

The Sudan News

THINK ON THESE THINGS

(By the Parsons)

Time is passing and opportunities are fading away. The fall traders will be ready to buy in a short time. Money from the Cotton Reduction acreage will soon be available. Where will you spend the money in order to get the best results? Read the ads in the Sudan News of the Sudan Merchants and you will find that they compare favorably with other towns. Spend your cash with the man who has been carrying your account. It is only fair to him.

Is it a fact that we have twenty-two "Blind Tigers" in and about Sudan? We still have a law against making and selling whisky and beer, that should be enforced.

Sudan is practically assured of a nine months school this coming term. The community rejoices over this fact. Mr. Rochelle and the County School board together with Hon. Dugan of Littlefield, our Representative at Austin, are due a vote of thanks for their special interest in our school affairs.

It is self evident that Sudan Merchants are making progress and drawing the attention of the surrounding Cities to that which is taking place in Sudan. Monday's Amarillo News Globe had quite a nice writeup in regard to the large crowds for Trades' Day.

Next Sunday night there will be a community prohibition rally held at the M. E. Church. Your presence at this meeting is urged.

Our Sunday School Baseball Team has suffered defeat at the hand of two or three opponents, but are still in good trim and ready to go. In nearly every instance when they were defeated it was because the whole group could not be present. I still say we have the best Sunday School team in the county. If you don't believe it match a game with us.

Sudan's Trades Day (last Monday) went over again with great success. The usual large crowds were present. Many, many bargains were offered by our merchants and highest prices for produce were paid. Get the habit of trading in Sudan.

A larger payroll for Sudan should be the great objective for the Business Men's Club, Creamery, Canning factory, Compress and Oil Mill. No battle was ever won by giving up. Get the names of men who are interested in these different projects.

Don't forget that your Home-Town paper is the medium through which the public is informed. Pay your subscription.

Have you forgotten to take your old gold, silver and precious stones to your church secretary? The "Treasure Hunt" is for the benefit of your respective churches.

Our community was saddened with the news of the sudden death of Roy Hammock, who has been working at Quitaque.

Mr. Hammock has been a resident of Sudan for a number of years and has worked at the carpenter's trade. It is unfortunate that he should be taken in the prime of life. He leaves a widow and three small children who have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB NOTES

Ruby Mashburn, C. H. D. A.

The first county wide clothing contest and encampment for 4-H Club girls was held June 29 and 30th at the County Fair Grounds at Amherst. The event was sponsored by the home demonstration clubs of the county, who furnished awards for the clothing contest. The awards consisted of: wall vases, clothing, pictures, waste paper baskets, hat stands, and laundry bags, most of them being made by the club women.

More than 100 girls attend the first day and 70 of them modeled dresses that they had made themselves. The girls made print or sheer dresses and some made each. The judging was done by Mesdames Badger and Dodgen of Littlefield, who explained the good and bad features of the color, line and design for the various girls. Awards were made as follows:

First year under 13, print dresses: 1st, Zelma Priddy, Amherst; 2nd, Mary Helen Seigler, Amherst; 3rd, Happy Dow, Littlefield; First year print 13, Ruby Ray Bills, Friendship; 2nd, Nannie Fay Moncrief, Friendship; 3rd, Lois Roberts, Friendship. First year, stout sizes. 1st, Evelyn Stanfield, Spade; 2nd, Ethel Skinner, Amherst; 3rd, Dorothy Mae Singer, Fieldton. First year sheer. 1st, Auda Thompson, Friendship; 2nd, Margaret Fay Walker, Littlefield; 3rd, Dorothy Atkinson, Amherst; Second year print. 1st, Opal Hecky, Amherst; 2nd, Beula B. Third year year print. 1st, Jessie Marie Seigler, Amherst. Third year. Sheer, Virginia Bell Logan, Amherst.

Lunch brought by the girls was now spread and served to the group, the Amherst 4-H club girls supervised by their sponsor, Miss Virginia Pointer acted as hostess. After a short recreational program Mrs. Harold Welch of Amherst talked to the girls on personal habits and hygiene. Each club was given an opportunity to tell of the interesting work that they had done this year, the discussion was led by the demonstrators of the clubs.

At each meal some club presided as hostess while others acted as K. P.'s.

Sponsors bringing girls and assisting were: Mrs. H. M. Packard of Spring Lake; Mrs. W. J. Capers, of Spade; Mrs. H. C. Dennington, of Friendship; Mrs. W. C. Squires of Harts Camp; and Miss Virginia Pointer of Amherst. 4-H Club girls brought by their mothers were from, Fieldton, Littlefield and Sudan.

Girls and their sponsors voted unanimously to have an encampment and clothing contest in 1934.

A County Council of 4-H Clubs was organized at the business meeting and the following officers elected:

President, Dorothy Jean Squires, Harts Camp; Vice-President, Nannie Fay Moncrief, Friendship; Secretary and Treasurer, Virginia Bell Logan, Amherst; Reporter, Zetha Bussey, Friendship; Parliamentarian, Littlefield. The Council will meet the first Saturday in each month at the Amherst Home Demonstration Club House from 2 until 4. At the first meeting the three best doll dresses from each club will be judged to see which are the three best in the county.

Mrs. R. T. Badger of Littlefield will give a prize to the 4-H Club girl of Lamb County having the best darned hose at the clothing contest in 1934. Judges to be selected.

In the 4-H Bedroom contest which has just closed; Opal Turner of the Amherst Club won first place, and Opal Brown of the Littlefield Club won second place.

Summary of New Emergency

Farm Mortgage Bill

The new emergency farm mortgage bill which was signed by President Roosevelt, May 12, is greatly designed to ease the farm mortgage situation by:

(1) reducing the interest rates on Federal Land Bank loans, setting the pace for others in the farm mortgage loan business.

(2) temporarily waiving the requirement of payment on principal

(3) continuance of extensions on Federal Land Bank loans where desirable and necessary.

(4) providing Federal Land Bank bonds for exchange or purchase for first farm mortgages.

(5) providing funds for refinancing farmer's debts.

(6) sharply curtailing the volume of foreclosures.

(7) refinancing irrigation, drainage and levee districts where their outstanding securities have depreciated, the benefits to be prorated to farm owners in such districts, and

(8) providing loans to Joint Stock Land Banks to facilitate their orderly liquidation.

Sixty days hence rates of interest on all of the more than $1,000,000,000 of Federal Land Bank loans to nearly 400,000 farmer borrowers will be reduced to 4 1-2 per cent. This rate will apply for the next five years. It will mean a saving to borrowers of approximately $55,000,000 during this five-year period.

New loans made by these banks through National farm loan associations will bear not to exceed 4 1-2 per cent interest; loans made directly by the banks will bear 5 per cent interest and in Puerto Rico the rate will be reduced to 5 per cent. This reduction in interest rates, it is expected will cause others in the mortgage loan business to do likewise.

During the five-year period, if borrowers are not in default with respect to any covenant of their mortgage, such as payment of interest, taxes, insurance, water or drainage or levee assessments, they will not be required to pay the Land Banks' installments on the principal of their loans.

Authority is given by Congress to the Federal Land Banks to issue during the next two years $2,000,000,000 of their consolidated, tax-exempt, long-term, bonds to bear not to be guaranteed by the United States. The Federal Government not only guarantees the interest on these securities but Congress has made them eligible for 15-day loans from Federal Reserve Banks to member banks, assuring them of a wider market and greater liquidity.

These bonds may be used in three ways:

(1) sold to the investing public to secure funds to loan on the security of first farm mortgages which are acceptable security for such bond issues.

(2) exchange for first farm mortgages existing at the time of the passage of this act, and

(3) after a period of one year such bonds may be sold to refund outstanding issues of Federal Land Bank bonds provided funds from such new bonds are not needed to make new loans.

Loans made by the Federal Land Banks, may not exceed 50 per cent of the appraised normal value of the land for agricultural purposes plus 20 per cent of the insured improvements. Bond exchanged for first mortgages can not be in excess of this amount or the amount of this amount or the amount of the mortgage offered in exchange.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

At the close of the services last Sunday at M. E. Church a Temperance and Social Service Committee was elected. Mr. J. A. Dryden, chairman; A. W. Ormand and J. M. Shuttlesworth. Mrs. T. W. Alderson was elected Vice-Chairman for work among the women. Those who are interested in the Prohibition Issue should get in touch with this committee. We need Lay Speakers and personal workers in this campaign. Every available means should be used to get correct information before the voters of the several precincts before August 26.

We appeal to the general public for assistance in this work. It is not a selfish proposition but one that has to do with every home in this community. It is not our purpose to lambast or harshly criticize any individual, but rather to show the change, whichever is the smaller. When such exchange is made the farmer pays the bank on the basis of the face value of the bonds exchanged, and the loan is amortized over a long period, bearing not to exceed 4 1-2 per cent interest. Each borrower will be required to purchase capital stock to the extent of 5 per cent of his new loan, either in the local National farm loan association or the bank.

In order to effect an exchange of first mortgages for bonds, it is anticipated that in many cases the amount of such mortgages will have to be curtailed to come within the sum which can be loaned under the terms of the Federal Farm Loan Act. The banks also may purchase such mortgages. In exchanging bonds for mortgages or making new loans, the banks will not be relieved of any of their responsibility for making sound investments.

Quite separate and distinct from Land Bank loans, there is provided a fund of $2,000,000,000 to be administered by the Farm Loan Commissioner of the new Farm Credit Administration. This fund will be loaned by the Commissioner's representatives located in the Federal Land Banks.

These loans will be made for the following purposes:

(1) refinancing and indebtedness of the farmer, either secured or unsecured.

(2) providing working capital for farm operations, and

(3) enabling any farmer to redeem or repurchase farm property foreclosed at any time after July 1, 1931.

Those eligible to borrow from this fund are actual farmers engaged in farming operations, either personally or through an agent or the principal part of whose income is derived from farming operations, including the personal representative of a deceased farmer.

The amount of the mortgage given by any farmer, together with all prior mortgages or other evidences of indebtedness secured by such farm property of the farmer shall not exceed 75 per cent of the value thereof, as determined upon appraisal, nor shall a loan in excess of $5,000 be made to any one farmer. The loans will be secured by first or second mortgages upon the whole or any part of the farm property, real or personal, including crops, of the farmer. Interest only will be required for a period of three (3) years after which annual installments on the principal must be paid. Interest will not exceed 5 per cent per annum.

This law also will prevent Joint Stock Land Banks from making any further loans or issuing any additional tax-exempt bonds except such as are necessary for the refinancing of existing loans or bonds issues or for the sale of any real estate now owned or acquired. The Farm Loan Commissioner may make loans from a fund of $100,000,000 to facilitate their orderly liquidation.

Public improvement districts, such as irrigation, drainage and levee districts, may apply to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for loans to refinance their projects by purchasing their depreciated securities outstanding, but reduction in indebtedness of such districts obtained by refinancing must be passed on pro rata to the farm-owners in such areas. Loans may be made only when the Corporation is convinced of the economic soundness of the project.

A BANK REFLECTS THE LIFE ABOUT IT

Loans and Investments on Which Condition of a Bank Depends Determined by the Kind of Business Surrounding It

POLITICAL and popular misapprehensions toward banking are due to little else than failure to realize that it is what the people themselves do that the condition of banking reflects, and that banking cannot of itself reflect events and conditions other than those that actually originate from surrounding circumstances, Francis H. Sisson, President of the American Bankers Association, says in an article in Forum Magazine.

The character of an institution's notes and investments indicates whether it is in the farm regions, a manufacturing center, a mercantile neighborhood or a great financial district, he says, and furthermore, besides identifying the institution as to its locality, a study of its notes will equally clearly indicate the economic conditions surrounding it.

A Picture of the Farm Districts "If a farm district bank's note history shows that its loans rise and fall with the normal cycle of production and marketing of the products of the region, it may be taken as an index of economic good health for the locality," he says. "But if, over a period, the loan volume shows a dwindling trend it may mean a region that is losing ground,—becoming exhausted or being robbed of business by another community. Or if a large proportion of the loans are not paid at maturity but are chronically renewed, or if stocks or bonds or real estate have to be taken as additional security, these too have economic significances, reflecting perhaps crop failures, over-production or inefficient, high cost farming methods in a highly competitive national or world market, such as wheat. Inevitably all these facts are reflected in the condition of the local banks.

City Banks, Too "If the loans of a bank in a manufacturing or merchandising field show a smoothly running coordination with production and distribution they, too, mirror a healthy economic situation. Or there may be here also signs that reflect growing unfavorable conditions, such as excessive loan renewals, over-enthusiasm and therefore over-expansion of credit extended to makers or dealers in particular products, and similar circumstances. Similar conditions apply to banks engaged in financing the securities markets.

"The foregoing is merely suggestive of the infinite aspects of the life outwardly surrounding the banks which form and control their internal conditions. Although these facts seem obvious enough, the discussions and criticisms that have raged about the banks often appear to set them apart as somehow separate from the lives of our people, casting forth a malignant influence upon agriculture, industry and trade from forces generated wholly within themselves.

Fate of Banks and People Intertwined "The truth of the matter is that the fate of the banks is inseparably interwoven with the fate of the rest of the people and of the nation. What happened to the country happened to the banks and what happened to the banks is in no way different or detached from what happened to the people. They are all part of the same pattern, of the same continuous stream of events. No one element in that stream of events can be called the cause of depression. "If the banks caused trouble to some of our people it was because they were irresistibly forced to pass on troubles that came to them from other people. These troubles impaired the values of their securities and customers' notes—and rendered some unable, in turn, to pay back to other customers their deposits that had been properly used to create these loans and investments."

The Bank as a Rebuilder IN place of a 3 per cent loss on an investment of $40,000, a large New York savings bank is now getting 6 per cent profit on an investment of $50,000, because it had the good business judgment to spend $40,000 in modernizing a group of 40-year-old tenement houses on the lower East Side which it was forced to take over on mortgage foreclosure, says an article in the American Bankers Association Journal. A year or two ago the owner, who had always kept up his mortgage payments, began to neglect the property, it became run down and the tenants began to leave.

The bank remodeled the buildings completely, putting in an oil-burning heating plant, incinerators and other modern changes, with the result the buildings are now entirely rented, and there is $14,000 a year coming in instead of several thousand going out. At that rate the improvements will pay for themselves in three years.

This same bank has done 15 other renovation jobs similar to this, and all have proved profitable. The bank has its own architects and is employing seven painters.

U. S. GOVERNMENT GREATEST BANKER

Runs Fifty-two Financing Institutions With Investment of Two Billion Dollars—Thirty-nine Agricultural

AMERICA'S biggest banker today is the Federal Government which is now operating fifty-two financing institutions, says Professor John Hanna of Columbia University in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Forty of these are owned entirely by the Government," he says. "In twelve more the Government has already a two-thirds interest. Thirty-seven are intended to be permanent. Twenty-five of the permanent ones and fourteen of the temporary ones are agricultural. "The capital stock held by the United States in these banks has a par value of $1,380,000,000. The Government's total investment is nearly $2,000,000,000. Resources of these institutions exceed $3,000,000,000. In addition the Government has detailed supervision over fifty-one mortgage banks, operating under Federal charter.

"The Government also supervises 4,600 local agricultural loan associations with Federal charters. All this takes no account of the relations of the Government to the twelve Federal Reserve banks, nor of the authority recently given to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy preferred stock in national and state commercial banks."

Consolidation Called For The President has ordered the consolidation of the agricultural credit agencies into the new Farm Credit Administration, says Professor Hanna. He expresses the opinion that before the consolidation of the agricultural financing agencies too much machinery had been created to administer the financing institutions which the Government either owns or supervises.

"Existing institutions represent a considerable differentiation of function and any consolidation should be preceded by a careful survey of the actual activities of the various institutions," he continues. "The only consolidation the Administration has announced is that of the agricultural credit agencies in the Farm Credit Administration. As a permanent solution this arrangement is too closely bound up with politics."

Mrs. J. P. Earnest returned today from Chicago where she attended the World's Fair.

Mrs. Hicks is visiting relatives in Gainesville this week.

OUR SAFER HIGHWAYS

For the first time there is an indication that the American people are beginning to learn how to handle their automobile traffic safely.

The National Safety Council points out that motor vehicle fatalities last year dropped for the first time since autos took to the highways. To be sure, fewer autos were being driven than in the year before; yet the reduction in traffic fatalities—about 13 per cent—was twice as great as the decrease in automobile travel, as gauged by gasoline consumption.

Of course, one swallow doesn't make a summer. The total of traffic deaths is still shockingly high; there is every reason to expect that it will continue to be so for many years. But it is encouraging to notice that we are at least making a start on the job of cutting it down. If we can continue with our safety campaign, if we find new ways of regulating the flow of traffic and if individual drivers come to recognize more clearly their responsibility, we should be able to reduce the toll a little each year.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lowenstein and daughter, Ella, of Fort Worth; Mrs. Bert Dryden, and the O'Brien children returned from an extended visit to the Century of Progress, in Chicago. They also visited Detroit, Michigan, Dayton, Ohio, St. Louis, Missouri, parts of Indiana and Canada. They report a lovely trip with no car trouble. They spent ten days at the Fair grounds and, Mrs. Dryden states that they never saw one half of what there was to be seen.

Winfred Wells, Bernice, Brothers, Joe Carter, and Forrest Weimbold left for Fort Sill Saturday evening. Word was received from the boys stating that they reached Lawton at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, with very little car trouble. This is the boy's third year to attend this camp.

A Fishing Trip In Big Bend Country

Sudan Fire Boys Spend Ten Days Fishing In Brewster County, Tex.

 The fourth day which was more agreeable than the others as the sand did not blow (the reason for the sand blowing and bothering us was because we camped on a sandy beach) Stauffer and Briscoe went down the river in a boat and brought the fish to camp. We had a very fine dinner on this day. For dinner we had fish (about 80 pounds), potatoes, corn, bread, onions, pickles, blackberries, and peaches. This was the first day that we had plenty of fish. We all sure acted the part of the camel who stores up food for weeks to come in his hump, and I think that we were all good representatives to the two humped camels. Here we found it advisable to make the rule that anyone caught eating before the cook said that the meal was ready would be ducked in the river. This rule was broken only one time and that by the camp physician, Dr. Ford, and due to his age the chief ruled that he should not be ducked. After dinner some of the boys decided to rob the bees in a nearby cliff. In doing this we found that the bees had been on the Rio Grande the longer and were just a little tough for us and we gave this up as a bad job. Having made a rule before leaving home that none should shave while on the trip some of the boys were boasting of a nice long beard. Most of the boys were also complaining of very sore feet and were hobbling around barefooted and asking professional advice on the care of feet from the camp doctor.

The fifth night was spent fishing as usual with a successful catch.

Some of the boys coming from down the river discovered a skeleton which Dr. Ford said was that of a small man. It had been burned in a drift fire of recent date. His belt buckle and several bones were brought home by the boys as souvenirs.

On Friday Morning Nichols and Greathouse left for home with a large mess of fish. Nichols sure hated to leave Boyd with the other boys for fear some harm would come to him but he had to get back to his business. A short time after Nichols left for home Hunt, Doty, McGlamory N. Briscoe and Ladd came in from four miles down the river and reported a fine catch of seven large fish. Some of the boatmen went down and brought up the catch making a total of 24 good fish at camp.

This place referred to as four miles down the river was a rock ledge rising about three feet above a hole of water about 30 feet deep and was on the Mexico side of the river. There was a small sand bar on this ledge on which the boys spent the nights down the river. About a mile up the river from this place is an old rustlers camp with the corrals completely hidden under the vines and small trees and the mess kitchen hidden under some more trees. This place showed signs of recent use. Also on the Mexican side down the river about one-half mile was another of these camps. The nights we spent down the river were not at all a pleasure for we knew that there were many people in that territory whom we did not see and that we were not in the good old U. S. We would jump at every little noise however there were several of us and we were not disturbed.

Upon arriving in camp we found that some one had drank a pint of whisky that Dr. Ford had been keeping for fear some one would get snake bitten. he said. No one had been sick, but some of the boys were very tired and rested most of the afternoon.

While laying around the camp that afternoon some were playing poker (the few who had not gone broke). It was voted that A. K. Boyd was the brainless wonder of the crowd. Neal Briscoe the toughest and Estes the biggest liar. When all at once we heard a commotion from the poker game. When we got it all quieted down enough to ask questions we found that Burr Davis had gone wild and tried to butt his brains out, cut his throat or otherwise destroy his beautiful features all because he had his last penny in a pot and some one showed him four of a kind leaving him broke and out of the game.

The night was spent with all in camp and a small poker game as usual and some of the poker players offered a dime for a bucket of water which offer was immediately taken by Ladd who then got in the game with the dime and broke up the poker playing after hours of hard playing. Some said he could run a bucket of water into a river.

The last day on the river was spent by taking up lines and preparing to leave while Doty and Stauffer, our mechanics, repaired the truck and trailer for the return trip. This day was cloudy and the wind was from the north. We were about out of everything to eat except fish and everyone was nursing a pair of sore feet and were content to make the necessary preparations to leave camp early the next morning. Just as we were about to leave for home on the following morning, it was found that all the oil had leaked out of Dr. Ford's car, and not having any extra oil along one of the mechanics told him to use a bucket of shortening. He got out of the mountains in fine shape and the shortening worked just like oil. However, we got some oil at the Black Gap Ranch house. Four miles south of Fort Stockton we burnt out a bearing in the truck, which delayed us several hours. We drove as far as Gran Falls and put up for the night. We got home Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, all tired and dirty and glad to get home. The next morning we divided our fish. We had 26 channel cat weighing from five to twenty pounds dressed. These fish were in fins shape as we dressed them at Marathon and packed them in ice in the boat.

Some of us had trouble getting our wives in a good humor, but think all succeeded and will be ready to go back next year. (This story was written from notes made by L. T. Hunt, who accompanied the group.)
