WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, FRIDAY JULY 9, 1909

NUMBER 46

CONFEDERATE SONS WILL BE ORGANIZED

PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATION IS TO HAVE BRANCH IN THIS CITY.
TO MEET WEDNESDAY.

JUDGE SCURRY IS ACTIVE

He is Moving Spirit in Matter and Has Issued Stirring Call to Those Who Are Eligible.

Judge Edgar Scurry of this city, who is endeavoring to organize a camp of the Sons of Confederate Veterans in this city, has issued the following call to those who are eligible for membership:

To the Sons and Descendants of Confederate Soldiers:

I am trying to organize a camp of the "United Sons of Confederate Veterans" at Wichita Falls, Texas. There will be a meeting of the sons at the city council hall next Wednesday, July 14th, at 8:30 p. m., for the purpose of organizing a camp.

I appeal to every son or descendant of a Confederate soldier in Wichita Falls and vicinity to be present and take part, if you believe the Southern cause was right.

If you love, honor and respect your father who fought for that cause, then I urge you to be present and help us, and help to see that history does justice to your father and the 'Lost Cause.'

Every Confederate veteran is most cordially invited to come and be with us—we want you there.

There are ten offices to be filled and there is the selection of a name for the camp to be made. I wish everyone who is a son or the descendant of a Confederate soldier to be present on that night and help elect these officers and select the name of the camp.

I'd like very much to see every man who is able to be present that night and join. Won't you come? Yours truly,
EDGAR SCURRY.

NO MONEY FROM LIQUOR GEORGIA NEARLY BANKRUPT.

By Associated Press.
Atlanta, Ga., July 9.—The State of Georgia is face-to-face with a deficit of over half a million. Should the revenue of 1909 fall short to the same extent as that of 1908 there will be a total shortage of six hundred and ten thousand dollars. The deficit is due to the lack of revenue from liquor sources. The revenue from "near-beer" is just about enough to pay the outstanding bills for the current month.

MOB LAW WAS MIXED WITH UNWRITTEN LAW

Texas News Service Special.
Shreveport, La., July 9.—John Fulco and Sam Plarro, convicted for the murder of Wilbri Boney, a planter's son killed in the Italian's store in Bossier parish a week ago, were this morning sentenced to life imprisonment and officers started with them for the penitentiary.

Early this morning a mob of Boney's friends attacked the pair with ropes to hang the men, but United States Attorney McLister dissuaded them from the lynching.

Ida Fulco and mother, also charged with murder, were acquitted on a plea of the unwritten law. The girl testified that she had killed Boney while he and her father were eloped, because Boney refused to marry her.

STREAMS IN MISSOURI RE- CEDING—CONDITIONS BETTER.

By Associated Press.
Kansas City, Mo., July 9.—All the streams in this section today are falling or stationary and the train service is improved. No additional loss is reported. Some apprehension is felt for many farmers and families near Chillicothe, where the Grand river is still miles wide and many farm houses are yet under water. Livestock and crops have been swept away and it is not known if all persons succeeded in gaining the hills.

CASE OF MAURICE PEDIGO TO COME UP FOR TRIAL TODAY.

The case of Maurice Pedigo, charged with rape, will come up for trial in the district court this afternoon as soon as the Coffey case is disposed of. Pedigo is a white man, the charge being of statutory rape, complaint being made by Ruby Ivey.

PATRICK CALHOUN TO BE A BIDDER

WATERS-PIERCE MAN WILL TRY

A RACE FROM PETROLIA

Two Big Companies Will Contest for First Line Into Fort Worth and Dallas.

Texas News Service Special.
Houston, Tex., July 9.—Following the announcement from Austin that a company with two million dollars capital is in process of organization to take over the Waters-Pierce property, a denial is entered by prominent oil operators of this city.

They declare, however, that many stockholders in the old company, including Patrick Calhoun, will be present at the sale and buy the property, then reorganize the old company and continue business in the State as heretofore. This announcement is causing widespread attention, as it is known that the State officials are desirous of putting the old company into incognito desuetude. It is doubtful, however, if they would try to prevent reorganization and continuance in the State.

There promises to be a warm race between the two companies that are preparing to enter the Petrolia field and those interested locally say that the contest to reach Dallas and Fort Worth first will be a very interesting one. No little interest has been occasioned among oil men here by the announcement that the Lone Star Company has ordered a large quantity of pipe to connect the Petrolia field with the North Texas cities and the other company will rush developments on its property in that section.

SCHOOL BONDS RESOLD TO CLEVELAND HOUSE

The First National Bank of Cleveland, Ohio, is the purchaser of the high school bonds recently approved, the Kansas City Life having declined to take them, although it was the successful bidder. The reason for refusal was that the bonds were interest-paying annually instead of semi-annually. As a result of the change, the district will get fifteen dollars less than it would otherwise. This is a loss of twenty-five cents on each thousand. The Cleveland bank gets the bonds for $60,585 and accrued interest.

The bonds were finally sold today by President Bullock of the school board, after an interchange of many letters and telegrams. A transcript of the bonds and all proceedings had in regard to their issue has been furnished the Cleveland bank and has been approved by their attorney, the bonds delivered and the sale closed. The money will arrive in two or three weeks.

The Kansas City Life Insurance Co., to which the sale was first made, declined to accept them, because the interest was payable annually instead of semi-annually. This bond deal has cost the school board no little work and anxiety, but there has never been any doubt but that the bonds would be finally sold at a good price. In view of the fact that many districts are forced to accept less than par for their securities, the price received here is considered excellent.

COFFEY'S FATE IS IN HANDS OF JURY

DEFENSE RESTED ITS CASE LATE YESTERDAY—ARGUMENTS OC-CUPY ALL MORNING.

DEFENDANT ON STAND THEY WILL PASS HERE

Coffey Witness in His Own Defense
Yesterday Afternoon and Told Plausible Story.

The fate of Dave Coffey, charged with the murder of Sam Barnett on May 15th is in the hands of the jury this afternoon. The taking of testimony was completed late yesterday afternoon and County Attorney Greenwood opened the argument for the State. This morning was given over to arguments, District Attorney Martin closing for the State about 3:40 this afternoon, when the jury was charged.

Dave Coffey was placed on the stand in his own defense yesterday afternoon and he made an excellent witness. He sat quietly erect in the witness chair, gave his answers distinctly and very promptly, and the constant shifting of his eyes was the only sign of nervousness he displayed.

Coffey told of Barnett's part in the trouble between himself and his wife and recounted in detail how Barnett had caused him much worry and had brought about a great deal of unpleasantness, practically ruining his home. His story of the killing itself conformed in almost every detail to that told by the State's witnesses and he was a good man for the defense.

County Attorney Greenwood, opening for the State, painted Coffey in dark colors, telling of his part in the domestic infelicities and showing his course leading up to the murder of Barnett, which was characterized as heartless and cold-blooded.

This morning G. A. Smoot opened for the defense. He spoke of Coffey's provocation for the shooting, pointing out how Barnett had wrecked his home and in other ways given him full justification for the course he took. Fred Householder followed for the defense. He requested that the jury be charged on the self-defense plea, showing under what circumstances the right of self-defense is not available. His address to the jury was along the same lines. S. Foster closed for the defense this afternoon, summing up the defense's case and making an eloquent plea for justice. District Attorney Martin began his closing argument late this afternoon.

The case will probably be in the jury's hands by 4:30 or 5 o'clock and it is possible that a verdict will be rendered tonight.

"QUIET HOUR" IS OBSERVED BY CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS.

By Associated Press.
St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—"Quiet hour" was observed this morning in the Central Presbyterian Church by the Christian Endeavorers in convention here. Later the discussion of methods in various Christian activities was renewed. Twenty-five or more denominational rallies were held today in the different churches.

SENATOR CULBERSON WILL TAKE WELL EARNED REST.

Texas News Service Special.
Washington, D. C., July 9.—Senator Culberson, on the advice of his physician, will go to a West Virginia resort when congress adjourns for a brief stay before returning to Texas. He will probably go to Capon Springs. Senator Bailey plans to take his ten days rest as soon as the tariff bill is agreed upon.

EDUCATORS FROWNING UPON FOOTBALL AND MARATHONS.

By Associated Press.
Denver, Colo., July 9.—Football, marathon running and such sports as tend to disable the American youth, received jolts in the physical education department of the National Educational Association, today. William Slocum, and Cree T. Work were among the speakers.

TRIAL FOR ALLEGED VIOLA- TION OF HACK ORDINANCE.

The case of John Gilbert, charged with violation of the city's new hack ordinance by running a hack without a license, is on trial in the corporation court today before a jury. At 3:30 this afternoon the trial was still in progress.

WICHITA MAY GET FORT SILL TROOPS

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO HAVE THEM HERE ON WAY TO DAL-LAS ENCAMPMENT.

THEY WILL PASS HERE

This City is On Line of March and Exhibition Drill Will Be Arranged
if Possible.

Several batteries of artillery, including about one hundred and fifty men, will stop in this city about August 20, and if plans materialize their coming to this city will be the occasion for a general good time here. The troops will go through on their way from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, to Dallas, at which latter place there is to be an encampment August 22 to 29.

Postmaster Bacon received a letter from the authorities at Fort Sill yesterday, announcing the coming of the soldiers and asking him to provide a suitable overnight camping place, with plenty of feed for the horses and an abundant water supply. Mr. Bacon at once saw the possibilities of the occasion and took the matter up with Mayor Noble and Secretary Gohlke. Letters from the mayor and from the Chamber of Commerce have already been sent the commander of the fort, urging him to make arrangements for having the soldiers stay in Wichita Falls for one day, giving an exhibition drill.

It has not been decided where to put the soldiers yet when they are here, but if the car line is completed, as it almost certainly will be, they will in all likelihood be at the Lake.

If this one-day encampment can be secured for Wichita Falls, excursions will be run here and the occasion will be a notable one. This city has had little in such attractions and such an occasion would doubtless prove an excellent drawing card. It is not known how the Fort Sill officials will view the matter, but they could see no trouble at all, and it is to be hoped that they will do so.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT ENNIS CAUSES HEAVY LOSS.

Texas News Service Special.
Ennis, Tex., July 9.—Fire originating in E. L. Harper's photograph gallery in a two story brick in the Pittman block early this morning caused a damage of ten thousand dollars. The photograph gallery was a total loss. B. I. Lawrence's dental office was damaged and H. A. Ludwig & Co.'s dry goods store was damaged more than five thousand dollars. All losses are covered by insurance.

Tom Wilker, a young railroad man, in climbing to an awning to arouse Dr. Lawrence in a fire-threatened office fell to the pavement and suffered a broken arm.

SANTA FE LOSES SUIT AGAINST OFFICIALS OF HUNT COUNTY.

Greenville, Tex., July 9.—Judge Montrose announced his decision in the case of the Santa Fe against the county officials in favor of the defendants. The road sought by suit to prevent the collection of a large amount of taxes, alleging that the State tax board had wrongly calculated its assets and the amount of taxes due. The case has been appealed.

Texas News Service Special.

PACKING HOUSE MAN WAS IN WICHITA YESTERDAY.

J. A. McNaughton, prominently connected with the Cudahy Packing Company of Omaha, was in Wichita Falls yesterday afternoon "just looking around." He was taken in charge by Frank Kell, J. A. Kemp, R. E. Huff, and others and shown over the local grounds, being taken out to the lake. This was merely an informal visit to the city and no particular significance is to be attached to it at present, it is stated.

San Francisco, Cal., July 9.—John Madison, an aged man, is under arrest here for bigamy. The authorities have found that he is married to ten women and is engaged to fourteen others. It is possible that he is also married to some of the latter in addition to the ten that are known definitely to be his wives.

Each of the women duped by Madison suffered financially, the heaviest loser being Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson of Iola, Kansas, who is said to have lost fourteen hundred dollars through Madison's duplicity. Among the "wives" is one from Jonesboro, Arkansas.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS NOW ARE WISHING THEY WEREN'T.

This is "Kickers Day" at the court house and those whose assessments were raised by the county commissioners acting as a Board of Equalization, are given an opportunity to show why their property values should not be increased. Increases are few this year and the number of complainants is less than ever before.

Commissioners Dale and Burnett did not show up on time this morning and it was facetiously suggested that they were afraid to come, but when the 11 o'clock train arrived they put in an appearance.

MANSFIELD CITIZEN IS KILLED BY SON

Texas News Service Special.
Fort Worth, Tex., July 9.—Today's investigation into the killing of Bud Lamb at Mansfield yesterday afternoon showed that the victim was stabbed twice through the heart and thirteen times in other parts of the body. He was fifty-five years old and Mansfield's richest citizen.

The killing was the result of a feud in the family. John and James Lamb, sons of the deceased, and John Kimball, a nephew, have been arrested and today made bond in the sum of $5000 each, on charges of murder. James Lamb admitted killing his father, saying he found him about to strike his mother with a chair. He interfered and his father was stabbed in the struggle which followed. James is 25 years of age and is delicate.

PROMINENT VIRGINIAN IS ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

By Associated Press.
Roanoke, Va., July 9.—Henry Van Zandt, aged 23 years, was instantly killed here yesterday when a shotgun was accidentally discharged, blowing the top of his head off. He had just returned from a hunting expedition and rested the gun on the gate, which he jarred as he was opening it. The gun fell to the ground, the load tearing away the upper part of his head and face. He had been married only four weeks and was well known.

NO SALOONS ARE FORCED TO STOP

RULING FROM COMPTROLLER IS RECEIVED BY THE LOCAL LIQUOR DEALERS.

SINCE 20TH OF FEBRUARY

All Places in Operation at That Time
Can Continue Under the Recently Enacted Law.

Under the operation of the State's new liquor laws, none of Wichita's saloons, with possibly one exception, will be forced out of business, though at first it was supposed that two or three of them would be. The below letter to a local saloon man explains the matter:

Austin, Tex., July 12, 1909.—Gentlemen: Your letter of the 2nd inst. has just been received at this office.

Replying to same, I have to advise that the same number of permits that issued and existing in any city, town or justice precinct on the 20th day of February, 1909, may be issued to such city, town or justice precinct, under the new liquor law when it becomes effective, although such number should be more than one for each five hundred inhabitants.

"It is provided also by said Act that in granting permits for such licenses, the Comptroller of Public Accounts shall give preference to those applicants who apply for permits at the places and locations in such cities, towns or justice precincts, where permits had heretofore been issued and granted. Under this provision, the proprietor who was in business at that place on the 20th day of February, 1909, or his vendee would be entitled to the preference stated."

"If any saloons have been opened up in your town since February 20th, 1909, thereby increasing the number of saloons that were in existence on that date, those opening such saloons would be barred from receiving licenses under the new law on account of excess saloons at that time, if the number in existence at that time was more than one for each five hundred inhabitants in that town."

"No charges are made by this office for this character of information, hence your remittance of $4.00 is returned. The fee for application will be $2.00, which you may remit when the application is made. Very respectfully,
"J. W. STEPHENS, Comptroller."

Texas News Service Special.
Shreveport, La., July 9.—Miss Alice Robinson, a vaudeville singer from Kansas City, was shot in the temple while talking to a friend in the back of the stage of the Gladstone Park theater last night. WICHITA LOSES AGAIN TO CHICKEN CHASERS

Bowie, Tex., July 9.—Yesterday was an off day for Bridges, Wichita's pitcher; before Schanfeld came to his relief he had been touched for enough hits to score six men. Schanfeld did better, but Wichita was unable to score. Hotchkiss officiated in the box for the locals and he had everything. The Wichita team plays at Henrietta this afternoon and tomorrow. They expect to capture both games.

Bowie's victory yesterday gives her two of the series of three. This season, however, Wichita Falls has defeated Bowie in four out of six games played.

CHARMS OF UGLY MEN

Case of John Wilkes, the Famous London Alderman.

HE WEDDED A NOTED BEAUTY

And He Was So Homely That His Looks Frightened the Children in the Streets—Bailly, With a Face Like a Horse, Won a Famous French Beauty.

There was perhaps as much truth as boasting in the statement of John Wilkes, the famous London alderman and champion of British electors, "Ugly as I am, if I can have but a quarter of an hour's start I will get the better of any man, however good looking, in the graces of any woman."

Of Wilkes' abnormal ugliness there was never a question, for is it not recorded that the "very children in the street ran away affrighted at the sight of him?" And yet his powers of fascination were so great that "ladies of beauty and fashion vied with each other for his notice, while men of handsome exterior and all courtly graces looked enviously on."

There were, it is said, few beauties of the day whose hand Wilkes might not have confidently hoped to win, and when he led Mary Mead to the altar he made a wife of one of the richest and most lovely women of her time. "Beauty and the Beast" they call us," Wilkes once said to his friend Patter,

"and I cannot honestly find fault with the description."

Jean Paul Marat, whose name will always be associated with the evil history of the French revolution, was notoriously the ugliest man of his day in Paris. When this reputation reached his ears Marat is said to have remarked, "But why limit my supremacy to Paris?" And indeed the restriction was much too modest.

And yet in his earlier years, when he was the most popular of court doctors, his very ugliness seemed to exercise such a fascination over aristocratic ladies that they crowded his consulting rooms in order to catch a glimpse of and to exchange words with him under the flimsiest pretexts of imaginary ailments. The studied indifference with which he treated alike their charms and their flattery only made them the more insistent until he declared to a friend that he would have to fly from Paris to escape the persecution of his fair admirers.

Bailly, mayor of Paris at the time of the reign of terror, is said to have had a face almost exactly like that of a horse. His appearance was, in fact, so abnormal, so monstrous, that children shrieked and women fainted at the very sight of him, and yet his wife was one of the most lovely women in the whole of France—so lovely that as a girl she was known as "the beautiful angel."

That there is a powerful fascination for some women in extreme ugliness is proved by innumerable cases in which women who have been richly dowered with physical charms have fallen madly in love with men of almost repulsive appearance.

A London paper records a remarkable case of this kind in 1817, when Lady Mary X. married Mr. Mudford, a London attorney.

Lady Mary was a girl of peerless charms, the most beautiful of all the court ladies and the favorite toast of the world of aristocrats. She might for her birth and fortune were almost equal to her beauty—have chosen her husband from among dukes, and even more than one royal prince sought her hand in vain.

To the consternation of society, she married Mr. Mudford, not only "a pettifogging attorney," but a man of almost unnatural ugliness of face and with a deformed hand and foot. Singular, too, as it may appear, her married life was one of unclouded happiness, and to her dying day, nearly forty years later, she never seemed to have a moment's regret for her choice of a husband.

Still more remarkable was the story told of a most beautiful heiress with an attachment for one of the freaks of a traveling show, and she persisted in marrying him in spite of all the efforts of her friends and relations. This singular object of her affections masqueraded under the title of "the man monkey, or the ugliest man in the world," and he had an excellent claim to the title.—Exchange.

The Coloring of the Clouds.

The gorgeous coloring of the clouds, especially those of sunset, is due to the circumstance that the yellow and red rays of light have a much greater penetrative momentum than the blue. They make their way through stretches of the atmosphere which entirely arrest and turn back the blue, and they do this the more markedly if the air is at the time laden with extraneous particles that augment the aerial opacity.—New York American.

A Hairbreadth Escape.

A certain comedian is bald except for a rim of hair a few inches above his collar line.

"I'm in an awful hurry," he said one day to the Lambs club barber. "Can you cut my hair with my collar on?"

Have your own spittoons half full of water and clean them out at least once a day with hot water.

Don't cough without holding a handkerchief or your hand over your mouth.

Don't live in rooms where there is no fresh air.

Health Rules Given by the National Association for the Prevention and Cure of Tuberculosis

Don't work in rooms where there is no fresh air.

Keep at least one window open in your bedroom day and night.

Fresh air helps to kill the Consumption germ.

Fresh air helps to keep you strong and healthy.

Don't eat with soiled hands; wash them first.

Don't drink intoxicating drinks; they will do you no good, but will make it harder for you to get well.

Don't sleep in the same bed with anyone else and, if possible, not in the same room.

Good food, fresh air and rest are the best cures. Keep in the sunshine as much as possible and keep your windows open, winter and summer, night and day. Fresh air night and day is good for you.

Go to a hospital while you can and before it is too late. There you can get the best treatment, all the rest, all the fresh air and all the food you need.

WIND AND WAVES.

A Gale's Action Upon Water, Desert Sand and Prairie Snow.

There are wind waves in the water, sand and snow. The great sea waves are produced at that part of a cyclone where the direction of the wind coincides with the direction of advance of the depression. Along this line of advance the waves in their progress are accompanied by a strong wind blowing across their ridges as long as the atmospheric depression is maintained. So the waves are developed until they become steep. The average height in feet is about half the velocity of the wind in miles.

A wind of fifty-two miles an hour gives waves of an average height of twenty-six feet, although individual waves will attain a height of forty feet. The prevailing wind in all longitudes is westerly, so wherever a westerly wind springs up it finds a long westerly swell, the effect of a previous wind still running, and the principal effect of the newly born wind is to increase the steepness of the already running long swell so as to form majestic storm waves, which sometimes attain a length of 1,200 feet from crest to crest. The longest swells due to wind are almost invisible during storms, for they are masked by the shorter and steeper waves, but they emerge into view after or beyond the storm.

The action of the wind to drift dry sand in a procession of waves is seen in the deserts. As the sand waves cannot travel by gravitation, their movements are entirely controlled by the wind, and they are therefore much simpler and more regular in form and movement than ocean waves. In their greatest heights of several hundred feet the former become more complex owing to the partial consolidation of the lower layers of sand by pressure, but they still have the characteristic wave features.

In the Winnipeg prairies of Canada freshly fallen snow is drifted by wind in a procession of regular waves, progressing with a visible and ghostlike motion. They are similar to desert sand waves, but less than half as steep, the wave length being fifty times as great as the height. The flatness of the wind formed snow waves affords a valuable indication of the great distance to which hills shelter from the wind.—Chicago Tribune.

TOO GOOD TO BE WELL.

A London Hospital Doctor's Hurry Patient From the Outside.

The accident bell at the door of the hospital clangs, and the next moment an agitated parent is seen running down the passage with a child tucked under the arm, its bare legs streaming behind it in the wind of its mother's rapidity.

"What's the matter, missis? Has she swallowed some poison?"
"No, sir; it ain't that," she pants, "but I'm that scared I don't know 'ardly which way to turn."

"Well, but what's happened? Has she hurt herself?"
"No, sir, and 'er father 'e's that upset 'e couldn't do nothink, else I ain't used to running like that, and 'e'd 'ave brought 'er up, but 'e says as 'ow 'e daren't touch 'er, and I've run all the way, and me 'eart."

"Come, now, missis, just tell me quietly what's the matter with the child."
The patient, a pretty little thing of four, looks inquiringly at her alarmed parent. There seems to be little the matter with her.

"It's all very well yer a-sittin' there and a-tellin' of me to be quiet," cries the mother. "If yer 'ad children of yer own yer wouldn't like ter see 'em die afore yer eyes. Oh, dear; oh, dear, and there ain't only two more and the baby!"

The doctor in despair examines the little girl, but fails to discover anything wrong. "Now, look here," says he firmly, "I can't find anything the matter with your child, so you'll have to go away unless you tell me why you brought her up to the hospital."

"Well, doctor, we was all a-havin' our tea a minute ago as it might be and 'er father was eatin' a nice bit of tripe as was over from dinner when Susy, this one I 'ave with me, says as 'ow she loved God and was goin' to 'eavin' when he doled. What?" in tones of horror. "Ain't yer going to give 'er no medicine?"—Cornhill Magazine.

His Lucky Coin.
In one of his Hibbert lectures Max Muller said to the students: "Many of you, I suspect, carry a halfpenny with a hole in it for luck. I am not ashamed to own that I have done so myself for many years." The case was cited by him in his lecture as an illustration of "survivals" from primitive fetishism, but on his own account Max Muller confessed that when sometimes he had left home without this halfpenny talisman he felt "very uncomfortable" until his safe return.

Woman the Waitress.
"A woman," remarked the wise widow, "is always waiting for a husband."

"How do you figure that out?" queried the interested spinster.
"If she isn't married," answered the w. w., "she is waiting to get one, and if she is she's waiting for him to come home."—Chicago News.

His Finish.
"Did you ever complete your education?"
"No; my wife did."—Houston Post.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and Vicinity
—Tonight and Saturday, generally fair.

Wichita Falls, Texas, July 9th, 1909

Iowa Park is coming to the front rapidly. The merchants are beginning to see the true value of advertising and are now putting on the Saturday sales and week sales. One does not have to go to Wichita Falls to do their trading when the merchants are putting forth real bargains here at home, and are thus saved the expense and trouble of going to the Falls after them.—Iowa Park Herald.

The Times is glad to note the progressive spirit manifested by Iowa Park's live, wide-awake merchants. The trouble with Iowa Park heretofore has been that her merchants have not made the right sort of effort to hold trade which of right was theirs, but rather contented themselves by filling their stores with goods and waiting for the trade to back up to them, instead of going after it. The result has been detrimental both to them and to Iowa Park. But now, judging from the Herald's clipping quoted above, things are quite different—Iowa Park merchants are getting busy. There is nothing that will give a real good town the appearance of being "slow" more than to turn the mercantile establishments over to men who, while they are good citizens, have the wrong idea of how a real first-class mercantile establishment should be conducted. Iowa Park, in common with many other towns, has suffered more from their non-progressive business men than from all other causes combined.

The Hon. Jake Wolters, as chairman of the anti-prohibition league in Texas, is developing into an expert mud slinger. In Tuesday's Dallas News he slings a few daubs at Cone Johnson and Bill Poindexter. He endeavors to besmirch the democratic record of these gentlemen by referring to the fact that they were gold standard democrats in '96. This, however, is the only weapon left to the one-gallused politician who endeavors to champion the open saloon. Deprive him of his mud, and like Othello, his occupation is gone. Jake Wolters' loyalty to the democratic party was exhibited at the San Antonio convention, when he breathed the threat that a certain prohibition speech made at the close of the convention would cost the party 30,000 votes in November. The trouble about Brother Wolters is, he gauges every man's democracy by his capacity to hold red liquor. The day has come in Texas when politics and whiskey must be divorced, and while we are not prophets, nor sons of prophets, we predict that when the democratic party repudiates whiskey, eo instanti, it loses the affiliation of Jake Wolters (and his 30,000 votes).—Vernon Record.

The Wichita Falls and Northwestern is extending its line fifty miles and is getting ready to build a big new depot. In view of which we would suggest that Abilene move to Wichita Falls en bloc, and quit kicking.

Promises, made in good faith today, should not be broken tomorrow. The people of Wichita Falls, the taxpayers, had confidence in the men who came out in the public prints with statements that the school district and street paving bonds, if voted, could be issued on last year's valuations. It is now up to the gentlemen to give to the taxpayers their reasons, if any, for putting out such a statement, and let them know why it is not being carried out.

The editor of the Austin Tribune wants to know how to toughen the elbows. Try this: Place the elbows on your desk, with a bunch of country correspondence on the north, the weekly payroll on the west, the latest telegraph news clipped from the morning papers on the south and the kicks from sore subscribers on the east, then write editorials on the tariff question until Austin rebuilds the dam. Money refunded if not satisfactory.

The attitude of the Wright Brothers seems to be that if the weather is just right, the motor just right, the carburetor just right, the gear of the thing-umbob just right, and they are feeling just right, they will fly this afternoon. If not, then tomorrow. In the meantime those wishing to present medals will please shove them under the door.

WOES OF THE PURSER

He Has Troubles of His Own on the Trip Across the Atlantic.

MUST HAVE A GOOD TEMPER.

His Time Wasted by Foolish Questions and Trivial Appeals, Mainly by Women Passengers, Yet He Has to Be Always Polite and Agreeable.

"Yes," said the purser on one of the big liners recently to the writer, who happened to be taking a trip from Liverpool to New York. "We have our own troubles, I can assure you, and I sometimes envy the captain his solitary enjoyment of the bridge, even during a sixty mile gale. Passengers seem to think that the purser is put on a ship simply to answer foolish questions.

"Of course there is a good deal which we have to put up with as being part of our legitimate duties, though when a passenger brings us a hundred dollar yellow back and asks to have it changed into English, French, German and Spanish money and stipulates that there must be twice as much French as German and half the remainder in English silver-coins, presumably for tips, is it any wonder that we occasionally lose our tempers?"

"And then, again, the purser is always appealed to for the most trivial things. A woman passenger comes to the window, and if it is closed she will bang on it till it is opened, no matter if the sign is there as large as life that the office hours are from 11 to 2 and 4 to 6 o'clock and she is honoring me with a call at 3 p. m. Then, when the window is raised for fear she will smash it to smithereens, she says, with a sweet smile: 'Oh, Mr. Purser, I am so sorry to disturb you. I know it is not your hour of business, but could you tell me if we will really land next Thursday, as I told my brother we would, and I know he will be waiting for me on the dock.'"

"Of course I am polite, but I have some difficulty in persuading her that I am not running the ship, and neither can I control the elements. She goes away with an expression that clearly shows she thinks I am keeping something back and it will be my fault if we do not arrive at the time appointed.

"I remember on one trip when the weather was particularly stormy a woman passenger knocked at my door—after office hours, of course—and begged that she might speak to me for a few minutes. I politely asked her to enter, and then, her eyes starting out of her head with the excitement of suppressed emotion, she implored me to draw up her will. I protested that I was not a lawyer, but do you think she would be satisfied with that excuse? Not much! There and then I had to draw up a document in the best legal phraseology I could muster.

"When it was finished and I and my assistant had signed it she gave the young fellow a sovereign for his trouble, and as for me—well, she took off a very handsome ring and insisted on my accepting it. I have that ring yet, but what became of the donor I never knew, for when the storm abated and we were safe in port she never so much as bade me goodby, though I had repeatedly asked her to take back her ring. She was a very rich woman evidently, and the 'bequests' in that will I drew up made my eyes bulge.

"Most passengers when we have been a day or so out bring the purser all their valuables, for which they receive a receipt. Some nervous women seem to think that a 'strong room' at sea is not a very secure place for their jewels, and they insist on seeing their treasures at least every day. One woman passenger made my life a burden during a recent voyage by taking her valuables out and putting them in again three times a day until I told her that the next time she called for them I would not take them back again, whereat she told me, with a sour look, that I was impudent and she would inform the captain. I believe she did so, but the captain gave her a word or two of advice regarding the implicit trust which should be placed in a purser, and this quieted her. In fact, she afterward came to me and apologized for her seeming rudeness.

"As a rule, I conduct church service on board, as the captain does not enjoy the work, but prefers to remain on the bridge. Many a funeral service also has fallen to my lot, and I have even officiated at a christening. I am usually the one to whom a passenger flies when he is dissatisfied with his cabin, though the duty of changing a stateroom really rests with the head steward. Then, again, it is the purser who is appealed to when the passengers elect to hold a concert, and the young folks usually rush to him also when they want to have a dance on deck. A purser can be very popular or the reverse, and unless you have an excellent temper you stand a good chance of being the reverse.

"The funniest experience I had was on a recent trip, when there was on board a little girl about twelve years old. She struck up a warm friendship with me and would walk the deck for miles if I would only accompany her. She fell very ill during a storm and refused to be comforted. Her mother asked her if there was anything she could do which would ease her suffering, and the young imp said there was. If she would only 'skidoo' and let the purser read a book to her she would feel better. And the indulgent mother came to me, stated the case, and—well, I complied with her request and read to the child for a little while each day until she was well enough to come on deck again.—London T't-Bits.

LIFE IN MEXICO.
Where They Bar the Windows and Leave the Doors Open.

The City of Mexico swarms with life, yet it is still life. It is the hour of the siesta when you arrive and the streets are deserted of moving things, though every darkened doorway possesses its own colony of slumbers who have cast themselves down where they stood to sleep away the heat laden hours when no man works. Even the very dogs slink into the shadow of the dazzling walls and lol pitifully. The tinkle of mule bells is hushed. The cry of the muleteer sounds no longer. To walk through these streets with imperious foot, after the British fashion, seems sacrilege. One might be walking through a city of the dead.

But the hot hours pass, the city awakens, the mules strain and plunge at the collar, the dogs prowl about between the legs of those who pass, the shops are opened, the scent of garlic saturated cookery rises strongly, mantilla shrouded faces peep from ancient casemates protected by massive iron bars, and the city of sleep becomes a city of leisurely wakefulness. You notice these barred casemates particularly. They are a feature of Mexico. Householders bar the windows and leave the doors unfastened, and here you have an epitome of Mexican character: Do nothing openly, everything on the sly, even to wooing your lady-love.

You might spend a long lifetime in the City of Mexico and still leave much unseen, there are so many features to note—the actual city life, the life beyond those jealously guarded windows, the life lived in the flower scented patios where cooling fountains play with musical softness. Here comes a vaquero riding nonchalantly up the street, a typical product of Mexico, a cattle hand from one of the outlying ranches, a perfect fury unchained when the liquor of the country is in him, a gentle, dreamy child when the liquor has evaporated, and yet between the two events he might have committed a dozen murders without the slightest compunction. His swarthy face is alight with merry laughter. His earrings sparkle in the declining sun. The gay trappings of his magnificent horse fling back dazzling specks of color. In his charapajos (those fringed overalls which protect the speckless white riding breeches from the dust of the way), his bell buttoned jacket, his sombrero, with the haft of a machete protruding from his crimson sash, he might be a hero of old legend instead of a commonplace cowboy.—Frank H. Shaw in Chambers' Journal.

Why Men Wear Trousers.

No living man of this age ever deliberately chose to "adopt trousers." He was forced into them and all other eccentricities of dress by woman. In the very earliest sartorial experience of every man he is swathed in a queer bundle of incoherent bandages by a woman. Later she puts him into cute little dresses so that the neighbors can't tell him from his little sister. Still later she cuts off his curls and puts him into knickerbockers, and he puts on "long pants" when she gives the word and not before. That is all that man has to do or ever had to do with wearing trousers. Woman forced him into them in the first place, and now he is afraid to wear anything else for fear of making a sensation.—Providence Journal.

Virginia Cabbage.

Select a small, fine pointed head of cabbage, cutting off the top for a lid. Cut out the center, leaving a wall an inch thick. Chop one cupful of cabbage very fine, then add one cupful each of ground ham and veal, one grated onion and finely chopped green pepper, six rolled crackers, two beaten eggs, one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one-half teaspoonful each of celery salt and salt, one saltspoonful of white pepper and two dashes of cayenne. Mix thoroughly, fill cabbage, tie on the lid, put in a cheesecloth bag and boil in salted water for one hour. Slice crosswise and serve with cream sauce. Delicious. Serve the potato croquettes on the same platter.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Bill Was Dead Slow.

"Didn't I tell you that Bill was too slow to live?"
"Why, what's 'e bin and done now?"
"He's gone and got run over by a horse!"—New York Journal.

Courtship in the North.
The old Eskimo lit a cup of walrus oil and peered over the sealskin curtain.
"Aurora," he called, sharply, "is that young man down there yet?"
"Yes, pa," answered the Eskimo belle.
"Well, I want you to cut him out, understand?"
"Er—you'll have to do it yourself, pa. He has been here so long he is frozen to the snow settee."—Success Magazine.

"That's no answer. Proposals never do come in words. They consist of sighs, hems, haws and gurgles."—Cleveland Leader.

YOUR COFFEE TASTE CAN BE EXACTLY SUITED

We have learned from quite an experience that about 95 per cent of all coffee tastes can be suited to a "T" with either our Revere Brand Coffee

or with our Concord Brand Coffee

The Revere Brand is, so far as we have been able to find, the finest coffee that is produced at any price. It has that rich, smooth and mellow flavor that makes a person feel like smacking their lips and calling for the second cup.

It is 40c, 75c and $1.10 in 1-2-3 lb tins.

The Concord Brand is a close second to the Revere Brand, containing only a little less of the rich flavor, and at that not so much less as its price, 25c would indicate.

We believe that one of these two coffees will just suit you, but, if by any chance they don't, we want to tell you about two or three others that we have.

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS

PALO DURO CANYON AS A NATIONAL PARK

Randall County News.
While the broad, sunlight plains of the Panhandle have unending charms in the grandeur of their sweep, their glorious mirage and radiant sunsets, still there is an ever-recurring longing for the stream with its babbling currents, the precipice and cliff, the woodland and the mellow, shadowy scenes of the landscape.

As astounding as it may seem to the uninformed there is in the Panhandle and beginning just a couple of miles from Canyon City, the Palo Duro canyon, ranking in point of sublime proportions and all the elements of both wonder and beauty with the more memorable spots for scenic grandeur and renown of this or any of the continents of the earth.

Imagine yourself journeying over the level plains with your vision confronted only by the distant horizon and the shifting mirage, to suddenly halt upon the very verge of a precipice or wall of hundreds of feet, and as you stand appalled with the first distended vision you cover from one to three miles to a similar precipice or wall on the opposite side. These precipices give off every known shade and coloring and in their fantastic creation nature and geology combined their greatest forces in building an adamant picture, awesome, weird and the acme of sublimity. The two or three miles intervening, the two stupendous canyon walls have perennial springs and rivulets and a tree and plant growth of semi-tropical luxuriance. There are over one hundred distinct tree species, from the evergreen cedar, defying time and storm from the towering crag, to the delicate fern that enchants you from the margin of the stream.

The main portion of this great canyon is about 80 miles in length, and, think of this, it is in the very heart of the altitudinous plains with the atmosphere of the canyon always cool, pure and exhilarating and with every part and depth of the canyon free from flies, mosquitoes, insects and reptiles, and you can but conclude that it is a matchless bit of the handiwork of God, was created for a specific purpose and that it would seem almost a sacrilege if there should be any dereliction or tardiness in creating municipal, state and federal park out of this, one of the grandest and choicest gifts nature has been able to bestow.

Some time since the writer made a trip through this geological wonder of the world and every step was taken by way of exploration and was attended by a revelation of pleasing enchantment or thrilling grandeur. The water course is hedged on each side by amphitheatric walls from whose towering and precipitous heights you descend by alternating crags and dizzy slopes to the bower and vine-embosomed valley below. As a fitting crown to such a bewilderingly beautiful panorama rest the graceful and sentinel-like cedars. Lower down, and hugging the canyon walls, you see the honey locust, luxuriant in their feathery foliage, and still lower a rapturous intermingling of elm, hackberry, ash, walnut, Spanish oak, and innumerable other timber of tree species, and lastly the stately cottonwood, sycamore and the button and drooping willow. Just here your attention is arrested by a subdued murmur and rippling melody and a step further, beneath arboreal shade, there is the racing, laughing crystalline rivulet, as if hurrying to hide itself in a mingling of rainbow, spray and foam of the cataract. Passing the rapids you enter upon a level stretch with eddying waters, athwart whose broadening surface is cast the shadow of reposeful sycamores and willows, water out of whose crystal depths pond lilies peep and from whose moss-veiled banks nodding ferns salute; and right here is a rapturous sylvan scene that would rekindle the smoldering emotions of everyone, however phlegmatic, old or young, and, following in quick succession, these scenes can never be overcrowded by seekers of soul's affinities—the extent of area is too great.

The Palo Duro canyon defies the work of pen or painter's brush. It presents an awe-inspiring, kaleidoscopic picture fashioned by Nature and Nature's God which no man can faithfully portray. It is Edenic and entralling in its charm. Here the lover of natural history, fossil and geology can explore to his heart's content.

Such an extended and elaborate narration of the places and scenery was attempted by the writer solely to enlighten the uninformed and to make clear to the outside world that there are means at hand for outdoor life and recreation fully equal to the more famous spots of the world. When they are known they will be appreciated.

THE GHOST AT THE FEAST.

What the Ensign Saw and What Happened After Dinner.

In "The Story of My Life," by Mr. Augustus Hare, is told the following creepy story:

A regiment was passing through Derbyshire on its way to fresh quarters in the north. The colonel, as they stayed for the night in one of the country towns, was invited to dine at a country house in the neighborhood and to bring any one he liked with him. Consequently he took with him a young ensign for whom he had a great fancy. They arrived, and it was a large party, but the lady of the house did not appear till just as they were going in to dinner and when she appeared was so strangely distraught and preoccupied that she scarcely attended to anything that was said to her.

At dinner the colonel observed that his young companion scarcely ever took his eyes off the lady of the house, staring at her in a way which seemed at once rude and unaccountable. It made him observe the lady herself, and he saw that she seemed scarcely to attend to anything said by her neighbors on either side of her, but rather seemed, in a manner quite unaccountable, to be listening to some one or something behind her.

As soon as dinner was over the young ensign came to the colonel and said: "Oh, do take me away! I entreat you to take me away from this place!"

The colonel said: "Indeed, your conduct is so very extraordinary and unpleasant that I quite agree with you that the best thing we can do is to go away." And he made the excuse of his young friend being ill and ordered their carriage.

When they had driven some distance the colonel asked the ensign for an explanation of his conduct. He said that he could not help it. During the whole of dinner he had seen a terrible black, shadowy figure standing behind the chair of the lady of the house, and it had seemed to whisper to her and she to listen to it. He had scarcely told this when a man on horseback rode rapidly past the carriage, and the colonel, recognizing one of the servants of the house they had just left, called out to know if anything was the matter.

"Oh, don't stop me, sir!" he shouted. "I am going for the doctor! My lady has just cut her throat!"

HIS HOLLOW KEY.

He Lent It, but Had Occasion to Crave Its Return.

"They hide in the French theaters with the help of a hollow key," related Richard Harding Davis. "Paul Bourget once told me an odd incident upon this custom."

"A playwright—call him Duval—had the unhappiness one fine night to sit through a most successful production of his latest play. The house responded with jeers and hisses, and a young man, turning to Duval, said:

"By Jove, how I'd roast this miserable piece if I only had a hollow key!"

"My dear boy," said Duval, "I am happy to be able to accommodate you." And he handed a hollow key to the young man, who at once set up a fierce and continuous hissing. Just then a critic appeared.

"Duval," he said to the playwright, "I am sorry for you. Poor fellow, you don't deserve this."

"The young man with the key looked amazed and ashamed.

"What! Are you M. Duval? I beg your pardon a thousand times," he cried.

"You owe me no apology," said Duval. "Lunch with me tomorrow."

The young man accepted the invitation, and at the end of the luncheon next day, when the coffee and cigarettes were brought in, he drew a bulky manuscript from his pocket and begged leave to read a comedy to M. Duval, for he was a playwright too.

Duval consented and listened attentively to the reading. At the end the young man said:

"Well, monsieur, what do you think of it?"

"Duval smiled as he replied:

"Could you oblige me by returning my hollow key?"—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.
