Simmons And Johnston 4-H Club Boys Win Trip to Chicago

Community Carnival Sponsored By P. T. A., Many Organizations Participating To Be Held Saturday, November 21

Red Cross Aided 2,765,000 Persons In 23 States From Contributions During Fiscal Year

Lamb County Sent Two Boys in 1929. Two Boys in 1931. Free Trips are Furnished by Santa Fe Annually for Best Records

Lamb County 4-H Club work stepped to the front for the past year, when Roy Simmons and Elmer Johnston of Sudan, and Elmer Johnston of Sudan, won trips to the National 4-H Club Congress during the International Livestock Show during the latter part of this month, and the first week in December. These boys won these trips in state wide competition among boys, and the honor is great for these boys to win in their respective places.

Interesting story telling how he produced this, and also, and the most important, that he is producing this yield with certified seed, will cause farmers in his community to use better grain sorghum seeds. This boy is to be congratulated for being very persistent, and then winning this trip.

Dr. Foote Not Superstitious

I never felt like I was superstitious said Dr. Foote, but then there are times and happenings when some of the old sayings are exemplified and it makes a fellow take notice to say the least of it, for instance there is that old idea about accidents, that if one serious accident happens in the community, it will be quickly followed by two more, making three in all well it happened in my practise the last few days first Elmer Davis was badly cut and torn in the Baileboro on November 8th, then J. W. Luke of near Bula, was thrown into the barb wire fence on November 8, when he tried to crank his automobile while it was in gear, his throat was cut from ear to ear, and almost severed one ear, and he had quite a lot before he could be brought to town and the arteries tied and his throat sutured. The third accident was to Ferris McCarty who fell from a windmill tower on Nov 10, while working, and received a fracture of both bones of both arms, the left being a compound fracture, the bone having protruded through the flesh. This made three serious accidents within a short time.

Twenty-Five Side Shows, Fine Program. Crowning of Carnival Queen. Fun and Amusement at School Auditorium

Saturday night, November 21, a Community Carnival is to be held in the Sudan High School building. This carnival is sponsored by the school and P. T. A., but many organizations in town are participating. A program will be given, but, in addition to that, there will be at least twenty-five interesting side-shows operating. The purpose of the carnival is twofold: first, it is to bring the community together for an evening of fun-making; second funds are needed for playground and physical education and for other school needs of various kinds.

Red Cross Organization Helped Millions of Needy Folks During Year Ending June 30.

Washington, D. C., November 12.—The Red Cross gave drought relief to 2,765,000 persons in 23 states from the great fund contributed by the public all over the United States, and to which the organization added $5,000,000 from its own treasury, is set forth in an interesting and detailed report issued today in Washington, covering relief operations to June 30, 1931, the end of the Red Cross fiscal year.

Red Cross Organization Helped Millions of Needy Folks During Year Ending June 30.

Of the 614,594 families aided, the table shows 530,568 were white, 22,816 were colored and 3,890 were Indians. Revealing that all classes in the drought states were victims, the report shows that of the 533,531 farm families aided 84,165 were owners; 204,744 were renters; 183,890 were share croppers and 60,957 were laborers. Families other than farmers aided were: miners, 9,056; lumber mill workers, 9,900 and unclassified 62,417.

WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT HIS LAST PUBLIC SERVICE

In paying a last tribute to the late Thomas A. Edison, nothing more impressive can be said than to repeat what was probably his last public statement, flashed by radio from his laboratory in Fort Myers, Florida, to the National Electric Light Association last summer, at Atlantic City. His words which follow show his interest in humanity which he had served so long and so faithfully. In these difficult times they should be engraved on the consciousness of every American citizen.

HERE'S SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT. OLD HENS ARE WORTH PER POUND, TWO AND ONE HALF TIMES AS MUCH AS HOGS. IT COSTS LESS TO FEED THEM AND THEY UNDOUBTEDLY PAID SOME OF THEIR KEEP IN EGGS. POULTRY IS A PRETTY GOOD "CASH" CROP WHEN YOU GET RIGHT DOWN TO FIGURING.

LOW PRICED GRAINS ARE HARD ON THE RAISER BUT THEY SURELY DO HELP TO INCREASE POULTRY PROFITS. REMINDS US OF THE OLD "SAW" ABOUT THE "ILL WIND."

THE PEOPLE OF NEW YORK CITY ACTUALLY CONSUME ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE CARLOADS OF POULTRY AND EGGS EVERY DAY. AND THEN THERE ARE CHICAGO, CLEVELAND, DETROIT AND A FEW OTHER LARGE CITIES THAT LIKE GOOD POULTRY PRODUCTS TOO. THE POULTRY INDUSTRY HAS TO BE A BIG INDUSTRY TO SUPPLY THE ACTUAL DEMAND.

"BOOST OR MOVE"

CRIME THEORISTS

Crime is a matter in which the theorists have run rampant usually at the expense of real crime prevention.

The anti-gun laws are a good example of this. It is pointed out that occasionally someone uses a gun which is criminally kid or injure someone else. Ergo, legislate against guns. That is all very well. What is not pointed out is that for each gun used for a criminal purpose, a thousand or ten thousand, are used by honest citizens for protection or sport. It is also pointed out that anti-gun laws, form the standpoint of enforcement, have always been something of a joke. The criminal has managed, under all circumstances, to easily obtain weapons. He probably even favors such legislation which only disarms the populace he preys upon.

If we are to legislate against guns, we may just as well legislate against knives, axes, automobiles, ropes and such household medicines as iodine. All of these have been, and can be, used in the commission of crime. It is true that they have useful and innocent purposes. But so have guns.

FIND SOFT WHEAT BREAD REAL "STAFF OF LIFE"

Breads and biscuits made from soft wheat flour contain more of the essentials of the balanced diet than bread made of any other flour. This is proved by a recent experiment conducted by the National Soft Wheat Millers Association.

Sixty per cent of the experimental diet was bread—self-rising flour biscuits made with water, self-rising flour biscuits made with whole milk, yeast bread made with whole milk, commercial white bread and commercial whole wheat bread.

The increase in weight of the subjects used in the experiment showed greatest with self-rising flour biscuits made with whole milk; second, self-rising flour biscuits made with water; and on down in the following order: commercial white bread, yeast bread made with whole milk, commercial whole wheat bread, and yeast bread made with water.

The balanced diet demands three main elements: the right kind of proteins, vitamins A to F, and certain minerals. Of the minerals, the following nine are necessary: sodium, calcium, phosphorus, sulphur, potassium, magnesium, iron, iodine and chlorine.

Three of them, sodium, calcium and phosphorus are introduced into soft wheat by the millers at the time of milling. The resultant flour, self-rising flour, therefore, contains these three important mineral agents for bone development and growth, in far greater proportion than other flours in commercial use.

HEART OF THE NORTH

BY WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Six bandits came aboard the steamer Midnight Sun while she was tied to the bank of the Mackenzie. Father Clarity and the other passengers on the boat were amazed at the sight of banditry in the great Northwest. There were some thousand miles north of Edmonton Jimmy Montgomery, who had spent years with the Canadian Mounted, draws his gun in the face of the covering rifles and fires upon the ruffians. He shouts through a heart by a half-breed. The bandits get away with gold dust and choice peltry.

CHAPTER II—Corporal Bill Hardcock brings the news of the crime to Sergeant Alan Baker at the Mounted Police Post, Fort Endurance. After a brief dispute over plans with his incompetent superior, Inspector Hardcock, Alan starts out after the bandits in the big police launch with the corporal and four constables.

CHAPTER III—Reaching the Midnight Sun, they stop long enough for Alan to board her and consult witnesses of the crime. Alan asks the skipper to take Jimmy Montgomery's orphaned four-year-old daughter with him to the Aloska. He leaves her in the care of Alan's fiancée, Elizabeth Spaulding. At the MacMillan trading post on the Big Aloska, Joyce MacMillan is alone, awaiting the return of Dave, her father from a fur-buying trip. She is thrilled when the police launch flies up there for the night, as she has not seen Alan Baker for months. Secretly she had hoped to marry him; then she was stunned by the news of his engagement to Elizabeth. She is happy now to perceive from his halting talk that the planned marriage is not definitely certain.

CHAPTER IV—Larry Youngs, one of Alan's men, discovers in MacMillan's fur bag a package of gold stolen from the Midnight Sun. The evidence incriminates Dave, so strongly that Alan cannot tell him. She hotly defends her father. Alan leads his expedition up the Big Aloska, but Haskell, Haskell's foolish orders to divide the party. Alan falls to capture the bandits. The police launch returns to Fort Endurance with Larry badly wounded.

CHAPTER V—Haskell, who is Alan's active enemy and trying to win Elizabeth, hints Alan for the failure and orders his demolition to the ranch. He then orders Alan to ordered Alan to split the police party. He refuses to let Alan lead a second expedition against the bandits. Seeing only one way now to go after the bandits and clear Joyce's father from the charges resulting from the obviously planted evidence, Alan buys out of the Mounted. Haskell agrees to his release on condition that he signs a paper to the effect that Haskell did not give the order to split the expedition.

CHAPTER VI—After making arrangements with Hardcock and old Dad Pence to look after Joyce's safety while she is alone at the MacMillan post (her father being killed at Fort Endurance), Alan starts out of the country in a motor canoe. As the days pass and she does not hear from him, Joyce is heart sick for Alan.

CHAPTER VII—In his journey, Alan meets a man, a well-known, famous aviator of the world war, and now on his own with a small and machine, a spirit of spirit draws them together, and Alan enters Haskell in the enterprise. Looking for funds to procure equipment, they loot government stores, but get their pursuit of the bandits, the criminals in the eyes of the law.

CHAPTER VIII—"Sho-lee" Jensen, leader of the bandits, plans to capture the MacMillan post and escape to Manitoba. At Fort Endurance Haskell catches on that Bill Hardcock is catching, examining and all for Alan at De Traversé lake, and plans with Constable Whipple to capture Alan when his plane alights there.

CHAPTER IX—Haskell's elaborate plan to entrap Alan fails. Picking up Hardcock and the rest of the plane, with its three occupants, continues to the MacMillan post.

CHAPTER X—Alan is thrilled to see Joyce again, but she is cool toward him. Convinced that Alan located the bandit tent on an island. He leaves Bill in charge of the one bandit found there, and Buzard fly back to the Aloska to try to head off the other bandits. But they have made their raid, killing old Dad Pence, her sole defender, and with Joyce the prisoner are on their way back to the rendezvous.

he was clasping her hand.

"Joyce! Joyce! I was afraid for you—here alone, girl. I can't tell you how glad—when I saw you... And glad to be back here."

As their eyes met, as Alan felt her small hand warm in his, he was torn between fears. In that first moment of their meeting, when Impressions stood out so sharp and clear, it seemed that all passion had gone out of Joyce's manner toward him. She greeted him warmly, she was friendly, even cordial, but in the same way as she would have met Bill Hardcock or Fedneault or Larry.

Introducing her to Buzard, she stepped down into the canoe, lapped the painter rope around a strut; and together he and she guided the plane athwart current to the landing. After mooring it securely and getting part of their personal duff, the four of them, with old Pence appointing himself guard over the machine, went up the path to the trading store.

Alan could fairly feel the dozen eager questions Joyce wanted to ask him: Who was this new-found friend whom he called Buzard? Where had they got this plane? How did they intend to use it against those bandits? But practical little soul as always, she asked no questions then. The three men, tired and hungry and desperately in need of rest, were her first consideration. Going back to the kitchen, she heated them water to wash and shave, and set about getting a hot substantial meal.

Alan happened to notice that his stool, which for two years had been placed on Joyce's dresser, was not also started down stream, using around the first bend, he saw Joyce two hundred yards ahead, standing on a jutting rock beside a brook mouth. When he came alongside and lifted the canoe prow out upon the shelving rock, she greeted him with a quiet friendly smile. They sat down together on the wolf-foot moss.

After his days in the plane, with the swish of hurtling struts and the thunder of a motor dining his ears, it was incredibly quiet on the spruce-bordered stream.

Very observant, he covertly stared at Joyce. She was looking past him at the far shore and woods. As he studied her features, it seemed to Alan that something profound had happened to her since he saw her last. She had changed; she was hardly the same girl. There was some new strange spiritual quality about her, as if of a person who has gone down into a ravaging sickness and has had the strength to conquer and rise out of it, but at a terrible cost.

To break the silence between them he began telling her of these last weeks—his trip to Edmonton, his providential luck in meeting Buzard, the prison charges that stood against them, their flight back north, their escape from Haskell's trap, his gladness when he saw her running down the path.

As she listened, thoroughly alive to the danger and hardships he had gone through, Joyce felt a profound gratitude for she knew Alan had done this largely for her sake. When he mentioned the prison charges facing him, she experienced a moment of panic; and imagined herself testifying in his behalf, fighting for him as he had fought for her.

A little later, after they had discussed plans for closing in upon the bandits, Alan rose up and gave her his hand to rise. He said:

"I've got to go down river a few miles. Joyce, Bill reached some supplies near that seat where you and I got upset that day and had to swim for it. I want to bring them up here this evening."

He waited a moment for some hint that she might wish to go along with him. None came. He suggested:

"I'd take only a couple hours. If you'd care to, I'd like for you to go."

"I'd better stay. Bill and Mr. Featheroff will be awake before long. I'll have supper ready when you get back."

"I can help you with that—if you'll go."

Joyce hesitated. She was aware that Alan deeply wanted her company. After all he'd done for her, it seemed cruelly ungrateful to refuse. And she herself wanted to go. But bitter wisdom whispered a warning. Since that morning when she turned his letters and picture and gifts to ashes, there had been no looking back. There must be none now. She had strength and courage to talk with him calmly and to act toward him as though they had never been more than good friends; but she dared not presume too far on that new-born strength. To be alone with him two hours on a twilight river, with their talk inevitably drifting to former times—it would be unbearable.

With gentle firmness she said:

"I'd like to go, Alan. But I'll have to run back to the post. There's so many things to do." She tried to smile. "I don't want to be a neglectful hostess to Bill and Mr. Featheroff."

As she started up the river trail, her thoughts brooded on several things Alan had said in the course of his story, especially on his occasional reference to Elizabeth. Not that he had said anything derogatory about Elizabeth. But his tone, his manner... Was he becoming a little disillusioned? Was he seeing Elizabeth standing not as the sister of his dead partner Curt, not as a girl to be cherished and shielded, but as a selfish, calculating person? Was he dimly foreseeing what his married life with her was going to be?

Joyce checked herself sharply from hoping or even thinking that Alan might break off his engagement, or from extending him anything more than grateful friendship. She was glad, profoundly glad, that his trials had caused no resurrection of love, no tremor of emotion. The discovery of her strength suffered her with a kind of pride. But for all that, she felt a great sorrow for Alan. He was her intently, evidently astonished to find a pretty, well-educated girl like her living almost alone here in this far-northern wilderness.

Later, when Joyce had insisted on their getting a few hours of rest and had left them in her father's room, he remarked:

"There's one lucky devil in this hour ago when he happened to glance through the window."

"It's a pity," he thought, "for them to bust up. A d-d shame, that's what. She's a regular girl. Looks, personality and spunk... Lord, I'd hate to ever quarrel with her!"

He wondered whether to tell Alan about that incident he'd seen. Alan was evidently fonder of around in the dark about Miss MacMillan. He was a bit awkward and blundered in such matters. Buzard thought:

"First chance I get, believe I'll tell him what she did. He ought to know. She either loves him or hates him, to do a thing like that!"

When Alan woke up, late in the evening, Buzard was still asleep and Bill Hardcock was dead to the world. Hoping to find Joyce, he went out into the trading hall.

Joyce was not there. For a few moments Alan stood looking about. As Bill had told him, she was closing out the post. He hated to think of Joyce's girlhood home being sold to some utter stranger. Thinking of Larry, soon to be invalided out of service and condemned to a life of intolerable idleness, he wondered whether he might not get this post for his crippled patrol partner. It was well located, and Larry's host of friends among the Indians would be sure to bring him their furs.

Still hunting Joyce, he went down to the landing where old Pence, whittling at his story-stick, was guarding the plane against any floating down and damaging it.

"You fix up early, Alan by."

"Yes. Got a couple things to do. They must've been on my mind. Where's Joyce?"

"She went down the river bank, down that 't' that just brook coming out'n the timber, to snag some trout. We're shy on meat."

Alan stepped into Dave MacMillan's canoe, laid in an extra molla-

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The attendance in high school is much better than was first expected. At present over seventy percent of the enrollment is attending, and others are re-entering every day.

Six weeks' tests will be given this week. All students who have attended school regularly will receive report cards Wednesday of next week.

There were two resignations among the bus drivers during the four weeks. The vacancies were filled by Messrs. Jones and Withrow. Bus routes during the last week have been changed somewhat so that the ten buses could carry the first weeks attendance. When the attendance is increased, the regular routes will be followed.

Just as soon as all students re-enter, work will be taken up in debating, essay writing, track, story telling, and all other interscholastic League activities.

COMMUNITY CARNIVAL

The Carnival is coming! Ho! Ho! Saturday night, November 21st.

21st, a real carnival will be put on in Sudan. Through this is sponsored by the P. T. A. and the school, it is to be understood that this is a Community Carnival. The various lodges in town have been asked to participate. There will be a main feature program. Then there will be clowns and "side shows." It will be a time for confetti, popcorn, peanuts, balloons—in fact, everything that goes with a carnival. Teachers will no longer be teachers but "bankers" for the particular show that they operate. There will be a tight rope walker, the dancing midget, and the fat woman that every one will want to see. Remember the date—Saturday night, November 21, 1931!

GRADING SYSTEM

On Wednesday, November 18, report cards go out for the first time this year. In high school each pupil will be given a grade for each subject that he is taking. This year grades will be recorded in figures rather than in letters. Seventy is considered a passing grade. All grades under 70 will be recorded.

ed in red ink. Two cards will be made for every pupil whose grade is below 70; one will be given to the pupil, and the other will be mailed to the pupil's parents. All pupils who have been in school most of the six weeks will be given cards. Those who have been absent a great deal will be given a chance to make up their work as they return. The teachers will try to estimate the pupils' grades accurately, though it will be hard to do this six weeks. Watch for the cards and come to the carnival.

WHO'S WHO IN COTTON PICKING WORLD

Who said that school children were lazy? In a check-up to find the boys and girls who picked and pulled the most cotton in one day, some astounding figures were revealed. Edith Alexander and Oran Neal top the list in pulling. Oran pulled 730 pounds while Edith pulled 725 pounds. Cortez Wofford and Sidney Gwin head the list in picking. Cortez picked 407 pounds and Sidney Gwin 338 pounds.

Names of other pupils who picked and pulled unusual amounts are as follows: Weldon Shaffer pulled 600. Crosby Slate, 531. Madaline Bell, 550. Mildred Miller, 580. Weldon Shaffer, 358. Edwin Crim, 300. Lavelle White, 3(1); Lucille Wright, 275.

Carnival night is Saturday night, November 21.

PARANT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

In the P. T. A. meeting, Wednesday, Nov. 4, a committee was appointed to lay plans for a school carnival which is to be given Saturday night, November 21.

The Association also voted to have one more room mother. These mothers are to be elected by the students of each room. A "Health Month" program was given.

Mrs. McLarty gave a brief outline of the accomplishments of the P. T. A. during the previous months. The P. T. A. of meets the first and third Wednesdays of each month, and all mothers are urged to attend.

See everybody at the Carnival

SENIOR CLASS MEETING

The senior class met Wednesday to agree upon a date to select the class rings for 1932. November 16, was the date set, and representatives from various companies will be present at 2 o'clock on that date. Classes are to have a contest in order to elect a queen for the School Carnival. Each class is to select a candidate in its class meeting. The seniors are already making plans to back their candidate 100 per cent strong.

JUNIOR CLASS MEETING

After Mr. Davis, the junior sponsor, talked to the Junior Class on the subject, "Class and School Loyalty," in their regular meeting, the juniors decided to get into the School Carnival spirit with all the "pep", vim, and enthusiasm they can muster.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

Mr. Aildredge states that 59 pupils are enrolled in the Commercial Department this year, 29 in bookkeeping and 30 in typing. Classes are composed entirely of juniors and seniors. Two lectures each month will be held, and a certificate will be given to those attending all twelve lectures. The girls are formulating plans for the home project work. Many interesting projects have been selected, some dealing with menu planning, and some with health, personality, and care of clothing.

HOME ECONOMIC DEPARTMENT

The Home Economic girls are planning to attend the health lecture to be given by the Red Cross nurse on Friday of this week. Two lectures each month will be held, and a certificate will be given to those attending all twelve lectures. The girls are formulating plans for the home project work. Many interesting projects have been selected, some dealing with menu planning, and some with health, personality, and care of clothing.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES

The intermediate grades met in assembly Friday afternoon. Mr. Davis lead several songs and made a short talk. The Reverend Henricks also talked to the students for a few minutes.

Mr. Davis stated that these students in the high seventh grade now will begin the eighth grade at the beginning of the second semester, though they will not be sent over to the high school building.

All grades are decorating the rooms for Thanksgiving. Pearl Musick withdrew from school last week. She has moved to Hereford.

WHERE THE TEACHERS WERE

Teachers spent the four weeks in various ways and places. Some returned to their homes; others remained in Sudan.

Superintendent Davis went to his farm at Lometa, but was in Sudan for a part of the four weeks.

Mr. Smith drove through with Mr. Davis to his home in Graham.

Miss Lewis spent the entire four weeks with her family in Tertram.

Mr. Jenkins, accompanied by Miss Lewis, Mrs. Dodgen, and Mrs. Duckworth, drove to Lam-passe, where he spent most of the four weeks fishing. Mr. Dodgen visited her husband; Mrs. Duckworth visited her people in Waco. Mr. Duckworth made a short trip to Seymour and Waco.

Coach Aildredge visited in Fredrick and Olustee, Oklahoma.

Mr. Branch made trips to Amarillo and Dallas, but remained in Sudan the larger part of the time.

Mrs. Franks and Miss Trantham also stayed in Sudan, though Miss Trantham spent a few days in Clovis, visiting Miss Evelyn Taylor.

A number of the grade teachers remained in Sudan for at least a part of the time. Miss Shaffer, Jenkins, White, and Es Scoggins, Mabel and Clifford Mesdames McKelvey, Stone, May, and Boyd were among these.

Misses Foote, Reeves and Oglesby were in Lubbock a part of the time. Miss Jenkins made frequent trips to Bovina. Miss Clary went to her home in Quitaque.

Miss Weatherford spent several days visiting a sister in Amarillo.

Mr. Butts spent a large part of the time in New Mexico, digging potatoes, it is understood.

These teachers report that they enjoyed the four weeks, but were ready to begin work again. They are all looking forward to a good school year.

SENIORS OF '31 IN COLLEGE

Sudan High School is glad to hear that Anna Jewel Shuttlesworth is standing at the head of her classes in John Tarleton College. Anna Jewel was the honor graduate of her class, and is living up to the reputation she established in Sudan High School.

Leona Slaughter and Arta B. West are making good at Tech, though they report they are working hard.

T. J. Finley, who is attending school in Las Vegas, New Mexico, was visiting his parents in Sudan the past week. T. J. says that he is having to work hard, but he likes the New Mexico school.

One other senior of last year, Arthur Shuttlesworth, is in college this year. Arthur "the ladies' man," is having a battle royal with his studies, but here's hoping he survives. Arthur is also attending John Tarleton.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Mr. Davis and Mr. Aildredge are making plans for an invitational basketball tournament to be held in January. They will invite all the best teams of the Panhandle to participate.

ARMISTIC DAY PROGRAM

The government class, under Miss Lewis' direction, will give a program in assembly on Wednesday, November 11. Several pupils will make talks, and others will sing wartime songs. Mr. Hazel will also talk to the student body at this time.

THE HIGH SCHOOL COMMANDMENTS

I Thou shalt not vamp senior students; they are trying to graduate.

II Thou shalt not run in the halls, for fear the plaster will fall.

III Thou shalt not bring candy to class; eat thy lunch at noon.

IV Thou shalt not whistle in the hall when a faculty member is present.

V Thou shalt not make noise in study hall lest the seniors be awakened.

VI Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's books. Leave thy lockers alone.

VII If thou deemest it necessary to fight, do so on the outside.

VIII Park not thy gum on the chair; use thy ear.

IX Thou shalt not erase for fear of copying.

X Heed well these commandments and thou shalt be safe in the S. H. S.

Mr. Jenkins reported that he performed an experiment recently that proved that the grasshopper's organ of hearing is in its legs. When a member of his class asked him how he did it, Mr. Jenkins explained it in this way.

"I put a grasshopper on one end of a board and tapped lightly on the other end. The grasshopper jumped. To me that proved the experiment, but I went even farther than that with the proof. I took the grasshopper's legs off and then put it on the end of the board. Again I tapped, but this time the grasshopper did not jump."

Freshman: "Is this school haunted?"

Senior: "Gosh, no!"

Freshman: "Then why are they always talking about the school spirit?"
