Wild West Theme of Ranch Day Event

Everybody at Ranger College is either going to be a cowboy or cowgirl Thursday and Friday of this week or they are going to pay for their difference before the judge who will rule the campus like Roy Bean did at Langtry.

For the period beginning at night Thursday and ending Friday night has been set aside as Ranch Days. It will be two days of wide open festivities glorifying the old west and anything will go, that is anything the judge, the sheriff and his deputies see fit to let go.

Word has it that all trials will be fair and impartial even though justice will be meted out rapidly. Yep, they'll even have a jail to house the "most dangerous criminals." There will be special punishment for clean shaven men.

Campaigning for the judge and sheriff is being conducted on the campus now, but results will not be tabulated until Wednesday. During Thursday the cowboys and cowgirls will choose the "Furthest Gal" in the west. She will be called "typical cowgirl." They'll pick the "typical cowboy" too.

To kick off the celebration the sheriff and his deputies will set forth, in plain, straight language, the rules and regulations that will govern, and will be followed by the election and the presentation of badges and prizes.

The first day's program will be climaxed with a western dance at the student union building beginning at 8 p. m. A special floor show has been organized for the intermission. Friday's program will begin with breakfast at 8 a. m. and will be followed by a program at the auditorium at 10:30 a. m.

A barbecue for students will be held on the campus at 12 noon. Dan Whittaker, band-director, also said that the group was preparing for the State Band Contest at Abilene April 28. The band will be judged on concert play and sight reading.

He said that several members were now preparing solos and ensembles for the state meet. Clean, around the area began this week after dust storms struck this area Friday night and Saturday night.

Saturday's storm lasted through Monday. However, it was the earlier storm that brought some damage in the area, blowing over some trees, peeling shingles from houses and bending some television towers even though none of the towers were actually blown down.

The weather picture is expected to remain clear Tuesday and Wednesday but expected high winds could kick up swirling dust again. Temperatures were mostly cooler over the state Monday and should remain about the same for the next two days.

Breathing Machine Makes Live Friends

Operating the respirator, like the model the Volunteer Fire Department is attempting to raise funds to buy, is practically effortless.

But there is nothing effortless about totting one around. The portable model weighs from 40 to 50 pounds, and sprinting across rough terrain with one is vigorous exercise. It isn't always the police or firemen who handle these emergencies.

In some cities such as Ranger, the undertaker has the only ambulance. Some local organizations have in some cases bought a respirator and put him in charge. He thus does himself out of a lot of funerals, but makes a good many live friends.

A father, buying a doll for his little girl's birthday, was told by the saleslady: "Here's a lovely doll—you lay her down and she closes her eyes, just like a real little girl."

The Texas Observer said this week, that although they were wincing away from a final statement of principle, the student-faculty publications board of the University of Texas Monday night voted that it had found "some errors of fact and some instances of questionable editorial presentation" in the Daily Texas, the University of Texas student newspaper, under fire from the University Board of Regents.

Student Editor Willie Morris, the only dissenter to the finding, called it "direct appeasement" of the Regents and "admitting to guilt."

He added: "If we are going to be completely honest, we should add the statement: 'We feel that the Board of Regents disagrees with us on various political stands... in a magnified, isolated areas...'"

Wednesday the publications board asserted the right of the editor to express his opinions on state policies if he has laid a factual basis for them.

The Regents and the Administration have objected to editorialials Morris has published in opposition to the Fulbright-Harris national gas bill, in favor of school integration, in favor of higher state taxes on oil, gas and sulphur and critical of the Shivers' Administration, Senator Price Daniel, and Attorney General John Ben Sheppard.

Morris has also been prohibited from publishing editorials against the natural gas bill from the New York Times and the Christian Science Monitor. He calls this "a crime."

The students on the board sided with the faculty against Morris on the finding of factual errors and "questionable editorial presentation."

Olin Hinkle, journalism professor and a publications board member, suggested the board admit to the Regents that they had "examined" some factual errors and "some instances of questionable editorial presentation," but the board passed the suggestion by.

The group prefaced its finding with a statement, "that the Texas has given them cause for 'much pride' and is a 'student newspaper of the first class.'"

Dr. DeWitt Reddick, acting journalism dean and also on the board said: "My major hope is that the Regents will decide the Board (of Publications) is capable of managing the affairs of the Texas."

Editorial comment developed on the Texas issue. The Jacksonville Daily News and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram sided with the Texas. The Dallas News sided with the Regents, arguing that neither the Texas nor state-hired professors should have the right to make public statements on politics from a partisan point of view.

An out-of-state reaction came from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which pointed out that the University of Texas has a $240 million endowment primarily from oil and gas and commented: "It is good to know that oil or no oil, quarter of a billion dollars or no quarter of a billion dollars, young Texans are still thinking and speaking for themselves."

Weather Report: Generally fair and not much change in temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday. High Tuesday 65 degrees. Low Tuesday night 45 to 50. High Wednesday in the 70s.

all urgent. But it would have to be as far superior to anything at hand as an automatic rifle is to a flintlock. As a matter of fact, there wasn't much at hand. The Germans had two or three lung pumps, the most famous of them the pulmotor. In most of those machines the operator had to guess the volume of the lungs. If he guessed high, the pressure might rupture blood vessels. Mechanical machines had a bad name—some of it undeserved, some unjust.

Outdoor drying fades fabrics an Electric DRYER is kind to colors!
Your most precious fabrics... your gaily colored aprons, wash dresses, sport shirts and luncheon sets keep their fresh "showcase" look when you use an Electric Dryer. They won't be faded by clothesline drying, nor will dust or soot dull their beauty. Tests show that even after 20 dryings with clean electric heat, most colored fabrics stay as bright as new. This means your colored washables look better and last longer.
And, of course, you save all the monotonous, tiresome work of clothesline drying when you have an automatic electric dryer!

Graham Penetrates Bamboo Curtain of Communist China

By George Burnham Chattanooga News-Free Press Staff Writer

HONG KONG — The Far Eastern tour of Billy Graham has penetrated the bamboo curtain of Communist China.

Red China is tickled pink. John Bolten, Boston businessman, and I rickshawed up to South China football field, thirty minutes late for Billy's Hong Kong rally with 17,000 overflowing inside. Police had locked the gates.

When we posed as members of the team, officers said, "There are 20,000 people down here in a nearby field who couldn't get in. Go down and start a song service for them." We pleaded guilty to not being singers and got in.

Sidights: Dr. Paul Maddox, aide to Billy Graham, almost talked his way through a British checkpoint with a Texaco credit card. Remark: Charlie Riggs: "You could have gone to Peking if the card had been 'Good Gulf'."

Six people were on the plane with music director Cliff Barrows when he flew from London to join the Billy Graham team in Delhi, India. One of the passengers introduced himself to Cliff and said he had become a Christian during Billy's Glasgow meetings last year.
