MID-NOVEMBER DAYS HAVE A GOLDEN FRINGE.

November came in with a smile instead of a frown. Recently this newspaper carried a story with the caption: "Texas Was In the Dumps But Watch Her Go Now." Thanksgiving Day is on the way and throughout the southwest there is a golden fringe for all who are looking for the sun of prosperity. In other words rains have come and, so the story goes, prosperity is gradually sneaking up on the store house of the republic. There are many gladness signs. First came the price advances in wheat and cotton and oil, then an increase of 3.3 per cent in employment and 6.7 per cent in payrolls in many of the oil fields; employment increase of more than 2 per cent in Texas cities; a 32,000,000 pound pecan crop in Texas or two and one-half times the crop of 1930; beginning of the holiday turkey movements from Texas; inauguration of a $4,500,000 building expansion program of the University of Texas; award of contracts Nov. 30 for Texas road and bridge projects totaling $6,000,000; record made by Houston for the greatest number of bales of cotton ever in storage in any part in the world—1,638,747 bales.

Last we forget the men who built the Houston ship channel knew what they were doing.

A reporter of the Associated Press has been swinging around the southwest circle. He gathered material for a second story or rather a sequel to the Nov. 1st story of the return of prosperity to the empire which produces a large share of the wheat and oil and cotton of the nation. Indeed he says the coming of 85 cent oil 50 cent wheat and stronger cotton prices called upon business commentators to witness the first evidence of the ground swell of a new prosperity. Heavy rains swept the southwest, and the feeling was general that gains to the livestock industry and assurance to the 1932 crops had more than overcome small setbacks. He made the discovery that as fluctuating commodity prices edged upwards potential millions were added to farmer pocketbooks and that in Texas alone about 1,500,000 bales of cotton were being held on the farms for better prices.

Speaking of the upper country he found that $20,000,000 had been added to the profits of farmers by the early advance in wheat prices alone. Crude oil prices he was told means about a half million dollars more a day to Texas where the output is 900,000 barrels daily. In addition it put men back at work in the oil fields and refineries and began a reassuring flow of oil tax money into state coffers. He found cattle prospects extremely promising in Texas and the largest clip of wool and mohair in the history of the southwest. As for eggs, bringing ten and a half cents three months ago, they are selling at 17 cents a dozen in mid-November while poultry feed prices are only 48 per cent of 1928 prices and the margin of egg profit therefore is approaching the 1928 mark. There is a similar situation in butter fat. In 1928 levels it cost 26 cents in feed to produce one pound. Now it costs about 12 cents and the spread between feed costs and selling prices about the same.

Values in Texas in oil and wheat and cotton hiked more than a hundred million dollars since November came in. Why shouldn't Thanksgiving Day be given general observance and then household programs prepared everywhere in the southwest in anticipation of the coming of the Christmas holiday season.

A SENATOR WHO HOLDS BALANCE OF POWER.

Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota is said to hold the balance of power, in a voting sense. His vote may determine control of the senate organization. He moved down from Minnesota to Washington. In an important interview given to the press he declared that "the west is in a state of political and economic revolt and is looking for new leadership; that public sentiment in that part of the country is strongly in favor of enactment of new legislation along economic lines of an important and far reaching character." Senator Shipstead is not an ardent champion of the 18th amendment. He does not believe that prohibition is an important issue. His viewpoint is that the west demands lower interest rates on farm mortgages and that in order to bring such lower rates about he will propose an amendment to the banking laws when the question of banking legislation comes up in the senate.

Avowed purpose of his amendment will be to compel banks to continue their business to legitimate banking and to do away with banking affiliates. This is his dictum: "banks should not be allowed to speculate." He added that this meant they should not be allowed to speculate either in domestic securities or foreign bonds and securities.

His viewpoint is that it will be necessary to let down the tariff rates or to stop foreign loans. He declared that the west demanded and he favored lower freight rates and immediate improvement of inland waterways and that President Hoover should carry into effect his promises of 1928 with respect to inland waterway development. In a political sense Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota is the senate man of the hour. In a division on long party lines he may hold the whip hand. Now the question uppermost is of what use will he make of his whip at the crucial moment.

CHICKEN THIEF TRAP FATALY INJURIES MAN

DALLAS, Nov. 21.—Arch Sitten, recently released from the Texas penitentiary where he served a year's sentence for chicken stealing, was probably fatally injured today when dynamite set as a trap for chicken thieves exploded.

The trap exploded about daybreak on the farm of H. P. Spann. Police said Sitten attempted to enter Spann's poultry house. One of the man's legs was shattered and one had to be amputated. Spann went to the district attorney's office and told of devising the trap following raids by chicken thieves. He said he was awakened by the explosion and went to the chicken house and found Sitten sitting on the floor with dead chickens all about him.

The case on which Sitten was sentenced occurred in the same neighborhood.

YOUTH ROBS DALLAS WOMAN OF LARGE SUM

DALLAS, Nov. 21.—A roughly dressed youth of about 20 held up Mrs. M. A. Jones, cleaning plant cashier, here tonight while she was alone in the office and took a sum of money estimated at between $500 and $700.

She was awaiting arrival of truck drivers to bring in receipts at the time. She said the gunman apparently had no confederates and he escaped on foot.

He marched her into another room and rifled the cash register.

Woman Seriously Burned By Blast of Cleaning Fluid

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 21.—Mrs. L. D. Medlin was seriously burned today when a pan of gasoline she was using to clean a dress ignited and set fire to her clothing. The flames spread and wrecked the Medlin home. Mrs. Medlin ran from the house screaming for help. Her body was burned almost all over. She tried to extinguish the flames by rolling on the ground.

Deer Hunters Fail To Bag Game But Have Lots of Fun

Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, Chief of Police Jim Ingram, Pearl Cox and J. C. Smith returned to Ranger Friday night from a deer hunt in southwest Texas without a deer but with some amusing tales of their experiences.

While traveling from Laredo to San Antonio their trailer caught fire and most of their hunting clothes and ammunition was burned. The fire is thought to have started from a cigarette or match tossed from the rumble seat of the car and which landed in the trailer.

When the fire started the men stopped and tried to put it out. The cartridges stored in the trailer began to explode, one striking Jim Ingram on the jaw and another striking Pearl Cox in the region of his hip pocket. Both were slightly injured.

J. C. Smith is said to have broken all existing records for the short dashes when he fled from the scene.

After securing new supplies at San Antonio the party moved to a new location and tried their luck at deer hunting without results and they returned to Ranger empty handed as far as game is concerned, though all said they had a good trip and had a wonderful time in spite of their luck.

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

Big moments. We all like them. I had mine after the game Friday when I had the loan of an enormous automobile for a few hours. I told Dr. Carter that I had won it betting on the results of the Eastland-Cisco game. The doctor was as proud of my good fortune as if he had won the car himself. I'm sorry I lied to him about it. But it was a big moment while it lasted.

Now is as good a time as any to have something to say with reference to the too common practice of expectorating on the floors of public and private buildings. A lot of guys think that if a floor is not covered with a rug, the rug was left off purposely so they can have a place to spit. The practice is objectional and doesn't meet the approval of folks with more fastidious natures and cultural inclinations. Besides that, it's not sanitary. The janitors don't like it either. Don't do it.

Did you see that pair of drug store cowboys parading around town Friday afternoon? I thought they were silly. Wearing those loud jackets and big hats and making hilarious talk. I heard many uncomplimentary remarks about them. A close-up of them developed that it wasn't nobody but me and Sid Pitzer and so nobody paid much further attention to them.

Bobby Campbell dwells at great length on my having a full pack of cigarettes at the Breck-Abilene game. He said it was the first time he'd ever seen me with any cigarettes and the first time he ever heard of any of my family having a full pack. There's no use bringing my family into the argument. However, it is a matter of record that Bobby formed the habit while smoking cigarettes bummed from me. I raised him, you know. I'm not specially proud of the results of my years of effort in trying to encourage and inspire him and spur him on to greater effort. In fact I wore out a good pair of spurs trying to spur him into making even a weak effort. He didn't include in his story the fact that he put his pack away and smoked mine during the game.

Interesting people I've talked to recently include Mrs. Margaret Hassley, who has something to do with public health work in rural communities. She even teaches the science of handwashing in the school room. I think I'll take a course in that subject so I'll know how to use the proper nonchalance, poise and technique when I tell somebody that I will just wash my hands of the whole matter.

She has just returned from Houston where she attended a four-day conference of public health workers. Was in such a hurry to get back that she rode a plane from the Port City to Cowtown.

In ancient days they had cavalcades. Then came the motorcade. Now the healthcade. Mrs. Hassley accompanied by Dr. Dun C. Peterson and Harvey Miller have been healthleading in Callahan county this week. They teach the rural schools how to prepare hot lunches at school, how to wash hands in school and make daily physical inspection of the pupils. If you think that sounds silly, I'll add a paragraph and tell you the reason why.

A short time ago the government loaned the farmers some money. When it came due the government couldn't collect in many instances because the farmer didn't have the money to pay. The farmer said he was broke because his family had been sick and he'd been paying out his money for medicine and doctors. Then the government asked the department to investigate something couldn't be the farmer's family income so he could pay back the loaned the government. A few words is the reason health work is being done in the rural communities seems to be getting people.

Forgot to say that Mrs. Scotch. Wears a hat with no trimmings, she talks. Looks awfully while she's thinking and you right in the eye at a point. If I were a nickname for her I'd call her "Shorty."

Post Graduate AND Constant Study

After going through College, Medical School and Internship, many young Doctors further prepare themselves by going into famous Hospitals and Medical Schools, of this country and Europe. This Post Graduate work is done under famous Physicians, who have intensified their specialization, until they are the "last word" on some special operation, technique or treatment.

Even after years of practice, the progressive Physician takes time away for Post Graduate courses. The progressive Doctor is constantly studying to perfect technique and broaden his knowledge, in order to give the patient every advantage of modern science.

Rendering A Helpful Service To Our Customers----

It is the aim and desire of this Company to render a helpful service to its customers 365 days in the year—and with the coming of cold weather and the use of more gas, we want to stress this service because it will mean more to you.

We do not consider our duties fulfilled when we deliver a sufficient quantity of gas to your meter even in the severest weather. We want to see that you get the best results from the amount of gas burned. While there are a number of things you can do to aid in getting the best results—such as seeing that heaters are cleaned, that connections do not leak, that stoves are not burned when not needed—the most important thing is to have appliances properly adjusted. There is where we can render a helpful service. We will gladly have a man call and make these adjustments. There is no charge for this service.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

With BILL MAYES

We are getting along toward that time of year when a comparison of scores might mean more than it would in pre-season games, and while we do not take much stock in such matters we must admit that they have a little bearing on strength of teams. There are, however, times when teams play phenomenal football and play out of the class to which they should be expected to remain, but these are exceptions.

And with this thought in mind we might do some comparing right now.

Breckenridge lost to Cisco by a score of 12 to 7, or five points. Cisco and Ranger tied, 13-all, indicating that Ranger is at least five points better than Breckenridge. Breckenridge beat Eastland 9 to 6 or three points, while Ranger defeated the same team by a 13-point margin, which would indicate that Ranger was still better than the Buckaroos, this time by a 11-point margin. Abilene beat Breckenridge 20 points and defeated Ranger by 14, another six-point advantage for the Bulldogs. The only game in which the Buckaroos appear to have an advantage was in the 34 to 0 defeat of Brownwood's Lions by the Breckenridge crew while Ranger defeated them this past Friday by 21 points.

As Cisco and Abilene are district championship contenders, it might be interesting to compare their records, also. Abilene defeated Ranger 13 points with Cisco drawing a tie which gives Abilene a 14-point lead in the comparisons. Cisco defeated Breckenridge by five points, Abilene by 20. Cisco won from Eastland by six points, Abilene by 21; Cisco won from Colorado by 45 points, Abilene won by a 73-point margin; Cisco and Abilene about broke even on the Brownwood game, Cisco winning 32 to 0, Abilene winning 23 to 6. Incidentally Brownwood is the only team in the Oil Belt to score on the Abilene Eagles to date, although she has not won a game.

Like Bloddy Cross of San Angelo, we make our predictions in such a way that no matter how the game comes out we can sit back and say that we are right. We did not predict the outcome of the Eastland-Cisco game, but we did say that Cisco should not win by

BULLDOGS HAVE EASY WIN OVER LIONS 21 TO 0

Before probably the smallest crowd to witness an Oil Belt football game saw Ranger's Bulldogs walk away with an easy victory over the Brownwood Lions Friday afternoon at Brownwood. The final score was 21 to 0.

Probably no game in the Oil Belt this year has had less interest from the fans than the Brownwood game, because with the showing made previously by the Lions, everyone considered an easy victory in store for the Bulldogs and did not expect much of a scrap. As usual, Brownwood let the Lions play without the support of the football fans, who save their enthusiasm for the Howard Payne and Daniel Baker games.

The two teams played scoreless football throughout the first quarter and in the second quarter opened up their aerial attack enough to gather in two touchdowns, both on passes from Weaver to Stevens.

The third touchdown was made by T. L. Jones, plunging fullback, who alternates at tackle on the defense. His afternoon center for a touchdown was for 58 yards and after Captain Bob King kicked his third straight goal for point after touchdown, the activities of the afternoon were completed.

King and Stevens at ends strayed as usual with Jones and Gray doing the most spectacular work in the backfield for the Bulldogs.

any large score. The margin was not very large, but quite adequate.

Secretly we make guesses on the scores. For a while we did confide in our wife, but after a few good long raspberry sessions after the games we decided to quit that and do all our outright guessing after the game is over.

If anyone is interested on Nov. 27 we will venture a guess on the outcome of the Breckenridge-Ranger game. And following our usual conservative estimations we will say that Ranger should defeat the Buckaroos if the Buckies do not go haywire and win from the Bulldogs. Which is a nice two-way guess as anyone can see.

But since this is the last game of the season and we have not gone wrong in predicting games in this column, mainly because we have not predicted, we don't feel that it would be so bad to miss one guess out of the whole season, so we will say that to us it seems Ranger should win by two touchdowns.

This morning in receipt of a circular this article that has a big line in black-face type which reads, "A HOME-OWNED STORE," and we notice that the printing was done out of town.

We can't for the life of us see how any merchant can try to capitalize on the fact that he is a home-owned store and try to make the people trade with him because he is a home-town man and then turn around and spend HIS money out of town.

If his customers would practice the same principles he is practicing he would go out of business in very short order and yet he pleads with the people to trade with him because his store is home-owned—in other words, trade at home—and then he goes out of town to buy his printing.

LOBOES HOLD 13 YEAR REIGN OVER EASTLAND

By GUS COLEMAN.

The Cisco Loboos still hold their 13-year reign of prowess over the Eastland Mavericks. The Hightower-to-Ray pass clicked the necessary one time in giving the victors a 6-0 score.

A Maverick team that looked as if it might be badly outclassed suddenly pulled itself together, took stock of the situation and carried the fight to the Loboos for the balance of the game. It was anybody's ball game until the last second of play and the mere fact that Cisco had a six-point lead didn't keep them from trying to increase it and they used every trick in the bag. Concurrently, the Mavericks were showing their wares, even resorting to the time-honored Statue of Liberty play.

Eastland penetrated the Cisco 20-yard zone more times than Cisco was in Eastland's, but the Mavericks lacked the scoring punch to put the ball over the goal line. The majority of the game was played with Cisco on the defense, in their own territory and it was a bewildered bunch of Loboos who couldn't seem to understand the attitude of the Mavericks who were taking it turn about in tearing up Cisco's offensive plays. Not a man on the Eastland lineup but what was proving a thorn in the side of his individual opponent besides throwing in an extra piece of blocking or tackling for good measure.

The game got under way with Eastland kicking to Cisco. Jeffrey received on his own 10 and returned 24 yards to his own 24. A line plunge was a fizzle and then Ray got away for a 20-yard gain and looked as if he were gone for a touchdown when Roy Brown toppled him. The spirits of the Eastland rooters sank at this point for it looked like an easy victory for the victors.

But Captain Lee Taylor of the Mavericks stroked his head and reminded his linemen that it was decidedly not the opportune moment for Cisco to start a scoring drive and that such a thing as goalward march by the Loboos was unthinkable at that early stage of the game. Whereupon Fuleher took his captain's urging seriously and broke through and caught Mr. Jeffrey in the very set of starting one of those trick upon plays. Daniels was not to be outdone and on the next play he went visiting behind the Cisco side of the line of scrimmage and surprised Hightower for no gain.

These unannounced visits of the Mavericks across the battle front had a two-fold effect. It perturbed the Loboos while giving the Mavericks confidence. Willard Vaughn and Lee Taylor were playing havoc with the Cisco interference. Bursley, Allison and Smith were moving in and making the center section of the line appear to the Loboos as if it was barbed wire entanglements. Consternation reigned in the camp of Coach Jefferies. Here were the Loboos considering themselves seriously for the district championship and being played off their feet by a tail-end club. And what a tail-end club it was out there Friday.

Hightower was planned to use his unique ability at being two places at once and contemplating blocking out a tackler while he threw himself a pass 30 yards downfield. Burt Smith startled him out of his wits and he dropped the ball and Daniels recovered. Hard luck stopped in when Allison made the only bad pass he has made this season and the ball went over Bursley's head. Incidentally only a foot was needed to make a first down and the ball went to Cisco in about midfield.

The Loboos made their lone touchdown in the second quarter after receiving a punt on their own 22-yard line. A pass to Blackburn made five yards and Caffrey made it first down with an off-kick thrust. Despite the rushing by Captain Lee Taylor, the ubiquitous Hightower, the two-town terror from Tyler completed a few passes for short gains and finally caught Ray with his back turned and threw it to him. When Hightower passes to Ray's back it's a touchdown, for Ray invariably turns around just in time to receive the pass and is soon bound for the promised land. The attempt to place-kick for point after touchdown was blocked by a wave of stampeding Mavericks.

The Eastland fans got their money's worth when the home team took a punt about midfield and marched down to the five-yard line without a halt. Bursley was the principal ground gainer in the drive but was assisted by Ed Mackall who turned in his best game of the year and hit the Cisco line to pick up a goodly amount of yardage. Myers carried the ball once and picked up two yards. But when they got close to the goal line they put everything they had into their scoring efforts but the Cisco defense was too tough and the rally failed its purpose.

Among the noticeable breaks was the pass intercepted by Roy Brown with a fair chance to get away, when an Eastland player fell in front of him. It all happened so quickly that the Maverick didn't have a chance to control his direction.

Then there was the 54-yard punt against the wind by Daniels when the ball was on the Maverick one-foot line. Daniels' placing of his punts had a lot to do with keeping the Loboos out of Eastland territory.

The ability of Little to stay on his feet was a marvel to the crowd. Only once during the game did any part of his clothing except his shoes touch the ground. He is the all-district selection for scouting across the field and running out of bounds.

Willie Taylor got in for a few minutes and made a nice tackle to stop Hightower. E. Brown had his

Texan is Proud of University Song

By United Press.

AUSTIN.—It was just 28 years ago that J. R. Cannon, Amarillo business man, first sang "The Eyes of Texas," the alma mater song of the University of Texas.

Today the song has achieved nation-wide renown and is accepted by many as the official song of the State of Texas.

Cannon likes to recall how the song came to be written. Dr. Lambdin Prather, university president in 1903, had the habit of using the phrase, "the eyes of Texas are upon you," whenever he addressed the student body.

Cannon and three other students who prided themselves on their close harmony devised words and set them to the tune of "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

chance to be the hero when Burgamy threw him a pass but the smaller Brown just couldn't get his hands on it.

The Mavericks get a short week's rest now, going to Brownwood Thursday for the closing game of the season. Cisco meets Abilene for the district championship at Abilene on the following day.

Gems of Peril

HAZEL ROSS HAILEY
DRESS BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mary Harkness plots to ensnare the Fly, who she believes 'framed' her brother, Eddie, with the murder of old Mrs. Jupiter, and her ruffian father, who killed him. She is aided by Bowen of the Star. Mary's fiance, Dirk Ruyter, believes Eddie guilty, as do police, who drop the case.

Bruce Jupiter, long absent, returns from Europe with a woman friend, the actress, who seduces him and makes Mary his heir. Bruce returns, vowing to rout Mary, who he thinks is a gold-digger.

Dirk forbids Mary to see Bowen or continue the investigation. He says if she goes to Miami on the Jupiter, he'll follow her, and he'll believe Bruce's charges. Mary goes because Bowen tells her the Fly may be at Hialeah when his horse runs. Dirk shows attention to his former sweetheart, Cornelia Taber.

Mary is introduced to Count De Loma, De Loma is listed as owner of the Fly's horse. She sees De Loma and Countess Louise, Bruce's friend, in secret conversation. She also learns that Mr. Jupiter has a car of the same make as that which the murderer used in his get-away, which later killed Mrs. Jupiter. Mr. Jupiter explains the car was bought for experimental purposes in his business.

Bowen overhears Bruce and Louise quarrel because she cannot explain where she got a diamond bracelet. Louise says she loaned Mary money and had the bracelet as security. Bruce thinks it was De Loma who gave Louise the bracelet.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV

Mary dropped the Countess' arm, which the bracelet hit, and went wondering to the door. Bruce stood outside. He seemed surprised to see Louise, but came in at Mary's invitation, stopping just within the door. His indifference, reported by Bowen, was a mask, Harry says. Louise, like as she had for the wilful, selfish young man, she could not help a feeling of shame for her sex at seeing him made to suffer so at the hands of a woman of Louise's sort.

He came forward with head lowered, eyes searching the faces of the two women. "I wish to ask some questions," he said deliberately. "Louise tells me you are in need of money?" He looked at Mary as he spoke.

"But why? How does that concern you?" "Never mind. It's how your bracelet?" He pointed. Mary did not even turn her head to look.

"Of course," she said impatiently. Bruce started at the faintly, then at the faintly. Louise, who had been at this unexpected corroboration of her lie. Without wasting a glance on her, Mary advanced on Bruce, taking advantage of his momentary confusion. It was not the answer he had expected. That was clear.

"Why are you interested in my affairs suddenly?" she asked. "Really, I should have thought you would be glad to hear of my financial embarrassment."

"You really do borrow from Louise?" she asked stupidly. "Why shouldn't I?" Mary cried in an exasperated tone. "She had luck yesterday. I hadn't. If she is willing to share with me—"

Bruce stared—then laughed. "The tension that had held them taut as a spring, when he came in was broken by that laugh. Something indefinably threatening went out of the air.

"You women!" he said. "You beat me. I would have believed anyone who told me you'd sprung at each other's throats, but that you'd actually help each other out."

He paused—quick suspicion in his eyes. Mary and the Countess exchanged a slow look which they less as possible. "Wait a minute," Bruce said. "Perhaps I've swallowed this a little too readily. Perhaps you have had time to arrange this before I came in. Miss Harkness is merely backing up your story when the truth is—quite different, perhaps?"

Bruce's eyes probed the Countess', who flushed. "That's enough!" Mary answered, angrily. "Leave my room, please!"

"Presently. But first" his voice was like the crack of a whip—"if that is Miss Harkness' bracelet, give it to her!"

Louise stood up, breathing hard. There was veiled appeal in the look she threw at Mary. Mary held out her hand, smiling wryly, as if to say, "Oh, humor him. What does it matter?"

Reassured by that interchange of glances, the Countess now did her part as well or better than Mary had done hers. Regally, she slipped off the diamond circlet and laid it in the girl's hand.

"But naturally," she said calmly, giving her a friendly smile. "I trust you."

DIRTY WATER COSTS CITY OF DETROIT $400 A DAY
By United Press. DETROIT, Mich.—Muddy water, caused by government dredging in Lake St. Clair, is costing the city of Detroit $400 a day, according to Alex Dow, president of the Detroit Edison company. Chemicals necessary to purify the water are the principal expense. The water is from six to 10 times dirtier than normal, he declares.

ma yelled something back—I didn't catch what. As he just stood there, shaking all over. And he was green in the face that time—his eyes all but popping out of his head.

"He looked at the license plate, and when he saw the number he just stood as if glued. A noise was standing by the curb, and he asks him, 'Whose car is that?' like the native ought to know and if he didn't tell he'd shake it out of him. But the guy just shook his head easy-like. And De Loma went into a drug store quick and I went to the barbershop next door and watched till he came out. He went over to his car, parked along the courthouse curb—one of those 'Drive It Yourself' buses and got in and set out for town.

"I asked the drug store, and asked the soda-fountain boy and him—if he did any telephoning and so on. But the boy said no, all he asked for was a bromo seltzer, double strength. But a funny thing had happened, he said.

"There was a big clean spacy square, on the west side, where some kind of picture must have hung until very recently. The nail was still there. 'He pulled that picture down and tore it up in a thousand pieces,' the boy told me. He was worried, the fear his boss was getting to be sore. Seems he was proud of that picture—it was some guy he knew that had since got famous.

"He's framed this picture to keep it nice because he was especially proud of it. That was what the man in the picture was born there, in the village, and he knew him since he was a boy."

Bates paused thoughtfully and put a hand in the baggy pocket of his linen coat.

"I asked the boy who it was, but he didn't know. He was just a young punk, the clerk. He didn't remember anything about it. But he told me I could look in the back room where he'd thrown the pieces and maybe I could put them together again."

Out of the pocket Bates now lifted a newspaper parcel. Inside were hundreds of small bits of cardboard, the torn fragments of the picture De Loma had demolished. Bates balanced the odd package on his open palm. Mary and Mr. Jupiter stared at the heap, fascinated.

"What could it be?" Mary whispered. "That," said Henry Bates, carefully folding his parcel together again, "is what I am going to spend the next couple of hours finding out."

"I sat down on the court house lawn for a minute to cool off. I guess I kinda fussed off, with my hat shading my eyes, but pretty soon I saw out of the tail of my eye a man standing a few feet away, staring up at the court house steeple! It was De Loma. I couldn't believe my eyes. What was he doing out there? And staring like he'd never seen a building before! Well, that's a famous old court house, but it wasn't that kind of a stare. You know what I mean? He looked all greeny around the gills, like he was fascinated by it—and scared, too, maybe. I never saw just the same look on a man's face before in my life. No, sir, I never!

"Says I to myself, oh ho! something's p. I kept my eye on him, though he couldn't see me—leastways not my face. Pretty soon he turned around like a man in a trance and walked away with his head down, not looking where he was going."

"I sat up and watched him. And then, as he was crossing the middle of the street, down the road driving hell-bent for election like he always does, came your chauffeur, Tom, in that big Lorimar car. Special Notice

The management of the Columbia Theatre is proud to be able to present this picture, and we hereby go on record as giving it our highest endorsement.

In fact, it is our sincere belief that it is one of the best pictures from the standpoint of down-right ENTERTAINMENT that we have presented in many, many weeks.

"WATERLOO BRIDGE"

Life hadn't been kind to Mrs. ... kisses the thought given in her ... to ashes on her lips ... arms ... to protect her only crushed and ... behind her a parade of ... men who fought—and passed on ... character as fearful ... as lovable ... as beautiful ... as Mrs. Not in ... there has been such perfect ... acting as that of Mae Clarke in ... Presbyterian Ladies Auxiliary to Meet

The ladies Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church will meet on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. C. E. Maddocks.

Merriman Parent-Teachers Association Enjoy Thanksgiving Program

The Merriman Parent-Teachers Association was entertained at the regular meeting Friday afternoon by the pupils of Merriman school. A very interesting Thanksgiving program was rendered. The rhythm band and the harmonica band entertained with some very appropriate numbers. The school as a group sang a number of Thanksgiving songs. Readings were well recited by a number of children, and two of the pupils gave piano solos.

The program was enjoyed by all members present.

After the program the business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Richmond.

As last week was National Book Week, a short talk was given on "The Influence of Good Books on the Lives of Boys and Girls," by Miss Doris Mitchell.

Those present for the meeting were: Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hood, Mrs. Snelling, Mrs. Rex, Mrs. Richmond, Mrs. Brewer, Mrs. Weekes, Mrs. Ramsey, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Smith, Miss Doris Mitchell, and visitors, Miss Delva Dixon, Miss Inez Davenport, and Mrs. Dixon.

Federation and Bible Day Proves Interesting Topic For Meeting of 1920 Club

Members of the 1920 Club met in the green room of the Gibson hotel Thursday afternoon for the rendition of the fourth program of the season, interestingly given under the leadership of Mrs. Lindsey.

Federation Day and Bible Day proved highly valuable for the topic of the hour. The following thought was impressively carried out in the numbers composing the program: "There is a great need for leadership and leadership is a tender plant, easily destroyed."

Bible study was read by Mrs. Maddocks followed with current events by Mrs. Leslie Haggaman. Gleanings from the state convention recently held at Lubbock was given in the unusually instructive manner of Mrs. M. H. Haggaman.

The hour was well attended with the next meeting to be held Dec. 7 at which time Mrs. O. L. Phillips will be in charge of the program on Oliver Goldsmith.

Mrs. Hammell Leads Program On Character Training

Child Study Club No. 2 met at the home of Mrs. B. S. Lemma Thursday afternoon for the program led by Mrs. C. A. Hammell on "Character Training." The hour was opened with the paper, "The Home as a Factor in Child Training," read by Mrs. Parsons. "The Home and the Family" was interestingly given by Mrs. Rhoads. A thorough report was given by the delegates, Mrs. Ament, and Mrs. J. K. Pevchouse of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers association convention held in San Antonio last week.

One new member was welcomed into the club, Mrs. W. Clark.

Mrs. Pevchouse and Mrs. Ament reported one of the most successful and enjoyable conventions ever to have been held.

At the close of the lesson a plate of sandwiches, olives, pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream and coffee was passed to the following study group, Mrs. C. A. Hammell, Saule Perlestein, George Rhoads, Onis Littlefield, W. E. Ament, F. E. Jacobs, Bob Smith, George Parsons, V. W. Welter, H. Stein, John North, W. Clark and Elmer Rogers.
