SEVERITY OF STORM GREATLY OVERSTATED

City Commission Sells Water Bonds; Work Underway

On Monday of this week the City Commissioners of Sudan effected sale of the issue of $50,000 of bonds voted some months ago for the installation of a system of waterworks for Sudan.

The bonds were sold to the Panhandle Construction Company of Lubbock, which company also was awarded the contract for installing the water system. The bonds brought par.

For some time drilling has been in progress on the site chosen east of the Santa Fe tracks, and a well is now down and being developed.

The commission states that active work will start immediately on the installation of the system, and it is thought that in 60 days time Sudan will be using water from her own system of mains.

It is stated that all home labor will be employed in the construction of the system, as far as such is available.

During the past few years Sudan has developed at a rapid rate. But it is freely predicted that her past development will not compare with future progress, when prospective enterprises can be assured of an abundant supply of pure water, with its attendant benefits of fire protection and other advantages. This development, coupled with the many advantages she now enjoys—her splendid school system, her up-and-coming business institutions, her wide-rising surrounding territory dotted with fertile farms, peopled by a class of go-getting agriculturists—should shortly place Sudan in the forefront of the progressive cities of the Plains.

Stalworth Jury Deadlocked, Discharged

AMARILLO, June 8.—Hopelessly deadlocked after approximately 43 hours of deliberation, the jury in the trial of Mrs. Levi P. Stalworth of Amarillo, for the slaying of Mrs. Grace Morrison of Plainview, in front of a local hotel on the night of May 13, was discharged at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning by Judge Henry S. Bishop.

The jurors voted seven to five for conviction every ballot showing the same result. About 30 ballots were taken.

ONE COW VS. ONE DOZEN.

"Why milk twelve poor cows when one good cow will do the work of the twelve?" asks the bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural commission. It declares that analysis of more than 100,000 individual yearly records from cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations indicate that on the average:

Cows that produced 100 pounds of butterfat a year returned $14 each over feed cost.

Cows that produced 200 pounds of butterfat a year returned $54 each over feed cost.

Cows that produced 300 pounds of butterfat a year returned $96 each over feed cost.

Cows that produced 500 pounds of butterfat a year returned $178 each over feed cost.

In other words, one 500-pound producer will return $10 more over feed cost than twelve 100-pound producers. This does not take into account either the added labor of milking and caring for the larger herd, or the much greater expense of providing stable room for a dozen instead of a single animal. The figures are based on farm prices from all parts of the country.

LADIES OF THE CHURCH OF CHRIST BIBLE STUDY

We had a very interesting lesson at Mrs. Wilkerson's Tuesday, with nine present. We were glad to have our leader, Mrs. Brisco, back with us.

We meet with Mrs. E. Pope Tuesday, June 19.

Our next lesson will be a continuation of the Wilderness Wanderings, scriptures covered, Num. 18 to Deut. 34.

All are invited to come. Reporter.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

A man giving the name of Smith and said to be living in the White-harrel community was arrested last Saturday by Officer Wynn on a charge of forgery, according to the arresting officer.

Smith is alleged to have forged between 25 and 50 checks, ranging in sums from $1.00 to $12.00 each, signing the names of local people, including a number of Littlefield business men.

He is out under bond pending appearance before the grand jury.—Lamb County Leader.

Model Breeder House Erected by Weimhold

Mr. H. H. Weimhold, manager of the Weimhold Commercial Hatchery, has recently had erected on the lot east of his residence, a model breeder house. The building was erected jointly by Mr. Weimhold and the Whaley Lumber Company, and is designed to exhibit to the poultry raisers of this section the correct model of a breeder house.

The building is 14x14 feet built of matched pine, with metal roof. The roof is peaked, the rear slope about twice the length from comb to eave of the front. The building faces south and in the front are four double windows of glass cloth, accurately fitted to the frames and hung on hinges to be easily removed.

The house has concrete floor, and in the exact center is a brooder stove of 1200 capacity.

The house has been in use now for three weeks, and has just been emptied of 1100 white Leghorn chicks which were brooded for the three weeks without the loss of a single chick, and is again filled, this time with 1200 chicks.

Since its erection the house has been the object of absorbing interest to the crowds of poultry folk, and numbers have expressed their purpose to build similar houses on their farms for another season.

50-Mile Speed Law Proposed for State

AUSTIN, June 7.—The rate of speed for privately owned automobiles in Texas will be 50 miles an hour over country highways, if a bill introduced by Representative Walter H. Beck of Fort Worth passes the special session of the legislature and wins the governor's signature.

The present speed limit is 35 miles an hour. Within incorporated towns the limit would be 20 miles. Commercial motor cars, with a load of 19,000 pounds, would be limited to 35 miles, those with a load up to 14,000 pounds 25 miles and those with a load exceeding such weight is fixed at 18 miles an hour.

The measure now is before the house on a favorable committee report, not a single vote being registered against the bill by members of the motor traffic committee. Beck Friday was confident the bill would pass.

150 Combines Are Sold at Hereford

More than 150 combines, costing a total of over $300,000 will be distributed from Hereford for the 1929 wheat harvest, according to the six local dealers of farm implements in this city. Orders for this many machines have already been received, and with the ground-soaking rains of the past few days, which have virtually assured a record crop for Deaf Smith and surrounding counties, local dealers state in all probability more combines will be sold, running the total to more than 200, and with the added tractors the cost of harvesting equipment put out by Hereford will run well above the half million dollar mark.—Hereford Brand.

Cattle Shot on Range by Panhandle Rustlers

OKLAHOMA City, June 8.—A 1929 method of cattle rustling as practiced in the West Oklahoma Panhandle was occupying the attention of the State Attorney General here today.

Attorney General Edwin Dabney said that complaints had persistently come from Cimmaron county, bordered by Texas and Colorado, that rustlers were shooting cattle on the range, and loading them into trucks. The carcasses were being sold across the state boundary line.

SHERIFF'S FORCE BUSY ROUNDING UP OFFENDERS

The Sheriff's office has been functioning smoothly now for some time and offenders are having a hard time to dodge Sheriff Irvin and his deputies.

Saturday last Sheriff Irvin returned from Salmon City, Idaho, with Jack Vann, wanted in this county for a statutory offense. Mr. Irvin had been on the trail of Vann for four months and succeeded in locating him at Salmon City. He was released on bond to appear in court.

Sunday the sheriff arrested T. J. Watson on advices from Seymour. Wednesday of this week the sheriff came through Sudan with Hugh Russell, whom he had gathered in on advices from the authorities at Hollis, Okla.

Storm Did Little Damage in Bailey and Lamb Counties

Erroneous Report of Friona Star Does Grave Injustice to These Counties. Editors Should Be More Careful to Secure Correct Reports.

Too many journalists fail to appreciate the responsibilities that go with their office. There is a wide difference between the spoken word and the printed word. Where the former is addressed to possibly two or three persons, the latter usually reaches thousands; and whereas the sound of the voice does not usually travel far from home, the latter is broadcast far and wide over the country. Also, the spoken word frequently is largely discounted; but a statement in cold type is usually taken for fact and goes unquestioned.

This tendency of newspapers to give credence to loose talk and exaggerated reports is demonstrated in an article which appeared recently in the Friona Star wherein the following statements were made:

"The Star is reliably informed that a severe hail storm visited the south part of Farmer county Tuesday night, reaching as far south as Muleshoe in Bailey county, and as far east as Earth, in Lamb county."

"It appears that the hardest part of the storm was felt in Earth where a total loss of crops is reported. At Muleshoe only sixty per cent loss was sustained, and the fall was lighter toward the north, making a ten per cent loss at Lazbuddi, in Farmer county."

"It is reported that hail stones as large as goose eggs fell at Muleshoe, and a citizen of Lazbuddi who was there at the time of the storm reports that the hail was six inches deep in his truck when he started home after the storm had passed."

To this the Muleshoe Journal makes flat denial, stating that all the hail that fell in that locality could very easily have been carried in the aforesaid gentleman's truck, and then not have covered the floor of the truck six inches deep; also that if geese laid eggs no larger than the end of an ordinary thumb, there might have been some hailstones found that large. The publisher of the Journal took the trouble to travel over the territory covered by the storm, and found the damage to be negligible.

This paper also can say as much for the Earth community. The editor and the publishers were in Earth Sunday, and heard not the slightest whisper of any such storm damage, nor did they see any traces of same in the flourishing crops around that hustling little city.

The good name of a community can very easily be injured by unguarded statements in newspapers, and for this reason editors should take seriously the responsibilities of their position. The forces of nature wreck enough havoc all over this country, without wild exaggeration being employed.

Abductor of Daihart Man Gets 25 Years

DALHART, June 5.—Bert Dellinger today faced a 25-year penitentiary sentence for his part in the alleged abduction here of Adolph Esquibel, Roek Island employee, the night of May 13.

He was convicted in district court here last night on a charge of attacking while masked. Two other charges, kidnaping and assault with intent to murder, still are pending against him, but it is believed these will be dismissed.

Bill Cullender, another alleged participant in the abduction of the officer, is expected to go to trial this week on the same charge. A third man is being sought in connection with the attack on the officer.

Esquibel was taken from his home, the night of May 13 by three masked men and a week later was found in the hills near Las Vegas, N. M., in a serious condition from injuries which he said were inflicted by his abductors. Dellinger was arrested at Las Vegas on information furnished by the officer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Slate motored to Lubbock Tuesday to meet their brother-in-law, Mr. Arnold MacManna, of New York.

Robison Impeachment Trial to Start in Austin Thursday

Charges of Wrong-Doing in Office Against Veteran Land Commissioner to Be Heard by House, and First Witnesses Will Appear Before That Body Thursday.

AUSTIN, June 10.—Preliminary incident to hearing testimony on charges against J. T. Robison, commissioner of the general land office, accusing him of "wrong doing in office and proposing impeachment," were taken late today by the house of representatives and the first witnesses will appear Thursday.

The house sustained a ruling by Representative Ed R. Sinks of Giddings, appointed by Speaker W. S. Barron to pass on advisability of testimony, that the transcript of the joint committee which investigated the general land office during the regular session could be used in lieu of witnesses in person.

Attorneys for Mr. Robison opposed use of any part of the transcript testimony, and Dayton Moses of Ft. Worth, leading counsel for the veteran official, pleaded for "witnesses in the flesh, so you can look into his face and see the white of his eyes."

Col. Robert B. Allen, Sr., of Dallas, chief attorney for the house, said that unless the transcript testimony could be used, start of the hearing would be delayed indefinitely, and that he did not believe proponents of the charges should be compelled to bring every witness here "at vast expense."

About 200 witnesses, subpoenaed by attorneys for Mr. Robison Saturday, were here today awaiting a call to the witness chair.

During the proceedings, Mr. Robison, 68 years old and frail of body, sat with his attorneys. His cheeks were hollow and his thick white hair slightly disheveled. He was silent throughout the proceedings.

Sweet Clover Makes Great Pasture Crop

OLTON.—One and three-fourths acres of sweet clover is worth more than forty acres of native pasture for grazing alone, not counting the soil improvement qualities of the clover, according to George Bohner who sowed this crop last August for the first time. Planting it as a demonstration in cooperation with D. A. Adam, county agent, Mr. Bohner got a perfect stand, and six weeks after sowing grazed two cows on it for forty-five days. They increased steadily in production and when taken off dropped 13 pounds in milk in one day. Turning them into the clover again in February the cows gradually increased in milk flow until by April they had gained 22 pounds in milk production daily. In addition he has pastured four of his neighbors' cows and two horses.

Crops Little Damaged in Hale and Castro

PLAINVIEW, June 8.—With two days in which to inspect the wheat crop since the storm which hit a small section of this county Thursday evening, taking the toll of two lives in Hale and Castro counties, business men and farmers are agreed that a very small per cent of the wheat crop has been damaged.

Local bankers say that the country is in splendid shape and that the outside world should not get the idea from press reports of the storm northwest of here, that conditions are bad around Plainview. R. A. Underwood, vice-president of the First National Bank at Plainview, says that while a few farmers have been hard hit by the recent hail, their crops represent a comparatively small per cent of the entire crop of the whole country.

DEATH OF MRS. H. H. BUSH

Mrs. H. H. Bush of this city died Friday morning of last week, at 11 a. m. following an operation, at one of the Amarillo sanitariums.

Mrs. Bush was taken seriously ill Tuesday evening, and Wednesday was taken to Amarillo for treatment. Death occurred Friday morning.

Burial was at Gainesville, her girlhood home. Mrs. Bush was Miss Frankie Brewer before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush have been residents of Sudan for the past year or more, where both have many friends who were deeply saddened at her sudden death. She leaves only her husband to mourn her loss. Mr. Bush has the deep sympathy of all in his great grief.

Santa Fe Supt. Dies of Injuries Received in Recent Car Crash

AMARILLO, June 11.—Injuries sustained in an automobile accident about a week ago proved fatal for J. F. Anton, 44 years old, former resident of this city, who died in the Santa Fe hospital at Clovis shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Anton was superintendent of the New Mexico division of the Santa Fe railroad, with headquarters in Las Vegas.

He had been in the Clovis hospital since Monday night, June 3, when the machine in which he was riding with his secretary, O. F. Brady, turned turtle on the road near Fort Sumner. Brady was not seriously hurt.

Before his appointment to the superintendency at Las Vegas, Mr. Anton served in a similar capacity on the South Plains division, with headquarters at Slaton. During that time he was considered one of the most popular men on the South Plains.

Endurance Fliers On Gov. Moody's Staff

A staff correspondent's dispatch from Austin to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram says:

Two West Texas youths who achieved world wide fame by flying for more than a week were able to address the legislature Monday only three minutes each. But they were assured their speeches were the best yet made before the Forty-first, and certainly the applause was the greatest. So Reg. L. Robbins and James Kelly have another record to their credit.

The two fliers a week ago at Fort Worth broke all air endurance records by a sustained flight of 172 1/2 hours, an accomplishment that has been heralded by newspapers all over the world, declared to equal if not to exceed the Lindbergh flight from New York to Paris.

The house and senate met in joint session at 1 o'clock to pay homage to the two young aviators, the climax of which came when Governor Moody commissioned them as lieutenant colonels on his staff. The modesty of the two young chaps was remarked by many.

Merges News-Globe With Other Papers

AMARILLO, June 8.—A merger that has been completed is that of the Amarillo News-Globe, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and the El Paso Herald-Times under the ownership of the Lindsay Nunn publishing company, of which Lindsay Nunn of Amarillo is president, Gene Howe of Amarillo is vice-president, and Wilbur Hawk of Amarillo is secretary and treasurer of the company.

METHODIST NOTES

By vote of the Board of Stewards, the pastor has been granted leave of absence for two weeks to attend Southern Methodist University's special course for Texas and New Mexico pastors. As these lines are being read, the pastor is in the midst of this school, which will be over in time for our return for Fifth Sunday services.

Next Sunday morning there will be the Methodist church a Lay Activities service, as follows: Fellowship and Service, Dewey Crisswell; Stewardship, A. W. Ormand; Evangelism—in the Sunday School, John A. Dryden; in the Church, W. T. Fowler; in the Home, Mrs. Dewey Crisswell; Christian Education, Judge Dryden. One of the glories of Methodist history has been the great work of the laity. This will be a program well worth your while, instructive and inspirational in its nature. There will be no special collection.

Sunday night the congregation and community will have the opportunity to hear Rev. Mr. Hough, a local Baptist preacher, who has recently moved here from central Texas. Brother Hough is an able preacher, filled with the power of the Holy Spirit. He will have for you a message that will help you in your Christian living.

Remember Sunday School and Epworth Leagues, Missionary Society every Monday afternoon at 2:30. You will find a helpful fellowship in all of our services.

C. K. HOOTON, Pastor.

NON-INTERFERENCE.

Mistress—"When do you think you could come? You see, I've got the spring cleaning to consider."

Maid—"Well, I could come about three weeks from today, if you are quite sure you could get it all finished before then."—London Opinion.

Friday of last week, the daily papers of the Panhandle and adjacent territory carried streamer heads and sensational accounts of a so-called "tornado" which visited the section around the intersection of the three counties of Castro, Lamb and Hale. The rural village of Flagg in Castro county, and the settlement of Runningwater in Hale county appear to have suffered most of any of the territory covered by the storm. At Flagg, R. A. Cassidy was killed in the destruction of his home, and at Runningwater J. S. Snipes suffered a like fate. Property damage in those communities also was said to have been considerable, and a number of persons were injured.

First reports from Olton, county seat of Lamb county, which was in the path of the storm, were that more than a score of buildings were demolished. Later, the daily papers reduced these estimates to around a dozen edifices "damaged," with two demolished, windmills also being wrecked.

On Sunday the writer, in company with the publishers of The News, visited Olton for the purpose of viewing the damage wrought, and from observation we were convinced the reports were greatly exaggerated. Olton's "best theatre," referred to as being demolished, was certainly destroyed, but from the flimsy appearance of the wreck, the writer was of the opinion no very strong wind was needed to wreck it. The same may be said of the two buildings moved from their foundations. The greatest damage noted was to the windmills, but can frequently be noted all over this western country. Just recently some were wrecked in a storm which visited Sudan, but we certainly did not report a "tornado," nor did we experience one.

The fatalities at Flagg and Runningwater were deplorable; but such instances, the unprejudiced reader must admit, are common occurrences throughout the entire country. As for the widely advertised destruction of crops, we would remind the reader that this is inevitable where heavy falls of hail occur, and is as common to one part of the United States as to another.

Now, a point the writer wishes to impress here is, that in no instance has he ever heard of a building, properly and securely built, wrecked at any point within the Panhandle-Plains country, by wind. We have talked with old-timers of 20 and 30 years residence, and received the same answers—they have known of no such instances. Buildings wrecked—yes. Substantial buildings? No. Invariably cheap shacks, or ramshackle affairs that were unsafe even without a high wind. In any newly settled country—which describes the entire Panhandle-Plains country—many of these buildings may be encountered; and the only wonder is that they have survived as long as they have. But never, we repeat, have we heard of a properly built, substantial edifice suffering to any great extent from the winds of the plains.

It has been the proud claim of the Panhandle-Plains country that we were exempt from cyclones and tornadoes. This is still true. But if every little storm that demolishes a few shacks is to be heralded far and wide as a "destructive tornado," our section will soon have a very black eye—which will be entirely undeserved. Nowhere in the entire country—east or west—is human life and property safer than right here on the plains of Texas. The reader has but to recall the reports of the last few months from widely separated sections of the United States—where tornadoes, cyclones and floods have wiped out scores of lives and millions of dollars worth of property—to thank his stars if he lives on the plains of Texas where life is secure if ordinary human intelligence is exercised.

We certainly sympathize with the citizens of the section covered by this storm. But we certainly do not believe that a single one of them would desire the impression to be broadcast that they live in a country where life is not safe if ordinary precautions are taken to guard against the forces of nature.

MEETING OF W. M. U.

The W. M. U. met with Mrs. W. W. Carpenter Monday at 2:30 p. m. for Bible study. We had a very interesting lesson on the first and second coming of Christ, lesson led by Mrs. Covington. There were eight members present.

Next Monday, 2:30 p. m., we will meet with Mrs. A. C. Findley for Royal Service Mission Study, conducted by Mrs. Clyde Robertson. Every one is invited. We give you a hearty welcome to our midst.

"I believe in the United States of America and the principles of freedom, justice, equality and humanity upon which it was founded and for which American Patriots have given their lives and fortunes.
"I believe it is my duty towards my country to love it, to support its constitution; to obey its laws; and to defend it against all enemies."

"BOOST OR MOVE."

PAY HOMAGE TO THE FLAG.

Flag Day—June 14—has by national assent been singled out for special observance, and we think it fitting that every home should make a display of the Stars and Stripes on this occasion.

The legend of Betsy Ross still lives and inspires millions of children who know little and care less for the dry official records of the second Continental Congress. The spirit of George Washington would rise in protest against any attempt to deprive the pretty widow of Arch street of her high place in American history.

All praise and honor to Betsy Ross, who gave to the greatest nation on earth the finest and fairest flag that was ever flung to the four winds of heaven.
On June 14th we pay tribute of reverence and gratitude to the land we love by special honor to the Stars and Stripes. Long may they wave!

RECORD AUTO YEAR.

The automobile editor of a New York paper is of the opinion that the year 1929 will make a new record for sales of automobiles. Cars are going out to purchasers as never before, it is said.

Sales are understood to be 50 per cent above last year's record in some sections of the East. The indication seems to be for general improvement all over the country.

Engine power and body lines lead in improvements and the new cars excel in strength, durability and accomplishment, with additional and unusual attractiveness. Riding comfort and mechanical benefits are claimed which will prolong the life of the car, and the demand would appear to indicate everybody hoping to get the new cars as soon as possible.

THE VACATION BUG.

Advertisements for seashore and mountain resorts are now appearing, which is a sure sign that vacation time is here. The vacation bug is already at work, and plans are being made in many homes for the short respite from the daily grind. Visits, automobile trips, fishing and camping expeditions are under consideration and the family bank account is carefully guarded as the day approaches when the party will load into the car and depart for some selected spot to while away a few short days from business cares and the every day grind of work.

THE BIG TROUBLE.

There is not necessarily any connection whatever between getting people to do right, and making people obey the law. Making people obey the law is a losing game. You can never succeed in "making" people do anything. But you can succeed in getting people to do right. That is one of the big troubles—the way we go about doing nearly everything. Some of us are often tempted to go just the opposite direction to what some people try to get us to go.

ANOTHER FLYING FEAT.

A week in the air! Two plucky Texas pilots, R. L. Robbins and James Kelly, of the "Fort Worth," have broken all records for sustained flying by almost a full day. Their plane was refueled in the air and they remained up for 172 hours. Such achievements are tributes to advanced mechanical construction and to improved skill in flying. The Texas test will be of enormous value to aviation and tend to stimulate flying.

GOOD WORK.

That the churches of Sudan are doing a splendid work no one would care to deny. Think of a community without a church. The pioneers built first of all their homes—then a school and a church. The church is a needed thing, as much a necessity today as it was in the backwoods. Perhaps more today than ever before one needs to renew frequently his contact with his Maker.

A merchant in another town did not believe in the value of publicity. He was arrested one day and begged the editor to keep his name out of the paper.

Dollar bills will soon be smaller. It remains with the individual economist to see whether their actual purchasing power will be larger.

All the papers are talking about farm relief, and the farmer is so busy in his crops that he hasn't time to read about it.

The new 30-year-old president of Chicago University is proving that no ladder is long if you know how to climb.

WORTH-WHILE EDITORIALS

NO GUNNING FOR BUSINESS.

(Amarillo Daily News.)

Coincident with the talk, official and otherwise, that is broadcast every so often about the duties and responsibilities of the government in protecting American property in foreign lands, it is interesting and may be worthwhile to recall the words of no less a figure than Victor M. Cutter, president of the United Fruit company, who has sounded a new note in the old, old song of guns for the foreign trader.

In no uncertain terms Mr. Cutter has driven home the fact that "North Americans must learn that building foreign trade is an art," and makes a further statement which is rather radical to many of our accepted notions: "We must learn that foreign trade is built on its merits and should not involve special privileges or monopolies and should be subject to the laws of the country in which business is carried on." Not less startling is this statement: "United States companies should not engage in foreign trade if they expect to need protection or diplomatic intervention.—The United States Fruit company has never had to call for a warship in 25 years of existence."

Mr. Cutter, who is a student of and expert in business relations between the United States and Latin-America, with many years of experience in foreign business transactions to his credit, would probably be the last man not to admit that there are risks in foreign trade and real possibilities for loss in foreign investments, but he does seem to be of the opinion that if an individual or a company desires to run the risk for the sake of making a fortune, they should not expect the flower of American youth to protect that fortune and should be sufficiently able to look after themselves.

But he ever sounds a higher note than that of self preservation. "Friends are not made and business is not developed by calling for warships or rushing for protection to the home government. It is built by thorough investigation of conditions, sound and efficient management and the rendering of service — all of which is not incompatible with proper financial reward.

In this are elements of a new and radical international business slogan, but it is certainly being accepted. Gunning for business is not good business.

PENALIZING THE PANHANDLE.

The price of oil has been raised. The increase is a substantial one. It is enough to decidedly stimulate activity in the Panhandle. The price raise is sufficient to mean the difference between losing money and making money. It may mean the drilling of many new wells on leases held by independents; wells that could not have been drilled under old prices. If that is true the impetus will bring improved conditions.

But, the Panhandle hasn't yet had a square deal. It is true the price increase was the same as that posted for other mid-continent fields, but price schedules in the Panhandle are still 10 to 15 cents under other fields of the mid-continent region, on the same gravity oils.

The Panhandle has been penalized from the very day the first wells were drilled. First there was the excuse of sulphur in the oil. That was blasted. Then it was said the Panhandle was without pipelines and railroads, and the prices were kept below those of other fields. The trunk pipelines have been running oil for a year and a half, and the field has ample and direct railroad outlets. And, still the Panhandle schedule is way below that in other fields where quality of oil and conditions are absolutely the same and where prices paid for crude should be exactly the same.

Purchasing companies talk about the pipelines to the Gulf. It doesn't appear reasonable that it costs 10 to 15 cents more per barrel to move oil from the Panhandle, than it does to move from North Texas and Oklahoma.

Just how much more does it cost to run the Panhandle oil? It is a question that should be answered specifically—in dollars and cents and not in generalities. And then the Panhandle producer will know how great the penalty he is paying.

The claim of over-production was made to justify low prices that have prevailed during the past year. Directly contrary to this claim we find an official of one of the major companies pleading with Oklahoma authorities recently to raise the amount of oil that might be produced in that state. He said his company was drawing 40,000 barrels from storage daily; that his company was facing a shortage and had heavy demands from refineries which it could not meet. In fact, he said there was no over-production.

The logical question now is: If they were mistaken in their over-production claims, isn't it possible that they are wrong about the 15-cent extra cost of handling Panhandle oil?—Amarillo Daily News.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

Anson is doing a great deal of building. A theatre with a capacity of 450 on the main floor and 100 in the balcony is to be erected. The plans call for a modern theatre front, three entrances, the foyer of tile. Floor will be of cement tile. The dimensions will be 30 by 120 feet.

Hereford celebrated the opening of a new $80,000 Baptist church by starting a revival in it. All precedents in church construction were broken in the decoration, seating and architecture of the distinctive church. One thousand auditorium or theatre chairs are in supply. The rose colored roof, eaves, and circular topped windows suggest the Spanish motif.

The De Leon Free Press recently celebrated its 40th birthday. It was established late in June in 1889, eight years after the establishment of the town, and has been published continuously ever since.

O'Donnell Methodists are spending $3,500 remodeling their church. Seven Sunday school rooms will be built, besides other improvements. When completed this will be a splendid edifice, up-to-date in every respect.

Tahoka is to have a new business block. C. A. Hill of Lamesa has announced that he will erect a brick building 50x125 in size to house a chain grocery store and an automobile agency. The old Howell building, one of the first garages erected in this section, will be razed for the new structure.

A Big Spring building is nearing completion. It is the $55,000 Read building which contains seven stores on the ground floor, and a 25-room hotel on the second floor. It extends the business district one block on East Seventh. Other buildings nearing completion are the Alta Vista apartment house, Studebaker plant and six-story Petroleum building.

Silverton's new high school building will cost $80,000, and will be completed by August 15. The school board will make plans to organize both a junior and senior high school, according to C. D. Wright, president of the board.

Brownfield is rushing its street paving. At a meeting of the city council recently, a Wichita Falls firm was employed as engineers on street paving, with instructions to start actual construction as soon as possible. It is thought that the proceeds of the bonds recently voted will provide for the paving of several additional blocks.

The Coleman Chamber of Commerce recently elected Sim O'Neal to serve another year as secretary of the body. Elmo V. Cook, head of the agricultural department and teacher of agriculture in Coleman high school, tendered his resignation to accept a position as agricultural agent in Bosque county.

Borger, the world's largest carbon black manufacturing center, has ten plants now in operating or nearing completion, with 53 units, consuming 315,000,000 cubic feet of residue gas daily. Four hundred and seventy-five thousand pounds of carbon black for tires, etc., are made every day.

Unusual Power in New Chevrolet Six

In response to an unexpected number of inquiries for an explanation of the unusual power found in the new Chevrolet Six, James M. Crawford recently appointed chief engineer of Chevrolet Motor Company, discussed this subject with technical editors last week.

The abundance of power found in the new Chevrolet Six is made possible by its short stroke engine design, which embodies an advanced method of cooling," he said. "This construction brings water around both inlet and exhaust valve seats. It differs radically from the Siamese system of valve ports, and makes for greater durability of the valve train.

"In starting off any new engine design, one of the early considerations is how long shall the motor be in order to lay out the chassis into which it must fit. On account of the importance of wheel base it is desirable to keep the motor length down to a minimum. This is one of the conditions which has brought the small bore, long stroke, high speed engine into the picture.

"Durability being one of our first requirements, we did not feel that we should shorten the engine to meet a certain wheel base. We chose, rather, to design a motor of the short stroke and medium bore type. In order to insure round cylinders we decided to circulate water completely around all the bores. Therefore, after the bore was determined the cylinder length was automatically governed by bore size, and the bore size was determined after taking the stand that a short stroke, low speed engine was the only way we could insure durability.

"This is quite the contrary to the way most engines are laid down, where cost is an important consideration. Generally, the designer shortens the motor by increasing the stroke and reducing the bore. In this case the length of the cylinder block is then determined by the valve area rather than the piston head area. On account of this limitation, in taking advantage of the small bore and keeping the cylinder block as short as possible, the water is invariably taken from between the valve ports, at least between the inlet and exhaust valves. Racing experience and dynamometer test work, where high engine output is maintained continuously, have definitely proved that a compromise in this direction is responsible for a falling off in horse power on account of valve warpage caused by uneven temperature at the valve seats.

"In Chevrolet Six design there has been plenty of room allowed for water completely around all the valves, both on account of the piston diameter and the fact that the valves are comparatively small. A large diameter is not necessary on account of the comparatively low maximum speed of the engine.

"In addition to the value of well cooled valve seats, it is important that the proper valve clearance be maintained at all times. In this respect the overhead design is at a considerable advantage compared to the L-Head construction in that the adjustment for the valve clearance is much more accessible. In the ordinary side valve design, it is necessary to remove several plates to get at the valve adjustment. Invariably the valves are located in an inaccessible place and special wrenches, together with a great deal of care, are necessary when making adjustments. In the overhead design, it is only necessary to remove a single cover and the valve adjustment is in plain sight. The proper clearance can be obtained quickly by means of an ordinary screw driver and a standard end wrench."

SCIENTIFIC ATTACK ON CRIME.

Following up his campaign promise President Hoover, in his usual scientific manner, has set in motion a scientific attack on the crime problem which he considers "the dominant issue before the American people."

In his inauguration address the President said: "The most malign of all these dangers is disregard and disobedience to law.—I propose to appoint a national commission to conduct a searching investigation of the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the cause of abuse under it. Its purpose will be to make such recommendations for reorganization of the administration of federal laws and court procedure as may be found desirable."

This commission has been appointed. The wheels have begun to turn and they will have to travel a rough road during the investigation of the next two years; but the President has appointed an able commission which seems to have the confidence of all factors and which should be able to dig to the bottom and bring up the truth. This commission, headed by G. W. Ickersham, is composed of 11 eminent citizens, ten men and a woman, chosen on bi-partisan lines. All the members are of such eminence and standing that, we are told, both wets and dries alike have hailed the commission.

In that respect the battle is half won. Personal beliefs and politics will not enter into their investigations. All have pledged themselves to make their approach to the study with open minds. That augurs well for the commission's work, and will help in finding the truth. When that is found, the solution automatically appears. —Amorillo Daily News.

And now, as we were about to say before we had to send out that police call, some friends of Mr. Einstein of relativity fame insist that he is not an atheist or an agnostic, but that he "believes in the God of Spinoza." It sounds like a southern statesman explaining that he is a Hoover-Democrat.—Chicago Tribune.

Ford

OR DISAPPOINTMENT

The Highways are thick with Fords. Getting thicker every day. If you get on highway and start any place better drive a Ford or a car costing about $2,000.00 or you will be a wiser man when you return. You will most likely be "Ford Sold." Every few minutes they will come up from behind, "dust you off, and seat on by." To save money and disappointment, too, "Buy a Ford."

Their performance is astounding. The way it stands up under rough use is a MIRACLE. With ordinary care a Ford will last years and years, with small cost for repairs, and the model won't change every year.

Concerned About Dealers in Crops

It would seem from reading the editorials in the Star Telegram that the writer of that page is greatly concerned about what the pending farm relief bill would do to help the farmers through the cooperative marketing organizations, and especially does he lament the fact that this bill proposes to spend a small part of the appropriation in advertising these organizations. He then takes a slap at the cooperatives and declares that they have never succeeded to any great extent. But after spending so much of the taxpayers' money, we will at least see if the cooperative marketing scheme is the solution to the farm problem. Of course the writer knows that it is not popular to champion the cause of the farmer in any way, but it seems that men who are capable of wielding great influence could at least be still long enough to see whether or not the farmer can succeed. They seem to think it is their great duty to begin to tell the farmer as soon as he starts anything worth while, to look out, that he is sure to fail because so many have failed before him. Here is hoping that the senate as well as the President will pay no attention to these kind of howlers at this time, and go ahead and pass the pending farm relief bill just as it passed the house. Then we will have some shadow of

Lamb County Cotton Crop Looking Good

Judging from reports received from about every section of the state, it seems that the South Plains is about the only part of Texas that has anywhere near a normal crop of cotton at this time. Of course there is plenty of time yet for hail or wind storms to destroy a large part of this crop, but with cotton up to a good stand in most of this territory, and a lot of it already plowed over the first time, it surely looks as though it will be a great year for the South Plains. There have been some reports of "cyclones" in Lamb county, but if those who are calling them "cyclones" and "tornadoes" were to see the effect of a real cyclone, where trees and all buildings that are above ground go like so much trash before it, they would say that had a windstorm that wrecked a few flimsy buildings. With the wheat crop looking good in this part of the state, as well as all row crops that are up, it looks as though Lamb county and all of this part of Texas is due for another good year for people to come and see this country, for they are nearly sure to be convinced that this is the place they want to make their home.

THE STATES AND THE INCOME TAX.

The American Taxpayers' League, commenting for the benefit of its Texas members upon the legislative proposal for a state income tax, raises an interesting point. It is that the state governments have ceded this source of revenue to the federal government, through ratification of the sixteenth amendment, and that having done so, a state "has no more right to occupy this field until the federal government abandons it than it has to reoccupy any property it has ceded to the federal government."

Obviously, this argument is based on a predicate which grants the undesirability of the overlapping of federal and state taxing jurisdictions. It may be said that this principle of avoiding dual levies has been supported by long custom and by written covenants between state and federal governments. The danger of dual levies was recognized by the founders of our government. In debating the adoption of the federal constitution, repeated warnings were issued against their use.

The care and preciseness with which the tax fields were originally divided between the two jurisdictions is amply illustrated in the constitution. Thus the right to levy customs and excise taxes was given to the federal government; conversely this right was explicitly denied to the states. On the other hand, when the states received the right to levy direct property taxes, this right was explicitly denied to the federal government. The founders did not envision an income tax, but if they had done so it is logical to assume that the grant of this field to the federal government would have been accompanied by an explicit denial of the same field to the states. The states, when they ratified the sixteenth amendment, granting to the federal government the right of exploitation of the income tax field, ceded their own claims on this field by implication if not explicitly. The states which fail to live up to this bargain demonstrate that what they meant by their grant to the federal government was not that the federal government might call on their citizens for an income tax, but that the federal government was to be admitted as a partner in a double-taxing arrangement which would apply to the citizens of that state.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

THE GASOLINE TAX BILLS.

The house committee on Revenue and Taxation has before it two gasoline tax measures. One by Representative Tillotson of Sealy proposes a 4-cent rate independently of any action that may be taken toward reducing license fees. The other by Representative Holder of Lancaster, proposes a 3-cent rate and links this increase with a 50 per cent reduction in license fees. In the last special session the house passed a bill to reduce the license fees 35 per cent and a 4-cent gasoline tax bill was voted out by the committee. Thus it seems probable that the measure that finally comes out of the committee in the second called session will be one that will include Mr. Tillotson's higher rate and Mr. Holder's provision that it shall be contingent upon a reduction of the license fees.

The house will be wise if it insists upon this feature as included in Mr. Holder's bill. The automobile owning public, which is nearly all the public, will be the loser if a "trade" of a 4-cent gasoline tax in exchange for a cut in the license fees goes through without assurance that the second part of the bargain will be performed. Even assurance that a bill providing the license fee cut will be enacted in the senate is not enough to provide adequate guarantees. It would still be possible for a veto to kill the license fee reduction, and in such an event the net result would be greatly to increase the tax upon automobile ownership and operation.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

If it were not for our rather disappointing experience with the war to end war, we should come out for legislation to end legislation.—Ohio State Journal.

THOSE THRIFTY SCOTCHMEN.

One of the true bloods of dear old Scotland writes in thus: "If you don't quit printing so many Scotch jokes, though you are a tightwad yourself, I am going to quit borrowing your paper from the neighbors to read. Signed: Sandy McDougal."

At the same time he furnished the information that the Scotch government is seriously considering "I Can't Give You Anything But Love" as the national anthem. Which reminds us a member of the tribe who built his chicken house by the church so the hens could eat rice after the wedding ceremony. Almost as bad as that tale from Oakland, that a woman went on a hunger strike for two weeks and twenty Scotchmen proposed to her.

Fred Hoover, marshal, and H. J. Gibbs, in charge of the city water department, have tendered their respective resignations effective the first of this month.

Announcements have been received by friends of Robert Touchon of Los Angeles, California, announcing his marriage to Miss Irene Elizabeth Maetz, Wednesday, May 23. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Touchon of this city.

Last Monday was a big day in Littlefield when a crowd estimated around five thousand people attended Trades Day here. The occasion was one befitting the great development and progress of Littlefield and Lamb county.

That Lamb county has had a normal health record during the past five years is shown by statistical report from the state health department.

Muleshoe

(The Muleshoe Journal.)

Judge R. J. Klump, who has charge of the government weather gauge in Muleshoe, reports a total of 5.18 inches of rainfall during the month of May. This is more rainfall than had been registered here during the same period for eight years.

Notwithstanding the fact that the roads were bad in places, owing to the continued showers last week, there was a large crowd in town Saturday.

A plan whereby the merchants of Muleshoe are to sponsor a better dairy cow campaign was outlined and efforts are to be made to make this one of the best dairy and poultry sections on the plains.

A number of farmers in the south part of Bailey county, in the Baileyboro, Longview and Goodland communities, have formed a "bull circle." A car load of pure bred cows and four pure bred bulls have been distributed in these communities, which are to be paid out with the cream checks that are received from the sale of dairy products. The move is being financed by Sudan business men.

A change in the management of the Muleshoe hotel became effective June 1st, Mr. Frank Johnson of Lubbock assuming charge at that time. Mrs. J. L. Motheral, who has conducted the business for a little over a year, has moved to the family home in the west part of town.
