Satchmo Louis Armstrong, the Negro orchestra leader, popping off because the people of the South were not joyfully and enthusiastically throwing open their doors to receive members of his race into the most sacred circles of their social orders, said last Wednesday, "the way they are treating my people in the South, the government can go to hell."

The Negro said "the president has no guts," and he described Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas as an "uneducated plowboy." Armstrong said he didn't need the help of the government in anything he wanted to do and "what I do from now on, I'll do it on my own."

Newspapermen, being sure they understood the man correctly, wrote out the statements on a piece of paper and asked Armstrong if that was what he said. "Don't take nothing out. That's just what I said and still say," the Negro was quoted as saying, and then he took a pen and wrote the word "solid" at the bottom of the piece of paper and then signed his name.

Do you want to know what will happen to Satchmo Armstrong for saying all that? Absolutely nothing! He will get away with it and become a bigger hero among members of his own race than he already is.

As for the Negro saying that President Eisenhower has no guts, we wonder in what smoke-filled, liquor-filled night club Satchmo was blowing his little horn when Eisenhower was fighting the Battle of the Bulge?

As for saying this country can go to hell, we wonder why Satchmo didn't tell it that when he was in the process of making his millions?

As for saying that Gov. Faubus is an uneducated plowboy, we wonder why it is that he is the head of a great state in the Union when all that Satchmo is the head of is a band of 15 or 20 Negro musicians whom he pays?

As for his saying that he can get along without the Government of the United States, we would be heartily in favor of giving him the chance and shipping him back to his ancestral home and let him try it over there from NOW ON.

To Ranger College and the visiting Cameron Aggies from Lawton, Okla., goes the honor of opening the 1957 Pioneer Conference Season in a game to be played tonight at Bulldog Stadium with kick-off time at 8 o'clock. And to Ranger football fans goes an opportunity to see the best football game they will probably see anywhere all year.

It will be football several degrees above the high school variety as all the players from both schools were high school stars in their own right and they've got at least two years experience behind them and a lot more weight

Top Athletes To Be Given Lion Awards

Two outstanding football players from Ranger High School, and two outstanding players from Ranger College, four in all, will be given personally engraved loving cup awards at the end of football season this year for their contribution to excellence in athletics.

The beautiful trophies will be presented by the Ranger-Lions Club and will remain in the trophy cases at both schools from year to year, with a new name being added each season for the boys selected for their particular year, and will remain in the cases for coming generations to see.

The reason the trophies are not being presented to the winners "for keeps" is because of the amateur athletic rules.

One of the trophies will be awarded to the High School boy selected to be the outstanding player of the year, and another

Eastland Became County Seat After 1875 Voting

A City Is Born

A number of people availed themselves of the opportunity to get a free lot in the new town of Eastland. J. F. Davenport, now of Cisco, built a house on the northeast corner of the square, where downtown's brick building stands, and merchandised. Isham Finch built a hotel on the southeast corner of the square. "It was beyond question the best public place of entertainment in the county at that time—there being no others."

Major J. H. Davenport, formerly state senator from Bell County, established a law office on the south side of the square and published the first newspaper in the county, "The Review." J. H. Calhoun, present District Judge, built a law office on the north side of the square in 1876, which is now the oldest house standing.

Other lawyers who established offices in Daugherty, Connells, and Amnerman's store. Mr. Corley exhibited the original "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Chicago World's Fair, and is author of a book entitled "The Lives of the Apostles."

J. H. and J. C. Cox merchandised under the firm name of Cox Brothers. J. H. Everdale put up a sawmill and manufactured what was known as "rawhide lumber" out of the oaks that covered the hills. This enterprise greatly facilitated the building of small houses.

Later, Mr. Everdale engaged in the mercantile business and held the misfortune to lose his stock of goods by fire in 1885.

Rev. R. C. Weaver, a Methodist minister, held the first divine service in the town in the unfinished hotel being put up by Isham Finch. Rev. J. M. Lingo organized the first Baptist Church.

In the summer of 1875, Daugherty, Connells, and Amnerman made a proposition to the citizens to move the County Town from Merriman to Eastland. The election, held August 2, 1875, resulted as follows: Eastland, 67; Merriman, nine; McGough Springs, 44; Center of County, five, and scattering, two. The gentlemen making the proposition had agreed to erect a two-story stone building a 1/2

LIONS AND REINDEER: For the benefit of those who did not get to see the above picture in the Abilene-Reporter-News on account of those in it buying up all the available copies, this is the scene as Ranger Lions delivered the pony "Reindeer" to Abilene Lions at Hardin-Simmons University riding stables last Wednesday on another leg of the pony's journey from Frederick, Md., to Fort Bliss, Texas, where it will join its little blind mistress, daughter of an Army Sergeant. The Ranger group of Lions, at left, include O. C. Warden, Norman Wright, R. V. Galloway and Dr. M. E. Jolly. Abilene Lions at right include "Sheriff" Will Watson, Walter S. Pope Jr. (partially hidden, and president of the Abilene Lions Club) and Byers Petty. That's "Reindeer" in the middle, who took a long, lazy wallow in the sand right after photo was made. The Lions and the horse had previously been welcomed downtown by the Mayor, more Lions, and half of Abilene. The pony arrived at Fort Bliss at 1 p.m. today, Saturday, having left Frederick on Sept. 9. It traveled 2,036 miles and was relayed by 45 different Lions Clubs across two-thirds of the nation, all for the sake of a little blind girl whose family could not afford to have the pony shipped when the Army transferred the father.

Turkey Growers To Seek Reduction In USDA '57 Estimate

Members of the Central Texas Turkey Growers Association, meeting Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce in Ranger, have joined hands with the Texas Turkey Federation and other groups representing turkey growers throughout the state, in seeking a reduction in the United States Department of Agriculture crop estimate for 1957 which has literally knocked the bottom out from under turkey prices.

The Crop Rotating Board of the USDA has placed the 1957 Texas turkey production at 4,724,000 birds, which is one of record-breaking proportions, the growers say.

Half Million Turkeys Too Many

The Texas Turkey Federation, which is state wide and which operates in every turkey-growing community in the state, has taken an almost farm-by-farm turkey census of its own which has revealed a crop of only 4,204,000 birds, well below the crop of last year, and more than a half-million birds less than the USDA figure.

W. D. Blachly, a representative of the USDA, who made the record-breaking estimate, said he based his figures on reports from hatcheries which showed that 5,300,000 poulters were started in Texas this year. He estimated the mortality rate at about 14 per cent arriving at his figure.

The Texas Turkey Federation contacted five major feed mills in their survey and found that one of these mills estimated the mortality rate to be at least 22 per cent in the area which it served. Two other feed mills estimated the loss at 20 per cent in their areas, and the fourth and fifth mills estimated the loss from 17 to 20 per cent.

Men From Ranger Attend Oil Crisis Meet At Breck

The first session, which began at 11 o'clock last Tuesday morning, was devoted to what is happening to the independent oil producer and covered every phase of the business from the rig operation, service organizations, leaseholders, and from a tax standpoint, showing the reduction in revenue with which to operate the state and the state's school system, all on account of oil imports.

The President of the Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce, A. H. Miller, stated that the meeting was brought about in the hope that a grassroots movement among those not directly connected with the independent oil producer would realize that the rapid deterioration and critical condition of the oil industry was affecting the Charles Wolford, surrounded by members of the football squad and coaching staff as honor guard, will sit in state in the main foyer of Ranger High School Monday with his right toe propped up on a Mazon and White velvet pillow where the 160-pound Bulldog will permit students to pass by and kiss it between the hours of 8 and 2 a.m., while the 62-piece marching band plays Alma Mater softly in the background.

It was Wolford's right toe that kicked a crucial, vital, just-had-to-be, point after touchdown midway in the last quarter that enabled the Ranger High School Bulldogs to come home with a 28-27 victory over Jacksboro Friday night instead of a 27-27 tie.

After the Bulldogs had put on a sustained touchdown drive for 67 yards, starting at their own 33, with Quarterback Lee King sneaking the ball over from one yard out for the final inches needed to tie up the game 27-27, Wolford, who had already kicked three extra points, was called back into kicking position for a try that would put Ranger ahead for the first time all night.

Through the Middle

With the fans on both sides shaking like an aspen leaf in Hurricane Audrey, Bulldog Center Walter Hutchins took his place over the ball. The snap went back like a bullet to Quarterback King who slapped the ball into position and Wolford uncocked old Dety.

CHAS. WOLFORD
... Toe Did It

If the United States Army had shot the ball over with a zeroed-in 105 howitzer it couldn't have been any more through the middle of the uprights, and that extra point was as loom as big as Mt. Everest before the end of the game which was then exactly six minutes away.

The terrible rub at this time was that Ranger had to kick off to Jacksboro, and Ranger had just as soon seen its box coming because the Tigers had been scoring almost every time they got the ball. The 864 Question was, could the Bulldogs hold 'em for another six minutes which seemed to be six eternities away.

They Hooded The Fort

Ranger booted and the Tigers took over on their own 28. But the Bulldogs, showing the same kind of fight that enabled them to come from far behind to win a final victory, finally held them off a r down on the Ranger 13 and the ball went over after the Tigers had marched for 59 yards before giving it up. At that time there were 20 seconds left to go, and on Ranger's first play after taking over, Quarterback King nestled the ball to his bosom and dropped it to his knees as the clock ran out and a wild and woolly ball game was over.

But Wolford wasn't the only hero of the ball game because all eleven men put on the fight of a lifetime to come from behind, and at one point, just before the end of the half, the score stood 20-7 in favor of Jacksboro. A team with less fight and determination than the Bulldogs had woe's fate suddenly became stricken with Aslan Flu or something worse and fold-

 Big a common thing in the South.
 We might also add, PLUS an electric refrigerator, PLUS modern plumbing, PLUS good clothes, PLUS a good job and PLUS as good a house as any of them try to have. PLUS good schools, PLUS good colleges and PLUS happiness.

Mark Twain's immortal classic "Huckleberry Finn" has been dropped in New York State from its approved list of text books because the NAACP claimed that it contained racial slurs.

Ironically, one of the characters in the book for whom Huck would go to such extremes to defend and befriend, and for whom Huck suffered many a licking, was "Jim," and Jim was a Negro slave.

Also, Stephen Foster's great folk song "Old Black Joe" has been banned from the radio networks because the NAACP objected to the word "darkies."

We could use the cleansing laughter of another Mark Twain in this day and age, and perhaps another Will Rogers, to break away all this morbid sensitivity about so-called racial slurs, and maybe bring everybody back to their senses again. But, alas, it's far too late for that now. Too many politicians are making hay out of the racial question for it to ever settle down again, we fear, until what we all dread, the worst, has happened.

Growers Have Lost Money
 Actual surveys made by members of the Federation all over the State shows the birds ready for market to be far below the USDA estimate, but the hara has already been done on account of the USDA figures. Growers have been forced to sell their birds as quickly as they were ready due to the unfavorable feed-price ratio, and they were forced to sell before the birds reached a good saleable finish.

They have taken a licking on prices as a result of the inaccurate USDA figures. Growers are seeking to get the crop estimate revised to what it actually is in order to salvage a little bit from the crop during the rest of the year if possible.

economy of this whole area. Spokesmen from nearly every city were in accord that the independent oil producer represented a large segment of their economy, and in every instance they were determined that it was now up to local citizens to help take action in the matter.

The luncheon meeting was attended by over 100 persons who passed resolutions calling attention to the President of the United States to the danger to our local economies by continuation of imports, and urged the Railroad Commission of Texas to direct gatherers to extend their lines and purchase oil ratably from all areas they transverse and in accordance with existing statutes, thus preventing economic disaster from loss of all markets for this area.

The meeting was adjourned with all representatives resolved to return to their communities and urge their Chambers of Commerce to take some definite action, in helping to get the oil imports stopped or at least drastically reduced.

the "high schoolish" mistakes against the Aggies that Cisco made. Ranger College has a powerfully good football team and both coaches were highly pleased with their performance against Paris and said they learned a lot of things.

The Rangers have worked out diligently all this week on their mistakes and they are set to play a real ball game tonight and have all the confidence in the world in their ability.

Ranger College has a number of all-state high school boys on the squad this year, and a lot of reserve strength. The two end positions will be filled by a couple of Eastland boys that made honorable mention all-state and they have been setting the woods afire both in practice and in play against Paris.

Ranger football fans will make no mistake in filling the stadium tonight because it bids fair to be one of the best football games they will see all year, in addition to all the other fancy stuff that has been cooked up for the Conference opener.

trophy will be awarded to the college boy selected to be the outstanding player of the year.

The other two trophies will be awarded to two boys one from High School and one from college, who contribute the most to the squad, but he cannot be considered a first string player. This is to give the non-starters an equal opportunity with the starters to win an award.

The players receiving the awards will be selected by the high school and college coaches, together with a committee from the Lions Club, and the awards will be made at the football banquets of the two schools.

Selection of the winners will be made not only on the basis of athletic ability, but on the basis of leadership, sportsmanship, scholarship and general all-round value to the squad and the school.

The awards will be very valuable to the winners as their names will be on display in the trophy cases for years to come and their high school athletic careers will long be remembered and recalled.

Ranger C of C Greets Cub Pack

R. V. Galloway, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, arranged to meet Cub Pack 2, Den 7, of Polytechnic Methodist Church, of Fort Worth, at the noon train from Fort Worth today and serve them ice cold soda pops as compliments of the City.

Mrs. F. D. Killgore of Fort Worth was Den Mother and had written that she was bringing her cubs here for the popular round-trip tour from Cow Town to Ranger which enables the youngsters to ride the train, most of all of them for the first time in their lives.

Hundreds of Fort Worth Cubs have visited Ranger this summer.

Bulldogs-

ed up completely for the night.

The game started off like the Bulldogs were going to make a rout of it. The Maroon and White warriors received a short kick-off for their own 42 and seemed headed for the promised land and a quick score when they fumbled the ball before the game was a minute old. Moments later a 40-yard Tiger pass play put the ball on Ranger's 8 and fullback Tommy Mustin plunged over from there for a touchdown and guard Dan Davis kicked the extra point.

This guy Mustin was a character. Ranger was destined to see plenty of before the night was over because he literally romped from one end of the gridiron to the other almost at will, and out of the 378 yards that Jacksboro made rushing, Mustin chucked up 346 of them. All the rest of the Jacksboro players put together made only 32 yards from first to 12.

With 8 1/2 minutes left in the second period, Mustin was the lad who did it again, this time exploding up the middle on a spinner for 35 yards and another 6 points. And it was right here that Jerry Anderson busted through to block the extra point try and he might as well take his place on that throne with Wolford next Monday morning and just kiss 'em generally, because that one block was as important in the final scoring as the kick because it took both of them to do the trick.

Following this Tiger TD, Ranger took the kickoff and did not let go until the Bulldogs had rung up a score of their own with Fullback David Wharton doing a bit of sensational broken-field running for 28 yards and 6 points. Wolford kicked his first extra point and the score was 13-7 with four minutes left in the half.

It didn't stay that way but another minute-and-a-half, because Jacksboro took the Ranger kickoff and didn't let go until the score was 20-7, with 2 1/2 minutes left in the half. In this Jacksboro drive, that guy Mustin made one 60-yard run and then passed from the 12 to end Charles Smith for

Begin Second Half

As the second half got under way it was evident that a different set of Bulldogs had taken the field. Ranger kicked off and Jacksboro took over for a first and ten on the Tiger 37. Two plays later, David Wharton intercepted a Jacksboro pass to get possession of the ball, but a clipping penalty set the Bulldogs back to their own 45 before they could put the ball into play. With the help of a couple of 14 yard pass plays, King to Yarborough and King to Wolford, Ranger had the ball on the Jacksboro 7, tasting another touchdown when WHAM— they fumbled again.

King Makes It 27-27

Following the Ranger kick-off, Jacksboro tried two plays and then fumbled with the Bulldogs recovering on their own 33. Sensing victory, the Bulldogs wouldn't be stopped under any circumstances at this late date and wound up on the Jacksboro one-yard line where King went over on a sneak, making the score 27-27.
 You know the rest of it from there!

WEEKEND GUEST

Sterling Thames of Fort Worth is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Needham over the weekend.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Cooper have returned from a week's visit in East and South Texas.

Ranger Makes It 20-14

The Tigers failed to move and punted out with Ranger again taking over on the Tiger 40. A pass, King to Wolford picked up 20, another one just like it got 4, and the Doggies pretty soon had the ball on the Tiger 11. From there Wharton went around right end for a touchdown, Wolford kicked the extra point and the score stood 20-14 with three minutes left in the third quarter.

Mustin Again

Ranger kicked off and on the first play from scrimmage that "Mustin" Mustin broke away for 64 yards and another touchdown making the score 27-14 after Davis had kicked the extra point.

 Following the Tiger kickoff, Ranger took it on their own 14 and went all the way again without giving
