LINDBERGH'S AGREE TO PAY RANSOM

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

This morning we were called to the telephone and a voice that sounded suspiciously like C. S. Lemma's asked, "Did you come down town last night?"

"We certainly did," we answered, and before we could ask any questions the party had hung up the receiver. Now we will ask you the same question:

"Did you come down town last night?"

Well, if you did, you probably noticed all the nice new lights on the derrick at the foot of Main street. And did they look fine?

For a while everyone had become so accustomed to seeing the derrick that few noticed that about half the lights were missing. Then we jumped all over someone without knowing just who—but we imagined it was the Chamber of Commerce because they took charge of bracing the derrick once when it was getting a bit wobbly.

Anyway, the derrick is all lighted up like a church on prayer meeting night and looks 100 per cent better than it did a few days ago. Thanks are due to Mr. Lemma, if it was Mr. Lemma who did the job, and the people of Ranger can once more point to our landmark with pride. And either we had never seen the derrick fully lighted or we have forgotten how it looked or something, because it looks much better than we thought it would.

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 4.—Protection and a $50,000 ransom in cash were promised the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. today if they will return the child to its grieving parents.

Assurance the law will not seek to penalize them came from the county prosecutor, E. E. Marshall, only a short time after the parents, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, had sent out a broken-hearted appeal to the educators to surrender the fair-haired baby—the abduction a cow's term.

NEEDLESS ALARM

Now and then someone comments on the fact that when famous women of the year are chosen by various periodicals and organizations the group is always composed of women whose activities have not been confined to their homes. That special prominence seems reserved for women who have achieved success in some field which has little to do with bruised knees and jelly tarts and round red mouths that whisper children's funny little secrets.

Of course the natural answer is that women whose achievements are known to a larger group are the ones who are chosen. But the fact that this is true in no wise diminishes the work of those who make a home from a house of rooms and plant love and laughter and sympathy in children's hearts.

The very fact that the graciousness of homemaking is taken as a matter of course shows that the foundation of our nation is built on solid rock. If such a trust were played off up as something unusual there would be cause for danger. Story-hours at candle-lighting time, lullabies crooned with lips close-pressed against sleepy, curly heads, rhymed voices that chant the old Now-I-Lay-Me-Down-to-Sleep... these are cornerstones of American home life.

If it were an unusual thing for a woman to like the syrupy smell of boiling fruit that will make jam for her children's sandwiches, if it were strange for her to glory in the clean, crisp touch of white sheets, the cups and saucers that stand in bright rows in her cupboard—if women didn't love hearthfires, then there would be cause for serious alarm.

It is only right and natural for some women to go into the world and toil. There are tasks for them to do. And many of them keep homes as well.

But the vast majority keep faith at hearthside. A woman's greatest pleasure consists now, as always, in telling the man she loves that it isn't his fault that he hasn't won the laurels that he deserves... and in telling a little boy, who looks like his father, that of course he will win them some day.

Those who are afraid that the modern woman—as women whose working hours are spent outside of their homes are sometimes called—has changed are doing much useless worrying. If the modern business woman were asked, and answered truthfully, it would be discovered that she is pretty closely related to her home-keeping sisters.

THE JAPANESE ARMY

The Japanese army in China seems to be very much like any other army, offhand. Its organization is about the same, its arms are the same, and it follows the same kind of strategy and tactics that European and American armies use.

But once in a while a little news dispatch will reveal the Japanese soldier as a creature of a different species; a hold-over, as it were, from a warlike age which seems to survive nowhere else on earth.

A few days ago dispatches from Shanghai said that the Japanese commander there found himself without sufficient troops to make his offensive succeed. Any European or American general in that position would have cabled for more men, and would have kept on cabling until he got action.

But the Japanese commander never let out a peep. Why? Because the old code of the Samurai forbade him to. His emperor had given him this assignment, and he would be unworthy if, having begun it, he appealed for help.

A day or so later that bit of news came a cable to the New York Times telling how three Japanese infantrymen had sacrificed themselves to destroy a barbed-wire barrier that was holding up their battalion.

They strapped about their chests and waists huge quantities of high explosives, and then ran forward boldly and entangled themselves in the barbed wire. The Chinese instantly shot them, the bullets touched off the explosives, and the wire entanglements were blown to bits—as, of course, were the three Japanese infantrymen.

These soldiers, by the way, had volunteered for that job.

It is hard to imagine either of these incidents happening in a present-day European or American army. We on this side of the Pacific simply don't think that way any longer. The attitude that makes such quixotic bits of old-time chivalry possible stems from the middle ages. We have gone beyond it.

But Japan is still half medieval. The old warrior caste there still looks on life as it did ten centuries ago. The present war, indeed, may prove its last fight; but while it lasts a code that the rest of us lost long ago is still operating.

RAINEY SAYS LUXURIES MUST PAY

Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, the minority leader of the house and the head of the committee that must provide revenue for the government, has taken the public into his confidence. A two per cent manufacturers' sale tax will be adopted in preference to a 5 per cent tax on automobiles, radios and phonographs. His sale tax bill will be broad.

There will be few industries exempted, among them raw foodstuffs, fertilizer and seed and other "necessities." Processed foodstuffs in many forms will bear the tax, along with foods classed as luxury. He promises the simplest tax bill ever presented. He expects to raise $600,000,000 through the sales tax and then Rainey and his fellow democrats must raise $200,000,000 additional or $800,000,000 in all. He admits that the committee may have to turn to the proposed one cent gallon tax on gasoline. Control carries with it responsibility. It goes without saying that a democratic tax bill carrying the sanction of the speaker and the majority leader and the democratic controlled revenue committee may work so disadvantageously and disastrously that the back of the donkey may be broken long before the coming of the ides of November.

Dr. T. Ernest Newland of Bucknell University figures that adults visit 350 per cent worse than children in elementary schools.

Have you planted that tree yet? More than 10,000 seedling trees will be planted in the public parks in Kansas City during the year as a part of the national observance.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

AUSTIN—A means of saving teachers from having to discount their pay warrants has been proposed in State Supt. S. M. N. Marr's platform for re-election.

Mr. Marr would have the legislature pass laws to make the school apportionment available during the first three months of the term.

Among other school measures he favors is shifting school taxes to sources other than property, and the repeal of school certificate laws and putting control of certification in the hands of the state board.

Walter E. Gates March 15 will become attorney and general manager of the new Common Carrier Freight association of Texas, after two years' work as attorney for the state motor transportation division. His experience with the commission will make him a valuable representative of the Common Carrier group in dealing with the administrative branch of the government on matters similar to those he has handled for the commission.

Under martial law, allowable production of oil in East Texas has consistently been reduced to the steady discouragement of new drilling. The railroad commission, after March 16, will resume the field allowable basis, so that when one man drills a well he will fractionally cut down the allowable of all other wells, and increase his own total output. The other operators' allowable production should not depend on current drilling of any producer.

However, little encouragement there will be for new drilling, it contains at least one more factor than the present. . . . And under the new ruling, one day a man can produce say 73 barrels, and next day he can produce only 71 from a well. . . . It seems unnecessarily confusing; and it doesn't seem

Hard Luck for Harvey

GOOD Old Charley Jiminey-Ginger-Crickets Harvey still is being chased up and down the land by Lady Worse Luck. If the latest tidings from Los Angeles are correct, but Charley won a decision over The Lady in that city—a decision plus a necktie. Good Old Charley, a kindly, honest little gentleman who for years persisted in the costly effort of importing British boxers, went to the coast recently with his two fighters, Steve Hamas and Tom Heeney. Steve took up Armand Emanuel in Los Angeles; Good Old Tommas was beaten by Max Baer in San Francisco.

Visitors in the Night

AFTER the Hamas-Emanuel bout Good Old Charley was called in to receive his pay. He was asked if he preferred cash or check. Having had several banks explode right before his very eyes, Charley decided on cash. He was handed $1000 in bills and went back to the hotel—where two robbers invaded his room in the night.

Charley, not being one to accept a holdup nonchalantly, resisted the pair physically and vocally, even though one of the rascals held a blue-eyed automatic. Just as Charley was starting to weaken, Steve Hamas came to the rescue, beat off the burglars and saved the scratch.

For once Harvey, though beaten by the two men in the scuffle, was on the lucky side, for he came out with one of the robbers' neckties, snatched in the heat of combat. But Charley has suffered.

He suffered setback after setback with his British boxers. One after another they came to Harvey upon reaching America—and one after another they flopped, leaving Charley holding the bag, empty.

Heeney Seemed to Have It

WHEN he took over the management of Tom Heeney, some years ago, he was just recovering from an automobile accident that almost cost his life. It seemed he would get a break at last with Heeney, who appeared to be a pretty good fighting man when he arrived from Down Under. Tex Rickard, however, was unwilling to sign Heeney for a big shot. Other promoters laughed at Charley and his Tommas.

But the plodding Heeney beat Paulino, Risko and Delaney and knocked out Jim Maloney in a round, and Charley demanded a chance at the title. Rickard didn't think the bout would draw, since Heeney and Sharkey had put up a rather painful 19-round draw.

But Charley went to Florida, where he poured his plea for Heeney into Gene Tunney's ears. Tunney practically forced the Garden to match him with Heeney. The Garden lost $200,000 on the bout. Charley and Tommas pocketed what was left of their $100,000 share after expenses had been taken out.

Necktie Market Dull

CHARLEY lost a great deal of money during the depression. But he bobbed up again with Steve Hamas, the young collegian with a sensational knockout record. He has been bringing Steve along carefully, picking nice spots in which to drop him.

The best spot in which Steve ever dropped, though, was in that hotel room. Otherwise he would have fought Emanuel for a part interest in a torn necktie.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Organized pressure and propaganda from billions of dollars in big business bears down upon the sweating small group of mere $10,000-a-year congressmen who are struggling with a tax program to raise $1,249,000,000 in new taxes necessary to balance the national budget.

From every congressional district comes a swarm of protesting telegrams, protests carefully organized and planted by the huge industries likely to be touched by the new imposts which must be made to meet the great, grim deficit in the treasury.

Acting Chairman Charlie Crisp of the House Ways and Means Committee, who has urged all members to "grit themselves with stamina and backbone" to meet the emergency regardless of pressure and propaganda, has produced direct evidence to the House that the protests are not spontaneous from their districts but carefully planned and organized. Consumers will pay the taxes, but they are unusually silent.

Warned of "Perils"

THE American Petroleum Institute, he showed, had circulated the oil-gasoline trade, warning of the peril of a federal tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline and promising that on a certain date "local agents of a telegraph company will call upon you and upon marketers and consumers in every state to receive telegrams addressed to those who represent you in Congress and opposing this federal tax on gasoline."

All marketers were urged to persuade salesmen, agents, dealers, customers, friends and business acquaintances to wire Congress and to stir up state officials and various organizations to protest.

Such tactics are often used when the interests of large industries are likely to be affected by legislation. They accompany personal lobbying here and use of such high priced, plausible corporation lawyers as opposed the

Agree on Budget, Fight Tax

OF 177 witnesses before us," Crisp says, "all but three or four agreed the budget must be balanced. But not one favored a tax in connection with his own field. They nearly all argued that it would put them out of business."

"In one day I received 135 telegrams protesting a tobacco tax, from all parts of the country. So many were identical in wording that I knew someone had sent out form messages ready to be signed and put on the wire."

"In such cases I answer those from my own state, explaining the problem and the proposition and saying that I will be glad to hear again from them after they read what I have to say."

"Few participating in this inspired propaganda know what it's all about. They merely follow instructions from headquarters of big special interests or trade associations in New York. Even most of the bankers who opposed parts of the Glass-Steagall bill didn't know anything about the bill."

Organize for Tax Battles

THE automobile manufacturers have rigged up a mass protest against an automobile tax through their dealers. The big banks in New York have stirred up their correspondent banks everywhere against the stamp tax on bank checks.

"The electric energy interests have gone after us through local companies and plants. The organized amusement industry has the theaters protest an admission tax."

"Everybody has the right of petition, and I always like to get the informed opinion of a constituent. But this obvious paid propaganda through use of form protests is something else. All we can hope is that congressmen will use their courage and their brains."

 present, but we saw some pretty good football.

Along about the third quarter a pass, Lyon to Rankin, who is a new-comer and looks like he will make a find end, netted a touchdown from around the 50-yard line. It was as pretty a pass and reception of a pass as we have seen in some time, and it looks as though Coach Curtis has taken care of one end in good style. Rankin, so we are told, is about six feet tall, weighs about 180, and came up from grammar school this year.

Cole, Lyon, Gray and Anderson showed up well in the backfield on both the offense and defense and we predict that Bray at center is going to be one of the mainstays of the line. He will have good guards and tackles to help him "hold that line" and at least one end will be up to standard, which leaves little to worry about for next year. If we were not mistaken in picking them out in their unnumbered sweat shirts and at a distance, it looks to us like Adkins, Cole, Love, Rankin, Bray and a couple of others we couldn't identify will be taking care of regular assignments when the season opens.

The football season will open late this year, as there is a ruling that any team cannot play until the last Friday in September. A game has been matched for the next day with Amarillo, at Amarillo, so it will be at least the first week in October before they will be able to get in action on the home grounds.

They've Never Tasted a Tonic!

THESE are not patent medicine children. Their appetite needs no coaxing. Their tongues are never coated, cheeks never pale. And their bowels move just like clockwork, because they have never been given a habit-forming laxative.

You can have children like this—and be healthy yourself—if you follow the advice of a famous family physician. Stimulate the vital organs. The strongest of them need help at times. If they don't get it, they grow sluggish. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is a mild, safe stimulant.

When a youngster doesn't do well at school, it may be the liver that's lary. Often the bowels hold enough poisonous waste to dull the senses! A spoonful of delicious syrup pepsin once or twice a week will avoid all this. It contains fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin, and does a world of good to any system—young or old. You can always get this fine prescriptive preparation at any drug store. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and protect your family from those bilious days, frequent sick spells and colds. Keep a bottle in the medicine chest instead of cathartics that so often bring on chronic constipation. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin can always be employed to give clogged bowels a thorough cleansing, with none of that painful griping, or burning feeling afterward. It isn't expensive.

State Files Nearly 60 Suits Against Mutual Companies

AUSTIN—In an effort to stamp out fraud and swindles parading under the name of mutual insurance companies and benefit societies, the state has filed nearly 60 suits in the last six months, according to Attorney General James V. Allred's office reveal.

Varied schemes have been used by "wildcatting" insurance companies to milk the public of Texas of approximately $1,000,000 annually. Soft-spoken salesmen were sent out by one company to secure membership in a society urging pensions for old people of the state. Membership fees of 25 cents were put into a "lobbying fund." Apparently they went into the pay envelope of the society's directors.

In other cases, fraudulent companies made use of old state charters, according to Assistant Attorney General E. F. Johnson. Mutual benefit organizations, chartered two or three decades ago, operated a few years and then disbanded. Swindlers, adopting the name of the old chartered company, "re-organized" the society, collect membership dues, pay off a few insurance policies, and pocket the remainder of the money.

In such cases amendment of the original charter is required, but the society pays no franchise tax and thus escapes possible inquiry by the department of state. Such "mutual" companies claim they are not subject to state laws, but

STOLEN GOLD LURES HUNTER; DEVOTES LIFE TO DIGGING

HARROWGATE, Tenn.—Life for Calvin Disney, 56-year-old Cumberland mountain man, is just a lot of dirt's digs.

He lives in a cave high in the hills near here, and for the past three years he has done nothing but pick and shovel work with an $85,000 hidden treasure as his goal.

Disney is devoting his life to a hunt for a payroll board which he says was stolen by a robber band during the Civil War. The robbers, he believes, took to the mountains and hid their gold in a cave because of the parlous times.

The war eliminated the robbers from enjoyment of the money and now Disney, who says he has a man which will lead him to the payroll, is busy exploring the cave.

He is confident that he ultimately will turn up the spot where the $85,000 in gold is cached, and when he does he plans to hang up his pick and shovel and spend the rest of his life in mountain ease.

AN OLD PIPE

THE modern smoker, picking the bowl of his next pipe with big flakes of savory Burley, is the heir of many generations of pipe devotees, each with its own peculiarities. Improvement in the manufacture of special pipe tobacco have brought about marked changes in pipes since the days when Sir Walter Raleigh and his friends started London by putting out clouds of smoke from the precious leaf discovered in the American Colonies.

Gentlemen of the Elizabethan and Georgian periods could give plenty of time to pipe smoking, as they had ponderous, comfortable pipes that automatically cooled the smoke. Persons who called themselves "Professors of Smoking" flourished in those days, teaching the art of blowing smoke rings and how to load a pipe, for a price. In the battle of modern life the old time extravagantly long-stemmed pipes have gone—except in parts of the East where men still take their pleasures and their businesses sedately. There the hookah, or water pipe, still finds favor.

The chief reason, however, for the exit of ponderous pipes is the improvement in manufacturing processes which make it unnecessary for the smoke to pass through a long stem in order to be cool enough for the smoker's comfort.

Some 40 years ago Colonel James N. Wellman, in his little factory in southern Illinois, perfected a process which gave to pipe tobacco a flavor and a mellowness it never had before. His method included the selection of special Burley leaf and cutting it into shaggy flakes which burned slowly and completely to a clean dry ash. They left no soggy "heel" which every confirmed pipe smoker recognizes as one of the signs of inferior tobacco.

His discovery is said to be largely responsible for the present popularity of short-stemmed pipes. Wellman called his tobacco "Rough Cut." Today American pipe smokers use more "Rough Cut" Burley tobacco than any other kind.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, hayfever and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

Last fall I heard some talk about drilling for oil on the block where the old Eastland high school used to stand. Some folks seem to be of the opinion that the entire city of Eastland is underlain with oil and gas in paying quantities. No one will ever know for sure until a hole is drilled.

It wouldn't hurt a thing to give some encouragement to those who might be influenced to drill a well. If it should hit, it might result in some 1932 prosperity for Eastland. There is a well being drilled now just west of the city limits. Whoever is drilling it I don't know, but I've heard that he is planning to drill several more here. I'll say one thing, he's got plenty of nerve to try to keep an operating. It's the only well being drilled in this county at present, if I'm correctly informed. It wouldn't be a bad thing to give a little shove and see if a well can't be drilled on the school grounds.

At I went to Ranger this morning I saw a gang of men with a big truck cleaning off the highway at the underpass about which I have been griping lately. On behalf of my customers who use that road I want to thank the highway maintenance department for cleaning it up. The squawkin' axle gets the job done.

Notice where the gas company had another suit filed against it this morning. R. N. Grisham is plaintiff this time. On account of the judge being absent I couldn't see a copy of the pleadings, but I imagine it's a suit for a refund on a cash bill collected for at the new rate schedule.

Eastland Mayor's Proclamation On Aiding Jobless

Mayor McCullough of Eastland this week issued a proclamation calling upon the people of Eastland to observe the present month as a special time to put the unemployed to work. Following is the proclamation:

Responding to the general urge that our people join in an effort to engage the unemployed and put to work the hoarded wealth of the country, I as the Mayor of the City of Eastland hereby proclaim the month of March as the time for all persons to take part in the "War of Depression"; and to that end, seek opportunities and means for giving some unemployed person or persons work to do, at a reasonable wage; further, to bring back to our citizenship the psychology of healthy business and a better outlook for the future.

Appointee On Rail Commission To Have Big Job

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN.—The appointee who succeeds Pat M. Neff as member of the state railroad commission will not have a rosy path to election to the place this summer.

Presuming that Neff's acceptance of the presidency of Baylor university will be announced shortly, and that his successor will soon be named by Governor Sterling, that successor will have to run for the place in the July democratic primary.

Recent political history in Texas shows that persons appointed to elective office have not had much luck in retaining the office by election. Pat Neff is an exception to prove the rule. He was appointed to the state railroad commission by Governor Dan Moody upon the death of Chairman Clarence E. Gilmore. Twice elected governor, he had little difficulty in being elected when his appointive term expired.

Others have had a different experience. Lon A. Smith, a present member of the railroad commission was elected to both state offices, he has held, over an appointee.

He defeated Mark Wiginton, present secretary to Governor Sterling, after Wiginton had been appointed to fill out the unexpired term of the late Henry B. Terrell as state comptroller. He was also elected to the state railroad commission succeeding an appointee, W. A. Nabors.

Another recent example of the difficulty of electing an appointee was the defeat of R. L. Bobbitt in the last race for attorney general. Bobbitt served out the unexpired term of Claude Pollard, resigned, by appointment of Governor Moody.

Psychology of the thing seems to be that as there are always many applications for appointments, many must be disappointed as they, humanly enough, become supporters of the man who runs against the appointee.

PATIENTS PAY FOR "CURES"

By United Press. NE WHAVEN, Conn.—African "witch doctors" resemble some more civilized practitioners of medicine in that they "mix magic with science and surround medical practice with mystery and supernaturalism," according to Professor Charles T. Lorum of Yale, a native of Africa; with the native doctors it "no cure, no pay."

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Text: John 13:1-15. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 6.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist. There are lessons the teaching of which might be put in any scene and that are of universal application. This lesson certainly is of universal application, and there are few needed more in the modern world.

But the scene itself essentially is eastern and very definitely related to the world in which Jesus lived. There are modern Christians who have embodied the scene in a modern ritual of worship and who practice foot washing much in the same way as the church in general practices baptism.

Without at all criticizing that practice one may raise the question of the reality and appropriateness with which an incident related to a peculiarly eastern environment of primitive times can be perpetuated in modern environments which are so essentially different.

There is no environment, however, to which the teaching of this lesson does not apply and no life but that would be strengthened and made better for following the spirit of the master's action in washing the disciples' feet.

Let us endeavor to represent not only the historic scene but its spiritual background. Here were a group of men whom Jesus had called to the inner circle of discipleship. They undoubtedly were men who, for their own times, were of remarkably free and progressive mind, or they hardly would have followed so unconventional a teacher.

They were men of force of character and courage or they would not have left all to follow Him. They were men, apparently, of intense devotion to Him personally; yet they were men in whom such fierce ambitions moved that again and again they quarreled about questions of precedence and preferment, and even about the comparative measure of their zeal and devotion to Jesus.

Repeatedly Jesus rebuked them. Again and again He sought to teach them the lesson of humility and by example to suggest that in lowliness and in service were the elements of strength in the kingdom. He had come to reveal and establish.

Yet in spite of all this seemingly clear teaching the disciples missed the effect. Even in the solemn hour of the Passover, they still were unpurified from their selfish and earthly tempers. Hence it was that on the eve of His supreme sacrifice at the last supper, symbolic of communion in all that was high and holy in His relation with his disciples, He gave them in this physical act of feet washing a practical illustration of His teaching.

The attitude of the disciples is illustrated in Peter's strong outburst: "Thou shalt never wash my feet."

Peter had not learned the lesson that in humility and service even the Master of men may give the highest manifestation of His love and greatness. If Peter had not learned that lesson, we may be sure that others in that upper room were actually blind.

Do we marvel at these disciples? How much like them are we ourselves? Do we grasp any better in our day and in our environment the supreme lesson that Jesus sought to teach them? Have we learned that in lowliness and meekness is real strength, and that in service is the true evidence of love?

FACTS ABOUT INCOME TAXES

No. 4 Personal Exemptions

In addition to the personal exemption of $1,500 for single persons and $3,500 for married persons living together and heads of families, taxpayer may claim a credit of $400 for each dependent, defined by income tax law and regulations as a person under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective, means not only cripples and those mentally defective but persons in ill health and the aged.

In order to claim the $400 credit the taxpayer must furnish the dependent his or her chief support. The credit is based upon actual financial dependency and not mere legal dependency. For example, a father whose children receive half or more of their support from a trust fund or other separate source, is not entitled to the credit.

Neither relationship nor residence are factors in claiming the $400 credit for a dependent. The taxpayer and the dependent may be residents of different cities. If husband and wife both contribute to the support of a dependent, the $400 credit must be taken by the one contributing the chief support, and may not be divided between them.

A single person who supports in his home an aged mother is entitled not only to the $400 credit for a dependent, but also to the personal exemption of $3,500 as the head of a family. A widower supporting under similar circumstances a dependent child under 18 years of age also is entitled to the personal exemption of $3,500 as the head of a family, plus the $400 credit for a dependent. To claim the $400 for each dependent the taxpayer must have been furnishing the chief support on the last day of the taxable year, Dec. 31, if the return is filed on the calendar-year basis. If during the year his support of such dependent ceased, he is not entitled to this credit.

Eastland Legion Post Announces Ex-Service Rally

A call has been issued to ex-service men to attend a rally of the American Legion at the Eastland Club building Monday night, March 7, at 7:30 p. m. Following is the call as issued:

"To all ex-service men: All ex-service men are invited and urged to attend the big rally of the American Legion at the Eastland Club room in Eastland, Texas, on Monday night, March 7, 1932, at 7:30 p. m.

A very interesting program is being arranged and the payment of the other half of the bonus money will be fully discussed at this meeting. Are you in favor of this money being paid now? Come out and give your views. Remember that this is an open house to all ex-service men and you are entitled to sit in on this meeting regardless of your ever being a member of the American Legion. Coffee and Doughnuts will be served to the crowd in Army style.

Choice of 10,000

Ten thousand students can't be wrong, and everybody will agree that they had a pretty fair reason for selecting Virginia Carlyle, above, as queen of the "Big C Sirkus," a quadrennial event at the University of California. She's an art student, and is petite, dimpled, blond and blue-eyed.

Fat Stock Show Draws Big Crowd

By United Press.
FORT WORTH, March 4.—Ten-thousands of hats, high-heeled boots, and the puffs of cowboys' mustaches were the more sophisticated chuckles of wealthy visitors and city-dwelling ranchers here today.

For the thirty-sixth Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, one of the largest in the world opened. More than 150,000 spectators will attend the show, ending March 13.

The first exposition, in 1896, was held under a tree near the then small cattle town of Fort Worth. Covered wagons, arranged in a circle, served as grandstands and the greenward as livestock pavilions.

From this unpretentious beginning, the show has expanded until it now ranks among the four largest in the world. Its rodeo, attracting cowboys from Wyoming, Arizona and New Mexico, leads all rodeos in the number of participants.

Its poultry show is the largest in the southwest and its college track meet one of the outstanding athletic contests in the middle west.

Although the principal contestants in the rodeo are vigorous young cowboys, a few old-timers, who rode the old cattle trails from Texas to Kansas, 40 years ago, refuse to quit. Each year they strive to recapture their fading glories.

Fort Worth, known as the most typical cowboy city of the west and center of the livestock industry of the southwest, became even more western as the groups of cowboys, lariats thrown across their shoulders and spurs shining, strode along its streets.

Exposition officials believed a new attendance record would be set this year. The number of requests for reservations far exceeded other years and the gate payments were expected to keep pace.

ARMS FOR STUDENTS BANNED

By United Press.
FORT WORTH—The student paper at Texas Christian University is of the opinion that college students of today are better than those of 30 years ago. It bases this conclusion on a rule found in a catalog of the "Gay '90s" which reads: "Students shall neither keep in their possession or use any firearms, a dirk, a bowie knife nor any kind of deadly weapon."

How Can We Be Sure of Our Living On a Farm?

First—Grow a garden. A good garden will furnish most of our food all summer and about half of our food all winter. If we don't grow a real garden we will do without a lot of the best tasting, most healthful food anybody ever ate. You never see a farmer who has a good garden and orchard in the soup line.

Second—Raise some poultry. Who should eat more fresh eggs and fried chicken than our farm families? Where will we get them if we don't raise them? And what can we buy that will take the place of them? It is quite true that poultry products sell very low now but 8 cent eggs are just as good to eat as those that sell for 40 cents per dozen.

Third—Have some pigs. Folks who are doing hard work need good meat to eat. How are we going to have fresh pork, cured pork, canned pork, ham or sausage when we want it and ought to have it, if we don't raise pigs?

Fourth—Keep some cows. No woman can cook good meals without milk and butter. No farmer will ever buy all the milk and butter his family should have. The way to have milk and butter is to have cows of our own to supply us the year round.

Nine times out of ten, the farmer who doesn't raise these things hasn't the money to buy them and wouldn't buy them if he had the money. The farmer who raises these things will usually have money to buy anything else he needs. One of the best insurance policies any farmer can have is the garden, the cow, the sow and the chickens.

There is something sadly wrong with the kind of farming that doesn't provide garden, chickens, pigs, cows and fruit to feed the family and furnish something to sell. Our successful farmers—the ones who stay in business are the ones who first look after the home-grown food supply.

Let's make a factory of our farm, running the year round, turning out something to sell every week. This means making our farming a good business institution.

O. P. Wheeler of Cook community had the county agent out Monday to assist in running terrace lines on the west forty. Where peanuts have been planted on this farm they were strip-rowed with grain sorghums to prevent the sand from blowing. The old log cabin which Mr. Wheeler built when he first came to this country and in which he raised his family still stands on the farm at the back of a house which he later built. Mrs. Wheeler is a good cook and the things we had for dinner were raised on the farm.

While in Cook community I stopped by and helped Wilburn Curtis run another terrace line, so that his entire farm would be protected by terraces. Cotton planted on his terraces last year made him half a bale per acre. A small orchard has a terrace run through it on the level with a dam at both ends to hold the water in. Fruit trees made a fine vigorous growth last year showing the advantage of the extra water thus provided. Mrs. Curtis had been making cheese, with the help of some of the neighbors. The young son belongs to the Cook 4-H club and is planning a club demonstration of maize grown on subsoiled land.

Noticed lots of small grain sown on peanut land in that section of the county. These people are determined to stop the sand from blowing and build it up again to where it will produce profitable crops.

Another Good Thing About Black-Draught

When you take Theford's Black-Draught, normal bowel activity is restored without sickening effects. This is only one of many agreeable qualities of this medicine.

Mr. George W. Cassidy, of Waco, Texas, whose experience in the use of Black-Draught has extended over forty-five years, says:

"When I take a laxative or purgative, I want something that I can take just a dose or two of, and then quit taking and feel as good as ever. Black-Draught is like that. You don't have to take it every night."

"I just bought a box yesterday, and after forty-five years I find it does me as much good as when I started taking it."

LUCKIEST MAN ALIVE TELLS OF EXPERIENCES

By United Press.

HOUSTON.—The self-styled "luckiest man alive" today described from his hospital bed how it feels to plunge 3,000 feet to the earth below a partially opened parachute.

He is Ray Hartman, daredevil parachute jumper, who was seriously injured last Sunday when his chute failed him after he leaped from a plane for the edification of a large crowd at a local airport.

"It was all my own darned fault," Hartman said. "I didn't inspect my parachute before the jump. It had been packed by another man and something went wrong. I found that out."

One hour previously Hartman had made a jump without mishap. The unlucky jump was his 101st.

"I was wearing two chutes in accordance with commerce department rulings," he continued. "The big chute was on my back and I had another emergency chute strapped to my chest."

"When I jumped from the ship I fell about 1,200 feet before I pulled the rip cord. Things happened fast after that. When the big chute snapped open I fell clear out of the harness. It was just pure luck that my right arm caught in two of the silk shrouds leading to the umbrella.

"That shock broke my arm and I came on to the ground suspended by my broken arm. The chute was only partially open and I dropped mighty fast.

"They say a person in my predicament thinks all about his past life, but I didn't have time to think of anything but how hard I was going to hit that old ground. The pain in my broken arm was terrific. I tried to reach up with my left arm and grab a hold with it but my main chute, emergency chute and harness were all above me and I couldn't reach anything.

"I could hear the roar of the plane as it circled around me while I fell. I hoped it wouldn't collide with my chute, but I felt like it wouldn't make much difference as it looked like I was going to crash in anyway.

"Those shroud lines burned like fire around my arm. I looked up and saw the chute almost closed above me. I was dropping very fast and I knew my legs were going to be broken by the impact with the ground, even if I lived.

"But my luck held out and I landed in a marshy spot. I went into the mud up to my knees—and I sure was glad it was there."

LaFiere Cavender, piloting a load of passengers in his plane, circled around Hartman as he fell.

Sleepy Business Comes to Life as Uncle Sam Spends 18 Billions

Farms, Banks and Railroads Benefit—Borrower to Find Credit Easier.

Five major outlets are to be used in Uncle Sam's $18,000,000,000 anti-depression campaign as illustrated in sketch above. Greatest of these is the Glass-Steagall program for bank credits of $11,000,000,000. Senator Carter Glass, former secretary of the treasury, right, and Congressman Henry B. Steagall of Alabama, chairman of the powerful House banking and currency committee, left, are sponsors of the bill.

By NEA Service.

Eighteen billion sound American dollars will soon be put to work by Uncle Sam to overcome depression.

Major relief programs now already in force, together with the giant Glass-Steagall project which is nearing completion, constitute the greatest peace-time financial drive in the history of the world.

Briefly, here are the methods by which the government is marshaling this stupendous store of money and credit to revive drooping American commerce and finance.

GLASS-STEAGALL BILL.—Makes available $11,000,000,000 to ease bank credits and will permit issuance of $1,000,000,000 in currency if needed to feed the cash-starved arteries of trade.

By enabling individual banks with capitalization of $2,000,000 or less to borrow from Reserve banks or on promissory notes or other collateral hitherto ineligible, this move will open up financing to the small borrower and will release additional credits estimated at $10,000,000,000.

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION. A $2,000,000,000 reservoir presided over by Chairman Charles Gates Dawes with agents scattered at strategic points throughout the country.

Out of this reservoir will come millions in cash to revive railroads, banks, farmers and businesses. Borrowers are authorized to issue bonds as collateral.

The National Credit Corporation, $50,000,000 private pool organized at government instigation to release frozen assets, goes out of business, being replaced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

FEDERAL LAND BANKS: An integral part of the government structure, these banks are doing immensely effective relief work among the farmers. Federal Land Bank resources are $2,800,000,000.

FARM LOAN BOARD: Another permanent organization in the government finance group with a cash pool of $500,000,000. The board lends money to farmers from the revolving fund as fast as money is paid-back from other loans.

HOME LOAN MORTGAGE BANKS: Under provisions of a bill not yet enacted $500,000,000 will be made available for holding credit in the field of residential real estate. Home loans, and other financial stimulants to the real estate market would be applied.

Another important feature of the anti-depression mobilization is the campaign to end hoarding. It is designed to release an estimated $1,000,000,000 now buried in treasuries and safety deposit vaults. The committee is officially known as the Citizens' Reconstruction Organization. Their program ties up directly with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

DRAMA PACKED INTO ALL OLYMPIC COMPETITIONS.

The Olympic Games always have been packed with drama. In 1912 Jim Thorpe, the great American Indian athlete, carried off almost all of the individual honors only to lose his cups and medals when he was declared to be a professional because he had played a little bush league baseball.

The 1928 games were noteworthy because Ray Barbutti, in the 400-meter race, was the only United States runner to win first place in a track event. Hopes of the United States in the dashes were shattered when Percy Williams, a young Canadian, outran Frank Wykoff, Charles Paddock and other sprinters to gain the laurels.

The years of 1924 and 1928 wrote into the history of sport the names of Nurmi and Ritola, the Finnish distance runners, whose prowess and rivalry contributed untold color.

The 1932 games should be interesting in that they are to be staged in California, home of such sprinters as Wykoff and Paddock and such middle-distance men as Vic Williams of the University of Southern California and Ben Eastman of Stanford. Weight throwers also have been numerous and outstanding on the Pacific coast.

Just what, if any, effect the California climate may have upon foreign athletes is a matter of conjecture. Some claims have been made by visiting athletes, particularly eastern football players, that they have difficulty becoming acclimatized.

CHICAGO.—American homes are 70 per cent electrified and approximately $695,000,000 is spent yearly to operate their lights and appliances, a survey shows. This is one-third as much as is annually spent on tobacco. The average per family is $34.

CHICAGO.—A record number of Bibles were sold in the central states in 1931, exceeding any similar period in the 92 years that the Chicago Bible Society has been in existence, the organization reports. The Chicago agency alone distributed more than 1,300,000 testaments.

The dime-a-dance girl

BY SISTER MARY NEA Screen Writer

BEGIN HERE TODAY Beautiful Ellen Rossiter, employed at Barclay's Department Store, works nights as a dance hall hostess.

Steven Barclay, 57 and owner of Barclay's, is in love with Ellen. Twice she refuses to marry him because she loves Larry Harrowgate.

Ellen flings herself into work trying to forget Larry. Gradually she comes to think less of him and more of Steven Barclay.

The doctor's distressed eyes peered uncertainly at the tense trembling girl. He had known Ellen for years.

"My dear child, a private room isn't necessary," he said. "I know you'll be glad to tell me that you can't afford it, Mike might be a little more comfortable if things were otherwise, but he's getting the best of care."

She ran from the cab to meet him. As she felt the clasp of his hands and looked into his anxious, troubled eyes she thought she would break into tears of thanksgiving.

From then on everything went as she had known it would. There was no need for her to ask anything. Steven arranged it all.

She saw Mike that night. He was conscious but tired and wan too sick from ether and exhaustion to smile at those who loved him.

Mike's improved health, doing her work from day to day—these were the important things.

She realized that she was thinking more and more of him. So she had been pulling threads of silk from golden ears of corn but she stopped now and turned to face him.

Spring Planting of Peonies

Although fall is the ideal time to plant peonies, they can be planted in early spring with good results if a few things are observed.

Peonies bloom in June, during July eyes begin to develop, and in August, in average years, the eyes have attained a length of one-quarter to one-half inch.

Peony plants set out in spring do not have the chance to develop and flower in the natural manner the first season, and they have the time to get well rooted before the hot weather comes.

PHONE UTOPIA
FUTURE FOR U.S.

WASHINGTON.—The "telephone utopia," or a time when all telephones in all nations can be connected, is rapidly nearing in the opinion of engineers, who, on March 10, will observe the fifty-seventh anniversary of use of the speaking device in the United States.

Already telephone users in the United States can converse with users in 40 other countries located on the six other continents. These connections comprise a network of 32,750,000 telephones, or more than 92 per cent of all such instruments in the world. It will be only a short time until virtually all of the remaining connections will be possible in the opinion of government communications experts.

There remain only four countries having more than 100,000 telephones with which the United States does not have connections. These are China, Japan, Russia and South Africa. The link with the last named is likely to be completed within the current year and that with Japan should require only a relatively few months more, according to Stanley Shoup, of the communication division of the commerce department.

All this development has come since March 10, 1876, when Alexander Graham Bell, then a youthful scientist, and a companion conversed for the first time in this country through electrically wired apparatus in Boston.

Today four radio-telephone circuits connect the United States with Europe, and it is expected that a trans-Atlantic telephone cable will be completed during this year.

Most of the international development of telephony has come since 1922. At that time there were only two countries connected with the United States, they were Cuba and Canada. The U. S. is now connected with virtually every country in Europe, with Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, Mexico and Cuba, in Latin-America; with Java, Sumatra, and Indo-China in Asia; with Ceuta in Spanish Morocco, Africa; with New Zealand and Australia.

During the last year communications were made with Hawaii, thus thrusting vocal communications nearly 2,000 miles out into the Pacific on the way to the final goal of China and Japan.

The telephone industry now ranks as one of the leading ones in the U. S. in points of assets. Its investments amounted to $5,250,000,000 in 1930, and officials of the department of commerce estimate that it spends $500,000,000 a year in improvements alone.
