BUSINESS IN THE SOUTHWEST ON UPSWING.

Business in the southwest is on the upswing. This is the verdict of Walter F. Shaw, prominent in the National Lumbermen's association. He declared that all business in the southwest, including the lumber industry, is on the threshold of immediate recovery. This, he said, has been brought about by the action of the government in taking emergency steps to obtain nation-wide credit relief. This is his conclusion: "Fear, working in a vicious circle, has paralyzed all business. Confidence caused by easy credit will again destroy the fear and act as a stimulant to business. Acting as a physician, the government has diagnosed the ill as a congestion of credit, and has prescribed its credit corporations as the cure." Governor Ross S. Sterling named a committee to journey to Washington to contact with the Dawes commission. In signing the bill, President Hoover interpreted its purposes or aims and intents for the American people. Texas ranks fifth in the list of American states in point of wealth and population. It is first among the agricultural states, first as a petroleum and gas state; in exports it ranks second with New York first, in all the products of the ranch and the farm and the orchard and garden it is easily a leader. Governor Sterling's committee has important work cut out for it. It was said that the Dawes corporation board would begin to function Feb. 3. There should be no delay. Texas should make a request for at least $100,000,000 to thaw out "congested credit" and place all the industries on a going basis. This was the pledge of the president when he signed the bill.
