Splash Day Crowd Full of Enthusiasm at Municipal Pool

By NORMAN WRIGHT

As we remarked once before, not long ago, we have run into dog tag trouble every year, somewhere, for the past twenty-five years, in our business as a newspaper man. It's old stuff with us. And why that is, it's the mystery of the age.

Folks should be glad there is such a thing available as a vaccine that would protect their pets from rabies, a common disease with all animals, and they should jump at the chance to have their dogs vaccinated.

But let somebody like a set of city officials tell a person they are going to have to have their dogs vaccinated because the law says so, and some few of them will bow their necks and become as fighting mad as a mad dog itself.

There are some people who will fight you quicker over a dog than they will over their own children. They will make a public spectacle of themselves over a matter that should be attended to voluntarily.

The law requires that 6-year-old school children, entering school for the first time, be given certain inoculations. People march their kids to town and get them "shot" from end to end and think nothing of it, but tell them there is a law which requires their dogs be inoculated. NO SIR! Right there you've got a fight on your hands.

Well, anyway, fighting won't do any good. One sure and certain way to bring the wrath of the law down upon you is to defy it, and those that do haven't got a Chinaman's chance. They're licked 40 ways from nothing before they ever start.

We have a dog, in another town, that is tagged and vaccinated. If we had a dog in Ranger he would also be tagged and vaccinated even if there was no law requiring it.

With summer coming on, together with the rabies season, the City Commissioners of the City of Ranger are to be congratulated upon the step they have taken in enforcing the dog ordinance, and ninety-nine per cent of the people of Ranger are behind them. More power to them and may they get every law violator in town before they stop. Since it is a law, violation of the dog law can be condoned no more than violation of the liquor law.

We should like to say something, at this time, to all of you, regarding the report that has been given to the Chamber of Commerce by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, analyzing the results of the Community Clinic held here last May 2. The Times is going to attempt to print the biggest part of this report, beginning soon. Because so many of you took part in the Clinic, we feel that you are really interested enough in Ranger.

If the opening day crowd at Municipal Pool lacked anything at all in numbers it more than made up for it in enthusiasm as scores of youngsters flocked to the Willows for their first dip of the Season Saturday.

Water churned and boiled as small, medium and large size swimmers and divers of both sexes frolicked all over the pool like a bunch of young porpoises on a picnic.

City Commissioner Pat Thomas and pool manager George Rushon had everything in ship-shape for the opening and everything at the Willows is all set for a long and successful summer run.

Swim Classes To Start
The first free swimming classes are due to get under way Monday morning under direction of Coach Harold Barrett of the high school. He has been swamped with mothers phoning in entering their children for the free lessons and all classes are loaded. There is a possibility that another class may have to be started.

Class periods will be from 7:00-7:40; 7:40-8:20 and 8:20-9:00 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. There will also be a night class from 7:00-8:00 on Tuesday and Friday nights. It is said that mothers have already been informed as to which class their children are in, and they are asked to please have them there promptly as classes will begin and end on the dot.

More than 60 pupils are enrolled, and others may continue to enroll even after the classes start Monday. New-comers will be placed in the extra class period in case one is formed.

The free swimming classes are for children and youngsters age 5 and over. (Continued on Page Four)

Distinguished Panel To Discuss Mental Health at RJC Dinner

City Only One Third Thru Weed Cutting

With four days of sunshine this week city workmen were able to get about one-third through the herculean job of cutting all the weeds and high grass that have been allowed to grow unchecked since the beginning of Spring.

City Manager Lester Crossley said this is the first time he can remember they were so far behind with their weed-cutting but there has hardly been three straight days in a row where any work of this nature could be done.

"We're hacking away at it, though," he said. Moving crews got in two days last week and four this week and some parts of town are quite spruced up where the men did get to work some.

Crossley said the most pressing thing the city had to do right now was to get out all the mosquito spray that is here waiting for the proper time. Residents working in their lawns are almost chewed up by mosquitoes especially in the late evening, and those things have a way of getting inside houses no matter how tight they might appear to be.

Mosquito spray is too expensive to put all over town, though, only to have it washed away before it is effective. It should remain on everything for at least a week for maximum results, Crossley said. Both the spray and the machine are here and will be put into use at the earliest possible moment, he was told.

An extra man and truck in the sanitation department has also speeded up work to some extent in the garbage pick-up detail.

All Teen-Town Mothers to Meet For Bake Sale

All members of the Teen-Town Mothers Club are asked to meet at the usual place Monday evening at 7:30 for the purpose of planning a Bake Sale that is to be held Wednesday, June 5.

The sale will be held at Warth Food Mart and all proceeds will go into the kitchen fund.

Ranger residents are asked to kindly make note of the fact that the Mothers Club will hold a Bake Sale next Wednesday, and plan their buying needs accordingly. All purchases will be greatly appreciated, and many nice baked items will be offered.

Total Rainfall For May 16.95; 1956 Total, 17.47

With the .70-inches of rain that fell here Friday morning, May 31, total rainfall for May alone amounted to 16.95-inches.

The May total came within .52-inches of being as much as fell during all of 1956, when the total for that whole year was 17.47.

Lions to Install Officers June 14 At Ladies Night

Ranger Lions will install their new slate of officers on Friday evening, June 14, at a "Ladies Night" dinner at Ranger Junior College cafeteria. It was decided Thursday noon at the weekly luncheon. A complete program is to be arranged and announced later.

City Only One Third Thru Weed Cutting

With announcement that Hon. Clyde L. Garrett, former Congressman from this District, will be Master of Ceremonies, the program is complete for the Mental Health Banquet to be held next Tuesday night, June 4 at 7:30, at Ranger Junior College Cafeteria.

A panel of four distinguished members of the faculty of Abilene Christian College, three of whom have Doctor's Degrees, with the fourth now completing his Doctor's work, will lead the discussions on Mental Health in one of the most interesting programs to be brought to Ranger in many a day.

In speaking before the Ranger Lions Club recently, Dr. M. A. Leach, head of the Psychology Department of Abilene Christian College, said that people today should not think of mental institutions and asylums when they hear the words "mental health."

Dr. Leach pointed out that although one person out of every five today would suffer a mental illness during his lifetime severe enough to require treatment, five people out of five had some sort of mental illness all the time.

Nervousness, restlessness, emotional disturbances, and many many other things are all signs of mental illness of some sort, Dr. Leach said, and it is useless for a person to suffer with bad mental health when it can be remedied.

The psychologist said that good mental health was essential if one expected to have good physical health.

It is a discussion of mental health from this standpoint that the panel will undertake Tuesday evening in a dinner program sponsored by the Texas Society for Mental Health, the Eastland County P-TA, and other social and religious groups of the city. It is open to everyone, and tickets are available for $1.25 at Lilly's Rexall Drug or Swaney's Pharmacy.

Brief biographical sketches of the panel members are as follows: Dr. Paul Southern, head of the Bible Department of Abilene Christian College, has been with ACC since 1957 and has been head of the Bible Department since 1951.

Following the classes on Friday, the closing day, the entire Bible School is to be taken on a picnic at some place yet to be selected, and an "Open House" program will be given at the church Friday night during which certificates will be awarded, and parents will be taken through all the classrooms to see what the youngsters have done during the week.

Bro. Brannan, himself, will teach the Teenager's Class for 9, 10, 11 and 12 graders and college students. His subjects for the five days will be: (1) How to Achieve Success in Life; (2) Youth and the Bible; (3) Youth and Marriage; (4) Youth and Prayer; (5) Youth's Attitude Toward the World.

In addition, there will be classes for pre-school children, first and second grades, third and fourth grades, fifth and sixth grades and seventh and eighth grades, all with capable teachers.

Said Bro. Brannan, "Young people, if you ever expect to get to first base in the game of success, you had better learn the rules of the game. Bring a pencil and paper because you will want to take much of this information home with you."

Dog Business Picks Up As Owners Decide City Not Fooling

The dog business picked up during the latter part of the week in Ranger when pet owners decided the City wasn't fooling about enforcing the City Ordinance requiring all dogs to be vaccinated for rabies and have a city dog tag.

Since the announcement was first made, residents had been given a two weeks' period of grace in which to secure the necessary tags, during which 107 dog-owners complied before the deadline last Monday night.

After the dog catcher really and truly started picking up un-tagged animals Tuesday morning, as the City had promised, another 47 owners rushed in to buy licenses by noon Friday, and perhaps more have complied with the law by the time this is printed.

Many a pet-owner had useless arguments with the dog catcher, who has been instructed not to argue. Pet owners interfering with the dog catcher picking up an un-tagged animal are simply reported to City Hall and the Ranger Police take over from there.

Thirty-three dogs had been impounded by noon Friday, eight of which were scheduled for their last long walk Friday night unless somebody reported to claim them and have them vaccinated, a dog tagged as the law requires. Other dogs were scheduled for the same fate Saturday night.

Nine dogs were put out of circulation right off the bat at the request of owners who were not really owners. The dogs had simply been taken up at their places uninvited and would not go away.

From the outset the City had hoped it would not have to destroy dogs, but failure of the owners to comply with the law in having them vaccinated and tagged was taken as evidence they did not want the dogs, and the City was left with nothing else to do.

The City Commission and the City Manager again called attention to the fact that it makes no difference if a dog lives in a closed yard, or is kept tied to the end of a rope, or makes his home inside his owner's house, he is still a dog and must be vaccinated and tagged just the same. "No dogs can be excused," they said.

"If we require one pet-owner to obey the law we have to require all of them to do it, with no exceptions."

The present campaign will continue until all dogs are either vaccinated and tagged, or destroyed. "We are going to do a thorough job of it," one commissioner said.

Residents are cautioned again that once a dog is vaccinated and has received a vaccination tag, and once the dog has been issued a city tag, both should be fastened to a collar around the dog's neck because the dog catcher has no way of knowing if the dog is eligible to receive the higher payments.

The 24,000 who have not applied as yet have until July 1 to file application if they wish to receive the higher payments retroactive to January 1 under the Survivor Benefits Act.

Most of the widows who apply after July 1 will find that the higher payments will become effective as of the day their applications are received, Mr. Harrington said.

Those who apply for the new benefit but who would receive more under old laws will be advised by VA against the wrong choice of payment.

Plan to Give Tito Planes More Fantastic Than Loan to Poland

President Eisenhower started the drive for passage of his foreign aid program Thursday by slicing $500,000,000 off the $4,400,000,000 originally proposed for fiscal 1958. It will be interesting to see how he defends some of the more dubious items in this still too large giveaway program.

One unjustifiable gift which is planned is the sending of about 300 jet planes to Communist dictator Tito of Yugoslavia. Unfortunately, the President can give these planes away without congressional approval.

Although Tito has had his spats with the Kremlin, he has never represented himself as anything but a Communist. His representative in the United Nations always votes the Russian line, or abstains. However, by putting up a little front of independence, Tito has been able to get in excess of $1,500,000,000 in American aid over the past eight years.

Tito gets the jets, military experts believe Yugoslavia would fold up in the event of a serious Russian attack. Of course this estimate is based on a doubtful premise: That Tito would fight back instead of bargaining with the Kremlin.

This giveaway proposal is even more fantastic than the plan to give Poland approximately $100,000,000 in credits for machinery and food. Poland is still completely subject to the Kremlin's whims. Half the proposed loan to Poland, incidentally, in effect would go to Red China, Poland having just granted Peiping a credit of that amount.

If our Air Force has jets it cannot use, it would be much better to give them to the Air National Guard in Texas and other states which are using obsolete aircraft. After the guard units were properly furnished it might be proper to consider sending planes abroad to countries which would fight with us, such as Viet Nam, Nationalist China, Thailand, Pakistan and South Korea. These and other countries which could be counted on are begging for planes.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Prolific grass is the basic heritage in our area. At the same time it has been a most neglected resource.

With the advent of summer and after a prolonged drought, we are at a turning point in grass production. The conservation farmer knows that his range management in the next few months will determine his grass production for a long time to come. All grasses are not the same. Some produce heavy, others light, some are deep rooted, others have shallow roots, some survive drought while others die out. Most grow only in a certain season and most are liked by cattle although stock will always prefer certain grasses at certain seasons. Some are eaten by cattle only when they have nothing else for forage.

The conservation rancher knows and watches his grasses along with his livestock. Certain grasses are indicators on the range, and point the way as to whether the range is going uphill or down. At the present time annual wintergrass, such as rescue and little barley are making an abundant seed crop and are completing their life cycle. Perennial winter grasses like Canada wildrye, Western wheat, and Texas winter grass are also nearing the end of their growing season. For the next few weeks, especially on ranges in poor condition, short life summer grasses will dominate the landscapes.

Such grasses as Texas grama, threeawns, hairy tridens, various minor love grasses, and many weeds will seed quickly, and be gone before the weather gets too hot and dry. All the more desirable grasses, such as side-oats grama, Indian grass, little bluestem, and buffalo have also begun growth, but will grow all summer and generally not make seed until fall. The conservation rancher will be watching these long life summer grasses in hope they will bear a seed crop this fall. He knows that a good seed crop will mean more grass in the years ahead. These better grasses hold the key to "drought proofing" the range.

For this reason many are now making plans for pasture deferrals from June until frost. At the present time this is our greatest treatment need on practically all range land. With our present good moisture and cover, we have an opportunity for real progress in range improvement. Deferral is the only method of allowing the better grasses to dominate less productive grasses.

To be most effective a deferral should be complete. Even one animal in a pasture while grass seed is in the dough stage will top an enormous number of seed heads.

People in our area realize that we must conserve our land, if we have continuous abundant agricultural production. We realize also that we must have efficient conservation—the kind that keeps our land productive and keeps our people on family size farms.

Conservation as such requires intelligent and efficient land and water management. This may mean terracing to hold the soil and conserve rainfall—it may mean proper use of native grasses to keep the most productive grass species on the land. It may mean adding a soil improving crop to the crop rotation to improve soil condition—it may mean leaving crop residues at the soil surface to lessen crusting, increase water intake, and lessen moisture evaporation. On such land, not now paying a profitable return in crop production, it may mean seeding a cover of permanent grass so this land may be used for grazing. Help to landowners in applying conservation is available and efficient land management is available through our local Soil Conservation Districts. Experience indicates that efficient conservation programs are always applied over a period of time—usually several years. Such programs require a plan—a workable, practical layout of the farm, showing what needs to be done on each field and pasture. Such conservation plans should be based on the capabilities of the land, as shown by soil and range surveys, and the operators' system of farming.

A effective workable plan meets the desires of the land owner, as well as treating each acre according to its individual needs. Technical assistance in farm planning for district cooperators is available from local Soil Conservation Service technicians, as well as technical assistance in applying conservation practices. Cost sharing for many conservation practices is available through the ACP program.

Wet weather has interrupted pond and terrace construction, but equipment is now running on several farms. Ponds are in progress of construction by Owen Hamilton of Ranger, B. H. Courtney, northwest of Eastland and Raymond Penn, south of Cisco. L. E. Booth of Cisco has completed a pond on his farm west of Eastland. Lake and Lee Star has completed a pond on his farm south of Nimrod.

It is now a good time to plant blue panic and weeping hovey grass. Several farmers are now planting. With our good season prospects of more showers grass planting is most encouraging. Grass planted before the recent rains is showing good emergence.

"I've killed a child!"

"Never had an accident before. Never been in trouble with the law. Always tried to do right by my family and friends. Now I've killed a child—just by taking a foolish chance."

Every day it happens, often just like that, to drivers who thought accidents happen only to the other fellow—never to themselves.

Remember this. No one expects to meet death on the road. Certainly no one expects to be guilty of causing it. Yet last year, 40,000 men, women and children died in traffic accidents. Thousands of drivers—many who never had or expected to have an accident—found themselves guilty of killing someone on the highway.

Most of these deaths can be prevented—with your cooperation.

Here's how you can help stop traffic tragedies?

- 1 Drive safely and courteously yourself. Observe speed limits and warning signs. Where traffic laws are obeyed, deaths go DOWN!
- 2 Insist on strict enforcement of all traffic laws. Traffic regulations work for you, not against you. Where traffic laws are strictly enforced, deaths go DOWN!

Support your local Safety Council.

Handling Chiggers Is Discussed As Redbug Season Gets Under Way

COLLEGE STATION — "Take the bitter with the sweet" might easily have been phrased to help Mr. and Mrs. Texan put up with chiggers during springtime.

It's an unfortunate fact that although nature exerts herself to make the country "de beautiful during spring and early summer, anyone who walks through that beautiful grass or among those wildflowers can expect to pay the piper with itching currency.

For wherever the wanderer goes—whether on business or pleasure—he finds chiggers, (also known as redbugs).

In past there wasn't much that could be done except put up with the burning itch of the bites—or avoid the places where chiggers dwell. Now, however, there are several things which can be done to avoid this penalty.

First, let's ask, What is a chigger? Well, M. A. Price, who is an assistant professor in the Entomology Department at Texas A & M College, has given considerable thought to this sneaky critter.

"He's the larval stage of a mite—scientific name, Trombicula alfreddugesi, sub-genus Eutrombicula," he says. "That's just one of many parasitic mites we have, but he's the one that bothers most of us."

"He's a much-misunderstood little imp with a bright orange-red color and a big appetite. When he gets a chance, he eats himself all out of shape. Before he gets on you he's about 150 microns long (which means that a squad of them could hold drill practice on the head of a pin with room to spare) and after he feeds for three to eight days he's apt to increase his own length as much as four times.

"Actually," Professor Price says "the chigger is not a blood-sucker at all. He's a tissue feeder. He attaches to the skin wherever he can—especially where clothing is tight—and then uses a proteolytic enzyme to pre-digest your tissues. That means that he puts a material on the skin which partially liquifies the cell tissues; then he sucks up that juice. It's this pre-digestion process which causes that itchy feeling. You're literally being eaten alive.

"There's nothing in the idea that he buries himself in your skin and dies there after feeding. He stays on the surface while he feeds, then drops off on the ground where he finds shelter and moults to form his nymph stage—the next step in his metamorphosis. Both the nymph and the adult feed on plant juices or decaying organic matter, so they pose no problem. They winter in adult form, and lay their eggs in spring in this area."

Now, suppose they take over your lawn. What can you do about it? Well, there are several good chemicals you can spray with—such as toxaphene or chlordane in spray form at the rate of one to two pounds of technical material per acre; or you can use a lindane dust at the rate of a quarter-pound of technical material to the acre.

To keep them from getting on you, there are several good repellents. Some of the chemicals which repel them without being too repulsive to use include dimethyl thalate, dimethyl carbate, benzyl benzoate, and sulphur. Dimethyl thalate or benzyl benzoate can also be used to treat clothing to make it repellent to chiggers.

If you want to treat clothing, dissolve about two ounces of either material in water, and soak clothing in the solution—this amount is good for one suit of work clothes, and should remain until the clothing is washed. After that you'd better treat it again if you want maximum protection.

For temporary protection, use plain sulphur. Just rub the sulphur powder on the tops of your shoes, your socks and the ankles and calves of your legs. It's also a good idea to put a little extra sulphur in the cuff of your trousers.

If you're careless enough to get into chigger-land without protection, then there isn't much that can be done for you; you'll just have to grit your teeth and take it, unless you can get a hot, soapy bath quickly.

For treating the bites, there are a number of home remedies—none of which seems very effective. These include rubbing alcohol, kerosene, or a salt-saturated vinegar solution. Almost anything which will prevent secondary infection will be useful.

But if you don't want to itch, you'd better get a good repellent—or stay out of chigger-land.

What's Cooking—

You, as citizens on what you thought Ranger ought to do to improve itself. These suggestions have been boiled down and placed in 64 separate project classifications. There is enough work outlined as a result of this Clinic to keep the present Chamber of Commerce and all others for the next 25 years busy.

Obviously, all of these things cannot be accomplished at once. Therefore, the WTCC has classified them further in things that should be attempted now and things that should be attempted later. There are both short and long range projects.

Needless to say, none of them, not even the most simple, can be accomplished without the support of all the people. And that support does not necessarily mean money support—it means toil, sweat and tears support. We'll guarantee you right now there is not a thing on the list that can be accomplished by pretty speeches. Somebody is going to have to work and work hard. And since 242 people actually made the suggestions, it is assumed that at least that many will work.

Two hundred and forty-two people in Ranger working for something can almost move the state capital to this city. The trouble is, only two or three people usually try to do all the work. We have had people tell us that if even ten people got behind something and really worked it could be put over. With 242 people at it, anything could happen in Ranger.

We want you to read the full report, or at least the most important parts of it. And if we take the time and trouble to set it in type and print it, we really would feel better about it if you would take the time to read it. All of it will be the result of your own doings, and you will be able to see better how you can help when you are called on in the future.

We hope to begin publication of portions of the report sometime next week.

MAYFLOWER II

Recently the Mayflower II began to retruce the voyage its namesake made 337 years ago from England to the New World.

The other day it made news when it was reported almost becalmed in mid-Atlantic, having covered only thirty sea miles in 24 hours.

Besides its 102 Pilgrims and 25 sailors, do you know one of the most precious things the original Mayflower carried to America? The idea of government by contract, by the consent of the governed, the basis of our Constitution.

Men have always wondered just what claims to obedience the laws have on us.

From earliest times in ancient Greece some have thought that men entered a contract to set up laws among themselves and obey them to keep the peace. But not until 1620 had anybody ever actually written out and signed anything like the Mayflower Compact—the granddaddy of all written constitutions.

Said they: "We . . . do by these presents solemnly and mutually in the presence of God, and one another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic, for our better ordering and preservation . . . and by virtue hereof to enact, constitute and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions, and offices from time to time as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the colony, unto which we promise all due submission and obedience. In witness whereof we have subscribed our names at Cape Cod on the 11 of November . . ."

In 1788 in the same spirit the world's first, oldest, and most successful written constitution came into being, starting out by saying: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union . . . do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States of America."

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)
