

Join In Giving Thanks

A DEVOTIONAL
By Rev. Ralph Perkins

"People" are often amused and some quite surprised to find that National Holidays and other customs followed or practiced in our Nation have had their origin in the Bible, God's Holy Book. Our National security rests upon those

"religious axioms and spiritual customs."

"Thanksgiving Day" is a national holiday made such by an act of Congress in 1941. The day being set aside in this law as the last Thursday in November of each year.

The first "Thanksgiving" observed in the United States was in December 1621, when Governor Bradford called for a day of "feasting and prayer, to show the gratitude of the colonists that they were still alive." The religious occasion lasted for three days. Singing, preaching, and praise unto Almighty God was offered by the thankful people who had survived the two years on the bleak New England shores. The Old Testament is filled with accounts of "thanksgiving" for the various kindly acts of an Almighty God for their preservation, and general well being. The Psalmist sang unto the glory of God. The scriptural accounts of the "feast of the harvest" is a sacred account of the soul of man speaking thanks to a Loving Heavenly Father. The New Testament is filled with personal accounts of individual thanksgiving for the merciful acts of Jesus. Mary Magdalene bathed the feet of Jesus with costly ointment, and dried his feet with her hair. One of the ten lepers returned to thank Jesus. Jesus asked his disciples, "Were there not ten, where are the other nine?" We Americans have so much to be thankful for, that sometimes we forget the foes within our very ranks who would destroy our sacred customs upon which our "Spiritual Democracy" is built.

Our "forefathers" settled in America seeking Religious liberty. They are fleeing the wrath of the state religion in England. "The Pilgrims, and others seeking religious asylum," had so much to be thankful for that theirs was a spiritual and sacred occasion of worship and praise. Today our church members ought to return to the Bible as their guide, and the Lord Jesus as their only hope of salvation, and God, the heavenly Father, as the supreme authority for all that is moral, clean, pure, and holy.

Today we need to give thanks for our "four freedoms." Today we have freedom from fear of oppression from within, freedom from fear of a centralized government. We can thank God for our freedom of the press that brings out in the open those cheap shambles of commercialized vice and corrupt politics, as well as the good and clean. Freedom to print and the opportunity to read a newspaper that is not dictated over by a clerk or clan. Freedom of worship, where and when we can assemble and sing songs of praise to our God, our Saviour Jesus, and trust in the leadership of the Holy Spirit. Our freedom from want, adds the fourth freedom made so popular by the late President F. D. Roosevelt, but whose origin came from the Holy Bible. Our thanks must be continuously unto God. To preserve this sacred privilege, we must build "our house upon the rock of Jesus Christ." Thanks unto God for our rights to this Thanksgiving Day.

Jimmy is shown holding a Ranger Farms Turkey, one of many that has been processed by the Ranger Frozen Food Center. The Frozen Food Center is a ready market and outlet for the many turkeys grown in Eastland County, and many Thanksgiving tables will feature this traditional Thanksgiving bird today. Covered Sugar

By Mrs. Cubian Perry

Has this year seemed to have had wings and flown away too soon? Can you actually believe that another Thanksgiving is here? If you will look up Isaiah 51:3 you will find a beautiful thought for Thanksgiving, also there is Psalm 15:2. Too many of us think that Thanksgiving was started by our "professors" (the Pilgrims) but it has been with us always as this little poem—Giving will illustrate. Giving Give to the needy Give to the poor, For "giving is living," The angel said. But must I keep giving Again and again? My peevish and pitiless Curt answer ran, "Oh, no," said the angel, "Piecing me through, 'Just give till the Master Stops giving to you'." —Author Unknown. Each hour of each and every day gives us something to be grateful for if we will but stop and give our mind time to ponder on all the many blessings that are ours. But, then, we are just average. We think of all the material things we have missed along life's road. We see the other man with much but do we know what his heart desire has cost him? Each of us must find the true heart and be grateful for all things. If we can do this then we will have an abundance of happiness to offer on this Thanksgiving. To show just one of our reasons for a grateful heart, let's read this little poem. Ingratitude The sun was shining in my eyes, And I could hardly see To do the necessary task That was allotted me. Resentful of the vivid glow, I started to complain, When all at once upon me the air I heard a blind man's cane. —Hazel Bloomgarden

Regulations On Holiday Jobs For Teenagers

There may be ample time for gift buying in the 30 shopping days before Christmas, but the time is shorter for youngsters seeking holiday jobs.

"Many types of employment are permitted high school students under the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act," according to Regional Director William J. Rogers of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions in Dallas.

The Fair Labor Standards Act regulates child labor in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate and foreign commerce. It requires a minimum age of 16 for most such jobs and an 18 year minimum for jobs in 15 types of hazardous occupations.

But, he said, the federal law permits children as young as 14 and 15 to work as sales clerks and office employees in retail stores and other businesses and industrial firms — provided they work no more than 8 hours a day or 40 hours a week when school is not in session. When school is in session children of these age are limited to working 3 hours a day or 18 hours a week, and all their work must be done outside school hours and between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

A much wider range of jobs is open to older boys and girls, according to Mr. Rogers. But he reminded them of the hazardous occupations which require a minimum age of 18. Two of those are found frequently in business and industry — they are the jobs of motor vehicle driver and helper, and elevator operator. He said that work involving riding on a freight elevator, unless it is run by an assigned operator, is also prohibited to minors under 18.

The Labor Department official said employers could protect themselves against inadvertent violations of the law by insisting that each young worker provide an age certificate showing him to be of acceptable age for the job. In Texas such age certificates are issued as a public service by Texas Employment Commission's local offices.

But many holiday jobs, including some in local retail stores, may not come under the federal law but may be subject to state law. In cases where the state and federal laws differ, employers should observe the higher standards, he said.

Sweaters Look Big, Are Big This Season

Less weight and lots of fashion is the fall sweater story for men. Here necklines make headlines, where bulkies just look that way, and flat, dimensional knits are the thing.

Start at the top and check the big revival of V-necks in high cut versions, also broadframed low-v pullovers, cardigans and zipper-front sweaters. Crew necks are back in a big way, usually outdistancing boat necks in the sweater game.

Cardigans have a new look, they're really buttoned up with five or six closures now the standard. With the big push for V-necks and collars, it looks like pullovers will be crowding out the cardigans.

To shape the body of most sweaters, flat knits are everywhere, and they're plain, patterned or textured. They often look bulky, but they aren't. Fact is, close examination of the sweaters reveal that the fabric often has been flipped (to the reverse side) to produce irregular ribbing effects.

Colors are brisk for fall and full of contrast. Big news, too, is patterning, and it's done in several ways. Newest notion is to form a plaid with vertical ribbing, over cross-stripes. Then, there are big Navajo stripes plus many classic checks and plaids.

1920 Club Has Book Review

The 1920 Club met October 17 in the home of Mrs. A. W. Brazda. The theme of the day was Historic Homes and Buildings in Texas.

Mrs. Theodore Nicksick, Jr., vice president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Herman Cupp answered roll call with a Thanksgiving poem; Mrs. J. T. Roberson, with Texas garden news; and Mrs. R. L. Hamrick, with Texas food news.

Mrs. Judson Hardy was program leader. She presented Mrs. J. B. McLaughlin, who reviewed "Love Is a Wild Assault," a Texas historical novel by Elithe Kirkland, long a member of the Texas Historical Society. Mrs. G. B. Rush closed the program with the club collect.

A social hour followed the review. Table decor carried out an autumn theme. Gracing the table was an arrangement of orange and red pyracantha berries and orange and chartreuse chrysanthemums in a silver bowl flanked by chartreuse bois d'arc apples. Silver table appointments were used. Tall red candles in silver candelabra complimented the table decorations.

Mrs. Theodore Nicksick Jr., Mrs. J. Floyd Killingsworth, Mrs. J. E. Matthews, and Mrs. R. L. Hamrick assisted Mrs. Brazda in serving.

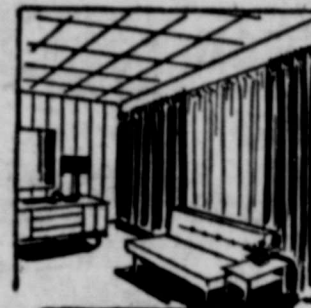

The following members and guests were present: Mmes. J. B. Bell, Jr., Herman Cupp, Judson Hardy, J. Floyd Killingsworth, W. C. Lummus, J. E. Matthews, C. E. May, Sr., J. R. McLaughlin, Theodore Nicksick Jr., J. T. Roberson, G. B. Rush, Ven O. White, F. E. Langston, Lively Brown, R. L. Hamrick, Miss Anna McEver, and the hostess, Mrs. Brazda.

Our Pilgrim Fathers Gave Thanks For So Little . . . We Have So Much To Be Thankful For

Let us pause on this day, as our Pilgrim forefathers did so long ago . . . to give prayerful thanks, not only for the food on our table, but more importantly, for those freedoms we hold so dear . . . freedoms our forefathers sought and won in the new land, America. Our country has come a long, hard way since the day of that first meager harvest in 1621 . . . to truly become the "Land of Plenty" and the "Home of the Free."

Let us pray it will always be!

HERE! THE TRUCKS THAT RIDE SMOOTHER, WORK HARDER, LAST LONGER!

ORDINARY I-BEAM FRONT AXLE suspension permits road shock and vibration between wheels and to chassis and cab.

CHEVY'S INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION. Each wheel flexes independently, minimizes stress and strain on chassis and cab.

Just a year ago, Chevy came up with independent front suspension and has already put some 300,000 Chevrolet trucks with it out on jobs.

The ride that results from Chevy's suspension design is making life a lot easier for drivers. (Just ask them.) It's taking better care of loads, the fragile kind that cost somebody money if they are bounced around. Chevy's ride also enables truck owners to revise their buying habits and work their trucks longer before they trade. This follows naturally. The trucks take less of a beating. There's less stress on sheet metal. Less abuse to tires. Less pounding that wears out parts before their time. The upshot of it is, you either save money or earn more of it or both. And you couldn't ask a truck to do more than that. See your dealer.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

Back in the 1940's, I met a man who was reputed to be one of Texas' richest. He was an oil man and went in for raising and racing thoroughbreds.

His ranch was a showplace with craved roads, concrete crossings over streams and a fence high enough to keep the deer in and the hunters out. His home was a modest place as far as architecture went, although very attractive within, but the barn was a huge place with, I was told, $30,000 worth of copper in the gutters and pipes; and no doubt the cost of the other features was in proportion.

The second time I saw him, he was seated in his box at the New Orleans track where some of his entries—including an Irish horse for which he had reputedly paid $70,000—were racing. He didn't rise but he put out a hand which I pumped up and down and a smile like a glint of sunshine on a rocky Vermont hill lit up his features for a moment.

A mutual acquaintance said afterward, "You've made a hit with him." "I have?" was my doubtful reply. "His manner didn't seem to me to be very warm."

"Oh, 'the other responded, 'that was very cordial for him.' After thinking about it, I decided that a man with millions of dollars has to hold others at arms-length to keep from 'getting to him'; and what a lonely life a man must lead when he cannot know whether an individual who seems happy to see him is interested in him for himself or for what he hopes to get out of him.

And all his millions could not save him when he drove his automobile into the path of an rushing train.

I once made a mistake (in fact I've made several) — which resulted in my missing a big story. One Sunday afternoon before reporting for work on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, I was driving around town and decided to motor to Grapevine, 29 miles away, but looked up at a clock and saw I had only a few minutes before time to go to work.

When I came in, the city editor said, "You're ahead of time." I looked at the clock on the wall and saw it was a full hour before I was supposed to be there. I had mis-read the first clock and would have had time to make the Grapevine drive.

And if I had done so, I would have been right on top of a sensational crime as I learned when, in a little while, the telephone rang and the city editor was advised that, on a side road near the highway to Grapevine, two State highway patrolmen had been shot to death.

The slayers, it turned out, were Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker. So, because I mis-read the time by an hour, I failed to be in the vicinity when the crime was committed—and so missed covering the story practically an eye-witness.

On the other hand, had I been out there, Clyde and Bonnie, as they fled, might have added a third to the list of victims.

Veterinarian Gives Advise On Buying Breeding Gilts

College Station — Be cautious when you buying gilts to breed for next spring's pig crop. Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian, warns that you should study the disease record of the herd very carefully before buying. Remember that even healthy appearing animals may carry a disease, and new stock could bring on a disease which would result in abortions or inferior pigs at farrowing time. At least four chronic diseases are serious, and other diseases are important. Leptospirosis and brucellosis are serious diseases which are not usually recognized until they cause abortions. Two other serious diseases are atrophic rhinitis and virus pneumonia, both of which are not usually recognizable until the pigs are several weeks old. Enteritis and chronic erysipelas are also common diseases, Patterson continues. Even if there is no record or evidence of disease in the herd, it's still a good idea to have gilts tested for leptospirosis and brucellosis. Hogs can carry other of these diseases without showing symptoms, and both diseases can be transmitted to humans. The only way to detect atrophic rhinitis is through a physical examination, and this is not always easy or reliable. Dr. Patterson says to be alert for signs of atrophic rhinitis, crooked snout, sneezing and stunted growth are indicators of the disease. Chronic pneumonia has been an increasingly serious problem in swine for several years. A specific virus is the cause of much of this lung trouble. There is neither a reliable test or treatment for the disease. It seldom causes death, but it does cause unthriftiness and increased susceptibility to other lung infections. Be extremely careful to avoid bringing it into a herd, the specialist advises. Take care of parasites promptly. Parasites, especially mange and worms, which may cause little trouble in the gilts may cause serious trouble for the baby pigs. Roundworms can be controlled by proper measures, but it may take repeated applications. Spraying for parasites should be done during warm weather if possible. Some of the newer compounds will do a good job of controlling lice and mites. Be sure to have the gilts vaccinated against erysipelas. And do not neglect to vaccinate for cholera—the most dangerous of all swine diseases, Dr. Patterson concludes.

(Dick) Burleson, a former extension dairy husbandman in Texas but now dairymen for the Federal Extension Service, Washington, D. C., will be featured. An expected program highlight will be a panel discussion by five outstanding dairymen from different areas of Texas on "How We Use Dairy Records." Joel M. Hillin, extension area farm management specialist - dairymen, will also be a panel participant and Jimmy Davis, extension dairy specialist, will serve as moderator. Other speakers, Meekma said, would be Texas A&M College staff members. The extension dairy specialist suggests that room reservations be made at an early date, and added that local county agents can supply additional information on the meeting. R. E. Dairy Short Course Planned At A&M College

The long-established Dairyman's Short Course, held annually at Texas A & M College, is scheduled for Dec. 1 and 2. Headquarters for the Short Course will be in the Memorial Student Center on the A&M Campus. The program has been designed to give not only dairymen, but milk plant fieldmen, commercial feed company fieldmen and others directly or indirectly associated with the Texas dairy industry information they can use in their work.
