YOUTH SLUGGED, SHOT AND BURNED

Texas Senate Rejects Administration Oil Bill

WAGGON BILL PASSED BY BIG VOTE

Senator Woodward Opposes It; Engrossment Is Voted.

By United Press.
AUSTIN, Aug. 8.—The Texas senate tonight rejected the Waggon administration oil and gas conservation bill, sent it by the house, and adopted instead a substitute prepared by Senator Frank Woodward of Fort Worth and 13 other senators.
The substitute was adopted by a vote of 16 to 9. Adoption was opposed by Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, author of a companion measure to the Waggon bill. The Woodward-Waggon bills had the approval of Governor Sterling.
The senate voted 19 to 8 to engross the bill after it had substituted for the house measure, but no motion was made to reconsider. A senate debated parliamentary procedure as to whether the motion was in order. A vote was not taken on the substitution and engrossment.

"ALFALFA BILL'S" TROOPS TAKE FIELD IN OKLAHOMA'S GREAT OIL BATTLE

When Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma ordered oil operators to sell oil for $1 a barrel or he would shut them down, he meant it. So here you see, upper left, troops arriving at the oil fields to shut down the wells as the governor declared martial law. Col. Cicero Murray, cousin of the governor, in charge of the troops, is seen lower left, in civilian clothes, conferring with officers, and, right, troops are shown entering the fields with arms to enforce the governor's order.

TRAIN AND CAR CRASH IN RANGER

Charles Northcut received injuries to his right arm and his wife was suffering from shock after the car in which they were riding stalled on the Texas & Pacific tracks at Main street in Ranger Saturday afternoon and was struck by an east-bound train.
Mr. and Mrs. Northcut were traveling toward Dallas and when they went to cross the tracks they saw the train approaching and, according to reports, Mr. Northcut stalled his motor in trying to get off the tracks. Mrs. Northcut jumped from the machine and was uninjured but Northcut was slightly hurt when he attempted to push the car from the tracks, the train pushing the car against him when it struck the machine.
Mr. and Mrs. Northcut were taken to the West Texas Clinic & Hospital where they were given medical treatment. The Chevrolet sedan in which they were riding was lightly damaged, having one fender, the radiator and the hood crushed.
The couple make their home in Weatherford and Mr. Northcut travels for the Higginbotham-Bailey-Loran company of Dallas.

George Bernard Shaw in Russia

CHARRED BODY IS FOUND NEAR KAUFMAN ROAD

Father of Girl He Was To Marry Is Held By Dallas Police.

DALLAS, Aug. 8.—Blackened and charred, the body of Eugene Farrar, 26, was found in the smoking wreckage of a sedan near the Kaufman highway today a few hours before he was to have married his sweetheart at Durant.
Farrar had been shot, slugged and the car in which he was to have driven to his wedding made a funeral pyre by his slayers.
W. P. Brewster, 54, father of the youth's 17-year-old sweetheart, Irene, was held by police for questioning. Police said he had confessed the crime when they arrested him at his home a few blocks from the car. At police headquarters he denied any connection with the slaying.
Irene, an expectant mother, told officers Farrar had planned to come for her at 8:30 today and they were to drive to Durant to marry. The youth did not come, however, and today Brewster and his daughter drove to Farrar's home to inquire for him. They were told he had not returned.
Four hours later Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Phife of Mesquite, motoring to Dallas on the Kaufman road, saw a sedan marked on a prairie near the highway burst into flames. They called police.
James Gilmore, negro, told officers he saw a man running from the scene as flames leaped high above the machine. Firemen found the car a smoking heap of wreckage, the body of Farrar a heap of charred bones.

COMPANY I DOING WELL AT CAMP

A communication from Corporal D. A. Lawson of Company I, 142nd Infantry, which is now encamped at Camp Hulen, Texas, says that by virtue of having attained the distinction of 100 per cent attendance at the annual armory inspection, Company I has been awarded blue guidon streamers. The communication also says that by virtue of having attained qualifications on the target range of 35 per cent or better of their enlisted personnel the company has been awarded red guidon streamers.
The letter concerning the activities of the national guard company continues:
"The company as a whole are enjoying the encampment very much. There is no talk of depression here because there is no one who has time to discuss it."
"From the amount of food consumed here one would think all the surplus would be taken up, at least here in Texas. Almost every company in the division has its full quota of men."
"We are receiving your paper regularly and the company appreciates it very much."

SHEEP AND GOAT MEN RE-ELECT OFFICERS

All officers of the OH Belt Sheep and Goat Raisers association were re-elected at the business meeting held at the Ranger Country club Saturday afternoon following the big barbecue at noon.
Those elected to office were W. H. Baeheler, Palo Pinto, president; J. F. Donley, Ranger, first vice president; L. W. Riddell, Lingleville, second vice president, and Ben Whitehouse, Ranger, secretary and treasurer. Dr. Bob Hodges was elected chairman of the selling committee and will be assisted by J. B. Long of Ranger and L. W. Riddell of Lingleville.
A crowd of approximately 200 members and visitors attended the barbecue that preceded the business meeting at which barbecued sheep and goat, beans, tomatoes, pickles, coffee, lemonade, ice water and bread were served.
At the business meeting it was decided that the fall sale would be held about Oct. 21 at midnight. The tax is three cents per package.
Lockhart has had trouble persuading chiefs of police and other officers to tell deals where they can get tax stamps for present stocks. He detailed his troubles with manufacturers and anticipated further troubles with dealers today.
County Judge Clyde Garrett explained the work that has been done by the state and county in helping destroy predatory animals. He said that the state and county formerly employed three trappers and that one was still employed.
Dr. Bob Hodges, chairman of the selling committee, made a report on the sale of the spring clip, saying that some of the members were complaining because their wool did not bring top prices. He displayed some of this wool, which was full of dirt, burrs and other materials that took much from its value.
Several committees are to be appointed that were not named at the meeting Saturday. These will be selected before the fall clip.

Deportation Methods Rapped By Wickersham

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The federal government was confronted today with a Wickersham commission charge that it is despotic and frequently unfair in administration of alien deportation laws. Some phases of the law were condemned.
Secretary of Labor Donohue replied today that "every effort had been made to correct administrative abuses."
President Hoover and Donohue were known to be deeply concerned over the commission's finding that the deportation system has subjected aliens to "oppression, unfairness and hardship." The report has been in Mr. Hoover's possession since May 27 but was not made public until today.

Shetland Pony Is Stolen On Friday

Ranger police were notified late Friday night that a Shetland pony belonging to Pearl Hunt had been stolen.
The pony was missed about 9 o'clock and when Mr. Hunt went to investigate he found that the wire which held the gate had been cut and the pony was missing.
He had not been recovered late Saturday.
ANNOUNCE SON'S ARRIVAL.
Mr. and Mrs. Lowe Wallace announce the arrival of a son at home, 1102 First street. He has been named Mitchell Teague. Mother and son are doing nicely.

150 "RIDING RODS"
EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill.—Railroad men here estimate that an average of 150 men a day pass through East St. Louis on freight train "rods" or "under-slung pullmans." Most of them are headed west, seeking work.

300 STRIKE AT SITE OF GIANT DAM

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Aug. 8.—With 300 men definitely out on strikes and approximately 1,200 others idle in desert camps as a result of precautionary measures against possible violence, went into effect on the Hoover dam power and water project near here tonight.
Shortly before nightfall Sheriff Joe Keate established a five-man staff at the boundary separating government reservations from state territory.
All cars and pedestrians entering the reservation were searched. "Anyone found with a firearm will be shot on sight to check it," the sheriff said. "Otherwise he won't go into the Boulder dam area."
Almost simultaneously Deputy U. S. Marshal Claude Williams with a staff of four rangers borrowed all of the riot equipment, tear gas guns and ammunition owned by the Las Vegas police department.
Another development came when District Attorney Harmon, Las Vegas, talked by telephone to J. White, who commands the state guard with headquarters in Carson City.
It was rumored here that government officials plan to summon army posts to use in air patrols over the Black canyon area of the Colorado river, where the dam work started last May.

McDonald May Be Candidate For Governor

AUSTIN, Aug. 8.—J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, announced tonight he is a candidate for governor in 1932, he will offer himself for the office.
McDonald said that defeat in the Senate today of the cotton acreage reduction bill makes it inevitable that the issue involved be appealed to the people of the state.

"Legs" Diamond Sentenced On Liquor Charge

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Jack "Legs" Diamond, New York's No. 1 public enemy today was found guilty on two counts of violating the prohibition law.
The same federal court jury that found Diamond guilty returned a vote of acquittal for Paul Quatrochi on a charge of operating a still but found that he was guilty of conspiracy.

Sterling Says Oil Industry Will Be Ruined By Failure To Pass Adequate Conservation Bills

AUSTIN, Aug. 8.—Failure of the Texas legislature to pass conservation measures in its present special session may spell ruin to the American oil industry, Gov. Ross Sterling told the United Press today in an interview.
Both houses of the legislature defeated bills yesterday which would have created a conservation commission to regulate the drilling of Texas oil and its production. The defeated measure sponsored by the administration, constituted an important part of proposed remedial legislation.
The special legislative session was convened expressly to enact it into a law.
Governor Sterling, himself a practical and successful oil man, warned of what he considered might be the consequences of the bill's defeat.
"Ninety per cent of the persons engaged in the American oil industry either are bankrupt or will be unless relief is provided from the present chaotic waste in production," he said.
He said his proposal for a conservation commission would have made possible selection of able men who could agree not only on regulation of production but on future exploitation.
"I don't know what we'll do next," he concluded. "Maybe Bill Murray has the right idea."

REBATES ON FARMLOANS ALLOWED

STAMFORD, Tex., Aug. 8.—Farmers whose cotton crops are mortgaged to the federal government as security for the 1931 production loans will be allowed to use the seed and 85 per cent of the proceeds of the sale of their cotton to pay for gathering, ginning and marketing, it was announced today.
Clifford B. Jones of Spur, chairman of the agricultural committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce made the announcement.
The information was given to Jones, he said, in a telegram from R. H. McElveen, administrative officer in charge of the seed loan office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in St. Louis.
At a joint meeting in Lubbock Friday of the agricultural committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Texas Bankers association it was decided to request the government to permit Texas borrowers of production loans to retain the cost of over and above the value of the cotton seed and a reasonable cost for picking.

U. S. Regains Wightman Cup

FOREST HILLS, Long Island, Aug. 8.—The United States today regained the Wightman cup, emblematic of women's tennis supremacy, when Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., defeated Miss Phyllis Mudford of Great Britain in the fourth match of the ninth international series.
FIRST CIRCUS IN 76 YEARS.
RANGLEY, Me.—A circus came to this town recently for the first time in 76 years.

Lone Star And Longhorns Will Play Ball Today

The Lone Star baseball team will play the Eastland Longhorns this afternoon at 3:30 on the Eastland diamond in the third encounter of these two teams this year. To date each team has won one game and lost one and the third game will decide the winner of the series.
Overby will pitch for the Eastlanders, with Brown catching, while Littlefield will do the twirling for the Lone Stars, with Watson catching.

Cotton Acreage Bill Engrossment Is Voted Down

AUSTIN, Aug. 8.—The senate voted 14 to 10 today against engrossment of the cotton acreage reduction bill offered by Senator Oliver Cunningham of Abilene.
The senate action was equivalent to killing the bill as far as this special session is concerned. A similar bill offered by Representative J. J. Olsen of Yoakum is pending in the house.
Cunningham's bill would have made it a misdemeanor to plant the same land in cotton two years in succession.

Many Banks Are Open in Germany

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—The continued stability of Germany's finances was indicated today when all municipal and other public savings banks resumed full payment of deposits.
Some 2,600 financial houses of this class reopened for business a usual after weeks of drastic restrictions imposed during the nation's financial crisis.
Depositors formed in lines outside the banks. They thronged the counters. They were orderly.

Cotton Crop to Be Larger This Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The 1921-31 cotton crop will total 15,584,000 bales, compared with last year's production of 13,352,000 bales, the census bureau estimate today.
Condition of the crop was placed at 74.9 per cent as of Aug. 1, against a condition of 62.2 per cent the final of last year.
The estimate was based on acreage of 51,191,000 acres in cultivation July 1.

Stolen Brief Case Found in Eastland

The brief case that was reported stolen in Ranger a few nights ago has made its appearance in the city hall in Eastland, Ranger police were notified by employ at the city hall today.
It was not given out how the brief case happened to be in Eastland or whether any arrests had been made. A reward of $500 was offered by the salaried who in the case.

Mount Vernon Replica is Dry

PARIS.—The French Mount Vernon, replica of George Washington's mansion, erected at the Louisiana exposition, is going to be the driest spot in Paris.
C. Bascom Slem, American commissioner at the exposition, decided that Mount Vernon should be kept dry, even at the expense of exciting ridicule. There have been number of garden fountains there this summer, under the trees of the Vincennes forest, but the punch was unspiked fruit.
"This is just another bit of American soil and the prohibition amendment to our constitution applies here just as much as it does the states at home; our parties will certainly not be wet and our schemes will be above reproach."
Embassy officials were not asked for a ruling, but pointed out that the embassy, which is also considered as American soil, is not wet and that cocktails and wines are served at embassy functions.
Most of the buildings at the exposition there are 27 cockle-bars and two beer gardens, one of which is adjoining the American building.

Marlene Dietrich Is Being Sued

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—Marlene Dietrich, exotic German star, today declared that she had legal actions brought against her in New York by Mrs. Riza Von Sternberg were "ridiculous, unfair and unjustified."
The actions alleged that Miss Dietrich had stolen the love of Mrs. Von Sternberg, noted director, and had libeled Mrs. Von Sternberg, now divorced from the actor.
"I can't help but wonder if these suits ever would have been brought against me if I had not been fortunate enough to be well known and befriended by the American public," Miss Dietrich said.

DID TWO MEN SAVE FRANCE?

Colonel Arthur Brisbane is a mighty historian, a mighty producer of copy, a mighty prophet or seer, and his opinions are handed out daily. His latest is that David Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau saved France and saved England and the European world. He has planted in his Brisbane history of all times the verdict that had it not been for these two men a prince of the House of Hohenzollern would have been the next king of England. Didn't Uncle Sam make any contribution at all to the big fighting game while the world war was on? Didn't he invest $30,000,000,000 in the game before and after its finish? Didn't he bridge the Atlantic with ships? Didn't he mobilize millions of men? Didn't he send a vast army across the water? Didn't he feed all the Europeans while they were fighting? Didn't he feed their hungry after the peace pact had been signed? In the division of spoils, would Uncle Sam accept a dollar? Well, he didn't. Uncle Sam invested billions in Europe in the wake of the war, to rehabilitate and stabilize. Uncle Sam, through the gentlemen who fed the Belgian children, granted a moratorium for a year. Now the experts say that Germany has been saved. Henry Ford made the astonishing admission some years ago, "All history is bunk." Is it?

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT FACING DEFICIT.

President Rubio has notified the Mexican congress and the bankers of Mexico that he is facing a deficit of $40,000,000 in the government budget this year. He placed the blame for the deficit on fall in value of minerals produced on a large scale in Mexico, a drop in exports due to restrictive tariff acts placed in effect by the United States government, decline in the value of the silver peso, and an unfavorable trade balance. He asked for authority to suppress all unnecessary public services, reduce expenses of all government departments to the minimum, and to reduce the salaries of government employes and army officers.

He asked congress for authorization to impose an extraordinary tax on the gross receipts of all industries, commerce, and agriculture, based on income tax reports for last year. Extraordinary taxes proposed would hit all public utilities, including power companies, the capital or income of Mexicans residing abroad, and the profits obtained by individuals or business concerns, as a result of the financial fluctuation, Mexico has a foreign debt of $500,000,000. Mexico is facing a deficit of $40,000,000. More than 200,000 Mexicans returned to their native land in a single year. Rubio is steering the reins of government; Calles is handling the banking situation. Regardless of all this, Mexico is a thousand per cent better off than it was before the coming of the so-called iron rulers of the republic. Mexico has a stabilized government and Rubio is not only a great engineer but a great statesman.

SPEAKING OF LIQUIDATION.

State Banking Commissioner James Shaw has been on the job for more than three years. His report shows that the state banks are in sound condition and reflect a healthy trend of business. Another feature to the general liquidation of the past two years convinces Commissioner Shaw that liquidation is a helpful thing in the long run. In other words, general liquidation, "washed out speculation and general overdoing of things and put the country in position for the next climb to prosperity." It did more. It placed new money in weak banks and made them strong. It rid the system of many inefficient individuals. It won the approval of the bankers who believe in a real code of doing business and restored confidence as well as courage to the people.

TOLL BRIDGES AND INTANGIBLE TAXES.

There are 35 toll bridges and ferry companies in Texas. Only four pay intangible taxes. Representative F. C. Weinert served four years as state tax commissioner by appointment of Dan Moody. If the lawmakers will read the annual reports of Weinert they will come face to face with an interesting array of facts and figures. Now Attorney General Jimmy Alford is at work on a ruling to determine the course of the state in collecting back taxes. A very busy servant of the people is this chap from West Texas. As for publicity—why, read the daily newspapers.

CREEKMORE AND THE COTTON ADVANCE.

E. C. Creekmore is the vice president and general manager of the Cotton Cooperative association. In addressing the farmers' short course at the A. & M. college, Manager Creekmore announced that the association's policy to avoid additions to heavy accumulations of unsold American cotton would make impracticable continuance of the 90 per cent advance on farmers' cotton. He admitted that he was not prepared to announce the percentage of advance to be made in the 1931-1932 season. Germany is said to be coming back. If so, all the nations of Central Europe will come back. This should do something to advance the price of cotton.

PAROLE POLICY OF THE GOVERNOR DEFENDED.

General Manager Lee Simmons of the Texas prison system reported to Governor Sterling of the reduced expenditures of the system the first six months of this year compared to the same period a year ago. All tax payers are interested in the showing made. Manager Simmons said the system bought $29,517.40 worth of bacon compared with $49,626.13 last year, notwithstanding the prison population had increased 700. Only $2476.99 was spent for beef, compared with $16,942.84 last year.

Do you get it? The system raised more of its beef. Repurchase expense was given at $3016.96 compared with $6338.14 the first six months of 1930. All this was due to fewer escapes and Manager Simmons attributed that to the morale effected by the governor's parole policy. There is a way to make a prison self-sustaining, that is, to a great extent.

Chairman George W. Wickensham and his associates should send their investigators to Texas to make a study of prison methods and prison business management in recent years.

COLLEGE GETS HIGH RATING.

RIPON, Wis.—For the second consecutive year, Ripon College's G. O. T. C. unit has been given an "excellent" rating by the War Department. This is the highest honor that can be won by the college reserve officers corps. The course is in charge of Captain Glen R. Townsend and Lieutenant Paul G. Serff, both graduates of West Point.

Making the Best of the Worst!

A presidential boom in earliest incipency is that for Melvin A. Traylor, old-time Hillsboro boy who made good in national banking in the international banking. Hillsboro has just started its tom-toms for Traylor; but the Traylor boom really had its start at the other end of the line; for Traylor won mention as a definite factor in the democratic presidential race before Texas had thought of furnishing the next nominee and maybe the next president.

Samuel B. Hlythe, in The Saturday Evening Post mentioned Traylor several months ago. Now Hillsboro has held a mass meeting in behalf of its favorite son. Resolutions are on the way to Austin, to be presented to the house by Rep. R. M. Sparkman with the request that the legislature join in the boost for the former Texan. Mr. Sparkman has been asked by Walter Collins, Hillsboro leader in the Traylor-for-President movement, to sound out the legislature and see to what extent it is friendly to Traylor.

Everything he has heard so far is favorable, and the resolutions have no apparent prospect of anything but the most rosy results when offered in the house and senate. During the regular session of the legislature Mr. Traylor responded to an invitation that the legislature somehow or other happened to adopt inviting him to come to Austin. It was just one of those spontaneous things.

Representative Sparkman, Eldred McKinnon, Mark Wington and others in Austin were youngmanned friends of the banker who has gone so far so fast. Mr. Traylor, graduating up the line in banking, has come to be the head of the great merger-built First National of Chicago, and he was one of the eminent bankers sent ahead by the government to set up the bank for international settlements.

As a matter of fact his presidential boom has been adroitly built up; and his visit to Austin, and to the south was unquestionably a feeder for a serious effort to put him into the strategic position of a compromise man acceptable to the north and to the south—where he undoubtedly would command much strength. If a deadlock developed over the main candidates.

As an opinion, it seems that Traylor's political ship was launched as a counter move to the boom that had Owen B. Young at its crest. The Young campaign didn't pan out. As it was well on its way to a collapse by common consent, Mr. Young let it be known that he isn't a politician, isn't and hadn't been interested in the promotion at all. This undoubtedly is true. Traylor was boomed probably by force with which he had nothing to do. He took it not too seriously, and in good humor. It wasn't bad advertising anyway, for the rustic-looking, youngish financial genius from Hillsboro.

Now that the movement that caused the launching of his political ship has subsided, the Traylor craft can't have much to agitate it, unless, as always, a new storm blows up, or the lightning hits in a new place and puts super-ego into the wabbly oars. Anyway, Representative Sparkman is sounding out the Texas legislature. He's finding few Texans who oppose the idea of making a Texan the democratic nominee, if it can be done, especially when the party's prospect is so fair. He's finding others ready to hitch to any favorite son to avoid pre-

DAILY WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—The business of deciphering the diplomatic, naval and military codes of other nations and trying to make up new codes that cannot themselves be deciphered seems to resemble the constant battle of wits between prohibition bureau chemists who try to put irremovable concoctions into alcohol and the bootleggers who try to get the stuff out.

Such codes are changed, sometimes frequently, but the cryptographers in the world capitals pursue them relentlessly. Getting information about codes from government departments is about the hardest assignment you can tackle, but it is generally conceded any code can be "broken down" if the cryptographer has enough time to work on it.

Major Herbert O. Yardley, former military intelligence officer who recently wrote in "The American Black Chamber" a sensational account of how our government cryptographers broke down codes of foreign governments during the war and up to 1929, says the State Department code is vulnerable and undoubtedly is being read by other governments. He also offers the department a system, involving use of a code machine, by which complete secrecy can be guaranteed for confidential messages.

The department doesn't seem to be taking this very seriously. Yardley hasn't divined the nature of his system beyond pointing out that the only indecipherable means of communication is one in which "there are no repetitions to conceal."

Scotts at Machines. Other coding machines and decoding machines to correspond with them have been used before. The Navy has tried them out, but won't report with what success. One State Department official, speaking privately, scoffs at the idea of a code machine system and convention troubles, and to have the 46 votes ready when the proper time comes to make them count in determining the nominee.

He's finding many who admire the able, upstanding and remarkable ex-Texas banker, and who are willing to express it in the political terms of an endorsement for president. . . . Some of them not taking it any more seriously than obviously does Mr. Traylor himself.

RAINBOW TROUT TOURS.
MADISON, Wis.—A rainbow trout, tagged by the Wisconsin conservation commission at Port Washington, Wis., was captured nine months later at Junction Dam, on the Manistee River, clear across Lake Michigan. Another trout tagged by the commission was found to have traveled 140 miles in Lake Michigan in less than two months. Habits of the fish are learned by tagging them, the conservationists declare.

demands to know what would happen if an urgent message were sent and our minister's machine broke down.

Nevertheless, Yardley has directed attention to confidential government codes and their widespread use. There have been some tart comments on his "ethics" in telling the story, but no one has yet denied it and one hears in informed quarters that he was one of the best cryptographers in the business.

The diplomatic and military services have two types of codes, a common code designed to save money or time in cabling, telegraphing or radiating and a confidential code for secret messages. Code messages appear in words, numerals or jumbles of letters. Some codes involve 100,000 words.

The British army once used one based on relative positions of a swarm of bees on a magazine cover. In wartime there's a simple trench code, often changed because of the danger of capture, and a complicated code used between G. H. Q. and division headquarters which is changed before every big operation.

Ten in One Message. Changing codes has often been used to beat the decipherers and if the new code is well constructed it's usually safe, at least for a while. Yardley says the Japanese introduced 18 different codes in 1919 and 1920 and finally were using 10 codes in a single message. The Germans had a code on the front to which the key changed every day. The worst danger in code changing is that the other fellow may get hold of the same message written both in the old and the new code.

Breaking down codes, the science of cryptography, is something people write books about. To fool the decipherer the code makers resort to such tricks as mixing several codes, inserting meaningless symbols, avoiding repetitions and tossing beginnings and ends of messages into the middle.

Spending your money in the city that supports you means that you are a real citizen and that you like to see your neighbor, as well as yourself, become more prosperous.

One of the first duties of every citizen is to help the wheels of business of the home city move rapidly.

Your local dealers are ready and willing to supply your every need. They should have your good will and support.

You will always find it worth while to buy at home.

Oil Men Offer to "Swap" Governors

By United Press.
TYLER, Aug. 8.—A proposal for Texas and Oklahoma to swap governors was dispatched to the Oklahoma House of Representatives today by a group of independent oil operators.

Not only would they "donate" Governor Sterling to Oklahoma but would give a million barrels of oil "to boot," the telegram said.

Some people should consider the habit of Opportunity, which knocks but once.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

LEO H. PETERSEN, Press Staff Correspondent. Campolo Steam-up Job for James Joy. James Joy Johnson, fight promoter whose assets include an army of publicity men, is about to employ his publicity department...

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

Francis Ouimet. A 15-foot putt, a 30-foot putt, a 35-foot putt, a 15-foot putt and a 44-foot putt on 6 consecutive holes. Average - 25 1/2 feet to the putt. BALSARAL GOLF CLUB. NATIONAL AMATEUR 1926-27. NEVER PITCHED A NO-HIT GAME. IN TWO OF THE BATTLES THE SINGLES WERE COME IN THE NINTH INNING.

What A Student Thinks of the Ranger Junior College

BY LEO HEALER. Pretty girls with flashy smiles! Handsome boys with thrown out chests! Anxious sponsors! Proud teachers and parents! You're right, it was graduation night for the seniors in 1930. The beautiful girls in attractive costumes, and the boys dressed in white flannel trousers and blue coats more resembled a style show than a night of reward after four years of ceaseless work...

Mormon Hope

Salt Lake City was proud when George Von Elm won the national amateur golf championship. But that was several years ago and now they are hoping that Ralph Pugmire, above, will be able to bring them another title soon.

Chef To Skate On Bacon Greasing a Monster Frying Pan

CHEHALIS, Wash. — Imagine not being able to grease a frying pan without getting your feet into it. That's just what the fellow who greases the eight-foot pan for the Farmers and Merchants picnic here, has to do. The specially prepared skillet will cook a 10,000 egg omelet in celebration of the event. The chef will attach large slabs of bacon to his feet and in the manner of a skater, sither about the hot metal.

What drawing power Johnston offers of Campolo and Schaaf is mystery. Tommy Loughran demonstrated that the Argentine battler was not of the front rank...

HITS AND SLIDES Henry L. Farrell

The Old Boy Champion. EIGHTEEN years have taken toll of the cunning that made Francis Ouimet national open champion in 1913. His putter has lost some of the magic it held when the 19-year-old Bostonian stood single-handed, like Horatius at the bridge, and turned back the vaunted Harry Vardon and Ted Ray.

Standing of All Oil Belt Teams For the Season

Table with 3 columns: Team Name, W, L, Pct. Includes teams like Albany, Breckenridge, Cisco, Eastland, Mineral Wells, Phil-Pe-Co, Ranger, Thurber.

Did You Know That—

THERE was a difference of 24 strokes between low and high qualifying scores for the national amateur. But McKinney of Del Rio, Texas, was low with 140. Harold Weber of Toledo, J. D. Standish, Jr. of Detroit and L. L. Bredin of Detroit were tied for high with 154.

OPPORTUNITY

This company is interested in securing a representative for the purpose of making loans on automobiles in the territory embracing Eastland, Cisco, Ranger and Breckenridge. The requirements are important in the following order: 1st. The representative must possess an unquestionable character and ability.

Markets

Carrying On

THIEN Fung turned her back upon him. In the years since 1914 golf has given to Outmet setback after setback. He won the western amateur in 1917 by beating Don Edwards 1 up. He reached the final of the national amateur in 1920 only to take a drubbing at the hands of Chick Evans.

RUSSIAN LIVING STANDARDS NOT ON SAME LEVEL

MOSCOW—It would be wrong to suppose that living standards in the Soviet Union have been reduced to a dead level of equality. Nobody lives opulently. But there are numerous degrees of poverty.

The division of the population into categories in itself establishes serious differentiations. The distinction between these categories is greater than appears at first.

Inequalities in earning power provide even greater contrasts. Stalin himself has just demanded an abandonment of Utopian notions of equality of income, ordering higher pay for better work.

9013F2

The "Communist Youth Pravda" recently described a toy factory in which workers receive 27 rubles a month. At the other extreme are specialists drawing 500 or 600 rubles monthly and authors netting royalties of 1,000 rubles a month. Between these is the great working mass, averaging about 100 rubles a month.

Rulers Not Exempt

The ruling Communists are not exempt from the hardships. Like everyone else they stand in lines, subsist on rations and patch their clothes.

The income of Communist Party members, indeed, and of the Communist Youth members, as well, cannot exceed the "party maximum" of 300 rubles a month. This scarcely gives them financial scope for high living. There are about 2,000,000 in the party and over 4,000,000 in its youth auxiliary.

Nevertheless the advantages of the higher administrative personnel in government and industry need not be minimized. Certainly the head of a great business trust, or of an important government department, does not live in a style remotely comparable to that of a person in a similar position abroad. But such things are relative. Under Soviet conditions the fact that such people do have special privileges in transportation, first class upon desirable living quarters, etc., puts them in a privileged position.

Ragged Men and Women

There are a fanatical, fanatically ragged men and women, barefooted, in tattered burkaparmants, like characters out of a beggar's opera; they are part of the daily scene and attract not the slightest attention. At the other end of the scale there are reasonably well-dressed Russians in Western clothes, the men often wearing the flat hats of the engineering fraternity. But the great difference is in their morale, sufficient, sufficiently but poorly dressed.

Follow any of these into their homes and you find a repetition of the swarming, the jostling, the discomfort, the monotony of the streets. What formerly served as apartments for a single family now house perhaps half a dozen.

From a western standpoint the most distressing phase of Russian life today is the thorough subordination of the individual to the State. Every move and thought is documented, prescribed, and controlled. We can leave out of consideration the hundreds of thousands of kulaks and other "class enemies" actually exiled and interned in brutally inhospitable regions. These are "prisoners of war." The ordinary soviet worker, too, moves through his days in accordance with instructions.

Everything Arranged

The work he does, the amount he is given to eat, everything is arranged by commissions and regulations. Under a voluntary pledge—which he dare not refuse to make—to stick to his job he is in effect chained to it. The penalties for breach, sometimes involving the loss of the ration book.

843-W

The needs of the State are paramount, and the individual is a helpless cog in the State's machinery. In the war for industrialization absolute discipline in the ranks is the basic rule.

Life is no picnic here. But the human animal adjusts itself to anything. The Russians, in addition, have known worse. They remember horrible holes which served as living quarters for factory hands in the pre-revolutionary days, and famines periods compared with which the present rationed regime seems plenty.

Youth Hopeful

The old are for the most part reconciled to their lot and the young are brimful of hope. All around them are signs of a new era dawning for their country. They do not permit the slightest doubt of this to intrude, and immediate sacrifices are treated as an investment against the future.

One thing at least the revolution has done. It has removed the fear of tomorrow which elsewhere weighs upon the working people. Old age, illness, maternity, everything is provided against.

The government is extracting as much work as it can from the Russian people, deploying its population as needed on the industrial and agricultural fronts with small regard for the preferences of the individual. In return it guarantees them the minimum of life necessities.

WOODEN PLOW HIS FAVORITE

MUTNAM, Ia.—Whirling of airplane propellers and roar of tractor mean nothing to Joseph Hannik, 82, oldest farmer in Linn county. He still uses an old wooden plow which he made for himself some 40 years ago. He has never ridden in an automobile nor an airplane.

EAGLE PASS—New business college opened in city.

German Ace and Ohio Judge He Shot Down In War, Buddies by Mail, Soon to Meet

One of the strangest friendships that came out of the World War is between Ernst Udet, at top, German war ace, and one of his 62 victims, Judge Walter B. Wanamaker, of Akron, O., lower right. At the left is a picture of the unconscious Lieutenant Wanamaker snatched by Udet a few minutes after he shot him down. They will meet at the National Air Races at Cleveland in the week of Aug. 29.

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

NEA Service Writer
CLEVELAND, O.—Ernst Udet, German war ace credited with shooting down 62 allied flyers, is coming here to meet his only American victim.

Common Pleas Judge Walter B. Wanamaker, of Akron, O., is the victim. Udet shot him down behind the German lines on the western front July 2, 1918. They will meet here during the National Air Races in the week of Aug. 29, when Udet represents the pilots of Germany.

Since 1927 a strange friendship has arisen between them. Although they have been exchanging letters and pictures since then, they have not set eyes upon each other since that July day in 1918.

Udet was flying high over Chateau Thierry. He spied a dog fight between French Nieuport and German Fokker. Wanamaker was on the tail of a Fokker. Just as he was about to open fire, Udet swooped down upon him.

Wanamaker was oblivious of Udet. At an altitude of about 15,000 feet Udet opened fire on Wanamaker's tail. Surprised, Wanamaker put his ship into a tail spin and went down to 4500 feet. Udet followed, pouring lead into the spinning plane.

Plane Breaks in Half

Wanamaker, discovering Udet was following him down, but his ship into a second spin and went down to 1200 feet, but could not escape. Udet forced him to land behind the German lines.

As he landed, his ship broke in half at the cockpit, and he suffered a fractured leg and other injuries. Udet landed a few minutes later and took a picture of Wanamaker on a stretcher just after German soldiers had dragged him out of the wreckage.

On the invitation of Navy Lieutenant Al Williams, Udet will attend the National Air Races. Others who will attend are Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherly of England; Major Mario De Bernardi, of Italy; Schneider Cup winner, and Captain C. Orlinki, of Poland.

Human Pin Cushion Studied By Experts

LORAIN, O.—Due to an abnormality of his nervous system, Walter Easler, known here as a "human pin cushion," can pierce his face and arms with needles without feeling any pain.

Physicians say his is a remarkable case of sensory anesthesia, with the explanation that the nerves which carry the sensations of pain are not functioning in his body.

But specialists point out that he faces a real peril in that he may develop acute indigestion, or appendicitis, or some other form of illness in which pain is the chief warning and his condition might become critical without his having any warning.

Zoo Hippopotamus Reaches Old Age

NEW YORK.—"Peter the Great" is unique among his kind. He recently celebrated his twenty-fifth birthday, which is another rare event for one of Pete's race, who usually pass to the Great Beyond before arriving at this staid old age.

If Pete has any intention of passing on he failed to demonstrate an early demise as he nibbles on two bales of hay in his quarters in the Bronx zoo. Pete is the huge hippopotamus that for many years has been the center of admiration of the millions of visitors at the zoo.

Iowan Printed Lipton's First Label

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia.—J. Wilson Roy, as a lad, printed Thomas Lipton's first tea labels. He met King George and Queen Mary of England when they were still Duke and Duchess of York. He attended the wedding of the parents of Rumania's dowager queen Marie. As a New York dramatic critic he interviewed more than 500 of the nation's stage stars. Now, at 62, he is content to live with his son here, and ruminate over the glitter of his past.

In all his excitement-packed life, his greatest thrill, he says, was delivering a Fourth of July address.

New York City Biggest Jewelry Mart

NEW YORK.—About 25 per cent of all the jewelry sold in the United States is disposed of in and about New York, according to the census of distribution figures prepared by the government.

There are 1,486 jewelry stores here that dispose of jewelry valued at $95,000,000 yearly.

Many Scotchmen and their families are spending vacations in Florida, says a news item. What do you mean, "spending"?

Lack of Sanitary Cups Puts Ban on Circus Lemonade

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—The circus came to town recently but it just wasn't quite the same as in the "good old days."

For one thing there wasn't any "pink" lemonade. The circus vendors were willing to sell the lemonade and orangeade but had their apparatus ready for the selling threat.

But the health authorities said, "No."

The embargo was declared because the vendors had failed to provide themselves with paper cups, and the health officials ruled that dispensing the drinks in glasses was too dangerous to public health.

With the big news of the day concerned with armament cuts, slices in salary and dividend slashes, future generations will probably understand A. D. to mean After Dissection.

Prognosticator Picks Cardinals

IOLA, Kan.—A real prognosticator is Milt Simpson, proprietor of Iola's "village smithy," who picked big league victors since 1919, with the exception of 1920 when the Cubs won.

Simpson has annually sent to the team which he selects a horseshoe, a token of good luck, which he wrought from his blazing forge and ringing anvil.

A piece of absorbent cloth, such as is used for removing cold cream, is all you need to keep your camera lens clean. The lens is wiped with a circular motion, from the center toward the edge, with very little pressure.

GREENVILLE.—First test oil well swaddled in on average contract by C. N. Russell, geologist of Ada, Okla.

Christian Science Movement Shows Large Growth

Growth of the Christian Science movement throughout the world, as indicated by formation during the past year of 79 new branch church organizations, was reported at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., held recently. Six thousand members from many nations attended.

The Mother Church now has 2519 branch churches and societies, in addition to 40 college and university organizations; the past year having witnessed the formation of several branch churches in Europe, Asia, Africa and Australasia, in addition to the 45 in North America.

Christian Science lecturers addressed total combined audience of approximately 2,300,000 during the past 12 months, it was reported; indicating growing interest in Christian Science throughout the world. In addition to the 3732 regular lectures, a number were broadcast.

Robert E. Buffum, LL. B., incoming president of The Mother Church for the ensuing year, dwelt on the world's unrest. "Today all mankind needs the help which Christian Science can give for its ills and troubles," he said. "The various theories entertained by the world with respect to health, happiness, employment, property and prosperity, are experiencing radical changes, and with these shifting beliefs have arisen many doubts, fears and anxieties."

"The questions which today baffle individuals and nations, and which seem so peculiar to this age, are really the common problems of the human race," he declared. "The solution of these problems is the same now as it always has been. The way was pointed out and fully demonstrated by Christ Jesus more than 19 centuries ago as he taught the truth of being and healed many of their sins and diseases."

Roland R. Harrison, manager of the Christian Science Publishing Society, traced the progress of the society from its small, temporary quarters in 1883 to the present. Up to 1908 the society had 10 distinct domiciles. At that time the present publishing house was built, and employees numbered 78. "Today," Mr. Harrison continued, "we have 919 actual employees, and over 3,000 other individuals actively connected with the society."

Mr. Harrison also stated that Christian Science periodicals are now distributed in 81 countries outside of the United States, and that the recently announced publication house is necessitated by the growth in volume of publications.

He contrasted the present publishing house, built in 1908 at a cost of $200,000, and later enlarged, with the proposed new one, estimated to cost over $3,000,000. This structure will house all the periodicals of the movement, in

U. S. Politeness Rates Much Praise

PARIS.—After a three months' tour through the United States, Henry Bernstein, French dramatist, considers Americans perhaps the politest people in the world, more polite even than his own country folk.

"The American people are the personification of courtesy and they have a friendliness and agreeableness without affectation," the eminent writer declared. "Everyone has the time to be polite—taxi drivers, telephone girls, policemen and public officials."

The playwright found the frankness of Americans brutal but complete. "They have no fear of ideas, of words, or of things," he remarked. "These are the kind of characters I like."

The marvels of the movies and American films gave him as much delight as new toys do a child. The marvelous photography surprised him, but he found there was a lack of good film authors.

"OX" TO COACH AT POST

POST, Texas.—W. M. "Ox" Emmons, Plainview, Texas, graduate of Texas A. and M. college, will direct athletic work at Post High school the coming year. I. R. Witt, superintendent of schools, announced. He succeeds Kenneth Hemphill of Littlefield, former Tech student, who resigned recently after election to attend the University of Texas. Emmons graduated in June at A. and M. He played on the varsity three years, one under Dana X. Bible, one of the well known western conference coaches and two under Matty Bell, former T. C. U. coach who went to College Station.

Rock Island Uses Its Own K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The first time since the Rock Island railway entered Kansas City 27 years ago it recently ran a train out on its own tracks.

The freight train, three of a mile long, crawled on local yards to open the line to Trenton, Mo., to traffic. Passenger cars use the rails until this for hind the train in three days rode more than a score of officials formally in the line.

The Rock Island formed over Milwaukee line. In acquiring the right and completing the line the Rock Island spent $12,000 and the Milwaukee $2,000. The new line parallels the line from Birmingham to Mo., from where it connects to Trenton.

The line shortened the haul over Milwaukee line possible the hauling of former tonnage because of reduction to a maximum per cent.

MOM'N POP By Cowan

Heart of Liane by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Liane Barrett, 18 and beautiful, tries in vain to forget Van Robard, wealthy polo player, when his engagement is announced to Muriel Ladd, popular debutante. Liane's mother, Cass Barrett, is an actress and it is during Cass's engagement in a stock at a fashionable Long Island summer colony that the Barretts meet Mrs. Cleecepaugh, wealthy widow. When Cass goes on tour in the fall Liane becomes Mrs. Cleecepaugh's social secretary. Clive Cleecepaugh, the widow's only son, asks Liane to marry him. Clive cannot inherit his father's fortune unless he marries before he is 25. Liane accepts, agreeing the marriage is to be a matter of form only.

ly. "Clive knows this?" she asked. Cass nodded. "I told his mother shortly before you were married. I told him. It was only right. They had to know."
They sat for a few moments in silence. Then Cass broke out again. "You'll never go to Van Robard now."
"I don't know. I don't know. My mind is dizzy from all this."
"Liane, you can't. You wouldn't hurt Clive so. The scandal—"
The girl moaned. "I hadn't thought of that."
"You must. Forget this man. He's had dozens of affairs. The women of his own world understand him. You made the mistake of taking him seriously."
"Cass added, "Tell me I did right to hold you for my own. Tell me you forgive—"
She was on her knees.
"Mother, dearest!" It was Liane's answer.
Cass wiped her eyes presently. "Heavens, I must rush! They called rehearsal for this afternoon."
Together they straightened the place. Liane, a towel pinned over her dove colored frock, made the bed and wiped dishes. Constraint held them after their mutual burst of emotion.
"Promise me you won't do anything without telling me first," was all Cass dared to ask on parting.
Liane walked up Broadway, a slim, distinguished figure. Some impulse, born of the old trouper habit, caused her to stop and buy a paper at the corner. Like a needle to a magnet her eyes were drawn to the headline, "Millionaire Killed in Motor Accident."
The name leaped at her, dizzily, "Van Robard."

Hints for Homemakers By Jane Rogers

FOR those who just can't do without their hot coffee in the winter, iced coffee is a welcome and invigorating beverage in hot weather. It is valuable as a food auxiliary because of its tonic effect upon the nerves, which often do not get along with the heat. Iced coffee should always be freshly made. If kept before serving, place it in a covered jug, preferably of glass, in the refrigerator to chill.
Iced Coffee Shake
Brew the coffee slightly over normal strength and if possible, chill before serving, keeping it in an air-tight container. Add one-fourth to one-half cup of cream to one quart of coffee. Shake until frothy, then pour into iced glasses. Add powdered sugar as desired.
Liane put out her hand in an impulsive gesture. "It's not that, Clive's splendid." She hesitated before she flung the words at Cass. "I love Van Robard. I'm going away with him."
Cass awayed a little. Her face had gone dead white. Liane thought she was going to faint. "Mother, what's the matter?"
She was bending over the older woman, shaking her arm. Liane left her and, flying into the tiny kitchen, brought back a glass of water.
Cass sipped it and shook her head. "Take it away, I'm all right."
Conscience-stricken at the effect of her news Liane sat down again. "I'm sorry," she began contritely. "I didn't know it would be such a shock to you. I—I had to tell someone."
The color was coming back into Cass's pale cheeks. She shook her head like a swimmer freeing himself from the bondage of the waves. In a dull voice she said, "There's something you've got to know. I should have told you long ago. God forgive me for a miserable coward."
Her eyes, her tone, struck terror into the heart of the girl. Liane trembled. "What is it, Oh mother, don't look like that! Tell me."
Walking like an old woman, like someone who has been dealt a mortal blow, Cass rose. She went to the shabby, littered desk in the corner. There was one drawer which Liane knew had always been locked. From this she drew a roll of papers held together by a rubber band.
"These," she said, tapping the roll, "will explain. I will show them to you in a minute." She sat down heavily.
"First of all you must know this. You are not my child at all. You are my sister Luisa's daughter."
Liane whispered, "She wasn't married?"
Cass's laugh was short and bitter. "Yes, she was married right enough. The license is here. I'll show it to you in a minute. The man broke her heart. She died when you were born. That's why I hate the whole clan," she finished bitterly.
Still Liane did not understand. "What clan?" she asked.
Cass threw the words at her. "The Robards," she cried.
The girl winced as though someone had struck her. "You mean—"
"Van's father was Dirk Robard. So was yours."
Liane flung her hands to her eyes. This was unendurable. She said abruptly, "It's not true, Mrs. Amberton told me long ago." She struggled to remember.
"What's not true?"
"Van is not Dirk Robard's son. He was adopted." Fanny Amberton's words came back to her now. "He married Van's mother in 1913. That was three years after I was born."
Cass murmured, "It's not believe it."
"It's true," Liane persisted. "I don't remember what Mrs. Amberton said Van's real name was but he was Dirk Robard's adopted son."
"It may be so," Cass mused half to herself. "I was in England in 1913. Just before the war started. Mother was taking care of you then."
She whirled on Liane. "But it doesn't alter the main facts of the case," she cried. "Half brother or step brother, he's still forbidden to you. He's wicked—conscienceless."
Liane asked, "Why did you hate him so?"
"Because Dirk Robard was wicked, cruel. He met Luisa in Baltimore where she was playing in stock. He was much older—15 or 20 years. He persuaded her to

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS By Blosser

Now that the hats were down, Liane rushed on, speaking recklessly. "Van wants me to go away with him," she declared.
"You didn't listen to him?" Clive clenched his hands.
"I told him I wouldn't. Oh, don't think me utterly bad. I'm not. Only when he calls I feel I must go. It's like a spell."
Furious anger smote Clive. Desperately he sought the right words. "Promise me you'll not do anything without consulting me," he urged. "As a friend. Nothing more."
She promised. She thought him a thoroughbred that night when, at the dinner party, he moved, spoke, laughed as if nothing had happened.
Old Mrs. Williams, a grande dame in black and silver, bent her head to them at parting. Behind her fan she whispered to Clive but quite audibly. "What a charming child. We are all delighted with her."
Liane flushed. What would all these people think if they knew? She felt ashamed. Through her mind ran this thought constantly. "He sails on Tuesday. Perhaps I'll never see him again. What shall I do?"
She was sure no one had ever loved so deeply before. These tortures had been invented for her alone. The waiting for the sound of the telephone bell, the hasty rifling of letters, she tried to remind herself of her duty. "I am Clive's wife," she repeated. "At least I promised to be that to him."
Her lips twisted at the irony of it. If only she had waited a little while! She had believed this marriage would put a barrier between her and Van forever. She had hoped and prayed the spell was broken. It had not been. Surely this madness must be one of those deathless loves of which she had read. Browning and his Elizabeth had loved that way. Heloise and Abelard. Romeo and Juliet.
Monday found her desperate, dogged by a restlessness which would not let her go. Over the breakfast things she and Clive spoke of casual matters. Both were uneasy.
After he had gone she sat for a long time listless. The servants came and noiselessly set the place to rights. Her life ran on well oiled wheels, she reflected. There was nothing she needed to do. No one needed her—except possibly Van. Clive was utterly self-sufficient. He had his horses and dogs in the country. He had the business now to absorb his thoughts.
Even her mother no longer needed her. Cass was happy independent, finding better than she had ever played before. She looked younger, less harassed.
"I must see her," Liane decided on impulse. Hastily she dressed, arraying herself with care.
Cass was just getting up when Liane arrived. The little apartment looked comfortable and shabby. The lovely green brocade couch Liane had given her was a curious anomaly in the small, untidy room. Liane saw the familiar room with new eyes, eyes that had somehow grown critical.
Cass entered, shrugging into her old red corduroy dressing gown. "I hate to wear that lovely padded thing you gave me around here, dear. It gets in such a mess." She apologized thus, carrying in the chipped tin tray with her breakfast. "Have a cup."
Liane drank some of the steaming coffee. She felt staidier. She seemed to know now what it was she wanted. She wanted to tell her mother all her troubles.
"What's on your mind, baby?" Cass asked, watching the girl shrewdly.
Liane shut her eyes. Now for it. Now for the plunge. She said, "I'm going to leave Clive."
Cass set down her cup with great deliberation. "Why? You're not happy with him?"

The prosperity of all businesses of every kind and character throughout Texas is so closely allied with the prosperity of the cotton farmers," Mr. Murray said, "that present economic conditions make more imperative than ever a thorough understanding of every means whereby our producers can receive the highest possible price for their commodity. The cooperative marketing set-up is accordingly of direct interest to bankers, business and professional men, and it is hoped that they will take advantage of the opportunity afforded at these various meetings to participate therein and be informed in detail on the organization's operating plans and policies." J. C. Penney Employees Honor Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Barnett.
Members who form the Ranger J. C. Penney personnel assembled at the store on Friday evening and entertained with a surprise party, honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Barnett, recent bride and groom, who returned to Ranger Thursday evening following a honeymoon trip to Del Rio and other Texas cities. 575-J

The young couple were the surprised and happy recipients of a selection of lovely gifts. At the close of the hour, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Mr. Barnett is manager of the shoe department at J. C. Penney's.

Students Pass Life Saving Test.
Miss Margaret Lee McDonald, student of University of Oklahoma, who is spending the summer months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. McDonald, has recently closed her class consisting of a number of students who took swimming instructions.

Miss McDonald reports splendid success with her class this season, with three juniors passing the life saving test. The following passed with exceptionally good grades, according to Miss McDonald: Miss Katherine Wheatley, Misses Mary Ruth and Patricia McDonald, sisters of the teacher and instructor, and Frank Conley.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors.
Departing Lodge Member.
A group of members of the Julia Alexander Grove No. 1954, of the Woodman Circle, met at the home of Mrs. H. H. Vaughn on Friday afternoon and entertained with a prettily arranged surprise shower in honor of her departure for Floydada, where she and her family will make their home.

The shower of gifts was composed of many attractive remembrances, each made more dainty in wrappings of harmonizing hues and tied with neat bows of ribbon. Mrs. Vaughn is valued as one of the organization's most active members and has filled many offices. It is through this compliment that the grove expresses sincere good wishes for much happiness in the honoree's new home.

Those present included: Misses, Edna Dixon, Inez Vaughn, Emily Hodges, Ruby Greer, Minnie Shirley, Christine Yerton, Ruby Patterson, Ada Nevills, Landers and Viola Cash.

Shower Compliments.
Recent Bride.
Mrs. M. H. Richardson and Mrs. William S. Denman entertained with a pretty miscellaneous shower at the home of the latter hostess, Thursday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Frank E. McKibbin, recent bride.

Many lovely and useful gifts were received by the honoree. At the close of the happy hour an ice cream was served to the honor guest and Miss W. L. Cornwell Sr., W. L. Cornwell Jr., J. M. Halling, E. Entertain With Prettily Appointed Bride Affair.

With bridge tables decked in appointments of green and pink carried out in every detail and bowls and baskets filled with masses of pink roses and buds intermingled with their own green fronds, the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stidman reflected a lovely and bright setting on Friday evening when they entertained with games of bridge.

High score was made by Mrs. Frank Pearsall and low by Mrs. Nath Pickle, while P. E. Moore won high for the gentlemen and E. M. Glanzer low. The score prizes were awarded the winners in tones of the color scheme. A dainty refreshment plate with and ice and dessert course was served on tables centered with clusters of roses. Adding to the attractiveness of the delicious menu the glassware of green and pink further stressed the soft pastel color hues.

The party guests for the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Felix McCurdy, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Baum, Mr. and Mrs. E. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Glanzer, Mr. and Mrs. Nath Pickle, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Pearsall, Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Cooper Jr., and the host and hostess.

Modern Jewelry from Old Africa.
PARIS.—The latest head in our modern costume jewelry is an old story to the natives of the deepest jungles of Africa. They wear no sleeves up which to smile but they might manage a chuckle or two behind a gold coin necklace if they could walk down the Rue de la Paix and have a look in the smart windows to find that what they have been wearing, virtually as clothing, for centuries is now labelled, "New creations in jewelry."

From the Haute-Volta comes a "dog collar" necklace with a long pendant in front, worn originally ages ago by a young debutante of Feuli. It consists of silver and wooden plaques fastened together with gold wires and from which a cluster of gold coins is suspended for about three inches. A similar arrangement in bracelets is a much sought after trinket.

Silver and ivory is another new-ancient combination. They used to hammer the silver with great stones and carve bits from elephant tusks with crude blades to make rings and bracelets and nose-rings. Today these same bits of decoration are exquisitely wrought by gold and silversmiths but made to look as crude as their ancient models. One in particular has rectangular pieces of silver overlapped by triangles of ivory. The silver pieces are joined by coils of silver thread made into hinges. A matching necklace has the pieces strung together with three crude links between ivory-flapped silver envelopes.

Next is a wooden ring. The original was carved out of a solid piece of twig. Set into it is a strip of corrugated gold all the way around and in the center is a bright green tourmaline. Today's model is a green stone cut into ice cream cone shapes with the points rounded off and finished with a gold bead. The cones graduate in size and give you the impression that they could be put inside of the other to form a compact package about an inch long—(like a folding traveling drinking cup).

Also from Madagascar, an arrowhead rimmed with gold pierced at the top with gold through which a gold link is circled to carry a fine gold chain. The gold rim surrounding the arrowhead has tiny gold loops, larger at the top and growing very, very small toward the point.

From Indo-China are colorful bits of turquoise, jade, lapis, coral and moonstone. These are combined with gold and silver and platinum, and are exquisitely hand-carved to retain the "crudity" of the old ornaments that are worn today by the natives.

WALNUT SPRINGS.—Independent Oil company will occupy remodeled building formerly occupied by Burns Produce.

At the close of the meeting ice cream was enjoyed.
The next meeting will be held Thursday, August 20. A large crowd is expected to attend the meeting.

Judy Abbott is going to entertain 25 readers of the Ranger Times ad columns. But before telling you more about Judy's invitation, let us make you acquainted with your lovely host. Judy is the winsome heroine of "Daddy Long Legs," a fountaining, who received her name from a telephone book. Judy is extremely happy now because she is in love with a shadow lover in one of the sweetest romances to ever charm American hearts. It is the immortal romance of "Daddy Long Legs" and the role of Judy Abbott is portrayed by Janet Gaynor, the beloved star of "Seventh Heaven."

But to get back to Judy's invitation. Being named from the telephone book, Judy decided to invite a number of her "relatives" to share her happiness at the Arcadia Theatre during the showing of "Daddy Long Legs" on Sunday and Monday.
Accordingly each day for two days starting today, 25 telephone numbers will be scattered through the columns of the Ranger times. Those, whose numbers appear, upon application to the Ranger Times office will receive a guest ticket to see "Daddy Long Legs."
Watch our columns carefully! You may be lucky!
