

Let's Look At Ranger

(An Editorial)

This week we have another progressive report from committees of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

The committee reporting this week is the Civic committee under the chairmanship of Charles Milliken. Committee members are Buck Wallace, Mrs. R. V. Mathena, Delbert Capps, Calvin Brown, Mrs. J. H. Greer and Mrs. Zora Lee Hughes.

The Civic committee of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce is a committee set up to organize and direct projects for the betterment of Ranger. Where the Public Relations committee sponsors projects to advertise Ranger to others, the Civic committee sponsors projects to advertise Ranger to Ranger. In other words a committee to make Ranger a better place for Rangerites.

At a recent committee meeting of the civic group (in which the attendance wasn't outstanding, having only Milliken, Wallace, Capps and Brown present) but an otherwise enthusiastic meeting where several projects were discussed and plans made to carry out some of the projects in the near future.

Among some of the things discussed were the beautifying of the Main Street entrance at the railroad crossing. Milliken discussed this project at great length. He said that there wasn't a lot that any one group could do to improve the looks of the town along Highway 80, that is up to the property owners, but there is something that we can do in many other places, and one of them is the entrance on Main Street.

Milliken went on to say that the Garden Club had at one time planted shrubbery at the crossing location and that it died from the lack of water. His committee plans to get water to the location before doing any landscaping. The committee feels that if water is available at the location that the beautification of the entrance will be fairly easy from that point. Also included in the project are plans to erect a barrier along Highway 80 on the north side of the entrance to Main Street. This will allow the landscaping to be extended north along Highway 80. At the present time this area is being used as a parking lot and turning around place.

Other projects discussed at the meeting were a possible street marker project, upkeep of the Willows Park and the possible removal of some unsightly and unusable structures in Ranger.

This report and the prior report from the Public Relations committee indicates that some of the committees of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce are making an effort to make the Chamber a progressive organization. Several other committees have held meetings in the past few weeks and have made plans for projects to be undertaken.

Maybe this action will set an example for the heretofore inactive committees to make plans for some type of activity to support the organization that they are members of. The Ranger Chamber of Commerce cannot progress unless the committee functions in a productive manner.

Ranger seems to be full of timid souls. The scarcity of candidates to fill the governing bodies of the three most important organizations in Ranger (the Ranger School Board, the College Board of Regents and the City Council) seems to bear this out.

A closing thought: "CRITICISM IS SOMETHING YOU CAN AVOID BY SAYING NOTHING, DOING NOTHING, AND BEING NOTHING."

Red Cross Conducts Blood Research Program

During the past year Texas residents have received, through the American National Red Cross, blood derivatives valued at $124,372. Figures announced today in Houston by James L. Whitcomb, Red Cross national fund vice chairman for the state, indicate that 43,455 units of the derivatives were distributed in Texas for medical use.

Four derivatives or fractional parts of the blood are provided by Red Cross from blood given by volunteer donors through 55 regional blood centers throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. These derivatives are separated from whole blood not needed during the 21-day period it can be preserved. These blood fractions — gamma globulin, serum albumin, fibrinogen, and vaccinia immune globulin — are helping thousands of people every year.

In Texas, 43,330 units of gamma globulin have been allocated during the past year. Widely used in the prevention and modification of measles and hepatitis, it is also necessary in treating cases of gamma globulin deficiencies. Serum albumin is used in emergency treatment for shock, burns, and in replacing lost proteins in the blood as a result of kidney and liver diseases. Here in Texas, 101 units of 100 cc each have been distributed to hospitals with an estimated value of $3,535.

The third derivative now in use is fibrinogen, used to control bleeding following childbirth. It is credited with saving many lives, and is supplied to hospitals at their specific request. Distribution totaled 24 units in the state last year at an estimated commercial value of $1,680.

The fourth and newest discovery in blood fractionation research is vaccinia immune globulin, known simply as V. I. G. This derivative was prepared to combat the rare instances in which a strange reaction from smallpox vaccination endangers sight and occasionally life. At the present time, Red Cross, in cooperation with the armed forces, is the only source in North America for V. I. G. Limited quantities are available at 15 Red Cross regional blood centers for use by doctors. The search for additional life-saving blood derivatives continues. Whitcomb pointed out. Although the cost to the Red Cross for processing these derivatives was $850,000 last year, the organization continues research in blood fractions and their uses.

In the 16-state Midwestern Area, Red Cross is currently supplying products for research to four universities. The success of this program is apparent from the discovery and study of V. I. G. at the University of Colorado Medical Center in Denver. Other research projects in progress include further investigation of plasmalogins, which in active form dissolves blood clots, and ceruloplasmin which may be of value in neurological ailments.

This program and all other Red Cross services are provided by the American people, Williams stated. Voluntary contributions through Red Cross annual fund campaigns, or through federated campaigns in which Red Cross participates, are the organization's primary source of income. With the help of fellow Americans, Red Cross is constantly seeking new ways to help people and prevent needless suffering and loss of life.

Using a lasso, officer plucked dog from the water, right, and airlifted it to safety.

Record Crowd Attends Texas-Exes Banquet

The University of Texas Extension Association of the Oil Belt District met Thursday night at the Lone Cedar Country Club for their annual meeting.

Johnny Bates, of Ranger, president of the association, was master of ceremonies and made the arrangements for the banquet.

One of the largest crowds ever to attend the district banquet was present. There were 116 exes and guests on hand to hear Hal Woodward, member of the Texas Highway Commission, from Coleman give the principal address.

Members of the Association voted for Eastland to be the host town for the annual banquet next year. The banquet is planned for March 2, 1962.

Virgil Seaberry Jr., was elected as new president of the Association. Mrs. Cyrus Frost is secretary and vice presidents include Charles Milliken of Ranger, Fred Douglas of Albany, T. C. Williams of Cisco, Don Radtke of Breckenridge and Ronald Burton of Eastland.

Members of the Association attending the banquet were from Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Albany, Breckenridge, and German, and guests were from Coleman, Brownwood and Amarillo.

Woodward told the exes that electronic highways, radical new types of motor vehicles, and powerful new fuels are some of the remarkable developments in highway travel that we can expect in the future.

The Highway Commissioner predicted great strides in speed and safety for highway users during the next half-century, made possible by automatic safety devices and new types of highway facilities.

However, he told the Texas exes "this complex travel future will only come to pass if the University of Texas and other schools continue to produce people who will invent and develop the new devices and ideas we will need in highway transportation."

He told the exes that they owe much to the University of Texas for the education they received there and the debt will not be paid until each of the exes make something of themselves that will stand as a tribute to the University.

The link between today and tomorrow, Woodward said, is the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways. "These are the highways of tomorrow - being built today," he said. "They feature the most up-to-date design and construction that highway engineers can devise. Such safety features will make them three times as safe as ordinary highways."

Woodward said this area is most fortunate to be a part of the Interstate System, with Interstate Highway 20 now under construction to link Ranger and the entire area to this national highway network. "It puts this area right on the economic life-line of America," he said.

The Commissioner said the economic effect of I. H. 20 will be felt here through the influx of new dollars brought by (1) the Interstate route's construction and (2) heavy volumes of traffic used after its completion. He noted that land values in the vicinity of Interstate routes consistently tend to rise sharply.

Woodward predicted that "this Interstate route will see amazing improvements in vehicles, fuels, and safety devices."

"The biggest obstacle yet to be removed before man can travel faster is his own slow reactions," he said. "Human vision and reflexes are not equal to the task of traveling safely at the great speeds that will be possible in the future."

"The next logical step may well be to eliminate the human driver and replace him with a machine which can function efficiently at high speeds," Woodward explained. "The so-called 'electronic highway' is actually close along present freeways such as the Interstate System."

Electronic guidance could be provided by embedding a metal strip or cable in the highway to guide the driver.

Dr. W. P. Watkins, chairman of the sports and recreation committee received the support of the committee members in sponsoring the plans for installing the running track.

Possibilities of building the track have been explored to the extent that it is possible to get the track built with very little cost to anyone.

Location for the track has been approved by the Board of Regents of Ranger College to be placed on college property west of the college cafeteria.

Howard Oliver, Lone Star civil engineer, has volunteered the services of his survey crew to locate the property line in order to better locate the track in the best possible location.

R. P. Haun, resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department in Eastland has agreed to help survey the track and lay the grade stakes for the work.

J. B. (Tip) Arthur, County Commissioner of Precinct One has agreed to have the county equipment do the dirt work for the laying out of the track.

Negotiations are being conducted with the Featherlite Corporation for the materials for the cinders on the running surface.

The track, which will be built on Ranger College property, will be available to the Ranger Public Schools for their use.

From information gathered at the meeting it is evident that the track may be completed by the beginning of the fall semester in September.

In the event that the track is completed it is possible that the sports and recreation committee and Ranger College will work together to stage an invitational relay on the track next spring and inaugurate an annual relay which will include senior high schools and junior colleges.

Present at the meeting were Watkins, and committee members Dwayne Dennis, Dick Henderson and James Townzen, Chamber manager R. V. Galloway, Commissioner Arthur, Dr. Ted Nick-sick and Gene Townsend.

Dick Henderson was appointed by Watkins to work with Carl Black, district sales manager of the Featherlite Corporation, on the negotiations concerning the Featherlite material.

Prospects Are Bright For Future of College

Dr. Ted Nick-sick, president of Ranger College, told members of the Ranger Lions Club Thursday that prospects for the college were brighter at the present time than they have been at any time in the two years that he had headed the institution.

He gave credit for the bright prospect for the college to the capable faculty at the school, to the cooperation given the school by the town of Ranger and to the reorganized program at the school.

Points that he stressed in the reorganized program at the school were revised curriculum. The curriculum includes all the basic subjects to prepare students to enter any senior college and continue any phase of education without any loss of credit hours.

A teacher training program has been installed to better qualify teachers to make the presentation of their subject material. Lectures given by teachers are being recorded in order that they may study their presentation and make any improvements they deem necessary. He said that the college would employ only well qualified teachers.

Dr. Nick-sick said that several improvements of existing facilities and possible additional facilities in the near future will also improve the campus and offer prospective students more.

He said that the school wanted curbs and gutters and pavement on all the streets at the college and that although the streets were at the college, they were city streets and he felt that the city would work with the college in making the needed improvements. He went on to say that it was very possible that the college would soon begin constructing a new girls dormitory and that a track may be installed to add to the physical education department.

A new approach to recruiting was explained by Nick-sick. He said that two of the college staff were spending two days each week and had been doing so since before the first of the year, contacting student counselors in the larger schools. He said that he felt that an approach to the counselors would be more effective than contacting the school superintendent.

Dr. Nick-sick also said that he regretted to announce that Coach Jim Puryear and Coach Clyde Evert both had informed him that they would not return to coach at the college next season. He also announced that the college had been fortunate in securing two very capable coaches to fill the two vacancies. The new athletic director and head football coach will be Beattie Feathers who has been assistant coach at Texas Tech for the past several years.

Coach Feathers had coaching positions at North Carolina State College and various other colleges and high schools. He has also coached service ball and won the all-service eastern division. He is a freshman team at Texas Tech was undefeated in 1960.

To be assistant football coach, and head basketball, track and golf coach will be Bob Burch, the present assistant at Cisco Junior College. Burch is not only a well qualified coach, but an excellent teacher. He holds a Masters degree from North Texas.

The athletic program is going to be broadened at the college with more emphasis placed on basketball and track. He said that the new conference alignment which includes Wharton Junior College, would strengthen the Texas Junior College Conference and put it on a par with the East Texas Conference.

In closing, Nick-sick stated, "Ranger Junior College is on the way to becoming a bigger and better school. Just stand back and watch it go." He predicted the enrollment to reach the 500 mark within the next two years.

vehicles, or by using a self-contained electronic guidance installed in the vehicle itself, he said.
Other safety devices which may eventually aid highway travelers, Woodward said, include:
Mirrors or electronic warning signals used on the approaches to "blind spots" in the road where hill crests or curvature of the highway obscures the view of approaching traffic.

Radar braking in fog, rain, sleet or snow by use of radar or photo-electric cells which would sense the engine heat or exhaust of cars ahead.
High-frequency radio waves which would slow down or stop vehicles automatically in case of an accident in the road ahead.
Woodward said future highway travelers may also be able to enjoy riding on thin but strong and smooth plastic highways—or on the soil itself. "Chemicals are used to stabilize soils and make them usable as present highway bases over which concrete or asphalt is poured," he said.

"If further chemical stabilization can be attained, someday you may be able to use the ground you walk on as highway surfaces."
To use these improved types of highways, vehicles using electricity, atomic energy or solar power may be developed, he said. "Instead of wheels, vehicles of the future may ride on rails or on a soft blanket of compressed air a few inches above the earth," Woodward said.

Woodward tied this vision of a push-button future directly to the continued ability of the University of Texas and other schools to produce competent engineering and scientific graduates. "If we are to enjoy the advances in motor speed and safety which we anticipate, it will be through the efforts of experts in the field of highway transportation who have studied at schools such as our own University of Texas," Woodward said.
A member of the Highway Commission for the past two years Woodward received BBA and LLB degrees from the University of Texas in 1940. He spoke to execs from four counties—Callahan, Eastland, Shackelford, and Stephens.

Our speech has been made picturesque by phrases which had their origin in sports.
To baseball, we owe such expressions as "He made a hit"; "He knocked a home run"; "He muffed the ball"; "He has two strikes on him already"; "You've got your signals crossed"; "I'm pinching for the chairman, who couldn't be here"; "He's got a lot on the ball"; "We might try a squeeze play"; "You threw me a curve"; and "It's a foul ball."
To bowling we owe, "You made a ten-strike"; "He's bluffing"; and "I'll call you"; to boxing, "He came out swinging"; "He hits below the belt"; and "He talks a good fight"; and to racing, "It's a long shot" and "That's the pay-off."

Also to racing we may owe the expression, "A Garrison finish," the reference being to a jockey by that name who always closes with a rush. However, another version is that there was a fighter who, no matter how poorly he had fared in the rest of the bout, would swarm all over his opponent in the last round—and the fans, forgetting the earlier rounds, would boo and below when he didn't receive the decision.

Ralph Yarborough Report

Dear Fellow Texans:
The Cold War Veterans GI Education Bill offers the most responsible and effective single program now before the Congress to help cut down the extremely serious current and future unemployment among young Americans.
Studies by Department of Labor experts show that three out of every ten people now hunting work are under 25 years of age and most of these young people are uneducated and unskilled.
Projections by Dr. Seymour L. Wolfstien, Labor Department manpower chief, indicate that 30 percent of the 26,000,000 new workers who will join the labor force in the next ten years will fail to complete high school and that 2,500,000 of them will not even finish grade school.
These statistics point up very clearly and realistically the great and growing need for enactment of the Cold War Veterans Education Bill which I have introduced with co-sponsorship of 56 other senators.

A very high percentage of these young Americans, who for one reason or another, do not complete grade or high school, will serve a term in the military under current draft and enlistment procedures. Under the Cold War Veterans Education program, these young men would be eligible, after they had honorably served their country, to take vocational training courses.
All of us know that a large number of today's best trained and skilled workers are men who took on-the-job training courses under the GI Bill after World II. Having such training is invaluable to the individual; for many individuals to have specialized training and better education is vital to economic health and productive capacity of our nation.
As chairman of the Veterans Affairs subcommittee of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, I will set hearings on an early date. In view of current unemployment and the projection showing increasing joblessness unskilled workers when greater numbers of skilled workers will be required, I strongly believe that this is one of the most significant proposals before the Congress.

Christian Science

A hopeful message of universal freedom will be delivered in Christian Science churches Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man."

Man's rightful heritage of freedom will be brought out in the Scriptural selections which include Paul's advice to the Colossians (3:9-11): "Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; and have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him: where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, scythian, bond nor free: but Christ is all, and in all."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read (227:24-26): "Citizens of the world, accept the 'glorious liberty of the children of God,' and be free! This is your divine right."

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

CONFIDENCES PROTECTED

Under the law what you as a client tell your lawyer in confidence he may tell no one else without your consent.

Nor can a judge order him or his professional employees (like secretaries) to reveal such communications in court.

Why have such a privilege? Chiefly, to do justice; it encourages clients to tell their lawyers what they have to know to help and to advise them fully, things about their family, business, and private affairs, their hopes, fears, and ambitions.

No lawyer may speak of certain things, even after a client dies. For a client may well have to give his lawyer details which, if revealed, might harm those he most wanted to protect.

Yet, in some very rare cases, to help carry out the client's desires after death, a lawyer may have a reveal a confidence, under certain safeguards, to uphold his client's purposes.

What are confidential communications? Anything a client tells his lawyer when he seeks advice about his personal, business, or legal affairs—talks and letters, photographs, charts, and other documents and records.

Confidential communications protect you as the client, not your lawyer. If you break the confidence, a lawyer may also have to talk, for the communication is no longer confidential. You may break a confidence by testifying about it, or by having unauthorized persons hear or see what was communicated.

No lawyer may keep quite about a crime or fraud a client has told him he plans to commit. But afterwards, an accused person may talk freely to his lawyer. Even if guilty, he has a right to have his side of the story presented to the court as it may affect his punishment. A person in trouble needs to talk to someone without fear that what he says will become public.

In some states certain other professional people, such as physicians and clergymen, may receive privileged communications.

However Texas, law makes no provision for privileged communications with physicians and clergymen. (This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Mrs. H. Wade Attends TAIR Conference Sat.

Mrs. Howard F. Wade, Primary teacher in the Olden Schools and who lives in Desdemona, was in Dallas Saturday to attend the Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading, of which she is a member.

Dr. Paul McKee and Dr. Ruth Strong were principal speakers of the conference.

Highlight of the conference was a luncheon held in the S. M. U. ballroom with Dr. Sally McGuire, Librarian of Casis School, Austin, as speaker. Tables were covered in white linen and centered with epergnes of spring flowers.

At each table a Texas author of children's books was seated. Books written by each were placed on the tables at the close of the luncheon as each guest author was introduced. Dr. McGuire paid special tribute to authors by pupils to love and respect the writers of books.

Authors attending the luncheon were Mrs. Dorothy K. Bracken, Mrs. Anne Pence Davis, Herbert Gambrell, Mrs. Virginia Gambrell, Mrs. Myra Cohn Livingston, Mrs. Lee McGiffin, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ivan, who write under the names of Gus Tavo and Lon Tinkle.

Mrs. Wade attended the T. A. I. R. Conference held at the university of Texas Jan. 27-28, where she became snowbound. Theme for that conference was "Individualized Reading."
