R. H. Hamilton Acquitted In Trial at Weatherford November 8

Two Lamb County Boys Win Prizes, Trips to Chicago, in 4-H Club Work

Austin, Texas, Nov. 10. — Judge John W. Brady, 59, Austin, attorney, and formerly a member of the third court of civil appeals, was held in the county jail on a murder charge today, after Miss Leahia Highsmith, 28, stenographer for the supreme court commission of appeals, died of stab wounds, one of which penetrated her heart.

Miss Highsmith was cut with a knife soon after she alighted from an automobile in front of her apartment last night. The knife was described by Sheriff Coley White as "at least 12 inches long."

Sheriff White said that Frank Graham, Jr., employed in a local music store, was the only eyewitness to the cutting. The knife was wrested from Judge Brady by F. R. McNaughton who came from the apartment house, according to the sheriff. Brady sustained a cut on one of his fingers.

Miss Highsmith never spoke after receiving the knife wounds and had not regained consciousness when she died an hour later in a hospital, Sheriff White stated. He said she had three knife wounds in her body.

Brady was formerly Travis county attorney, having served in that capacity when the state of Texas recovered approximately $3,000,000 from the Waters-Pierce Oil Corporation, representing penalties for its alleged violation of anti-trust laws. He had also served as an assistant attorney general. He received his degree from the University of Texas in 1896.

He refused to see visitors in his cell in the county jail, although Mrs. Brady visited him soon after he was arrested. Sam Dickens, his attorney, appealed to Brady's friends to withhold judgment in his case until all the facts were available.

Dickens said Judge Brady had no knowledge of the tragedy, nor of events immediately preceding it, and was shocked when apprised of the homicide and that he had been charged with murder.

Dickens said that Brady had attended the Texas-Baylor football game and later had been with friends who were drinking.

Dickens said that the only recollection Judge Brady had of the events of last night was that "he had had an encounter with a number of people somewhere."

McNaughton, who was the first to reach Judge Brady after the stabbing, said he had come down stairs to answer the telephone, and he heard Judge Brady speak to Miss Highsmith as he came through the door.

"They stood on the porch and talked just like any other man and woman quarreling," McNaughton said. "When I heard a scream I ran out on the porch. Judge Brady did not say anything when I took the knife."

A. B. Highsmith, the dead woman's father, resides in Houston, but had gone for a week-end fishing trip on the coast somewhere and had not been located today, according to officers.

WORK OF THE CHURCH OF CHRIST.

The very cold weather prevented the ladies meeting for Bible Study Tuesday. We trust the weather will be more pleasant next Tuesday. The class will meet with Mrs. J. B. Foster.

There hasn't been a definite decision for a location for the church building. However, two or three lots have been selected to choose from.

Automatic refrigerators have reached a high state of efficiency all right, but they won't be perfect until you can persuade one to hurry out and get some more before the delicatessen life.

ECHOES FROM SCHOOL PLATEAU

The Office.

Reports that there have been only ten new pupils this week. Many of the old pupils are out picking cotton and dreading cold weather. Attendance is light this week, a fact for which bus drivers are not sorry, as it is an almost impossible task to haul in heavy loads on some of our muddy roads. There are two or three roads on which wiregaps are placed much to the discomfort and inconvenience of drivers and children. Some roads run over lakes that fill with water and make impassable barriers when there is heavy rain. Those whose children must cross these gaps and lakes should take up the matter with their county commissioner and see if something can be done to relieve conditions before delay causes sickness to run rife from exposure.

The high school has, with the consent of the student body, gone into a new system of government. The detention room, as a means of punishment, and the "beat" have been discarded for the demerit system. This system is in general use in all the better schools of the country, or at least in a great majority of them. Schools like Plainview, Amarillo, Lubbock and others too numerous to mention use the system and find it suitable to high school pupils and high school needs. The explanation of the system is posted in every class room of the high school and in the principal's office. A maximum number of demerits bars a pupil from attendance until his father or guardian can bring him into the school and discuss care of the pupil with principal or superintendent. This will obviate any exposure in bad weather by being on the "beat" and any restlessness from detention. If your child comes home, and return him as soon as convenient and take up his condition with the principal, who will be glad to assist in every way in getting the pupil straightened out in his work again. However, wilful truancy will be corrected by sending home immediately, taking up his books before he goes out and cutting him loose from affiliation with the school. His only recourse will be to bring in a father and see what can be done about his reinstatement. The above corrective measures are intended to keep parents informed as to attitude of his children where the attitude needs a change, and to remove other causes and needs of corrective measures.

Sophomore Class.

The sophomores have been having a speaking contest, in each section, and this contest has produced the following winners: Class A, Ida Rene Crain, Ruby Cunningham and Bernice Holt. Class B, Lenora Payne, Wayne Wilkins and Leonard Payne.

Pep Squad.

The pep squad has had no meeting the past week. There have been too many other interests just before Armistice, and we have been too busy, but we are just as loyal to our interests as we have ever been. We had hoped to sell tickets to our yearbook program promoted by the football boys for Wednesday evening, but the advance tickets have failed to appear, so we can not do that. Still, we are expecting all loyal supporters of the school to attend the program. One third of the proceeds go to assist the football boys in paying for their sweaters. They will need these garments, and they will appreciate the letter on them. These awards are made to athletes all over our country. Many schools provide for them in their budgets. Others go before their people and public support for the athletes and other victors. In our school it has never been a custom to do this, permitting the boys to buy their own equipment. Since that is the custom here, the only thing our people can do is to back the boys by attending.

Our coach and sponsor, Miss Trantham, has decided to divide the squad into two groups for the play-off between senior-freshman and junior-sophomore groups this week. That will give each team support. We hope to have these games this week so the boys can start in on their basketball.

In basketball we are going to be severely handicapped because we have no gymnasium. There will be a strong possibility that we shall have few or no games at home, since nearly all other schools in reach of us except Amherst and Spring Lake have indoor courts and can get all their games indoors. This being a fact, we shall have to meet them away from home, as schools that have equipped themselves with these needed improvements refuse to endanger the health of their athletes by placing them on outdoor courts when they are unaccustomed to the exposure.

Our basketball girls' coach, Miss Runnels, is now working to provide her group with a schedule of games. She hopes to have two or three in December, the others in January and early February. The basketball season ends the middle of February. Then track and field training for the county interscholastic meet begins, and everything in our activities will be changed. The pep squad is asking the officers to report next week on the play requirements for all Texas schools next year. On that date the new law requiring physical training will go into effect, and we want to be advised what its requirements will be so we may be prepared to take advantage of it.

Faculty Visiting Over Armistice.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins, accompanied by Wayne and Neal attended the football game between Artesia and Portales Armistice.

Miss Louise Kirk spent the week-end with home folks at Plainview.

Miss Lucille Jordan visited in Lubbock during the week-end.

Miss Hazel Reeves and Miss Anna Maye Bowlin visited with their parents in Lubbock during the week-end.

Miss Evelyn Taylor visited with her parents in Clovis during the week-end and holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Herren and Douglas went to Portales Monday and brought back several dozen of eggs and a bushel or two of potatoes.

Mr. R. E. Duckworth spent the week-end and holiday at the home of Mr. Lyle.

Man Shoots Wife, Kills Self, Near Borger

Pair Had Separated. Tragedy Follows Attempt at Reconciliation.

BORGER, Nov. 7.—Jim Farthing, 29, is dead and Mrs. Virgie Farthing, 26, his estranged wife, is in a hospital not expected to live as result of a shooting late today at Phillips, an oil company community, two miles north of Borger.

The shooting followed an attempt today of Farthing to get his wife to live with him. Mrs. J. A. Swinnea, the woman's mother, said.

Farthing took lunch with his wife and her parents today, then returned with her and her mother to his wife's residence, in the rear of a barber shop.

Jury Out Little More Than Hour; Verdict Is Found on Third Ballot.

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 8.—R. H. Hamilton tonight was acquitted of murder for slaying his 21-year-old son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., in Hamilton's Amarillo law office last May 4.

The verdict was reached on the third ballot, the first being eight for acquittal, the second eleven to one. J. E. Whitsett, the only juror not a farmer, was the foreman.

Hamilton was not in the court room when the verdict was read. District Judge J. E. Carier did not demand his presence since the verdict was one of acquittal.

Less than two score persons were in the court room when the verdict was read.

The jury returned to the court room one hour and 49 minutes after leaving, and the verdict was read one hour and 46 minutes after consideration of the case was begun.

The verdict in the Hamilton case brought to a close one of the most colorful murder cases tried in Texas in the last decade.

The case attracted much publicity because of the prominence of the man accused of murder and the facts revealed immediately after the shooting. The man Hamilton slew was his son-in-law, who married Hamilton's daughter Theresa, then 17, while they were students in the University of Texas.

Theresa and Walton were first-year students. Theresa was pledged to her sister's sorority, Gamma Phi Beta, while Walton was what is called a "barbarian" or non-fraternity man.

When Walton was killed he and Theresa had been married nearly two months. They eloped from Austin to Georgetown, a county seat nearby, got a marriage license and were married by an Austin justice of the peace on February 10. Immediately after the shooting Hamilton denied he knew they were married. At an habeas corpus hearing he was released on $20,000 bond.

The Amarillo newspapers, where the killing occurred, gave such mapped-out plans for a whirlwind campaign to secure the routing of an all-southern trans-continental air mail line at a conference here today.

Special efforts were made to induce Assistant Postmaster General Irwin Glover to make a personal survey of the all-southern route from Mobile to El Paso, via New Orleans, Lake Charles, Houston and San Antonio.

The trial here opened October 28. A jury was selected by the next evening.

There followed a startling story of events before and during the shooting. Two persons, besides the defendant, testified as eye witnesses.

One was J. W. Burks, an Amarillo real estate operator, and the other was Florence Hendricks, secretary in Hamilton's office, and a daughter of his law partner, Harry Hendricks.

Hamilton, a former assistant attorney general of Texas, and one time member of the Texas supreme court commission of appeals, said he shot Walton because he feared for his own life. He testified that he carried a pistol before the shooting because of threats Walton had made against him and that when he saw Walton he drew his pistol from his belt and there ensued a "mortal battle over that pistol."

"I was the stronger and Tom Walton was shot," Hamilton said. The threats, most of them, allegedly were made while Theresa was in an Austin hospital during the latter part of April recovering from an appendicitis operation.

Mrs. Hamilton, with her daughter, refused to let Hamilton see the girl, and wrote Hamilton several threats the youth had made, the defense claimed. The state attacked authenticity of the letters with a hand writing expert who said the enclosures were not, in some instances, written with the same pen as the envelopes were addressed.

The two eye witnesses, as did the defendant, said Hamilton and Watson struggled throughout the time five shots were being fired from Hamilton's nickel-plated .44 calibre pistol. Four of the shots struck Walton, one on the left side of the neck, two in the right shoulder, and a fourth in the lower abdomen. The state's contention was that the shot that struck Walton's neck was the first and that the powder blinded him.

the youth running about the room attempting to get away from Hamilton.

The state vigorously attempted to impeach the testimony of the eye witnesses, and a statement Burks made before the grand jury was introduced.

The defense was represented by an imposing array of lawyers, seven in number, while five waged the state's battle. One of the latter was employed with money from a fund raised in Amarillo for a special prosecutor.

Theresa did not take the stand. She was, however, sworn in as a witness the first day of the trial and compelled to stay outside the court room until arguments began.

THE PARK PROJECT.

It is gratifying that state officials and representatives from over the Panhandle will inspect Palo Duro canyon today. For, no one can see this beautiful canyon strip running for almost 100 miles southeast across the Panhandle without appreciating its possibilities for a state playground. The inspection party will conclude its trip tonight with the realization that West Texas is overlooking a mighty good bet in not developing Palo Duro canyon into a state park.

The immediate problem, and the one that presents greatest obstacles of the whole project, is the acquisition of the land. The state has no funds with which to buy the property. To raise money by public subscription would be a slow and tedious undertaking. Yet, there can be no definite work done toward making a park out of the canyon until the land is made available.

Doubtless numerous plans have suggested themselves to the minds of Secretary D. E. Colp and the other officials of the park board. But one solution obvious to all would be the gift of tracts in the heart of the canyon from present land-owners. It may be possible that numerous land-owners are waiting for someone to make a start in this direction.—Amarillo Daily News.

PLAN DRIVE TO ROUTE NEW AIR LINE IN SOUTH

HOUSTON, Nov. 7.—Representatives from nine southern cities mapped out plans for a whirlwind campaign to secure the routing of an all-southern trans-continental air mail line at a conference here today.

Special efforts were made to induce Assistant Postmaster General Irwin Glover to make a personal survey of the all-southern route from Mobile to El Paso, via New Orleans, Lake Charles, Houston and San Antonio.

Giant Air Battleship to Be Built in U. S.

Will Be 785 Feet Long, 146 Feet High, and Equipped to Carry Five Airplanes.

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Zeppelins were viewed as great instruments toward peace by air authorities of national note here today at the ceremony of laying the ring of the super-air battleship ZRS-4.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, and Paul V. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation of Akron, visualized new and speedier trans-oceanic air travel by larger Zeppelins to be built in the future.

Moffett riveted the golden spike into the huge central supporting ring of the airship ZRS-4 today to signalize the beginning of construction of what is to be the world's largest airship, a floating battleship.

The ZRS-4 will be 785 feet long, 146 feet high and will have nearly twice the capacity of the Graf Zeppelin for lifting gas. The ship will be equipped with five air-planes for purposes of defense in time of war.

Stocks Crash to New Ruin: Senator Borah Proposes Senate Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Investigation of the Stock Exchange to determine the cause of the recent crash in prices was proposed today by Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of Republican independents, in answer to a charge of some bankers that the Democratic-Republican coalition majority in the senate on the tariff bill was responsible for the condition.

Senator Borah suggested the investigation in a statement replying to a speech by Fred I. Kent, director and former vice president of the Bankers Trust Company of New York attributing the stock market situation to the activities of the coalition in the senate.

"We are simply endeavoring," said Senator Borah, "to establish the principle of equality in the protective system as between agriculture and industry. If equality under the protective system shakes the stock exchange to the earth, let it go. An institution which gets frightened because agriculture is making an honest fight for existence is not worth preserving. But that is not what was the matter with the stock exchange, and likely Mr. Kent knows more than he wants to tell."

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—A fresh collapse in stock prices today sent nearly 300 issues on the New York Stock Exchange crashing to new low levels for the year.

Net declines in scores of active stocks ranged from $2 to nearly $20 a share, with a few inactive specialties down $25 to $100 a share.

So great was the volume of trading that the stock exchange (A. K. E. R.) did not stop running until 2 hours and 12 minutes after the three-hour session had ended. The day's sales were 6,452,700 shares, as contrasted with 3,397,150 yesterday.

The market closed with most stocks at or near the day's low levels, offering little hope that the flood of liquidation which has wiped out many billions of dollars in quoted values since the first bad break of October 24 had run its course.

SNOW AND RAIN OVER PORTIONS OF WEST TEXAS

The most severe attack of the winter was felt in the Texas Panhandle and other portions of West Texas Friday, a cold, north wind bringing with it both snow and rain.

Much of the Panhandle and North Plains was covered with snow for the first time this season, the temperature ranging around freezing at most points.

Four inches of snow fell at Perryton with two inches at Dimmitt and Pampa and an inch at Borger. Rain fell at McCamey, Perryton, Vernon, Quanah, Munday, San Angelo, Ballinger, Abilene, Dimmitt, Wellington, Slaton, Bartlett, Big Spring and Lubbock.

Cotton picking had to be halted in some sections.

B. Y. P. U.

Wednesday night, Nov. 7, the executive committee met for a general business meeting, deciding on the following points: To buy a blackboard for general reports; a program committee was elected, Lillie Mae Carruth being chairman; it was agreed that we have a general assembly meeting once each month, and an individual meeting of each B. Y. P. U. also once a month.

The executive meeting thought it best for a committee to be in cooperation with the W. M. U., so a committee composed of Ada Carruth as chairman, Mrs. Harvey as representative of the Adult B. Y. P. U., Calvin Whitner as intermediate representative, were elected. This committee and the W. M. U. are planning on giving the Rev. Cal a reception.

A motion was made and seconded that we put before the church the proposal of sending a representative to the B. Y. P. U. convention at Longview, Texas.

It was suggested that we have B. Y. P. U. meeting on Wednesday after the first Sunday in January.

Forrest Weimhold of Sudan, and Gus Clark of Littlefield, the Fortunate Contestants.

For efficient work and notable achievement in 4-H Club work, two Lamb county boys, Forrest Weimhold of Sudan, and Gus Clark of Littlefield, have been awarded the trip to the National 4-H Club Congress which meets in Chicago next month. Forrest goes as guest of the Santa Fe Railway, and Gus as guest of Armour and Company.

The contests in which these young men were winners were promoted by the Extension Service, A. & M. College, and the Lamb county work was under the supervision of County Agent D. A. Adam.

These young men were winners over many contestants over the entire state of Texas. The awards are for superiority in 4-H Club projects. Forrest chose for his project, poultry. His reports show a high efficiency, close application and keen judgment of all phases of the subject. His report, summarized, shows a net profit of $294.52 from 3200 Buff and White Orpington eggs set and hatched, this net return being realized during the summer and fall seasons.

Gus Clark of Littlefield, who captured the Armour and Company award, chose as his project baby beef, his report showing a net profit of $24.53 on a Hereford grade calf that gained nearly 2 1/2 pounds daily for six months at a cost of 5 1/2 cents a pound.

Of the 20 awards in this 4-H Club work, five were from the Panhandle-Plains section of Texas. This is a showing of which the entire Panhandle-Plains should be proud.

The three other Panhandle-Plains award winners were: J. O. Hobbs, Meadow, Terry county, net profit of $174.65 on Poland-China brood sow and two litters; Everett Cook, Bushland, Potter county, net profit of $159.17 on Duroc-Jersey brood sow and three litters; John L. Vaughn, Abernathy, Lubbock county, net profit of $600.74 from 172 turkeys, raised from 14 turkey hens.

Much of the credit for the outstanding success of Lamb county in 4-H Club work is due our hustling county agent, D. A. Adam. Mr. Adam has been untiring in his labors with the youngsters under his guidance, and has shown peculiar ability in assigning each to the project for which he was best fitted, and in advice and instruction in the successful putting over of each project. In this as in other phases of agriculture, Mr. Adam has been carving out for himself a name and reputation that all may respect. We shall hear much of Adam in the years to come in Texas agriculture.

STORE AT HULL ROBBED OF COMPLETE STOCK OF GOODS

BEAUMONT, Texas, Nov. 8.—Thieves broke into the S. N. Abraham store at Hull Wednesday night and robbed it of practically the complete stock of dry goods and clothing, according to officers here, who received word of the robbery.

The front door was battered down and all racks, shelves and counters swept clear of merchandise which apparently was hauled away in trucks.

Mr. Abraham was asleep at his home less than twenty-five feet away. He valued the stolen goods at $4,000.

OLTON 4-H CLUB.

Miss Mashburn, Home Demonstration Agent of Lamb county, met with us October 25 to organize a 4-H club here at Olton. She met with us the following Monday to elect officers. The following were elected: President, Pearl Brigrance; vice-president, Ruth Owen; secretary and treasurer, Louise McGarock; club reporter, Don Willis; yell leader, Jewel Dennis; song leader, Nina Mae Bailey, and sponsor, Miss Neva Erb.

We named our club "The Sunshine 4-H Club." We had a wonderful time both meetings.

There were about 30 girls present. Being no further business, our meeting adjourned until our next meeting, which will be some time in November.

THE AMERICAN CREED

"I believe in the United States of America and the principles of freedom, justice, equality and humanity upon which it was founded and for which American Patriots have given their lives and fortunes."
"I believe it is my duty towards my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; and to defend it against all enemies."

Any erroneous reflection upon the character or reputation of any person, company or corporation which may appear in these columns will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

"BOOST OR MOVE."

UP TO THE FARMERS THEMSELVES.

Whether or not the Federal Farm Board accomplishes the objective aimed at in its creation, will be a matter squarely up to the farmers themselves.

In the first place, the legislation creating the board was unfortunately labeled "farm aid." The term smacks of charity, and is obnoxious to many. The farmer is one of the last persons on earth to ask or accept charity. He is independent—too independent. It would appear, in many respects—as witness the reluctance with which he is persuaded to align himself with the various cooperative organizations proposing to aid him in his struggle to realize fair prices for his products. The farm legislation would better have been labeled something like "agricultural equalization"—for that is really its objective.

But, as we started to say, the success of the board is squarely up to the farmers themselves. The board has made it plain to all that the only way to obtain this assistance is through the farmers' cooperative associations. But the crucial question on which hinges the success or failure is: Will enough producers enter the cooperatives to enable those organizations to hold the balance of power in the markets? If so, then all will be plain sailing, once the organizations get well to functioning under the fostering care of the Farm Board. But unless a much larger per cent of the farmers than in the past, align themselves with the cooperatives, it needs no prophet to predict the outcome as failure. Prices of all commodities are controlled by the relation of supply to demand. The large dealers and speculators in any commodity have too much sense to dump the entire supply on the market when that market is weak. But that is exactly what many farmers do—at harvest time. Heretofore many thousands of farmers have been unable to do otherwise. They were financially unable to hold for a stronger demand and a better price.

It is this condition which the Farm Board proposes to remedy, by enabling any producer to realize on his farm products a large per cent of their value, and at the same time by holding those products off of a weak or falling market, tend to stiffen the demand to normal.

The average American farmer does not expect or desire exorbitant prices for his products. But he does want fair prices—prices on a parity with other commodities. In the past, these have never been realized—except on rare occasions. It has heretofore been "every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost" to reach the market. The Farm Board proposes to change this, and force the market to come to the farmers. We all know how the market often soars, once the bulk of a commodity has left the hands of the producers. This is because the products are in the hands of men with the sense and the means to hold until the demand is strong enough to warrant them in turning loose.

Will the farmers of the country work with the Farm Board? Or will they "wild-cat" it as heretofore and keep the markets always depressed until their products have reached the hands of those who are able to hold till the time is ripe to turn loose? This question can only be answered by the willingness of the farmers to work along with the cooperative marketing associations, as only through these does the Farm Board propose to function.

AN APPALING RECORD.

Appalling indeed is the statement made in the latest report of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce that during the month of August there were killed in motor car accidents in this country 2,830 persons, or 91 a day. This is the highest record of the kind in the history of the nation, and it is one to give pause to the least sensitive.

At the present rate of automobile slaying the year 1929 will have a record not much short of 30,000 fatalities. If that many people were slain in a year in battle we should be setting apart a day for mourning. The toll of the motor car is so terrible in the United States and is so constant that we have become dulled to it. And as it stands these killings seem to be all in the day's news and taken for granted. Only when the accident strikes near home, do we rise up in protest.

STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN!

Last year more than 25 per cent of all railroad grade crossing accidents resulted from automobiles running into trains, either standing or in motion. The increase in such accidents was several times greater, when compared with 1927, than the increase in accidents covered by trains striking cars. The railroads are spending millions for safety devices, but careless or stupid drivers keep on trying to beat the trains to the crossing.

In motor car, a good turn always deserves a signal.

THE UGLIES.

The billboard's place is not along a public highway where it interferes with the natural zeality of the countryside. In California the Standard Oil Co. is leading in an effort to abolish the billboards and advertising. In that state all this company's billboards have been removed. Millions of dollars of public money are being spent in this country to build highways, but so far these highways are being built for utility only. A small additional expense and a few intelligent laws regulating billboards and providing for trees and grass would change these unadorned concrete slabs into a beautiful setting.

THE KRAUT RECORD.

Looks as though another heroic mark has been hung up. Press dispatches tell of a Minnesota man who recently ate 15 pounds of sauer kraut in 15 minutes. Any person who has dabbled in this delicacy will know that to put away a pound of kraut a minute for an indefinite period is a big task. Those who take their kraut for medicinal purposes would say this was an overdose.

FARM TRUST ON HIGH.

The Farmers' Trust Co. is putting up a 72-story building in New York and the high point will be 925 feet above the pavement. This will put the blink on the Woolworth building, which was the tallest stand in Gotham. Maybe this new building is some of the farmers' relief they have been talking about.

OUR GAMBLING TOTAL.

(Amarillo Daily News.)
More than 4 billion dollars changes hands through commercialized gambling in the United States each year and this is withdrawn from the channels of legitimate business and industry, according to a survey made by Howard McLellan, investigator and writer for the North American Review.

The sums handled by gamblers in either New York or Chicago will far exceed those won or lost in the world's most famous center of legalized gambling, Monte Carlo. McLellan asserts in the current issue of the magazine, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Kansas City, St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit and Washington are close rivals of Monte Carlo in their gambling activities, he asserts.

McLellan's itemized tabulation of the nation's gambling bill is as follows:
Baseball pools, 500 million dollars; policy games (lotteries based on daily totals of bank clearings and other daily figures), 300 million; racetrack betting, 1 billion; handbook betting on races, 8 million; cards, dice and similar games of chance, 1 billion; bucket shops, 500 million.

The figures, arrived at through an examination of court room testimony in local gambling investigations, a study of income tax figures, police court records, books of the leading race tracks, and other authoritative sources, represent an underestimate, since they exclude many minor gambling activities, McLellan states.

THE PARTL STILL LIVES.

(The Dallas Morning News.)
Sixty thousand is a normal majority for the Democrats of Virginia in a presidential year. Davis beat Coolidge by that much, with a little over. Cox bested Harding by 54,000. In 1916 Wilson carried Virginia over Hughes by 53,000. With that as a background, you can interpret the returns reported out of Richmond in the race between John G. Pollard and William Moseley Brown. Pollard is the Democrat, and Brown is the Hoover-Democrat-Republican. Pollard wins by anywhere from 53,000 majority on up.

The answer is that Virginia is still a Democratic state. Bishop Cannon is but an incident—a closed incident for the time being. Virginia didn't vote for Hoover any more than Texas did. Virginia merely voted against Al Smith. If Al Smith ran again tomorrow he would probably lose in Virginia. Whether the margin of his defeat would be greater or less is a question.

It is highly probable that a wet who is not a Catholic would carry either Texas or Virginia on a regular Democratic ticket in a presidential year. The News believes that a Catholic who is not a wet could carry either state under like circumstances. But a man who is both a Catholic and a wet is unacceptable to a majority of southern Democrats, and the party as a whole might as well be frank enough to face that fact. Pollard, of course, was Protestant and himself dry.

A CONVICT COMES BACK.

(The Shamrock Texan.)
As between the conflicting schools of thought with respect to the treatment of convicted criminals it is hard to judge which is right. One school believes in the "eye for an eye" doctrine, while another would seek to reform the convict through lenient measures.

The truth probably is that there should be no hard and fast rule. Some convicts can be reformed; others can not. Each individual presents a special problem. But what we started to relate is the case of one John D. Edwards, convicted in Alabama of assault with intent to murder and paroled after serving over two years of a 15-year sentence.

Shortly after being paroled, Edwards obtained employment as a life insurance salesman. In 13 months he sold $1,250,000 in policies. The company considers him its most efficient business producer and is trying to obtain for him a full pardon. In this effort many citizens of the state have joined.

To an unprejudiced observer it would appear that Edwards has made a remarkable come-back, which should entitle him to be restored to citizenship and a place of usefulness in the world.

Morton

(Cochran County News.)

Sunday, the writer took a drive to Dora, N. M., and was advised that the grading from Elida through Dora, would be started Monday morning and the entire road, known as the Lubbock-Morton-Elida-Portales Highway, would be completed to the New Mexico line where they join Cochran county.

Westbrook-Slaughter well No. 1, three miles southwest of Morton, is drilling at 2675 feet Wednesday evening. The drilling is still being continued with a rotary, and it is the opinion of Field Supt. R. R. Murph, that they will be able to go 3,000 feet or better before changing to the standard rig.

Practically all of the lots and acreage in the West Side Addition to Morton have been sold. This tract was formerly a part of the G. H. Mathews farm.

Housing conditions were so congested one night last week, that late arrivals were forced to seek the corridors of the court house for a night's lodging. Fortunately these parties were wise enough to bring along bedding, and with the warm comfortable quarters they fared very well.

Samuel Dauba and son, of Ardmore, Okla., were Morton visitors Tuesday. Mr. Dauba is the senior member of the firm of Westheimer-Dauba, chain store merchants, and are owners of a twelve thousand acre ranch west of Morton.

Levelland

(Hockley County Herald.)

The large sales of land which are being reported by all the land companies operating in this country, forecasts the largest influx of new settlers in this region since the phenomenal immigration of 1925. While each year has witnessed the arrival of from two hundred to two hundred and fifty families, it is conservatively predicted that the arrivals this year will reach the neighborhood of five hundred. Quite a number have already moved here, which is an unusual movement this early in the season.

While it has been reported that the Lehman oil well flowed by heads for a period of about two days, after the damaged casing was repaired following the last shot of nitro-glycerin, the production is yet undetermined.

A number of citizens met at the court house Thursday evening and perfected the organization of a body, the purpose of which is to collect funds and minister to the charitable needs of the community.

A gin is now being constructed at Pettit, fifteen miles northwest of town.

A meeting important to all cotton growers living in the Sundown community has been called for Saturday night, Nov. 9. Plans will be outlined by which it will be possible to locate a gin at Sundown before the next crop season.

The Department of Agriculture has issued a bulletin on how to make wet cellar dry. Why, Department, how could you!—Schednady Union-Star.

There are many ways of advertising, but nothing has been found yet to equal the cold type of the newspaper.

Reports From Extension Department Work

Woman Wins Top Litter Contest Medal

BODIAS—Believed to be the first woman in Texas to successfully finish the state ton litter contest, Mrs. Maggie Shanks, Grimes county demonstrator working with County Agent W. I. Ross has made a litter of 10 grade Duroc Jersey pigs weigh 2383 pounds at the age of five months. For this feat of quickly producing the ideal size hog according to packer standards she will receive a medal and perhaps other prizes awarded by a leading Texas farm journal. Mrs. Shanks fed her pigs a balanced ration of corn meal, protein supplement and a little skim milk in the ratio of two parts corn meal to one part protein supplement. They were fed in a creep and ran with the sow until they were weaned at 50 days, when they weighed 412 pounds. Every ten days Mrs. Shanks weighed the litter and on the 130th day the ton mark was reached. At 140 days the pigs averaged 225 pounds each, considered the ideal packer size.

It cost $35.52 to feed the sow until the pigs were weaned, Mrs. Shanks says, and $133.22 to feed the pigs from weaning time until they were sold at the pen for meat purposes for $212.95. The cost of live weight of these pigs when sold was slightly more than 7 cents per pound which is considered economical production. Her net profit above feed cost amounted to $44.21.

Feeding Explains This Poultry Profit

BIG SPRING—A net return of 30 cents per hen from 50 White Leghorns fed a modified "Big Five" ration has been obtained by Earl Phillips, Howard county poultry demonstrator. Ground milo maize was substituted for ground oats in the ration which consisted of 200 pounds ground milo, 100 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds wheat shorts, 70 pounds meat scraps, 50 pounds cottonseed meal, and 2½ pounds salt. Green feed was kept before the flock at all times.

Finds Manure Profitable

COLORADO—Barn yard manure has increased the yield of milo maize 525 pounds per acre in a demonstration carried on by Carroll Smith of the Buford 4-H club in Mitchell county. Half an acre was left unfertilized and the other half covered with five loads of about 1000 pounds of well rotted manure, applied before bedding last spring. Pure lino maize seed was used on both plots. The manured half fired more during the 90-day drouth but yielded 1249 pounds of heads against 997 pounds on the half acre unfertilized. The land was deep sandy loam.

Howe Grown Dairy Rations

BEAUMONT—C. T. Heisig, dairy farmer at Hampshire in Jefferson county, has secured a mill for grinding his own feed and plans to grind the product of 155 acres of hegari, peanuts, soy beans and cow peas as a basis for home grown and home mixed dairy rations.

Rugs Cheaply Made

COLEMAN—A rug worth $10 or $12 has been made for 40 cents by Mrs. F. Hamilton, who wove it out of burlap furniture shipping covering free from a store. The dye cost 30 cents and thread 10 cents. Another home demonstration club woman taking part in the Coleman county rug campaign is Mrs. S. A. Moore, who has made a wool rug out of old trousers at a cost of 12 cents for thread.

Native Plants Add Charm to Kerr County Homes

KERRVILLE—Native shrubs have played a prominent part in the four-year yard improvement contest in Kerr county in which 102 home yards were beautified, 46 of them being entered in the contest. The work has been done by home demonstration club women aided by Miss Veta Culpepper, home agent, and in cooperation with local civic and commercial organizations.

Such evergreens as cedar, agarta berry and mountain laurel were used in this Kerr county landscaping, and other native shrubs including redbud, buckeye, and sumac were also transplanted from the woods. Honeysuckle and many kinds of cactus were used.

Rock walks, fences, porches, columns and steps were built in many places out of the beautiful native rock that abounds in Hill county, illustrating the beauty and economy of using material that is at hand.

The total cost as given by the 46 contestants amounts to about $800, not counting the time of friends or the family, nor of material on hand. No records were kept on the other yards improved as a result of the contest.

COOPER—A Delta county club girl has reported to Miss Anna Mae Russell, home demonstration agent, a net profit of $176.78 for her year's work. She is Malvin Whitaker, and $154.83 of her income was from a flock of White Leghorns raised from chicks this year. She now has 40 pullets and four cockerels on hand. Canning brought this girl an additional $21.45 and sewing $9.50.

LUBBOCK.—Nearly $100 was made the past season by Lura Barton, second-year 4-H club girl, from Grovesville in Lubbock county. In her report to Miss Louise Baird, home agent, Lura shows net profits of $35.59 on her poultry flock, $37.20 on canning from her garden, and has done $8 worth of sewing for herself, as well as improved the home to the extent of $10.75. In last spring's bed room improvement contest for club girls, in this county, Lura won first place among 49 entries.

Texas Breeder-Feeder Movement Is Started

Approximately 400 Texans gathered in Dallas for a banquet during the State Fair to analyze the success of the first feeder cattle show ever held in Texas and to further the work of the Texas Breeder-Feeder Association that was organized this fall at Midland.

Six hundred head of feeder cattle were shown by Texas breeder, and later sold to Texas farmers, who will feed the stock out to market on Texas feed.

This is a movement that all Texas, and especially the South Plains section will benefit greatly from, and should be vitally interested in.

The aims of the Breeder-Feeder Association are not to over sell or over develop farm feeding on an unsound basis. From the farmer's standpoint the object is mainly to make a rotation possible and profitable, so that his cotton yields may be increased, his remaining acreage made profitable and that he may profitably utilize a great deal of time that is now idle and unprofitable between harvest and planting.

From the breeder's standpoint the object is to find a market for feeder animals nearer home and to keep Texas money in Texas.

Those at the banquet expressed confidence in their opinion that many farmers who this year did not have sufficient feed to enter the feeding program are planning their plantings for 1930 to provide for taking on the project next fall.

With the range section of Texas and New Mexico around the South Plains, and with an abundance of feed produced here, this feeding at home program has been practiced to some extent for a number of years; however, there is much room for additional feeding.

Approximately ten thousand head of cattle were fed for market in feeding pens adjacent to the city of Lubbock last year in addition to thousands over the section.

With all this feeding, however, there are thousands of head of cattle still going to the corn belt to be finished and there are thousands of car loads of feed produced here being shipped out on a low market. This Texas Breeder-Feeder Association will help encourage the feeding of more stock in Texas and should be given every possible support by Texans.—The Hub (Lubbock).

Lamb county is doing her part, and then some, toward this end. In addition to those animals that are fed out on the various farms, there has recently been located by Whaley Feed and Grain Company at Sudan, feeding pens to accommodate some ten thousand head of feeder stock, and these are being extended and will be made to accommodate 100,000 head eventually. There are now in the pens being fed upwards of 2,000 head of cattle and sheep, and the company has recently installed in Sudey a mammoth feed mill to supply the demands of the surrounding country, as well as the company. This has created in Sudan a splendid market for all grain sorghums. Yes, Lamb county is doing her part in the breeder-feeder movement.

Sam Houston Home To Be Preserved

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 11.—Fear over the constant danger which surrounds the historic homestead of General Sam Houston was expressed here this week by Lynch Davidson, former Lieutenant Governor of Texas.

In a statement made here by Mr. Davidson he made a plea that immediate steps be taken to preserve the Houston home and other valuable shrines from the destructive elements of time and peril of fire. His statement supports completely the stand taken recently by Judge Tom McCullough of Dallas who recommended that all the historic points of interest in the state should be protected against dangers and defended for the generations to come.

Both Mr. Davidson and Judge McCullough are members of the Texas Historical Society, whose duty it is to encourage widespread interest in the historic spots consecrated to the memory of the early builders of Texas.

One plan to guard the old Houston homestead was to keep watchmen on the spot day and night. Another plan advanced is to shield the shrine against danger of conflagration by a protection of structural tile or some other effective fireproofing material.

Mr. Davidson, in his statement, said in part: "General Houston's life is the life of Texas and the history of Texas."

"Our patriotism would measure very small did we not pay tribute to his memory in every respect possible, and certainly his old homestead should be made a shrine at which each coming generation could renew and invigorate their patriotism."

It is believed that once the general public can be encouraged to make General Houston's home a permanent shrine, other important historical buildings may be included in a state-wide movement of preservation for these priceless monuments.

Rehabilitation For Disabled Civilians

State Department of Education Will Fit Disabled Citizens for Gainful Occupations.

The Division of Vocational Education of the Texas State Department of Education has issued a folder explaining the purposes of the department to aid disabled civilians to obtain an education under the provisions of the newly created Vocational Educational Department.

The folder sets forth the following information:

Purpose.

It is the purpose of Vocational Rehabilitation to render aid to physically handicapped persons to fit them to engage in occupations which will make them self-supporting, thereby creating happiness and contentment among those individuals and families affected, reducing the number of those seeking charity, lowering county and state expenses for public charges, and checking social agitation and distress through proper social and economic methods.

Methods of Work.

Vocational Rehabilitation consists of three phases—advisement, training, and placement. The disabled person is counseled in the selection of a desirable vocation; then given training for the occupation selected and agreed upon in such manner that the trainee may use the information gained to follow his chosen vocation; and upon completion of his training every effort is made to place the rehabilitant in satisfactory employment. The placement in employment is followed up with careful, systematic regard for the ultimate success of the rehabilitation program.

Who Are Eligible.

To be eligible for rehabilitation one must:

1. Have a physical defect or infirmity, whether constitutional or acquired by accident, injury or disease.
2. Be totally or partially incapacitated for remunerative occupation.
3. Reasonably be expected to be fit to engage in a remunerative occupation after completing a rehabilitation course.
4. Be sixteen years of age or over. There is no upper age limit so long as rehabilitation is feasible.
5. Have been a bona fide resident of the state of Texas at the time the disability was incurred, or have lived in the state at least one year prior to time of making application for aid.

The disabled person may be male or female, and of any race.

Not Eligible.

1. Aged or helpless persons requiring permanent custodial care.
2. Epileptic or feeble-minded persons or any person who in the judgment of the state board of Vocational Education may not be susceptible of rehabilitation.

This work is for civilians and has no connection with the work being done by the Veterans' bureau for disabled ex-service men.

You can materially aid this great movement by reporting any disabled man or woman in your community. Action will be taken promptly upon receipt of your information.

Joint federal and state funds are available for defraying instructional expenses. These expenses include tuition, which may include books, laboratory fees, and any necessary individual equipment not furnished by the institution or shop giving training.

In no sense of the word is Vocational Rehabilitation a charity. It is as definite a part of the plan of public education as are our grammar schools, colleges and universities. For the highest development, state and nation have recognized the necessity of offering special training to incapacitated workers in order that they may fulfill their duties of citizenship, just as they have observed the need of educating every child so that he may fulfill his obligations as a citizen.

For further information, write J. J. Brown, Supervisor of Vocational Rehabilitation, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas.

Trees That Die

of Starvation

KENT, Ohio, Nov. 11.—Millions of trees are facing starvation and premature death as a result of the unusual weather conditions which prevailed during the past eight months in many sections of the country, according to Martin L. Davey, president of the Davey Tree Expert Co.

"Trees manufacture their food in their leaves," Davey said. "It is a slow process and months are required to produce enough food to keep the tree healthy throughout the year."

"Last spring was unusually cold and the leaves were about a month late in coming out. The food manufacturing process was retarded. Then came the drought—there was no rain to speak of in many sections for over two months. Without water, minerals from the soil and nitrogen from the air could not be converted into foods vital for plant life."

"Because of the drought, the leaves withered and fell this fall much earlier than usual."

"As a net result of the late spring, the drought, and the early falling of the leaves, the trees were able to store up only a fraction of the food required. Their vitality has been lowered; many have been so weakened that it is doubtful whether they can pull through to next summer."

The effects of the bad season can be counteracted, Davey said, by properly fertilizing the trees. This should be done before the ground freezes or as soon as it thaws in the spring, he stated.

Crop Estimate of 15,009,000 Bales Made

Estimates Put Total of Texas Production at 3,950,000 Bales. Ginnings Larger.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A cotton crop of 15,009,000 bales this year was forecast Friday by the Department of Agriculture.

A crop of 14,915,000 was forecast a month ago when the condition of the crop was reported as being 55 per cent of normal. The cotton crop of 1928 was 14,478,000 bales.

The indicated production by states follows:

- Virginia, 44,000.
- North Carolina, 760,000.
- South Carolina, 850,000.
- Georgia, 1,340,000.
- Florida, 30,000.
- Missouri, 210,000.
- Tennessee, 510,000.
- Alabama, 1,335,000.
- Mississippi, 1,950,000.
- Louisiana, 830,000.
- Texas, 3,950,000.
- Oklahoma, 1,225,000.
- Arkansas, 1,490,000.
- New Mexico, 86,000.
- Arizona, 157,000.
- California, 232,000.
- Others, 10,000.

The census bureau announced that 10,889,314 running bales of cotton of the 1929 crop, including 68,751 round bales counted as half bales, had been ginned prior to Nov. 1.

To Nov. 1 last year, a total of 10,162,482 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, had been ginned. In 1927 a total of 9,920,849 running bales, counting round bales as half bales had been ginned prior to Nov. 1.

Trails Quarry Half Way Around Globe

Texas Sheriff Trails Man to New Zealand for Offense Committed Thirteen Years Ago.

FORT WORTH.—The two-gun Texas sheriff, like the red-coated patrolman of the Canadian Northwest Mounted and the business-like detective of famous Scotland Yard, insists on "getting his man," no matter how long it takes.

Which is why A. B. Couch, former grain broker of the nearby city of Temple, Texas, is now in jail in Helensville, New Zealand, awaiting return to Texas for trial on an offense committed 13 years ago.

Thirteen years and 12,000 miles—ordinarily that would be enough time and space to put a man well beyond the reach of the law.

But Sheriff John R. Bingham of Bell county, Texas, who journeyed all the way to New Zealand to get Couch, is nemesis personified.

Couch disappeared in the spring of 1916.

Member of a prominent Bell county family, a college graduate and a capable business man, he had established himself as one of the leading grain brokers of Texas. One night he vanished from home, leaving letters to friends stating that he was disappearing forever, to begin life anew in a distant land.

After his departure, it was discovered that two Temple banks had been swindled out of $125,000 by forged bills of lading and other documents. These forgeries were laid at Couch's door.

They began the search—the 13-year search. Only recently came access.

In far away New Zealand a real estate man known as John Grey was found to be Couch. The fugitive broker had established himself in a pleasant town half way around the world from his former home.

Don't fool with medicine which cleans only PART of the bowels, but let Adlerika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel!—H. G. Ramby, Druggist.

Officer (addressing sergeant)—"There is a pile of rubbish over in Kosciusko street that ought to be hauled off."

Sergeant—"Very well, make your report."

Officer sits at his desk and nibbles the end of his pen for several minutes, then snatches his pen and makes a break for the door.

Officer (sheepishly)—"I'm going to drag that rubbish over into Maple avenue."—Christian Science Monitor.

In the Footsteps of Ben Webster

Why Not Establish an Egg Route and Get the Extra Profits That the Retailer Would Otherwise Enjoy?

Every owner of a fair sized poultry flock should either belong to a cooperative marketing association or be interested in the story of Ben Webster. Ben is a hustling, likeable young chap who purchased a run-down farm, stocked it with chickens, and is now attempting to make it pay by establishing a "direct to the user" egg business. Of course, he'll make a go of it, for the story runs true to the old Horatio Alger "Work and Win" formula. Nevertheless, if Ben were a real flesh and blood farmer, I am quite sure he would get there just the same.

I have observed a number of actual parallels to the popular Ben Webster story. None of them encountered such trials as Ben has had to overcome, but without exception, they found the egg route a profitable venture. And why not? If you take your eggs in one lot to one of the egg buyers or to some retail dealer, you know they are going to be resold at a profit of several cents a dozen over what you received for them. You can not only have that profit for your own but can actually demand a premium of from three to five cents a dozen over current store prices as a rule. It is being done by many "egg farmers" in various parts of the country and there is no reason why the plan will not work anywhere.

You can offer your customers at least three advantages over the ordinary farm run of eggs such as they usually get at grocery stores. First, you can guarantee that your eggs are infertile as no roosters are kept with your laying flock, hence your eggs will keep fresh much longer. Second, you can assure them that eggs are gathered twice a day so they are sure to be perfectly fresh. The third advantage is that you can keep your hens penned up so that there is no doubt about when eggs were laid. Eggs collected from hay-lofts or here and there about a farm may have been laid recently or they may not.

Should any patron object to paying your price, provided, of course that it is not out of reason, you may safely offer to let them try store eggs for a while. As a rule, your willingness to have them make this comparison will overcome their objections right then and there. Eggs produced under the conditions outlined above are bound to be better than those purchased through stores.

Before starting a business of this kind, be sure you have sufficient hens to make sure of having a year 'round supply of eggs for your year 'round customers. Not to have a constant supply at all times for your regular customers will hurt your business very much.

In addition to the egg business with its very acceptable extra profit feature, there are also dressed fowls to be reckoned with. They too will bring you a much higher price if sold over your route than if marketed in the usual manner. Here again, the assurance of a fresh product makes your offering more acceptable than that of the ordinary retailer. You will kill and dress fowls just before you start out to deliver them so they are sure to be in prime condition when delivered.

You have a very good medium for disposing of your extra cockerels and cull female stock and you do so at a profit considerably in excess of what you would realize by any other means. Just how much the increase will be depends on a number of conditions. I should consider it a conservative estimate, however, to say that as prices are at present, dressed birds sold in this way should bring you twenty-five to thirty-five cents more each than if sold in any other way.

It is therefore quite easy to see that, even though the egg route does entail more work than simply taking the week's collection to some retail dealer, the extra profit is more than likely to be worth the effort necessary to get it.

It would be an unusual community where plenty of customers could not be found. The chances are that a little investigation will reveal plenty of potential customers who will be glad to have you serve them. You may not be able to dispose of your entire output on your route at first, but by consistently offering a better service than others and a superior product, you will gradually build up a thriving business of satisfactory proportions.

Injunction to Halt Destruction of Ballots

Congressman McCloskey Claims Ballots Necessary to Vindicate Him in Election Contest.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7.—A temporary injunction against all county clerks in the Fourteenth congressional district, restraining them from destroying ballots cast in the general election one year ago, was granted Representative Augustus McCloskey, Democrat, in Thirty-seventh District Court.

The law requires that ballots be preserved one year, and the injunction was sought to prevent the clerks from disposing of the ballots now that the time set by law has expired.

In this election McCloskey received a 319 majority in the entire district, according to the vote count by the canvassing board, and was given the certificate of election by the state election board. The election has been contested in bitter fight during the past year and several months ago the defeated candidate, former Representative Harry W. Wurzbach, Republican, filed notice of contest in the House of Representatives.

McCloskey alleged in his answer to the notice that the only way to get a just decision was by an actual count of the ballots. Therefore, he has asked that they be preserved.

During the past year charges and counter-charges have been thrown back and forth between the two men, alleging irregularities and fraud.

Aid for Texas Cotton Bureau Gets Approval

Governor Moody Is Advised That Board Meets Requirements of the Act.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Secretary Christensen of the Federal Farm Board Friday telegraphed Governor Moody of Texas that the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association met requirements of the agricultural marketing act and that upon receipt of applications for loans the board would act without delay.

Governor Moody has asked the board to protect Texas cotton growers from losses, saying many farmers had held cotton with the understanding the board would make a loan to the Texas Farm Bureau which would assure advances of at least 16c on cotton raised by grower members.

The telegram said the board had acted promptly on every cotton loan application, in some cases transmitting funds by wire.

"The board," the telegram added, "regrets that the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association is not used more extensively by cotton growers, but is hopeful that growers will patronize co-operative associations more in the future."

The Federal Farm Board approved a loan of not exceeding $8,000,000 to the Staple Cotton Co-operative Association to supplement loans to that organization from other sources.

The loan will enable the association to make advances to its member growers on the 16c a pound basis and constituted a revision of a former loan of a small amount by the board.

The board also approved Carolina Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association at Raleigh, N. C., to supplement loans obtained from the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S. C.

The Oklahoma Cotton Growers' Association of Oklahoma City was loaned $5,000,000 to supplement advances from commercial banks.

A commodity loan of $500,000 made to the North Dakota-Montana Wheat Growers' Association of Grand Forks, N. D., was increased to $2,500,000, the maximum of a commodity loan, to supplement loans from the Intermediate Credit Bank at St. Paul.

D. A. ADAM, County Agent

During the past few days the county agent has been receiving a number of reports as to coyote damage to poultry in Lamb county, and the following are some of the losses reported: Martin White, 100 head; Mrs. Gregson, 50 per cent of flock; Mrs. L. D. Bartlett, 100 head; Mrs. L. Y. Jameson, 50 head; J. H. Whitman, 100 head; and many others have been reported. One can see that such losses run into thousands of dollars in a very short time.

Lamb county boys are turning in reports of their year's demonstration work, and some excellent reports have come in. Carl Hise, reports: Where I treated my grain sorghum seed for smut there was not a single head of smut, whereas our neighbors had fully ten per cent. Robert Holland, Fieldton, reports: One ton of maize to the acre, in the two row skip one method.

Vaccinate your poultry and worm them to control cold and roup. Those interested can get demonstration from the county agent.

Mrs. A. Clark is vaccinating her turkeys for roup. Mrs. Lenderson, Sudan, wormed her entire flock of turkeys with the iodine solution. Terracing schools will be held throughout the county under the direction of the county agent this winter, and those who are interested should get in touch with the county agent at once. The dates, and farms upon which terracing schools are to be held will be announced the first week of December.

A terracing school will be held on the C. D. Nelson farm 2 1/2 miles north of Anton, Nov. 22.

Two Lamb County 4-H Club Boys Win Trips to Chicago.

Information has been received by County Agent D. A. Adam that two of Lamb county's 4-H Club boys have won trips to the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago, as a result of the records they have made in their demonstration work the past year. Forrest Weimhold of Sudan, won one of the nineteen trips offered by the Santa Fe Railroad. Forrest was carrying a poultry demonstration, which consisted of raising baby chicks for breeding purposes, and showed a net profit of $282.05 for his year's work.

Gus Clark of Littlefield, won the only trip offered as a reward for baby beef breeding, by Armour and Company. This is the only trip of this kind offered, and it is quite a distinction to win this over the entire state. Gus fed a grade Hereford calf on which he put 440 pounds of gain in 180 days, with a gain of 2.44 pounds per day, at a cost of 2.65 cents per pound. His net profit on the calf was $24.53. These two boys leave here about the 27th for Fort Worth, where they will meet all other boys going from Texas.

Lamb county is proud of these two boys for the records they have made, and also proud that two of the 21 trips in the entire state were brought to Lamb county.

TAKES RAP AT SENATOR MORRIS SHEPHERD OF TEXAS
Effort to Make Liquor Buyer Guilty Is Called "Confession That Dry Laws Are Failure."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The effort to brand liquor purchasers criminals was denounced by a national radio audience Thursday night by Senator Harry Hawes as "a frank confession that prohibition under the present law has miserably failed."

The Missouri Democrat's vitriolic address was in answer to one in defense of the proposed amendment last week by Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem.), Texas, its sponsor, who wrote the prohibition amendment.

A wet, Mr. Hawes attacked the Volstead Act and said because of its partial failure "we now are asked to include many millions of our people in a new criminal class, and to add to the power and immunity of the bootlegger by closing the mouths of his customers under the threat of five years' servitude in the penitentiary and a $10,000 fine for the purchase of a beverage which contains more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol."

"This amendment would impede law enforcement and promote lawlessness," averred the Missourian. "It would give additional security to the bootlegger, provide a new field for the blackmailer, and create an enlarged gangland."

He maintained that advocates of the Sheppard amendment should ask that it be made a constitutional amendment through a referendum and predicted "strange results" if such a step were taken. He said bootleggers would favor the amendment, "as they did in the recent Nova Scotia election."

"Nova Scotia is the last of the big Canadian provinces to change from dry to wet," the Senator continued. "For the temperance act there were 61,672 votes, and against it 56,024. For government control, however, there was the significant vote of 89,757 against 41,180."

Noting that the late Samuel Gompers and William Green, former and present leaders of the American Federation of Labor, had asked modification of the Volstead Act, Mr. Hawes emphasized they derided the claim that labor's prosperity was due to the Volstead Act, and asked:

"If union labor, which is nearly all concentrated in the big cities which are wet in sentiment, has attracted prosperity, how about the impoverished farmer in the dry territory who has the sympathy of the nation and for whose assistance we have called a special session of congress?" In answer, he said the Volstead Act did not account for economical conditions. He added it had not prevented the increase in drunkenness and "did increase the underworld by adding to gangland the bootlegger."

Chamber of Commerce Appeals to People

Miss Lillian Hunt is making collection of dues for the Chamber of Commerce. The membership is requested to pay their dues up to January 1st, 1930, and be prepared for the big banquet and election of officers which will take place some time in December. It is the intention and plans are expected to be made in the near future for a banquet of the whole membership and as many friends as have the interest of the Chamber of Commerce and community at heart to attend.

The Sudan Chamber of Commerce is receiving a great deal of praise for the good work they have been accomplishing. They are financing our band, advertising our town and merchants by the large crowds they have been drawing by reason of the valuable prizes given away every Saturday afternoon, are helping to establish a telephone line between Sudan and Bula, and have several other projects in view which will be put over in the near future.

It is necessarily going to take some little money for expenses in doing the work outlined, and this being realized by the business men of Sudan, it is going to be necessary to ask for a donation by the citizens of Sudan. To start this off, the following members and business men agreed to give ten dollars a month for the months of September, October, November and December: J. A. Hutto, L. E. Slate, Harry Wilson and A. M. Holt. It is hoped that many other loyal supporters will be found who will be willing to help these business men to carry the load in the making of a Bigger and Better Sudan. L. T. Hunt, J. W. Withrow and J. E. Dryden were appointed a committee to obtain these donation subscriptions, so sharpen up your pencils, for these gentlemen are going to call on you.

Nearly every one is asking the question, "When are we going to pave Main Street?" Don't you think it about time? Attend the Chamber of Commerce meeting on the 20th of this month and tell us what you think.
