SUDAN WOMAN PATENTS GARMENT FOR MOTORISTS

-The United States Patent Office has just granted to Aida J. Slate, of Sudan, a patent upon a motorist's garment of consider able note, according to Clarence A O'Brien, local patent attorney.

The invention covers a garment designed to be slipped over one's usual street clothes to protect him during motoring. It is practical for either men or women and affords protection from dust, dirt and grease encountered sometimes while traveling by automobile.

CLERKS' WAGE HIKE

TOPEKA, Kans., Nov. 29.-A 5 per cent wage increase, effective December 1, for some 7,000 Santa Fe clerical employes was announced today by D. F. Todd, system general chairman of the railroad's Clerical Association. The increase applies to all clerks represented the association regardless of their membership.

Friday evening and Saturday of this week will be Teachers' Institute days again. The two days together are required by the laws of the state; therefore school work will open Friday morning at 8:30 and close without intermissions at 12:30. The County Institute will then convene at 2:00 o'clock, and without recess for the supper hour continue to 9:30 in the evening, thus giving the teachers of the county credit for a day of attendance. Saturday will then comply with the state laws for Institute attendance.

Bledsoe Is Urged For State Superintendent

Politics Breaks Out in Meeting of State Teachers' Association.

DALLAS, Nov. 28.—Politics broke broke out in the Texas State Teachers' Association convention here today when a group of friends of J. M. Bledsoe, head of the department of mathematics of the East Texas State Teachers College at Commerce, organized into a body to sponsor him for the office of state superintendent of public instruction next year.

Bledsoe, while refusing to say definitely he would seek the of-fice, said he would announce later for the office "if the popular de mand for a change in the offic continues.

"Some day," he said, "someone will succeed Mr. Marrs, but elections or because of his volun tary retirement from the office I do not know." S. M. N. Marrs of Austin is now superintendent Assuming that Bledsoe is al ready a candidate, the group re solved to perfect a compaign organization and to work for his election, maintaining headquar-

Sophomore Notes. Our only event worth mentioning this week is our program which we rendered in chapel last Monday afternoon. A few features of interest occurred on that date. Both pastors of the town, men who are now residents of our city, were present and took part with us. The singing of Misses Runnels and Taylor also featured our program as did the song set to music by Mrs. Wilkins. The reading of Miss Jordan was a pleasing diversion, while the fairy story told by Mrs. Hay to the little ones was a period of enjoyment to the high school folks, too. The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe takes on new life as she tells it. All told, we are proud of the program and everyone present seemed to enjoy it. One other feature marked our date on the program, the seating of pupils in the balcony because of lack of room

Assails Federal Trade Commission In Seed Fight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. Another investigation of the alleged cotton seed trust is sought by Representative Wright Patman of Texarkana district, who will introduce a resolution Monday that the whole matter affecting the cotton seed crushing industry be inquired into by a committee of three members of the House of Representatives. Mr. Patman's resolution goes a step farther than any of the other congressional efforts and wants the committee to determine whether the Federal Trade Commission has actually aided the cottonseed oil mills in the alleged fixing of prices.

"There is no question but that the Federal Trade Commission has materially assisted in organization of this alleged trust," Mr. Patman declared Friday. "There is no doubt in my mind but that a cottonseed oil trust exists in the South and that it fixed the price of cotton seed last fall. By eason of the alleged illegal combination, cotton farmers have suffered a loss of from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

If the Federal Trade Commission has been instrumental as an agency of the government in promoting a violation of the Fed-eral antitrust laws, Mr. Patman says the public should know it. The Federal Trade Commission is now engaged in a cotton seed investigation in response to the resolution of Senator Heflin of Alabama, adopted by the senate in October. In the meantime the Department of Justice and the Texas are making an investigation of the situation of cotton seed at the instance of Mr Patman and Texas interests, which filed numerous complaints. Complaints also have been received from other southern states In a formal statement Friday, Mr Patman insists that the prob lem is so large and important that a direct investigation by a committee of congress that would include all angles of the situation should be made Mr Patman's resolution would direct the House to ascertain whether the cottonseed oil mills have done the following things: Reached an agreement on prices to be paid farmers for seed; acquired ownership or control of cotton gins to destroy the competitive market for seed; entered rarily classed here by the field an agreement to destroy benefits of cooperative marketing of seed: agreed not to permit storage of seed in oil mill warehouses for future sales, and agreed to prevent publicity of cotton seed prices

"The Dallas cotton seed market

from 1925 to January 1 1929, in clusive, discloses that the average price of cotton seed per ton was more than the average price of cottonseed meal per ton," Mr. Patman's statement asserted. "In the fall of 1929, however, the combination set the price of cotton seed at Dallas at from $6 to $7 a ton less than a ton of cottonseed meal.

Further Information on Policies of Board and Recent 16.25 Cent Loan Given.

(The Farm Bureau News.) That the Farm Board loan to the Texas Association is available on the basis of cents middling % inch staple at Houston or Corpus Christi, less the estimated freight and expense, is now available, but that it is confined to members of association members or local pools organized under the cooperative law, is brought out in a recent communication to the banks of the state by Harry Williams, gen-eral manager of the Texas Cotton

Association. In his letter Mr. Williams states We wrote you recently, advis-ng that tentative arrangements had been made with the Federal Farm Board for a loan to this Association for the purpose of supplementing advances to mem-pers of this Association shipping otton to the seasonal pool. That loan has now been approved and the first application for funds, made under the agreenent, has been granted and the noney received is being distribted to the members who have already shipped to the seasona pool. Additional advances will be made from time to time as cotcon to this pool is received and classed. As stated to you before, this advance will be made on basis of 16.25c middling taple cotton at Houston and Corous Christi, less the estimated freight and expense. We name nese two ports because that is where we have our cotton stored. The Farm Board will only advance to us against cotton shipped by bona fide members of the Asociation. The action of the Farm Board n making this loan to us has reated w.de-spread interest. Unortunately there is a lot of conusion in the minds of good people who do not understand the lature of the loans.

The Farm Board is authorized under law to deal with recognized cooperative associations only an as such leaving the matter of advance to the members to the discretion of the Associations to whom they lend. In our case, they are lending us this money with one agreement that it be used inrougnout the season and for the sole use of the members of the Association. The discretion of advances to the members is an asociation matter and this feature of it must be guarded because of our obligation to the Farm Board, which is a definite one. Since the closing of this loan, ve are prepared to make advances to the members of the Associa-don on the basis of the loan less ne freight and estimated expenses according to grade and staple on al cotton snipped to the seasonal pool. We are not in position at me present writing to make any advance of any character to nonnember local pools nor will we ever be in a position to do it unless local pools are organized under the Cooperative Law and control the title of its members' cotton.

The organization has just completed one of the most effective pieces of constructive advertising ever attempted in the Panhandle, and it is determined to make an even better showing next year.

The Panhandle-Plains, Inc., is a cooperative effort to advertise the farm resources of this section to the rest of the nation. A dozen Panhandle counties made up a fund of $10,000 and sent composit exhibits to fairs in Eastern, Southern and Middle Western states. Work on the exhibits was not started until almost summer, however, the campaign was nighly successful. The final report shows that the farm products of the Panhandle were shown at 2 state and regional fairs. They were seen by mil-

It is an example of what organized effort car ccomplish. No one of the individual counties could afford to send exhibits on a national tour, but working together-pooling their efforts and their finances-it was an easy task.

Success of the work this past season doubtles will cause other counties to participate next year, giving more capital and a larger variety of product from which to make up the exhibits. It is an under taking worthy of the consideration of every count; in the Panhandle-Plains.

The ideal feeding method is one which keeps the chicks growing If your present every minute. result, do not change, but unless your chicks are developing regularly from day to day so that you methods-most certainly easier more effective ones.

The time to start proper feeding is the very moment your chicks arrive from the hatchery Testified He Had Bought Liquor or when taken from the nest or On Prescription for His Sick from your own incubator. Thousof chicks are killed every year by premature feeding or by being given the wrong kinds of food materials during their first few hours of freedom.

After about 48 to 60 hours, give them their first feed, placing the food on clean paper or in shallow trays so they can see it and learn to eat easily. Do not overfeed as it is extremely dangerous. Baby chicks should be fed about every three hours for the first two weeks and never at any time should they be given more than they can clean up in about fifteen minutes. It is much better to keep them hungry than to stuff them during his period.

Scatter a little grain and fine grit in the litter the first day or two after you start feeding them and teach the little fellows scratch.
