N. O. 15

J. L. "LEN" IRVIN OUR EFFICIENT SHERIFF

AND STAFF OF LOYAL PEACE OFFICERS --
MEN WHO DO THEIR DUTY--THE LAW
UPHELD IN LAMB COUNTY

"Len" Irvin - Sheriff of Lamb county - you all know him, his deputies as well. Men with a clean record.

Lamb county can truly say that she has efficiency in the Sheriff's office and her peace officers.

The Sheriff and his men generally get what they go after and law-breakers in and who come in this county have found that out--bad men, would-be bad men, bootleggers and thieves are soon brought to justice.

Recently several bootleggers paid fines and others placed under bond, "bad man" put under bond and recently a car thief was wanted and Irvin had him in two days and the fellow is now in jail.

The blotter of the county jail show names of many other offenders.

Recent raids resulted in hundreds of gallons of whiskey and several stills. Besides these captures various other concoctions of stuff of no one knows how dangerous an alcoholic content--if we can use that term--has been seized and destroyed and the malefactors brought to justice.

These are the right kind of men to have in the Sheriff's office--men to whom all classes, whatever they may be--if they break the law up they go.

Mesdames G. E. Bonner, C. A. Womack, M. R. Cavett and G. E. Daughtrey, representing the Oton Home Economics Club were here Monday in the interest of interesting the folks of this part of the county in petitioning the Commissioners court to secure a Home Demonstration Agent for this county. The ladies met with a great deal of encouragement with the Sudan people and placed petitions with Mesdames W. W. Carpenter, W. A. Clemens, J. J. Franks, and L. E. Slate.

Gov. Smith had enthusiastic greetings in Chicago.

Woman at Loraine, Ohio, dangerously wounded by prohi officer, thought liquor was in the car.

Hon. Jos. T. Robinson, democratic nominee for vice president, speaks in Chicago, N. M., Oct 5th.

Cotton picking in most cotton states is fair, in south Texas fairer, in Oklahoma fair to good and in the South Plains district fairest--by Oct. 15th.

"Herbert Hoover is dry. He takes his stand with the friends of prohibition." That's nothing--all of us are dry, simply because we can't get anything to drink.

There are in operation in New York today twenty-four miles of subway tunnels and six hundred and twenty miles of tracks. A new subway, extending from the southern to the northern end of Manhattan Island, with arms reaching into all the city boroughs, is now being built. This will add fifty-seven miles of tunnel (route miles) and a hundred and seventy track miles to the present system--a total of 181 miles of tunnel and 790 miles of track.

Nature Our Best Teacher

Even in Winter the rain and the snow
Are stored in the soil to make our crops grow;
It's the wisdom of nature, who keeps things in store,
Prepares for the future so we may have more.
Since nature so wisely shows by her plan
That storing will add to the comfort of man,
It looks like man this lesson would heed,
And store for himself the things he may need.
The First National Bank has looked all around,
But no better teacher than nature has found.

JUNIOR CLASS, SUDAN HIGH, TO EDIT SCHOOL NEWS

For a Period of Four Weeks -- Sport, Social, Educational To Be Featured by the Juniors--Monday Afternoon School Programs Popular

The Junior Class is responsible for collection and dissemination of news for the next four weeks. We ask that everyone with any news of interest see some of us or Miss Runnels before Friday evening of each week, as we want this news to go to press early Monday morning.

Interest in our Monday afternoon programs at school continues to grow. Programs are increasing in interest. Next Monday the Freshman class will present the program and they promise to make their program the best yet delivered, and ask parents and friends to be present to watch this feature of their school work.

Several Visitors have been in the school over the week-end. John P. Barbee, an old pupil of our superintendent's visited him and while here sold the seniors their class rings and commencement invitations, but the class did not order their class visiting cards, preferring to buy them nearer home. Mrs. Bond, mother of our English teacher spent week-end in town visiting the school one whole day while here. She is one of the primary teachers in Texico. Mrs. Bessie M. Gill, teacher of home economics in Dimmitt High School, visited her niece, Miss Evelyn Runnels over week-end.

In accord with promises earlier in the year to give a little write-up of our hundredth visitor of the year, we give the following: The hundredth local visitor to register at school was Mrs. H. H. Weimhold on Monday of this week. Mrs. Weimhold came to Sudan two years ago last June from Odell, Texas where she had been serving as postmistress. This job kept her there for a year after her husband came here with their son as editor of the Sudan News. Monday was her first visit to school this year, but this does not indicate carelessness as she is a very busy woman being housewife, assistant editor of the Sudan News and a fancier of fine fowls. At present her chief side lines are the promotion of canary birds and pure bred chickens. In addition to her home and business duties, Mrs. Weimhold is intensely interested in the Parent Teacher work of the community. Her interest in school work is attested by the fact that her oldest daughter graduated in the class of last May at our school, and that her other two children are in school now. Last it may be said of her that she keeps the editor straight whether he wants to go that way or not.

The girls of home economics club met Wednesday afternoon and elected their officers for the year as follows: President, Neal Wilkins; Vice President, Grace Barbee; Secretary-treasurer, Katherine Findley; Reporter, Lenora Payne; Sponsor, Mrs. Fisher Franks.

The glee club of the school is becoming active. Its president is Ina Yoakum; vice-president, Annie Lynch; secretary-treasurer Pauline Dent; Pianist, Miss Bond; sponsor, Miss Runnels.

Saturday with its college football game between Texas Tech.

and Schreiner Institute took several visitors from Sudan to Lubbock. Among them were Superintendent Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Carpenter, and their family, Ted Bolden, Clem Scott and others.

The girls are taking a great deal of interest in their basketball and it seems that the good reputation of Sudan Hi. basketball of the past years will be maintained again. Miss Hammock is their coach, and is driving the girls making preparation for the opening of the season.

Grammar school principal, Mr. J. M. Smallwood, was a visitor in Tatum, N. M. over the week-end. Mr. Smallwood has extensive property interests that requires his attention when he can be spared from school.

There are those who think that Sudan can not put out a football team this year because there were so few letter men back from last year, but Coach Brown is not one of those. He is driving his team hard getting them in shape for their first game next Friday at Olton. Signal practice has been the order of the day this week, and the team is rounding into shape quickly. The coach is one who understands football. He came from Abilene Christian College and that school is noted for the good coaches it sends out. 'Red' Brown is not behind the others, and our boys have confidence in him.

R. J. Newton has taken over tennis coaching and is giving his teams some good workouts now. Their courts have been put in shape, supplies have been ordered, and "serve" is being regularly heard on the campus. Sudan Hi. is expecting some good tennis tournaments during the coming season.

With all our activities class work is not being neglected in Hi School. Superintendent Wilkins and Prin. Talbot are seeing to that. No boy or girl can take part in sports mentioned in this page unless he is carrying four recitation periods daily and passing in three of them. These men say you can not get out to practice unless you have been at school a full day, behaved yourself and had good lessons and they see that it goes, too.

The agriculture boys and grammar school expect to have some good reports in next week, but this week they are very busy. The agriculture boys and their coach and sponsor, R. J. Newton are making special trips to the Lubbock Fair this week, and are being crowded. The band boys of the school are also making a special trip to the Fair as one of its attractions, while all the student body who so desire may go one day without being counted absent from school. Mr. Wilkins grants this privilege as he says the trip to the Fair is as educational as a hard two days work at school, and we boys and girls agree with him.

The Junior Class.
Mr. Nicks who makes his home with his son Oscar, has been ill but is improved at this time.

Hoover Club Chairman To Speak in Sudan

Rev. R. M. Hocker, County Chairman of Hoover Club, Hale County, Texas, will speak in Sudan on Saturday, October 6th, at 2 o'clock. Come and hear him.

Tuition In School Now Due

Since the school board, at the request of those who have children under seven years old, have decided that such children may attend school this year by paying a tuition fee of $3.00 per month, and transfer may be brought to school by paying a transportation fee of $4.00 per month, it has become the duty of the school to collect these fees and they are payable in advance. This week marks the second month of school and all these fees are now due, and I take this method of notifying all interested parties of this fact. These fees are payable in advance and all who owe them are asked to come in at once and take care of this.

Respectfully,
W. I. Wilkins, Supt.

Coghlan Spoke Here On Saturday

As scheduled by the Farm Bureau, J. D. Coghlan, District Director, of Ennis, spoke to a large crowd of cotton growers at the High School Auditorium last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Coghlan gave a brief outline of the future policy of the Farm Bureau and also went into details in explaining the past sales policy of the organization. The meeting was in charge of J. W. Hammock, Field Representative of Lamb County.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Triplett of Texico N. M. were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Foote Sunday.

Joe Foster had the misfortune to sprain his ankle Monday causing him to have to use a crutch for a few days.

Mrs. F. P. Wilson Dies at Her Home

Mrs. F. P. Wilson, 68, died at her home here, Thursday morning after a short illness. Mrs. Wilson had been in bad health for some time, suffering with from rheumatism, but until a few days before she passed away, seemed as well as usual.

Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian Church in Lubbock, Friday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor. Interment was made in the Lubbock Cemetery.

Mrs. Wilson is survived by her husband, and six children, S. C. Wilson of Lubbock; T. F. Wilson of Portland, Oregon; Misses Amelia and Loula Bell Wilson, of Beaumont; Miss Sue Wilson, of El Paso, and Mrs. T. D. Humphrey, of Clovis New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson would have been married fifty years had she lived until January 28th. She has been a resident of the Plains since 1900.

I want to sell my improved, 160 acre farm between Muleshoe and Farwell, five miles from Lariat on the railroad. Only thirty feet to an abundance of good water, sufficient for irrigation.

Perhaps some of your neighbors back home want to come here, I will be glad to give you all particulars if you are interested.--Dr. G. A. Foote.

Mrs. S. D. Hay, who underwent an operation in the Sanitarium at Lubbock, Thursday, is reported to be getting along nicely.

The W. M. U. Meeting

The W. M. U. met at the home of Mrs. J. O. Barnett, Tuesday afternoon for our workers meeting and quilted out a quilt. There were seven members present. We will meet with Mrs. W. A. Clements next Tuesday at 7:30 P. M. for the Bible study lesson conducted by Mrs. W. W. Carpenter. All members are invited to be present.

Mrs. J. L. Collard of Littlefield was in Sudan Friday.

H. A. Hill, who lives 4 miles west, purchased a Whippet 6, Monday.

Constipated Since Childhood; In Fine Shape Now

"I just couldn't resist any longer telling you of your wonderful medicine, Milks Emulsion. I have been constipated as long as I can remember. Had typhoid fever when I was eight years old and since then my bowels haven't moved freely. I have taken pills, salts, castor oil, and everything a person could think of.

"Now, whenever I hear anyone say they are constipated I immediately tell them of Milks Emulsion. I have taken about 12 large bottles, not all of them regular. Now I keep Milks Emulsion in the house and take it regular. I have taken so much medicine that I thought it was all alike.

"I had a sallow complexion, no color, and felt miserable all the time; but now I have the color of health, and health is something I wouldn't exchange with anyone for a fortune. I wouldn't take ten times the price I paid for Milks Emulsion for the results I have obtained.

"I am 19 years old and weigh 105 pounds. Have gained 5 pounds since taking your medicine and am still gaining. My face is round and my arms are getting round. Before, people used to hang their hats on my elbows, thinking they were hangers. Now I am going to keep on with Milks Emulsion until I weigh 125 pounds.

"You may publish this letter if you wish and anyone that wants to ask me about your medicine may do so. I promise to answer every letter. In fact, I couldn't do enough for Milks Emulsion to repay them for what their medicine has done for me." ROSAMOND BOWER, Frontenac, Kans.

GOOD AND POOR POSTURE SHOWN

Correct Position to Be Assumed for Housework.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

These two pictures, demonstrating good and bad sitting posture, are almost self-explanatory. They were posed by a farm woman in Hampshire county, Massachusetts, in connection with a series of talks on posture given by the county extension agent for women. The woman in the first picture is sitting peeling potatoes in a position frequently seen for such tasks. It causes her head, shoulders, and abdomen to slouch forward, while her feet, rather tensely wound around each other, will soon add to the general sensation of fatigue produced by her posture. In the other picture she is sitting correctly, well back in her chair, her feet firmly on the floor in a position that enables her to retain her good posture without effort. Her back and shoulders are straight without strain, her head held so as to see what she is doing without its being pushed forward, her lungs are not cramped, and when her task is finished she will not be distressed or tired as she would be had she sat as in the first picture.

Studies of correct posture for doing various household tasks have been made in this country by farm women under the direction of the home demonstration agent.

MILK IN BREAD MAKING IS ALL

Useful to Supplement Proteins and Minerals of Flour

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In making white bread the use of whole or skim milk to supplement the proteins and minerals of wheat flour is strongly recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. Since bread is a staple food stuff, the use of milk in bread would insure a better nourished population.

Dry skim milk may be used in bread making with good results. In addition to supplementing the nutritive value it improves the general appearance of the bread loaf and enhances its ease of manufacture.

There are, however, certain differences in flours and in their reaction to skim milk in the dough which influence the ease of bread manufacture and necessitate special attention to certain stages of the process. In order to determine what these differences in flours are and how they affect the handling of bread made with dried milk, a study was made by the bureau of dairy industry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

It was found that the hard spring wheat flours used in the experiments reacted more favorably to the use of dried skim milk than did winter wheat flours. The range of fermentation time in which doughs give good bread is increased by using skim milk. This adds to the ease of manufacture and is a very important property. The lactose of the milk imparts a desirable golden-brown color to the crust of the baked loaf. The texture and color of the crumb are also improved.

Hawaiian Housewives to Get "Aunt Sammy" Talks

Hawaiian housewives will have a new radio friend during the 1928-29 broadcasting season. "Aunt Sammy," the radio spokeswoman of the United States Department of Agriculture, whose daily broadcast programs, the "Housekeepers' Chats," are the household guide of millions of home makers in the United States, will supply her programs to Station KGU of Honolulu, starting October 1.

The "Housekeepers' Chats" is prepared by the Radio Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. The homemaking facts which are flashed out in the chats are supplied by the bureau of home economics and other bureaus of the department. The chats are broadcast as a public service by announcers of some 50 co-operating stations.

Limp Rugs Are Greatly Improved by Re-Sizing

If the rugs are too limp to lie flat on the floor, or if they curl along the edges and corners, they will be greatly improved by re-sizing. Lay the rug, right side down, on a bare floor in a room where it won't need to be disturbed for a day or so. Tack it down securely and sprinkle evenly with a generous solution made from dissolving flake glue in hot water. Use about a fourth of a pound of glue to a half-gallon of water.

Empty Opened Cans

The practice of allowing foods to stand in open cans is not good housekeeping. After a can is opened the contents should be stored in a clean vessel, preferably of earthenware or porcelain. However, it is fair to say that the danger of a tin can is usually exaggerated. The inner surface of cans used in packing foods is treated with a shellac which is insoluble in ordinary food juices. It is only when a flaw is present that acid foods may attack the container.

MINT GELATIN WITH COLD SLICES OF LAMB

Cold Sliced Lamb Leg With Mint Gelatin.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Cold sliced meat for lunch may be just cold meat, or it may be so transformed by its associations that it may be offered without hesitation to the most special guests. A case in point is illustrated by the photograph from the bureau of home economics, which has developed this very delicious and decorative gelatin to accompany cold slices of lamb. Tradition has linked the flavor of mint with lamb in many ways. The addition of crushed pineapple and slices of cucumber to a mint gelatin raises it from the commonplace to the unusual. Needless to say, this appetizing luncheon combination is very appropriate for hot weather.

Mint-Flavored Cucumber and Pineapple Gelatin.

2 lbs. gelatin 2 lbs. pineapple juice
1/2 cup cold water

5 lbs. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup canned crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 cup diced cucumber
4 lbs. lemon juice
5 drops oil of peppermint
Green coloring matter

Soak the gelatin in the cold water until soft, add to the boiling water with the sugar and salt, and stir until all are dissolved. Cool and add the crushed pineapple, diced cucumber, pineapple and lemon juice, oil of peppermint, and enough coloring matter to make the mixture pale green. Set the container in ice water, and stir until the gelatin mixture begins to congeal. Rinse a mold with cold water, coat it lightly with some of the clear gelatin, and place thin slices of cucumber in the bottom and sides. Then fill the mold with the rest of the gelatin mixture and let stand in a cold place until firm.

The DAIRY

SELL CORN HIGH TO DAIRY COWS

It is unusual for a farmer to get $4.46 a bushel for his corn in North Carolina but there is a way to do it and Tom Morrow of Iredell county has learned the method. Grind it into meal and feed the meal along with other home-grown grains to dairy cattle.

"It takes good cows on a good pasture to pay such returns but the records kept on Mr. Morrow's herd by the tester of the Iredell Cowtesting association show this to be a fact," says John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at the North Carolina State college. "An individual record is kept of every cow in Mr. Morrow's herd. During May, the eleven cows composing this herd, produced 311.3 pounds of butterfat which sold for 42 cents a pound and brought in $130.75. The skim milk left on the farm after the cream was sold had a feed value of $29.57, making the total income amount to $160.32."

Mr. Arey states that these eleven cows were fed 2,269 pounds of a home-grown grain mixture made by mixing together 200 pounds of corn meal, 100 pounds of cottonseed meal and 100 pounds of crushed oats, which was valued at $46 a ton or $52.19 for the amount fed. The animals also consumed oat straw valued at $6.80 and were grazed on a grass and clover pasture for which a charge of $2 per head was made. The total feed bill was thus $59.99, leaving a net income of $79.33.

On this basis, states Mr. Arey, the cows paid $9.21 each for their pasture. The cows consumed 23.6 bushels of corn in the form of meal and allowing all charges for the feedstuffs, the animals paid $4.46 a bushel for the corn. This does not take into account the manure left on the place.

Therefore, states Mr. Arey, the man who has cows above the average, a good pasture and will grow his hay and grain mixtures at home can make money selling cream. The dairy cow, in his opinion, is one of the very best markets for the surplus feedstuffs produced on the average farm.

Use Cartons for Butter for Sanitary Reasons

The increased use of cartons for sanitary reasons in packing butter for retail sale is considered advisable by health officials in 106 of 117 cities, according to a special survey being made by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

These officials declared that cartons lessen the likelihood of contamination both in the home and in the retail store, and are a means of checking the absorption of undesirable odors.

The department's inquiry is part of a general survey dealing with the merchandising of farm products by co-operatively marketing organizations. Various merchandising methods are being studied with a view to emphasizing practices in the interests of both producers and consumers.

Daily Portion of Skim Milk for Young Calves

The young calf usually will take about six to ten pounds of skim milk daily, which is increased gradually to sixteen to twenty pounds by the time the calf is four months old. In addition, a little grain and some good alfalfa or other legume hay is provided.

During this time, cleanliness of feed and surroundings are of great importance. If it is possible to have each calf tied separately, the amount of feed can be regulated better and the feeder can watch the condition of each calf more easily. The most practical plan is to provide a row of simple stanchions in which the calves may be held at feeding time. At all other times they should be left free to run in their pen of lot.

Dairy Hints

A much larger percentage of dairy farms could use silage economically in their plan of feeding dairy cattle.

Poor producing cows should be eliminated from the dairy herd by careful culling. The best method of doing this is to join a cow-testing association.

Poor, emaciated, hungry, gaunt, anticipating cows never produce largely or profitably, no matter how well bred they may be or how well they are cared for otherwise.

Cream is a highly perishable product. Like other similar products it is best when fresh and should therefore be marketed as early as possible. Age will deteriorate cream under any condition.

POULTRY

HEN COMFORT IS MOST PROFITABLE

When the rough days of autumn and winter arrive, the hens begin to hunt about for comfort and protection from winter winds and snow. If the poultry house is cold, dark, and uninviting, it is very unprofitable to the owner. It not only shortens up the egg supply, but next spring the hens go to work with a handicap because they have been poorly wintered.

If we give the hens one-half the attention that we do our other stock they start making things count, says a writer in an exchange. Our poultry house is built for economy and comfort for the hens. We are strong believers in the scratching department, making the hen work a lot. To do this we have all the floor space in the building arranged for bad days, for that is when they must work inside. We put up a gunny-sack curtain in front of the perches, which serves for two purposes. It keeps the hens warm when on the perches at night, and keeps them off the perches in the daytime.

Then we partition off the inside with this cheap burlap which breaks possible drafts, and also divides the flock in their work for the day. We also open the windows, and drop down a burlap curtain on bad days to keep out cold air, storms and beating winds. This burlap is almost indispensable in our poultry equipment, and we use much of it. Our front curtain to the main building is made from it, tacked upon frames so it can be raised or lowered as needed.

On snowy, rough days the hens work happily away, more contented than if outside. It has always been our custom to set up a windbreak of cornstalks against the lee sides of the fences and the west and north of the houses, and it is wonderful how the hens will take refuge behind this fodder barrage many winter days when the snow is off.

Consistent Layer Will Molt Late in Season

Most hens stop laying when they begin to molt. It is a fact no longer disputed that a hen, in order to make a high yearly record, must be a consistent layer. The early molting hen is not a consistent layer. She takes all the fall months as a vacation for changing her plumage. The consistent layer molts late and grows her new plumage rapidly.

The hen that under normal conditions molts early, will not lay as many winter eggs as the hen that molts late. Neither will she begin egg production earlier in the spring. No definite date can be set as to early molting. As a general rule, however, the first hens in the flock to molt should be sold, and the last to molt should be kept for breeding purposes.

Hens may be thrown into an early molt by starving while laying heavily; by irregular feeding; by roosting in a house that is poorly ventilated; or in any way that tends suddenly to check egg production. Molt from any of these causes should be avoided, as it is likely to result in a lower total egg production. If the pullets are hatched early, they will be laying in the fall and thus the egg production kept up at all seasons.

Poultry Notes

Teach the chicks to roost, as soon as they are old enough to learn.

Man must keep chickens free from lice and mites because the chickens can't.

Good feeding is important so as to maintain the resisting power of the fowls.

Good ventilation is very essential. If all openings are closed the house will become damp and the air vitiated.

Heavy egg production, like heavy milk production, can only be secured by liberal feeding of a well balanced ration.

During the summer months the colony house should be sprayed at regular intervals. A satisfactory spray can be made of three parts of kerosene and one part of crude carbolic. Coal or tar disinfectants are also satisfactory.

Sodium fluoride, used at the rate of an ounce to a gallon of water, is recommended by specialists for destroying parasites. This should be used on a warm day as a dip, and the birds should be completely immersed in the solution.

Hens should be as well fed when molting as when laying. Growing their new feathers is, if anything, harder on them than producing eggs.

Preventing the parasites by keeping the poultry house clean and by the regular use of dips is much more satisfactory than eradicating them once they have infested the flock. To control mites, the roosts and nests should be painted with carbolineum or some equally effective wood preservative. One treatment each year is usually sufficient.

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or fetid breath signals need of a sweetener. Physicians will tell you that every spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

Two Ohio chemists were as much mystified as anybody recently when they discovered that solutions containing salts of alkali metals, such as potassium, can put out a fire three times as rapidly as standard soda acid types of extinguishers. Their apparatus, says Popular Science Monthly, puts out a blaze in 12 seconds. The best previous record was from 35 to 45 seconds.

A Great Discovery

When Pasteur discovered, in 1852, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of incalculable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better and better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid, tuberculosis and lockjaw. Now, all you have to do to be sure that these dreadful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound, however small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone, in a size to fit your needs and purse, from H. G. Ramby Drug Store

The Gospel of Reform.

Sometimes, in addressing men who seriously desire the betterment of our public affairs, but who have not taken active part in directing them, I feel tempted to tell them that there are two gospels which should be preached to every reformer--the first is the gospel of morality, the second is the gospel of efficiency.--Theodore Roosevelt.

Unlucky Greek Letter.

Theta is sometimes called the unlucky Greek letter, from being used in ancient Greece by the judges on their ballots when condemning a prisoner to death. It was used because it was the first letter of the Greek word for "death."

Censure and Criticism.

Censure and criticism never hurt anybody. If false, they cannot harm you, unless you are wanting in character. And if true, they show a man his weak points, and forewarn him against failure and trouble.

ORDINANCE No. 12

AN ORDINANCE PROHIBITING, Or, Regulating the location of Slaughter Houses, Horse and Cow Barns, Grain Threshing, Corn Shelling, Stacking of Grain, or Hay, within the city limits of City of Sudan, Texas. Be it Ordained by the City Commission of the City of Sudan, Texas:

Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person, or persons, party, or parties, company, or companies, or associations of persons, to build, establish, locate, conduct, maintain or operate any slaughter house, or establishment within the city limits of the City of Sudan, Texas.

Section 2. Any person violating the preceding section of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of an offence, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not less than Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars, nor more than Two Hundred ($200) Dollars, and each day such establishment is so conducted, in violation hereof, will be deemed a separate offence.

Section 3. It shall be unlawful for any persons, party or parties, company or companies, or association of persons, to build, establish, locate, conduct, maintain or operate any hide house or place for keeping or curing hides; any horse, or cow barn, or lot, or place where horses or cows are kept and fed, any dairy barn, feed stable, livery stable, hog pen, hog lot or house, cotton compress, cotton yard, or other establishment of whatsoever kind that may be, or might become a nuisance to the people of Sudan, or any citizen thereof, because of odor, uncleanness, fire hazard, noise, dust, or nature of business, within the limits of the City of Sudan, without first obtaining a permit from the Commission of the City of Sudan.

It shall also be unlawful for any person, persons' corporation, company, or association of persons to operate a corn-sheller, or threshing machine, of any kind, or description, at any time, within the city limits of Sudan; or, to stack hay or grain of any kind within the city limits for a period of time longer than fifteen days. Any person desiring to locate any such place of business within the city limits of the City of Sudan, may make application in writing to the City Commission for permission to do so, such application to be accompanied with a description of the location of such proposed business, giving lot and block No's and etc. together with a complete description of the kind of business proposed to be established. Upon consideration of said application and statement the city commission may, if they see fit, issue a permit to such person or persons to so locate such business, upon receipt of such occupation license tax as may be now, or hereafter levied upon such business: Provided: That nothing in this ordinance shall be so construed as to prohibit any citizen of Sudan from keeping one or two cows, or horses for their own use, or the keeping of feed for same.

Section 4. Any person violating any part of the preceding

Doctors Disagree

When children are irritable and peevish, grind their teeth and sleep restlessly, have digestive pains and disturbances, lack of appetite, and have itching eyes, nose and fingers, doctors will not always agree that they are suffering from worms. Many mothers, too, will not believe that their carefully brought up children can have worms. The fact remains that these symptoms will yield, in a great majority of cases, to a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, the sure expellant of round and pin worms. CHAPTER XII—Continued

I did, somehow. Perhaps they had heard our voices, for as I walked down the hall, the door of the Grosvenor apartment sprang open, and I heard—laughter! Not loud, not merry; a happy ripple of content. But it grew merry when I entered, I was so dazed to see Julia sitting on a blue sofa, and beside her, holding her hand, Professor Harrington. Near by sat Peter Standing, hat in hand, was Mr. Almy. "We had to have you here to make it complete!" cried Julia, rushing toward me with such a smile on her face as had never been seen there before. "A miracle has happened!"

I sank into a chair. "It must have," I gasped; "Ernesto's got religion?" "Good old Ernesto!" cried Peter. "Why aren't you joyful, too, Constance?"

Embarrassed, I glowered severely at Mr. Almy, who, the cause of my mis taken anguish, and the only calm person present—Professor Harrington was in such a state of ecstasy he couldn't speak at all—came to my rescue.

"We just wanted to return some of your correspondence," he said; and from his pocket he produced my yellow note.

The professor now found his voice: "Miss Fuller kindly let me use that bit of paper temporarily," he said in his gentle, precise manner; "it was to rescue me from great difficulties. And it finally brought me to my dear brother's child, whom I had never expected to see in this world."

We were silent a moment, before the picture of that fine old-fashioned gentleman and that beautiful and gifted girl. At last Fred, one from the sorrow, the other from the persecution, which had filled their lives, there could be no doubt that their happy unexpected reunion foreshadowed long years of sweet relationship. They were absorbed in each other; Mr. Almy beckoned Peter and me into the little reception-room and shut the door.

"Am I never to know what has happened?" I demanded.

"You mean since you slammed Dar row's door?" inquired Mr. Almy. "We heard you! Well, I didn't blame you then. But this is what happened: "Burton, taking Professor Harrington's place, started to reach for the spring-lancest as directed, when suddenly he straightened up and asked Tucker how far the professor had stooped to see into the law-book alcove from the rear."

"You see," interrupted Peter, "being just Harrington's height, I would of course see just what Harrington saw. And I had noticed that when Farrell who took Grosvenor's place, said he saw me through the gap, as he stooped, I didn't see him at all! Now that spring-lancest was right on the edge of the shelf, close beside Farrell; and while I could see it—I said I could, you know—it was only by stooping over that I did so. So it occurred to me to ask Tucker how much the professor had stooped."

"And he said," continued Mr. Almy taking up his story, "that Harrington hadn't stooped at all, but had stood upright all the time! Therefore we told Burton to look into the gap and see where the lancest was, assuming that Harrington might have seen it and then reached for it without bending. And then—"

"I couldn't come within eight inches of it, without stooping over!" cried Peter, triumphantly.

"But you said the professor admitted he made those streaks that were found on the dust between the rows of books," I suggested. "Didn't he reach in there?"

"Yes, but just to feel, according to his story, whether or not there was any third row of books concealed behind the front row, as is often the case on crowded shelves," explained Mr. Almy. "This explanation was borne out to some extent by the fact that the marks in the dust were, indeed, far back from the edge of the shelf where the spring-lancest was placed, and it is partly corroborated by Tucker's statement that the professor never stooped over. Furthermore, it furnished a clue as to why Mr. Grosvenor should have been stooping to look through the gap. He was making a thorough search for that law book. So then Burton had another idea."

"Oh, we all had it," demurred Peter, "but perhaps it occurred to me first, seeing that I had Harrington's part seemed to be let out; it looked as if the story were true. Yet there Mr. Grosvenor was killed by that instru—how? Well, I said: 'I can't see Farrell, but he can see me, when he's stooping over as Grosvenor was. Now that old man had a weak heart and a bad conscience. He must have got a dreadful shock when he saw Harrington right in front of him. He must undoubtedly have thought Harrington had come to look for Charlhe's "Notes," his own property, the book Grosvenor had had stolen from him even though the theft didn't quite come off as hoped. If a man in such circumstances, standing in such a position, had such a shock, what would he do?"

"So we worked it all out, with Tucker's help," finished Mr. Almy, "and following Burton's lead, were able to reconstruct what undoubtedly did happen to Mr. Grosvenor. Tucker said he jerked himself upright suddenly from that stooping position, when we asked him to remember just what happened after the old man looked into the gap, and that his right hand, which was stretching toward the lancest, was stretching toward the book shelf, the box clicked, and the old man toppled over, slowly and heavily, but without much noise."

"We worked this description out in detail; it was soon evident that the sliding of the hand along the book shelf was Mr. Grosvenor's attempt to steady himself, as he had jerked himself off his balance when rebounding from the shock of seeing the professor so unexpectedly. But instead of recovering his balance, he lost it entirely. His frail wrist hit violently against the base of the spring-lancest, which was lying set on the edge of the shelf—set, as we know from the wound inflicted, at its greatest depth, doubt less to give full scope for comparison between its incisions and the scratches on Charlhe's "Notes. He shot the lancest along the shelf forcibly until it struck the upright division between the book shelves, and set it off on his own wrist, thus forced against the base of the lancest, by accidentally pressing the trigger on the edge of the shelf over which it was hanging."

"Just one thing more, please!" I begged. "Had Professor Harrington come to Darrow's office for Charlhe's "Notes?"

Mr. Almy laughed.

"He was the one person who had not! He hadn't even noticed the advertisements, either of the auction or of the purchase. He had, in fact, quite given up his old law book, which he was chiefly sorry to lose for sentimental reasons. You see, Mr. Grosvenor—and with this final wrong, we might dismiss that unhappy old man since the one he injured bears him no grudge because she is incapable of doing so—Mr. Grosvenor had written to Professor Harrington, while the latter was still in England, that the niece he knew had been born had died soon after her mother. That was why the professor never made any attempt to find his niece. Well! That was a reunion when we broke the good tidings to them!"

"What a lot you're responsible for, Peter!" said I.

"Promising young fellow, he is," smiled Mr. Almy. "I engaged him again this morning. And first thing he does is fall out with his sister! I merely said she'd be a good one to help with the job."

"Stuff!" said Peter, huffily. "All I did was tell her she was young; she goes straight up in the air and stays there."

"What a dreadful thing to tell one who is young!" I remonstrated. "Do you really want Nancy, Mr. Almy?"

"Yes, if you could persuade her to come. I want a keshole to be found for that lonesome key. Surely there's one here or thereabouts. I must leave the job in good hands; I'm going home for some sheep, so's the professor."

I ascended to the third floor, there to find Nancy feverishly reading the Sunday fashion supplement.

"Why don't you come down and celebrate as invited?" I inquired.

"Peter's scandalized at us! After the way he acted himself and after all I've done for him. Why? Because I told him how I thought once that Mr. Case was trying to steal Charlhe's "Notes!"

"Was he scandalized because you stole it yourself?"

"No, he said that was first rate; but no one old enough to be a judge of—" character could think Mr. Case capable of such a thing. He never thought anything of Mr. Case himself, until after what Julia told him and Mr. Almy!"

"What was that?"

"Long ago, he knew Julia's mother—oh, very well, he wanted to marry her, but she didn't care for him. He said she was a very romantic girl, he thought specially because her father was so stern; and he—Mr. Case—well he never was very exciting, I guess. But yesterday, when Julia was most under suspicion, he came here and offered for her mother's sake, to help her in any possible way. You know last Thursday, when you and he and Mr. Roberts and Captain Ashland were talking about the bookplate? Well, of course he knew something about it; you've heard how Julia's mother threw the book to him from this balcony, where those very granite pillars stand that form the bookplate-frame?"

"So they do! so they do!"

"Maybe Mr. Case was trying to find that book, when I saw him Thursday evening, really to see if he could help Julia with it," pursued Nancy, not without shrewdness. "You see, he did know Mr. Grosvenor, and then he found out who Julia was, when she fainted in the shop; he must have guessed what they both wanted."

Yes, all Mr. Case's queer furtive actions now appeared in a new, rosy light. What he knew of Mary Grosvenor's secret had apparently not been enough to determine him on what he thought the best course of action to help her daughter, then under a cloud. He had therefore come personally to Julia's aid to try to discover the best course.

"And you're not going to try to find out why Mary Grosvenor hid that key under that bookplate!" I ejaculated crushingly.

Nancy flung down the fashion supplement.

"But whatever I do," she protested. "Peter will think he did it himself and if it should by any chance be wrong, he'll say I'm young."

"He will, my dear," I agreed, "for he is a man and a brother. But that won't stop you doing things, I suppose?"

She was already half way down stairs. Professor Harrington and Mr. Almy were just departing. We all shook hands warmly. Mr. Almy breathed kind thanks for my humble assistance, and hopes, which I shared that we might meet again either daily or unofficially. They were gone, and Nancy forthwith developed a burning enthusiasm for the key quest.

Julia mentioned some old mahogany boxes in her room which had always stood fast and refused to open; Nancy said she didn't believe the key would fit any of them, though she had never seen them, but she would try it. She flitted away; then Julia turned to Peter and me. There was a new, sweet, serious determination on her face.

"I'm going to tell you both something; something I've known ever since last Monday morning, something—" she addressed Peter—"that you did for me, that you never told about and never would tell about, I know well—"

He fairly sprang from his chair.

"Stop!" he interrupted, in frantic agitation. "I beg you not to speak, everything's over now; it's of no consequence!"

"It is of the utmost consequence," said Julia, firmly, "that I acknowledge what I owe to you. For last Monday morning, when I dashed up the aisle in Darrow's, and you, Mr. Burton, came rushing toward me, you saw this in my hand."

Dipping behind some books on the table, she held up the spring-lancest, to Peter's increased agitation. She went on calmly:

Weather by No Means Matter of Latitude

Weather is not a matter of latitude except so far as the equatorial regions and the poles are concerned. Such a temperature as ten below zero at sea level is much more devilish than thirty below in Minnesota, because the air at the seaboard is practically always moving and wind at so low a figure is torture. Again such a temperature as 103 in the shade at Boston is less tolerable than a like or even higher figure in the wide-open spaces where men are men and mostly politicians, talking through ten-gallon hats. New York is in the latitude of Lisbon, Naples and Constantinople. It is far colder in the winter than any of these, and colder than any part of Great Britain, which is in the latitude of Labrador. That country is not "warmed" by the Gulf stream, which is indistinguishable in point of heat half way across the Atlantic. Three-fourths of the possible points of the compass account for reasonably mild sea winds so far as Great Britain is concerned. In winter in New York more than half of the possible winter winds have come over thousands of miles of snow.—Barron's Financial Weekly.

Still in the Making
It takes patience and wise forecast to make one satisfied with the slow development of things in the world. So much is in the making. The present output may seem imperfect and uncouth, but wait; after a while the finished product, and it will please us much. It was on this account that a Scottish artist once said: "I never let balloons or fools see my pictures till they are done." It takes a man true mind to get along with immature things.

In the earthquake of 1922, 300,000 persons were buried in Peking alone.

Birds' Courtship

Male birds in the mating season often perform love dances and engage in other peculiar antics as for instance, the mad acrobatics of the chat which are for the special amusement of the females; their effort being, as Darwin observed, to display their charms to their prospective wives.

"You saw more; although I instinctively concealed the weapon under my cape, you saw its blades protruding slightly, as the kick of the mechanism always causes them to do. I reset the hammer at once to throw off suspicion that my cousin had used the weapon and sliding it to the floor under my cape, I kicked it as violently as I could so it would land under that desk at the door. That kick was what bruised my foot; I stubbed my toe hard and my feet were not protected by shoes."

"What?" asked Peter, surprised. Julia smiled at me.

"Miss Fuller could have told you that I had a black satin bedroom slippers," she assured him; "only she didn't tell anybody."

"Good for you, Constance," said Peter; "I don't quite get all this, but slippers might have looked queer, eh?"

"Very. I'll tell you now how I came to wear them. As you know, my grandfather and I had a disagreement on Sunday. I made up my mind that he must tell me about my parents; so I told him I had been to the Richmond auction to see that book. He refused me all information, not too kindly. Next morning at breakfast he appeared all ready to go out; I felt sure he was bound for Darrow's. I don't go to my studio until ten o'clock. I had on a breakfast jacket and slippers, therefore, and had just time, after he had left the house to slip on a frock and hurry after him, so I could keep him in sight. My slippers were black, so inconspicuous that I could take a chance that they would not be noticed. Yet they might have weighed against me, as showing that I had left the house in haste, possibly angry pursuit of my grandfather. Miss Fuller gave me the benefit of the doubt."

"And you, Mr. Burton, saw me in distress at Richmond, you suspected I had trailed that book to your shop, you heard me cry: 'He's dead!' and saw this weapon in my hand; yet you gave me, a stranger, the protection of your silence at the price of suffering to yourself. And finally you cleared my uncle of all suspicion, forever. You don't think I'm going to let that all pass without a word though I can never repay you?"

"Don't talk to me about repayment!" said Peter, sharply. "It's enough for me to have always believed in you."

"Well," smiled Julia, "you'll have to take credit, at least. When Mr. Almy brought my uncle here, I told both of them everything!"

Peter looked at her determinedly. "I don't want credit," he said.

So, as it was the day of rest and he had plenty of time, I gave him a chance to tell her what he did want.

CHAPTER XIV

They Have Their Reward.

Monday morning I awoke very early and viewed the fading stars with regret that the lists of adventure should seem to have closed, however happily. A very few bits of the Colfax bookplate picture-puzzle remained to be fitted in; and then what? Well, at least work, and work was always an adventure to me. So, as I still had plenty of it to do after the previous interrupted week, I took an early train into town. A quarter past eight saw me walking down Fourth avenue through the pale fall sunbeams slanting over the low buildings. But when I reached Darrow's, to and behold! there were Peter and Nancy before me!

"Good morning, Constance. I want to talk to you," announced Nancy; adding as an afterthought, "so does Peter."

"I came early to get ready my report for Mr. Darrow on the Raynes Foreside sale," explained Peter. "It's going to be a wonder, but I suppose he'll pick me to pieces on principle, anyhow."

"He shan't," promised Nancy. "What I wanted to tell you, Constance," continued Peter, "is of special interest to you, it's about your boy friend Charles MacIvor."

"He has repented, I don't believe," I observed.

"At least he has been forgiven; I don't know just how you would work that, but anyway, it has been done. He came last night to say good-by to his cousin."

"Good-by? Where's he going?"

"To Buenos Aires, very soon. I guess they're going to let him off pretty easily, as the case against him isn't of the greatest importance. He did sell those bonds, but it seems they formed part of the estate he will inherit, and he has confessed and will make any reparation decided on. Besides, he gave the authorities much information that was useful in helping solve the Grosvenor mystery, including the fact that he was the poor boob who tried to pinch that book in Richmond—from me! So the demands of justice won't be too hard to satisfy, and he's due to clear out. Well, good-bye!"

Jelly made with PEXEL turns out like this

MAKING jelly jell is not a new idea— but Pexel is certainly a new idea. It is tasteless, colorless, odorless! It is a 100% pure-fruit product which, in addition to making jelly jell, saving hours of time, and cutting down cost per glass, does not dilute or change the finest flavor or color.

Pexel saves from one to three times the 30c it costs. Eliminates long and tedious boiling. Saves fruit juice, sugar and flavor—and makes more jelly. Get Pexel at your grocer's. Recipe booklet in each package. 30c. The Pexel Company, Chicago, Ill.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

The Sul Ross College gymnasium has been completed at a cost of around $35,000. Citizens of Alpine and vicinity donated $15,000, while $20,000 was appropriated by the legislature.

The public school at Crane, which has fourteen teachers and an enrollment of 265 students, is to have a $40,000 addition finished by the 15th of October. This will make it one of the finest school plants in this part of the state.

The system of having the first Monday in the month designated as Trades day will start with October 1st in Petersburg and will be featured with horse swapping, auction sales and entertainment programs.

A franchise to run a cross-town bus line, with a charge of ten cents per passenger has been secured by J. F. Garrison for Big Springs. The bus is a sixteen passenger one and will stop at every crossing for passengers.

The cotton compress at Turkey, built at a cost of $100,000, is inducing many farmers to bring their cotton to that thriving South Plains town. Turkey has four gins which give excellent service.

Roby public schools lay claim to having the unique distinction of serving 100 sections of land. The school has had a phenomenal growth and athletic records draw recognition all over the state.

Nolan county is to have one-half state aid in surfacing highway No. 70, between Sweetwater and Blackwell. This is expected to total $74,710.

Grading work on highway 91 through Hale county is progressing steadily, according to account from Plainview. It is expected that the road will be ready for paving on schedule time.

"West Texas Today," official magazine of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce carried stories on Lubbock, Floydada, Silverton, Quitque, Turkey and other South Plains towns in the September issue.

Wheeler is proud of the fact that thirteen carloads of dressed poultry and ten carloads of live poultry have been shipped out of Wheeler county, which until recently was considered fit for cattle grazing only.

Building program in Dublin reveals expenditures in excess of $100,000. These include $50,000 by a products company, $35,000 by the Katy railroad, a $10,000 creamery and $3,000 fair exhibits.

Herbert Hoover says: "In this land, dedicated to tolerance, we still find outbreaks of intolerance. I come of Quaker stock. My ancestors were persecuted for their beliefs. Here they sought and found religious freedom. By blood and conviction I stand for religious tolerance, both in act and in spirit. The glory of our American ideals is the right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience."

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to thank all donors to the first bale of cotton brought by me to Sudan last week and also the several donors coming in too late for publication.

Senator Borah Flays Gov. Smith

Senator Wm. E. Borah claims Gov. Smith, if elected, proposes to repeal the eighteenth amendment and to get up a substitute—namely, public ownership, management and control of the liquor traffic. States to be authorized or given the power to sell and distribute alcoholic beverages; that liquor is to be drunk not in public but in the home; private saloons are abolished, but public saloons, with the state as a saloon keeper. So says The Idaho Statesman.

Dr. Foote reports the following births: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Harris, twin boys on Saturday, Sept. 28th. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Swope, of Bela community, girl Oct. 2nd. Mr. and Mrs. Otis Pollard, Circleback, boy, Tuesday Oct. 2nd.

One of the Inducements. Philippa—"I don't want to go to a girl's school. I'm going to a co-educational college." Lucy—"But the men there are likely to be bold and flirtatious." Philippa—"That's what the girls all tell me."

Entirely Unnecessary. Hub—"A new set of furs? No, no; I have to remember my creditors." Wife—"That's a stupid excuse. As if they'd let you forget them."—Boston Transcript.

Not Consistent. Basifful Boy—"Sir, June and I have decided that our happiness is the biggest thing in the world." Father—"You change your mind so often—just yesterday you wanted to marry her!"—Malteaser.

Just Like An Ostrich. A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet cream and powder is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that contamination is throwing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Removes the contaminated system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Herbine, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and easily, which you can get at H. G. Ramby Drug Store.
