A formal complaint of the hazing was made to officials by the student's mother, Mrs. Blanche A. Tatum. An inquiry was launched by the university. Tatum said he was attacked in a room of the men's dormitory and beaten with an angle iron.
Indignant at his exposure of the affair, classmates declared their intention of buying back his freshman cap and banning him from all inter-student activities.

Waves Give Up Body of Broker in Murder Mystery of Sea

His hands and feet tied, the body of Benjamin P. Collins, New York broker, floated in the surface of Long Island Sound near the spot where he is alleged to have been thrown overboard from his cabin cruiser, Penguin. Finding of the body, pictured here after its recovery, was partial substantiation of the story of Collins' wife, who told Long Island authorities that two men boarded their boat from a canoe, bound her husband, tossed his body into the water, and then abducted her. Collins' boat was found to have been wounded as if by a blow.

EASTLAND AND RANGER PLAN HIGHWAY MEET

Japanese Seize Chinese Garrison

PEIPING, China, Sept. 19.—The cities of New-Chowang, Nukden, Antung, Chang Chur, and Kuan Chang Yu have been occupied by Japanese troops, the American consul at Nukden advised today as Chinese authorities emphasized they had been seeking to prevent difficulties.
Chang Shue-lang, Manchurian, was last in an interview today said he had disarmed his camp several days ago suspecting the Japanese intended to provoke an incident. The Japanese therefore attacked unarmed men, he claimed. At Tokyo, however, the Japanese premier said the Japanese had exceeded their authority in attacking the garrison.

Bloody Shirt Is Clue to Slaying At Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 19.—A blood-stained shirt covered with ashes was held by police today as the strongest evidence against one of two negroes captured in connection with the murder of Audrey Norduff of Fort Worth and an attack on his fiancée, Sept. 9.
The spot where he was slain and his fiancée, Miles Vetra, Smith, attacked had been burned over. More than 50 persons, mostly negroes, were questioned today as police sought to build up a case against Robert Pope and an unnamed man, the second to be arrested. Pope is being held in Fort Worth.

Negro Admits Killing Man and Attack

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 19.—A gruesome story was told in a written statement late today by John Brown, negro, of how he and Robert Pope, another negro, had slain Audrey Norduff of Fort Worth and then attacked his fiancée the night of Sept. 9.
Brown placed the blame for leadership in the crime on Pope, who is held in Fort Worth for safe keeping. A charge of murder was filed against Brown. A similar charge has been filed against Pope.
In order to avoid any show of violence that might be made against Brown, following his confession, he was spirited out of town. Officers would not say where he was being taken but there was a possibility he would be taken to Fort Worth.

Two Arrested To Make Test of Race Track Law

ARLINGTON, Sept. 19.—Shirley E. R. Wright today arrested Dr. Leslie Coulter of Arlington and O. O. Franklin of Vernon at the track here for a test of California option betting under Texas anti-race-track gambling laws. They were released on bond. A crowd of 10,000 saw Lady De Ver, owned by J. A. Blackwell and H. H. Faussett win the Texas futurity, feature race of the one-day meet and a purse of $1500.
Three horses from the stables of Dan Dearing finished second, third and fourth in the event, which was limited to Texas-bred two-year-olds.
Colonel Wagoner, builder of the track, said future track programs depend on the outcome of the charges against Coulter and Franklin. As it will be several weeks before a ruling can be obtained no race is likely before spring.

Composer Dedicates Suite to Princesses

LONDON.—Sir Edward Elgar has dedicated his "Nursery Suite" to the Duchesses of York and the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose. The suite is a set of little orchestral pieces.
Such titles as "The Sad Doll," "The Wagon Passes," "The Merry Duet" and "Dressing" are included in Sir Edward's latest work. Elgar when himself a child composed music for children. One of his first works was the popular "Wand of Youth" suite. The young composer has written both princesses at play and he has probably expressed their happy spirit in his new suite.

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—Revision of state appropriations with salary cuts will be submitted to the legislature Monday Representative A. P. Petch, who has been in frequent conference with Gov. Rose Sterling on the topic, announced today.
The governor has only been insisting that a sufficient sentiment for prompt revision could be crystallized," Petch said.
The proposed reduction will enable the state automatic tax board to keep the present 69-cent ad valorem rate. Unrevised appropriations would require 79.2 cents.

AGREE TO 30 PER CENT OF TILLED SOIL

Passage Is Expected On Monday When Houses Reconvene.
AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—A bill restricting cotton planting in 1932 to 30 per cent of the tilled soil of this year and holding the 1933 crop to 30 per cent of the cultivated land in 1932 was the answer tonight to the concerted cries of cotton farmers of Texas for relief.
Ten members of the Texas legislature sitting as a conference committee to iron out differences between house and senate bill compromised tonight on the measure. Its speedy passage Monday by the Texas legislature convened in a farmers' session, was promised.

MYSTERY VEILS POISONING OF GIRL INMATES

TECUMSEH, Okla., Sept. 19.—A veil of mystery from which emerged only rumors ranging from "political plot" to "contagious disease" hung tonight over the Oklahoma Industrial School for Girls as investigators looked into the strange poisoning of 100 inmates and employes.
Not even the investigators could agree on their findings. The panic-stricken girls ranging in age from 7 to 16 years, told widely divergent stories as they recovered from violent illness contracted Wednesday night within an hour after they had eaten a meal of cold sausage, beans, canned tomatoes, bread and cake.
Tonight only three remained in the hospital and their recovery appeared assured.
Only yesterday did the word of the poisoning leak from the institution after most of the girls had recovered from the violent paroxysms of vomiting into which they were thrown.
Immediately Governor W. H. Murray rushed private investigators to the home, giving out to stop discredit of the superintendent.

Cotton Acreage Bill Is Being Framed by Solons

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—Closed in a Senate committee room, 10 legislators today worked to frame a bill restricting the Texas cotton crop for the next two years to half its normal size.
Little hope was held for a report from the conference committee before Monday. The Senate adjourned until Monday early today because of lack of a quorum. The House struggled through a morning session with a bare quorum and then adjourned.

B. Samford and that matter of installation and unveiling are awaiting the wishes of the Samford family.

ROUGH ROAD SAVES LIFE

LA GRANDE, Ore.—A wild ride over country roads saved Hal Bohenkamp, local merchant, from probable death. A piece of filling lodged in his throat during a tooth extraction. En route to Spokane for medical attention, the obstruction was dislodged when the automobile in which he was riding struck a rough piece of road.

Service--

Friday's Ranger Times carried the announcement that the paper would receive the score by quarters by wire from Sweetwater and that anyone who wished could call in and find out how the game was going.
From 4 o'clock in the afternoon until about 6:30, nearly 200 telephone calls were received by the Times asking for the score. Doubtless this number would have been almost doubled if many had not found the line busy when they attempted to call.
The Times was glad to offer this service to the people of the town and the manner in which many expressed their appreciation of the trouble taken to give this information showed that they appreciated the thoughtfulness in providing this little bit of extra service for them.

THEY'LL WORK IF THEY EAT.

Williamson county's grand jury wants prisoners put to work, rather than left lying out sentences in the comfortable shade of the jail. The body recommended restoring what has come to be known as the chain-gang, that is, use of prisoners on county roads. It wants prisoners to work if they are to eat at county expense.

This type of labor hasn't proved very useful, at best. Old abuses of hiring out prisoners to private enterprises have been abolished permanently.

The main effect would be spent upon the prisoners themselves.

Compulsory work would make Eastland county considerably more unpleasant for the vagrant, the prowler and the petty criminal, than the prospect of resting up at county expense in a comfortable jail. The men would come out in better shape, and the county would be a little better off. Nobody would be deprived of employment.

The more important feature of such a policy is that it would serve as a preventative for crime. Parodying Ben Franklin's celebrated axiom we have a saying not untrue that if you take care of the misdemeanors the felonies will take care of themselves. In other words vagrancy is the breeding ground for serious crimes. Prisoners who discover that a jail sentence means a work sentence are not apt to make the same mistake again.

USELESS TAXING.

A third of a million dollars saving is worth thinking about as a measure of farm relief or citizens' relief.

The people of Texas are now being compelled to pay out that much uselessly, and neither the county nor the state receives any part of it.

They are paying out that amount each year to buy the compulsory headlight certificate required before the annual registration of automobiles.

The testing stations get 15 cents of the amount. A county headlight license supervisor gets 10 cents.

In Eastland county, about $2,400 a year is taken out of the pockets of the citizens for headlight certificates on 9,500 trucks and cars.

The testing of headlights is perfunctory. In a few cases a light will be tilted down. The volume of light is not investigated, and the blinding glare of light that makes highways dangerous is never remedied by the tests. The driver, five minutes after the receipt is issued, could tilt his lights sky-high, and for another year nothing would be done about it.

Members of the legislature have attacked the law as worthless, and as unjust and inexcusable levy of money from citizens without benefit to the state or county, but have taken no action to repeal the law. When new registrations start for 1932, every old car in the state will be subject to a 25-cent assessment. All new cars also must be tested before initial license is granted.

It has been estimated there are 100 people in Texas being supported as county headlight supervisors, by this law. The supervisor issues permits to anywhere from one to 100 stations in a county, then has little to do but sit down and draw his yearly salary, occasionally furnishing one of the stations a pad of blanks, when requested.

Eastland county officials have pointed out that the county fund gets no part of the revenues from the headlight law's levy.

BLUEBONNET VINDICATED.

The Texas bluebonnet, official flower of Texas, has been acquitted of a grave charge. It has been vindicated; and it will flourish in all the glory of its majestic beauty.

It was accused of being a killer.

Cattle growers had claimed that the bluebonnet poisoned livestock that fed upon it.

A. & M. college extension service sat as judge and jury. The charge was a grave one. If sustained, beauty would have had to give way to the beast; the bluebonnet, instead of gratifying one's eye, arousing his patriotism and uplifting his soul in rapture, would have been frowned upon with suspicion and outlawed.

A. & M. college officials have reported that a test was made of the charge that eating the bluebonnet gave cattle paralysis. An animal was led to the sacrificial altar of feeding upon the ambrosial flower. That animal, a fat steer, was fed on bluebonnet seed for 120 days, a total of 13 pounds of the seed. He showed no effects. He stands as supreme proof of the innocence of Lupinus Subcarnosus.

Didn't they know that in the horny-handed lariat days of Texas the bluebonnet was known as buffalo clover, and recognized as an important part of the food of the herds? Didn't they know a flower so beautiful, one that on its merits compelled official recognition of the Texas legislature, would even lift a Texas longhorn into the realm of the ethereal for having grazed upon it?

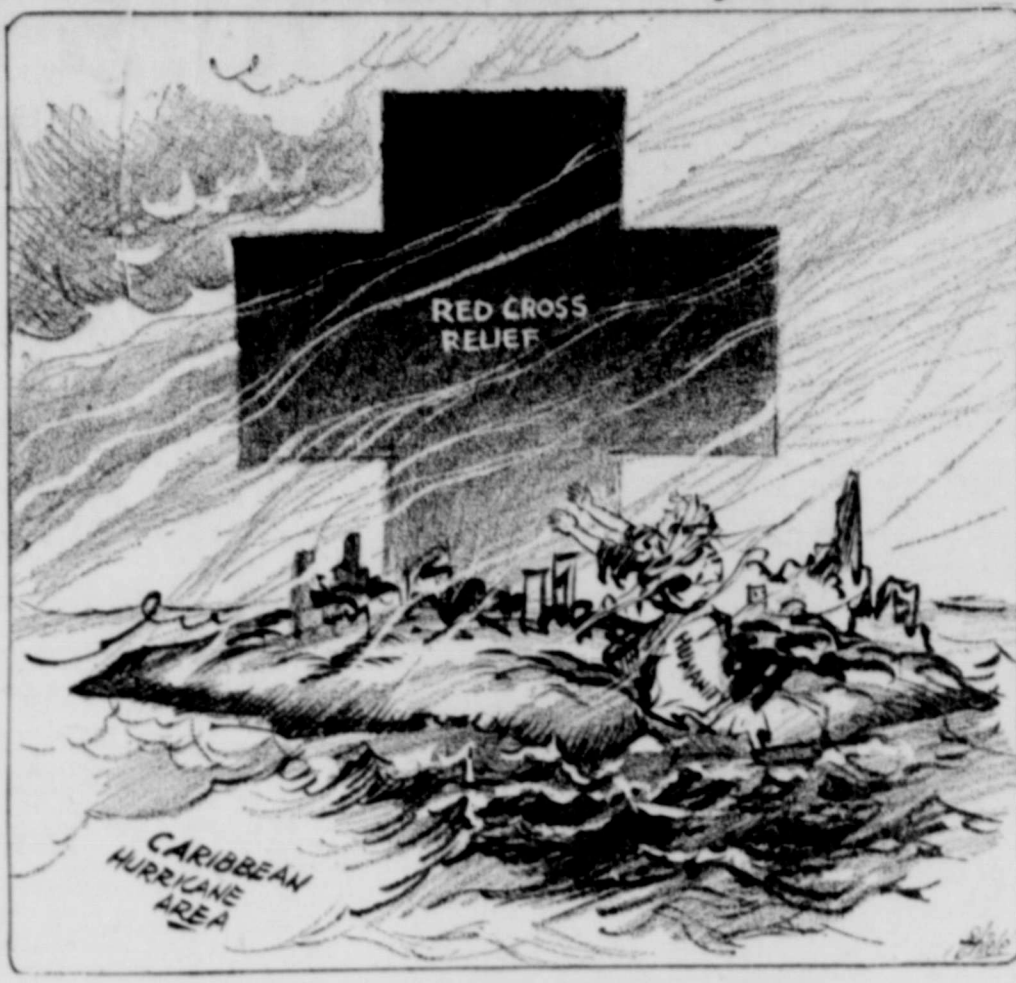

More glory to the cerulean flower that brings gladness to man and no longer withers under the suspicion of causing harm to any beast. Maybe it was marihuana those cows ate.

That the advertisements inform you of what is new on the market. Advertisers know that business policy demands the absolute truth about their merchandise, its quality and price and that it must be as advertised or you won't come back for more.

Advertised merchandise will look as good to you when you get it home as it did at the store.

Shopping right is very important as it means the saving of money.

You should always insist on getting advertised merchandise because it is better.

Advertising introduces you to new goods and service. It always pays to shop at the stores that advertise.

People who are hunting bargains find them by reading the advertisements.

Nowadays people know that it pays to buy what they read about instead of buying things they never heard of.

Suggests Following Georgia's System

DALLAS.—The Dallas News has suggested, editorially, that Texas enlist Gov. Richard B. Russell, Jr., of Georgia to advise the state how to reorganize antiquated governmental machinery.

The News pointed out that the Georgia governor has persuaded his legislature to adopt an improved fiscal system, reduce its 102 state department, divisions and bureaus to 18, cut taxes more than a million dollars and to balance the budget for the first time in years.

Mavericks Win From Class B Team From Cross Plains 33 to 0

The Eastland Mavericks won another victory in their Friday game with Cross Plains to the tune of 33 to 0. The game started as if it were going to be a slow-motion review of last week's playing but before the first quarter had ended both sides snapped out of it and made it a battle well worth witnessing. Cross Plains has a fast, hard-hitting squad and it was with some difficulty that the Mavericks began to edge in scores that finally in the last quarter broke down the resistance put up by the visitors and let Eastland score three times in that period.

A semi-play by play report to bring out the highlights of the game, skipping lightly over the uneventful phases to keep the continuity, discloses that Eastland has some stellar material in the persons of Edtes Burgamy, L. Taylor, W. Taylor, T. A. Jones, E. Mackall, B. Smith and D. Simmons with particular emphasis on Burgamy and L. Taylor although the whole team is to be commended on their good playing and close teamwork.

E. Mackall rates a star and plenty of praise on the way he follows his interference. Given a fast wedge through tackle and end with one or two men to run interference Mackall should gallop over the goal line for plenty of points before the season is over.

Due to the wholesale send-ins by Coach Gibson it was impossible to keep up with the substitutions at several points of the game. The following, however, saw service during the game: W. Taylor, L. Taylor, W. Vaughn, D. Daniel, T. Puleher, D. Smith, C. Allison, D. Mackall, L. Taylor, T. A. Jones, E. Burgamy, C. Garrett, B. Davenport, J. Meek, D. Brown, E. Brown, J. Tindall, V. Pangle, C. Reeves, J. Pangle, J. Simmons, S. J. Lane, D. Kitley, R. Pentecost, R. Brown, W. Howell, J. Heath, D. Simmons, L. Grubbs, L. Pafford, M. Walthall, W. Kelleit, M. Kimble, B. J. Bagley, J. T. Pipkin, J. N. Smith, E. Harper, D. Williams, M. Coleman, D. L. Childress, D. Tulley, W. Davis, J. Solatus, J. Hatten, N. Stafford, E. Liles, B. Hussey, R. Herrington, L. Bargeley.

The game, after that first thrilling moment of the kick-off, settled into a rather uninteresting exchange of kicks back and forth until Jones intercepted a pass and returned it 18 yards to the 50-yard line, where after three tries for down the Mavericks kicked over the goal line. The Cross Plains boys kicked back and Burgamy on the next down made a pretty run around right end for 10 yards. W. Vaughn received a pass for 16 yards. Burgamy fumbled a snap from center and lost nine yards. After a few plays and Eastland again in possession of the ball, Burgamy got through the line on a spin play and was off for 33 yards and the first touchdown. Smith kicked goal from placement to make the score 7-0 as the quarter ended.

No scoring was done in the second quarter but the game had livened up until it had no resemblance to the first part of the preceding quarter. Some stellar playing by T. A. Jones, Ed Mackall, Burgamy, and D. Simmons who had gone in for Jones following an injury.

The only score in the third quarter was by L. Taylor, who made the most beautiful run on any field so far this year, straight down the west side of the gridiron, shaking off three would-be tacklers in his 80-yard race to the goal. Again Smith kicked goal.

After kicks and exchange of ball on failure to make downs neither team had advanced far into the other's territory until Burgamy made a 46-yard run through the line to the Cross Plains five-yard line, two line bucks and Burgamy took it over. Kick failed. A kick by Cross Plains was blocked by W. Taylor and bounced back to the one-yard line where an Eastland man covered. L. Taylor carried it over. Kick again failed. A pass by Cross Plains was intercepted by D. Mays and after a down or two Burgamy saw an opening in the line and was through it and away for a 30-yard run to touchdown. The kick went over to end the game, 33-0.

BULLDOGS WIN OVER HIGHLY ADVERTISED PONIES, 7-0

FLABIE MAKES 10-YARD RUN FOR MARKER

Score of Game Comes in Last Three Minutes at Play.

Flabie, who has been making a name for himself in the past few weeks, was the hero of the game. He made a 10-yard run for a marker in the last three minutes of the game. The Bulldogs defeated the highly advertised Ponies 7-0.

Flabie's performance was a real surprise to everyone. He had been playing well, but this was his best game yet. He showed great speed and agility, and his 10-yard run was a real highlight of the game.

The Bulldogs' defense was also excellent. They kept the Ponies from getting any real momentum. The game was a real showcase for Flabie's talents.

SANDIES TO PLAY NEXT AT RANGER

Next Thursday Coach Blair Cherry and 26 members of the Amarillo Golden Sandstom are due to arrive in Ranger for the big football game of the pre-season period, which is scheduled to be played in Ranger on Friday, Sept. 25.

Coach Cherry is bringing along a large squad and they will probably have a light workout the afternoon they arrive. The average weight of the entire squad he is bringing is not so impressive, but the average weight of those he has indicated as probable starters is a fraction over 167 pounds, which is but a fraction of a pound under the average of the Bulldogs starting lineup.

The squad he is bringing consists of four ends, four tackles, three guards, four centers three quarters and seven other backfield men.

The line up of the Sandies with their numbers and weights follows:

NAME	Pos.	No.	Wt.
John Lee	E	22	181
Joe Nensley	E	11	155

THE SUBSTITUTION FIRST BASEMEN SEEM... EVENLY MATCHED

FIRST BASE TRYING TO choose between Jim Bottomley and Jimmy Foxx is a task for a crystal gazer. On a season's play, no one could rate one over the other without making himself a lot of enemies. But for a short series, past performance swings the balance in favor of Foxx. The Cardinal pitchers are not likely to forget the power of Jimmy's bat, and because of his habit of breaking up well-pitched games with disconcerting home runs, Foxx is given the preference over Bottomley in the pre-series picking. The Cards and A's rate about evenly on first base substitutes. Jim Collins is in his first year and hasn't the experience of his Athletic rival, Phil Todd, who is a finished fielder but not very potent on the attack. The Athletics enjoy a slight edge at first base solely because of Foxx's long-distance hitting.

World's Largest Violin School Opens Branch Studio in Ranger

Ranger has been favored by the establishment here of a branch of the largest violin school in the world, and by the appointment of Miss Gillian Buchanan, well known in musical circles here, as its instructor.

The First National Institute of Violin has made arrangements for studios in the local school system of Ranger. Mr. Frank F. Ingram, district manager, made the selection of Ranger as a very desirable city in which to locate and is being assisted by a crew of six special organizers.

This great school was founded with the idea and ideal of spreading the gospel of good music throughout America. Shakespeare had it right when he wrote "A man that hath no music in himself is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." Of course he wrote at a time when practically no opportunity for a musical education was afforded.

How different it is today, with such institutions as the First National Institute of Violin, with over 300 studios distributed over the various parts of the United States opening to every one an opportunity to become not only musical, but skilled in the most human of the instruments. Its aim has been to give a bona fide guarantee to teach the student to play third grade music in one term of 60 lessons. This is a noteworthy accomplishment for this modern way of music teaching.

In addition to making the course inexpensive the institute does other things to smoothe the beginning student's way. At the time of the first lesson it provides each beginner with an excellent violin, bow

Lone Star to Play Cisco Red Sox Sunday

The Ranger Lone Star team will play the Cisco Red Sox on Cooper Field, Ranger, this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Red Sox have one of the fastest baseball teams in this section of the country, having won all but two of their games this season and having won more than 20 straight without a single loss.

The Lone Stars and the Red Sox have met twice this year, the Red Sox taking both games, one by a score of 6 to 5 in 10 innings and the other by a score of 8 to 5.

Rogers, who has won five games for the Lone Stars without a loss and has scored two shutouts, one against Eastland and the other against the Dallas Lone Stars, will be on the mound.

The lineup will be: Pace, lf.; J. Bales, c.; Dinmore, 1b.; Watson, rf.; Coleman, lf.; Littlefield, 3b.; Ligon or McGee, ss.; B. Bates, 2b, and Rogers, p. It is possible that Huey Harris, who played with the Independence, Kan., team this year may be with the Lone Stars. If so he will be in the lineup when the game starts.

On Sunday, Sept. 27, the Lone Star team of Dallas will come back to play off the tid between them and the Ranger Lone Stars, Joe Victor, who shut out the Lone Stars in the second game, will probably face Rogers, who shut out the Dallas team in the first game recently.

STANTONSBURG, N. C.—Tom Hall had a cage of pet squirrels. He went to feed them and found a monster chicken snake in the act of eating one, having just swallowed the other. When Hall killed the snake, it measured slightly over seven feet in length. It was the largest chicken snake ever seen in this section.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

With BILL MAYES

As if the poor old Oil Belt wasn't already broken out with a rash of sports writers, near sports writers, would-be sports writers and sports writing editors, another breaks out this week in the Weekly Chronicle at Eastland. W. H. Crossley, writing in the Press Box furnishes new reading matter for the fan. In his initial effort he does rather well but he being largely bombastic, predicts or threatens that Bulldog uniforms will be scattered hither and yon upon the turf when the Mavericks invade Lillard Field. Being, like us, more or less inexperienced in the art of sports writing, he waxes enthusiastic over the prospects of seeing the Mavericks trample rough shod over the lowly Bulldogs.

Such predictions are sometimes cast out to the fans in order to arouse interest or to instill confidence in a team. Sometimes it puts a little over-confidence where it is not needed. We have reached the mature age where we can take our predictions with a grain of salt and have adopted a safe and sane policy of predicting after the game is over. Our only prediction from this distant date is that it should be an encounter worth seeing at the reduced fare of six bits a head, and would probably be a bargain at a dollar.

And now that we have welcomed WB into the fold and have slapped him on the wrist gently to give him a taste of what he may have gotten into, we will proceed with the duties of the day.

As an indication of how haywire predictions can go, we cite the Sweetwater game of Friday. From out of the west came many such predictions and all were that Sweetwater would win from the Bulldogs by a comfortable score. Sweetwater was confident. They thought that after Mick Hicks had galloped through the Hamlin team he could do almost as well against real Class A competition. He didn't, though he did play a good game. He was the player who was supposed to deliver for the Mustangs and there is probably many a disappointed fan in the West today because he could not show up the Bulldogs.

But the most important game from the standpoint of interest over this part of the country will be the Amarillo-Ranger game at Ranger next Friday. Fans from all over the Oil Belt will probably be on hand to see just how good the two teams are. Coach Blair Cherry is bringing a squad of 25 men with a possible starting line-up of 14 men whose weights average 167 pounds, which is about a half to three-quarters of a pound lighter than we figured the Bulldogs just before the Sweetwater game.

Most of the Amarillo team is experienced, many of them having played on the team that went into the finals for the state championship last year.

This will probably be the hardest game of the 1931 season for the Bulldogs, conference or non-conference games included.

Flabie showed the Mustangs a bit of speed in the last three minutes of play Friday when he rounded the right end on a 10-yard center to the goal showing his heels to the entire Mustang team.

The committees working on the membership drive of the Ranger Country Club are hard at work and indications are that they are to get a large number of new members. These new members will be eligible in the City Tournament to be held in Ranger beginning on Sunday, Oct. 4, and ending the following Sunday. Qualifying rounds will be played the first day and the finals will be played the following Sunday.

And today the Eastland Golf and Country Club will be invaded by the Thurber Club of the Oil Belt Golf association, when they play off a tie that has existed since the last game of the schedule was played. Thurber is planning to take 27 men with them and are to win the match and the championship at the same time. If they lose they will have to play Ranger for the championship, as both teams will have entered the season with the same number of wins and losses.

Friday Scores
Eastland 35; Cross Plains 0.
Breckenridge 54; Comanche 0.
Cisco 31; Gorman 12.

Style Review to Be Presented At Arcadia Theatre Monday Afternoon and Evening.

It is more than the old ensemble idea going modern and dressy, with summer slowly fading and fall and winter just around the corner.

Again J. C. Penney company, managed by Mr. Roy W. Gilbreath, and assisted by Mr. Clarence Kirby, will feature another pretty style review, with taste and color displayed throughout the showing of lovely garments in all the new materials and colors.

Morning frocks, lounging pajamas, sport suits with modes for the evening will be modeled by such pretty and attractive young ladies as Misses Betty Davenport, Pauline Head, Frances Coughlin, Mary Elio Davenport, Nedra Head, Nina Williams, Helen Callaway and Mrs. Clarence Kirby at the Arcadia theatre on Monday afternoon at the matinee hour and evening show.

This will be a happy opportunity for the J. C. Penney department store to present for your personal inspection a complete review for fall and winter fashions. The variety of styles now in fashion's limelight gives greater opportunity for individuality to the woman with a flair for expressing her own personality in dress.

It has been found that today the Empress Eugenie styles have a definitely romantic tone, from the charming period of the gay 80's and 90's. In presenting these charming young ladies they will model the entire ensembles with trimmings and matching accessories all of which help in suggesting wearable and becoming costumes.

To assist the chic attire, shoes from J. C. Penney shoe department so capably managed by Mr. J. B. Barnett, will be worn. There will be daring suede, kid and suede combinations, kid, patent leather, and various other patterns to meet the day and strikingly selected by Mr. Barnett.

Evening gowns of electric blue marquisette, velvets and garnet faulle designed on form-fitting lines flaring slightly near the hem, while day-time frocks, of blues, blacks, browns, smoke blue wool and mahogany will add color to the array of fashionable clothing to be shown.

All who are eager to know the correct length of sport and street dresses and the beautiful coats will be authentically informed through this display.

ST. RITA'S CHURCH Masses will be at 8 and 10 a. m. by Rev. M. Collins. This is the 17th Sunday after Pentecost and the Gospel read today is taken from St. Matthew XXII, 35-46. In this Gospel we are told that the two great commandments are to love God and our neighbor. We are to love our neighbor as ourself. This is easier said than done. Some try to defraud or steal from the federal, state, county or city government without apparently thinking that they are defrauding or stealing from their neighbors because the government means every man, woman and child in the country. So when we act thus we are acting unjustly towards our fellowman. Want of love of our fellow man is the logical reason for the present depression. There is enough for all in this world but many are not satisfied with enough. They want what belongs in justice to others. Let us love our fellow man as much as we love ourselves and then there will be peace and plenty.—REV. M. COLLINS.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CATHOLIC CHURCH
Mass at 8 a. m.
This is the 14th Sunday after Pentecost, and the Gospel read today is taken from St. Matthew XXII, 35-46. The Pharisees ask Christ: "Which is the great commandment of the law?" He tells them that the first is to love God with heart, soul and mind. The second to love their neighbor as themselves. The whole law depends on the observance of these two commandments. As our neighbor means all mankind irrespective of creed, color, nationality, financial or social condition it is not always easy to observe the second commandment. Even in church matters where all profess the same Christian belief the white people do not care to worship with the colored, the Indian, the Chinese, the Russian, the Eskimo and even the poor whose clothes may not be of the Sunday style. Yet all hope to get into the same heaven and each profess to love his neighbor as himself otherwise one could not be a true Christian or Israelite. There are many Christian churches where overall are not welcome on a Sunday. Hence many remain away from church on that account. Mr. High-Hat will not sit near Mr. Overalls at church on Sunday. However, the poor seem to have Christ on their side. Poverty in itself is no crime neither is riches if justly and honestly acquired. It is the desire for money and not money honestly acquired is the "cause of all evil." If we expect to get to heaven we must be just in all our dealings with our fellow men.

REV. M. COLLINS.
Major Doolittle, in bowing to Lowell Bayles' speedy Gee-Bee, might have felt inclined to dub it the Heebly Gee Bee.

CHAPTER XXVIII
Travers eyed his son levelly. "When I make a bargain," he began, "I expect fair return for my money. Otherwise I'm not interested. And if you agree to what I'm suggesting I'll expect you to keep that agreement as rigidly as any business contract."

"Let's hear those terms you mentioned."
"All right. Here they are. You are to return to employment in the organization, on exactly an equal footing with other employees. Your salary will be fixed on a basis of your work. If at the end of a year I am convinced you have in you the making of a real business man you will come into the company as a junior officer with a certain amount of stock to your credit. It will be a year of hard work, possibly in half a dozen different departments. I will issue strict orders no favors are to be shown you because you happen to bear my name. Well—what do you think of it?"

"Father! You honestly mean this?"
"Would I be sitting here waiting hours when I might be much more comfortable at home if I didn't mean it?"
Emotion he could not find words for overwhelmed Mark Travers. He flushed. "Gee, Dad, that's—that's white of you!" he exclaimed. "I want to tell you I've been a good many times for the things I said that night—I didn't mean what I said—"
"No! Then forget it! I've said things I didn't mean and been sorry about them. Forget it, Mark. It's been hard on your mother, though, to have you away."
"I know. I'm sorry for that too. Oh, Dad—I'll take you up on this thing! I'll show you I can make good too! You'll see that I've changed about a lot of things—"
The older Travers was on his feet, hand outstretched. He took Mark's hand in his and shook it firmly. "Then it's agreed," he said. "When can you start?"
"Why, right almost any time. I'll tell them I'm quitting tomorrow at Blossomdale's." The red of his cheeks deepened. "You know, I suppose, that's where I've been."
"The answer was a grunt that might have been interpreted, "Heard something of the sort."
"Dad! Mark exclaimed jubilantly. "Gee, I can't believe this has happened! I don't know what to say to you. It's—it's wonderful!"

"If the elder Travers were equally moved he restrained all signs of it. "So it's settled, then," he said, stepping back and heaving a sigh of satisfaction. "Remember, those terms—one year without favors, unquestioning obedience to superiors and hard work."
"I'll show you, Dad!" Mark was grinning broadly. "Those terms—why they're nothing at all! I'll show you."
"Fine. By the way," (the father's eyes narrowed slightly as he spoke) "your first job will be something a little out of the ordinary. Not at all unpleasant, I hope. It's a little piece of special work I want you to do for me—"
"What is it?"
"Sit down," Travers dropped to his deck chair, waved the young man to one beside it. "I told you if you agreed to my terms it would mean a year of hard work. You've already agreed. Today's Wednesday, you're quitting Saturday. Monday you can begin. Then Tuesday at midnight you sail for Liverpool."
"Dad!"

Travers was nodding. "Tuesday at midnight," he repeated. "You have your passport, haven't you? I'll have everything else arranged. Monday you'll be in Liverpool."
"But what on earth—" Mark cut in. "I don't know what you're talking about."
"No. But I'm going to tell you. Promised to obey instructions, didn't you? Promised to tackle any job without favoritism! This first assignment, as I said, is a little unusual. I hope it isn't going to prove difficult. Now here's what I'm getting at—"
The father paused long enough to touch a match to his cigar. "I sent Johnson to tell you to come here today for reasons," he continued. "One because, well, you're the only son your mother and I have. Maybe I seem a harsh man sometimes. I'm not so bad inside. Anyhow your mother and I need you. Mark. That's one reason I sent for you. The other is this business in Spain."
"You remember—maybe you don't though—that Julius was in this country for a Spanish copper mining concern when Alicia met him? Looking for American capital. Well, he persuaded me to go into the thing rather heavily. That was two years ago. Going on three now and it's been a bigger loss every year. It's come to the place where I've got to know what's going on—"

Mark had been following the words wide-eyed. "But, Dad, I don't know anything about copper mining."
"No. You don't. It isn't going to be necessary. I've got a man who knows all about it going over next month. You see, Mark, I can stand the loss. They come and we take them and fight it out on some other line. I can stand the loss. What I'm sending you over there for is to find out just how much Julius is in on this business. I want to know if the deal is square. If it is—we go on with it and fight. If Alicia's husband in spite of his high-sounding titles is just another foreign crook I want to know that too.

"You'll go over there ahead of Moffett, the engineer. There's nothing said or done as yet to arouse suspicion. That's why the trip must be made at this time. And you're the one to make it. Don't you see I can't send an ordinary employe over there and tell him what's in my mind about my own son-in-law? Besides, you can go about with Julius as no employe could—"
"It's a spying job you're asking me to undertake, is it?" Not so hot-headed. It's nothing on earth but a straight business deal. I want you to go to France for three weeks, drop over at this mine and have a look at it, go to see Julius and Alicia and make certain inquiries about Julius. It's a thing that's done every day in business. A man has to know his associates are honest. If they're dishonest he has to out-smart them. Well, that's a very brief outline. We'll go over the whole thing in detail later. You're work for me on this job, Mark. Directly under my orders and no one else!"

Mark met his glance. "No use to pretend I know what it's all about," he said, "but I'll try to do what you want. How long will I be abroad?"
"That depends. Ought to make the trip, I should say, in a month or five weeks. We'll see how it works out."
The young man was smiling. "Well, a month in France is certainly no hardship. Be able to stop over a day or so in Paris, will I?"
"I'll get a kick out of showing Norma Paris."
The father pursed his lips. "Certainly you can spend a day or two in Paris. Matter of fact, on the surface this journey is to appear a pleasure trip. You're to do all the things you would if you were on vacation. Julius and Alicia will assume that's why you're there. On this other matter of taking—er, Norma—well, I'm afraid that's out of the question."

"But, Dad—"
"It will be better for you," his father went on evenly, "and also for your wife if you make this trip alone. In the first place, though you are to seem to be on a pleasure trip, you will really be working. It's a conviction of mine that a man can't keep his mind on business when he's traveling with his wife. Arbitrary ruling of the company. If I let you take Norma along it would be favoritism and I told you there was to be none. On the other hand she can be more comfortable here. We'll see that everything is done for her. It would please your mother if she'd come to the house and stay with us while you're gone. When this year's ended and you've proven you know how to work—if you do—you and she can take a three or four months' trip abroad and do it properly."

Mark said slowly, "I hate to leave her but, as you say, it may be best. Five weeks is a long time."
"What five weeks is nothing! Well—do you think you understand your first assignment?"
"Enough to say I'll tackle it. I'll be tied up at the store until Saturday, of course. When will you go over the whole thing with me?"
"On Monday, Monday morning. By the way, your mother and I would like to have you and Norma come to dinner Saturday evening."
Mark's eyes brightened. "Fine!" he said. "By George—do you know what time it's getting to be? Look at that clock!"
The dial of the handsome bronze timepiece on the back case indicated it was after 6:30.
"Norma'll be phoning the police!" Mark exclaimed. "I'd better call her right away." He picked up the telephone from his father's desk and gave the number. Presently he was saying into the mouthpiece, "I'm on my way home, Norma. Everything's O. K. Got a lot to tell you. No, it will have to wait until I get there. It's good news, though. Wonderful! See you in less than an hour. Bye!"

The elder Travers was standing hat and overcoat on "Harvey" downstairs with the car," he announced. "Run you out?"
"Thanks. It'll be a big favor." On the threshold—Mark turned they left the room—Mark turned and clapped a hand on his father's arm. "Dad," he said, fumbling for the words, "I wish I could tell you how I appreciate all this—"
"That's all right!"
The interview was over. The pair sauntered down the corridor to the elevator car. Throughout the drive to the east side apartment their talk was of irrelevant subjects.
The big limousine stopped long enough for Mark to step to the sidewalk, then darted away. Thirty minutes later F. M. Travers was relinquishing his hat and coat to a servant.
"I think she's in her room, sir," she said demurely at 7:30.
"Yes, of course," Travers mounted the stairs heavily. He was not unusually stout, rather well built for one of his years, but he had worked hard all his life and moved customarily as though he were tired.
Before a door at the head of the stairs he paused and knocked. A voice inside called "Who is it?"
"It's I—Frank."
Travers opened the door. His wife, in a low-cut gown of gray lace, turned from the dressing table, looked toward him. "Oh, Frank—" she cried. "Did you see him?"
"Her husband nodded. He placed a matter-of-fact kiss on her forehead. "I didn't," he announced. "Gale settled. He's leaving on Monday night!"
Mrs. Travers raised anxious gray eyes. "And the girl—" she asked.
"The girl?" Travers repeated with an unpleasant smile. "She'll be gone in a week."
