boxcar blaze a few nights ago furnished the only real fire of the last two months. Fire Chief Ed Smith is very proud of the record he and his men have made in keeping down fires.

Senora Carranza, President's Wife, Very Near Death

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6.—Physicians attending Senora Carranza, wife of President Carranza, have given up all hope for her recovery, according to the announcement made here today.

They declared that she can live only a few days.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 6.—Judge Walter Evans of the Federal district court November 12 will hear arguments in a suit to test the war-time prohibition act and the Volstead enforcement law.

The date was set following the filing of a suit yesterday by Chicago attorneys in behalf of the Louisville Distilling company.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—Kansas is leading the southern division with 150,000 members enrolled in the Red Cross drive.

DOCTOR QUILTS EX-KAISER, SAYS PAY TOO SMALL

AMERONGEN, Nov. 6.—The suite of the former German emperor has been reduced to five persons as the result of the departure for Berlin of the ex-kaiser's private physician—Dr. Foerster, and family.

It is the gossip of this little village that Dr. Foerster was unable to support his family on the meagre salary the ex-German ruler was paying him, so he was returning to his general practice.

STOP 1 MINUTE, FACE TO EAST, ON ARMISTICE DAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—As an observance of Armistice Day, November 11, all Chicagoans at 11 o'clock will stop for one minute and face toward the east, according to the plans which have been officially adopted here.

150,000 Bales Sent to Germany From the South

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—Approximately 150,000 bales of cotton have been forwarded to Germany from Savannah and Galveston recently and other vessels at these ports are loading further shipments for Hamburg and Bremen, according to a report received today by the Manufacturers' Record.

STEEL STRIKE AFFECTING THE RANGER FIELD

The steel strike is seriously affecting development in the Ranger oil field at the present time, according to reliable authority. Much steel which was ordered some time ago cannot be sent to the field until the steel workers' strike is finished. The coal strike is also affecting the shipment of steel and iron, according to the authority.

Freight Agent C. B. Jones stated Thursday that there was a considerable drop off in the receipts of steel and iron and other material needed in the Ranger field. It is serving at least to relieve the congestion in local yards in this respect, but is hampering development here considerably.

Just when a free and unrestricted movement of steel, iron and other material composed of these metals will be resumed could not be stated pending the closing of the strike.

The coal strike is not affecting Ranger as seriously as other metals and industrial centers, because natural gas is used almost exclusively here for generating power. However, the effects of a continued strike will be felt in the falling off of manufactured products used in well drilling, it was stated.

Mere Civilian of Mexico Seeks to Be President

Carl Mays Started Something When He Jumped the Red Sox

When pitcher Carl Mays of the Boston Red Sox last summer jumped the club and demanded that he be sold or traded, he started something that was still in fact something more than a mere sensation of the day. The Mays jump and the resulting sale to the New York Yankees brought discussion between President Johnson of the American league and Ruppert and Houston, owners of the New York franchise. This rupture went so far as to bring on court proceedings, which finally resulted in a federal judge giving a permanent injunction against interference by Johnson with Mays' contract with the New York club.

Moreover, ever since the world's series divvy, something over 13,000 perfectly good diamonds—$13,017.45, to be exact—the share of the third place blub of the American league, have been slowly adding to their number in a Cincinnati bank. This money, according to the final standing, belongs to the players of the New York club. However, the Detroit club, which finished a close fourth, demanded that in accordance with President Johnson's ruling against Mays playing with the New York club, the money should be thrown out, which would give the Tigers third position in the race and the post-season split of the above mentioned $13,000. Since, if the money was once distributed among the Galahad athletes, it would be no simple matter to collect it back and redistribute it among the Detroit players, provided the courts finally sustained Johnson and Detroit became entitled to the prize, the national commission played safe and held onto the swag. To date the money is intact and drawing interest, but in view of the court's decision against Johnson, it is probable that the commission will turn it over to the New York club at an early date.

But aside from this unpleasant tangled web, there is an angle to the situation which promises to be even more serious. It was the opening wedge for what might be denominated as baseball unrest, the desire of the player to perform elsewhere than where his contract binds him, without regard to the welfare of the game. In fact, Mays' example has already been followed by another Red Sox player—Everett Scott, star shortstop. Scott has announced to his club owners that he must be traded before the 1920 season rolls around. He says his wife doesn't like to live in the East, and he must go somewhere else, even if it's to St. Louis!

A rather humorous feature came up in connection with Scott's ultimatum. Some enterprising but unscrupulous correspondent saw a chance to pick up some easy "jack" by trading Scott to various clubs which could use his services. So he sent stories to Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis papers. In the Chicago story Dicky Kerr and other players were to figure in the trade; Graney was among those involved in the Cleveland deal, and Siler of the Browns was to be transferred, according to the yarn with which he favored St. Louis.

Needless to say, there was no foundation for any of these reports, but a Chicago and a Cleveland paper accepted it as gospel and splashed it up as big news. But the St. Louis editor was a wise bird and took the trouble of getting in touch with the local magnates, who unqualifiedly denounced the yarn. As a result said Chicago and Cleveland papers furnished amusing reading for the St. Louis man.

To date Scott is still officially a member of the Boston club, but if he remains firm in his decision there probably will be a big to-do about it at some of the winter meetings. Meanwhile the virus is working and is not at all improbable that other players will find something to do with their present location before time comes to pack their bags for the spring training trip.

Babe Ruth doesn't say that he won't play with Boston again, not positively at any rate. He merely says he won't play there for the paltry $20,000 per he is now signed up for.

JOHNSON PITCHES IN OILTON SERIES; COBB IS PARENT, CAN'T PLAY

Walter Johnson pitched recently in a game for the championship of the Oklahoma oil belt. He fanned eighteen of his opponents, but won by a single tally, 3 to 2. Two runs off Johnson came in the ninth inning.

Ty Cobb was scheduled to play in this game, but about that time he became the papa of a brand new boy, so naturally he didn't show up.

What Ruth's demands are has not been announced. Any New York Red Sox owner, let loose a story which won't make them any less. Franco is reported as saying that Colonel Ruppert of the Yanks offered him a $200,000 check for Ruth and Mays, and that he wouldn't take it. Since he sold Mays to New York for $40,000 in cash and players, it would seem that he values Ruth's services at more than $160,000.

DISTANCE OF COLLEGE ROWING EVENT WILL REMAIN THREE MILES

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The pre-war decision of the Intercollegiate Rowing association to shorten the distance of the Poughkeepsie regatta from four miles to three will stand, it is the announcement made by Charles H. Maues of Columbia University. The stewards had decided before the war that a four-mile race was too long, and they will stand on their previous conclusion. The race will probably finish at the same point starting at the Columbia boathouse, a mile down stream from the old starting point.

Texas-La. Oil Men Meet at Fort Worth, Tex.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5.—The Texas-Louisiana division of the Midcontinent Oil & Gas Association met in the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday and named a committee of five to outline a policy that will eliminate waste in drilling in the North Texas fields.

Representatives of the largest production companies pointed out that in a feverish anxiety to tap oil before the other fellow gets it, drills have been started too close to each other and without regard to expense; it was also the opinion of both large and small operators that one well to ten or twelve acres would be a fair standard; all hands agreed that there had been a tremendous waste by operators elbowing each other with derricks even in proven fields.

The committee of five is as follows: Walter B. Pyron, Gulf Production Company; T. B. Hoffer, Humble Oil & Refining company; G. Clint Wood, Woodburn Oil Company; Frank Callinan, Republic Oil & Refining Co.; J. D. Collett, Fort Worth independent operator.

DALLAS, Nov. 6.—The Heathley No. 1 of Brown & Company, situated in the Heathley lease in Stephens county, four miles south of Breckenridge, came in yesterday and is making 1,000 barrels a day, according to local information.

"RACE SUICIDE"

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was the inventor of the now universally employed phrase "race suicide." He depreciated the modern-day custom of increasing the human family as unnatural, un-American and unrighteous.
He did not essay to explain the cause of the present dearth of children among the rich and the "high boys," but it is a task for modern day savants.

Race suicide is practically unknown among the poor. It is at least not prevalent on the farm. But in the cities race suicide has become a national expression of menace. It is undermining the ultimate state.

It is becoming a fad. Everything conspires to make families smaller. The selfish landlord of the to Dallas apartment is opposed to children on his days.
A premises. The owner of rent places refuse families with children.

Ranger I want ads against the kiddies. The yesterday "couple without children" slogan appears promiscuously throughout the advertising department of the newspapers. To have a child or two is to be anathematized.

The divorce courts of the land are overcrowded. Decrees by the thousands are being issued weekly in our nation. In most of the cases the parties in litigation are childless. The tendency of childless couples is toward the divorce court. Where children come to bless the home there is less selfishness more incentive to work and a greater devotion between man and wife. In the average childless family selfishness is predominant.
They are wrapped up in themselves.
Most of them are living unnatural lives. They are usually quarrelsome.
They are never satisfied.

The responsibilities of rearing children is eschewed by thousands today. The task of rearing them seems onerous. It indicates laziness and selfishness. They have never enjoyed life. They had rather carry in their arms a fuzzy dog to fondle and kiss it, than to be unpopular with a child in that usurped place. A child is a despicable thing to them. Some women are so unfamiliar with children that they know better how to care for a dog. But in their eagerness to be popular they are bankrupting their own health. They are constantly daubing on more paint. They don't know the cause of their ill health.

Nine cases out of every ten childless couples are willfully violating the laws of God and nature. They are hastening the hour for race destruction.
They are heaping up for their worlds of misery. When God created man and woman he commanded that they multiply and replenish the earth.
That order has never been cancelled.
It still stands in divine letters before

SCRIPTURE

Mark 7:31-36

And again, departing from the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, he came unto the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis.

And they bring unto him one that was deaf, and had an impediment in his speech; and they beseech him to put his hand upon him.

And he took him aside from the multitude and put his fingers into his ears, and he spit, and touched the tongue;

And looking up to heaven, he sighed, and said unto him, Ephphata, that is, Be opened.

And straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain.

And he charged them that they should tell no man; but the more he charged them, so much more they greatly declared his praise.

And were beyond measure amazed, saying, He hath done all things well; he hath opened the ears of the dumb, and he maketh them to every man and woman who mate.

Therefore, woman's highest achievement is to bear children. The childless couple dispute this in their selfish desire to escape the responsibilities which go with rearing a child. It is the duty of the father and the mother to bring up their children in the way they should go. And every woman will find that the greatest happiness is in having a child or so playing about her—something upon which she can shower her affections and can rejoice in noble manhood or womanhood.

After all the man with a family of children is the greatest asset to the community. He is more steady in his work. He is usually kind and forbearing. He has a wife and children depending upon him. He has the tender care of that offspring. He is the shaper of destiny. He has the greatest responsibility that God has put upon any person. Those who try to escape it reap damnation to themselves.

The laws of the state should prohibit apartment owners, landlords and others from keeping perfectly good people with children out of their houses. Just because there are a few childless couples who would rather hear the whine of a pup than the cry of an innocent babe, is no reason why the child should be debarrred and the pup allowed to scratch his fleas over the rooms. Also a tax should be imposed upon every childless couple. This question of not being able to support a family of children is without foundation. It has been presented without warrant. It is only another subterfuge to escape the responsibilities accompanying rearing children.

The divorce courts of our land will be reduced to the minimum when the nation removes the thorn in its side, brought about the popularity of practicing race suicide, taking the same leap into nothingness that France has taken and suffered for. France is a dying nation. Its population is decreasing. America's will be on the downgrade unless the popular idea is curtailed before it is too late.

The Grant well near Putnam is heaving a sigh of three million cubic feet every twenty-four hours. Putnam is destined to become a remarkable shallow oil field.

Wonder where the modern Elijah is who prayed that it would not rain for the space of three years and six months?

Where is the old fashioned man who used to cord his wood and wait for winter to come on so he could read about the coal strike?

Connection with the sewer system should be made as soon as possible.

Mother-in-Law Taxed $10,000 as Home-Breaker

CHICAGO—Mrs. Lizzie Jones Dyer, a relative of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer, and reputed to be worth a million dollars, was ordered to pay $10,- 000 heart balm to her daughter-in-law
Mrs. Josephine A. Dyer of this city, the other day by a jury in Judge Michael L. McKinley's branch of the Superior Court.

Mrs. Dyer sued her mother-in-law for $100,000 damages for the alienation of her husband's affections.
Young Mrs. Dyer—she is 26 years old, three years the senior of her husband —testified she married in July, 1913, and that on May 14, 1914, she was told by her husband she would have to leave home. The rupture, she said, followed a long series of persecutions by her mother-in-law.
The young wife testified she was compelled to leave her bedroom door open at all times in order that the elder Mrs. Dyer might keep eye on her by means of a periscopic arrangement of mirrors. Even the question of underwear was decided for her by her mother-in-law, she asserted. She was compelled to don the heavy kind and discard the light at the whims of her husband's mother, she declared, whether she found it comfortable or not.

Mrs. Josephine Dyer was greatly pleased with the verdict.
"It's a lot of money, isn't it?" she smiled. "But his love was worth it, perhaps more. I'm tickled to death, however."

Sipe Springs Bank Is Reopened

SIPLE SPRINGS, Nov. 6.—The their accounts. Very little money was withdrawn. Officers, Tom Harrell of Eastland, president; J. B. Pool of Sipe Springs, acting vice president; T. R. Bacon of Will Point, cashier.

The town is now supporting three banks, the First National, the First State and the Guaranty.

The Humble Oil company's Moorman No. 1 consigned to their refinery

oil, the first shipment out of the Sipe Springs field.

The Humble company, the Republic
Oil and Refining and the Beaver Valley Oil and Gas have made seventeen locations the past week and are hauling derricks timber south and southeast, northwest and northeast of the town of Sipe Springs. The Sun company is also locating in the field.
The Atlantic resumed drilling at 2-200 feet.

The entire new townsite is sold and buildings are going up rapidly. A $10,000 hotel and moving picture theater is to be erected in the main part of the town and lumber has been considered here for the purpose.
All rooming houses and hotels are full and 100 more rooms will be completed within the next week.

NON COMES THIS INVENTOR WITH A 7-CENT COIN

Staff Special to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Tony Moss, whose stationary modesty suggests he is the president of the Moo Monkey Grip Tire Match Company, of Oklahoma City, Okla., has come forward to offer relief to a nation which finds annoyance that its individual members come home every night with numerous pennies as a result of war tax.

Moss has just submitted to Congress a model for a seven-cent coin. The model came to town at just about the same time as 7-cent car fare went into effect on national capital street railways, which proves that Moss is a student of psychology. Moss says the seven-cent denomination would practically eliminate the present day nuisance of penny change. The model has been submitted to Ray Baker, director of the mint. Explaining the origin of the idea, Moss said:

"The thought came to me one day when I had a double handful of pennies after making a few minor purchases. After experimenting I discovered that a seven-cent denomination was best suited to eliminate this nuisance. For instance, cigars cost seven and twelve cents, many cigarettes 12 cents, soft drinks for two cost 22 cents, many cities have seven-cent carfare, and movie theaters most places charge 17 cents. Then there are innumerable other articles priced just right to use the seven-cent coin and receive no pennies in change.

"I suggested a monkey for one side of the coin because I believe this intelligent animal is entitled to the recognition Darwin gave it. The monkey, according to the Darwinian theory, typifies the entire human race, therefore its use on a new coin would be in line with President Wilson's League of Nations policy of a united world. The Statue of Liberty, used on the reverse side, typifies the progress made since man descended from the monkey."

Mrs. Wilcox Was a Gallant Spirit

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Ella Wheeler Wilcox, who has just died at 60, may not have permanently enriched American letters, but she had talent which many a weightier writer might have envied—the talent of being read. There are few persons in middle life today we imagine, but we stowed away somewhere in memory a vagrant couplet or stanza this author. Spouting with mock seriousness and impassioned gesture, verses that throbed across the lips of "Dames of Fashion" was one of the stunts of the long ago. What us parodies tickled us and how

Autumn

PAUL C. YATES.

Ye autumn days, ye autumn days—
When all our kinfolks comes and stays
And eats our grub and never pays
And toasts their feet before the blaze,
While we with hatchet goes and slays
The rooster and the hen that lays,
And spends the jits that was to raise
The mortgage on the farm, and prays They'll leave us. Oh, ye autumn days.

the air was filled with the slings and arrows of the iconoclastic paragraphers!

We can recall no other woman writer who was so persistently lampooned. Could ridicule kill, Mrs. Wilcox had long since faded from view. But her ambition was of sterner stuff. She must have had unhappy moments but if discouragement ever entered her presence it was quickly banished. She refused to be laughed out of court. She refused to be vanquished. She kept on writing, kept on fighting and finally won success as measured by her earning power.

She may have won success, too, in point of helpful influence. Her exoteric preachments as a propagandist of optimism have met a demand. In any event that the judgment of her publishers, which, from a writer's viewpoint, is the sought-for verdict. But the outstanding feature of her career, it seems to us, is the fact that she could not be conquered. She fairly lived the philosophy of Henry's "Invictus." She was a gallant spirit.

Coal Strike Is Hitting Abilene a Solar Plexus

ABILENE, Nov. 6.—Abilene burns gas when it can get it, but the strike of coal miners has made itself felt in this city with a vengeance.

Several carloads of coal consigned to local dealers have been seized and held in the local yards on orders from the fuel administration. All the local dealers are out of coal, and on top of that there is a wood famine on. No wood is to be obtained, and with poor freight facilities it is not likely that relief will come any time soon.

The gas pressure has been very low for several days, going off entirely once or twice.

NEW TARZAN STORY MAKING HIT AT LONE STAR THEATER

"The Romance of Tarzan," which is now showing to capacity audiences six times daily at the Lone Star Theater last time today, is a presentation of the concluding chapters of "Tarzan of the Apes," by Edgar Rice Burroughs. The new Tarzan super-cinema disproves the ancient theory that lightning does not strike twice in the same place. It is even more beautiful in its pictorial aspect, and gripping in its dramatic appeal than its remarkable predecessor.

THE REAL ARTICLE

The pretty chorus-girls who appear with Margarita Fisher in "Trixie from Broadway," which will be seen at the Opera House theater today are not movie "Extras," but honest-to-goodness members of the merry-merry. They hailed from a musical show which was playing an engagement in Los Angeles at the time "Trixie" was being filmed, and Director R. William Neill arranged for their attendance daily at the Santa Barbara studios of the American Film Company. He insists that really-truly chorus-girls have a way all their own of behaving at a banquet table that no rank outsider can possibly imitate—at least, not closely enough for the purposes of a Margarita Fisher special production.

As "Trixie Darling," the fascinating little soubrette who marries a millionaire orange-grower, Miss Fisher is a regular fashion parade all by her single self. Bewitching stage costumes, lovely bouffant creations, stunning evening gowns and tailor-made, daintiest of lingerie and house-gown flash upon the eye of the fan in one unbroken succession.

Miss Fisher is supported by a notable company of screen players, including Emory Johnson, leading man, Olga Grey, George Periolat, Frank Clark and J. Farrell McDonald.

FAMOUS FILM WILL SHOW AT QUEEN TWO DAYS.

The management of the Queen has secured for Friday and Saturday "Sins of Ambition." A tale of modern life.

The story follows: Lured to constant and unceasing effort by an all-prevailing ambition to create a universal language which should bring eternal peace to the nations of mankind, Andrew Maxwell forgets and neglects his wife Laurette, and Ruth, his daughter.

Charles Prescott, the president and chief owner of the Prescott Trust company, awakens in Laurette the ambition to again achieve the fame she enjoyed upon the stage and which she surrendered at the time she married Maxwell.

Franklin Church, the younger brother of Jay Church, a millionaire philanthropist, proposes to and is accepted by Ruth at a bazaar given by Violet, Jay's wife, for the benefit of the "Outstretched Arm," a charitable organization of which she is founder and president. Ruth goes off to tell her mother of her joy to find her in the clutches of her angry father, who had discovered Laurette in the arms of Prescott.

Laurette and Ruth take up their residence apart from Maxwell. Ruth discovers that her mother intends returning to the stage with Prescott's promised aid to marry him as soon as she can divorce Maxwell.

Prescott, calling at Laurette's, finds Ruth alone, deep in the study of one of the plays he had brought for Laurette's selection. He becomes enraptured by her beauty, youth and ability and her confession of readiness to give herself to the man who would help her to the stage, makes Prescott determined to do so and to marry her.

Prescott, angered by Ruth's refusal of speedy marriage, attempts to attack her and meets with his death. Laurette, learning of it, tremblingly goes to Maxwell to beg him to aid Ruth in her trouble and distress. After a great inward struggle he consents to do so, and soon the sun of joy breaks through the clouds of deep despair that overshadowed all.

MICKEY DELIGHT AUDIENCES AT LIBERTY THURSDAY.

Theater managers from all parts of the United States are breaking into print with the commendations that they are writing on the human interest and heart appeal that is found in "Mickey," Mack Sennett's second sensational success which is showing at the Liberty Theater in Ranger. But the human interest and heart appeal are only an atom of the many things that have made "Mickey" a glowing success from an amusement standpoint. One year was consumed in the making, and stars that were the pick of the film world were secured to play the major as well as the minor roles. Louise Cody was engaged for the role of Reggie Drake, a society sport; Wheeler Oakman a popular player of the West Coast studios was given the role of Herbert Thornhill, a young millionaire; Minta Durfee, formerly leading woman for "Fatty" Arbuckle is seen as a flapper; Tom Kennedy, the heavy-weight, of the Mack Sennett forces was given the part of a lawyer and friend of Thornhill and Minnie Ha Ha will be seen as the foster mother of the mountain wail, Mickey, played by Miss Normand, who is sent to an aunt in the city in order that she may be educated in the ways of society. Her aunt at first tolerates her believing that she is an heiress and owner of a large gold mine. The mine proves worthless and the wail is sent to the kitchen to do the household work.

Her cousin is soon to be married to the young millionaire, Reggie Drake, but upon seeing Mickey as far as he is concerned the engagement is off. Knowing that the millionaire loves the wail his lawyer tells him his fortune has been swept away. At this juncture Mickey's mine proves a bonanza when a rich vein of gold is struck. Straightway Mickey has many suitors and the escapades she leads them through, brings many laughs and much fun to the audience.

LOUISIANA FIELDS ARE MAKING 315,000 BARRELS

Special Leased Wire. SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 6.—According to a compilation made here, daily average production in the North Louisiana oil fields during the past week reached approximately 315,000 barrels.

By fields, the production is as follows: Red river, 113,000 barrels; Caddo have (including 4,700 barrels in Pine Island, 90,300; Caddo light, 57,400; DeSoto, 19,600, and Claiborne, 35,000.

Contracts have already been let for a part of the second phase plans are in the hands of contractors for bids on the building.

The old plant of the company was destroyed by fire last spring and since that time a temporary plant has supplied current and ice. The new plant will be built on the site of the old, in Abilene.

Mr. Hardgrave stated Wednesday: "We are now building a high power line to Anson from Abilene which will connect up the towns of Abilene, Anson, Stamford and Hamlin. Work will start at an early date on a line to Cisco and when completed will connect all our plants in this part of the state. We are going to push the work as much as we can."

Big Progress Is Seen at Cisco in All Lines of Work

Special to The Times. CISCO, Nov. 6.—With the four and one half million dollar bond issue approved by the Attorney General and assurances that the bonds will be sold at one hundred or better, and with the decks being cleared daily for action on the building of this immense road program and with the city of Cisco with an improvement program of approximately $800,000 on the boards, Cisco's future was never brighter.

People are bombarding the Chamber of Commerce's office daily for houses or rooms in which to live and business houses in which to conduct different characters of business, and none to be had.

Since the last issue of this paper, a large wholesale company has purchased the warehouse and property located near the T. & P. railroad station belonging to the Radford Grocery company, and will handle wholesale chairs and caskets, the name of the company being the Cisco Chair & Casket company with E. S. Walker, of Breckenridge, president and treasurer, and F. M. Conyers, of Shawnee, Oklahoma, vice president and general manager.

Plans are being prepared for a building in which to house the telephone company, when a new standard light telephone system will be installed, and it is expected to be not later than January 1st.

L. B. Norvell purchased the property of the Cisco Ice Cream company on Avenue E, and will immediately install proper machinery for the conducting of an up-to-date machine shop.

Now that it looks like we are going to enjoy some time of sunshine, the farmers will have an opportunity to finish the picking of the immense cotton crop in the western part of the county, the proceeds of which will immediately go into the various banks of this section.

The peculiar formation and strata in connection with the oil development of the county, makes it necessary to drill almost every forty acres, which will mean the assurance of continuous oil development in Eastland county for years to come. New fields are being opened and constant surprises are being sprung on the operators in this line of business, the most of which are agreeable.

Some of the best railroad transportation and great supply of good water for all purposes, her natural drainage and elevation, assuring at all times a healthful community, together with an excellent school system, is compelling people looking into the future in the location of different classes of business, to anchor in Cisco.

3,000-BARREL REFINERY IS GOING TO STRAWN

Special to The Times. STRAWN, Nov. 6.—According to an announcement made by H. C. Edge, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, the Economy Refining company of Cisco has made arrangements to purchase twenty acres adjoining Strawn as a site for its plant, which will be of 3,000-barrel capacity. The capitalization of the company is given as being $500,000.

DERRICKS ARE ERECTED TOO CLOSE TOGETHER

Special to The Times. AUSTIN, Nov. 6.—The oil and gas department of the railroad commission has been studying the question of over-production in certain oil fields of Texas. It regards over-production as a form of wholesale waste. The fire hazard is enormously increased when derricks are so close together as to almost touch. Certain fields in Texas have derricks as thick as cane in a canebrake. Enormous waste and peril necessarily is resulting.

K-M-A WELL IS SWABBING OIL FROM 8-INCH SAND

Special Leased Wire. FORT WORTH, Nov. 6.—The Kemp-Manger-Alben well, near Iowa Park, is swabbing oil from an eight-inch sand, according to telegraphic advices from Wichita Falls Wednesday night. Estimates as to the production of the well, when drilled in, vary from 500 to 1,500 barrels.

THE TIMES' DAILY SHORT STORY

THE BOY

By Will T. Ames

"Stebbins insists the hens would have done better on straight cracked corn. He says the state people didn't take into account the live food our fowls pick up in our run, with all that swampy land near the brook. I suppose he's right."

From scowling contemplation of four loaves of bread, burned on top while not yet thoroughly done, the woman raised a flushed face across which a wisp of her still black hair had strayed. There was more than indignance in the glance she shot at the speaker. She drew the loaves from the oven, protecting her hands with her apron, and flung them, anyhow, on the kitchen table. Then she "crooked" into a chair and stared out through the window. The man, a basket with ten eggs dangling from his hand, stood by the door looking moodily at her.

out and set apart to be the mother of a god. You wanted the universe to be run just for him. You'd have put out the sun and let the world stumble in the dark, if you could, to keep it from shining in his eyes. You coddled him and squandered money on him and kept our nose to the grindstone. And after all, what was it you did for him?"

The woman started stonily, without words.

"I'll tell you what you did—you robbed him of his chance. You made a lighthouse thing of him. And then a wastrel, that frittered away in cub dissipations the little stamina you had left him. You hate this place—the man's voice was thin and high—"this decadent, hopeless life that neither of us is fitted for. Well, what brought us here but the way you filled your job as a mother? What but the desperate hope of giving him back the health your wretched ordering of his life had wrecked?"

"And didn't it?" The woman's breath whistled on the intake. "Wouldn't he have been alive and well today, only for your wicked folly? Didn't you fill his mind with the stilted, false theories you had sopped up at second hand from political ballshoo—that crazy thing you called patriotism? Was it anything but your bad teaching that made him lie to the doctors and cover up his history of tuberculosis? Don't you know it was you, and nobody and nothing else, that sent him over there to die, when here he could have lived? Could have live I tell you! Listen." She strode toward him, menacing him with blazing eyes. "If I spoiled the boy—you—murdered—him!"

A wooden chair was just behind the man. His hand reached out impulsively and gripped it by the back. Then suddenly he slumped into it, covered his face with his hands and groaned.

"I could have stood anything but that—did stand everything!" the woman wailed; "but oh, my boy, my boy!" She flung herself down at the table and sobbed dryly, without tears.

"There were a heavy knock at the door. The man, staring at the floor, made no move. The woman arose, shook her head as if to free it from some tangling entanglement, went to the door and opened it. A telegram had been brought out from town by a neighbor. She tore the envelope and read the message. She wheeled toward the man, her eyes wide.

"Steve! That mill girl—he married her. Steve! He married her, after all, the day before he went. She's dead. In a hospital in Philadelphia. And—listen, man, listen!"—She was shaking him by the shoulder—"there's a baby, a baby boy, Steve! His baby our boy! Oh, God!"

The man was on his feet striving for realization.

"Quick!" The woman was in a gale. "Have me money enough—for the trip—both of us? Then hurry, man, hurry! Steve, we won't quit; we can't quit. We'll fight it out, side by side for him—for our boy's boy!" Her eyes were shining through the first tears she had shed. "Oh, Steve! Steve!"

The light of a new courage and the marks of a new strength were upon him.

"Rose!" And as long ago as the very first she faced the future from the hollow of his arm.

Cleveland Police Uncover Bomb Plots

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 6.—Control of the government through a campaign of terrorism to have culminated next May day, was the object of the band of terrorists whose plans were exposed through the seizure here of seven of its alleged members, according to the police.

Police Captain Lavelle, whose activities resulted in the arrests here revealed that the plans of the "reds" were so far along that sample bombs have already been tested and some knives and steel blades with which members of the ring were to be armed have been made.

According to Captain Lavelle, the members of the "ring" are all of foreign birth. It was planned to have 5,000 each of the knives and blades manufactured. Automatic revolvers were to be provided for the leaders of the movement, it is said.

According to Captain Lavelle the band was getting ready to begin its campaign of terror this winter. Federal authorities have already taken a hand in the investigation. Local agents of the department of justice will take part in the examination of the seven persons under arrest and assist in running down others.

Theodore Loxowar and Steve Matejka, two of the seven arrested here, were held under $15,000 bond on arraignment this afternoon. The other five held on "suspicion" were held under $1,500 bond each.

Police said today that they had found a book containing the names and addresses of many policemen marked for death by the anarchists for the activity in running down the ring.

Correspondence between members of the gang and high officials of the "left wing" of the Socialist party was also seized, the police admitted.

FORT WORTH WOMAN IS REVIVED BY PULMOTOR

Special Leased Wire.
FORT WORTH, Nov. 6.—Overcome with gas and to all appearance dead, Mrs. J. H. Goodman, who resides at 608 Hemphill street, was restored by use of a pulmator late Wednesday evening. Mrs. Goodman entered the bathroom to bathe shortly after 9 o'clock and locked the door. Fearing that an accident had befallen her when she failed to appear thirty minutes later, relatives broke open the door and found her unconscious and the room filled with gas.

A leak in the gas pipe quickly filled the room with the poisonous gas and suffocated her before she had time to call for assistance. A physician was hastily summoned and after five minutes of treatment with the pulmator, Mrs. Goodman was restored to consciousness.

LIGHT VOTE AT SWEETWATER

SWEETWATER, Nov. 6.—A very light vote was polled in Nolan county Tuesday in fact the lightest vote ever polled in any election. With three boxes reporting 96 votes, the good roads, article 8 and the constitutional convention are defeated by about ten votes, while the others carried by the same margin except the pulmotor, Mrs. Goodman was restored to consciousness.

More than two to one.

A wooden chair was just behind the man. His hand reached out impulsively and gripped it by the back. Then suddenly he slumped into it, covered his face with his hands and groaned.

"I could have stood anything but that—did stand everything!" the woman wailed; "but oh, my boy, my boy!" She flung herself down at the table and sobbed dryly, without tears.

Mrs. John Pike Gains 6 Pounds on First Bottle of Orgatone

"It is certainly wonderful the relief I gained from one bottle of Orgatone Treatment and how it is restoring my health after I had spent many dollars for other medicines that did me no good," recently said Mrs. John Pike, wife of a well known miller, and living at 1605 Bluff Street, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"For a long time," she continued, "my stomach gave me no end of trouble, and though I was constantly trying to gain relief by taking something or other I was steadily getting worse. Having no appetite I just had to force down what little I did eat, and after every meal my food soured on my stomach, and I would be miserable for hours from gas that bloated me up so I could hardly breathe. I suffered agony, too, from a hard lump that formed in my chest and wouldn't go away. My nerves went all to pieces and I was so restless I could hardly sleep. In the morning I would get up feeling so tired and worn-out it was all I could do to drag myself about the house."

"From the statements I read in the papers I was lead to think that Orgatone Treatment would do me some good, so I bought a bottle. I was surprised to see the way I began to pick up after I had finished my first bottle, in fact I have gained over six pounds in weight and can eat heartily of anything I want and not suffer the least discomfort from gas or anything else. My nerves are all right, I sleep like a baby and wake up in the morning feeling as fresh as I ever did. My sufferings are now at an end and I am so grateful for what Orgatone Treatment has done for me that I want everybody to know about it."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment absolutely free from alcohol in any form and is sold in Ranger by the Ranger Drug Company exclusively, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adver agent.

RANGER VISITED BY FINANCIERS OF WINDY CITY

Chicago financiers and railway officials spent part of Wednesday in Ranger seeing the sights while on a trip to southern territory. They arrived Tuesday night and left Thursday evening for a return to Chicago.

The party came to Ranger from Fort Worth. They came direct from Wichita Falls to Fort Worth. The Kelly-Greene Oil Company wells at Wichita Falls were inspected.

W. J. Leahy, general passenger agent for the Rock Island system, with headquarters in Chicago, was in charge of the party, who traveled in two Pullmans.

In the party were W. J. Leahy, general passenger agent of the Rock Island System; Ed Kelly, president of the Greene-Kelly Oil company; J. L. McKinley, Judge and Dr. McKinley, Messers Fell, Cleary and Ryan of Chicago and Mr. Smith of Detroit.

The party was much pleased with the Ranger field. It is believed that they will make investments here in the near future.

FORMER PASTOR, NOW OF ANSON, VISITS FRIENDS

Rev. H. M. Peebles, former pastor of the Presbyterian church here, but now pastor of the Anson Presbyterian church, is in the city for a day to see after business matters.

Rev. Mr. Peebles says he is delighted with his new location at Anson. The church is a live one. The pastor has been supplied with a commodious manse. He went to Anson a few weeks ago upon an insistent call from the membership.

Anson is enjoying some of the prosperity of West Texas this year," said Rev. Mr. Peebles. "Cotton receipts have reached about 7,000 bales and a great amount more is yet to be ginned. While Anson has not received as many bales as Merkel, the banner town in that section, the season was later in the Anson country. Crops were immense this year and as a result farmers are in the very best financial condition."

3 MEN BADLY HURT IN SERIES OF ACCIDENTS

Three victims of accidents were taken to the Ranger General Hospital yesterday, suffering from more or less serious injuries.

Nelson Jones, an employe of the Prairie company, suffered severe bruises when he fell off a wagon.

Geo. Lafson, employed by the Prairie Oil and Gas company, had his hand badly mangled when it became fastened in a casing.

C. E. Guinn, in the employ of F. S. Kennedy, suffered a broken leg when a boiler fell on him. His injury is very serious. The other two men are resting well.

Tool Dresser Very Ill, Brought Here

Theo Smith, a tool dresser working for the Burton and Thorpe Drilling company, at Caddo, was brought to Ranger yesterday in the ambulance of the Jones-Cox Undertaking company and placed in the Ranger General Hospital.

Mr. Smith is seriously ill with typhoid fever.

PERSONALS

Bevlor Crawford, U. S. deputy marshal from Abilene, was in Ranger Wednesday on official business.

Frank Hunt of the local police force left Wednesday afternoon for Desdemona and Gorman on a business trip.

Youngster Held; Is Charged With Peddling Liquor

Walter Blair, a 17-year-old boy, is being held at police headquarters for investigation into alleged bootlegging activities. He will be turned over to federal authorities as soon as they arrive.

Local officers are having trouble with juvenile offenders almost daily. Blair is alleged to have sold several quarts of liquor to different persons. Officers have not established proof as to the source of the liquor and whether some one was using him they do not know whether he stole it for a tool in its disposal.

A. E. COGGIN BECOMES HUMBLE CO. OFFICER

A. E. Coggin, formerly a member of the Ranger police force, is now special officer for the Humble company. Mr. Coggin will have a number of men working under him and his duties will carry him throughout the "central district" of the Humble company, embracing Eastland, Stephens, Comanche and Erath counties.

Coggin will carry a state commission.

H. W. PARENT SELLS AUSTIN STREET FRONTAGE

The twenty-five-foot front on Austin street, just north of the K. C. Waffle house, has been sold by H. W. Parent to C. A. French. The price paid for this property is said to be the highest ever paid for property off Main street in Ranger.

The deal was closed through the Vraven-Marowitz Realty company. Mr. French has made a number of purchases of downtown property lately.

MANY RURAL SCHOOLS DELAYED BY RAINS

Special to The Times. ABILENE, Nov. 6.—Many of the rural schools of Taylor county have been delayed from three weeks to one month in beginning the fall term, due to heavy rains over this section.

The children are badly needed in the cotton fields to save the immense crop, and the trustees have recognized this need in many districts. Several of the schools probably will extend the commencement time so as to make up for the late beginning.

BEG YOUR PARDON

This advertisement of "Mickey," now playing at the Liberty theater, which appeared in The Times Tuesday, erroneously stated that the price of admission for adults is 35 cents, it should have read 55 cents. This production is costing Manager Palmer so much more than the ordinary picture that he must charge a little more.

Hard Luck John Sells Old Snag and Concludes Ghost Bought It

About 11 o'clock one night Hard Luck John Timps was returning home from Desdemona. His mount was an exceedingly skinny and ancient mule, of a most stubborn and perverse temperament. Mr. Timps was urging the beast along at a rapid amble.

"You Snag, go 'long," he would exclaim and fall to thumping the recalcitrant animal with his heels.

At intervals Mr. Timps would break into happy song. He had imbibed entirely too freely of spirituous malt stimulants and it was with difficulty that he kept his seat in the saddle. The burden of his song ran as follows:

"I wish I was a little sparrer, Had I the wings to fly so high, I'd fly awa-ay to my false lover And when she talked I would draw nigh."

The end of this rendition would often find the mule stopped short and grazing by the wayside. Then Mr. Timps would experience considerable difficulty in getting him started again.

"Git up, Snag," he would implore. "If I was a little sparrer I low I'd shoot this mule. Go 'long, you lazy critter."

Mr. Timps came to a wooded creek bottom. A man rose up and seized the bridle rein. He was old and ragged, with a dented derby hat pulled low over a much whiskered face and a back bent under the weight of a sack bundle, from which protruded odds and ends of colored rags. He held a heavy revolver in his hand.

"It must be gettin' late at night," observed Timps, squinting his eyes speculatively in the direction of the "revolver." "The owls is had this time of night. A man needs a gun to shoot at the owls."

"It's not the time of night for murder," declared the old man.

"I don't mind tellin' you as a friend that I'm far from sober," continued Timps. "That ain't the word. I'm 'lamb drunk and busted flat as a flitter."

"Get down—quick," ordered the old man.

"I figger my mule, Snag, will take me home," confided Timps. "It ain't as if there's a smarter mule in the country. It's twenty odd miles from Hogtown to Ranger and old Snag alius makes it in nine hours. He won't miss nine hours one way or the other by five minutes, maybe."

"What will you take for the mule?" asked the stranger.

"It's 'cwin' to how far off you live," replied Timps. "I have sold him for as low as $25 to them that lives near. I can allus buy him back for $15 or maybe $10 after a week or so. One feller plumb run him off. That was old man Pearson that had a daughter 'lope with a book agent. Pearson 'lowed he'd rather have a lobe well around than old Snag. But he ain't bad, Snag ain't, of you don't have a disagreement with him. He'll 'lowest stand by a feller that stands by him." Not that he ain't a bit peculiar in some ways. The whole kit and billin' of mules is peculiar—they ain't got as good disposition as a horse or maybe a dog, unless it's a bulldog."

"Listen," commanded the stranger. "I'll give you ten dollars to change clothes with me."

"I wouldn't put on them rags for a barain. Ready'll tell you that."

The exchange was effected with some difficulty. The stranger jammed his battered derby down over Timps' eyes and strapped his pack on Timps' shoulders.

"Where's the money?" demanded Hard Luck John. "Gimme the ten."

Mr. Timps might not have believed this statement so readily if the stranger had not suddenly made a hideously suggestive gesture across his throat, at the same time brandishing the revolver.

"What'll the folks in Ranger say about me?" quizzed Timps. "You've charged me into a peddler—maybe a raggman. A peddler is bad and a raggman is worse than anything I can think of and I can think of lots of things when I'm drunk and I'm drunk now. Do you aim to take the mule?"

"Yes," marked the stranger.

"You'll never sit anywhere on him. If you go five miles by sump you can have him."

"If you ever tell—" began the stranger. He ended with another flourish of the revolver.

"I aim to tell old Mrs. Gozy," declared Timps. "If you tell her anything it spreads like barmaline fire. It'll be all over the country before you go five miles."

The stranger nodded the mule, turned the unwilling beast back the way he had come and ambled off.

Timps sat down by the roadside and reflected: "It might a been a ghost," he decided, "and he might a tarred me into a raggman. I'd as lief be a ghost as a raggman, but if I am a raggman, I'd just as well try to turn a honest nicker."

And he struck out across the country, laughing at intervals and calling out, "Oll clothes! old clothes!"

ALLIANCE ASKS SUM OF $3,400 TO BUILD HERE

The Christian and Missionary Alliance will start immediately the raising of a sum of $3,400 in Ranger for the erection on its property in the Lackland addition of a modern tabernacle for worship and to reach the people of the east side. Revs. O. W. Edwards and W. W. Moore will do the soliciting. The campaign has the approval of the southwestern district of the alliance and the strong endorsement of Mayor M. H. Hagaman.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance is orthodox in its teachings, evangelistic in its task, and interdenominational in its aims. It has missionaries in various parts of the world. Six hundred native workers speaking twenty-two different languages are engaged in disseminating the Gospel of Christ in the four quarters of the earth.

Rev. and Mrs. O. W. Edwards have been in charge of the work here since July 4, when the Christian and Missionary Alliance entered the field. These workers have toiled on the streets and among the workers of the oil field in neighboring camps. They came to Ranger to remain permanently. Until recently they maintained their headquarters at the foot of Hunt street, but the cold weather and snowing up of the property when they occupied, caused them to move. They have invested in two lots in the Lackland addition where they wish to erect a suitable place of worship to meet the spiritual needs of the people on the east side, where at present there is no Protestant organization.

IF YOU BREAK YOUR TRUCK FRAME

There is Really Only One Way to Permanently Repair Broken Truck and Automobile Frames—the U. S. Army Method Used in Ranger by the Brown Welding & Machine Co.

Most truck frames are broken by excessive vibration under heavy load. This vibration travels from the ends of the springs along the frame and looks for a weak spot to fight the vibration from the other end of the frame.

This weak spot is usually found on the tension or bottom flange of the frame at a place that has been drilled for a spring hanger, cross-member or motor support, or else at the point where the cab and body meet.

The Army method of welding frames (patented by C. H. Brown, while doing army contract work for (Advertisement.)

General Pershing's Mexican Expedition and used during the last war in the army shops without to the war department) need this, viz: The frame is built at the break in such a way line of weld sets on a straight line of vibration. The weld so that there are no sharp the vibrations to end sudden frame has a reinforcement it that divides the load strain and distributes it at two instead of one. The work is teed.

It doesn't pay to trust framing to amateurs. You know Respectfully,
C. H. BROWN,
Mechanical Engineer,

Motor Trucks Are A Good Deal Like Men

When it comes to hard labor, it's the big, brawny, hardened man who can stand the most of it.

The weaker, little fellow may keep pace with the big fellow for a while by overtaxing his physical force—but eventually he wears out and is forced to stop.

It is the same with motor trucks. The low-priced, poorly constructed truck may give excellent service for a while—but in a short time, it breaks down or wears out. It can't keep pace with a quality truck.

SELDEN TRUCKS may be compared to the big men—the sturdy, dependable fellows who are ever ready to put their shoulders to the wheel, to haul the load without flinching a muscle.

They are "In-Built Quality" Trucks—made from the best material obtainable—built RIGHT by men who know how to build long life into a motor truck.

That's why they are "on the Job" every working day of the year—economizing for their owners.
