WHAT'S...

COOKING?

By NORMAN WRIGHT

We often wonder how much longer the American public can hold up under the way these radio and television announcers keep screaming at us. We wonder just how low in mentality they think the people of this country can get. It is an insult to the intelligence of a cross-eyed moron ape the way some of this crud is beamed at us.

We have made a catalog of some of the guys we would like to choke first, and at the head of our list is the sad sack we call "The Screamer."

This is the gink who comes at us like a college cheer leader screaming at the rate of about a thousand words a minute trying to stampee us into jumping out of the bed, hurrying into the car and breaking all speed records getting down to Guns & Co., where we can buy a $500 deep freeze for $497.50 and get a box of red apples thrown in, yes, think of it, a box of delicious red apples thrown in absolutely free if we hurry, hurry, hurry, and not waste another minute, and by the time this guy gets through he has us both hanging over a chair out of breath, and he's off the air whether he knows it or not.

Then there is the guy who thinks he is so cute he can hardly stand to stay in the same studio with himself. He is the dimpled darling with the cute wink who cuddles a box of his sponsor's product and punctuates his points by giving it a whack with the palm of his hand, like a mother trying to burp a baby, and finally winds up by making goo-goo eyes at us and whispering softly, "You'll try it just for me, won'tcha, huh?" and that's when we have to leave for the bathroom.

Then there is the Professional Type, this guy in the white coat with the turned around collar who says he is Doctor Addie Noids, and he begins telling you about your liver and lights. He goes over a stack of graphs and charts and proves beyond doubt that you have been a dead for the past six months, but thanks to a new discovery which is now contained in Elmer's Little Blue Tablets you can be a rejuvenated human being for only 15c, and you can get the large economy size package for only 10c and this bargain of the age comes in a variety of six different colors without costing a penny more. How he escapes being prosecuted for impersonating a doctor, we'll never know.

And then there is the Mystery Man. His product contains A-C-R! The only product of its kind known to man that contains A-C-R! The miracle ingredient that not only gives you more miles per gallon but immunizes you against sunburn and goose pimples as well! Be sure it has A-C-R! Don't accept a substitute! Demand A-C-R and never worry about warts again! And if he had to tell you what A-C-R was he wouldn't know whether it was animal, vegetable or mineral, and neither do you and neither does the sponsor.

And there is the "Folky" guy, the honey talking gent whose language is so hill-billyish that you want to run for the oxygen tent to keep from losing your dinner, and somebody, somewhere, thinks this nut is talking straight to the hearts of the great American public. How dumb can you get.

And for crying out loud, will somebody please explain how they manage to keep a guy like Godfrey's Tony Marvin foisted off on (Continued on Page Two)

9th Amendment Goes Over Big In Ranger Boxes

Although voting was light, just a sprinkle compared to what it was in the General Election, the 9th Amendment went over big in Ranger Tuesday, carrying by a total vote of 201-9.

In the City Hall Box, voting was FOR 111, Against 7. In the Young School Box the score was, FOR 90, Against 2. Thus the amendment carried here a little better than 22 to 1.

It was about the same story over the county, and also the state. The Amendment would authorize the Legislature to enact the necessary laws to pay to totally disabled citizens of Texas between the ages of 16-65, a maximum of $20 a month, to which the Federal Government would add $38 a month, giving them a total relief check of $58 a month.

It is expected that enactment of this legislature will be one of the first matters of business taken up by the new Legislature next year.

TIMES WANTS LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Look, Kiddies! The Ranger Times is ready to receive your letters to good old Santa Claus, and we will start printing every one of them along about November 22, so that Santa will be sure to see them and read them early.

Be the first to get in your letter to Santa, and address it to Santa Claus, Ranger Times, Ranger, Texas.

We know you will want to ask for a lot of things, but don't make your letter too long. Other little boys and girls will have letters, and if they are all great, big long ones, we won't have room to print all of them.

But make your nice and snappy and short and we'll print it, with your own very name signed to it. Be sure to get mother and daddy to help you with it, so that Santa can read it, and write or print your address very plainly so we won't make a mistake on who you are and where you live.

We'll be looking to hear from you very, very soon!

Eight Seniors To Play Final Game Friday Night

Ranger's Christmas Schedule Speeding Towards Completion

With the assignment this week of several vacant show windows in the business district to various Ranger firms for decoration and use during the Christmas Season, plans here for the holidays are rapidly drawing to a close.

Rip Galloway, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced that Ranger Mattress Company will decorate one of the windows in the Joseph Dry Goods Building and that Ranger Furniture Exchange will decorate another of the windows in the same building.

Galloway said the American Aggregate Company, a division of the Featherlite Corp., will decorate one of the windows between Sweetbriar's and Tony's Barber Shop, and that Ranger Iron Works would decorate another of the windows between these two places.

Ranger Farm Store has agreed to decorate a window in the Martin Building, while Johnson Appliance and White Auto Store will decorate the windows in the old A&P Building.

Western Auto Store will decorate two windows in the former Texas Drug building. Several other windows are pending, Galloway said, and although he was not ready to make a definite announcement on them right now, he said he was certain others would be decorated and used.

It is requested by Galloway and others serving on the Christmas Committee that all of the windows be decorated and lighted by the night of November 22, at which time the Christmas lights will be turned on in the downtown streets. "We are anxious that everything be set and ready so that it can all start off at once," Galloway said.

Meantime the parade committee is working hard, and it is said many entries are lined up for this colorful event, including Santa Claus. The parade will be held at 3:30 on the afternoon of Friday, November 30. All schools in the area have been asked to participate, and more especially certain organizations in the various schools, such as the FFA and FHA Chapters, and all other organized groups that will provide a float.

Merchants will kick-off the Christmas season with a two-day City-Wide Value Day scheduled for Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1.

Ranger Times To Celebrate Nov. 29

After giving every consideration to the schedules we must face during the two Thanksgiving holidays, and in order to coordinate our time-table with the publishing date of our sister paper, the Eastland Telegram, the Ranger Times hereby announces that it will celebrate Thanksgiving on Thursday, Nov. 29.

Attention of all merchants is called to the fact that the paper of Thursday, November 29, will be printed on Wednesday, November 28. This is the paper that will carry all the advertising of Ranger's City-Wide Pre-Christmas Value Days to be held on Friday, November 30, and Saturday, December 1.

Absolute copy deadline for this paper will be Monday morning, November 26, simply because it would be a mechanical impossibility to get it out if it were received any later. All copy received before that time will be greatly appreciated.

Merchants are also advised that this particular edition of the Ranger Times will be distributed all over the Ranger Trade Area, with hundreds of extra copies being printed as our contribution to the Christmas program. By printing the paper on Wednesday, it will give us some extra time Thursday, although it is a holiday, to do this extra distribution, prior to the City-Wide event starting Friday.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Eastland Meets Cross Plains For Bi-District

The Eastland High School Mavericks, who have won the championship of District 10-A regardless of the outcome of their game with Clyde Friday night, will play Cross Plains for Bi-District in a game to be played at Eastland on Friday night of next week, November 23.

Site of the playoff was determined by the fact that the last time these two teams clashed officially, Eastland played at Cross Plains, which was in October, 1955.

The two teams have already played each other once this year, at Eastland, but conference officials said the game did not count as it was an unofficial non-conference contest, and in the last official contest, Eastland played at Cross Plains. This is the rule governing playoffs.

Thanksgiving holidays at Ranger Junior College

Thanksgiving holidays at Ranger Junior College will begin at noon on Thursday, November 23, and classes will be resumed on Tuesday, November 27, at 8 a.m.

Thursday afternoon, November 22, the Rangers will meet the Cisco Wranglers in one of the most exciting games of the season at Bulldog Stadium at 8 o'clock.

RJC Band Is Busy Group

By Janice Curbo

Have you ever stopped to listen to the music coming from the music building on every Monday, Wednesday and Friday between 11:00 and 12:00 o'clock? Perhaps you have heard someone say, "What are they practicing for this time?" Maybe another friend has said, "Who is that playing now?"

The students in the band would like for everyone to know the answer to these questions because as director Al Lotapeich says, "The public just doesn't realize how much rehearsal time it takes to prepare programs."

The band, as you know, played a program last Thursday for assembly. This Thursday they will furnish two different programs. One for assembly and again for the dance Thursday night. Therefore the group will rush to class and attempt music they have never seen before.

Although the songs are new each program the members of the band are the same. The members and their instruments are as follows: Roger Flowers, 1st trumpet; Brent Waldrop, 2nd trumpet; J. Lawson, 3rd trumpet; Clyde Littlefield, trombone; Janice Curbo, 1st alto sax; Elpidia Gonzales, 2nd alto sax; Mary Lou Wright, 3rd tenor sax; Mary Jane Maddox, 4th tenor sax; Duke Dixon, 5th tenor sax; Don Chastain and Roy Falk, drums; Jack Florence, bass horn; Jackie Cornelson, piano.

New High-Fashion Stockings

BY EDNA NILES

THE Luxurious fabric, pale, gem-like colors and lady-like look of this year's fashions have had their influence on hosiery styles.

This Christmas, the box under the Christmas tree may contain a real stocking surprise. The color may be sapphire, emerald, ruby, garnet, amethyst or topaz. Or any one of a dozen other colors. The stockings themselves may be seamless or not, stretch or not, textured or not.

If they're very fancy and intended for evening wear, they'll be prettied up with hand-painted dots or gold, silver or jeweled decorations. They may be all-lace nylons or tulle-stitch nylons. Sandalfoot evening sheers come in pale Edwardian pastels as well as in silver, crimson or cranberry red. There was a time when stockings weren't considered an exciting Christmas gift, but that's a time long past. Any gal on your list will welcome a box of the new high-fashion stockings geared to her way of life.

For the girl who likes walking and a country life, there are the new walking sheer stretch hose in loden green, charcoal gray, slate blue, crimson or moss.

Sandalfoot stockings by Hanes are crystal clear, proportioned to fit perfectly. She'll welcome hosiery in any amount from one pair to a dozen in a sheer weight she might not buy for herself.

Reduction In Traffic Mishaps Is Recorded

"A reduction in traffic accidents was recorded in October, as compared with October 1955," said Captain G. L. Morahan today, after tallying the record for the Abilene Highway Patrol District.

Five people died in the 15-County District in October 1956 as compared to 14 who died in October 1955, and 101 accidents occurred in October 1956 as compared to 136 in October 1955.

Motorists died in Callahan, Haskell, Shackelford, and Taylor Counties in October 1956.

Captain Morahan cautioned that the next two months of 1956 will probably be the most hazardous, due to weather conditions, more night driving, and the holidays in November and December.

To date through October the district total for 1956 shows that 54 people have died in traffic accidents as compared to 70 the first 10 months of 1955—but we can not let our guard down by the reduction in deaths alone, as we are still having too many accidents, more in '56 than '55, just not as severe. Therefore, we must back the attack on traffic accidents by increasing our efforts all the time we are behind the wheel of a 4000 pound automobile.

Buy Girdles Big Enough, It Says Here

When it comes to buying foundation garments, honesty is the best policy; be honest about your own measurements, and don't try to squeeze into a girdle or a brassier that is too small.

How can you tell? The best place is in front of a mirror, either at home or in the fitting room of your favorite store. Check, then, for bulges and uncontrolled curves.

A bulge above your brassier suggests that the cups are too small. A bulge creeping above the hand in back probably means you should try a large size—perhaps a 36 instead of a 34.

Because 34B is generally considered the "perfect" bust measurement, too many women try to fit into a 34B brassier. Or simply don't take the trouble to find out if it is their own correct size.

It's the same way with girdles. If you think your waist measures 26 inches, possibly you just ask for a size 26 girdle without considering your hip development and the mobility of your flesh.

Some girdles sized 26—or 28 or 30—have enough stretch to take care of almost any hip measurement. Others, with a given waist size, are designed for straight, average, or full hips. You have to know about such sizing variations to take advantage of them!

And you have to know how a girdle should fit to determine whether the style you're now wearing is too small, too large, or just right. A bulge at the waistline may mean you need a larger size, or one that rises higher above the waist. A girdle that "rides up" or produces a bulge at the thighs is most likely too short, or too tight at the hipline.

You can't expect to know everything there is to know about girdles and brassieres. But you should study the tremendous variety of styles available until you find perfect fit and comfort.

One source of information on the selection, wear, and care of foundation garments is an illustrated 20-page booklet just published by The Corset and Brassiere Council, whose membership includes a majority of the country's foundation manufacturers.

The booklet is titled "Figure Perfect," and it covers foundation fashions, figure types, fitting, sizing, fabrics, laundering, and many other phases of corsetry. To obtain a copy, send your name and address—with 10 cents in stamps or coin—to The Corset and Brassiere Council, 200 Madison Avenue, New York 16, N.Y.

A worker with a wife and two children, who earned $2,000 in 1929, needs to earn $6,122 in 1956 to match the take-home pay, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.
