NUMBER 31

FARM NOTES

D. A. ADAM, County Agent

Dairy farmers should begin to make plans for their pastures this coming year. Sweet clover, Sudan and some winter pasture should be figured on. On the basis of five, three acres of sweet clover, five acres of Sudan, and 12 to 15 acres of some good winter pasture should be planned for. February is a good month in which to sow sweet clover. The best method is to sow it in three-foot rows, with lister, dropping about 150 seed to the foot, which will make about 15 pounds to the acre. This method makes it possible to cultivate two or three times during the early growing season to keep down weed growth. A good pasture program for every dairy herd in the county will cut down production cost to half. This has been demonstrated on farms in the county during the past year.

During the past few weeks the county agent has conducted 12 terracing schools, with an attendance of 72, and of this group 10 men are now able to run terrace lines for farmers in their respective communities. Terracing in Lamb county last year increased crops on terraced farms 20 to 25 per cent.

A baby feed club show will be held in Amherst, March 4, 1930, at which time calves will be shown that have been fed out by boys of this county, and every one is invited to attend and see what can be done with Lamb county baby feed, fed Lamb county feed, by Lamb county 4-H club boys.

Capons pay, according to John Horton of Amherst, who could have sold his cockerels in the spring at about 40c apiece, but in going the capon route realized $1.52 profit each for his No. 1 capons. Mr. Horton caponized 154 cockerels when they were six weeks of age. He sold on February 10 with a total income of $210.12. Twenty-five of these were sold in the early fall as sibs at 60c each; 34 were eaten at home or died from some cause, these being valued at 75c a head; seventy-four No. 1 capons weighing 572 pounds at 25c brought $143.00; 25 No. 2 sibs weighing 159 pounds at 18c brought $78.62; making a total of $210.12. Expense on this total number was as follows: cockerels 30c at six weeks of age; caponizing 5c; miscellaneous equipment 15c; and a $12.75 feed bill of fattening mash, making a total cost of $89.75; leaving a total profit of $120.37 or 73c a head. All No. 1 capons averaged a total profit of $1.39, and all others a total profit of 71c a head. Mr. Horton intends to caponize 200 birds this year.

INSISTS NAVY BUY HELIUM AT AMARILLO PLANT

WASHINGTON.—Investigation of the navy department's purchase of helium for use in lighter-than-air craft was demanded by Representative Englebright, Republican, California, who said he would shortly introduce a bill to authorize such an inquiry. "The navy is now contracting for helium with private companies at $35 a thousand feet," he said. "The helium plant of the Bureau of Mines, established by the government, can produce the same gas for between $8 and $11 a thousand." The Bureau of Mines plant, located in Amarillo, Texas, will have to close down soon, he added, despite the fact that the army still purchases its helium from the urea.

Impeachment Trial for Comptroller Terrell

AUSTIN, Feb. 10.—The house of representatives today resolved itself into a committee of the whole to hear charges proposing impeachment of Comptroller S. H. Terrell, and decided to begin hearing testimony on Thursday. The house decided to take up the charges, which were based on a special report of State Auditor Moore Lynn, in which it was alleged that Terrell had failed to "satisfactorily account" for approximately $60,000 of the state's funds, after they had been preferred and sworn to by Representative Joseph McGill of El Paso, Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg and Coke R. Stevenson of Junction.

A pending resolution by Representative Petsch preferring charges against Terrell and State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher, the latter for "incompetency and inefficiency," was tabled, after Terrell requested such action. He said it had been decided not to prosecute the charges against treasurer Hatcher. The house elected Speaker Barron to preside over the committee as a whole hearing the impeachment charges.

South Must Reduce Cotton Acreage

Educational Campaign to Be Put Into Effect by Federal Farm Board and Extension Service.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 6.—Immediate mobilization of the agricultural and business interests of the South to reduce the 1930 cotton acreage to not more than 40,000,000 acres and to place all the facts of the present critical situation before the public was the first step outlined at the initial session of the newly appointed cotton reduction committee held on Wednesday during the annual convention of the Southern Agricultural Workers' Association.

The educational campaign will be directed simultaneously by the Federal Farm Board and the Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture out of their respective offices at Washington and at the headquarters of the American Cotton Cooperative Association at Dallas under direction of C. O. Moser, executive secretary and vice president. There is plenty of time to reduce acreage, it is pointed out. Within two weeks it is hoped to have the plan of campaign in operation which is to be hastened by immediate call for state conferences throughout the cotton belt by directors of the Extension Service of state agricultural colleges, at which farm organizations, vocational agriculture teachers, the daily press and farm publications, agricultural agents of all southern railroads, state departments of agriculture, noonday luncheon clubs and all other agencies are to be used as a nucleus in every state.

Carl Williams, cotton member of the Federal Farm Board, took part in Thursday's discussions, and J. A. Evans, chief of the Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, presided. Mr. Williams was urged to arrange for a South-wide presentation of the need for cotton acreage reduction by radio out of Washington. Radio also to be used by the various state committees which are to be established by the extension directors. Economists of the Federal Department of Agriculture were immediately put to work to formulate a statement of all cotton facts which have brought about the recent price depression. These are to be made the basis of all educational work throughout the South.

Within a few weeks every noonday luncheon club in the South is to be addressed by competent speakers on the existing crisis in cotton production. The message of acreage reduction is to be carried into the most remote sections of the cotton belt so that farmers, landlords and bankers will be confronted with the danger of a large crop and the possibilities of a disaster should an excessive acreage be planted.

CATTLE LOSSES NOT GREAT.

Col. Thomas Montgomery, owner and manager of the TMBR Ranch, southeast of Floydada in Floyd and Crosby counties, says the losses in cattle to date have not been serious. The Colonel was in town Tuesday for the first time in three or four weeks.

"It is my observation in the cattle business that cold spells like the one we have just had, kill more cattle in March than they kill in January," the cattleman said. "In fact, the losses of range cattle in March will exceed all the losses of all the other months on the average."—Floydada Hesperian.

The least a good party man can do, when the tariff bill at last is finished, is to hint that it fell on his head when it was little.—Passaic News.

KIWANIS NOTES

Don't forget that all the officers and directors of this club are expected to go to Lubbock on the 22nd of this month. This will be educational to us all, so let's not forget.

And we still have no decision in regard to the school question. School has started again, but only a makeshift school. Our loss is great. Can we overcome this? Shall we rebuild? What shall we rebuild?

Do we want a "get-by" building? Or do we want a modern school building that will take care of our needs in the future? Did you know that our school system was overflowing even before the fire? Does not that show that our children want an education? We all know they need this, in the age we are living in. Can we afford to be willing to pay the price as long as it is in the bounds of reason?

LET'S THINK, AND WE BUILD. Come out Tuesday at 12:15 at the same place. It's interesting. F. E. MILLER, Secretary.

Brady Jury Discharged; Failure to Agree

COURTROOM, Austin, Texas, Feb. 8.—A jury which in four days and nights, was unable to agree on a verdict in John W. Brady's murder trial, was discharged and turned wearily homeward late today, while Brady walked back to his cell to await another trial.

The jurors stood 11 to 1 for conviction and it was through the one, Foreman J. R. Keltner, that a mistrial was declared. When the jury was called down just before noon to be questioned concerning its request to be released, Judge J. D. Moore directed Keltner to tell him the numerical standing only.

"We stand 11 to 1 for conviction," he answered. Judge Moore did not hear the last two words, he said later, and when Dayton Moses, member of the defense staff, called it to his attention and filed a motion for a mistrial on that basis, the judge had the jurors brought down again, explained that he did not believe it would be proper for them to continue with the case, and sent them away. Moses, meanwhile, withdrew his motion.

MELTING SNOW REVEALS BODY OF MAN FROZEN JAN. 13

GUTHRIE, Okla., Feb. 8.—The body of Bert Crawford, 30, a Kingfisher county farm hand, who had been missing since Jan. 13, was found lying beside a timber pasture fence five miles from his home near Kiel. One foot was fast in the mesh of the wire fence and one hand was still grasping his boot. He had evidently caught his foot while climbing the fence and froze to death before he could extricate himself and the body soon covered with snow that has just melted.

He had been hunting and his ax and gun were standing against a fence post and a dead rabbit was buttoned inside his coat. His dog was also found frozen, lying curled under the arm of the master; he had refused to desert.

APPEALS COURT SUSTAINS TITLES OF LANDOWNERS

AUSTIN.—Landowners in Panhandle stream-bed areas won a sweeping victory and other stream-bed owners held their titles safely under a decision rendered Wednesday last by the Third Court of Civil Appeals in its disposition of the case of the State et al. vs. W. Bradford et al., from Travis county, involving title to seventy-five miles of the bed of the North Fork of the Red River in Wheeler and Gray counties and traversing the rich oil belt.

A twenty-page opinion by Associate Justice M. B. Blair sustains the validity of the Small law without reservation. This was the act passed over Gov. Dan Moody's veto and over the opinion of Attorney General Claude Pollard, holding it unconstitutional. The issues will now go to the Supreme Court on petition for a writ of error after the usual rehearing motion is overruled.

A large number of defendants were involved in the Bradford case, including all the large oil companies holding oil and gas leases in the river bed which were producing oil. The state instituted suit for the recovery of the river-bed land and also for large damages representing the value of oil extracted.

Roswell Bank Cashier Suicides

ROSWELL, N. M., Feb. 10.—Ben S. Jaffa, cashier of the Bank of Commerce of Roswell, committed suicide on a lonely road near this city, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury here. The jury found that Jaffa took a poison, the nature of which has not been determined.

He was a nephew of Nathan Jaffa, chairman of the New Mexico state tax commission and was a member of a pioneer family of this city. He was serving his third term as treasurer of the city of Roswell, and was a Mason, an Elk and a past president of the Lions club.

Jaffa left three notes, one addressed to W. J. McInnes, active vice-president of the Bank of Commerce, in which he admitted shortage in his accounts, especially with correspondent banks in El Paso, Albuquerque and Amarillo. In a note to C. P. Webb and George R. Reese, Jr., attorneys of this city, Jaffa requested that they attend to his affairs, stating that his insurance policies and other assets would be sufficient to take care of his shortage in city accounts and with correspondent banks. Another note was found on his body to his wife, father and mother. This note declared that he believed members of his immediate family would be happier after he was gone.

Jaffa has been cashier of the Bank of Commerce for the past eight years and has been in the banking business in Roswell for 12 years. He was 32 years of age and leaves a wife, father and mother and other relatives in this city.

In each of the notes that he left he declared that not one cent of the shortage went to his own use.

Seven thousand and five hundred copies of the premium list will be mailed out from the manager's office in Plainview to a list of farmers, dairymen and others interested in the dairy industry in the Panhandle. County agents and chamber of commerce secretaries in each of the 54 counties are furnishing a mailing list for the catalog.

Vivian Collins was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary on a charge of stealing wheat, in district court here last Friday. $60,000 OF STATE'S MONEY NOT ACCOUNTED FOR

AUSTIN, Feb. 7.—Approximately $60,000 of State's money handled by the State Comptroller's department has not been satisfactorily accounted for, Moore Lynn, State Auditor, told the Senate Friday.

Lynn was invited before the Senate after he had filed a special report concerning affairs of the Comptroller's department.

Soon after Lynn made his appearance in the Senate, Senator Archie Parr of Benavides asked this question: "Mr. Lynn, I want to know if it is true, as rumored around here, that a State department is $60,000 short?"

"This special report I have given you covers that question thoroughly," Lynn replied.

"I want to know from you verbally, though, if that rumor has any substantiation," Senator Parr continued.

"We do not charge that any department is short but we do find approximately $60,000 of the state's money unaccounted for by the comptroller," Lynn said.

A complete "detailed" audit of the Comptroller's department was recommended by Lynn.

WHY HE DID NOT BELIEVE IN ADVERTISING

Not long ago we met a merchant who was thoroughly sore on the subject of advertising. He said it was all a fake, that he had spent nearly $1,200 for advertising during the previous year and, so far as he could see, the money might as well have been thrown to the birds.

We looked over the merchant's data, which showed where his $1,200 had gone. It was an interesting list of advertising mediums he had patronized. The first item we noticed was an expense of $25 for a big sign on an e-phant, carried in a circus parade.

The next item was a matter of $60 which had been spent on a full page ad in an amateur minstrel show program. In explanation of this payment, the merchant said it was his own joke which had put on the minstrel, and as the other boys had contributed $50 apiece he couldn't very well refuse.

These two ventures into advertising were only a beginning. The high school annual had caught him for $35 because the principal of the school was a customer of his. The labor union weekly had got $100 out of him for a B. G. Labor Day edition because he wanted to keep on the good side of the union men. Six Ladies' Aid Societies, the Little Guild, the Children's Playground Association and the Philharmonic Club had all got some of his money for advertisements in their entertainment programs because he was afraid to turn down the committee which solicited the ads.

Not one cent had this merchant invested for advertising in newspapers or other mediums of value worth the pulling power.—Philadelphia Retail Ledger.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION MEXICAN PRESIDENT FALLS

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5. (AP)—The second civilian in the recent history of Mexico to take over the government, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, Wednesday was inaugurated as President of the Republic, only to have a narrow escape from assassination shortly after the ceremony.

The new President was wounded in the jaw by a would-be assassin, who fired on him a few hours after he had been sworn in as the chief executive. At the hospital it was said that the condition of the president was not serious. The bullet has been removed.

Two other members of the Presidential party were struck, the President's wife being grazed by a bullet. His little niece, Opelia Ortega, sustained a slight wound.

Snowed by Broken Glass. Broken glass from the automobile wind shield showered the rest of the party, which included a chauffeur, the President's secretary and the President's sister-in-law Señora Ortega, whose daughter was injured.

Police recently announced a plot had been discovered whereby followers of Vasconcelos hoped to assassinate Ortiz Rubio, former Civil provincial President and other leaders and seize power during ensuing confusion, however the capital is quiet.

Rocket planes which can go 5,000 miles an hour are talked about; we are making a list of friends whom we should like to see travel that way.

THE AMERICAN CREED

"I believe in the United States of America and the principles of freedom, justice, equality and humanity upon which it was founded and for which American Patriots have given their lives and fortunes.
 "I believe it is my duty towards my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; and to defend it against all enemies."

"BOOST OR MOVE"

IS OUR JURY SYSTEM A FAILURE?

Is the American jury system a failure? Last week, John W. Brady, an ex-judge of Texas' next highest court of justice, was tried for the brutal murder of a young woman whom, the evidence tended to show, he had previously debauched. No denial was made of the fact that he took this life. Eye witnesses testified he was seen with the bloody knife in his hand and the girl dying at his feet. His attorneys, even, made no claim of innocence; merely that he was a besotted drunkard, made so on bootleg liquor.

The case was given to a carefully picked jury. This jury deliberated for almost four days, finally reporting they were unable to agree. But note the fact: the jury stood 11 for conviction, 1 for acquittal. Eleven to one for justice—but justice was defeated. Why? Simply because our jury system idiotically provides that twelve good men and true must agree on all points before a red-handed murderer can be dealt justice for his crime?

The question has puzzled the minds of Americans, why should American justice so lamentably fail? The foregoing facts constitute the answer. In plain words, the person guilty of a capital crime has an eleven to one shot at escape. One juror can block the wheels of justice. Eleven men visualize the enormity of the crime, are fully convinced of the truth of the evidence. But one sees differently—or assumes so to see—and justice hides her head in shame. Is there a remedy? There is. Place a murder jury under majority rule. Let seven jurors, agreeing on facts, return the verdict. If safeguards are demanded, let this verdict carry the minimum penalty, at the discretion of the presiding judge. But in God's name, don't give the criminal all the breaks and the dead victim none.

Majority rule is a cherished American institution. It should apply to our dealings with the American criminal.

SAVING STEPS.

How far do you walk in a day? The National Association of Chiropractors recently put pedometers on a number of persons engaged in various occupations, to obtain answers to this question. One of conclusions was that housewives ordinarily walk seven and a half to eight miles a day, not counting any walking done outside their homes.

After plodding through the routine of daily toil, climbing and descending the stairways again and again, the housewives of the country will credit this statement. This is the reason why so many young brides desire small houses now.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars are prepared to present to congress a petition bearing 50,000 names, asking that The Star Spangled Banner be made the official national anthem. To many people the statement that this country has no official national anthem will come as a surprising statement. Time out of memory the Star Spangled Banner has been accepted as such. It answers the purpose and answers it splendidly. Why not continue The Star Spangled Banner in all its soul stirring qualities as the official national anthem?

TALK GETS CHEAPER.

That talk is cheap and song may be cheaper is corroborated by a phonograph company which proposes to issue records at 15 cents per record. With increased manufacture, competition and easy terms of purchase, radios are becoming more and more within the scope of the humblest.

The recent decision of several record manufacturers to veer more away from jazz in their products augurs that soon the best of music can be brought into the home at a very nominal expense.

THE TIN CAN AGE.

The number of food products now canned in quantities approximate about 250 and new kinds are constantly being added. The estimated total of the past year is nine billion cans. This is the tin can age.

How to Raise Poultry
By Dr. L. D. LeCear, V. S.
St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeCear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1902. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

Making Big Ones Out of Little Ones

Proper Feeding of Vital Importance During the Early Days of a Chick's Existence.

Business took me into a small country court room recently. As I entered, a convicted chicken thief was just receiving a sentence. "Thirty days on the rock pile, Henry," drawled the judge, and continued, "and when you get home again, Henry, get yourself some little chickens—honestly—and try making big ones out of little ones for awhile, instead of always having to make little ones out of big ones on the county rock pile the way you've been doing here lately."

The soundness of this homely advice struck me very forcibly. I couldn't help thinking how much more profitable the poultry business would be if every one engaged in it could realize how many thousands of dollars are lost every year because poultry raisers generally are not doing all they should in the way of "making big ones out of little ones."

Over twenty years ago I adopted a plan of feeding young chicks which proved so successful that I have continued it without change ever since. Many have adopted it, tried all sorts of variations to it and have revolved all around it in various ways. Invariably, however, they return again to my original system. I know many can profit by adopting my method, so I shall describe it as fully as space will permit. I do not claim this is the best method, for there is no best one. If your present method gives the desired results, do not change.

A great many are now successfully feeding an "all mash" ration from the start to the maturity; and not feeding any whole or cracked grain at all. Many others successfully start their baby chicks on a mash "starter feed" and after two weeks supplement it with commercial chick grain, etc.

My method is quite different. When my chicks are about 48 hours old, I take them out of the incubator and put them in the brooder room that is warm, thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. The temperature under the hover should be close to 100 degrees, and the room should not be too cold. I give them at this time fresh buttermilk in clean vessels that are protected so they cannot get into the milk with their feet. I also provide them with water, with Chick Tablets dissolved in it, in clean vessels protected in the same way. I also give them baby chick grit, and charcoal and keep this before them at all times.

A few hours later I give them their first feed which is pinhead (steel cut) oatmeal. This is the used to make mash out of when we (the older of us) were young, same kind of oatmeal our mothers it can still be secured in all the

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lamb County, Greetings:

You are hereby commanded to summon Rex Morton by making publication in this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, it being a newspaper published therein, out if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Lamb county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Olton, Texas, on the 4th Monday of February, A. D. 1930, the same being the 24th day of February, A. D. 1930, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 13th day of November, A. D. 1929, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 003, wherein Eva Lena Morton is plaintiff and Rex Morton is defendant, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

Plaintiff alleges on January 7, 1923, she was married to defendant, and continued to live with him until April 1, 1929, when because of cruel treatment of defendant toward her she separated from defendant. Defendant struck and beat plaintiff and called her vile and vicious names, and on the day of separation the defendant struck plaintiff a violent blow inflicting serious bodily injury, cursed and abused her and called her a vile name. Plaintiff's maiden name was Eva Lena Terry. Plaintiff prays judgment for divorce, restoration of maiden name and general relief.

Herein fall not but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at its office in Olton, Texas, on this 21st day of January, A. D. 1930.

A. H. McGavock, Clerk.
(SEAL)
District Court Lamb County, Texas.

larger cities. Rolled oats are too large to feed at this time unless broken up. I spread papers on the floor near the hovers and put oatmeal on the papers I see that all the chicks get on the paper and they are soon eating. I leave this before them for about ten minutes.

The second feed may consist of either commercial chick grain or oatmeal. After the first day and for the first ten days I mix one part of oatmeal and two parts of chick grain and feed what they will clean up in about fifteen minutes, every three hours at 6, 9, 12, 3 and 6 o'clock. Milk as well as water should be kept before them all the time. Also tender grass or other green food should be provided every day. If milk is not available, one hard boiled egg should be ground up fine and fed to each 25 chicks each day.

I keep clean chaff or short cut straw on the floor of the brooder room and after the chicks are 4 or 5 days old, I scatter all their grain feed in the litter and make them scratch for it. During the second week I start feeding a dry mash made by mixing equal parts wheat bran, yellow corn meal, wheat middlings, oatmeal and if no milk is fed, I add 10 per cent of good grade sifted meat scraps to the mash. For about a week I give them in hoppers at 9 and 3 o'clock each day what they will eat of this mash in a half hour. This, of course, is fed dry.

When the chicks are about two weeks old, this dry mash can be kept before them all the time in hoppers. When I begin feeding the above mash, I discontinue the 9 and 3 o'clock grain feed and feed grain but three times each day. Also when I begin giving the dry mash I leave the oatmeal out of the grain and give chick grain only.

From the third to the sixth week I continue feeding baby chicks scratch grain in litter morning, noon and night, gradually increasing the amount, but never giving more than be cleaned up in 15 minutes. At all times, keep before them mash, grit and charcoal. When six weeks old, a crumby wet mash can be fed in troughs at noon, only what they will clean up in fifteen minutes, made by wetting the dry mash with milk, and leave off the noon-day grain feed.

Beginning with the sixth week, start feeding whole wheat, cracked corn and milo maize instead of fine chick grain or mix them together. Chicks now may eat whole sprouted oats and can also handle medium size grit and charcoal. Schedule and system of feeding remains as before, gradually increasing ration until the birds approach maturity. Then they may have the rations intended for laying pullets and hens or breeding males.

It is most important to keep chicks growing every minute. That is what this schedule is intended to do and it will succeed if given a fair chance. You cannot raise chicks successfully, however, without constant attention to detail—neglect will never do it.

No matter what price you pay for a car today, you get a car that climaxes all past achievements of the maker—a car built to new high standards of beauty and performance. But remember this. Unless the gasoline you use is as advanced as the car you drive, your car can give only a fraction of the performance the maker built into it. Gasoline, too, can be "out-of-date."

Drugs Will Not Make More Eggs

"No known drug or combination of drugs when fed to poultry will increase egg production," says Dr. H. E. Maskey, veterinarian in the food, drug and insecticide administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"The department," he says, "has objected repeatedly, by warning and seizure, to the use of any label on drug preparations for fowls which increase egg production. Veterinarians agree that such claims are unwarranted and consequently fraudulent. The department will not relax its efforts to keep from the channels of interstate trade all products for which such exaggerated promises are made to poultry men."

Other preparations equally objectionable, Dr. Maskey says, are those sold to increase the fertility of eggs and to improve the hatchability. This is not within the power of drugs.

Drug preparations offered as a cure for poultry diseases for which there is no known drug cure are also receiving the attention of officials. These diseases include typhoid, cholera, necrotic enteritis, fowl pest, roup, diphtheria, chicken pox, diarrhea, and gapes of chicks and backhead of turkeys. Some of these can be prevented by precautionary methods, but once contracted do not respond to drug treatment.

Dr. Maskey explains also, that a worm infestation in a poultry house is labeled clearly; the specific name of the worm or worms for which it has proved an effective verminicide must be stated. Veterinarians, he says, have found that certain drugs are effective for certain worms but no combination of drugs is effective against all worms. Furthermore, drugs administered by way of mouth have not been found effective against those known as pin or caecal worms of poultry. Products of this type when labeled to be given by mouth are subject to seizure under the law.

The labeling of mineral mixtures, stock powders, so-called conditioners and regulators, and tonics, to indicate that they feed or control worm infestation, constitutes misbranding under the federal food and drug acts, Dr. Maskey says. Preparations of this character have not proved effective in this manner. Neither must the labels on tonics, conditioners, or other products indicate that they will increase disease resistance of fowls or ward off disease.

Judgments have been obtained by department officials against products containing the word "health" in the name of the preparation. The use of the word "health" as in the term "Poultry Health" is considered misleading in that the purchaser expects some curative or disease-resisting properties in the preparation, Dr. Maskey says. Insecticide officials of the department have also found that drugs administered in drinking water are not effective in removing or destroying lice on poultry.

Nearly Killed by Gas—Druggist Saves Her

"Gas on my stomach was so bad it nearly killed me. My druggist told me about Adlerika. The gas is gone now and I feel fine."

TO PREVENT ICE ON WINDSHIELDS

Driving home from Wichita Falls, a Dallas doctor made a discovery which will be hailed with joy by winter motorists.

The doctor had placed a candle behind the windshield of his car, to prevent ice forming on the glass, but the result was not satisfactory. Passing a woman motorist on the road, he noticed a small stick protruding from the rear of the hood of her automobile.

Allowing the other car to pass, the doctor called the attention of the driver to the stick. Smiling, the woman pointed to her windshield, which was clear, then to the hood, and made wavy gestures with her hands.

Being accustomed to knowing others' wants by grunts or gestures, the doctor immediately understood the woman's intention in a like manner.

He inserted a cork between the hood and the cowl of the driver's side of the car. This allowed the hot air from the motor to flow through the opening and strike the windshield, preventing moisture from freezing as it came in contact with the cold glass.

This did the work even when the motor was idling, the doctor said, and he drove on with no more ice on the windshield to obscure his vision.

REALISTIC

As the old lady strolled through the park, two unchins confronted her.

"I say, lady," said the taller of the two, "my brother does fine imitations. Give him a penny and he'll imitate a hen."

"Dear, dear," smiled the old lady, "and what will he do? Will he cackle?"

"No," replied the lad, with a look of contempt. "He won't do no cheap imitations of that sort, he'll eat a worm."

What a shock that Ohio man who had been deaf for thirteen years, must have had when he recovered his hearing in a talkative Philadelphia inquirer.
