RANGER IS PLANNING BIG TRADES DAY

MOVEMENT IS STARTED TO BUILD TRADE

Ranger-Wide Trades Days To Be Held Twice Monthly During Fall.

Ranger-wide trades days to be held twice a month from the first of October until through December 23, were planned at a meeting of the members of the Retail Merchants association at a meeting held in the offices of Mrs. Alice True, secretary of the association, Tuesday night.

Committees were appointed to carry out the plans and to arrange the details of the trades days.

Mrs. True, in a talk before the members, said that now was the time the merchants must hang together or they would hang separately. In making the trades days Ranger-wide, she said that merchants and citizens who were not members of the Retail Merchants association would be expected to help and that all would benefit from the business it would bring to the town.

Those who attended the meeting were enthusiastic over the plan and expressed themselves as being very much in favor of carrying out the idea in the best manner possible.

It is planned to hold the first trades day on Wednesday, Oct. 7, with one each week thereafter until Dec. 23 with entertainment features to be provided for each day. Announcements of the various forms of entertainment will be made at later dates for the different days.

The committees appointed for the trades days consisted of a general committee, a publicity committee and a finance committee. The general committee is composed of C. B. Pruet, chairman; George A. Murphy, Edwin George Jr., and Felton Brasher. Those who will serve on the publicity committee are Clyde H. Davis, F. D. Hicks, R. V. Galloway, H. G. Adams, W. H. Mayer Jr., and J. C. Smith.

The finance committee, which will be under the direction of Tom Carpenter, will be composed of Morris Leveille, J. E. Meroney, N. Larson, C. H. Davis, E. L. Fontaine, D. Joseph, R. A. Tunnell, John Hansen, Morris Bendix, F. A. Wagner, S. P. Toon, Roy Gilbreath and H. C. (Andy) Anderson.

The finance committee has been called to meet in the office of the Retail Merchants association at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. All members of this committee are urged to be present as the initial steps in financing the trades days will be planned at that time.

PARR BILL IS ADOPTED BY SENATE

AUSTIN, Sept. 16.—The Texas Senate today adopted the amendment of Senator Archie Parr of Benavides, restricting cotton planting next year to a fourth of this year's cultivated land. The vote was 15 to 12.

The Senate action strike from the Cunningham-Woodward-Small bill the 33-1-3 restriction clause and substitutes 25 per cent, leaving the Long no-cotton bill amended restriction paired in the Senate.

Shortly before noon the house resumed discussion of cotton bills. Sixteen members have filed their names with the speaker asking that they be heard before a vote. Only two had spoken when the house recessed at noon.

In an impassioned speech in the Senate today Senator T. H. Holbrook of Galveston declared the former session is striking at the very heart of Democratic government.

"If you must destroy the liberties and privileges of six million people, then adopt the Long bill as the people's desire," he said.

BRITISH NAVY HAS MUTINY OVER WAGES

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Mutiny in the British navy over a cut in pay was met by the government today with an offer to consider claims of the men.

The great Atlantic fleet, helplessly off Scotland after refusal of the men to work, has been ordered to proceed to home ports at once, Sir Austen Chamberlain, first lord of the admiralty, announced in the house of commons.

Labor members met the announcement with cheers and taunts of weakness against the government. The pay checks had been ordered as part of a general economy program.

Outstanding in the mutiny, an event which has discredited the British navy, was the fact that no disloyalty to the crown was shown. All reports spoke of the men singing "God Save the King" and cheering. They just would not work.

Citizens State Bank Checks Are Still Honored

Edwin George Jr., cashier of the Commercial State bank, explained this morning that customers who have Citizens State bank checks, Mr. George said, "to continue using them the same as formerly."

"We are endeavoring to handle the new arrangements in such a way as to cause customers the least possible inconvenience and at the same time economize in every way. Several customers have inquired whether or not the Citizens State checks could be used."

Those who previously had their accounts with the Commercial State bank, however, should continue to use the Commercial checks, Mr. George explained. This use of the checks will save the customers from having new check books printed and will mean a saving to both the customers and the banks.

Sterling Declines To Permit State Budget Revision

AUSTIN, Sept. 16.—Governor Ross Sterling today declined to heed the request of the legislature that he let them revise state appropriations and taxes.

Instead the state automatic tax board will meet this afternoon to compute the tax rate necessary for existing appropriations. Another special session may be called later if taxes prove inadequate.

The governor said the tax rate will not be raised.

The peddler tax levied by the regular session will be repealed if the senate follows today's action by the house. The repeal bill was passed in the house by a vote of 69 to 51. The law now is subject to litigation before the federal court at San Antonio.

FOUR DIE IN CRASH OF PLANE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—Four persons were killed when a northbound plane fell in San Francisco bay while circling for an emergency landing.

Oil and gasoline splattered on the surface of the water and caught fire, engulfing the wreckage of the plane.

Trapped in the cabin, the pilot and three passengers are believed to have died instantly.

They were: Kirk Heere of the Seattle Star; F. I. Sheehan and W. H. Bissel, both of San Francisco, and Ray Houdreaux.

EASTLAND CO. MEDICOS HAVE BIG BARBECUE

Dr. J. H. Caton was host to the Eastland County Medical society Tuesday evening, with a chevron barbecue at his ranch, three miles north of Eastland.

The Abilene Society of Radiographers were guests at the barbecue, later holding a business meeting with Mrs. Fred D. Maxey in Dr. Caton's office.

LIONS HOLD GROUP MEET ON TUESDAY

A group meeting of Lions clubs of the Old Belt was held at the Civic Country club Tuesday night with a large attendance from Strawn, Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge and Cross Plains present.

After the big barbecue and entertainment program a business session was held by the members of the different clubs.

Miss Maxine Henderson rendered two vocal solos, accompanied on the piano by Miss Margaret Adams, as Ranger's share in the program.

The next meeting is to be held in Eastland and Ranger has put in a bid for the next meeting to be held sometime next March.

Those from Ranger who attended were Messrs. and Mrs. A. H. Henderson, Bill Dorsey, D. W. Nichols, J. E. Meroney, Clyde Davis, A. N. Larson and E. A. Ringold.

Ranger Rotary Club Program Today is Good

H. C. "Andy" Anderson was chairman of the program committee for the Ranger Rotary club today and presented an interesting variety of entertainment.

Miss Frances Glazner and Miss Jean Williams rendered vocal selections, accompanied on the piano by Miss Helva Dixon. The numbers were well received by the Rotarians, who enjoyed the music as part of the program thoroughly.

Mr. Anderson then gave an address on the subject "Civil Clubs and Their Place in the Civic and Economic Life of Today." His talk showed a keen insight into the present day conditions of the nation and the state and he had some very decided views on how civic clubs could be of service in these strenuous times.

He says that one way the clubs could be of benefit would be for all the members to start now talking of better times. "When a man asks you 'How is business?' don't draw up in a shock and say 'There ain't none' but be a believer and have confidence for business stands on confidence and faith in your fellow man," he said. "Tell the man who asks you that business is better and that you think it is a matter of a very short time until conditions will be greatly improved and see for yourself what a change it will make."

In conclusion he outlined the objects of Rotary and said that there was no reason why the club, as a civic organization, could not bring about a much better condition throughout the nation, remembering always that the glory of life is to give, not to get, to love, not to be loved and to serve, not to be served.

P. Pettit of Cisco was a visitor at the meeting and K. C. Lacy and E. V. Galloway were guests. Galloway read a letter from Blair Cherry of Amarillo, saying that the Sandies were not coming to Ranger on a guarantee and would receive only a share of the receipts. The club went on record as favoring closing of all stores in town from 3 to 6 on the day of the Amarillo game, Sept. 25.

NAVAL PLANE CRASHES

RANGER COUNTRY CLUB TO SECURE NEW MEMBERS

At a meeting of the members of the Ranger Country club held at the clubhouse Tuesday night and presided over by H. C. Anderson in the absence of President Neil Harold R. King, chief of Nassau county, was voted to reduce the dues from $25 initiation fee and $40 annual dues to $5 initiation fee and $2 a month for dues, payable semi-annually in advance.

A drive for membership is to be started immediately and an effort is to be made to increase the number of members from 56 to approximately 85 before the first of October. The new membership and the decreased dues is expected to create new interest in the club.

Plans have been started for a city tournament, open to all members of the club, which will probably start on the first Sunday in October. Tentative plans call for qualifying rounds on Sunday, Oct. 11, with finals held on Sunday, Oct. 11. Qualifying rounds must be finished before Saturday, Oct. 10.

On Saturday night a stag banquet is planned with a Calcutta pool and everything that goes with a regular tournament and it is hoped that every player will be sold at the auction. Three flights are planned for the tournament.

All new members will be accorded privileges of the club between now and Oct. 1 and will be eligible to take part in the tournament.

A committee composed of A. Neill, chairman, assisted by Con D. Hartnett, J. C. Smith, H. P. Earnest and D. A. Harkrider, was appointed to take charge of all arrangements for the tournament including the entertainment features of the city tournament.

There were 21 members present at the meeting and all were enthusiastic over the plans for the tournament and for increasing the membership.

12 PLANES LAND TODAY AT RANGER

Twelve airplanes, comprising the graduating class of the observation group from Kelly field, San Antonio, and a commanding officer, landed at Haugland field, Ranger, this morning on a flight from San Antonio to Ranger, Grand Prairie and return to San Antonio.

The cadets made the trip from San Antonio in from two hours and five minutes to two hours and 15 minutes, each cadet making a good landing and take-off at the Ranger field.

Ranger was picked as one place for the cadets to stop by Lieutenant H. K. Ramey of Kelly field.

The planes arrived at approximately 9:45 and left at about 10:30 this morning. They did not refuel here as they carried enough gasoline and oil to return them to San Antonio.

Those making the flight were Lieutenant W. D. Old, who was in charge of the group and who checked the cadets in and out; Lieutenant Huglin and Cadets Ragle, Stanley, May, Getzinger, Robbins, Brown, Darby, Baird, Merrick and Fort.

Lieutenant Old said that another class of about the same size would probably land in Ranger on Thursday or Friday if weather conditions were favorable. In commenting on the Ranger field he said that it would be improved greatly if the two houses were removed from the field. He said that it was in good condition with the exception of the two hazards.

MOYLE, ALLEN REPORTED ON ISOLATED SPOT

Coast Guard Sends Boats To Rescue Pacific Fliers.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 16.—Long given up as lost in the silent north Pacific, Don Moyle and Cecil Allen, Tokio to Seattle fliers, made known their presence on an isolated island in Bering Sea today.

The fliers had not been heard in more than a week. Their plane had not been seen since an hour after their take-off from Japan on their projected non-stop flight.

Details were meager, but a radio message addressed to Moyle's fiancée which was intercepted, said the fliers were safe.

The message did not name the island or give its location but the coast guard ordered its Bering Sea patrol to investigate and attempt to get more information.

A brief radio message was picked up from a Russian steamer which afterwards could not be reached.

The message said "Landed on uninhabited island. Be in Seattle Sept. 22. Have Frank put publicity man on job. Love, Don."

The message was addressed to Miss Frances Bresson, Moyle's fiancée. Authorities believed the ship called at the island after seeing the flier's distress signal and sent a landing party ashore.

Collings' Body Found on Beach At Lloydsville

MINNEOLA, Long Island, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The body of Benjamin Collings, civil engineer, who was the victim of an amazing attack by pirates in Long Island sound, was found on the beach at Lloydsville, Long Island, today according to Harold R. King, chief of Nassau county detectives. Collings had been murdered. His feet and hands were tied.

The condition of the body corroborated in some details the story of Mrs. Collings, who has clung for five days to her hysterical account of how men boarded their yacht, the Pennin, trussed her husband and threw him overboard.

Farmer Killed; Son Is Held

CARLTON, Texas, Sept. 16.—Refusal of J. F. McCarty, 27, father of eight children, to lend his eldest son money with which to buy a farm was blamed today for his slaying late yesterday at the Sunshine community, three miles south of here.

Lions Club Raps Paper For Printing Unfavorable News

DEL RIO, Tex.—The Del Rio Lions club has adopted a resolution condemning the Del Rio Evening News for "continuing to mention in its columns that the Rev. R. W. Anderson, alleged preacher, addressed the Lions club and then went out and started to writing rubber checks."

Anderson faces charges on the alleged offenses. The club said Anderson came with a member and only took for a few minutes and that it felt the paper should "not attempt to cast reflections upon an organization that stands for the best interests of the community."

The paper's advertising manager, a member of the club, moved adoption of the resolution.

CHURCH PLANS DISCUSSION OF LABOR PROBLEM

By United Press.
 DENVER, Colo., Sept. 16.—Economic questions promise to play a conspicuous part in the session of the general convention of the Episcopal church, which opened here today.

A practical program will be submitted to the delegates of the church. A group of churchmen is demanding that the convention take definite action in regard to the unemployment problem and in the establishment of a definite plan whereby the church as a whole will stand behind a policy of social justice for all kinds and conditions of men.

Headed by the Rev. C. Rankin Barnes, acting secretary of the national social service department, a lecture course on the church and industry will be presented at the national training institute, which will be held in the parish house of St. John's cathedral and at which Spencer Miller Jr., will speak on the church and the economic movement.

The industrial questions are no new matter to the Episcopal church, since its first interest in this field was as far back as 1887, when there was organized the church industrial association for the advancement of the interests of labor.

Bishop Butler of New York became renowned as the "people's friend" and himself acted as mediator in several strikes, holding the meeting in his house.

Last year the industrial fellowship was organized by the Episcopal church and includes in its membership men who are actively connected with industry as employees or employers.

There will be a mass meeting here of the church and industry on Sept. 23.

WASHINGTON.—The wet heroes of 1930 who were elected mostly on the basis of their attacks on prohibition have been so completely forgotten that it is almost a matter of course that there is quite a lot of interest here in whether they are ever going to remember it again.

Some of the most clear-sighted political seers continue to insist that the wet-dry issue will control at least as many votes as any other question in 1932, ranking it alongside the economic situation. But among the politicians you observe hardly anyone talking either wet or dry and you observe no indication of when they are going to begin.

What pains the more intense wets is the silence of gents like Senator Morrow of New Jersey, Senator Bulkeley of Ohio, Senator Lewis of Illinois and Senator Coolidge of Massachusetts. They were all elected as wets and the wets expected a great deal of them. But when they have said anything at all, in speeches or interviews, they have agreed on the importance of "other issues." They have acted as if prohibition had ceased to interest them—which, of course, it certainly has not.

"Vital Issues" First
 Morrow and Bulkeley served in the last session of Congress and neither let out a peep about prohibition. Or, for that matter, anything else. Lewis and Coolidge, in speeches or interviews, have conspicuously soft-pedaled on prohibition. It may be argued by the friends of these senators that they are too statesmanlike to waste time on wet speeches at a time when the law can't possibly soon be changed and other vital issues do confront us. But that doesn't cheer up the wets, who looked to their "Four Horsemen" for some high class holering for the old cause.

It may or may not be pertinent to remark that each of the quartet has been seriously mentioned as a vice presidential possibility. They have—but not always so seriously—even been described as presidential possibilities.

 MEMPHIS, Tenn.—A fortune in rare stamps dating back for generations and worth more than $3,000,000 was in Memphis today for a national exposition held this week as the American Philatelic society gathered Monday for the first convention it has ever staged in the south.

Stamp collectors ranging in social position from kings and presidents to clerks and farmers are looking toward Memphis and the south for their greatest event of the year, with philatelists pointing proudly to figures of no less distinction than George V, of England, and New York's Franklin D. Roosevelt, as among their greatest enthusiasts, though neither will attend the meet.

Famous collections in Memphis include one from Arthur Hinds, Utica, N. Y., owner of the famed $50,000 British Guiana stamp, most valuable now extant; the Norman Serphos collection from Manhattan; the Edward Sterns collection, also from New York; the Lawrence B. Mason collection, from Cranford, N. J., and the John A. Klemm collection of patriotic envelopes and United States proofs.

Consolation?

PAT MALONE was told by Manager Hornsby he would have to pay the hospital bills for Chicago baseball writers Wayne Otto and Harold Johnson, whom Pat hustled on the whiskers. Quite a hardship.

Impetuous Pat

PAT, whose real front name by the way is Perce, is a pretty tough-and-ready sort of hombre. When he was a boy at Altoona, Pa., he frequently made impetuous efforts to correct the impression any inquisitive folk might have had that he was a sissy because his name was Perce. They tell me that he did pretty well correcting the impression with his fists.

Big Guy, Too

MR. MALONE is six feet tall and is listed on the roster as weighing 190. That probably was his poundage when he was a freshman at Juniata College, but he rattles the beam at a bit more than that now.

The Retort Courteous

MALONE is said to have nudged writer Johnson on the chin when Johnson asked him if he ever had heard of Moskal Brown. That is an odd question, come to think of it. Otto rushed to the defense of his friend while Hack Wilson was an innocent bystander. What Pat really took offense at, however, probably was a piece Johnson had written about Pat's conduct this year with the Cubs.

Match for Him?

LOOKING over the roster of baseball writers, not many of whom are heavyweights, it is not easy to find an opponent for Perce. There's a Kid Hogan, of course, of the St. Louis Star, who used to be a fighter himself, but Kid is only about five feet tall and couldn't even classify as a writer.

Hey, Pat

NOTE to Mr. Malone: Did you ever hear of Walter Johnson? fan will follow in the wake of a winner.

Decrease in Attendance May Be Expected

It is expected that there will be a noticeable decrease in patronage. The defenders of football in its present status will attribute this to the fact that eating and amusement dollars are somewhat fewer and farther between than in the past. Reformers will attribute it to decrease in interest generally, although they may admit that economic conditions had a slight effect.

Major John Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference, was in the east a few days ago and told the United Press that he expects no decreases in attendance and "fan" interest. He said that advance sale of tickets this season has been higher than in 10 years.

It is interesting to observe that scarcely any games have been cut from the national schedule because of conditions. There is a college here and there which has abandoned football for maybe a year and maybe for always, but in the general scheme of the game there will be no reduction.

When dead leaves are burning of a nice October afternoon the fan will turn to the stadia. And just try to buy tickets to some of the games.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By L. S. CAMERON,
 Football Interest Due to Remain at Peak

Figures on attendance and gate receipts at college football will be doubly interesting this season. This is because they will afford proof of the correctness of almost any premise taken on the state of the great fall sport.

The Carnegie Foundation has offered figures to show that a decline in interest set in last season. The United Press conducted a survey which showed that while this was so in some sectors, it was not so in others. There was a lessening of attendance in the east and mid-west, and gains in the south and far west.

As was pointed out at the time of the survey, the interest, as evidenced by attendance, was in direct proportion to the state of the play itself. Football greatness was sensed a bit in the east. It stood firm in the mid-west, and gained in the south and far west. This only goes to prove further that the

Mrs. Anderson Hostesses

Opening the season of entertainment for the joint clubs, the Bridge "N" and Ad Libitum club, which will be known throughout the year by the name of the latter, the group of members with guests were most delightfully entertained with afternoon bridge at the pretty home of Mrs. H. C. (Andy) Anderson, South Marston street, yesterday afternoon with play enjoyed during the mid-afternoon hours.

The entertaining rooms were most effectively and colorfully decorated with clusters of red and pink roses embedded in their own attractive foliage. At the close of the games high score was won by Mrs. Leslie Hagaman and Mrs. H. L. Killingsworth. Winners were presented prizes in wrappings of green further stressing the season's color hue.

With the opening of Young Ward school Parents Teachers association meeting held in the school auditorium on Tuesday afternoon, 58 members were present for the splendid program so perfectly rendered.

The hour opened with Mrs. C. L. Childs, one of the organization's most capable members, presiding. In her pleasing manner the members composing the program were announced.

Miss Leta Wolford, who comes to Abilene, and if connected with the schools as expression teacher, gave in a most entertaining and impressive way, a reading in keeping with the occasion. Mrs. G. W. Gorman, who assists in program of varied kinds and is a teacher of piano favored the group with piano selections.

Mrs. Maddocks led the devotional, followed with a lesson on "Stewardship and Missions," given by Mrs. Samuel Thompson.

A business session shortly followed at which time it was decided to secure the services of the Dr. L. E. PARIS STYLES

By United Press.

PARIS.—Fashion flowers differ from nature in that they bloom before they take root in the ground. If they take root in the ground, they are good fashions—that is, practical as well as pretty—their roots gradually sink deeper and deeper into the ground of commerce until they hit bed-rock, and it is these styles that go on and on with only minor alterations with each generation.

The extreme examples of Emppress Eugenie's hat have flowered in all their feathered glory, but their roots have not seeped far into permanent soil. Already the outer petals are showing brown marks and the edges are curling up and preparing to fall off and into oblivion.

The winter bustle bloom is another fashion that flowered generously over night, but died with the light of day. With it the exaggerated leg o' mutton sleeve sprouts have shrunk to moderate size and tried again with better success. The second crop has shown foot trends that have gone into the first strata of soil for the early months of winter at least.

PARIS.—Mrs. Samuel Scrivenor, of Paris and Washington, D. C., has just selected from the Lucile one of M. Rossi's latest creations called, "Monsieur," or "Sparrow," which is a sport ensemble in yellow and brown tinct.

M. Rossi's winter designs have that distinct Parisian chic about them that set them apart from ordinary garments. And Mrs. John Harwood Bacon, who is in charge of the American clientele is especially skilled in adapting French models to the American woman's needs.

The gown selected by Mrs. Scrivenor does justice to her impeccable taste. The coat and under jacket are of yellow in plaid tinct, and the skirt is of bison brown and done in a lovely loose mesh wool. This is one of the most practical and stunning sport ensembles shown during the collections.

Quantities of lace are used by the Lucile this winter, but in a decidedly quality fashion. A lace jacket with a stiffened basque that is worn with a brown lace evening gown is called "Mon Secret" and is illustrative of the designer's knowledge of delicacy.

Exquisitely simple little packets of satin and lace are trimmed with just enough fete to make them luxurious without overloading them.

Navajo Girls Are Hostesses at Dance

By United Press.

WINNLOW, Ariz.—Assuming that the tactics of a night club hostess, ora of a dance hall percentage girl, belong to modern life is all wrong; Navajo squaws of Arizona have been doing that sort of "gold digging" for hundreds of years.

The percentage girl of the Navajo people has her innng at squaw dances, which are frequently held by the 88,000 Navajos who live on the 14,000,000-acre Navajo reservation.

Men chanters furnish the music, accompanied by an Indian drum. Unmarried girls size up single men in attendance and go after those of their liking, and a man, refusing to dance, must pay the girl. He also must pay—either in money or trinkets valued from 25 to 50 cents—when he stops dancing.

The squaw dance also is a sort of marriage act. Many of the girls find their life mates there, just as sometimes happens at modern white men's dances.
