Announcement

Due to the early opening of school I shall be back in Sudan Friday afternoon of this week and shall want to meet football boys at school at nine o'clock Saturday morning.

If any parent objects to a boy playing football, thereafter the boy must provide me with a statement from the parent that the objection is withdrawn.

Sudan Public Schools.

Sudan Schools, Past and Present

The Sudan High School will hold a Teachers' Institute Sept. 3, 4, 5, at the High School Auditorium and a condensed account of Sudan public school history seems quite appropriate.

The first public school venture was about 1918, when the school board consisted of P. E. Boesen, Perry Barnes and Fred McDaniel. Mr. Boesen after several trips over to Olton in regard to finances was finally allowed $150 to conduct a 3 months term of School.
Mr. Boesen erecting a school house, 14 by 28.

In 1921 attendance increased and other teachers needed and another 2-story frame house was added.

Shortly after that a bond issue of $75,000 was voted to build a modern brick building. In 1925 the School system boasted of ten instructors, another bond issue voted $100,000 and from there up has given us our present Public Schools and High School buildings which in such a small space of time, only ten years, is remarkable in a country just about emerging from the staked planes and a meagre population. Present Board of Directors are: Clyde W. Roberson, T. A. Nelson, J. C.
Cooper, L. T. Hunt, J. A. Hutto, F. Z. Payne and A. W. Ormand.

V. C. NELSON HONORED BY REPUBLICAN PARTY

Last Saturday, August 25, at Amarillo, V. C. Nelson of Sudan was placed on the Republican ticket as candidate for Congress from the eighteenth Congressional District, putting him against Marvin Jones. This is no idle compliment. Mr. Jones is admitted to be one of the most popular of the Democratic Congressmen, and the man placed in the field against him must be one of the strongest Republicans of the state. The very fact that Mr. Nelson is so placed ranks him one of the leading Republicans of the entire district.

V. C. Nelson was born in Kansas, a neighbor and intimate friend from boyhood of Charles Curtis, U. S. Senator from Kansas, and today running mate with Herbert Hoover for the vice-presidency of the United States. This friendship with Curtis has remained constant since the men were boys together. Removing from Kansas in his early manhood, Mr. Nelson went to Kansas City, Missouri, where he made his home a few years and studied dentistry. Afterward he removed to Oklahoma, practicing dentistry there and in the eastern portion of the Panhandle of Texas for a number of years.

At this time his party deman-ed the service of a capable man in the postal affairs at Panhandle, Texas, so Mr. Nelson was sent there as postmaster, where he served his people for thirteen years, leaving the post office to continue public service in the Panhandle for seven years longer. From Panhandle, Mr.
Nelson went to Ft. Worth where he remained in public work six years. While in Ft.
Worth he became the trusted friend of Col. Louis J. Wort-

Directors Elected

Lamb County members met in Littlefield Tuesday August 28 at 3 p. m. and elected the following men as a board of gin-directors for Littlefield gin: J. T.

Elms, Littlefield, Secretary,
V. L. Castlebury, Littlefield,
Director, F. H. Glazener director, R. N. Carpenter, Amherst, director.

After disposing of some small matters of the local county affairs a motion was made to elect two more directors for the county board Mesdames J. G.
Berryman and W. H. Gardner of Littlefield were chosen, which makes a total of four men and four women on the board.

Primitive Baptist Meeting

The Primitive Baptist will hold a three days meeting at the Friendship Church six miles South and two miles west of Sudan beginning Friday before the second Sunday in September.
This is regular communion time and dinner will be on the ground Friday and Saturday, everyone is invited to attend.

FOR SALE—300 purebred yearling Single Comb White Leghorn hens, Johnson strain,
75c each. Mrs. R. E. Lutrell, 7 miles northwest Sudan, on north side of track.

Kercheville-Watson Revival

Revival meeting under Auspices of Church of Christ starts off with an unusual interest.

Almost the entire membership have reconsecrated themselves to greater service and several have openly confessed their wrong.

Mr. Watson is a great singer, and is putting over his part of the work in a creditable way.

No comment is needed in regard to the work of Bro. Kercheville as an evangelist, for in the eighteen months time here in the county he has been in meetings most all the time and has never failed to put over a successful meeting yet, having had a total of over two hundred additions to the Church.

Bro. Kercheville regrets the conflict with his Methodist friends at this time, and offered to alternate the services as was done at Amhesst last year. But the local pastor of the M. E.
Church turned down his offer.

Everybody in Sudan and vicinity are invited to attend this meeting. SERVICES 10:00
A. M. and 8:15 P. M.

Mrs. M. Hill, of Albany; and Mrs. Stoke Power, of Caddo; returned to their respective homes Sunday, after spending several days with their sister, Mrs. A. C. Findley and family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ormand motored to Lubbock Wednesday.

The Colfax Bookplate By AGNES MILLER

"In a few minutes I went back to my regular work. Then Mr. Grosvenor was found unconscious. And he was so badly hurt! It made me ill. The sight of blood always makes me feel faint; I have a refined nature. And his wrist was so badly slashed! And presently I suddenly remembered that that yellow paper in my pocket had been all cut into slivers, too! I was so scared I absolutely didn't dare throw it away. I realized it must have been slit up during those three or four minutes I was away from the professor, because when I laid it down on the pile of four books, it was just as he had given it to me. I was so frightened I didn't know what to do, for days and days! It did seem terribly exciting that I should have picked the note up; and presently I felt that maybe I could solve the mystery of the attack with it."

"Why, you did!" confessed Daisy coyly. "Don't you remember that day you interviewed me up in Mr. Roberts' office? When I told you all about Miss Grosvenor and Mr. Burton? I could see you thought I had more information than anybody; I knew it was useful to you, no matter how much Mr. Roberts tried to squelch me. And I did have more information than anybody, so when I—"

"Pray, Miss Abbott," interposed Mr. Almy, "proceed, in reference to the yellow note." "So, when," repeated Daisy, incisively, "I read in the paper that the weapon used to attack Mr. Grosvenor must have been a small, thin blade, I felt sure it had been also used to tear that paper, perhaps to try the blade first. But I couldn't understand the cuts in a pattern on the paper; and Miss Grosvenor wasn't arrested; and of course, I was sure Professor Harrington had had nothing to do with the affair, so I decided that Mr. Case must have known Mr. Grosvenor and done it!"

Mr. Roberts and I gaped. Mr. Almy merely said: "Let me hear your theory, please."

"Well, Monday noon Mr. Case was dreadfully cross to Ulysses, right in front of me. And you know he's never cross, least of all to a person like Ulysses. We were both in Mr. Case's office, he and I; I was writing a letter for him. Ulysses came in and asked him some question about the shelves he was putting up in the stockroom, and then he started to gossip about the accident."

"He asked Mr. Case if he knew the old gentleman; and Mr. Case said that though a number of the staff reported having seen him before from time to time in the shop, he had never happened to. Ulysses then asked if the old gentleman was going to recover; and Mr. Case said the doctor thought not, he had lost so much blood. Ulysses said that was different from the old days, when they bled people on purpose. He told us his father had had pleurisy when he was a boy, and had been bled by a powerful fine doctor from the navy and got well right away. I said, 'Your father wasn't a sailor, was he?' and he said: 'No, the doctor was visiting his folks down to Elliot's Crossing. My father he used to live there.' He said Elliot's Crossing was in Virginia, and when I asked him what it was near he said, 'It ain't near nothing 'cept the woods and the mountains. I was born there at midnight 'tween October and November, and my horoscope was cast. And the horoscope says that folks that's born at midnight 'tween October and November gets messages. An' I got a message this mornin'! I knowed some'n powerful bad was go'n happen, and it done happen!' And then Mr. Case told him sharply he was a superstitions old fool!"

"Well, then, naturally, he went away; I was sorry for him, but he did give me the creeps with his bleeding and his woods and mountains and horoscopes. I didn't understand him at all, but he scared me to death, and I got scared and scareder about that yellow note with the slits in it, until finally I just made up my mind that I wouldn't have anything to do with it. So I went and stuck it into the most unlikely looking book I could find in the history section!"

"Oh, it was so terrible!" shuddered Daisy. "I finally decided Thursday morning that I ought to try to find it and give it up, after all. And I couldn't remember what book I had put it in; that is, I couldn't remember the book by name. I was scared just absolutely stiff. I knew I shouldn't have hidden the slip, for it wasn't mine, in the first place, and if I suspected it was important, I should have told some one in authority. And then, gradually, the more I thought about the thing, the more I realized that Mr. Case hadn't responded at all to Ulysses; in fact, he'd shut him up much too quickly. "And then, that same Thursday, I suddenly remembered, without any warning—you know the way you do sometimes when you're thinking about a thing very hard?—that I had seen Mr. Case walking along the south gallery, to the door that leads upstairs, on Monday morning, just before the clock struck eleven!"

"Why didn't you ever say so before?" demanded Mr. Roberts, evidently as much stunned as I was—and maybe as Mr. Almy was—at this totally unexpected corroboration of Julia Grosvenor's statement that she had seen Mr. Case in the same place at the same time. "I never thought of it again until that minute!" cried Daisy, sharply. "Why should I? And why shouldn't Mr. Case walk along the south gallery? He does, every day, nearly! But I had remembered that the attack was said to have been made shortly before eleven o'clock, and that made me uneasy, taken in connection with the way Mr. Case had lost his head before Ulysses. And then he got me a wonderful position in Fernald's; I couldn't help wondering if he had done it to put me under obligation to him, because I had heard him and Ulysses."

"Have you anything further you would like to tell me, Miss Abbott?" Mr. Almy inquired. "That is positively all you know about the yellow note?"

"Absolutely!" vowed Daisy, solemnly.

So she was permitted to depart.

CHAPTER XI

The Spring-Lancet.

When Ernesto's box trees were half a block away, Mr. Almy said: "Suppose you take back this key and the bookplate. If at any time you think they might get a response from Miss Grosvenor, show them to her. I give them to you because she associates you, rather than me, with that book, and you might have a chance to win her confidence more aptly. Once more, do your best to get her to talk."

We passed the box trees; we paced the blue-and-white tiled hallway; we mounted the steep staircase to the second floor, and approached the door of the Grosvenor apartment. And—

"Out of it walked Mr. Case! I decided that the hall was too dark for me to see him; what Mr. Almy did, I don't know, for he was behind me, but at all events, he didn't speak. The maid admitted us to the living room; and there sat Julia, in the same chair where we had left her the previous evening, so still that it seemed as if she had never moved."

"Miss Grosvenor, we want to do something for you, if you will only let us," said Mr. Almy.

"Nobody can do anything for me," she answered in a dead, level tone.

Mr. Almy glanced at me.

"You're mistaken," said I, rather bluntly, to rouse her. "I should not have dreamed of intruding here if I could not help you. You see, I was here last night when you and your cousin had that discussion—you remember you asked me to stay—and I think I have here what you were discussing with him, that object you want."

I took the key from my bag and held it out to her. She looked at it with perfect blankness, her expression changing from bewilderment to disappointment, then to suspicion.

"What is it?" she demanded with some asperity. "I haven't the faintest notion!"

I flung it down on the table, and drew the bookplate out of my bag. "Is this what you want, then?" I asked.

Her eyes fairly blazed with recognition! With trembling fingers she snatched it from my hand, hesitated almost imperceptibly one instant as if screwing her courage up to a supreme effort, then turned the stout paper oblong over and scanned the blank back avidly. Then, with a heartrending cry of bitter disappointment, she flung the bookplate on the floor.

Mr. Almy snatched it up. "Miss Grosvenor, you recognized this!" he announced sharply. "You saw it at the auction galleries in Richmond, a week ago last Thursday."

Julia Grosvenor caught her breath sharply, half in chagrin in having betrayed herself so utterly, half in consternation at Mr. Almy's information.

"You wanted to buy the book with the bookplate, didn't you? Surely there was no reason why you should not have done so if you wished."

"Yes," she finally whispered; "but I had no money. So I really went to see who would buy it—where it would be afterward."

"Your cousin entered a bid for five hundred dollars," resumed Mr. Almy. "Julia made no sign or movement. "But, as you know, he was outbid. Mr. Burton got the book. It was in Darrow's shop last Monday." She glanced steadily at the floor, in dead silence. "Miss Grosvenor, I must remind you that the authorities are still waiting for you to explain your presence at that shop on Monday morning for an hour and a half."

"I have explained it! You won't believe me! You think I followed my grandfather there to kill him!" suddenly blazed the girl, frightened and furious.

"No," denied Mr. Almy, very quietly. "I think you went there after that bookplate again. But you didn't find it, and something else happened. What, I am going to find out. Miss Grosvenor, when did you learn that Mr. Burton was Darrow's buyer?"

"When I left the auction, directly after the book had been bought, I made inquiries," she answered reluctantly.

"Did you tell your cousin that Burton had bought it?"

"No. I didn't even meet him in Richmond. If he knew, he must have found out from the galleries."

"He did," rejoined Mr. Almy. "Your constant avoidance of your cousin while both of you are attempting to get possession of this drawing makes certain only one conclusion, Miss Grosvenor: Your motive for wanting it conflicts with his. Now, your cousin went to Darrow's Monday morning and bought a book. Did you see him there?"

"No."

"Did you at any time during that morning know he had been there?"

The question startled her, but she looked at her questioner steadily and answered point-blank. "Yes!"

"How did you know?"

"That," said Julia in a tone of finality, "I cannot tell you."

"Why did your cousin go to Darrow's Thursday night?"

"Perhaps for the book again," said Julia, in pathetic desperation.

"You know better than to say that," said Mr. Almy, with a touch of sternness. "What obligation are you under to him?"

"He has often treated me with consideration; not too many people have," returned Julia, with dignity.

Mr. Almy looked at her hard and shrewdly. Suddenly he shot out: "What did he go to Darrow's to get for you on Thursday night?"

Her eyes dilated with surprise and horror. She shuddered, and gasped: "For me? For me? Well, if he wants to tell you, let him! There are some things I can't do!"

Her lips snapped shut just as they had done the previous evening in that very room, when, after all the abuse she had received at the hands of her cousin, when it was utterly useless to try to withstand the search for him, she would do nothing to betray him. Her loyalty was again making

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Strong medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Marriage No Light Ceremony in China

Getting married is complicated business in China. Anna Louise Strong, writing in Harper's Magazine, gives the following description of Chinese wedding customs as related to her by a Chinese student:

"If a marriage is honorable in China, the parents of the groom will pay the money needed. They will send notes from the groom's father: 'On such a date my son will marry the daughter of Mr. So-and-so. Your presence is requested at the feast. But it is worth much to him, for at the wedding, all honor is shown to this old man, who will now be a grandfather, since his son has taken a wife.'"

"But if the marriage be without parents' consent, then the young folks cannot be at home on their wedding day. A proper, honorable marriage—it really cannot be done without the parents; otherwise, all is disorder. There are only two other ways for young folks. One is to wait and beseech the parents. Even if they do not like the girl, still they love their son, and if they see him always unhappy, refusing to take any other women or to give them grandsons, in the end they will often give way."

Daddy on Fire Little M'Gred ran into the house the other day and screamed: "Oh, mother, I just saw daddy on fire!"

"On fire!" the startled mother cried, and Mildred vigorously nodded her head.

After a maternal cross-examination it turned out that Mildred had passed the barber shop and saw a barber applying matches to her father's hair. She had run all the way home to tell mother and save daddy's life. When father came home a few minutes later he was surprised at the affectionate greeting of his little daughter, who was delighted to see that he had escaped from the fire fend alive.—Philadelphia Record.

SUDAN,

TEXAS

Miss Alene Wells, who has been attending the summer term at the "Tech" in Lubbock, returned to her home in Sudan, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis, who recently moved to Shreveport, La., have returned to Sudan, and will probably make their home here.

Mrs. C. L. McKinley, who has been quite ill for the past week, is reported some better at this time.

Mrs. Jim Griffin and baby, of Olustee, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dent and family. Mr. and Mrs. Dent returned recently from an extended visit in Colorado, and points of interest in Texas. They left Wednesday for Lubbock, where they will visit for a few days.

T. J. Findley, who has been spending the summer with relatives in Fort Worth, and having his eye treated by a specialist in Dallas, returned home today, accompanied by his uncle, Hugh Findley and family. It will be remembered that T. J. was hit in the eye with a nigger shooter, by one of his boy friends, while at Sunday School.

E. E. Ivey returned Tuesday, from Quanah, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. E. E. McCracken who will visit here awhile. Mrs. Ivey and the boys remained for a longer visit. Mr. Ivey states that his wife's health is much improved.

The Only Safe Route

He who keeps saving as he goes along Has a drawing account if something goes wrong; While those who keep spending as fast as they make, Are sure to find out they have made a mistake. Don't leave the door open the wolf may get in And cause you to suffer. To not save is a sin. The man who saves has more self respect, As well as less cause to sadly reflect. The First National Bank has found without doubt To Save is the only safe and sure route.

Tipton Orphans' Home News

Thirty acres of alfalfa will be sown on the home farm some time this month. This will cut the dairy bill one-half, which will mean a saving of about $150 a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Chitwood, accompanied by forty children of the home, attended the protracted meeting under the direction of W. R. Swinney at the Church of Christ at Roosevelt. The church was re-organized there by Mr. Swinney, with a congregation of thirty-two members. A new church building will be built within a short time, two locations of which will be near the business section. Following an address by Mr. Chitwood, sup't, more than $70 was contributed to the home by the congregation.

Work on the new school building will be completed in time for the first day of school, Sept. 3rd. The furniture has arrived and everything will be in readiness when more than two hundred children of the home, of school age, are called to their studies. Six teachers will be employed and the regular course of studies set out by the Tipton schools will be carried out at the home school. The teachers are selected by the board of education of the Tipton City schools and are under the direction of the city superintendent.

The circulation of the Tipton Orphans home paper now exceeds thirty-thousand copies monthly, and the paper now takes its place among the large publications of the south. It is now mailed to thirty-six of the forty-eight states of the union and to several foreign countries, including China and Japan. The circulation is increasing at the rate of several hundred copies a month at present.

There is no sickness in the home at the present time and the health of all the children is excellent. The strictest measures of sanitation is observed in every department and every precaution taken to protect and maintain the health of all at the highest standard.

About two thousand dollars are needed immediately to finish paying for the new addition to the school and the new dairy barn under construction at the home, above the actual maintenance funds. These improvements are very necessary and must be completed without further delay.

Work in every department is being carried forward at full speed, unmindful of the extremely hot weather that is being experienced at this time in southwest Oklahoma. No vacations are being taken by the employees and the superintendent, Mr. Chitwood, is working overtime in looking after the regular routine of work and supervising the improvements in course of completion.

The young people of the Church of Christ, of Cordell, recently made the home a present of one of the most valuable milk cows in the dairy herd of thirty head. This "bossy" is a Jersey and gives about five gallons of rich, wholesome milk per day. She also proved to be the banner cow milk cow on exhibition at the Tipton fair, held Aug. 2 to 4, all of the fine cattle competing. She won the blue ribbon over all and twenty dollars in cash and merchandise, awards offered by the fair association and local merchants. Some Jersey this and the home is very proud of this valuable gift from the young people of the Cordell church.

A registered Jersey male, the gift to the home by Judge R. O. Kenley and a number of his friends of Wichita Falls, Texas, was delivered to the home by truck on Tuesday, August 7th.

Judge Henley has been a staunch and faithful friend of the home. He has been a great asset to the home, one of the greatest in the south.

Miss Allie Rae Adams, who has been visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foster, for sometime, returned to her home at Coahoma, Thursday.

Mrs. H. H. Bush, who underwent a surgical operation, the latter part of last week, at one of the Amarillo Sanitariums, is reported getting along very well, owing to the seriousness of the operation. Mr. Bush who has been at her bedside, returned Tuesday.

Mrs. L. E. Slate is visiting her father and other relatives at Henderson this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hammock are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl on Wednesday August 15th.

C. A. Daniel and W. C. Gordon returned last week from Hall County where Mr. Daniel completed a new resident on one of his farms in that county.

Would You Know One If You Saw It?

If you ever came face to face with a germ, would you recognize it? Of course it is not likely that you ever will see a germ, unless you own a tremendously powerful microscope, for you would have to magnify one over a thousand times to make it as big as a pin head. But you should recognize the fact that these tiny germs can get into your blood streams through the smallest cut, and give you typhoid fever, tuberculosis, lockjaw, blood poisoning, and many more dangerous and perhaps fatal diseases. There is one sure safeguard against these dangers - washing every cut, no matter how small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the safe antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone at H. G. New York Pastor Backs Out In Pulpit Tirade Against Gov. Smith

Dr. Straton, of the Calvary Baptist church in New York, charged Governor Smith, among other things, with being a foe to moral progress. The Doctor made the charge from the pulpit and when Gov. Smith expressed a desire to meet him in the same pulpit and refute the charges the minister backed right out, saying that the church is no place to discuss political questions. That being the case why did Dr. Straton attack Governor Smith from his pulpit? Governor Smith is running for president of the United States, which action is entirely under the head of politics.
Dr. Straton attacked him in relation to his candidacy and this action could be considered nothing else than injecting political questions into church affairs. Now Dr. Straton wants to hire a hall and debate Gov. Smith--outside the church. He even wants to tour the country with him and make joint debates. In other words he used his position as pastor of Calvary church in New York to lend enough force to his charges to get him recognition from Governor Smith and now he wants to leave the church out of it and take all the glory to himself.

[And incidentally also to break into the press and get so much advertising. When coming out in joint debate, as far as his wish with Gov. Smith is concerned, would have about the same proportions as a singed cat encountering a Bengal tiger, it seems the odds would be with Smith. M-e-c-u-w! Scat!]

The greatest fault the Protestant can find with the Catholic is the supposed fact that the Catholic wishes to join church and state; that the church should be superior to the civil government. The Protestant preachers, from their pulpits, are taking a more active part in the political affairs of the country.

This campaign will see greater activity along that line than ever before. The Protestant preacher has set himself the task of telling his congregation whom to vote for and whom not to vote for. We find no great fault with the preachers of the country, who are our moral guardians, telling us who will make us the best president, but at the same time we shudder to think what would happen to a Cardinal of the Catholic church if he should praise Governor Smith from his pulpit as strongly as Dr. Straton denounced him.

Nine-Tenths Preventable

Nine-tenths of all the diseases of the American people can be traced directly to constipation, doctors say. Constipation throws into the system poisons which taint and weaken every organ of the body and make them easy victims for any germs which attack them. Prevent constipation and you will avoid nine-tenths of all diseases, with their consequent pain and financial losses. Herbine, the good old vegetable cathartic, will prevent constipation in a natural, easy and pleasant way. Get a bottle today from H. G. Ramby Drug Store

Nature Thought of Everything

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or look appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35¢ a bottle, and can be bought from H. G. Ramby Drug Store

Total amount to be raised is $750,000, to be used in obtaining and dispensing facts in regard to cotton, so that the growers will know at all times what is a "fair price" for their product.

Texas will raise $250,000 of the fund. Other states are expected to follow suit.
Plans call for contributions by banks, cotton growers, philanthropists and any one so disposed. The money will be used for the benefit of cotton growers in eleven southern states, and a manager, who is an authority on cotton, will be employed to direct the work from headquarters in New Orleans

Members of the executive committee present at the meeting were Judge C. E. Thomas, sup't of banks in Alabama, president of the council; T. W. Davidson, of Dallas, vice-president and general counsel; S. Odenheimer, New Orleans, and A. S. Fant, state examiner of South Carolina.

Sarah Adams (nee Flower) wrote "Nearer, My God, to Thee." It was contributed to W. J. Fox's "Hymns and Anthems" in 1841. The changes and adaptations occurred in the 1890s as a rule.

Sixteen golfers collected damages for being hit by golf balls and nine others for falling into bunkers. Five dancers had valid claims from colliding with other dancers.

Receives Recognition From German University

Mr. William E. Weiss.

The University of Cologne, Germany, has just paid to Mr. William E. Weiss, of Wheeling, W. Va., one of the founders and General Manager of Sterling Products (Incorporated), and now Vice-President and General Manager of Drug Incorporated, an unusual distinction by bestowing unanimously upon him the title of Doctor Philosophiae Honoris Causa.

Mr. Weiss is the first and only American to be so honored by this world famous German institution. This mark of preference came to Mr. Weiss in recognition of his efforts to further the industrial relations that have extended over more than a decade between the Directors and Scientific and Chemical staffs of German and American Pharmaceutical firms that are prominent in international industrial affairs.

During the past few years Mr. Weiss has been a frequent visitor to Europe and is a recognized link in strengthening commercial friendship between the old and new continents, a truth emphasized by the action at Cologne.

Seed Sower

A new invention that is attracting much attention is for sowing seeds. It resembles nothing so much as a pipe with a fairly long stem. Small flower seeds that are so extremely difficult to plant evenly, are placed in the bowl of the "pipe" and they fall out of the pipe stem, one at a time, and drop right into the row made for them. It eliminates all the work and bother of transplanting as you can plant the seeds at any distance you desire.

STREET DRESS IS QUITE PRACTICAL.

Garment of Printed Cotton Zephyr Is Easily Made.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Amethyst on a white ground is this practical little wash dress of printed cotton zephyr. Its design was chosen by a clothing specialist of the bureau of home economics because of its simplicity. Any girl could make it very easily for herself, in a relatively short time. Amethyst binding finishes the circular skirt, the wrists, neck, and the bottom of the waist. Bands of the same on the sleeves correspond to the plain hipline belt. Large round matching buttons on the front of the belt and on the left shoulder complete the design. This appears to be a two-piece frock, but is really made in one. For sports, school, office, or morning wear at home such a dress is entirely suitable. For wear during very warm weather, the dress might be made with short sleeves, and the round neckline might be still more cut out.

There is infinite variety in cotton dress goods this year, but prints predominate. These may be floral motifs, dots, or stripes. Floral and conventional designs with small and medium sized figures are used on many different materials, of which any that are firmly woven might be used for this model. Every imaginable color is seen in these prints, but some of the newer shades of yellow and red are prominent, and there is more brown than usual.

The United States Department of Agriculture has help for those who sew at home in the form of a comprehensive free bulletin on fitting dresses and blouses.

Profit From Poultry

Profit from the poultry yard, in the case of a farm woman living in Madera county, California, includes the results of selling angel food, sunshine and sponge cakes during the season when eggs are plentiful. The county home-demonstration agent held a meeting last year and showed the members of this woman's group how to make these cakes, in each of which from 6 to 10 eggs are required for leavening. She made 116 cakes for sale during the season, in addition to those consumed at home. They found a ready market at a dollar apiece. This meant a profitable disposal of about 1,000 surplus eggs.

PLUNGE TIN CANS IN COLD WATER QUICKLY

Cooling Canned Stuff With Cold Water.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) If you are canning in tin, be sure to plunge the cans in cold water as they are taken from the canner, to help cool them rapidly. This step would not be possible with glass jars which must be cooled gradually, away from all drafts.

Before attempting to can at home this summer, send to the United States Department of Agriculture for Farmers' Bulletin 1471-F, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home." There have been various important changes in the methods of home canning during the past few years, and each step requires careful attention to directions, so it is unwise to begin canning without the correct information.

Timbales Are Light and Dainty for Summer Meal

Canned tuna, or salmon, shrimp, fresh cod, haddock, halibut, or any fish which may be easily separated from the bones, may be used in timbales. Timbales are light and delicate for a summer meal which one does not wish to be too hearty, and in an emergency they may be made from canned fish, kept on hand for the unexpected occasion. They must be served promptly when ready, to be at their best, so it is wise to time the other dishes of the meal accordingly. The recipe is from the bureau of home economics:

- 2 cups flaked cooked or canned fish
1 cup milk
2 tbs. butter
2 tbs. flour
1 tbs. lemon juice
2 eggs
3/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. finely chopped parsley
Onion juice

Prepare a sauce of the butter, flour, and milk. Add to this the beaten eggs, the seasoning, and the fish. Mix well. Add more salt if needed. Pour the mixture into greased custard cups and bake for 1/2 hour in a pan surrounded by water. Turn the timbales on to a hot platter, garnish with slices of lemon, and serve at once.

Savory Cooked Lettuce Valuable for Vitamines

Many people never think of lettuce as a vegetable that may be cooked. It is, in fact, one of the valuable green-leaf vegetables depended on for vitamins and minerals, and may be eaten hot as well as raw. Green lettuce that may be rather tough for salad is good cooked according to these directions given by the bureau of home economics:

- 1 cup diced salt pork
3 quart cut lettuce
2 tbs. vinegar
Salt
Onion juice, if desired

Wash the lettuce thoroughly and cut it in pieces about 3 inches long. Cook the salt pork in a heavy skillet until brown and very crisp, and remove it from the fat. Add the lettuce to the hot fat and stir until it wilts. Add the vinegar and cooked salt pork, and more salt if needed.

The time of cooking will vary with the lettuce, but do not cook any longer than necessary to wilt the lettuce. A small quantity of onion juice can be added with the vinegar if desired.

Prunes in Pudding

Prunes lend themselves to use in almost any form of bread pudding. For this purpose it is well to soak them until the stones can be taken out easily, and then chop them, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Layers of bread crumbs, alternated with prunes, with dots of butter and a sprinkling of sugar at intervals, make a good prune "betty." Old-fashioned sliced bread pudding may be made by pushing bits of chopped prunes into slices of buttered bread in a baking dish, filling the dish with a custard mixture, and baking in the usual way.

Breeding Mosquitoes

Mosquitoes lay their eggs on or in water, and these eggs hatch into "wiggle tails" in from 24 to 48 hours. Rain barrels, cisterns, tin cans and other receptacles around the place offer ideal breeding places for mosquitoes. The covering of rain barrels and cisterns with a tight screen or the placing of a film of oil on the surface of the water will prevent the development of the mosquito. Tin cans and other receptacles should be disposed of before the mosquitoes have had an opportunity to develop.

Summer Cereals

In summertime cooked cereals are much more interesting combined with fresh fruit or berries than without. Stir in half a cupful of any kind of berries to a cupful of cooked cereal just a few minutes before serving.

POULTRY

DOSING FAILS TO DESTROY VERMIN

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many farmers and poultrymen have believed it possible that certain chemicals administered as medicine or mixed with feed or water may protect their animals from external parasites. Ignorant and unscrupulous dealers, particularly in the poultry business, have played on this belief. The prevailing idea is that the material is taken up by the blood and then excreted on the surface. Many believe that the parasites are either poisoned in this way, or else that a condition is induced which makes the fowl displeasing to its parasites and causes them to leave. Vendors of nostrums have sold liquids, tablets and powders for use in this way. The insecticide authorities in the United States Department of Agriculture have issued warnings against these remedies, and in many cases have forced the makers to cease advertising and selling the frauds.

In Technical Bulletin 60-T, "Ineffectiveness of Internal Medication of Poultry for the Control of External Parasites," just off the press, departmental investigators give the results of experiments on which they based their opposition to this fakery. In approximately 50 tests of the preparations advertised none showed any indications of value against the common external parasites with which the hens were infested. Lice and mites thrived and multiplied as they might have been expected to do if the "medicine" had not been administered. These tests were the basis of the campaign against the fakery.

In addition, the department carried out tests with a considerable number of other chemicals in addition to those revealed by analysis of these "vermin eradicators." Chemicals tested included magnesium sulphate or epsom salt, sodium carbonate, naphthalene, calcium thiosulphate, calcium sulphide, magnesium oxide, sodium sulphate, potassium nitrate, ferric oxide, ferric sulphate, ferrous sulphate, potassium tellurate, potassium tellurite, diethyl disulfide, sodium nitrate, tartar emetic, potassium iodide, sulphur flowers, capsicum, gentian, ginger, fenugreek, garlic, camphor, powdered tobacco, quinine, nux vomica, and others. In no case was there conclusive evidence of any benefit from dosage. The ticks, lice, mites, and fleas were not eradicated. Furthermore, there is grave danger in giving certain internal medicines to healthy fowls, as their vitality may be decreased to such an extent that the parasites find them an easier prey than they would have had had no doses been administered.

The conclusion of the investigators is that "the use of internal medications against external parasites is detrimental to the poultry industry in that it not only involves useless expenditures but allows the parasites to continue their ravages when they might be destroyed by recognized methods."

Poultry raisers who desire to review for themselves the evidence against the nostrums may obtain Technical Bulletin 60-T free, while the supply lasts, by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Poultry Hints

Keep the pullets growing if they are to produce winter eggs. This means keeping the mash hoppers filled.

More profitable summer egg production will be obtained in flocks that are given continual access to grain and mash rations.

If shade is provided for the poultry a mash hopper should be placed within easy reach. The birds will range during the morning and late afternoon.

When new oats and wheat arrive from the threshing machine there is always a temptation to overfeed the birds on the new grains before getting them used to them. This practice often results in heavy losses.

Chickens appreciate good shade and fresh water this time of the year.

Sweet or sour skim milk brings big returns when fed to either young or old poultry.

Feed mash to hens right through the summer. It will increase the egg production and profit.

Baby chicks are so tiny and the new brooder house looks so big that before we realize what has happened, the chicks are crowded.

There seems to be direct connection between empty feed hoppers and small eggs as well as in getting them from pullets hatched from small eggs. No matter how clean and fresh, these small eggs are they will be graded as number two.

Confine broody hens the first night they stay on the nest. Have a broody coop with a slat or wire bottom, located in a shady place. Have dry mash, milk and water before them and once a day give one ounce of dry mash moistened with milk.

Planes Big Gas Users. The airplane is becoming a big factor in gasoline and oil consumption. In flying 23,000 miles daily over 21 routes, with an average of three tons of cargo daily, air mail planes are using 60,200 gallons of gas and 3,220 gallons of oil a day, the American Air Transport association reckons. After awhile one gets tired of carefully steering around somebody's irresponsibilities and avoids him.

Decorative But Dumb

Many a man who doesn't believe that stork story any longer, just goes haywire when it comes to buying tires

He stands there listening closely while the dealer avows he is giving something for nothing. For the time being what protrudes above his collar is decorative but dumb

If you believe a dealer will spend time and energy trying to sell you at no profit, you probably will never call upon us

But if you believe in good goods at fair prices, backed by responsibility, you'll drop in and see what we have to offer

We hold no inducement but a square deal--square to you and square to us. We sell Goodyear Tires because they are the best in the world, and we price them as low as we can and still meet the payroll and feed the family. How low is this? Low enough to give you the cheapest mileage you ever had.
