Privett Again On Trial In Dunson Slaying

PEEPING THROUGH THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

We wouldn't bet any money on it, but we would be willing to "bet" that we have joined more rifle clubs than anyone around these parts, never to have fired a rifle over a range in our lives.

Long years ago, when Uncle Sam was having more or less trouble with the Kaiser, we got patriotic and tried to join the marines, only to find after we had spent our last dollar to get to a recruiting station that we had gone to a naval station in our ignorance, so we joined the navy. For months we did guard duty at a training station, carrying a rifle on our shoulder.

For the past 10 or 12 years we have been wondering if that rifle was loaded, and if so how we would have gone about shooting it.

Anyway, we joined the American Legion Rifle club of Ranger, the third to which we have belonged. Yesterday the opening shoot was held and we went out and stood around and watched the other members and visitors shooting, backed out every time we were asked to try our hand at it.

Now, we have made up our mind to walk boldly up to the range, grab a gun and shoot such a flock of total misses out of it, so that our score would look like a flock of geese eggs ready for setting purposes. But when the time comes to do so, we have decided that it would be no fun to shoot and miss, and we decide that we wouldn't get as much kick out of it as we imagined.

Yesterday we went out and took our wife along. There were few when we arrived early in the morning, so we thought that would be a good time to shoot, when there were few spectators. But the wife wanted to try out the small-bore range and by the time she finished shooting we had lost our nerve again.

After lunch we went back to the range and found a much larger crowd and Peters from Eastland was shooting. He shot a whole bull's eye while we watched, so we knew that it would never do to shoot following him, so we never got out of the car. Some day we are going to try our hand, though, and then laugh just as we do now at the shooting we make, just to show that it means nothing in our young life.

We are somewhat the same way about golf. We never get a golf ball in our life and may never do so. We have been out and followed the players around on several occasions, and have been invited to play. But we have a feeling that we would get so far out in the rough that we would be lonesome all by ourself, so we have never taken up golf. Then, too, it is a little too expensive for our income.

HOUSE STARTS OIL TARIFF FIGHT TODAY

WASHINGTON, March 21.—House members from New England and Atlantic coast states today formally organized a fight on the one cent a gallon tax on foreign oil and gasoline in the new revenue bill.

Representative McCormack, democrat, Massachusetts, a member of the ways and means committee, was delegated to offer a resolution eliminating this tax from the bill when that section of the measure is reached in the house.

The first sign of a break in the house fight against the 2 1/2 per cent sales tax came today when leaders offered to compromise by exempting from taxation all foods, wearing apparel and medicine.

Directors of the opposition indicated that the basis of their objections were being removed. Both Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, and Representative Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, asked time to think it over. LaGuardia particularly gave signs of softening his opposition.

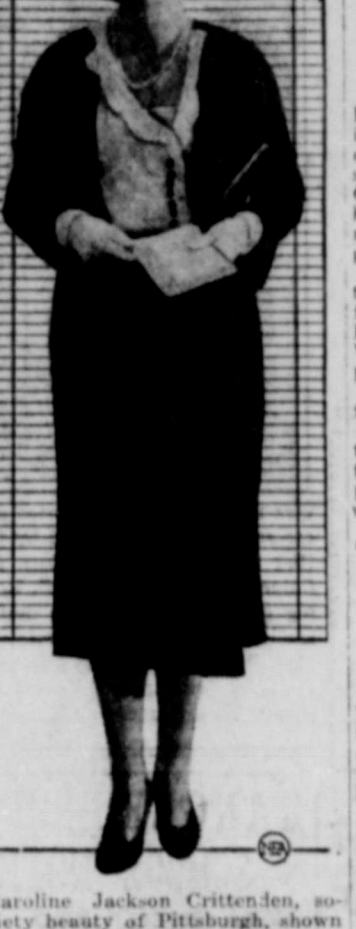

Police Probing Every Angle of Kidnaping Case

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 21. Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lirburgh visited today with fortitude for some sign from the person holding their son, while police officers made every avenue available for trace of the boy.

Police investigation has entered the fantastic. Dead carrier pigeons with curiously worded notes attached to them, have been found and the notes sent to police. Mystery movements of persons in the Hopewell area on the night of the kidnaping have been reported.

Police admitted little credit could be put in many of the reports but all were being checked in the hope of finding some trace of the child stolen from his crib March 1.

GOVERNMENT ASSISTED PIRACY

Business is interested in the fact that the loans so far made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are so small. Less than two hundred millions—or one hundred and eighty-three millions, to be exact—have been dispensed by Colonel Dawes and his board since the government agency for credit liquidation began functioning. Of course the entire $500,000,000 available at this time and as much money as the corporation could obtain upon debentures, through sale of which its loan fund is expected to be increased, could have been gotten rid of in that period if the corporation had let the bars down and favored all and any who applied. But the RFC is a business institution and wisdom and caution in the administration of its affairs are even more mandatory because of the fact that it is lending government funds.

That the amount of deserved credit extended is so comparatively small is a significant fact. Already the fresh stream of credit that has trickled into the stagnant pools of commerce without confusion or ballyhoo has accomplished healthful results. Bank failures which had reached figures more than alarming have dwindled to normal, bank credits to customers have eased, bonds have strengthened, while a definite check has been placed upon the hoarding reflex and its implications of wear and loss of confidence in financial institutions. Part of the responsibility for this improvement is due the Glass-Steagall measure, liberalizing federal reserve policy, and to other factors of the general program for business revival, but that does not detract from the evidenced fact that it is not so much credit that is needed as it is a restoration of confidence. The mere knowledge that loans from the government agencies of relief are available has been the stimulating factor. While it has loaned only a scant two hundred millions in direct credit, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been the means of unlocking much greater stores of frozen energy in the normal reservoirs of trade and commerce, and that, after all, is its mission. Once this energy is set in motion it will carry forward of its own momentum and the RFC will have served its function. The quicker that the public agency it is able to drop out of the picture and let business carry on of itself and with its own resources the sooner will the present depression vanish.

But there is one factor in the general picture that deserves critical attention. There must be a uniformity of policy all down the line if the purpose behind the RFC is to be realized. Eligible institutions receiving credit from the public agency assume an equal responsibility toward those institutions which are dependent upon them for credit and assistance. If the public funds borrowed by insurance companies, building and loan associations and similar lending and investment agencies are used to "freeze out" embarrassed creditors of these institutions and to prosecute a program of virtual confiscation of resources for future exploitation, rather than to assist the harassed owners of such property in working out of their difficulties, then what would otherwise be a beneficial instrumentality becomes a means of oppression. A policy of this stripe is so reprehensible that it ought to be classed as larceny per se and so dealt with.

GIVE HIM A MEDAL

The mayor of Los Angeles is threatened with a recall action by the voters of the city because he refused to drink a toast in wine while visiting with a group of American contemporaries in France. France has no prohibition laws—as least so far as wine, women and song, are concerned—and it would not have violated any legal or even ethical presumptions if the doughty mayor had chosen to wet his ultra-dry whistle with the juice of the grape. The American law does not place the inhibition in the drinking but upon the having to drink. If a man has in his possession a stimulating potion he may pour it down his gullet and poison himself to his heart's content for all the law cares—poison says that the functions necessary to provide the refreshment are illegal. Hence the Los Angeles mayor's explanation that he would observe the American domestic laws while rubber-necking in France sounds a bit peculiar.

But that isn't the point. Instead of giving their mayor the official gate the Los Angeles electorate should pin a medal on the gentleman. It is refreshing to discover in politics and elsewhere a soul that can be turned inside out and not lose color. Among "hizzoners" blatant crices we doubt there can be found very many worthy to grade that slender category—their known principles and politics being what they may. We are not attempting to evaluate the mayor's ideals, but the fact that he can keep those ideals intact in practice as in profession is enough to place a mighty high estimation upon his character. We need more of his worthy stripe in American public and private life, and a good deal less of that pliable mold whose principles are so fluid that they will fit any convenient pattern.

If that were true we wouldn't have any glorified gangsters lounging in plush-lined jail cells waiting to be honored by the visits of newspaper colonels.

And now the Sino-Jap war is about to be succeeded by the war over what Japan will get out of it.

A man in Illinois swallowed a needle 66 years ago and the other day he found it in his foot. If he were Scotch, he probably would still be hunting the thread.

The Massachusetts proposal to legalize 4 1/2 per cent beer looks like a move to take the trade away from 3 per cent Rhode Island.

University of North Carolina is experimenting with a new cotton crop. What they ought to do is experiment with what to do with the old one.

Rumor has it that a 10-cent store is going to increase its maximum price to 20 cents. Maybe it's going into the foreign bond business.

DAILY WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 SEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Three governments are now being treated by the United States as if they were non-existent. They are the governments holding power in Soviet Russia, Salvador and Manchuria.

Representatives of the American foreign service are on the job in Salvador and Manchuria, but they can have no official dealings with the new revolutionary regime of Salvador or the new government at Changchun which has been set up by the Japanese.

Charge d'Affaires Beaulac, in the capital city of San Salvador, sees representatives of the new President Maximiliano Martinez almost daily, for they come to him repeatedly and urge the advisability of American recognition.

And the consuls in Manchuria presumably will have to treat with the officials of Pu-Yi's Japanese protectorate if they are to fulfill their obligations of protecting American interests. But officially and legally the jobs of the legation staff in Salvador and the consuls in Manchuria are only to sit tight, observe and make reports to Washington.

In Russia We Do Without

IN Russia we get along without any official representatives. We jacked the last ones out soon after the Soviet government was established. Thanks, doubtless, to our attitude toward the Soviet—as demonstrated by the Siberian invasion, non-recognition and other measures—it became quick by apparent that they weren't the least bit welcome any more. Their withdrawal was a safety measure as much as anything.

The government of Manchukuo, which is what the Japanese finally decided to call the huge slice of Manchuria and Mongolia territory they had taken by armed force, will be lucky if it ever gets recognized by the State Department, no matter how long it survives.

Its 400-word telegram requesting our recognition has been so completely ignored that receipt of the message hasn't even been officially admitted.

Everyone knows that Henry

League Supports Us

THAT'S one instance where we are supported in non-recognition by European powers, for the League of Nations had adopted a resolution to similar effect.

But other powers have long since found it desirable to revive diplomatic relations with Russia and lately the State Department has been excited over the possibility that the British and French might recognize the present Salvadoran government while we held aloof.

Martinez was vice president-elect and minister of war in the cabinet of President Arzajo, who was ousted by the revolution late last year. We don't recognize him because the Central American treaties, an important point in our Latin-American policy which led to that mess in Nicaragua which we got into in 1927, proscribed recognition of a government created by coup d'etat or of any new president who was in the cabinet of the deposed president.

Lived in Same House

THUS, although Martinez appointed a new minister to the United States, we have continued to recognize the Arzajo minister. The two ministers lived here in the same legation for weeks but Dr. Carlos Leiza, the Arzajo minister, has just moved to New York as if in despair.

British and French diplomats at San Salvador have informed their governments that the Martinez government is not a revolutionary government.

Our own minister, Charles Curtis, had recommended recognition of Martinez and was thereupon recalled here to await orders. The State Department has told Great Britain that it will infringe the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine if it recognizes Martinez.

CHINESE FIGHTERS CLING TO THE WAR UMBRELLAS

By EDSON R. WAITE
 Shawnee, Okla.

That some cities are nice, quiet places where one can rest in peace.

No business disturbs the city. The business men do not believe in advertising and bringing in the buying crowds from the surrounding country to disturb their siesta hours during the day. Those cities are most enjoyable places in which to live.

People who like and can afford rest and quiet can get it there.

The quiet required by those nervous, care-worn souls is there. They have a few people who are NOT contented; they are business-getters who have found they are in the wrong place and are trying to get loose.

They want to go to a busy city. They think that a busy city would bring contentment to them. They generally find a way to move.

Londoners Walk To Work To Pay Their Income Tax

By United Press.

LONDON—Londoners are walking to work in order to pay their income tax.

Such is the belief of Lord Ashfield, chairman of the London Underground Group, as the London subways are officially known. He expressed his opinion to his shareholders at the annual general meeting of the company at which a reduction in receipts was announced.

"The citizens of London," declared Lord Ashfield, "are walking more. They are restricting their pleasures. They prefer to pay their income tax to indulging in travel."

Traffic Drop

Twenty-eight million less passengers were carried in 1931 than in 1930 owing to the rapid fall in the volume of traffic consequent on the creeping paralysis in trade and industry generally. On top of this loss of passenger statistics show that from the people who continued to travel the average receipts per passenger were reduced by about one per cent.

It would appear that the depression is hitting the wealthier sections of the city harder than the working class districts for at stations serving the former places the fall in traffic amounted to eight per cent, but in the workers' areas the reduction was only two per cent, despite the fact that unemployment in London had almost doubled in volume.

Underground Group

The Underground Group also controls the majority of London's omnibuses and Lord Ashfield pointed out that the various road and driving taxes amounted to 375 pounds ($1,865) a year for each bus. Additional taxation on the company, in the form of the gasoline tax, amounted to about 1,000,000 pounds ($5,000,000), making the total taxation around 1,375,000 pounds ($6,865,000). The taxes on the buses alone take the fares of two and a half passengers for every mile the bus travels.

Minister Drives Away Wrong Car

By United Press.

MADISON, Me.—Harold Fenelson was greatly agitated when, emerging from a movie theater, he discovered that his automobile was missing.

He notified police and shortly afterward the car was seen entering the town.

The Rev. L. K. Lord, local Methodist minister, who was at the wheel, was even more agitated than had been the owner. Sheepishly he explained that he had been offered the use of a friend's car to go to Skowhegan; that he had taken Fenelson's, almost exactly like it, by mistake.

Nobody wants to plant an oak—they seem so slow growing. Plant some, anyway. Others will benefit as we have.

ELECTION ORDER.

Be it ordered by the board of trustees of the Ranger Independent School District that an election be held at the city hall, in the town of Ranger, Texas, in said Ranger Independent School District on the 2nd day of April, 1932, for the purpose of electing three trustees for said Ranger Independent School District.

Walter Harwell is hereby appointed manager of said election, and he shall select two judges and two clerks to assist him in holding the same, and said election shall be held in the manner prescribed by law for holding other elections.

The returns of said election shall be made to the board of trustees of said Independent School District in accordance with law.

A copy of this order signed by the president and attested by the secretary of said Ranger Independent School District shall serve as proper notice of said election, and the seal thereof hereunto affixed, this 12th day of March, 1932.

The Big News is on the inside pages too

Probably you read the front page of your paper first. But think how soon you forget the "news of the day"—and how long you enjoy the things you buy because of some item in an advertisement.

Almost always, there is big news for you somewhere in the advertising columns of this paper. Look for it. Here's a piece that tells how to make a nicer angel food cake—a note on the new models of the car you hope to buy next—news of fashions and furnishings, of hardware and hats. . . Interesting, intimate, often dramatic news that really concerns you and yours.

Remember that size alone is not a measure of value. Often an advertisement in small space will offer just what you want at a saving. So form the good habit of reading the advertising section of this paper carefully. It will save you time and money. It will make your home healthier, wealthier, happier.

Read and you will find!

"Breakfast Battle" Won; Mothers Find Easy Ways to Win Family. About 85 per cent of all homemakers...

Only two things, then, remain to be done: To see that the family agrees with its head, and to make it easier for mother-to-obe to obey the dictates of her conscience.

To win over the family, remember the phrase coined by Goethe: "Few are open to persuasion; the majority are open to persuasion."

For a later course you may reach for another quotation: "Have you seen the muffin man?" recalls that a food popular enough to inspire a nursery chant should be an excellent "persuader."

Making It Easier. Cereal may be cooked the night before, while the evening meal is in preparation.

The Fruit. Persuasion comes easier when it takes the form of fruit. Varying the fruit from day to day is the best way to insure its being eaten.

Bean Casserole. 1 cup white flour, 4 tps. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 cup bran, 1/2 pkg. pasteurized dates, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 2 tps. molasses or tps. sugar, 2 tps. melted shortening.

Sift white flour, baking powder, salt and sugar, if used, into a mixing bowl. Mix the cup of dates (sliced) through the flour with the finger tips.

Chocolate Date Muffins. 2 cups flour, 4 tps. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup cocoa, 1/2 pkg. pasteurized dates, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 2 tps. melted shortening.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and cocoa together. Mix the sliced pitted dates through flour with finger tips.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY, R.C.A. Service Writer

AS long as the Irish potato is at its best, the typical American regards it as a dinner necessity. But when potatoes become scarce, of poor quality, there are many vegetables and cereals that are its just competitors.

When you plan a meal in which rice, macaroni or some other potato substitute is to be used it's well to keep in mind certain important points. Potatoes do much more than furnish starch to the diet.

Consider Food Values. Such vegetables as beets, carrots, celery, radishes and lettuce should be used in abundance with rice and the paste foods.

Meals in which dried beans and peas are used must be considered from a different angle. These foods are good sources of mineral constituents and tend to produce alkalinity when digested and assimilated by the body.

Bible class of the Central Baptist church, yesterday, with Mrs. Alice D. True, teacher of the class, hostess.

from month to month. This system presents political and diplomatic advantages; it draws into the war little by little first her own people and then the enemy, placing the rest of the world before a succession of accomplished facts.

"It proves that the military clique is at present obliged to overcome not only external but also internal obstacles. From a purely military point of view such action by 'petits fauquets' is in itself a disadvantage.

"Evidently the Japanese leaders consider that, in view of the military weakness of China and in view of the insoluble contradictions in the enemy camp, they can allow themselves at first a certain loss of time by making their advance along a spiral.

"However, after the first phase must evidently come—with or without interruption—the second that is, the phase of real war."
