

As I See Ranger

By Gene Townsend

It has been several years since I took the test to get my drivers license. But one of my thoughts that I remember is trying to park between those two stakes that the drivers license man had set up to test drivers on parallel parking. I remember practicing many hours preparing for that test. The words of my instructor come back to me this day. Pull up even with the car ahead and about a foot outside of it. Cut your wheels to the left and back until your front wheels are even with the rear wheels on the parked car. Then turn your wheels back to the right all the way and you will end up in perfect position at the curb.

It sounds easy, but practice as I did, I still couldn't get the hang of it. And then when finally I did get to where I could get the car into the parking space between two cars, the day came when the officer told me to park between the two stakes. That was the day! It seemed impossible for anyone to park a car in that space, but as I look back on the day that I tried to get that car into that small space, I suddenly remember it might not have been as impossible as I thought. After all, I turned the car around in that space. If I could do that, surely it was possible for anyone to at least park in that amount of space.

The drivers license man in Ranger has set up those little stakes across the street from the Times office. On several occasions I have sympathized with people as they have tried to get their car into that small space. In the past few months I have witnessed some interesting demonstrations on parallel parking. I couldn't begin to tell all the positions that I have seen cars get into in that few feet of stacked off area.

But a few days ago, the ideas that I have had for these past several years were rudely shattered. I have thought all this time that those stakes were placed so close together that it was impossible for anyone to park between them. I thought that the drivers license man placed them there just to see how wessed up a person could get when trying to park. But as I said, this was all disproved a few weeks ago, when the drivers license man drove down after a day of testing and calmly slipped the State car into the parking space, just as if there was all kinds of room.

I have always had the idea that the officers giving those tests couldn't park in that space, and now that I have seen it done I look forward each Monday evening when it is time for him to pick up those stakes and see if he will knock one of those stakes down. But they shouldn't have done me that way, after all these years, they could have let me go on thinking that it couldn't be done.

Scoutleaders Roundtable Held Monday Night

A Roundtable meeting of Scoutleaders of the Northeast District of the Comanche Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America was held at the First Methodist Church in Ranger Monday night.

Basic training for scout leaders was the object of the meeting. Fred Bennett, scoutmaster, Troop 10 of Ranger, was in charge of the program. A follow-up program will be held in Eastland next month when a Second Class scoutleaders course will be given.

Scoutleaders from Ranger, Eastland and Breckenridge were present at the meeting.

Those present from Ranger were Bennett, Aaron Howton, Allen Rushing and Dwayne Dennis.

Bob Slaughter of Eastland and Joe Galbreth of Brownwood, council executives, attended the meeting.

Covered Sugar

By Mrs. Cubian Perry

Did you ever start to dust the books in your small library and, the first thing you know, have one out of the case and find you had been there for an hour?

Dusting? No. There you are, squatted down on the floor, stiff as a broom handle, your mind running behind your eyes, taking in all that your eyes are feeding!

Now, if you plan on reading! You get all comfortable and cozy; but usually you are so comfortable that you fall asleep—can't remember where or what you read!

This happened to me the other day (I am still at it). Grandfather time did not cause this but Grandmother Time did her best on me as she knows all those little muscles that women keep under lock and key...

Just to laugh a little bit.

Keep your face with sunshine lit, Laugh a little bit.

All the shadows off will fit; If you have the grit and wit Just to laugh a little bit.

Cherish this as sacred writ— Laugh a little bit.

Keep it with you, sample it, Laugh a little bit.

Little ills will sure beside you, Fortune may not sit beside you, Men may mock and fame deride you,

But you'll mind them not a whit If you laugh a little bit.

—Edmund Vance Cooke

OR HOW ABOUT THIS? THE GLAD SONG

Sing a song, sing a song, Ring the glad-bells all along; Smile at him who frowns at you, He will smile and then they're two.

Laugh a bit, laugh a bit, Folks will soon be catching it, Can't resist a happy face; World will be a merry place.

Laugh a Bit and Sing a Song, Where there are there's nothing wrong; Joy will dance the whole world through, But it must begin with you.

Effect of Insurance Rates Under New Plan

The new Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan, which went into effect January 1, has caused many questions to arise. Some of which can readily be answered and some of which can only be answered after the plan has been in effect for a while.

One of the questions is, how will the plan affect the drivers in the Ranger area? The new plan which is a refinement of a plan that has been in effect since 1952, is set up to reward the individual driver, where the old plan set insurance premiums on an area basis. The Ranger area, where traffic is much lighter than in the larger cities such as Fort Worth and Houston, has an Automobile Liability premium rate of approximately $32.00, compared to $37.00 in Fort Worth and Abilene, and $59.00 in Houston which is the highest rate effective in Houston.

Under the new plan a driver in Ranger that hasn't had an accident in the past three years, will be awarded a $6.40 savings on his liability premium. A driver that has had six moving traffic violations may have to pay as much as $64.00 for the same insurance.

A driver in New York City pays $131.00 for the same coverage a driver in Ranger pays $52.00 for. In St. Louis it costs a driver $128.00, and $73.00 in Los Angeles. Tulsa drivers pay $57.00 for their insurance.

Under the new plan, households where drivers have a three year record of no chargeable accidents, or chargeable convictions for moving traffic violations, will be entitled to a 20 per cent discount below regular premium rates. With one point against them, the household will pay the regular rate. With two, three, four, five, six or more against them, the household will pay a corresponding 20 per cent increase for each point, up to a 100 per cent increase.

Why a point system? Studies show that there is a direct relationship between highway accidents and convictions for moving traffic violations. The group of drivers who run up a record of convictions have a much greater chance of being involved in accidents than does the group of motorists who drives in a lawful manner.

Is the plan equitable? Many opponents have expressed doubts about the fairness of the plan because of the three year period in which it reaches back for its records. They say that had many Texas known they were going to be penalized, they would have protested minor traffic infractions in court. There is some merit of truth in their arguments and undoubtedly many of these people would have won their cases. But if these drivers are truly safe drivers, with the one exception they speak of, they will not be charged any more for insurance than they now pay, too, they will have a change to prove their safety ability and earn a discount in the years ahead. Approximately 73 per cent of the motorists in Texas are lawful and accident-free drivers, thus the burden of paying for the Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan will be shifted to the shoulders of the unsafe drivers who are causing the most accidents.

Who's going to get rich? If anyone is going to "get rich" off the new plan it is not the insurance companies. About the only persons who stand to make a financial gain are the safe drivers.

Will every accident cost more? There are many exceptions in the assignment of points for an accident or traffic ticket. For example, suppose you are backing out of a parking place in a shopping district and accidentally scrape the fender of the car next to you, you would not be assigned points against you, unless the damage exceeded $25. Also, if you are ticketed for defective lights or other equipment, except brakes, you are not assigned points.

Will courts bog down? It has been charged that Texas' court system will be bogged down by the new plan. (Continued on page three)

Small Decrease Noted In Number of County Businesses During Past Year

Statistics released today by A. J. Hemphill, manager of the Fort Worth office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reflect the growth of the business population in Eastland County during the past year. Figures obtained from a physical count of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book for January, 1960 totaled 432 manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers in this area as compared to 501 in January, 1959.

The Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book lists all manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit. It does not include some of the services and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers. Therefore, the figures for business in Eastland County would actually be higher than the 432 quoted above.

Hemphill added that during the past year 280 changes were made in the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book listings of Eastland County businesses, including 28 names added, 74 names deleted, and 108 changes in the ratings of continuing business. Incidentally, the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book, which is the world's largest regularly published volume, is revised every sixty days to keep the business listings current. During the past sixty days, nearly 70,000 new names were added to the Reference Book and almost 65,000 were removed. During this period, credit ratings were changed on more than 110,000 business enterprises.

As one phase in revising credit and keeping them up-to-date, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. through its national network of offices, writes every year to all businesses in the Reference Book to request their financial statements. This year, these requests are being sent to approximately three million businesses—to the corner grocery store worth a few thousand dollars as well as to business worth millions.

When the owner or officer of a business enterprise, or his accountant, fills out and mails his financial statement to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. it becomes a part of the credit report on his business and a factor in determining the credit rating of his business.

J. W. Vinson announced today that he will be a candidate for Constable of Precinct No. 2.

Vinson has lived in and around Ranger all his life and for the past two and one-half years he has been employed by Vinson Radio and TV Service.

A formal announcement will be released in the near future.

It is not necessary for the businessman to wait for the Dun & Bradstreet Reporter's call to hand him his statement. When the Dun & Bradstreet reporter receives a businessman's financial statement in advance of his periodic call, he can make a more detailed analysis of the financial statement in advance of the background, operations, more intelligently.

The Dun & Bradstreet credit rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of the alphabet, indicates financial strength or the tangible net worth of the business. The second is a number which reflects a composite appraisal of the background, operations, financial and payment record of the business.

Each Reference Book listing, which includes the rating, is a condensed summary of the information contained in the Dun & Bradstreet credit report. The report includes the following: a history of the business (who owns it, who runs it, and how long it has been operating); a description of what the business does and how it does it; a financial section which usually includes the latest financial statement; and a record of how the business pays its bills.

While credit reports are primarily used by businessmen who want to evaluate the credit risk of a business before shipping or (Continued on page three)

Apartment Sharer's Honesty In Question
 Dear Mrs. Post: I share an apartment with a young woman. She is very neat and pleasant and we get on very well together. However, I have discovered lately that some of my things are disappearing. Two weeks ago I missed a pair of good black gloves which I had worn only once. Thinking that I had lost them, I thought nothing more about them. But several days later I missed a pair of nylons and just today, a slip. I hate to accuse anyone of being dishonest, but I can't help think that she is pilfering my things. This is a very awkward situation and I really don't know what to do about it without offending her deeply. Is there any way I can tactfully handle this situation?
 Answer: You might say to her, "I was sure I had another pair of nylons, or 'I can't find my black gloves anywhere. I hope I haven't lost them." In other words, let her know that you are aware of your things disappearing, and let it go at that, unless they continue to disappear.

Answering Congratulatory Messages
 Dear Mrs. Post: My engagement was recently announced and I have received many personal notes as well as printed cards from friends and relatives giving me their good wishes. Should these notes and cards be acknowledged, and if so, by personal note?
 Answer: No acknowledgment is necessary for printed cards except a verbal one as you meet the different senders. It would not only be courteous, but you should, send written thanks to any longer letter or affectionate note.

Eating Waffles
 Dear Mrs. Post: Should a waffle with butter and syrup be cut with a knife or may it be cut with the side of a fork?
 Answer: If you can cut it easily with the side of your fork you do so, though most of us prefer to use both knife and fork when eating waffles.

Very Expensive Shower Presents
 Dear Mrs. Post: Don't you think Old-time cowboys used to call cotton pickers "lint backs."
 "Keno" came from the gambling game of the same name, and cowboys often use the word to mean everything is all right.
 Cowboys who want to take the rough edges off a horse, call the practice "letting the hammer down."
