

The Pathfinder

By Lee Harr

A woman in a little New England village called up the First National Bank in her community to arrange for the disposition of a $1,000 railroad bond she owned. The man at the bank to whom she talked asked:

"Is this bond for conversion or redemption?"

There was a long pause at the other end of the line. Then the woman asked: "Am I talking to the First National Bank or the First Parish Church?"

Friday night, the Bulldogs furnished the first genuine, disappointing reversal in the way of predictions.

There were others of course, but none mattered quite so much as the Winters - Ranger contest. To reform themselves, the Bulldogs will have to take the state Class A title.

Two tie contests in area high school football did nothing to improve our ratings. Posting the tie scores were Comanche-DeLeon (0-0) and Eastland - Dublin (6-6). Incidentally, in figuring our percentage...

College Drama Dept. Seeks Dress Wardrobe

The Drama Department of Ranger Junior College is undertaking to build a costume wardrobe to provide costumes to be used not only for productions for the department this year, but also for productions in future years.

For this wardrobe, hats, shoes, suits, dresses, purses, and all other type of wearing apparel are needed, and persons who have things that might be used and who wish to donate them to the Drama Department are asked to call Mrs. David L. Norton, who will have some member of the department pick up the donations.

In addition to all types of clothing, new or old, the department can use chairs, tables, lamps, dishes, and other furnishings that might be used as stage properties. Even broken pieces of furniture are acceptable, as they can be repaired by stage and property crews for use in plays.

Such wardrobes are indispensable to working dramatic organizations that attempt production of many plays, and the department will greatly appreciate the cooperation of townpeople in collecting the needed costumes and props.

H-SU Eases By Rangers

The Hardin - Simmons Buttns, riding high on the throwing arm of Quarterback Gene Saur and the stout running of Halfback Earl Brown swept to a 20-14 victory over the Ranger Junior College Rangers Saturday night in Bulldog Stadium.

Saur, who tossed 13 passes that chewed up a total of 140 yards, almost had his mark equalled by Ranger's quarterback Lonnie Woods who completed six of 19. However, the six completions totaled only 57 yards.

Scoring on a sustained 80-yard march on their first offensive effort after Dan Mitchell kicked the game with a prodigious kick into the Hardin - Simmons end zone the Buttns set up their initial tally on a 40-yard pass play from Douglas Huckabay to Kenneth Bartlett on the Ranger 24. Seven plays and two five-yard penalties against Ranger was all the Buttns needed to draw first blood in the bruising contest with Brown crunching through the Ranger defense from the two-yard line for the first of his two touchdowns.

Only three minutes later, the Buttns had their second score after Wood fumbled on his own 25. After George Ward pounced for four yards, Brown toted around his own right end for 19 yards and another score. Brown also converted.

With the first real show of power in the fourth period the Rangers marched 67-yards for the final tally of the contest. Consuming the yardage in a series of 12 plays, the Rangers pushed James Kennedy across for the final yard and into pay dirt. Kennedy also converted.

The 13 passes attempted by Hardin-Simmons was slightly under the total expected from the Buttns who take their serial training under the former TCU wizard, Sammy Baugh.

Baugh is completing his first year at the helm of the Hardin-Simmons coaching staff. From the starting lineup and the reserve bench, Baugh had a collection of a portion of the state's finest football material. Several of his starting lineup and reserves had been chosen all-state and all district players in some of Texas' perennial champs in the grid circuits among the largest high schools.

Rangers-Rams Open Pioneer Loop Chase

The Pioneer Conference title race will get underway this Saturday night at San Angelo when the San Angelo Rams, now favorites to battle it out with the Tarleton State Plowboys for the league title, play hosts to Ranger Junior College Rangers in the first loop tilt of the season.

San Angelo sounded a warning of its potentiality this season last Saturday when the Rams with comparative ease rolled over previously unbeaten and untied Wharton

East Texas To Get Most of Decrease

Cotton acreage allotments for West Texas cotton farmers in 1956 will be cut 260,000 acres below allotments for 1955, it was announced today by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, on the basis of unofficial information on a program under study by the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Lower Rio Grande Valley counties will be cut about 40,000 acres in 1956 below 1955 acreage.

The program is based upon an estimate of a reduction in the state's total cotton acreage to 2,000,000 acres less in 1956 than given to the state in 1955. It is anticipated that all cotton producing states will receive lower quotas in 1956 than those provided in 1955.

The entire 1956 cut will be made in West Texas and Southwest Texas counties plus a further cut of about 100,000 acres in those counties so that East Texas and east Central Texas counties may be given an increase in 1956 of approximately 110,000 acres more than acreage allotments made to those counties in 1955.

This is contrary to the general trend which has prevailed in those counties in East and east Central Texas which have shown a gradual decline in cotton acreage in uncontrolled years and consistently large underplantings of cotton acreage allotments in controlled years.

The last uncontrolled year was 1953.

The 1956 program will give one acre of 24 counties in East Texas, crop reporting district number 5-N an allotment which will total two per cent more acres than those counties planted in the last uncontrolled year of 1953. This district would gain eight per cent more acres in 1956 than allotted it in 1953.

Other East Texas districts in 1956 will show cuts below 1953 ranging from 22 to 29 per cent. In West Texas counties, the acreage allotments for 1956 will show more severe reductions ranging from 28 to 46 per cent below acreage planted in 1953. One district, number 1-8 in the Lubbock area, will show a decrease in 1956 of nearly seven per cent below 1955 allotments.

In 1955, West Texas counties took cuts from 23 to 40 per cent below 1953 acreage, while East Texas counties showed cuts from only five per cent to 34 per cent.

The program for 1956 amounts to a reversal of previous policies and procedures in many respects. Part of the program will provide for additional acreage to small farmers in East Texas who have allotments from 15 to 25 acres in cotton.

WTCC officials point out that an exact parallel in the hardship of the small farmer in East Texas exists in the economic hardship of the West Texas farmer planting 50-100 acres in 60 dry-land West Texas counties because of the greatly lower rainfall and lint production per acre in those counties by comparison with East Texas.

Fourth Of A Series Salvation Army In Chest Fund Here

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles concerning the various organizations that will benefit from the Community Chest that began here last week.

The Salvation Army is a worldwide organization, yet it is never so big nor too busy to help anyone in need, according to local representatives.

Acting on the belief that the best way to serve those in need is to give to the people themselves, the Salvation Army works in all ways to help, offering friendly and helpful services to the destitute, the alcoholic, the prostitute, the abandoned, bringing gifts and comfort to patients. It gives food, clothing and care to unmarried mothers, sends boys and girls to school, and distributes warm clothing and shoes to the underprivileged during the holiday season.

The Salvation Army supplies supplies to help families to meet missing persons, find missing persons, and find missing persons. The welfare services of the

Fire Prevention Campaign Begins In Local Schools

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 9-15, will be a busy time for school youngsters in this community.

Along with 4,500,000 boys and girls coast-to-coast, pupils at Hodges Oak Park and Young Schools will stage a Junior Fire Marshal campaign—a gigantic public service program sponsored nationally by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company and locally by the C. E. May Insurance and a local Ranger's Volunteer Fire Department.

As Junior Fire Marshalls the youngsters will, with the guidance of inspection reports, check in their homes for possible fire hazards. Completed reports, attached to by parents, qualify the children for shiny gold Junior Fire Marshal badges. An outstanding record of reports returned by youngsters to their school results in an attractive Achievement Award to the school.

Special red, fire-retardant helmets are being distributed to the Junior Fire Marshalls by the C. E. May Insurance and the Fire Department.

One of the highlights of the campaign is a four-page illustrated newspaper being supplied to the schools. Colorfully and informatively written by noted school and fire-fighting officials, it is being acclaimed by authorities as a vital contribution to fire-prevention education. The newspaper encourages children to become more fire-prevention conscious and is the first of four issues to be distributed during the coming year.

Time Changed For Wed. Services At First Baptist

There is a change in meeting time for Wednesday evening services in the First Baptist Church. This change will become effective October 12.
At 6:30 p.m. the church choir will assemble in the main auditorium. At 7:15 p.m. the Sunday school Superintendents and departmental officers will meet, and at 8:00 p.m. the prayer meeting service will be conducted.
The schedule was voted by the church in conference on October 9. Lee Russell is anxious for those who sing to come at this hour for the rehearsal period. Their practice time will close in one hour. Those who have to attend Sunday school officers meeting will leave at 7:15.

Sunday school planning will be changed just a little in order that each department will have the detailed planning and study necessary for their particular group.
The Hour of Inspiration is devoted to prayer, Bible study and singing. Prayer for the sick, and for requests are made, as well as the services of the church. Bible study is led by the pastor, a n d books of the Bible are studied. Often the laymen will conduct the prayer meeting time.
Those living in our area and who do not attend a mid-week religious hour will find the Hour of Inspiration of unusual spiritual value and will fill a gap in the life between Lord's day services.
The Nursery is open for the entire period from 6:30 to the close of the Prayer service time.

Carolyn Jean Harrill Becomes Bride Of J. D. Simmons in Midland Rites

The marriage of Carolyn Jean Harrill of Midland to J. D. Simmons of Odessa was solemnized at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Calvary Baptist Church in Midland.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Harrill, Sr. of Midland. She was graduated from Tri High School in Caroleen, N. C., and Gardner Webb College, Boiling Spring, N. C. She is employed as a service representative with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Midland.

A commercial representative for Southwestern Bell in Odessa, the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. D. Simmons of Brazoria, and the late Mr. Simmons. He was graduated from Gonzales High School, Gonzales, Tex.

When they return Oct. 24 from a wedding trip to the East coast, the couple will live at 329 East Thirty-First St., Odessa.

Officiating for the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Everett S. Martin, Calvary Baptist pastor. Florence Ashcraft, organist, played the wedding music, and accompanied Mrs. James R. Noland, who sang "Through the Years" and "I Love You Truly."

Decorations for the church featured a pair of white baskets holding white gladioli and asters, flanked with a pair of seven-branch candelabra holding white tapers. A central arrangement of the same flowers was used on the communion table.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was wearing a gown of pure white imported lace over taffeta. The fitted, long torso bodice had a rounded neckline and three-quarter length sleeves, and was attached to a full, circular skirt of waist-length.

The bride's waist-length veil of illusion fell from a satin half-hat encrusted with pearls and was banded with lace. She wore white brocade pumps and lace mitts and carried a white bible, topped with a white orchid surrounded with white carnations and satin ribbons.

Shirley Ann Harrill, who was her sister's maid of honor, was wearing a white tulle dress of yellow and pastel green, fashioned on empire lines. They had matching headbands and carried small colonial bouquets of white carnations.

Allen Rushing of Ranger attended the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Robert Cook and Jerry Gold, both of Odessa.

The reception was held in the church. Assisting the couple in receiving guests were the bride's mother and Mrs. M. E. Smith, sister of the bridegroom, Shirley Harrill and Laura Jean and Brenda Faye Harrill.

Featured in the table decorations was the three-tiered cake, which was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Allen Rushing of Ranger, Mrs. M. E. Smith and Norman Smith of Luling, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Simmons of Gonzales.

For traveling, the bride changed to a fitted suit of navy gabardine, with pastel blue accessories and a white orchid shoulder corsage.

Laura Jean Harrill and Brenda Faye Harrill of Odessa, nieces of the bride, served as flower girls. They wore taffeta dresses of yellow and pastel green, fashioned on empire lines. They had matching headbands and carried small

Nourishing Milk Adds to Stuffed Peppers' Zestful Appeal

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

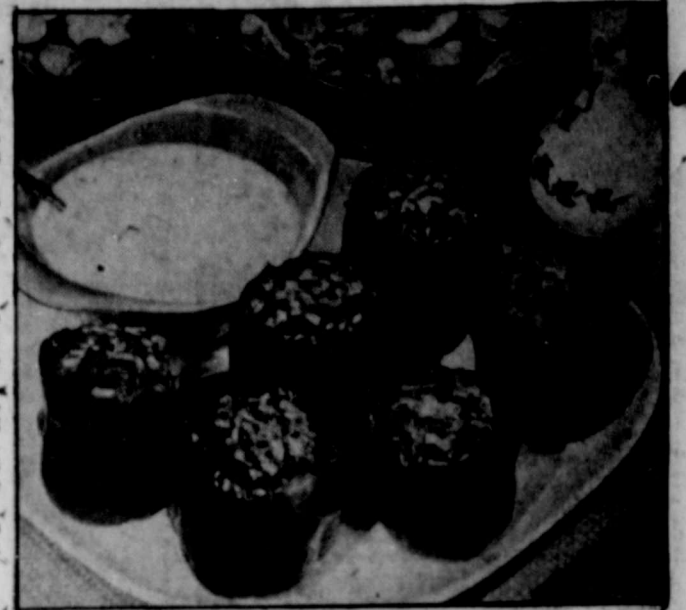

STUFFED green peppers are always welcome eating and a wonderful way to make leftovers taste particularly good. The meat mixture-stuffing in this recipe is enriched with a half cup of instant nonfat dry milk, and the peppers are served with a low-cost sauce also using instant nonfat dry milk. That means lots of extra nutrition.
A one-pound foil-lined package will yield 5 quarts of dairy-sweet nonfat milk at a moderate price. It is also available in handy, pre-measured packages containing 3 foil-lined envelopes, each of which will make one quart of nonfat milk.

Stuffed Peppers Supreme (Makes 6 servings)

Six medium-size green peppers, 1 pound ground beef, 1 cup cooked rice (1/2 cup, uncooked); 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk, 1 (1/2 pound) package process sharp Cheddar cheese, shredded; 2 teaspoons salt, few drops tabasco sauce.
Wash peppers. Cut off stems and remove seeds. With sharp knife cut a scalloped edge around each pepper. Cook peppers in boiling water, about 3 minutes. Remove from water; drain thoroughly. Combine beef, rice, instant nonfat dry milk powder, shredded cheese, salt and tabasco sauce; blend well. Spoon meat mixture lightly into peppers.
Place peppers in shallow baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until peppers are tender when pierced with a fork—about 35 to 40 minutes.

Onion Parsley Sauce (Makes about 1 1/2 cups)

One and one-half cups water, 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce, 1 onion, grated (about 2 tablespoons); 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
Pour water into top of double boiler. Sprinkle instant nonfat dry milk powder, flour and salt over surface of water. Beat with rotary

Extra nutrition is packed into these flavorful stuffed peppers with addition of nonfat dry milk to the meat-beef filling. Boil in water until just tender. Stir in worcestershire sauce, onion and parsley. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until slightly thickened.

Don't Forget Harvest of New Bulbs for Next Year

When killing frost begins, if you have not already dug up the tubers, or correct and tubers if you prefer to be exact, of the gladioli, dahlias, begonias and other tender flowers which blossomed in your garden, you will probably find them in good condition and larger than they were a few weeks previous. Fall weather makes them plump with food stored for next year's flowers.

The ground would be a fine place for them to pass the winter, except that hard freezing probably would be fatal. To carry them over safely you must protect them from freezing, but keep them cool so they do not sprout prematurely or dry out, and wither.

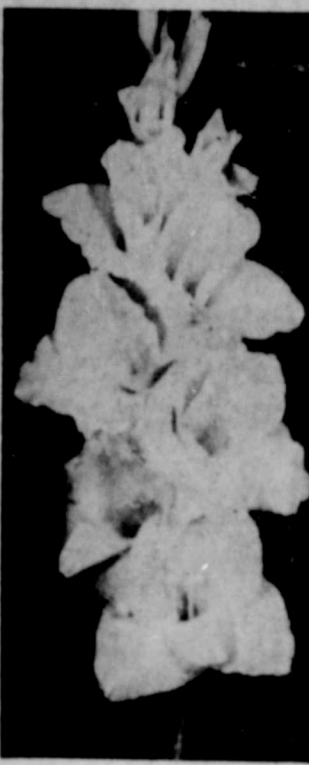

After digging let them dry in the sun if the temperature stays above freezing. Dry soil will shake from them easily. The stem of a begonia tuber should not be cut or broken off, but allowed to remain until it comes loose.

Both begonias and dahlias keep well when stored in a temperature from 40 to 60 degrees, and packed so air can circulate around them freely. Begonias may be stored in seed flats or similar shallow boxes, without lids, laid in dry peat moss. Gladioli keep well in similar boxes without the moss. Do not pile either several layers deep, as this may cause them to heat. Good ventilation is required.

When gladioli are dug there will usually be large bulbs (or corms) each with remains of the original bulb attached below, together with small bulbs and bulbets. Remove dead top growth and put bulbs and bulbets of one variety in a 2-quart kraft paper bag on which is written the name of the variety.

Drop a small quantity of 5% D.D.T. dust in the bag and shake until the bulbs are well coated with the dust. It will destroy any thrips that are present, or eggs that may develop. Do not close the bags or pile them up, but store in a dry well ventilated place.

Dahlia tubers should be dried and brushed clean then examined carefully for signs of disease or injury. Discard all tubers showing any signs of trouble, as they would probably not survive the winter and might infect others. Small spots of infection may be cut out and

Gladioli multiply rapidly from new bulbs and bulbets formed by each plant.

The wounds dusted with sulphur. Cut the stems back to 3 inches, remove small and withered roots, and take great care not to break or injure the narrow neck which connects the tuber with the clump. Injury here may prevent the tuber from bearing flowers.

Store the tubers in a room which stays below 60 degrees, where the air is not too dry. They may be packed in boxes in peat moss or vermiculite which admit air and absorb moisture. Occasional inspection should be made during the winter so that diseased tubers may be discarded. If there are signs of shrinkage the packing material may be moistened but not enough to cause dampness.

Do not be surprised if tuberos roots develop sprouts in March or early April. Old bulbs are likely to do this and are not harmed provided the sprouts are not broken.

County Pecan Show Plans Go Forward

The third annual Eastland County Pecan Show will be held in Cisco Friday and Saturday, Dec. 9 and 10, according to an announcement by County Agent J. M. Cooper. The Cisco Chamber of Commerce will again sponsor the show as they have done for the past two years.

Plans call for the pecans to be judged on Saturday, Dec. 10. Complete details of the show will be announced in the near future.

"We are greatly indebted to the Cisco Chamber of Commerce for their fine cooperation," Mr. Cooper wrote in a letter to all county pecan growers.

"As you begin to harvest your nuts in the next few weeks, please keep the pecan show in mind and save back some of your best pear shell pecans and native seedlings to exhibit.

"Eastland County has some of the best pecan soil to be found anywhere and pecans in the years ahead could become one of the most important crops. It is up to us to boost this crop and the coming show is only one means of doing so.

"We solicit your help and influence in helping to make the coming show the best one we have ever had in the county," Mr. Cooper concluded.

Cisco C-C Manager Paul Brashar reported that several committees to help with the various arrangements for the show will be named. He expressed the hope that the country home demonstration clubs would hold a pecan pie, cake and candy baking contest in connection with the show again this year.

The baking contest was a feature of last year's show. Following the show, the various entries were sold at public auction.

The winning pecans in the annual show are always taken by Mr. Cooper to the state pecan show. Last year, Eastland County orchards won some of the state's top prizes.

TRADITIONAL WARD WEEK SALE SCHEDULED HERE OCT. 12-22

Back in 1930, Montgomery Ward held its first Ward Week sale. It has since become a traditional, twice-a-year event—nation-wide in scope and in complexity. This fall, Ward Week will run October 12 through October 22.

The task of planning for such an event is a formidable one, according to W. H. Stevenson, manager of the Ward store here in Ranger. "We started work on this Ward Week the very day that Ward Week ended last April," Stevenson said that after preliminary surveys on what customers wanted, orders were placed months ago with both American and European manufacturers — in huge quantities to insure lowest possible price. Fashion experts alerted their sources to be ready for large, last-minute orders, in order that styling would reflect latest trends.

Then, Wards Testing Laboratories set up a rigid schedule of tests for all the special purchase merchandise to be sure it met Wards standards of quality. Display artists moved in on the job of dramatizing the event through the use of colorful signs, banners, window displays and mass counter presentations. Advertising was prepared to inform the public of the sale.

Traffic experts took over the intricate job of routing thousands of tons of merchandise over the railroads, on the highways, through the waterways; even by air, in case of some of the fashion merchandise.

All this merchandise and promotional material, said Stevenson, began arriving in the store here, and in almost 600 other Ward stores a month ago. Uncrating, checking and tagging the merchandise, following up on stray orders, making display and advertising plans have been a daily activity since then.

"Ward Week" said Stevenson "adds to the excitement of the month-long, company-wide sales contest our store is competing in. We stand a good chance to win the prize because the salespeople are really enthusiastic about the Ward Week values and think their customers will be too."

On other area contests, we did not quite break even. Cisco slipped by Colorado City, 6-9, and Wylie edged Gorman, 19-13. We took the losers in both cases.

Games involving Southwest Conference members were our only salvation. Usually, terrifically difficult to choose correctly, we hit all six contests on the nose last week.

We picked it Rice over Clemson, TCU over Alabama, A&M over Nebraska, SMU over Missouri, Baylor over Arkansas, and Oklahoma over Texas. That's just the way it was.

Adding all of them together, we wind up with our highest average of the season, a .792 which goes a few percentage points over last week's .772 which was previously the season's high mark.

Indications are that the Community Chest Drive here is rolling along just about or maybe slightly over the pace anticipated by the officers and directors.

With no recent report this week, as yet, more than $2,000 was turned in by team captains in the first three days of the drive last week.

We, as donors, in making contributions, must realize that the Community Chest is a cooperative effort, eliminating all but one of the numerous campaigns that previously existed each year before the inception of the combined event here.

... that it is better to be safe than sorry. The rule holds good under all circumstances like driving a car, working at your job or buying a home. You must drive carefully, do your daily chore with safety in mind and know what you are doing when you buy a home, if you want to keep out of trouble. Buying a home is often a dream of a lifetime but playing safe with the title at the time of purchase is far more important.
