Final Senior Exercise Is Commencement, Friday Night at 8:00

WHAT'S... COOKING?

By NORMAN WRIGHT
President Eisenhower said anyone who tried to cut his $4.4 billion foreign aid budget was "a blind, reckless, irresponsible fool, and in the next breath he cut it down to $3.86 billion himself."

NEWS NOTE: Billy Graham's great revival crusade in New York was almost brought to a halt Wednesday night by the Stagehand Union which threatened to picket the place because a pitcher of water was being placed on the pulpit each night by persons not belonging to the union. In order to stave off the pickets, Billy had to pay two stagehands $15 a night to do nothing but bring in the water pitcher.

Twelve seniors from Ranger High School wrote and entered themes in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce contest on the subject, "What My Town Needs to Do To Attract More Industry."

Members of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee which includes Wilson Guest, Morris Newham, Lester Crossley and yours truly, were asked to pick the three best for further competition in the finals of the contest.

It had been our intention to print most of these themes, or all of them, but to be perfectly frank with you, they are too hot to print.

We wish, however, that every merchant in Ranger could have read them. High School seniors are capable of some pretty deep thinking. Besides that, they reflect a lot of what they HEAR when they write something or say something.

These themes would have opened the eyes of Ranger businessmen (some of them) to what they look like in the eyes of their customers. Instead of sitting around complaining about business, at times, they would be up before day trying to correct some of the things wrong with them as seen by the people from whom they wish to receive patronage.

Rodeo Boosters Visit Ranger

A band of Rodeo Boosters visited Ranger Wednesday morning advertising the Pioneer Day Rodeo to be held in Fort Worth from May 30 to June 1, sponsored by the North Fort Worth Business Association. The rodeo will be staged in Fort Worth's North Side Coliseum, site of the world's first indoor rodeo.

A week-long celebration in connection with the Rodeo begins May 27.

A delegation of Ranger citizens met the boosters at Ranger Hill and escorted them into town where they performed in front of the Gholson Hotel.

J. A. Bates, president of the board of education, will hand out diplomas Friday night at Commencement exercises in Ranger High School auditorium and bring to a close the last activity of the 1956-57 school year.

Seniors will once more wear their caps and gowns as they come to the end of twelve years of schooling which will be the take-off point for institutions of higher learning for some, and the end of the road of all formal education for others.

Beginning promptly at 8 p.m., Judy Craig will play the Processional while the seniors take their places in the seats reserved for them. The Rev. Ralph Perkins will give the Invocation, after which Miss Sue Garrett will deliver the Salutatory Address.

Miss Sherry Baker will play a piano solo, followed by the Valedictory Address to be delivered by Miss Linda Shaffer.

Supt. G. B. Rush will preside at the Presentation of Awards, after which Principal C. L. Garrett will formally present the Senior Class for the awarding of diplomas.

After Mr. Bates has given out the diplomas, the Class will join in singing "You're the School," the class song. Robert L. Craig, Minister of the Eastside Church of Christ, will pronounce the benediction and Miss Craig will play the Recessional as the Seniors leave the hall.

Ushers will be Bonnie Yarbrough Jr., Steve Lee, Carol Sanders and Jimmie Mae Miller. The public is invited to attend the exercises.

Sixth and Eighth Grade Exercises Set for Friday

Patrons are reminded that graduation exercises are to be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the High School Auditorium for a total of 62 Sixth Graders that are graduating from ward school into Junior High.

Also at 1:00 p.m. Friday in the auditorium, exercises will be held for 75 Eighth Graders who are graduating from Junior High into Senior High.

Interesting programs have been arranged for both occasions, and all school patrons are invited to attend.

Vacation Bible School to Begin At First Baptist

The First Baptist Church Vacation Bible School will begin with "Preparation Day" on Saturday, May 25, when boys and girls from ages 3 through 16 are asked to come to the church and register from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m.

At 10 o'clock the boys and girls will go to the auditorium for a joint worship service, and at 10:30 the big Bible School Parade will form at the church. A police car and a fire truck will lead the parade through the city, after which the marchers will return to the church for refreshments.

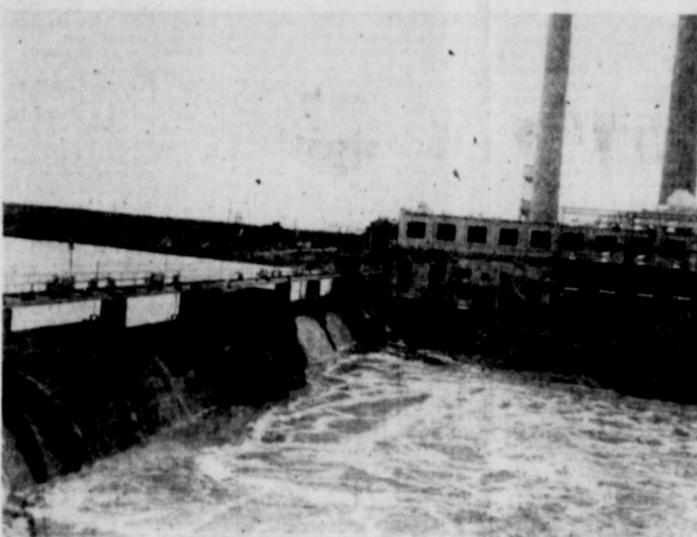

The Bible School will start officially on Monday, May 27 when actual instruction will begin, and will continue for nine days, ending with Commencement Exercises at 7:15 on Thursday evening, June 6.

The pastor, Rev. Ralph Perkins, and youth Director Jess N. Sutton have said that parents and children no longer have to be "sold" on Vacation Bible Schools because their great value has long been recognized. "Boys and girls enjoy it, and it is a time for fun, fellowship and spiritual enrichment," Bro. Sutton said.

The Baptist Church welcomes children from all other denominations to attend the school, and urges parents to encourage their children to attend.

CATFISH COUNTRY: To those of you not acquainted with the scene, the photo above shows water running through the gates of the Texas Electric Company dam, when the gates are open, and thence on into Lake Leon. When the gates are closed, deep holes dredged out by the falling water, remain around the foot of the gates. It was in these holes, on Texas Electric property, that electric employees found all the catfish last week, one weighing 46 pounds, and scores of others ranging from 20 pounds on down to all sizes. A lot of bass and other fish were also found, according to the reports. The big question being argued was, did the fish come through the gates, or did they swim up out of Lake Leon?

Is 82-Foot Too High for Emergency Spillway

Big rains since January have caused every town in Texas to take a new look at the lakes and reservoirs surrounding them. Recent high water all over the state has taught every town and municipality something they didn't know before about their water lines and high water marks.

Soda fountain and cafe engineers in Ranger have also been taking a second look at Lake Leon, and they have raised the question, "Is 82 feet too high for the Emergency Spillway Level?"

When Lake Leon was at its highest level a few days ago, the water was going over the "spout" by something over 2 1/2 feet. Top of the spout is 75 feet, and at one time water in the lake reached at least 77.69 feet, possibly a little more. That means it was still 4.40 feet from the top of the emergency spillway which is 82 feet.

When the water was still at 77.69, everybody saw with their own eyes where it was. In the first place, boat houses and docks could not have stood another foot without serious damage. Water was lapping at the doorsteps of some cottages. Many roads were covered. The road to Staff was under water, and the houses in Staff were just barely out of water.

Then somebody raised a question, what if, just what if at that particular time, when the water was standing at 77.69, there had come another one of the 11-inch rains like Ranger and Eastland got once before? And there is no question about it, conditions were certainly ripe for just such a rain, on more occasions than one during some of those worst days.

Certainly an 11-inch rain, or maybe a somewhat heavier rain, would have put the lake up that other 4.40 feet to the level of the emergency spillway, and it doesn't (Continued on Page 6)

Murder Trial Jury Gets Case At Noon Today

Arguments by attorneys in the George Crawford murder trial being held in Eastland were completed Thursday morning and the case went to the jury about noon.

Crawford, a Negro and former employee of the Eastland Memorial Hospital, is accused of murdering his wife with malice. His first trial earlier in the year resulted in a hung jury.

Four Ranger men are on the present jury including L. M. Lounds, George Robinson, Onis Littlefield and Wright Emfinger.

Dorothy Needham Joins Staff At Ranger Times

Miss Dorothy Needham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Needham and a member of the 1957 graduating class of Ranger High School, has joined the staff of the Times as bookkeeper and society editor.

Miss Needham was an outstanding student all through high school, specializing in English, math, Spanish and typing, and she won several honors for themes and essays she wrote. She was announced this week as winner of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce contest for the best theme presented in Ranger on What My Town Can Do To Attract More Industry.

Miss Needham will be under-study at the Times to Mrs. Beverlie Pharis until the latter leaves to join her husband after he returns from Korea later in the summer.

The Times had many excellent applications for the job of bookkeeper and society editor, and the choice was indeed a difficult one. The publishers and the editor wish to thank everyone for their interest. At the same time we are glad we can give a job to a Ranger High School graduate who might be able to continue her education by working here and attending night classes at Ranger Junior College.

Tricycle Rider Has Eastland Breakfast

By FRANCES MOORE
A sun burned, 56 year old man stopped by the White Elephant cafe in Eastland Tuesday morning to rest and have breakfast before continuing on his way. He had spent the night Monday in Ranger. What is so unusual about that? Well, this man, Wilford F. Wright, was traveling on what he called an adult tricycle, and was on a 5000 mile tour from his home in Bay Pines, Fla. to Juneau, Alaska.

And this isn't the first trip this World War I Veteran has made in this rare manner. He told the reporter that since 1943 he had made five trans-continental trips and had traveled 100,000 miles on the tricycle which has only one gear and three wheels 1/2 the size of bicycle tires.

When asked how he kept with Ranger Hill the man, wearing khaki pants and a t-shirt, said "It was pretty tough. I had to push my tricycle all the way up it and stop about eight times to rest. You get used to things like that though." He said he performed his tricycle to a bicycle because he "Ranger's Future Is Our Future." ELLIOTT MTR. CO. (FORD)

WHAT MY TOWN CAN DO TO HAVE MORE INDUSTRY

Printed below is the prize-winning theme entered by Ranger High School Seniors on the subject "What My Town Can Do To Have More Industry." The contest is being conducted in all schools in West Texas by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Winning themes in each town are forwarded to the WTCC, where the Grand Prize is a $250 scholarship to any school or college chosen by the winner. The ideas expressed in this theme are those of Miss Needham, and not necessarily those of the Ranger Times.

By DORTHY NEEDHAM
"Of course we need to build our town, but where do we start? What is the first step we should take toward making our town larger industrially?" These questions can be heard over and over in our city. Our citizens have been convinced of our town's growing need for more industry, but the greatest problem is where and how to begin. Perhaps the first thing we should do is to find out what industries we need and why we need them. Recently, our Chamber of Commerce planned meetings in our town. The purpose of these meetings was to discuss and analyze our town's needs.

"More movies" is the cry of the teen-ager. "We have to leave town to go to a good show. One movie isn't enough for any town." "I think we need more grocery stores," suggests the practical housewife. "Why should I buy from the stores in this town, when I can go to a neighboring town and get groceries at a much lower price?"

As the discussion continues, such industries are suggested as better dress shops, a shoe store, a hat shop, and factories. The factories and shops are especially wanted for the good of the town.

If we can convince business that our town is a growing town, they will want to put in branch offices and stores. Let's advertise our city. Let's make others know that our city is more than just a pin-point on the map. Let's become enthusiastic enough to invite company representatives from other towns to take a look at our town. Let's send out representatives from our town to convince business owners that a business here would be a profitable business. Let's send letters of invitation to our city. If we can get companies to consider our town, the next step is to make our city ready to be judged.

Since a company representative's first impression of our town will be a determining factor in his decision, we must clean and beautify our town. The many, many vacant lots which are scattered over our town can be transformed from ugliness to beauty. Organized (Continued on Page 2)

Municipal Pool Set to Open June 1; Free Lessons For Kiddies

Ranger's Municipal Swimming Pool is all set to open on Saturday, June 1, and is being filled with water right now.

At the same time, arrangements have been made with Coach Harold Barrett to offer swimming classes for at least six weeks for beginners who do not know how to swim, and also for adults who are in the same boat, unfortunately.

Coach Barrett said he wanted to start the beginners classes by at least Monday, June 3, and it is imperative, absolutely necessary in fact, that all parents who have children who wish to take the lessons, get in touch with Barrett immediately by calling his home and entering the child's name.

Children must be at least six years of age to be eligible for the lessons, and others up to 21 years of age may also receive them free of charge. The only requirement will be that each person taking swimming lessons must have a season ticket to the pool. Tickets are $5.00 for the season and can be purchased from George Rushton, who will manage the pool this year.

Barrett said each swimming pupil would receive three lessons per week, and be wanted to attend at least three classes a day if possible, one each in the morning, afternoon and evening. That is why it is necessary to find out immediately how many youngsters were planning to take the lessons, so that classes could be arranged, and each person informed as to when he could be taken.

Classes for adults will also be held if enough of them express an interest in taking lessons in something that might well save their lives any day. Adults, like children, are also asked to phone Coach Barrett and enter their names. In addition to being required to have a season ticket to the pool, adults will also have to pay an extra $5.00 for their lessons.

Due to the short time between now and June 3, when the first classes begin, too much stress cannot be placed on the fact that all pupils, both youngsters and adults, should contact Barrett at once.

Commissioner Pat Thomas, under whose jurisdiction the municipal pool operates, said they were expecting a record-breaking crowd of kids when the pool opened June 1st.

Ranger Will Be Dug Out Soon If Weather Holds

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written before the rain that dumped a flood of 3 1/2 inches in Ranger between 9 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Thursday. Work was going full speed ahead Wednesday, but was halted abruptly this morning. City Manager Crossley said today all materials had arrived for spraying, but that job would be put off until next week, at least.

Ranger was beginning to take on the look of a little boy with at least half a hair-cut today as city weed-cutting crews began to hack away at the jungle of high grass and other spring vegetation that has had an uninterrupted growth for almost three months.

Two tractor-powered mowers and one walking mower were at work as the job of digging out began after the first full day of sunshine Tuesday. City Manager Lester Crossley said if the weather stayed pretty for a week the weed cutters might begin to show some sort of progress by the end of that time.

There is many a mile of ditch and alley in Ranger that will have to be cut, to say the least of numerous vacant lots, and it all can't be done in a day.

City Manager Crossley said the material the city used in spraying against flies and mosquitoes was due to arrive here today. Thursday, and city workmen would begin spraying this weekend. The spraying machine, which belongs to Eastland, has been in the shop, but Crossley said it was ready for (Continued on Page 6)

George Harmon Killed By Tractor At Featherlight

George Harmon, about 50, died at Ranger General Hospital at 4:45 this morning. Thursday, of injuries he received at about 1:30 a.m. Thursday at Featherlight, in Ranger, when a tractor apparently turned over on him.

Harmon lived at Strawn, and his body was taken to Baum-Carlack Funeral Home there where arrangements are pending.

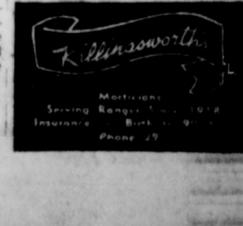

According to Charles Bonat, general manager of Featherlight, Harmon was operating a front end loader, which is a bulldozer type tractor with a bucket on the front of it which scoops up shale and moves it from place to place.

Harmon was an experienced operator and had been scooping up shale on the night shift and moving it around for processing. When some of the workmen missed him, they went to investigate and found him severely injured with indications that the tractor had turned over. Harmon was rushed to the hospital by a Killingsworth ambulance but his injuries were fatal.

WHAT MY TOWN CAN DO TO HAVE MORE INDUSTRY

city beautiful, we will have to prove our need for more business. It is to our advantage to buy in town. Instead of going to other towns in order to get lower prices or a greater variety of goods, we should ask the businessmen in our town to help us. The stores could be stocked with wider varieties. The prices for the goods could be lowered if there were more customers. If people in other towns could see us as a prosperous town with stores we already have, they would feel safer in investing their money to put stores here. So the next time you need that new pair of shoes, that new dress, or those cheaper groceries, don't go to a store in another town. Talk to a shoe store merchant in Abilene, Fort Worth or some other larger town. Tell him he could put a branch store in here. Let him know that many people shop out of town because they can't find what they need here. If you can prove that he can make money here, you will not have to go to that out-of-town store; you will be bringing that store to us. In addition to buying in town, let's boost our town. In every town, there are dozens of people who are always complaining. A familiar expression is, "I'll be so glad when I can get out of this town! There's nothing to do here." Why don't we quit "knocking" our town and boost it? The next time you hear someone complaining, don't pay any attention to him. Just remember that for every one person complaining about our town, there are many others who are saying, "I wish our town had a youth organization like those in other towns. Why don't we get together and try to make one here?" Or "I like this town, but it just needs a few more people." When a town's citizens work together, the town can do anything. In addition to enthusiasm and cooperation, we need faith—faith in the future of our city. We need to have so much faith in our city's future that we will plan for it. When more industry comes, our population will inevitably increase. To be ready for this increase, we need to fill a housing program into our pattern for the future. If we don't, filth and disease will overcome our health. We should repair our rent houses so that they will be suitable places in which to live. We should build more boarding houses and hotels, we should build more houses to be rented or sold to our future citizens. Perhaps cooperation and planning can eliminate some of the "growing pains" of our city.

By BOYCE HOUSE

John Wesley Hardin is supposed to have killed more men than any other gun-fighter in the history of Texas—40, say some chroniclers. Without a doubt, he was the most adroit of all when it came to handling a pistol. When he had been arrested and was being escorted, overland, by Rangers to stand trial, while in camp, one of the officers would hand him a pistol—unloaded, of course—and these men, who knew a thing or two about handling a gun themselves, watched with admiration his quickness and skill. Some credit Hardin with originating the maneuver known as the "border roll." In any case, he was a master of this maneuver, which consisted of offering a pistol, barrel first, with a finger in the trigger-guard, then—with a twirl—the pistol was pointed squarely at the other. Hardin used this trick to keep Marshal Wild Bill Hickok from disarming him in a Kansas cattle-drive town.

At the end of the trip under the Ranger's guard, Wes was tried and sentenced for the killing of a deputy sheriff. He served a long term. During his outlaw days, Hardin demonstrated daring and fast thinking. For example: he and a companion were being pursued by a posse. As the two men dashed over a hill, here came another posse toward them! What was to be done?

The two posses, of course, could not see each other. Hardin and his friend wheeled their horses into the first set of pursuers and, yelling and shooting, they totally unexpected development naturally created confusion. And, next moment, here came the other posse. The two parties of horsemen became almost hopelessly entangled and, in the mix-up, the two outlaws got away.

While in prison, Hardin studied law and, after he was freed, went to El Paso, ostensibly to practice law, but perhaps with the plan in mind of resuming a career based on his skill with a gun. That town had more gun-fighters than any other in the country at that time. They were not daunted by Hardin's reputation. Each was anxious to be pointed out as the man who had killed John Wesley Hardin.

The years in prison had taken their toll. Hardin was no longer young and dashing. He was a shell. Even so, he was shot from behind as he was rolling dice at a bar. The man who killed him got killed soon afterwards—and that man in turn was killed. Being a pistolero in the old days was not a healthy career.

Sgt. E. Williams Is Hero After Nabbing Robber

S-Sgt. Elmer Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Addie Williams of Ranger, made a hero out of himself in Phoenix, Arizona last week when he captured a holdup man that had just robbed a cafe, disarmed him and held him until officers could be called to the scene. Williams, an Air Force instructor in jet engines, was enroute from Luke Air Force Base to Tucson Municipal Airport when he and a traveling companion, A2c Jack Nelson stopped in Phoenix.

The two had entered the Texas Cafe in Phoenix where they had a cup of coffee, and were standing on the sidewalk in front of the cafe when a man ran out the door. A waitress yelled that the man had robbed the cash register, whereupon Williams made a flying tackle on the bandit, knocking him to the sidewalk.

While others called the law, Williams disarmed the robber of a .32 calibre pistol and continued to sit on top of him until officers arrived.

are just exactly the ones they were talking about. If only one of the themes had pointed up some of those short-comings it would not have been noticeable, but when all twelve hit on pretty much the same thing, it was quite glaring, and enlightening, and also disturbing.

Outside of business and civic matters, another thing mentioned unanimously by the seniors was the great need in Ranger for teen-age jobs in the summer-time. And truer words were never spoken. The minute school turns out we have a whole town full of youngsters with nothing in the world to do. And all of the bigger ones are quite capable of doing anything the very best of any of the adults can do.

It is a serious problem and we, for one, do not know how to go about solving it. We do know of some towns where business and industries make special efforts to provide summer jobs for teenagers even if only part time jobs. Many of these places have regular employees taking vacations, and they can use a few teen-agers in a limited way.

These business concerns register their jobs with the Chamber of Commerce which acts as a sort of clearing house in providing teenagers to fill the vacancies. Even three or four weeks of work would look like a bonanza to many teenagers who could use the few dollars they picked up very handsly, and have something to do in the meantime.

It is a problem that is worthy of much consideration, and the Times would appreciate receiving suggestions from somebody else on the subject. We, ourselves, are going to take on at least two high-schoolers this summer. If everybody could take on one, even for just part time and for only a few weeks, it sure would help out.

Teen-agers are willing to do almost anything that is honorable. There never was anybody any more thorough with their work, and they even help a place get more business because they all have a lot of friends that would naturally come in to see them from time to time, and, who knows, some of them might spend some money.

Another thing mentioned unanimously in all 12 of the themes was street marking in Ranger. That project would go over like a forest fire if it were started right now. It is a Garden Club project, we think, and if it is, the time never could be better to begin work on it. Also most of the themes mentioned the deplorable state of the campus at Ranger Junior College. And that is the subject of another sermon we've got to write one of these days.

YOU HAVE A PHONE and so do we, No. 224. Call us about any news you may run across. Always happy to hear from you.

82-Feet-

(Continued from Page One) take much imagination to picture the condition around that lake if the water had been 4.40 feet higher than it was.

The houses in Staff, for one thing, would have had water in them waist deep. Every bathhouse on the lake would have been adrift. Many lake houses would have been half full of water. Many more roads would have been closed. Trying to get rid of the water through that "spout" would have been like trying to take it out with an eyedropper.

Therefore, the question was a quite sensible and logical, IS 82 Feet too high for the emergency spillway?

Of course, the Water Board may know exactly where the water line will be at 82-feet and there may be nothing at all to worry about, except everybody knows there would have been a lot of stuff washed away this last time if the lake had gone up another 4.40 feet. It didn't take a smart man to figure it out. All he had to do was look.

Instead of lowering a spillway, Abilene is at work this week raising the spillway on Lake Abilene, and making it wider. Waco has discovered it will have to do all sorts of things to their lake, Lake Waco, including building a brand new one. Every town, for that matter, was shown a thing or two about their lakes.

5-Day Weather Outlook Is Wet

The 5-day weather outlook issued Wednesday by the Weather Bureau for the period May 23-27 called for more wet weather in West Texas.

"Precipitation moderate to locally heavy in thundershowers beginning about Friday," said the report.

No important temperature changes were forecast, with nights in the light of new knowledge and practical, unadmitted knowledge, the Eastland County Water Board had better have another good look at Lake Leon's spillway, even if it does nothing else. If the Water Board thinks it should be lowered a couple of feet, the time to do it would be before everybody got washed away.
