Ranger Golfers Face Tough Match At Breck

ABOUT THIS AND THAT.....

Associated Press dispatches from Pittsburgh say that holders of the debenture notes of the Shamrock Oil & Gas company have been asked to agree to a reorganization plan to save the company from liquidation and the loss of part of its gas holdings. The request was made by John J. Sheerin, president of the company, in letters to the debenture holders.

The letter explains that the company has obligations of $540,734 due during September with a contingent liability of $100,000. Current assets are given as $111,256, which includes $86,711 due from the McMillan Petroleum company.

Sheerin said that if the plan of financing is not consummated promptly the management of the company sees no alternative but forced liquidation. Unless the $42,882 of property lease rentals are paid before Sept. 10 the company will lose its oil acreage and over 10,000 acres of its most valuable gas properties and upon which the company has already paid over $200,000, Sheerin said.

Forced liquidation of the Shamrock Oil & Gas company would probably force the Fort Worth city commission to look elsewhere for a gas contract. Councilman Monnig, who has been leading the gas fight in Fort Worth, issued a statement that the city is not studying West Texas gas fields with the view of obtaining the city's fuel supply from them.

People of the Oil Belt may be interested in the new developments in Fort Worth's efforts to go elsewhere for their gas supply.

Jess Meroney, genial postmaster of Ranger, is trying hard to find someone who will believe his fish story. To date he has not found anyone who has not scoffed at his tale. Here it is in brief: He is studying West Texas gas fields on the Concho river and caught a string of about 25 or 30 nice beam—pronounced brim—and that when they decided to call it a day they caught one more each, reached for their rods and got the fish and the fish were gone.

The part of his story that is believed generally is that he and his brother caught a fish each. Next day he says they caught something like 30 or 35 bass, each of which was just under the required length. That story also was believed.

We pass the story along to you and you can believe it if you think it advisable or laugh at Jess as everyone else has done. At least he tells it in an almost convincing manner.

When Captain Frank Hawks recently flew from New York to Fort Worth in record-breaking time he carried with him two copies of the New York Herald-Tribune, published on that day. One copy was given to G. A. Holland of Weatherford, who was in Fort Worth to greet Captain Hawks upon his arrival. He took it to Weatherford with him and it was read in that city before dark on the day it was printed in New York. This is thought to be a world's record in rapid distribution of a newspaper.

The Ranger Country club faces its crucial match Sunday afternoon when they meet the Breckenridge club in a golf tourney in the Dynamo City.

COTTON SEED GREENS MIGHT PROVE COSTLY

Thurber Plays At Eastland in Last Match of the Season.

Members of the Ranger Country Club will travel to Breckenridge Sunday to play the final game of the Oil Belt Golf association scheduled and what may prove to be the deciding game of the season.

Ranger and Thurber are still in a deadlock for first position and a win by both teams would require a play-off series to decide the championship.

Thurber is to play Eastland Sunday on their home course and though Eastland has some of the best players in the association, it is hoped that Thurber will win. Should Ranger lose to Breckenridge and Thurber should win from Eastland the championship would be decided on Sunday afternoon.

Ranger is facing the hardest game of the entire season, players here said today, because of the cottonseed greens on the Breckenridge course. It is almost impossible for the Ranger players to putt successfully on the greens at Breckenridge and most of the players require two and three putts where they would usually take but one on a sand green.

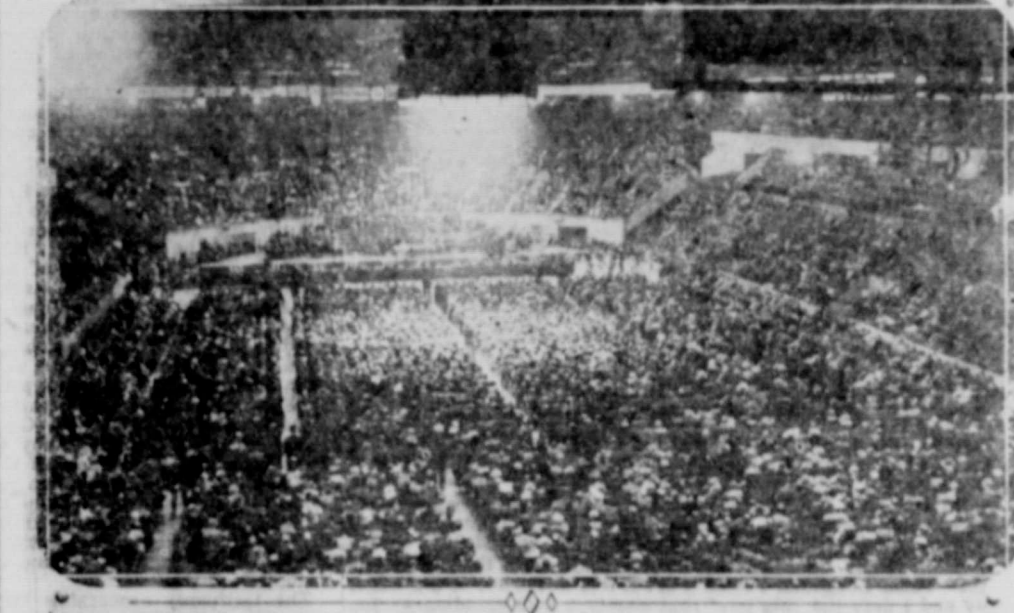

In spite of this handicap Ranger is still considered to have a fair chance at winning the championship, but not without a struggle.

The results of the matches to date are as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Ranger	9	4	.692
Thurber	9	4	.692
Albany	7	6	.538
Breckenridge	7	6	.538
Eastland	7	6	.538
Mineral Wells	7	6	.538
Phil-Pe-Co	5	8	.385
Cisco	1	12	.077

Ranger at Breckenridge and Thurber at Eastland will have particularly hard matches to win as Breckenridge and Eastland have met defeat on their home courses this year. Both the leading clubs have won two games away from home, Ranger winning at Cisco and Mineral Wells while Thurber won at Phil-Pe-Co and Ranger.

Throngs Rally To Declare War on Gangs

Here is the answer of an aroused New York populace to the shooting of innocent citizens by gangsters. The crowd of 20,000 which jammed famous Madison Square Garden, as shown in the upper photo, cheering speakers who demanded the immediate end of gang rule and organized crime. Fifteen to twenty thousand others were unable to gain admittance to the auditorium. Below you see Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, one of several distinguished speakers, as he addressed the mass meeting and called for the application of "untested force" in the war on crime.

Legion Has Short Meeting Thursday

Although only a few members of the Carl Barnes post of the American Legion were present at the regular meeting night Thursday, a short, informal meeting was held at the Legion hall in Ranger.

The only thing that came up for consideration was a Nov. 11 celebration for Ranger this year. No action was taken but the proposition will be put before a regular meeting in the near future.

Attention was called to the fact that officers for the coming year will be nominated at the meeting of Thursday, Sept. 3, and will be voted upon on the following meeting night.

Many of the members had just returned from the state convention at El Paso and did not attend the meeting Thursday night.

Districts Courts Convene Sept. 7

Both the 91st and 88th district courts will convene Monday, September 7, after having been more or less inactive for eight weeks. Neither court took a complete recess, the judges being present most of the time to try cases by agreement of all parties.

This week a number of cases were being prepared for trial, but it was not known just what cases would be ready next week. Both courts have juries for the week beginning Monday, Sept. 7. The 88th district court grand jury also convenes at that time.

Health Officers Fear Typhoid Fever at Kilgore

KILGORE, Texas, Aug. 28.—Gregg county health officers today searched the tourist camps and tent cities about Kilgore to determine if an unusual number of typhoid cases were present.

Serum injections were administered to 1500 persons yesterday following the death of a carpenter living in an outlying shack.

Emergency stations have been established and five local doctors have offered their services.

While an epidemic was not feared, citizens were urged to submit to vaccination at the hands of the physicians where possible.

"It is idle for us to speculate upon actions which may be taken by the federal government," the governor said in his message to the legislature.

Teacher Cleared In "Trial" Before State Superintendent

AUSTIN, Aug. 28.—Professional interest and a desire to help a backward student inspired the friendship between Noma Philen, 25, school teacher, and her pupil, Victor Holchak, 19, State Superintendent S. M. S. Marrs ruled today.

Marrs ordered the district board to pay her the full salary of $130 a month from the time of her dismissal until the end of the school term.

Co-Ed Politician

Most girls have to ask their parents advice about important matters, but Dixie Broom, above, need daughter of Stewart C. Broom, clerk of the Mississippi supreme court, manages her dad's affairs. At any rate, she took charge of his campaign to succeed himself in the state primary and made political speeches like a veteran.

Mystery Boat is Sought in Death of Dallas Couple

DALLAS, Aug. 28.—A "mystery boat" piloted by four boys that is believed to have rammed the metal boat in which Reuben D. Newton, 29, Dallas aviator and Marion Louise Craig, 17, were drowned Monday was sought today by local officials.

Believing the man and girl met death through foul play, boat owners on Lake Whitecraft posted a $100 reward for recovery of the sunken craft.

Rumors that the "mystery boat" had been piloted by four youths who in the early morning hours spirited their craft away in a truck were being traced.

One Dies When Plane Dives Into Sea at Gloucester

GLoucester, Mass., Aug. 28.—Horizon of the pilot and radio operator resulted in saving all but one aboard when a $75,000 twin-motored transport Amphibian carrying 12 persons was forced down in a dense fog at sea and sank in 20 minutes late yesterday.

Edward Ganwell, 70, of Auburn, Me., was drowned. The other 10 passengers including three women and the planes crew of two were picked up by a passing ship after clinging to a rubber life raft for nearly two hours.

A great fog bank blocked the vision of Pilot William L. Elmore of Miami, Fla., as the transport reached a point eight miles off Marblehead.

He tried to fly under the fog. The plane struck the surface of the sea with a crash which jarred passengers.

GOVERNOR MAY ISSUE HIS ORDER NEXT MONDAY

Practically All of Wire Favor Reduction of Cotton Crops

AUSTIN, Aug. 28.—When Governor Ross Sterling returns to his desk at Austin Monday from his ranch, his first act may be to call a special session of the state legislature to consider the cotton situation.

Paul Wakefield, his secretary and the department of agriculture were busy today tabulating the more than 1,000 telegrams that have come to Austin in response to the governor's request to know his public will.

Practically all who wire are for a special session. Most of the farmers advocate a law for 50 percent acreage reduction, the tabulation as far indicates. The complete data will be before the governor Monday in form to permit an early decision.

Indicated Supply of Cotton Shows A Big Surplus

AUSTIN.—Indicated supply of cotton in the United States plus current production on Aug. 4, 1931 was 21,953,000 bales, approximately 2,040,000 more than on Aug. 4, 1930. The previous high record was about 3,000,000 bales more than on Aug. 1, last year according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the bureau of business research of the University of Texas.

The preliminary estimate of world cotton for the seven preceding years was 9,000,000 bales, and the indicated world supply of American cotton for this year is 24,984,000 bales, also a new record," Dr. Cox said.

"Due both to a larger acreage and a large prospective crop the supply of cotton in the United States is about 3,000,000 bales more than on Aug. 1 last year. The total change in supply on Aug. 1 for the seven preceding years was 9,725,000 bales and the corresponding change in the index price was 2.73 points or 24.4 point change in index price per 100,000 bales change in supply. When the ratio of 24.4 points per 100,000 bales is applied to the approximate 3,000,000 bales increase in supply over last year, the indicated price should be about 7 cents. When this price is adjusted by the bureau of labor statistics index to wholesale prices, which is now 70 an actual price of about 5 cents, based on supplies in this country, alone is indicated.

"The portion of the supply of American cotton known as European port stocks and stocks allowed to Europe is 284,000 bales more than on the same date last year. If the same point ratio is applied to this portion of the supply a surplus above the indicated price of New Orleans middling spot cotton should be 4.50 cents based on supply only. When the aforementioned price of 4.50 cents is adjusted for the spinners margin of 1.80 the indicated price is 5.16 cent, or New Orleans middling spot cotton based on the arithmetic method of calculation.

"It has been pointed out that the cotton supply-price curve is not a straight line, that supplies larger than the average caused less than average points change in the price, and that supplies less than average caused more than average change in price. On Aug. 1 when the indicated supply is more than 17,000,000 bales, the average points change in price per 100,000 bales change in supply is only .14. If this ratio, which under the circumstances seems more nearly correct, is applied rather than the average of 24.4 points actually used, the indicated price for New Orleans middling spot cotton is 7.86 cents."

ANSWERS TO STERLING'S INVITATION WILL ASK SOME ACTION.

Governor Sterling has asked Texas farmers what they think of making 1932 a no-cotton year, so as to boost this year's prices enough to pay them as much as they would make for two crops.

The answers he has received overwhelmingly favor sharply restricting or altogether prohibiting cotton next year.

For two reasons:

1. Farmers are convinced nothing could be worse than four-cent cotton.
2. Those from whom he hears are the organized farmers vociferously demanding legislative action.

The federal farm board, and Carl Williams, its cotton members, are insisting something drastic must be done, and quickly. They advocate the farmer's plowing under one-third of this year's crop.

Governor Sterling and all other governors have disapproved that proposal. Farmers will ignore it no matter how seriously the price is affected. Each farmer will hope the other fellow follows it.

Governor Long of Louisiana has offered a much better plan. Governor Sterling has not definitely committed himself to its support, but has put himself in position where he will be called on to convene the legislature to prohibit the planting of cotton next year—either a total no-cotton law, or one cutting the acreage to one-half or one-third.

That plan will be better because next year the farmer can plant turnips, cabbages, corn and beans, and will not destroy part of a year's actual labor.

Its effect will be the same, to raise this year's cotton price. Its method is much preferable to the farm board plan.
If Louisiana and Texas, or any two or three cotton states adopt it, the price of this year's crop will be increased as much as destroying the third row of this year's crop, already made.

The farm board's arguments are all just as good for the cotton holiday as for its own plan; and there are other sound arguments besides.

The crux of the whole thing is to hike the price of this year's crop while most of it still is in the hands of the growers.

MAY BREAK WINNING STREAK.

"Hello, World" is a formidable voice on the air, W. K.
Henderson of Shreveport, its owner, the personality behind KWKH, doesn't seem so impressive in person; but he may have started the movement that finally will break the winning streak of Huey P. Long.

Henderson made Long governor, and helped send him to the United States senate.

Now he's broken with Long, aggressively dissenting with Long's total cotton holiday next year; and supporting J. E. McDonald's Texas plan of cutting acreage in half by limiting total acreage planted next year to one-third in cotton and two-thirds in other crops.

This is what really happened when Gov. Long sent his private airplane to Austin for Lieut. Gov. Witt.

He had refused to come to Texas because he said he couldn't afford to leave his lieutenant governor in power.

A few minutes after Lieut. Gov. Witt accepted his invitation for the plane ride. Governor Long telephoned Governor Sterling at Austin. "now it's safe for you to come;
your lieutenant governor will be here too."

If Governor Sterling had gone, that would have made Clint C. Small of Wellington governor, a man the voters of Texas last summer said they didn't want for governor.

If cotton reforms fail, it is going to be because there are too many plans. Governor Long has a plan. Mr. McDonald has a plan Senator George of Georgia has a plan. Texas lawmakers have plans. Everybody breaks out with a new and different plan. . . . Mr. McDonald's present proposal is his third or fourth plan.

It is authoritatively said that a new proposal, dealing with the financing rather than questionable attempts at regulating acreage, will be brought forward for Governor Ster-ling's consideration as pressure for a special session grows.

Essence of that plan, until it is brought forward, is claimed for secrecy, and those concerned have cautiously avoided discussing its provisions and its promises.

Those opposing the drastic no-planting plan claim that it would leave the tenant farmer helpless, unable to find land to grow other crops, destitute and unable to get credit. They claim it would hurt the cotton compresses, put the ginners out of business, dump the cotton seed at low prices now and cause the nation to import cotton seed products at stiff prices a year later.

Letters of Interest
From Our Readers

As stated last week, I promised to issue a statement regarding the gas controversy. First, I would like to say that I resent the insults of Mr. Bowen, vice president and general manager of the Texas-Louisiana Power company, last Thursday night at the meeting of the city commission,

that people who circulated petitions usually had a grudge or had not paid their bills. In this connection I will say that for the past eight years I have paid on two and three gas meters, and have never been delinquent for five minutes with the Texas-Louisiana Power company and I defy the "big boy" or the local manager to prove otherwise. As to my having a grudge against the company, will say that when an effort is made to make a man pay something that he does not owe, as was the case when I called for my deposit on the meter at my grocery store and was told that the January balance would have to be deducted before I could draw down the deposit, as I see it this would not be a grudge, but simply a man standing up for his rights and refusing to be imposed upon. As I understood it, and I got my information from the

A recent example of a grossly misleading and extravagant state-

This statement can be made for only one purpose—a desperate and sell you a tire before you have had time to think about the ridicuasks you to buy one of their tires and go to another store and buy a

Firestone don't ask you to run

Sunday School
Lesson, Aug. 29

Text: Acts 12:25; 13:1-12.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 30.
The Mission to Cyprus Acts 12:
25; 13:1-12.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The mission to Cyprus does not seem a very distinctive or adventurous thing in a world where whole new vast continents have been discovered that were unknown to apostolic times, and in an age when the preaching of the gospel in some form or other has spread even to the remote corners of the whole earth.

But if we can transport ourselves back in thought to the time when the events of this lesson were happening, we shall be in a position to appreciate the meaning of the mission to Cyprus as a beginning of the spread of the new Christian faith westward. In the light of all that happened even within a few weeks, few events have been of more profound significance than the first missionary journey of Paul and of his companion Barnabas.

As a matter of fact, Paul and Barnabas were not really the first missionaries to Cyprus, for we are told in the eleventh chapter of Acts that in the persecution that arose about Stephen, some of the Christians who were scattered abroad traveled as far as Phenice and Cyprus and Antioch, preaching the Word. Their preaching, however, was only to Jews, and when some of the men of Cyprus came to Antioch they started preaching the gospel to the Gentiles, with the result that many of them found the blessedness of the new experience. It was when reports of these experiences came to Jerusalem that the disciples there sent Barnabas as far as Antioch to exhort the new converts and to strengthen their faith.

The testimony concerning Barnabas in Acts 11:24 is about as high a tribute as any man could be given. We are told that he was "a good man" and "full of the Holy Ghost and of faith." Paul evidently had gone to his old home in Tarsus, and Barnabas,
having gone to seek him there,
brought him back to Antioch
where for a whole year they continued with the Church, teaching the people in this city where the disciples were first called Christians.

It was during these days at Antioch that a prophet from Jerusalem, named Agabus, spoke of hard times that were to come upon the world. The disciples, evidently somewhat prosperous in this busy commercial city of Antioch, decided to send relief to the Christians in Judea, and they sent this relief by Barnabas and Paul.
Having fulfilled their mission to Jerusalem, Barnabas and Paul returned to Antioch, and the events of our lesson begin at this point.
Accompanying them was John Mark, nephew of Barnabas, about whom there later arose a very sharp contention between Paul and Barnabas, so sharp that the two men in a later journey took different courses, each pursuing his mission in his own way. The nature of this dispute is withheld from us, though Paul evidently felt that at one point on his first journey John Mark had failed them. He himself, however, has become a notable figure in Christian history through the simple and vivid second Gospel which bears his name.

Possibly, like almost all great missionary and religious movements, the triumphant journeys of Paul took to themselves aspects of wonder and miraculous incidents that pertained more to magic than to the calm triumph of the Gospel in the transformation of the souls of men.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

With BILL MAYES

Being on the outside just peeping through a knothole, we are not in on all the secrets concerning the Bulldogs, but on Thursday afternoon they looked even better than we said they did the day before.

Weaver, Townsend, Faircloth and Flahie in the backfield ran through a few signals Thursday and already the machinery that will make the team click can be seen.

Fleming reported for practice as predicted, after Coach Curtis, W. C. Blackmond and Townsend had made a trip to Anson, where he has been working, and brought him back to town. He has been working on a road construction camp and batching and is a little underweight, but will pick up those lost pounds in a few days.

Fred Yonkers, heavyweight champion of the team thought he had found a way to reduce. After the first practice he weighed in six pounds lighter than he was before he started practice. Next morning, however, he was back to 242 pounds, just two pounds heavier than before he worked out. His visions of working down to fit a pair of football pants vanished.

Captain Bob King looks natural in the south end coaches — those who sit on the south end bleachers every afternoon and watch the team work out. They have decided that he can have the position for the rest of the season and have elected Stevens to take care of the other wing.

Corporal Jones looks so good some have suggested he be rated at least a sergeant this season and predictions are that Fleming is going to deal misery at the other tackle position. Squint Williams and Aishman work as though they had not had a day off from football since last season.

Few reminiscences of Arkansas McLaughlin, Pud Hammett, Buster Mills and other stars of a few years back were scattered around on the second day and most of the comments were limited to the way the boys worked on their first signal assignments.

Eastland is going in for football in a big way with pep rallies, hands 'n everything reported for opening day of fall practice. Maybe the Mavericks are thinking of last year when they let half the season pass before the team got football minded and started giving the opposition fits.

Negotiations have been started with Stephenville to have a game to be played in Ranger on Sept. 11. About everything is arranged except the financial details and they are expected to be cleared soon.

There will be four non-conference games before Eastland and Ranger blow the lid off at Lillard field on Oct. 9.

That will give the Bulldogs a good workout before they begin conference play—especially that game with Amarillo, which should give the Bulldogs a pretty fair workout.

Kansas War Vets Plan a Protest To Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH, Kan.—Kansas war veterans who served with the 35th Division in France, are preparing to ask Pennsylvania this question: "Say! what's the big idea?"

Kansans, touring French battlefields, reported that a handsome monument had been erected by Pennsylvania in the courtyard of Yarenes, commemorating the valor of that state's soldiers who, according to the marker, captured the town.

"It was Kansas troops who captured Yarenes," said Fred Henney, president of the 35th Division Association. "None of us ever will forget Sept. 26, 1918, when we drove the Germans out."

Official action regarding the matter will be taken here in September when the division holds its annual reunion.

Germany's Film Industry Shows Trade Balance

WASHINGTON.—For the first time in many years Germany has reached a favorable trade balance in her motion picture industry, the commerce department has been informed.

Motion picture film statistics for 1930, published by the official German Statistical Bureau, reveal exports were approximately five times as large as imports.

Film exports during the past year amounted to $3,600,000 and imports to $720,000, leaving a favorable trade balance of $2,880,000. The German trade press believes this development expressed in excess of the domestic film in satisfying home requirements since the advent of the talking pictures.

BEWARE!

If You're Told Some Other Preparation Is the Same as GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WATCH OUT

THIS warning is printed to put the public on guard against a deception which may be practiced against those who seek genuine Bayer Aspirin for pain, headaches or colds.

We take this means of warning you, so you may be able to protect yourself and family against results of such deception.

BEWARE!

Other preparations, we are informed, have been offered at times to those who ask for Bayer Aspirin; and even represented in some cases as being "the same as Bayer Aspirin."

Watch Out! Remember that years ago doctors warned the public against "headache remedies," some of which are heart depressants and unsafe for many people to take.

Then remember how Genuine Bayer Aspirin came. And was acclaimed the world over by leading men of science as SAFE relief for pain, and was prescribed without hesitation by eminent physicians. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

What folly, then, in the light of these things, to dose yourself with drugs of which you know nothing. Don't gamble—KNOW.

The genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets are made by a special process, under careful supervision of scientists, in the Bayer Laboratories, with over 25 years of highly specialized experience.

So when you want SAFE relief for pain, cold or headache, ask for BAYER ASPIRIN. You have a perfect right to ask for what you want. And an equal right to get what you ask for.

Look for the name BAYER on the package. And the word Genuine in red. Insist on Genuine Bayer Aspirin and refuse to accept a substitute.

Agricultural Extension News

From the Office of the County Agent and Home Demonstration Agent

Concoction of Seed Leads

Mr. E. J. Deal, who is a field representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, has been attached to the Farmers' Loan and Trust office at St. Louis, Missouri, in Eastland county, making such investigations that are necessary and making inspections of crops under mortgage to the United States Government. At this time the St. Louis office has several representatives in Texas for the purposes stated above and to supervise the selling of the crops under mortgage and make collections.

Mr. Deal states that it is agreeable that farmers make remittances as direct to St. Louis, making checks payable to the "Department of Agriculture." Mr. Deal also states that the Department of Agriculture indorses the cooperative marketing of crops and is willing that cotton be raised through the association and in addition to this it is agreeable that cotton be stored in bonded warehouses.

Mr. Deal will be in this county for just a short while but states that other agents are working in the field and at the right time a representative will devote much time to this in each county.

Mr. R. H. McElevan is the administrative officer in charge of the office located in St. Louis.

Jams, Marmalades and Conserve

Jams may be made of all small fruits which are not whole or firm enough to use for canning, or for jelly.

In selecting berries for jam, the ripe broken ones will give fine color and flavor, but about one-half the quantity should be used. It is necessary to give the jam consistency to the product.

Using in small quantities and cooking rapidly help greatly to retain color and flavor. As jam is highly concentrated and burns quickly unless well stirred, it is better to cook it briskly and watch it carefully for 20 to 30 minutes than to let it simmer for hours for fear of burning. The latter way makes a darker and less attractive product as well as one inferior in flavor.

As jam thickens on cooling, allowance must be made for this in testing. It is done when it is thick enough to remain in place when a portion is dropped on a cold plate.

Not more than three-fourth of a pound of sugar should be used for each pound of fruit. When less sugar is used, better fruit flavor is obtained but the product must be sealed airtight.

Marmalades: Marmalades are prepared the same as jams, except that the fruits are not crushed and the thin slices or cut portions remain suspended in the clear jelly-like mass. Marmalades should retain the shape of the fruit.

Conserve: Conserve are combinations of fruits giving a good blend of flavor. They are made in the same way as marmalades. They may or may not contain nuts. If nuts are used they should be added just after the cooking is done, as heat toughens them.

Peach Jam: 3 pounds peaches, 1 cup water, 3 pounds sugar. Choose soft peaches that are not desirable for canning. Remove the stones and cut in slices. Put the water in the preserving kettle and add

Old College Odor Reunites Friends

By United Press.
VAN NUYS, Calif.—A whiff of bergamot in a drug store telephone booth helped Tom Dewain, rancher, locate a college roommate of ten years ago.

After leaving the booth, Dewain asked the druggist if he could smell a sweet odor. The druggist agreed and told Dewain it was bergamot.

"In college in Iowa, I used to room with a fellow that was a hound for using cologne, and bergamot was the name of the stuff. The smell of it brought back old-time memories," Dewain said.

Five minutes later he met his friend, Wilton Bramlette, on a street corner. Bramlette had been trying to locate Dewain here.

Broken Lover To Try Again
By United Press.
EL PASO.—Bernice Rush, the only American woman tried for murder in Mexico, is in El Paso, bitter against men but with a fierce determination to stage a comeback.

Three years ago she was a rich modiste who dressed the wives of presidents and diplomats in Mexico City. She had a smart shop at No. 10 Francisco Madero.

Now she is penniless, reduced to begging, her shoes half gone. She hopes to find some western city and get back into the work she loves—selling clothes.

She provided Mexico with one of its greatest slaying sensations when she killed her lover, Genaro Benavente, Dec. 24, 1928, in Mexico City. Miss Rush shot him as the two were going to court together where she was seeking to recover some of the money he had borrowed from her. The court action had been filed only after he had stripped her of her last cent, she claims.

At a spectacular jury trial, she was acquitted Dec. 12, 1929, after having been in jail 11 months and 19 days.

With a little capital she returned to Mexico City to open a dress shop again and prospered. But she had antagonized a lawyer and by adroit maneuvering, he caused her to meet financial disaster. Then she came to the United States, penniless.

"And to think I once had a million pesos!" she exclaimed. "Genaro brought me to this. Why, I used to shiver with delight when he kissed my hand. Now I've declared war against men—I hate them!"

"I'll go on without men—and be as happy and successful as before... I wonder if I can do it."

While brains grow, scientists say, teeth rest, and a man pays for bad teeth with a better brain. Maybe that's why movie actors have such good teeth.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Norma Kent, pretty 20-year-old secretary in a law office, meets Mark Travers, attractive and wealthy, when together they rescue a frightened puppy from the midst of downtown traffic. Norma refuses to tell the young man her name or where he can see her again. Later she joins Bob Farrell, young lawyer, for a dinner engagement. Farrell asks her to marry him and Norma, for the third time, declines.

The scene of the story is Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. Norma takes the puppy to the shabby apartment she shares with Christine Saunders. Norma fears Chris is falling in love with her married employer, Bradley Hart, proprietor of an advertising agency. Next day Norma inserts an advertisement about the puppy in the Marlboro Press' lost and found column. The first person to answer this advertisement is Mark Travers, who explains he has made every effort to learn Norma's identity. He tries to make a date but she declines his invitations. Travers departs and later goes with Natalie Price, debutante, on a gay round of the night clubs.

Next evening a small boy comes to see Norma, claims the puppy and takes it home. Chris goes to aid Minnie Baker, an impoverished friend whose 2-year-old son has been badly burned. Norma receives telephone calls from Travers and ignores them. She goes for a drive with Bob Farrell and he tells her he is going to leave Marlboro. She is sorry but does not take this announcement seriously. Two days later she meets Travers on the street and goes to lunch with him. This is the beginning of a week of whirlwind courtship. Then one night Chris arrives home to find Norma in tears. "It's about Mark!" Norma says.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

Chris Saunders went down on her knees beside the other girl. She put a hand on Norma's shoulder. "Tell me about it, honey," she begged. "You mustn't cry. Tell me what's happened!"

There was no response from the blond head. Norma's face was hidden. Her shoulders continued to rise and fall with great, shaking sobs.

"Norma!" Chris' voice was sharply anxious. "Norma—you've got to tell me!"

The blond head raised for an instant uncertainly. Then it drooped again. From among the pillows came in muffled tones, "It's—about Mark!"

"But what about him? What's he done?"

For an instant the room was tensely silent. At last Norma found her voice. She said weakly, in tones that wavered unsteadily, "He's—oh, Chris!—he's asked me to marry him!"

Chris Saunders straightened back. Blank amazement was written across her face. "Asked you to marry him?" she repeated incredulously.

The huddled figure on the day-enport nodded. Norma's face was concealed again but she went on in choking sobs, "Mark asked me—to marry him tonight and I—oh, I love him! I love him in such a way that I can't resist him. He's anxious to know why I don't change. For a long moment she eyed her roommate. Slowly then Chris got to her feet and made a place for herself among the cushions beside Norma. She drew one arm about the other girl.

"But I don't understand," Chris began gently. "I've never seen this Mark of yours and I don't know anything about him, but if he loves you and you're sure he's the man you want—"

Her words were broken off. In high-pitched, tormented tones Norma cried, "But I can't marry him! Don't you see, Chris—I can't! The rest was lost in a renewed siege of weeping.

Chris let her finish with it. She stroked the shining golden head, patting Norma's shoulders with soothing little pats. "There, there!" she murmured, consoling. "Things are going to be all right, honey. There, there!"

Gradually the torrent subsided. Norma sat up and Chris supplied the handkerchief with which to dry her eyes. The lovely face was swollen and tear-marked. With a determined effort Norma managed to control her voice, whispered, "Oh, Chris!—I can't!—There, there!" she murmured, consoling. "Things are going to be all right, honey. There, there!"

All next day Norma Kent's heart was singing happily. All through the hours at the office she looked forward to the moment when she would reach the apartment again. How could Norma know that the one thing she had not dreamed might happen was to take place that night!

He imprisoned her hand from across the table.

He did nothing of the sort a little later when they were alone together. Happily the girl slipped into his arms.

She was looking across the room at a cheap, framed reproduction of a Corot landscape, but the girl was not really aware of one picture. Do you think for a moment. Presently she arose and disappeared into the Alcove. When she reappeared she wore pajamas and a lounging robe.

"Listen, Norma," Chris cautioned. "I said I wouldn't try to influence you in this thing and I'm not going to. But don't you think you should take a little time before making up your mind?"

"You mean—about getting married?"

Chris nodded. "Here's what I was going to suggest," she continued. "If you're going to embark on matrimony I'd certainly like to have a hand in it."

"Oh, but you will! You'll be maid of honor!"

"Thanks, my specialty—always a bride's maid! It wasn't the ceremony I was thinking about. I'd like to meet your young man, if you don't you invite him to dinner some evening soon here at the apartment?"

"I will! Of course I will. I've told him a lot about you, Chris. He's anxious to know why you'll find out that Mark's wonderful!"

There was a paean of excited tribute then to which Chris listened calmly. Soon Norma's doubts and misgivings returned. For the next 24 hours her moods were to vary from despair to ecstasy. Chris argued and coaxed. Neither girl put into actual words the thing of which each was thinking. It was late before they finally put out the light and went to bed. Even after that their voices continued long in the darkness.

The next day dragged. Norma at her typewriter in the offices of Brooks, Welliver and Brooks, counselors at law, thought the lunch hour would never come. She was not meeting Travers. He had explained the night before that there was an engagement from which he could simply not escape. She was to see him at 5:30, though. They planned to go to an inconspicuous restaurant for dinner, a place where there was an alcove table of significant memories. Norma had said she would give him her answer there.

As it turned out she did not make the decision that evening. Instead she compromised, inviting Travers to come to the apartment the next night for dinner. Chris would be there, too.

"Oh, I see!" Mark Travers cut

mayor and city commission of our city, the balance of 33 1-3 per cent of the gas bills of January were not due nor payable until the gas company had satisfied the city commission, and that they would issue a statement to that effect to the people. No such statement has ever been made to my knowledge, therefore I did not owe the balance that the gas company was trying to deduct from my meter deposit. It isn't the money involved in the transaction, but a question of forcing the people of Ranger to pay for a service that was not rendered.

As to the signers of the petition being like a bunch of sheep as Mr. Bowen stated in the meeting, will say that this was one instance when Mr. Bowen would have been better off listening than talking. This is a direct slap at the honor, honesty and intelligence of 734 of his customers. How is this for building good will that he spoke of at length in the meeting?

Mr. Bowen spent several minutes in his talk Thursday night criticizing the Lone Star Gas company in Fort Worth for lack of courtesy in dealing with their customers, also their business methods, and then makes direct insinuations at 734 of his customers who keep him in business in Ranger. Do you think, Mr. Bowen, that you can slap 734 good, intelligent customers of yours in the face—figuratively—and try to pour it on them in other ways and make them like it, and still keep their good will?

Mr. Bowen in his talk, stated that this agitation for a lower gas rate would blow over in two or three weeks, and insinuated that if let to drag along for a while it would die out. In this connection I will say that the people of Ranger are expecting and intend to get relief from your methods of doing business. This is not a huge joke as you seem to take it and if the people can't get relief by a courteous request in the form of a petition, that there is recourse in the courts of our state.

The people would be interested to know just how much gas you buy from the T. and P. and the Lone Star Gas company, as this was not mentioned in your talk. The people of Ranger should not be held responsible for your mistakes in judgment in making bad investments which has run your expenditures in Ranger so high as you stated in your talk Thursday night. We would like to know if you added in the dry holes and unprofitable investments your company has made in Ranger to the $15,000 which you stated that the Ranger plant represented. The poor "sheep" should not have to pay for these mistakes. In other words, the people of Ranger are not interested in what you have to pay for gas, as we are in the middle of one of the most prolific gas fields in Texas, and if you are not capable of getting this gas at what it should sell for, it should not be charged up to the people. They know the rate is too high and that it should come down in proportion to everything else.

Mr. Bowen, in his talk, stated that a utility was allowed to add 15 per cent to their investment for "good will" in fighting their earnings and for the purpose of sale. Don't you think, Mr. Bowen, by calling the people of Ranger, who are your customers and who are keeping your company in business here, a bunch of sheep, that you decreased that "good will" about 100 per cent or more?

Mr. Bowen, you think you have the gas business "sewed up" in Ranger and that the people here will take your insults and like it, but I wish to inform you that such is not the case. And as to forcing the collection of the balance of 33 1-3 per cent of the January balance, that you are positively violating your contract with the city commission, according to the statement of our mayor. If your company will violate one agreement, call their customers a bunch of sheep, etc., you should make some arrangements to cease to deal with the people in whom you have no confidence, either in their honesty or intelligence.

Regarding your statement that your company was not making money in Ranger, will say that it probably would be interesting to have your books inspected by an expert accountant, for it is hard to believe that any utility would fail to make money with a gas franchise, even in the Sahara Desert, by using the methods you do.

To the 734 people of Ranger who are customers of the Texas-Louisiana Power company, who signed the petition for a lower gas rate in good faith and in the hope of getting relief, will say that I have not given up the fight in your behalf, and ask that you stay with me and be patient. I have a letter from the attorney general of Texas, offering the people of Ranger any assistance possible, and if there is no other way out, you may rest assured that the matter will be taken up with him and everything possible done to get relief.

Wish to state that you people who signed the petition for a lower gas rate can help the cause if you will express your views in the columns of the press. It is up to you as much as myself, to see this through and if you do not express yourselves in this way, the company or the city commission will never know but what you are satisfied with the results of the meeting last Thursday night. It is your battle, too, and I ask that you express yourselves through the press and help in that way to let the city commission know that you will back up any plan to get relief from the present gas rate.

To the city commission I will say that the people of Ranger are expecting you to continue on the job as you have done, and give the people of Ranger every protection and assistance possible. They expect you to back up the statement you issued regarding the January balances. I am told that the company intends to collect by the first of October.

(Signed) H. V. DAVENPORT.
