Eastland Co. Convict Caught After 18 Years

NEGRO HELD FOR ATTACK ON WOMAN

GREENVILLE, Texas, Nov. 7.—Arney Lee Ross, 23, confessed assailant of a white woman, was convicted in Harrison county jail here today. Officers rushed Ross here today after he was arrested last night after a fight at Dainierfield.

He made a lengthy written statement to the sheriff, in which he admitted attacking the woman and her 15-year-old daughter. He said he had lived 150 miles from the home of the victim and decided to leave her.

He packed his clothes, took them to a store and then drove to the home of the woman. He was seen by her husband and brother who were working in the fields. He was armed with a long knife and was pursued six miles west of Dainierfield and rushed to the Morris county jail where the woman identified him.

Her husband and brother were working in the fields. He was armed with a long knife and was pursued six miles west of Dainierfield and rushed to the Morris county jail where the woman identified him.

HAD ESCAPED PENITENTIARY BACK IN 1912

Is Being Held in Elk City, Okla. on Information From Big Spring.

A man whom police officials here believe to be Clarence Hendricks, an escaped life term convict from the Texas penitentiary, is being held in Elk City, Okla., for return to Texas officials. He was placed in custody there on information from the sheriff of Howard county where it is alleged he has been living under the name of G. W. Franks in Big Spring.

He was convicted of the murder of one Oats, "whose first name was to the grand jury unknown," to quote from the original indictment, which had not been turned in and which could not be secured until they had been tabulated Monday. Those who contributed up to Friday night and listed on the books Saturday morning were:

Rev. Father P. Kama, $1; Mrs. Nellie Kinser, $1; R. F. Holloway, p. $2; Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson, p. $3; Texas-Louisiana Power company, $10; T. J. Anderson, p. $2, c. $1.

Will Speak To Eastland Rotary

JOHN M. GHOLSON

88TH COURT OPENS TERM ON MONDAY

The 88th district court will open its November term Monday morning, presided over by Hon. Elzo Green. A regular venire has been called to try such cases as come up.

Among the more prominent cases on the docket is Clarence Hendricks, who lives in the Yellow Mountain community and is charged with criminal assault. Hendricks is alleged to have assaulted his 12-year-old step-daughter and was surprised by his wife, who made a signed statement which is in possession of the prosecution.

Castaways Rescued

They knew help was on the way, did the three castaways of the yawl West Wind, when they found this sign and box of supplies on their lonely Cocos Island home in the Pacific. The sign and provisions had been left by Julius Fleischmann's yacht Camargo, which found traces of the marooned trio but, unable to locate them, sailed away to get help. The castaways later were rescued by the gunboat U. S. S. Sacramento. The three were in good health despite six months lived on the isolated island.

STUDENT IS WOUNDED BY BANDITS

DALLAS, Nov. 7.—Ralph Goodwin, 23, Southern Methodist University student, fought a losing battle with three gunmen today and was near death in a hospital with a bullet in his lung.

Goodwin was attacked as he drove to his home before daylight after escorting a girl home. Three men in a small coupe attempted to force his car to the curb. The student speared his machine and narrowly averted a crash. As he gained ground on the other car a bullet crashed through the rear window. He looked and saw a man standing on the running board, pistol in hand.

Goodwin then took a small automatic from the pocket of the car and returned the fire. The chase continued to the bathing beach at Lake Whiteoak. At this point Goodwin turned into a blind road and stopped, the coupe behind him.

Two men sprang to the side of Goodwin's machine. Without speaking they opened the door. One of the men pressed a pistol against his ribs and fired. Goodwin slumped to the floor of his car and the attackers drove away.

After a few minutes the student summoned enough strength to start the car and drive to a hospital where he collapsed.

Police were mystified as to a motive for the attack. Goodwin said when he saw the men following him he placed his money in his glove compartment and was to be robbed. However, no robbery occurred.

ALLRED SAYS EVIDENCE HAS BEEN SECURED

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Following receipt of reports today from department investigators who have been scattered through the state, Attorney General James V. Allred tonight said the department is now equipped with the information to file complaints of violations of the state gasoline specification laws.

Complaints are to be made in Austin and in a number of other places. Nine were filed in Fort Worth earlier this week.

"Reports and tests made by chemists show the sale of an inferior grade of gasoline not up to specifications in various places," Allred said. "Representatives of some of the companies have telephoned me from Fort Worth asking for a conference Tuesday in order that they may present their side."

"It is unlikely that we will be able to prefer new charges before that time but I want to warn the public against buying and retailers against selling this inferior grade of gasoline."

Allred said that it is no answer to the charges to say that the law is an old one. He said that does not justify the sale of a fuel not up to standards required by law and some of which will actually harm an automobile motor.

"Smile Day" To Continue Through First of Week

D. W. "Huzz" Johnson, chair-man of the Carl Barnes post committee in charge of the "Smile Day" in Ranger, announced Saturday that the clothing for the day of the city was being received from a number of donors.

The "Smile Day" is to be stretched out to cover several days next week and a house-to-house canvass of the town is being planned for next week.

All who have clothing they are using, regardless of previous use and present condition, are requested to call the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, giving the name and address of the one who makes the donation. A truck will pick up a bundle of clothes as soon as possible. Those who wish may contribute to the chamber of commerce office, where it will be distributed by the members of a committee.

Welfare Drive Funds Reach $646

The total cash received in the Ranger Child Welfare drive up to Saturday morning was $646.25, was a number of pledges received which had not been turned in and which could not be secured until they had been tabulated Monday.

Those who contributed up to Friday night and listed on the books Saturday morning were:

Ranger Tag Day Is Big Success

Although a complete check of the Ranger American Legion auxiliary tag day had not been completed, an early Saturday afternoon indication was that it was going over in a satisfactory manner.

The members of the auxiliary were busy tagging the residents of Ranger and the visitors to the town and practically everyone in town was wearing a tag by noon.

Republicans May Yield House Seat

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7.—Republicans may yield the late Harry M. Wurzbach's seat in the House to the Democrats without a contest. Democrats are alleged to have assaulted his 12-year-old step-daughter and was surprised by his wife, who made a signed statement which is in possession of the prosecution.

Representative John Garner of Uvalde, now assured the speakership, will step off on his way to Washington. R. E. Greager, Brownsville, Texas, Republican chairman, will represent his party. Mayor C. M. Chambers of San Antonio, will be the third man at the caucus and will have a deciding vote. He is expected to fight for the election of Carl Wright Johnson, prominent young attorney.

Wurzbach's body lay in state today at the municipal auditorium and hundreds of his friends filed by. He will be buried in the national cemetery here.

John M. Gholson To Be Principal Speaker At Eastland Rotary Club

John M. Gholson of Ranger will be the principal speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Eastland Rotary club Monday noon at the Connelley hotel. This announcement comes from Earl Bender and Homer Brelsford, entertainment committee for this week.

Gholson is familiarly known as "John" or "Pa" by hundreds of Rotarians in this section of the state. He has been a member of the Ranger Rotary club more than 10 years and has been active in the civic life of Eastland county since the mind of man runneth not to the contrary.

As a banker, an oil operator, a farmer, a property owner and a close student of political situations he has acquired a store of knowledge that enables him to speak authoritatively on subjects pertaining to the present economic situation. His cool manner and level-headed advice has often been called upon to assist in solving all manner of problems facing communities.

The committee extends an invitation to every business man in Eastland to be present at the meeting Monday and hear Gholson. He will follow no definite subject but will talk at random on such subjects as he thinks would be of interest.

RANGER MAN VICE PRESIDENT OF OIL ASS'N.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Both major and independent oil interests were in complete harmony today in a program to bring about the utmost conservation of the oil supply and stabilize the industry as a whole.

The spirit of accord was expressed at a meeting here when a prominent organization of the Texas Oil and Gas Conservation association with membership of 1800 was affected. Charles R. Roesser, Fort Worth, was elected president. Vice presidents included Marshall Young, Breckenridge and John M. Gholson, Ranger.

HOOPER MAKES PUBLIC REPORT OF COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—President Hoover made public tonight a report on his Navy league investigating committee charging the attack made against him by the league contains "many inaccuracies, false assertions and erroneous conclusions. The most important of these are as follows:

The presidential commission held that the critical pamphlet issued by the league's president, William Howard Gardner contained assumptions regarding the president's attitude on navy questions which are wholly unwarranted.

The results of the investigation were made public in a 1,000-word letter to the president signed by the five men he appointed to inquire into the charges against him. The letter was supplemented by an 11,000-word report analyzing Gardner's report and repudiating it paragraph by paragraph.

The letter contained six major points upon which the commission contended Gardner had misrepresented the president and the administration. The most important point was Gardner's assertion that Mr. Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald reached several agreements in their conference here prior to the London naval conference.

In refuting this assertion the commission cited Mr. Hoover's message to congress July 11, stating "I take this opportunity to repeat with the utmost emphasis that in these negotiations there were no secret agreements or concealed understandings, promises or interpretations."

The report was signed by John Hays Hammond, chairman; Admiral Hugh Rodman, U. S. N. retired; former assistant secretary of the treasury, Elliott Waddsworth; assistant secretary of state, W. R. Castle, and assistant secretary of navy, Ernest Lee Jabneke.

Tickets For Game Are Put on Sale At Breckenridge

E. Hinrichs, manager of the Breckenridge American, called E. F. Holloway Friday night informed him that a large number of Breckenridge fans in the vicinity of tickets to the Breckenridge game of Nov. 11 and asked that tickets be sent up to Breckenridge to be put on sale.

O. G. Lanier took 362 adult tickets and 50 student tickets to Breckenridge and turned them over to the newspaper there for a heavy distribution among the Breckenridge fans.

Indications in Breckenridge were, Mr. Lanier said, that a large crowd would be present for the game and that the Dynamo City would be 100 per cent for the hills.

Nation Mourns Senator's Death

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 7.—The State of Arkansas with the whole nation prepared to pay tribute to one of its foremost statesmen, Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway.

He died suddenly last night from heart ailment. His body was here awaiting arrival of his three sons from Washington. Funeral services will be held next week at Jonesboro, his home.

Vice President Charles Cretz and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, opposing candidate for the vice presidency in 1928, were placed in joint charge of the funeral by Mrs. Caraway.

Russians Fighting With The Chinese

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 7.—Many Russians clad in Chinese uniforms were reported found among the dead on the Nonni river battlefield today, indicating active volunteer participation of the Russians in the Manchurian War.

As the result of the report, military precautions were redoubled by the Japanese. All Chinese travelers were forced to undergo rigorous search before permission was granted for continuance of their journeys.

Civil Court Case Aftermath of a Famous Murder

The action of the court of civil appeals in affirming the judgment of Mrs. Sarah Shook against the Southern Surety company in the amount of some $6,000 is an aftermath of one of the county's sensational murders. Two men, Thompson and Davis, were convicted in the killing of Shook. Thompson was given the death sentence and was later tried here in an effort to prove his sanity. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

The Southern Surety company was insurer of Shook's employer and it was claimed that Shook was killed while protecting his employer's property, hence the civil action.

Smith Denies Any Part in Proration Order

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Answering the statement that he had called into conference before the 125 barrels per well per day limit was put on the East Texas oil fields, Commissioner Lun Smith said he was asked for his views by the governor but answered:

"I have no opinion. My construction of the law is that it permits any field including East Texas to produce as much oil as it can so long as actual physical waste does not occur."

Three Killed In Plane Crash At Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Three persons were burned to death today when a sight-seeing airplane crashed in taking off from Washington-Hoover airport.

Edward F. Korhe, pilot of the plane which was from Salisbury, Md., the passengers were Preston Paynter, 17, Washington, and Lester Dennis, of Salisbury. The plane was an open cockpit biplane. The motor stalled at 100 feet and the plane went into a spin. It fell on a highway bordering the airport.

It was the third fatal airport accident in 48 hours in this vicinity.

Baptist State Convention To Open In Waco

The Baptist state convention is to open Monday in Waco and several from Ranger are expected to attend.

Laymen's meetings are to be held on Monday and Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Stephens of the Central Baptist church will be among those attending.

Farmer Sentenced In Woman's Death

DIMMITT, Texas, Nov. 7.—Frank Barrett, farmer and father of six children, today accepted a sentence of 99 years for the murder of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Nona Barrett, last June.

Barrett told officers he had had illicit relations with his daughter-in-law for two years and said he killed her because of a "drunken urge". His sale defense was four witnesses who testified to his peculiar mental spells.

Mrs. Barrett was shot to death as she held her 2-year-old child.

Negro Is Found Hanged In Tree

COLUMBUS, Miss., Nov. 7.—The body of Coleman Franks, a negro, was found hanging from the limb of a tree today 15 miles northeast of here.

Officers said Franks was removed from the county convict camp last night by a band of men. The negro prisoner was held on a charge of shooting a white farmer.

Druggist of Waco Commits Suicide

WACO, Nov. 7.—J. T. Childress, 37, who was to have opened a new drug store here today, was found dead in the rear of the establishment as the hour of the opening arrived.

"This is the most cowardly trick anybody ever did," said a note addressed to his wife. Another note requested a funeral director at Carleton, Texas, be notified. A half-filled bottle of carbolic acid was found near the body. A verdict of suicide was returned.

Boy Scout Troop Organized At Caddo

A Boy Scout troop was perfected Thursday in Caddo with J. Q. Corbett being selected as chairman of the troop committee and B. Mitchell and E. Hightower members. R. C. Kelley, postmaster, was appointed scoutmaster and J. R. Coody, Jr., and Eugene Clepper as assistants scoutmasters.

The boys are enthusiastic and have been able to get a troop organized with such a good set up for leaders.

G. N. Quirl, scout executive met with the scoutmaster after the meeting, helping to outline a program and in arrange necessary details as to registering the troop with the national office. The troop is to meet on Tuesday night.

Ralph Capone Is Now In Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. Nov. 7.—Ralph Capone, brother of Al Capone, today was received at the federal prison to serve a sentence of three years for income tax evasion. His brother under an 11 year sentence on the same charge remains in jail at Chicago.

Pioneer Albany Citizen Dies Of Infected Hand

ALBANY, Texas, Nov. 7.—Infection resulting from a splinter stuck in his hand two days ago killed N. E. Price, 62, wealthy plumbing supply dealer here today.

He came here from Reidsville, N. C., in 1898, and in 1897 built the first telephone system here. It had 45 subscribers and long-distance outlets at Cisco and Hankell.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Royal Price; a son, N. R. Price Jr., of Houston, and two daughters, Mrs. Cecil Newby and Mrs. N. S. Holland, both of Breckenridge. He will be buried here Sunday after services at the Matthews Presbyterian church with J. A. Owen officiating.

Chinese Advance On Nonni Front

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 7.—A powerful Chinese force was concentrating along the Nonni river today for a renewed drive against the Japanese battalions that routed Chinese troops in a three-day battle 50 miles south of Tsitsihar.

The Japanese troops were entrenched on the river 12 miles north of Ananchai, where the Chinese retreated after their defeat. Japanese planes reported 2,000 Chinese re-enforcements arrived. Three trainloads more were en route from Harbin, using the Chinese-Russian Eastern railway for military purposes.

Man Was Slain Out of Revenge

PORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Police believed today that W. L. Ray, 42, is slain for revenge in a long-standing feud with desperate men. Ray, son of Rev. Jeff D. Ray, pastor of evangelism at the Theological Seminary here, was shot last Sunday after leaving his home to go to the filling station of which he had been manager. He was found late yesterday in a car. The father believed the slayer was his son.

Sheriff Foster Bringing In Stills

Sheriff Virge Foster brought in another moonshine liquor still from the territory northwest of Cisco Friday. This brings the total of stills taken in the last week to five.

Three New Drilling Operations Started In Eastland County

Three new drilling operations have started this week in the Eastland territory. Hart Bros. are starting a well just east of Parks camp for the Harton Gasoline company. Bill Hyer is putting down one for the Texas company on the T. Stamp farm near Cisco. Roy Arnold had been rigging up a new rig just west of Eastland on the highway.

According to the Ney family legend, the supposed execution of Marshal Ney, following the battle of Waterloo, was a fake.

CHAPTER XXII

"You shouldn't have done that," Bowen objected. "Now how'll you get home?"

"I'm not going home just yet," Mary said. "You're going back to Shay's and get what fingerprints you can. Where are the ones you got off the gun?"

"In my hotel room."

"I'll go there and wait for you. I don't feel equal to Shay's again, right now. Besides, it might be better if you went alone."

"I'll get kicked out anyway," Bowen muttered morosely. "Look," he said, "you better not do this. You better make it up with him while you can, or there's liable not to be any wedding tomorrow."

"There isn't going to be any how," Mary flamed. "Until I find out who's right. If those fingerprints tally, there won't be any, anyway, until that man's caught. One thing at a time, and that comes first with me. If they don't—if you've just been giving me a cock-and-bull story—"

"Why should I do that?"

"To get a sensational story."

"I haven't printed a line about you yet, have I?"

"Then, if that isn't the reason, Dirk said you had another," she turned several shades of pink in quick succession, but blurted it out nevertheless. "he said you were making up excuses for sticking around because—you were in love with me."

"It didn't face Bowen."

"I don't say I'm not," he gritted, looking straight ahead.

"Oh, then—"

"Every blame word I've said is the truth, and you know it," he cried bitterly. "And I'm tired of having my word doubted! I don't have to prove it. If you want to drop the matter, we'll drop it right here and now. It's entirely up to you. I hate the fly's gizzard, but I can let my feelings go. You're the one most concerned."

"Odd that it had never occurred to Dirk just that way!"

"I'm going with you!"

"Then come on."

"Bowen's hotel was just around the corner in a side street, near Sixth and Fifth Avenue. It was not fashionable but clean and warm. Bowen bought some magazines at the lobby stand, and guided Mary gingerly by an elbow into a small, rose and gold room opening off the lobby."

"An old woman in a soiled uniform cried forward."

"Hello, Kate," Bowen greeted her. "Take good care of this for me, will you? Fill I come back."

"Kate's eyes took in Mary from head to toe with cynical interest. "Shure I will," she promised, with enthusiasm. Kate had executed commissions for newspapermen before. She would soon know what this beautiful damsel in distress had been up to. Shot her lover, perhaps. Whatever it was she'd been crying about, it thrilled Kate that she should know about it before it came out in tomorrow's papers."

"Mary established herself on the shabby divan with Town and Tatle and fell to reading, more to escape the old woman's questioning than anything else. Eventually the old soul hobbled away, muttering to herself about the uppityness of some people."

"When they get you in the jug, you'll talk my fine girl," she threatened through the wall."

Mary read on, oblivious of having offended. It was rather fun making out who was meant by the people referred to in those small, scandalous paragraphs in the gossip magazine. No names were mentioned, of course, but it was usually made plain enough. This, for instance:

"Why is it that we never appreciate what we have until it is another's? What child of great wealth—a bud of three seasons ago—is making rather a fool of herself over a childhood sweetheart whose devotion she was wont to ridicule until he took unto himself a fiancée? She is said to be relying heavily on the fact that she said fiancée is involved in a messy family scandal just now, which only the immense wealth and political pull of her sponsor has succeeded in squelching."

A cold prickle began to creep over Mary, and she sat upright on the couch, realizing suddenly that it must be herself who was meant! Her eyes raced on:

"Both aspirants to the hand of the blue-blooded and personable young lawyer come to the post well equipped—the deb with this world's goods, and the fiancée with more than her share of looks. But if all Dame Rumor whispers is true, and the lucky girl's elderly sponsor makes legal and binding his promise to make her his heir, then the scales will tilt heavily in her favor, and she will be able to match her rival million for million, with a few extra for good measure."

"A curious outcome, indeed, in view of the fact that the elderly protector's own wife died under mysterious circumstances recently. But Croesus will hear no ill of his Cinderella, so they say."

Mary hurried the magazine as far as she could throw it, and took a turn around the room to cool off. The impudence of it! The cowardliness! How dare people publish nasty innuendo of that sort, and expect to escape punishment? A suit for libel would be the very least they could expect; if she were a man, if she had a father, or a brother—or, she added miserably, a fiancée! Old-fashioned horse-whipping was too good for the purveyors of such slander!

The alert Kate looked in, but without an affright before that terrible young face. Mary was still pacing restlessly about the room, from picture to picture, staring at the ugly old landscapes with unseeing eyes, spelling out artists' names with moving lips, forgetting that she was uttering them. She was determined not to give way here, in this place, and add further fuel to the scandal."

Bowen should take her home at once, and the matter would be put before Mr. Jupiter. He would know what to do. Immense wealth and political pull! Indeed! If that were so, then they should be made to feel it!

But as her anger cooled she knew with sickening certainty that instead of showing it to Mr. Jupiter, she must keep it from her. After all, was it any more than had been common talk for weeks? Everyone knew it was a scurrilous little sheet; everyone discounted its nasty little digs. She would only make matters worse if she made a row about it."

Bowen came hurrying in, his arms full of packages. In his left hand he held a whisky-bottle carefully by the neck.

"Sorry to be so long," he explained, "but I had to buy some powder and some other junk. . . . I got a pretty good thumb print, I think, but the rest are not so good . . . wanta wait here a little longer till I go up and develop that? I'll hurry."

"What's the bottle for?" Mary asked, bewildered.

"Don't touch it!" He drew it away from her pointing finger.

"It's his—the fly's. He drinks a special brand, Mike sneaked it for me while Jack's back was turned. Let me get upstairs with it, quick, before something happens to it." He was laboring under strong excitement. "Can you imagine it? I been carrying this down the street like this. Afters I wrap it up and smear the print. Wonder I wasn't pinched." He started off, and Mary followed.

"Oh, don't leave me here! One more black mark on my reputation won't hurt. I'm going up with you." In the elevator she asked bitterly, "Did you know what was in that magazine you gave me?"

"When they were out of hearing of an exotic-looking couple who went up in the elevator with them she told him. Bowen did not seem impressed."

"Oh, who reads that lousy little sheet anyway? A handful of nitwits with more money than brains, who know it anyhow, and about a million repressed schoolteachers who won't understand it after they read it. Forget it."

"Emily Ann Bayther reads it," Mary said worriedly. "I suppose she's in the midst of a pink fix by now."

"Forget it! We'll have Emily Ann begging your pardon on bend-knee before we're through."

He propped the door of his room open with a book, and laid his purchases out on the table, the precious bottle occupying an open space all its own. After that, they did not bother to talk. Bowen set to work and Mary watched, absorbed. The thumb print came up clearly, the others were, as he had said, too faint to be of much good. Presently he raised a flushed, perspiring countenance, and said dramatically, "Now!" He laid on the table the sheet of paper containing the fingerprints obtained from the gun. Beside it he placed a fingerprint chart and a magnifying glass. Occupying the place of honor stood the whisky bottle, erect, its powder-blackened sides showing a variety of fingerprints.

He bent his eye to the magnifying glass, moving it from one to the other, back and forth.

"I'm no expert," he said, at last, "but if those thumb-prints aren't identical, I'll eat 'em. I'll get an experts' opinion on it, if you want it. The boys in the identification bureau will do it for me."

"Do it, will you?" she asked eagerly. "I accept your word, but we must be absolutely certain."

"Right. Tomorrow, without fail."

Things Are Commencing to Pop!

Well, Miss Sherlock Holmes, let's shut up shop for tonight."

He removed a pile of clean shirts from a dresser drawer, laid his exhibits carefully away in the empty drawer, locked it, and they went out.

"It's only 10 o'clock," he whispered in the elevator. "You'll be home and in bed by in an hour. What could be sweeter? And don't worry, your boy-friend'll come around all right. Keep a stiff upper lip, and remember what you've got now to knock sense into him with—that whisky bottle!"

THE 1931 MODEL YOUTH
 BY HENRY COLLINS,
 Superintendent Olden Schools

Hallowe'en has come and gone, and so far as I know, nothing was damaged or even bothered in our community. From neighboring communities, I have heard a similar report. This fact is a credit to the youth of today.

Who of you cannot recall the vastly different story of other Hallowe'ens? When nothing seemed safe that was not under lock and key? When all sorts of deprecations were committed on the last night of October, people being expected to overlook anything that might have happened to their property in the way of broken windows, overturned outbuildings, destruction of gates and other things, unsightly pictures and signs painted on houses during a Hallowe'en revelry?

Such things are not funny. They never have been funny, since nothing ever is funny that damages any one. Everybody appreciates good, clean fun and our Hallowe'en parties and carnivals answer this purpose. We all welcome the change in the celebration of Hallowe'en.

We should give credit where credit is due. The boys and youth of today deserve commendation for the change in the right direction. They deserve credit in many ways.

I come in daily contact with youth of all ages. On an average, I find them healthy, wholesome, happy and full of energy which is our duty to direct in proper channels. I notice their clean sportsmanship in athletic contests, their pride in home and school, their hopes, aims and ambitions.

I notice a practical trend in their plans and aspirations. They are not merely content to be good, but rather desire to be good for something as well, as Thoreau so wisely advised years ago.

I feel that they should be praised for their high aims and ambitions. I feel that they should be praised not only for doing those things which deserve honorable mention but for refraining from doing damaging things such

Benefit Matinee Gets Canned Food

The canned goods matinee for the benefit of the Ranger Child Welfare Association at the Columbia Theatre turned out to be most satisfactory.

A large window full of canned goods, bread and potatoes was on display in the window of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce Saturday-afternoon, showing the amount of food that had been received at the show.

The matinee was given by courtesy of B. E. Garner, manager of the Columbia Theatre and the Educational Film Exchange of Dallas. All proceeds were in the form of food and were given to the Child Welfare Association.

MAVS HOLD BUCS TO A 9-6 COUNT

A crippled crew of Eastland Mavericks kicked the dope bucket all over the lot and gave the touted Breckenridge Buckaroos a pleasant thumbed nose when they held the visitors to a score of 9 to 6. Without a single streak of luck in the way of a break in their favor and with one bad error on the part of T. A. Jones they made the Bucks scrap hard for every inch with the exception of that bad four minutes in the first quarter in which the Bucks put over their only counters.

Early in the game the Bucks were held for downs on Eastland's 38 yard line and were forced to punt. The punt would have gone over the goal line but was inadvertently touched by Jones who stepped behind his line in an effort to save the count and was down there by White, accounting for 2 of the Bucks points.

They lined up for a kick off from Eastland's 20-yard line which was received by Hinrichs on Eastland's 51 yard line. Then the Bucks heavy artillery got under way for the only time in the game and Hinrichs, McFall and Estes carried it down into scoring position where it was carried over by McFall. This was the only time during the game the Bucks showed any part of their much advertised power. Hinrichs kicked goal making it 9 to 0.

In the second quarter, after playing in the Bucks territory for more than half of the period, Brown snatched a punt out of the upreaching hands of four Bucks and returned it 25 yards to the Breckenridge 12 yard line. After one incomplete pass and two unsuccessful line bucks, Burgamy heaved one into the waiting arms of L. Taylor who downed it behind the line. Smith missed the goal.

The second half presented little in the way of colorful football. Practically all of Mackall's tries at the line were for small or no gains. Burgamy was fairly successful in his fast thrusts at tackle, but the Mavericks were weakened by crippling and were not successful in making a first down in the second half. Breckenridge made nine first downs in the second half but couldn't get them close enough together to make a counter.

First downs in the game stood Breckenridge 12 and Eastland 6. The lineups were:

Eastland—Ends, Taylor and Vaughn; tackles, Fulcher and Daniels; guards, Bargeley and Heath; center, Allison; quarter, Jones; fullback, Howell; halves, Burgamy and Brown.

Breckenridge—Ends, Henry and Stutphen; tackles, Cox and Clarke; guard, White and Martin; center, Spain; fullback, Hinrichs; quarter, Pitzer; halves, Estes and McFall. Substitutes for Eastland, Barington, Smith, Myer, Taylor and Brown.

Now surgeons are seeking to conquer emotions. If his success a man might as well kiss his wife as the stenographer.

And nearly any gangster will give you a ride for your money.

Books Received At Eastland's Public Library

Following is a list of books which have been received recently at the Eastland public library:

"Shadows On the Rock," Cather; "A White Bird Flying," O. Aldrich; "Red-Headed Woman," Brust; "Fair Tomorrow," Loving; "The Story of Julian," Ertz; "The Winding Lane," Gebbs; "Rhapsody in Gold," Roche; "Belle Mere," Kerr; "Ten Commandments," Doering; "Skyscraper," Baldwin; "The Young Mrs. Mugs," Crobett; "Money Mad," Beach; "Lady Blanche Farm," Keyes; "Windy Mere," Calver; "Mexico," Chase; "Literary Guild Selection; The Autobiography of Louis Steffens."

Texas Was In the Dumps

But that was in August, with 15-cent oil, 25-cent wheat, and 5-cent cotton. Isn't it a grand and glorious feeling to know cash is now in the way from the east and Europe for 83-cent oil, wheat at twice August prices, and with Texas cotton crop worth $50,000,000 more than it was three months ago?

But Watch Her Go Now

By Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald. Golden signs of prosperity are gladdening the eye of the six million people in Texas.

There is a prosperity coming. As November was ushered in, the change in business conditions since early August brought a marvelous revival in the mental condition of the people as well as a feeling of hopefulness that the coming three months will work marvels in the volume of circulating money in Texas.

The three months from August to November was a period of low price levels for petroleum, cotton and wheat.

Higher price levels for petroleum, cotton and wheat have succeeded very low price levels. Many reasons could be given for the change.

According to statisticians and prophets there are a million barrels of oil produced daily in Texas.

Those who read know when prices were low drastic measures were adopted to save the mineral wealth of the state.

There was a tiny rivulet of prosperity crawling across the state in dull August.

Now it is a sturdy stream, growing as days go by.

Cotton is another staple product of Texas. It has played its part in world history from ancient ages to the modern days.

wealth makers of Texas producing every single Texas product at a selling price below cost of production.

This is a news story for all the people concerned in advancing price levels of the staples of Texas.

American bankers have said time and again that Texas is the brightest spot on the American map.

This price gain of $10 per bale tells its own story in the homes of the landholders who are growers of cotton.

Texas long ago abandoned the one crop poverty plan. Texas is becoming a commonwealth of diversified crops.

This stream of cash is not in Texas today in any large amount but it is coming in December and January.

While ago, will you?" he said. "I might not to have—but hell, you asked for it! And I know it doesn't make any difference to you."

"Oh, I'd forgotten all about it!" he assured him, surprised at his reception.

They stepped out into the lobby. "Hungry?" he asked. "Better have a cup of coffee before you go. You look done up. Did you eat anything at Shay's?"

"Not much," she confessed and allowed him, almost wobbling with faintness and weariness, to be grill, which was empty except for the couple they had seen in the elevator. Mary recognized him without more than a brief glance. The odor of the woman's oriental perfume was overpowering. The man with her was odd-looking, too—foreign, apparently, with of their talk as drifted to her ears was in French, and his clothes were worn, his hair thick and curling below his large black felt hat. He wore a small waxed mustache. Mary began to feel a peculiar uneasiness. She had been unconditionally in going to that room, if anyone chose to be priggish about it. She would not have given it a second thought if it had not been for these exotic-looking people. Continentals of that type always made her rush for safety to the ideals of her Puritan ancestors. She drank hot coffee gratefully. Bowen did not talk much. "I was supposed to cover a Red riot in Jersey City tonight," he observed. And added complacently, "The hell with it." After that he did not talk at all.

The couple passed out of the room just ahead of them, pausing in the doorway to kiss passionately. "Au revoir, my darling," muttered the stren, in a guttural voice with a marked accent. "Must you go?"

"I must, sweet." He tore himself from her arms, and hurried out.

Mary and Bowen made amused grimaces at each other. In the doorway they gave an exaggerated imitation of that parting—all but the kiss. And howled with laughter.

The dandified stranger, cane over his arm, small waxed mustache bristling, paced the curb impatiently as the doorman sought a cab. Mary and Bowen, waiting their turn for a taxi, watched him involuntarily. He was like something out of "La Vie Parisienne." When the cab came up, he said loudly, "Can you take me, please, to Jupiter House, at the Point, Pleasant Hills?"

Mary clutched Bowen's arm. "I knew I'd seen him somewhere! It's Bruce Jupiter, come home!" she cried.

Eastland Little Theatre Presents Show Monday

(By Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins)

"Meet the Wife" is a comedy of gorgeous amusement, says the New York Times. It will be the privilege of Eastland to see it presented by a splendid cast on Monday evening at 8:15 at the high school auditorium.

It is unusual to find a play with such outstanding character delineation. Most productions feature two or three actors who have the opportunity for fine acting in carrying out their parts. In Lynn Sterling's lines in this play each part is worthwhile and the interpretation of the eight characters will make the evening's presentation noteworthy.

CAR OWNERS DEMAND VALUES —not Claims!

TWO EXTRA CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

This patented construction of Two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread in Firestone Tires insures a stronger bond between Tread and Cord Body and greater protection against Punctures and Blowouts. This new, improved "all cord" construction maintains the old-fashioned cross-woven fabric construction used by others.

MOTORISTS are finding the Greatest Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Ever since Firestone and Firestone Dealers began advertising the true facts about tire quality and construction and actually demonstrating the Extra Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, distributors of special-brand mail-order tires have grown bolder and bolder with misleading claims and comparisons in the desperate effort to interest car-owners.

Car owners bought more Firestone Tires in May, June and July, than in any like period in history. This clearly shows that car owners are interested in Firestone Extra Values and are not interested in comparisons based on an almost obsolete tire size—confusing laboratory analyses—meaningless definitions—impractical challenges with unfair claims of twenty-five per-cent savings—and deceiving price comparisons.

Why risk a tire of unknown manufacture when you can get the Extra Quality, Extra Strength, and Extra Safety of the special patented construction features of Firestone Tires—Gum-Dipping, and Two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread?

You get these Extra Values—plus our Service and the DOUBLE GUARANTEE of Firestone and ourselves—at no more cost!
