WEST TEXAS C. OF C. AND THE SOLDIERS' BONUS

Representative Wright Patman, who still believes that a soldiers' bonus bill will be put over before the adjournment of congress, is reminded that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce declared against the enactment of his measure, "simultaneously with a conference of organizations on tax reduction held in the city of Fort Worth." This was the declaration of the West Texas C. C.

"The only way to cut the federal budget and stop the soldiers' bonus is through congress. Let's do our part and let congress know what we think." Just as a reminder to the national solons the directors of the largest regional chamber of commerce in the world let it be known that the government budget calls for $4,000,000,000 while our present revenues are estimated at $2,000,000,000, and that "this does not include a soldiers' bonus which is being advocated and is favored by many of our congressmen in spite of the plight of the taxpayers and the necessity of balancing our budget."

There is a large flock of candidates in the field for three congressional nominations. Well, a round dozen of these patriotic seekers for place have declared for the Patman measure. There is said to be an army of 250,000 legionnaires under the skies of Texas. If this army invades the precinct conventions in May and the July primary for the naming of all officers from top to bottom, there may be many new faces in the Texas political picture. It is said the ballot is the thing and the total primary vote promises to be very large in July.

SEARCHERS FOR COLOR AND EXPERIENCE

Many college students of New York and contiguous territory invaded the Kentucky coalfields in quest of color for their stories and experience that is obtained by a close-up of so-called wild men and women in mountainous districts. Well, they obtained some of the color and a lot of experience. They were hustled on to Tennessee and North Carolina and advised that rough handling might be theirs if they ventured to make a return trip to the dark and bloody ground commonwealth.

There is plenty of color in the poverty districts of the big industrial centers of the North and East. Why cross Mason and Dixon line? Theodore Dreiser and his squad of color and thrill seekers made the trip. They won for themselves a lot of experience and a lot of notoriety. Why not invade the coal fields of Pennsylvania and Ohio and West Virginia?

A new York girl journeyed to Arizona in search of color and to gain experience. She camped in the wilderness and sought the society of Apaches who are wards of the government. She is dead. Her Indian slayer is a lifer behind the walls of the Arizona penitentiary.

"THIS IS A SAD DAY TO ME"

Acting Chairman Charles F. Crisp of the house ways and means committee lost his nerve after the rough riders voted approval of the oil enforcement tax and the tax on lubricating oil, coal, wort, malt and grape concentrates. These were the figures: for 185; against 14. After the nomination of James M. Cox at San Francisco in 1920 the late William Jennings Bryan declared "that his heart was in the grave." Crisp of Georgia appears to be in the same frame of mind. This is what he said: "This is a sad day to me. Now I am seeing my party destroying itself by putting into the bill higher tariff rates than the Republicans ever adopted." This acting chairman is the son of a distinguished sire—that Charles F. Crisp who was speaker of the house away back in the days when Grover Cleveland was a courageous leader of his party and a great president of the American people. As for the son, he hopes to be speaker some day. Perhaps his ambition will be gratified, but he is in a hopeless minority now.

WAR DEBTS AND HOW TO PAY THEM

Export executives in a meeting in New York considered the suggestion for the formation of an international finance and trading organization to solve the problems of German reparations and inter-allied war debts and "to transfer them from the field of politics to that of business." It is said that the corporation would include in reconstruction projects in Russia, and in the development of Africa, Latin-America, China, and India.

Will Uncle Sam hold the bag? In other words, will he foot the bills as he has been doing in recent years?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The advertising columns of your newspaper will tell you where you can find splendid values for your money.

Now is the time that the money-hoarders should act, not only for their own good but for the good of the country as well, by taking their hidden currency from hiding places and depositing it in banks and spending and buying with some of it so others may work.

A. S. Thompson, publisher of the Paris, Ky., Kentuckian-Citizen, says that his paper is the oldest newspaper in the United States, having been published continuously since 1807.

In order for a city to keep ahead in the March of Progress it must keep wide awake, progressive and alert to every opportunity to advance its interests.

The fact that modern children are better physical specimens than they were even in a few years ago is not, we are convinced, due to any cycle or any sudden spurt towards physical perfection which will sink back into the normal, but, on the contrary, it is the logical outcome of better conditions and better methods of diet and exercise, though the actual conditions such as housing and fresh air will be found to be the overwhelming influence. It is astonishing how bad food will nourish and inefficient food fail in ill effect when the other circumstances of the life of a child are favorable to its healthy development.

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

Mrs. W. K. Jackson called me up this morning and said she was against the proposed amendment to the city charter which provides for the members of the city commission getting paid a little something for attending meetings. She said that the city felt that it couldn't afford to pay $15 a month toward the support of the public library and that she thought the city commissioners oughtn't to expect pay for their work.

I told Mrs. Jackson that if she and all the clubwomen would vote for me and Sid Pitzer and John Burke at election Tuesday, we'd allow them the $15 a month for the library, if we were elected. However, we want it understood that we favor the commissioners being paid a little something because we don't want to work free any worse than the library does. He says in hopes that the amendment carried that we ever announced. If the amendment don't carry, we'll resign and let the second place men have our places to which we are elected.

You all may think I'm fooling about me and Sid and John. Why we've been solicited by our friends to run for these offices. Of course, most of the friends who solicited us want us to give them jobs, but what a few jobs among friends? Especially where the friends are nearly as few as the jobs.

We've taken a new position on the gas rate. We want to see the gas company to put in these here quarter-in-the-dollar meters. Of course, they'll collect quite a bunch of slugs and we plan to give the gas company all the slugs and take all the quarters ourselves to help pay for the court costs in the suit. We mean to ride the gas company plenty, if that's what it takes to get votes in this election, boy howdy, we'll really crack down on Frank V. Williams incorporated. He hasn't bought us a coke in two weeks anyway. And we need a little bribe money.

The other candidates are not taking us seriously. They even ignore us. We haven't been asked to vote for anybody yet. We have been campaigning hard and haven't gotten the definite promise of but three votes. Everybody we talk to has either forgotten to pay his poll tax or else is a candidate for county office and won't commit himself. We are in a moss. We need support. So does the Chamber of Commerce. Our campaign expenses are running up on us, but it looks like we'll be elected. We are confident of an overwhelming victory. . . . Just like any candidates. Help us count our votes.

She recently was presented with a memorial panel commemorating his death by representatives of the Chinese Six companies and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce with headquarters in San Francisco.

Good Card on Elks Athletic Show
In Ranger Monday Night, April 4

At the request of a great number of our patrons of athletic sports to see local talent displayed at the next show given at the Elks stadium, Promoter J. B. Heister has arranged a mixed card for Monday night, April 4, starting at 8:30 p. m. instead of 8 p. m., as heretofore. All of the local boys who are on the card have displayed their wares before boxing fans here.

On the main boxing bout, six rounds, is Dick Griffin of Mineral Wells, 135 pounds, who made his home here a few years ago and many of the local fans remember him as a fast and clever boxer. He will have as his opponent Gene Noble, 15 pounds, of Abilene, a West Texas product, and one that will always give a good account of himself, any time, anywhere and against the best of them.

On the semi-final we have R. O. King, 160 pounds, of Ranger, who says he will get his man or give up boxing. He has been in training for the past 30 days and is in the best of condition. He wants no alibi if he loses. R. O.'s opponent will be none other than Sergeant Sam Thomas, who has re-entered the game. You all know what Sam can do if he extends himself and he has promised to stop his man. Sam has been working out daily and is also in good condition and promises to do his best. You know what that means.

A special four-rounder has been added and this one is going to be good. The principals are Sam Evans, local boy, who has promised by all that is good that he is going to put up the fight of his life and show the Ranger fans that he can fight. He has also been working out every day and intends to surprise the fans this time, and his opponent, Jack Tucker of Abilene, who fought Sam before, will have to look out for Sam is going after him.

In the four-round preliminary we are introducing a new local boy in the ring, one whom you all know but have never seen him with the padded mitts. He is none other than Troy Grubbs, who will make his debut in the local ring. Watch him. He will have for his running mate Corporal Thurman O'Keefe, also a Ranger boy, who will try and shatter Troy's first appearance. A curtain-raiser will be announced and introduced at ringside by Announcer Chief Murphy.

The main wrestling event is the best two falls in three with one and one-half hour limit between Leon Pafford, 196 pounds, of Eastland, who has won his last 20 fights against all comers, and Pat Swanson, 180 pounds, of Fort Worth. Pat will try and break that string of victories. Pat is not only a wrestler of championship caliber, but also a first class referee. He has the distinction of being the only referee who has ever presided over two championship wrestling matches in one week. March 21 he presided over the junior welterweight match at Ranger between Novack and Wilson and on March 24 he presided over the light heavyweight match between Easton Champion Hugh Nichols and Elmer Guthrie at Fort Worth.

This will be one of the hottest wrestling matches ever seen in West Texas. Get your reservations at the usual places. The prices are 50 cents and 75 cents.

Law School Will Have Grid Team

DALLAS, April 2.—Another strong collegiate football team for the southwest appeared probable today when Jefferson University of Law, a private school here, employed a coach and announced intentions to establish a national reputation.

Andrew J. Priest, president, signed a five-year contract with Nick Dehbs, Dallas, whose school teams have had great success using Notre Dame plays. Priest said he decided on this course after seeing the "phenomenal rise to prominence of Southern Methodist University in a comparatively short time, part of which, I attribute to the fine performance of its football teams."

Cotton Patches May Be Source Of Gasoline

By I. L. FEMRITE.
NEW ORLEANS, La.—The southern cotton patches may some day become the gasoline service stations of the world. Scientists have discovered that gasoline can be manufactured from cotton. They are only waiting for the crude oil supply to run out before introducing "cotton gas" to the public.

The discovery was reported by the division of organic chemistry of the American Chemical Society convention here by Dr. Gustav Eloff and Dr. J. J. Morrell, chemist for the Universal Oil Products company.

"Gasoline from cottonseed oil is technically practical," said these men of science. "From the present economic standpoint, however, its production from cotton is somewhat remote because of the vast supply of crude oil."

The cracking process, which is the dominating factor in gasoline production from petroleum, is also a method by which motor fuel can be made from cottonseed oil, they reported.

From this oil, their experiments showed, as high as 57 per cent of good quality gasoline has been produced. Cottonseed oil is used extensively as butter substitute in salad dressing and for various cooking purposes.

In addition to gasoline, they reported cracking of cottonseed oil by distillation at high temperature under pressure produces a heavier distillate, gas and coke. The heavier oil is suitable for engines of the Diesel type or for furnace fuel. The uncondensable gas contains "olefinic hydrocarbons" which may be converted into alcohol, and "butadienes" from which synthetic rubber may be made. The coke residue is suitable for electrode manufacture and for use in producing gasoline from coal tars, shale oils, fish oils and many other sources.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

'Sunday Houses' of Fredericksburgh Are Familiar Texas Landmarks

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles on the historical landmarks of Texas, written by Samuel E. Gideon, A. I. A., associate professor of architecture at the University of Texas. Mr. Gideon is national committee chairman of the American Institute of Architects for the preservation of historic and worthwhile landmarks.

AUSTIN, April 2.—In the early days of Fredericksburgh, which was founded in the 1840's, Fredericksburgh farmers early realized that it was their advantage to join forces with the townsmen to secure the best available preachers and teachers, and they mingled the inconceivable of having to go to town for church, and for the schooling of their children. A territory for 20 miles around co-operated in this.

Before the use of the automobile, the farmers came to town Saturday afternoon to do their "trading," remaining throughout Sunday for divine service and returning to the farms some time Monday morning. Hotels were scarce, but, even so, the frugal farmers did not choose to spend their money in that way, especially if their families were large, so when they did not camp under the trees or in camp yards, they often visited town relatives or friends. Word came to one of these farmers that his town kinsman no longer welcomed his visits so he decided he would build himself a "Sunday house," which he forthwith did. The idea became popular and "Sunday houses" appeared on side streets, in the neighborhood of churches, on cheap lots on the outskirts of the town, and some within the churchyard itself, since the churches took to the idea as being a good business proposition.

At first, the Sunday houses of which there still exist, were one-room affairs of wood or log or stone. Generally the roof is gabled, serving as sleeping quarters for the children, usually the side boys, and the father, who by an outside stairway, though occasionally from the inside by means of a perpendicular ladder against the wall, as in barns. The reason for the outside stairway was to conserve space around, also, to insure that the boys returning late at night might not disturb the older people below.

Though there are some single-story "Sunday houses," others have been added to as the family grew or in the advent of the house becoming a permanent residence. Sometimes these added-to houses resemble a saw-tooth from the side, and frequently the tongues are of logs, the next of half timber, and the next of rock.

Frequently many people occupy these one-room houses which are unusually severely simple, and meagerly furnished. The food of the week-end is generally prepared at the farm and brought in pans and boxes, as the Sunday house has only the simplest means for warming food.

A strange tidiness to Fredericksburgh's swept yards is due to the fact that grass is not permitted to grow because of an old-time fear of snakes. Though the Sunday houses are immaculate inside, weeds are permitted to grow in their yards and this helps to identify a Sunday house. On week days the drawn shades, closed blinds, doors, windows and gates give to the house a deserted look, but on Saturday afternoon or early Sunday morning, all is bustle until church time; after church the Sunday meal is eaten. In the afternoon, while the German boys and girls, the men sit in tilted-back chairs on the porch, discussing the crops and politics, and the children go to Sunday school which is conducted in German.

German is almost universally spoken in Fredericksburgh and its vicinity. One hears an occasional English word which has a German accent and frequently the tongues are mixed, as "wasser-melon" for "water-melon," "bone-kopf" for "bone-head," "krick wasser" for "creek water," etc. The older people speak better German and much better English than the children.

Though some of the Sunday houses were not built originally as Sunday houses, but were residences acquired for that purpose, some Sunday houses have been made into permanent dwellings.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

PERHAPS the greatest impediment in one's fight against liver-plumpness is the bridge uncheer, that wily foe of dieting, the dieting guest fears that she may offend her hostess if she fails to partake of the tempting rich food usually served, but she knows that if she yields she breaks down her carefully guarded diet and undoes the work of weeks of stern reducing.

But bridge luncheons do not have to be so noxious to diets. The hospital hostess of today plans her menus with her reducing friends in mind and combines delicatly with a minimum of caloric content. And the dieting guest can skip a bit on breakfast he day the bridge club meets.

There are a few general suggestions the hostess may want to remember when planning her spring uncheon menus.

Count Those Calories!
In the first place, take stock of her calories. It's the fats, starches and sugars that increase the caloric count at such an alarming rate. This includes in the food list all bread-stuffs—particularly hot buttered rolls so popular on uncheon menus—cream sauces, mayonnaise, whipped cream and very sweet desserts made with yolks of eggs as well as cake mixtures. Angel food cake is not taboo since it's made mostly of egg whites.

Toasted crackers can often take the place of bread. A soda cracker is said to have about one-fourth as many calories as an unbuttered slice of bread the same size as the cracker.

Fruit cocktails (unsweetened), spirit. Bring another this morning and double the school.

Morning worship, 11 a. m. An eventful day for many, is the promise of this hour. Holy communion will be observed, after a brief meditation by the pastor, christening of infants, and the consecration of newly-elected church officials will precede the communion. These solemn services should engage the attention and prayer of every member and friend of the congregation.

Evening worship, 7:45 p. m. "Go a Little Farther" is the sermon theme.
Christian Endeavor, 7 p. m.
Ladies' Auxiliary, Monday, 3 p. m.
Choir practice, Wednesday, 7:45 p. m.

The new fiscal year of the Presbyterian church begins April 1. May we not build up the past, and press on to greater service and sacrifice for the community, the church and the Christ? Be present today, participate in the ordinances of the church, and receive the inspiration of positive communion with Christ. "The little white church on the hill" has an open door, a loving heart and a worth-while program for those who desire it.

ST. RITA'S CHURCH
Masses today will be at 8 and 10 a. m., by Rev. P. Ruano. The gospel read today is taken from St. John XX, 19-31. This gospel relates two apparitions; one on Easter Sunday and the other eight days later, namely, Low Sunday. In the first instance Christ said to the Apostles: "Whose sin you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained." In the second instance Christ tells the Apostle Thomas to put his finger and hands into the wounds of Christ so that he—Thomas may believe Christ rose from the dead.

Progress Is Made In Re-Surveying University Lands

Special Correspondent.
AUSTIN.—Good progress is being made in the work of re-surveying the 2,080,000 acres of land in West Texas, owned by the University of Texas, according to reports made to the board of regents. The survey is being made under direction of Frank F. Friend of San Angelo. Mr. Friend is a member of the state board of examiners for licensed land surveyors.

At present the force of engineers are running the lines for a university block of approximately 900,000 acres in Crockett county. The re-survey of large blocks of university-owned lands in Winkler, Ward, Loving, Crane and Ector counties has been completed, but not all of the corners have as yet been marked by the erection of concrete monuments.

No report has as yet been made as to whether the new survey corresponds to the original lines that were run by engineers following the granting of 1,000,000 acres to the university by the legislature in 1884. Preceding this grant, the constitutional convention of 1876 had donated 1,000,000 acres of public lands to that institution.

At the time the original surveys were made that part of Texas was practically unsettled. Raids by hostile Indians were of recent occurrence. Water was scarce and many hardships were encountered by the crew of engineers.

The papers will preach a special message at the evening hour.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH.
Mass at 8 a. m.
This is Low Sunday and the Gospel is taken from St. John 20:19-31. In the early days of Christianity the sacrament of baptism was solemnly administered on Holy Saturday, that is the Saturday before Easter Sunday; the new-baptized were, in token of their baptismal innocence, white garments, which they solemnly took off today, "yet so," as St. Augustine says, "that the whiteness, which was laid aside in the garment, was retained in the soul." This Sunday therefore is named White Sunday. On this day, or in some other day in Easter week, it was formerly a general custom for those who had received baptism a year before to assemble in the church, in order to solemnize the anniversary of their spiritual regeneration. The priest, in presence of their sponsors, renewed with them the promises of baptism and exhorted them with earnest and affectionate words to keep the covenant entered into with God. This is therefore a very appropriate day for us to examine ourselves honestly and find out if we are living up to the promises we made in baptism and if we are really in a spiritual sense the children of God and heirs of the kingdom of heaven which we became when we were baptized. Christ told us: "Unless you be born again of water and the Holy Ghost you cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven." Since we are baptized only mortal sin can keep us out of the kingdom of heaven. God forgives all sins if we repent and firmly promise not to sin mortally again. Hence if we are lost eternally we are lost through our own fault.

Since we are baptized only mortal sin can keep us out of the kingdom of heaven. God forgives all sins if we repent and firmly promise not to sin mortally again. Hence if we are lost eternally we are lost through our own fault.

Tires Are Showing New Improvements

New developments in the rubber industry this year are following closely the general trend of automotive improvements, according to Frank and Roy Plumley of Plumley Bros. Service station, who just returned from Dallas where they attended a tire dealers' conference sponsored by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company.

Tires of improved flexibility and lower pressures providing additional motoring comfort and safety are rapidly gaining widespread favor, the boys said.

"The Goodrich company just introduced low-pressure tires for small cars and colored tires for larger automobiles, which already have wide acceptance. These, together with the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown tire, introduced early this year, follow the lines of beauty, comfort, silence, economy and speed so exemplified by latest automobile design."

More aggressive merchandising methods combined with increased appropriations for newspaper advertising are policies stressed by Goodrich officials at the conference.

One of the most effective presentations offered by any organization was made by Goodrich, according to the Plumley brothers. The entire 1932 program, including a characteristic study of the retail tire business, was dramatized by a cast of Goodrich staff employees in a three-act play which has carried the Goodrich story to its entire sales organization this year.

Since we are baptized only mortal sin can keep us out of the kingdom of heaven. God forgives all sins if we repent and firmly promise not to sin mortally again. Hence if we are lost eternally we are lost through our own fault.

WEST TEXAS C. OF C. AND THE SOLDIERS' BONUS
Representative Wright Patman, who still believes that a soldiers' bonus bill will be put over before the adjournment of congress, is reminded that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce declared against the enactment of his measure, "simultaneously with a conference of organizations on tax reduction held in the city of Fort Worth." This was the declaration of the West Texas C. C.:

"The only way to cut the federal budget and stop the soldiers' bonus is through congress. Let's do our part and let congress know what we think." Just as a reminder to the national solons the directors of the largest regional chamber of commerce in the world let it be known that the government budget calls for $4,000,000,000 while our present revenues are estimated at $2,000,000,000, and that "this does not include a soldiers' bonus which is being advocated and is favored by many of our congressmen in spite of the plight of the taxpayers and the necessity of balancing our budget."

There is a large flock of candidates in the field for three congressional nominations. Well, a round dozen of these patriotic seekers for place have declared for the Patman measure. There is said to be an army of 250,000 legionnaires under the skies of Texas. If this army invades the precinct conventions in May and the July primary for the naming of all officers from top to bottom, there may be many new faces in the Texas political picture. It is said the ballot is the thing and the total primary vote promises to be very large in July.

SEARCHERS FOR COLOR AND EXPERIENCE

Many college students of New York and contiguous territory invaded the Kentucky coalfields in quest of color for their stories and experience that is obtained by a close-up of so-called wild men and women in mountainous districts. Well, they obtained some of the color and a lot of experience. They were hustled on to Tennessee and North Carolina and advised that rough handling might be theirs if they ventured to make a return trip to the dark and bloody ground commonwealth.

There is plenty of color in the poverty districts of the big industrial centers of the North and East. Why cross Mason and Dixon line? Theodore Dreiser and his squad of color and thrill seekers made the trip. They won for themselves a lot of experience and a lot of notoriety. Why not invade the coal fields of Pennsylvania and Ohio and West Virginia?

A New York girl journeyed to Arizona in search of color and to gain experience. She camped in the wilderness and sought the society of Apaches who are wards of the government. She is dead. Her Indian slayer is a lifter behind the walls of the Arizona penitentiary.

"THIS IS A SAD DAY TO ME"

Acting Chairman Charles F. Crisp of the house ways and means committee lost his nerve after the rough riders voted approval of the oil enforcement tax and the tax on lubricating oil, coal, wort, malt and grape concentrates. These were the figures: for 185; against 14. After the nomination of James M. Cox at San Francisco in 1920 the late William Jennings Bryan declared "that his heart was in the grave." Crisp of Georgia appears to be in the same frame of mind. This is what he said: "This is a sad day to me. Now I am seeing my party destroying itself by putting into the bill higher tariff rates than the Republicans ever adopted." This acting chairman is the son of a distinguished sire—that Charles F. Crisp who was speaker of the house away back in the days when Grover Cleveland was a courageous leader of his party and a great president of the American people. As for the son, he hopes to be speaker some day. Perhaps his ambition will be gratified, but he is in a hopeless minority now.

WAR DEBTS AND HOW TO PAY THEM

Export executives in a meeting in New York considered the suggestion for the formation of an international finance and trading organization to solve the problems of German reparations and inter-allied war debts and "to transfer them from the field of politics to that of business." It is said that the corporation would indulge in reconstruction projects in Russia, and in the development of Africa, Latin-America, China, and India.

Will Uncle Sam hold the bag? In other words, will he foot the bills as he has been doing in recent years?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

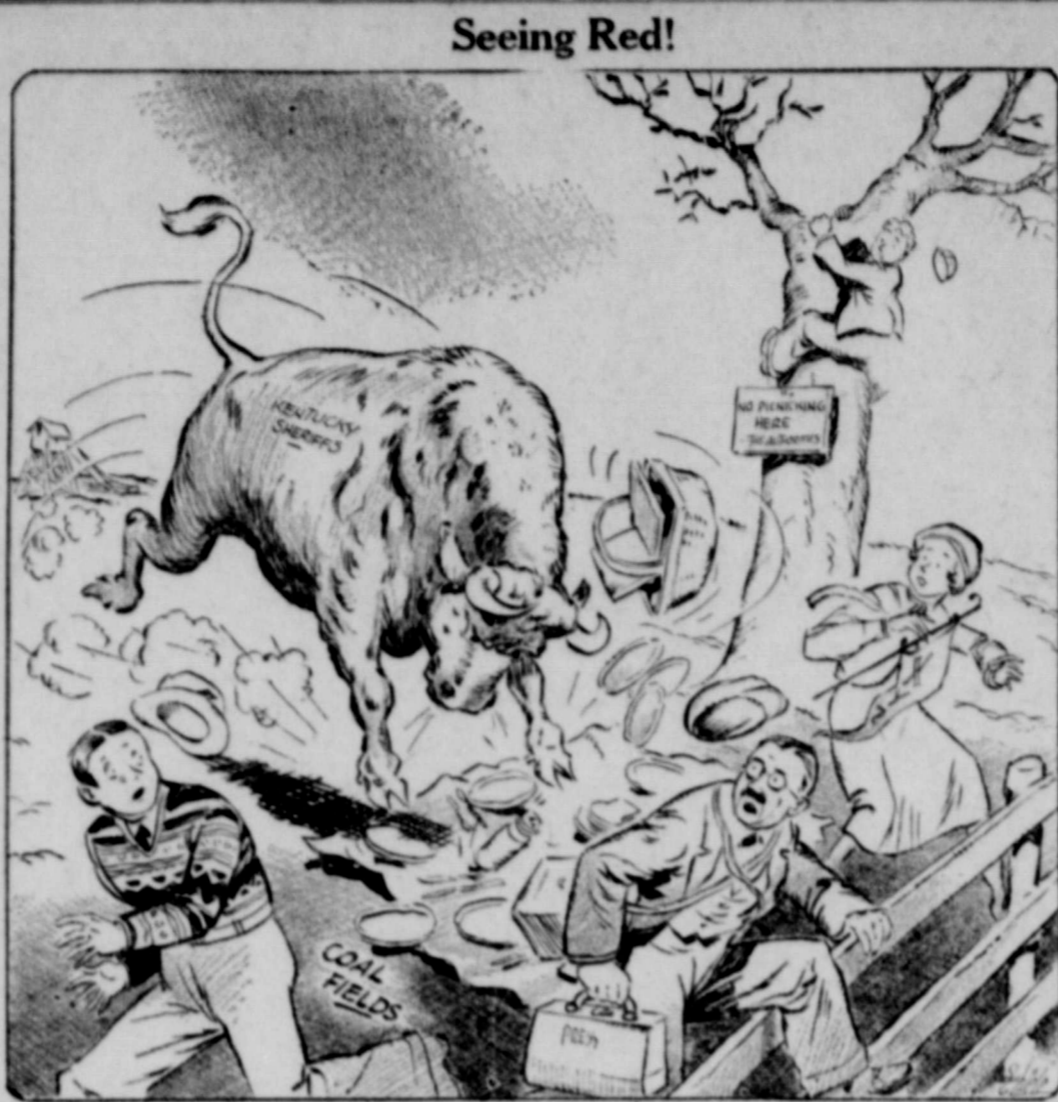

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The advertising columns of your newspaper will tell you where you can find splendid values for your money.

Now is the time that the money-hoarders should act, not only for their own good but for the good of the country as well, by taking their hidden currency from hiding places and depositing it in banks and spending and buying with some of it so others may work.

A. S. Thompson, publisher of the Paris, Ky., Kentuckian-Citizen, says that his paper is the oldest newspaper in the United States, having been published continuously since 1807.

In order for a city to keep ahead in the March of Progress it must keep wide awake, progressive and alert to every opportunity to advance its interests.

The fact that modern children are better physical specimens than they were even in a few years ago is not, we are convinced, due to any cycle or any sudden sport towards physical perfection which will sink back into the normal, but, on the contrary, it is the logical outcome of better conditions and better methods of diet and exercise, though the actual conditions such as housing and fresh air will be found to be the overwhelming influence. It is astonishing how bad food will nourish and inefficient food fail in ill effect when the other circumstances of the life of a child are favorable to its healthy development.

Seeing Red!

GRIPINGS BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By GUS WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

Mrs. W. K. Jackson called me up this morning and said she was against the proposed amendment to the city charter which provides for the members of the city commission getting paid a little something for attending meetings. She said that the city felt that it couldn't afford to pay $15 a month toward the support of the public library and that she thought the city commissioners oughtn't to expect pay for their work.

I told Mrs. Jackson that if she and all the clubwomen would vote for me and Sid Pitzer and John Burke at election Tuesday, we'd allow them the $15 a month for the library if we ever anything for attending meetings. She said that we favor the commissioners being paid a little something because we don't want to work free any worse than the library does. It was in hopes that the amendment carried that she said that.

You all may think I'm fooling about me and Sid and John. Why we've been solicited by our friends run for these offices. Of course, most of the friends who solicited us want us to give them jobs, but what's a few jobs among friends? Especially where the friends are nearly as few as the jobs.

We've taken a new position on the gas rate. We want to the gas company to put in these here quarter-in-the-slot meters. Of course, they'll collect quite a bunch of slugs and we plan to give the gas company all the slugs and take all the quarters ourselves to help pay for the cost coats in the suit. We mean to ride the gas company plenty. If that's what it takes to get votes in this election, boy howdy, we'll really crack down on Frank V. Williams incorporated. He hasn't bought us a coke in two weeks anyway. And we need a little bribe money.

The other candidates are not taking us seriously. They even ignore us. We haven't been asked to vote for anybody yet. We have been campaigning hard and haven't gotten the definite promise of but three votes. Everybody we talk to has either forgotten to pay his poll tax or else is a candidate for county office and won't commit himself. We are in a mess. We need support. So does the Chamber of Commerce. Our campaign expenses are running up on us, but it looks like we'll be elected. We are confident of an overwhelming victory. . . . Just like all candidates. Help us count our votes.

'Sunday Houses' of Fredericksburgh Are Familiar Texas Landmarks

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles on the historical landmarks of Texas, written by Samuel E. Gideon, A. L. A., associate professor of architecture at the University of Texas. Mr. Gideon is national committee-man of the American Institute of Architects. He has written a similar institution in Middletown, Conn., in use as early as 1660 and "Sabba day houses." Using the language of A. B. M. in the Christian Science Monitor: "It was thought sinful to build a fire in the house and Sabba day houses were primarily built for the people coming to church, to be used for them to get warm at the large fireplaces therein."

CHURCHES

CHURCH OF CHRIST (A Friendly Church)
D. W. Nichol, Minister

With Springtime and sunshine let us redouble our efforts to establish an all-time record for class attendance. The burden of each teacher's heart is to instill the principles of Christianity in the life of each pupil. We invite you and your family to be with us promptly at 10 o'clock.

Preaching, 11 a. m., subject, "The Church and Its Work." Text, Jas. 1:22. Acceptable service unto Jehovah must be in accordance with his will and through appointed means. Every professed Christian should be interested in this subject. You are invited to be with us.

Communion services, 11:45. Preaching, 7:45 p. m., subject, "Cleanliness." Scripture reading 2nd Cor. 7:1-10. A Bible lesson spoken in love.

Communion services, 8:30. Monday, 2 p. m. Ladies' Bible class. Lesson, Gen. 41st chapter. You are invited to attend one hour of real Bible study. Come and bring your Bible questions, either on the lesson or any other portion of the Bible, you will be referred to chapter and verse for your answer.

Wednesday evening Bible study, 2nd chapter 1st Thess. Our efforts are always to teach the truth, and never to bolster a theory. Questions answered.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
SEA Service Writer

PERHAPS the greatest impediment in one's fight against over-plumpness is the bridge luncheon, that wily foe of dieting. The dieting guest fears that she may offend her hostess if she fails to partake of the tempting rich food usually served, but she knows that if she yields she breaks down under carefully guarded diet and unties the work of weeks of stern "reducing."

But bridge luncheons do not have to be so noxious to diets. The thoughtful hostess of today plans her menus with her reducing friends in mind and combines delicatessen with a minimum of caloric content. And the dieting guest can skip a bit on breakfast if she brings the bridge club meets.

There are a few general suggestions the hostess may want to remember when planning her spring luncheon menus.

Count Those Calories!
In the first place, take stock of the calories. It's the fats, starches and sugars that increase the caloric count at such an alarming rate. This includes in the food list all bread-stuffs—particularly not buttered rolls so popular on luncheon menus—cream sauces, mayonnaise, whipped cream and very sweet desserts made with oils of eggs as well as cake mixtures. Angel food cake is not taboo since it's made mostly of egg whites.

Toasted crackers can often take the place of bread. A soda cracker is said to have about one-fourth as many calories as an unbuttered slice of bread the same size as the cracker.

Fruit cocktails (unsweetened), spirit. Bring another this morning and double the school.

Morning worship, 11 a. m. An eventful day for many. Is the promise of this hour. Holy communion will be observed, after a brief meditation by the pastor, christening of infants, and the consecration of newly-elected church officials will precede the communion. These solemn services should engage the attention and prayer of every member and friend of the congregation.

Evening worship, 7:45 p. m. "Go a Little Farther" is the sermon theme.

Christian Endeavor, 7 p. m. Ladies' Auxiliary, Monday, 3 p. m.

Choir practice, Wednesday, 7:45 p. m. The new fiscal year of the Presbyterian church begins April 1.

May we not build up the past, and press on to greater service and sacrifice for the community, the church and the Christ? Be present today, participate in the ordinances of the church, and receive the inspiration of positive communion with Christ. "The little white church on the hill" has an open door, a loving heart and a worth-while program for those who desire it.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

Progress Is Made In Re-Surveying University Lands

Special Correspondent.

AUSTIN.—Good progress is being made in the work of re-surveying the 2,050,000 acres of land in West Texas, owned by the University of Texas, according to reports made to the board of regents. The survey is being made under direction of Frank F. Friend of San Angelo. Mr. Friend is a member of the state board of examiners for licensed land surveyors.

At present the force of engineers are running the lines for a university block of approximately 500,000 acres in Crockett county. The re-survey of large blocks of university-owned lands in Winkler, Ward, Loving, Crane and Ector counties has been completed, but not all of the corners have as yet been marked by the erection of concrete monuments.

No report has as yet been made as to whether the new survey corresponds to the original lines that were run by engineers following the granting of 1,000,000 acres to the university by the legislature in 1884. Preceding this grant the constitutional convention of 1876 had donated 1,000,000 acres of public lands to that institution.

At the time the original surveys were made that part of Texas was practically unsettled. Raids by hostile Indians were of recent occurrence. Water was scarce and many hardships were encountered by the crew of engineers.

in the congregational singing. The pastor will preach a special message at the evening hour.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH

Mass at 8 a. m. This is Low Sunday and the Gospel is taken from St. John 20:19-31. In the early days of Christianity the sacrament of baptism was solemnly administered on Holy Saturday, that is the Saturday before Easter Sunday; the new-baptized were, in token of their baptismal innocence, white garments, which they solemnly took off today, "yet so," as St. Augustine says, "that the whiteness, which was laid aside in the garment, was retained in the soul." This Sunday therefore is named White Sunday. On this day, or in some other day in Easter week, it was formerly a general custom for those who had received baptism a year before to assemble in the church, in order to solemnize the anniversary of their spiritual regeneration. The priest, in presence of their sponsors, renewed with them the promises of baptism and exhorted them with earnest and affectionate words to keep the covenant entered into with God. This is therefore a very appropriate day for us to examine ourselves honestly and find out if we are living up to the promises we made in baptism and if we are really in a spiritual sense the children of God and heirs of the kingdom of heaven which we became when we were baptized. Christ told us: "Unless you be born again of water and the Holy Ghost you cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven." Since we are baptized only mortal sin can keep us out of the kingdom of heaven. God forgives all sins if we repent and firmly promise not to sin mortally again. Hence if we are lost eternally we are lost through our own fault.

Come and worship with us. "And ye shall seek me and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart."—Jer. 29:13.

ST. RITA'S CHURCH

Masses today will be at 8 and 10 a. m., by Rev. P. Ruano. The gospel read today is taken from St. John XX. 19-31. This gospel relates two apparitions: one on Easter Sunday and the other eight days later, namely, Low Sunday. In the first instance Christ said to the Apostles: "Whose sin you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained." In the second instance Christ tells the Apostle Thomas to put his finger and hands into the wounds of Christ so that he—Thomas may believe Christ rose from the dead.

WASHINGTON CIRCUS

BY DAVID WRIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Radio Corporation of America, against which the federal government has brought suit for dissolution on charges that it violated the anti-trust laws, has had another day in court.

Attorney General Mitchell filed an amended complaint in the federal court at Wilmington, Del., dealing with RCA's activities in restraint of foreign trade and international communications and touching on other phases of domestic commerce.

It will be a year in May since the corporation of America was found guilty in federal court of monopolistic practices. Following his decision there was nothing for the department of justice to do but bring suit for dissolution, which it did. The case has been hanging fire ever since, and not long ago a senate resolution was passed requesting Mitchell to report to that body on the progress of the case.

This resolution was called forth by reports that RCA was endeavoring to effect a compromise whereby in return for its throwing open patent pool to all radio manufacturing concerns, the government would dismiss the suit for dissolution.

RCA already had won a technical victory by the refusal of the federal radio commission to revoke the combine's 1,408 radio licenses. The federal radio law provides that any person or corporation who is convicted of violating the provisions shall forfeit his license upon conviction of setting up an attempt to set up a monopoly. The commission dodged behind a technical interpretation of the law and refused to revoke the licenses. It was reported at the time that strong political pressure upon a person high in the administration was brought to bear to prevent revocation.

The National Broadcasting company has been made a party to the suit by the amended petition. NBC is the chief subsidiary of Radio Corporation of America, and its very life is at stake. Even though NBC has not been named as a party to the suit, the penalties which would have to be shared if the company were found guilty of a crime are not to be shared by RCA. It is believed that Attorney General Mitchell sought NBC into the complaint for the purpose of strengthening it.

It is asserted that NBC is itself a monopoly in restraint of trade and that it is attempting to create for itself a booking office monopoly in the entertainment field. The department of justice understood to be looking into this phase in response to many complaints from independent booking offices, singers and musicians. The singers and musicians are said to have complained that advertisers purchasing radio time on NBC chain are not permitted to hire persons not listed with the RCA Artists' Service, which is the

American Girl Is Hit In Opera

By United Press.

COLOGNE.—The opening of Max Reinhardt's revival of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann" early in March brought an added pleasure to the American colony here in seeing an American girl in one of the leading feminine parts. Miss Margaret Halstead, daughter of the United States consul general in London, Albert Halstead, sang the role of Juliette with a temperament and poise which convinced critics of her future success. Miss Halstead has been engaged in the ensemble of the Cologne opera since the beginning of the season, but this is the first solo part she has taken. Juliette, the Venetian courtesan, who, under the malignant influence of Desper-tutto, steals Hoffmann's love and then sears him, is not easy to portray. Miss Halstead presents her convincingly in her varying moods with her lovers, avoiding the exaggeration, or affectation, to which the role might easily lead. Although the solo parts are somewhat brief and do not give a full opportunity to her voice, Miss Halstead carried them bravely, singing clearly and without effort in both upper and middle registers. Many members of the English colony, in addition to the Americans, greeted Miss Halstead enthusiastically at the close. She will complete the season with the Cologne opera.

Lower Prices Are Quoted On Cars

By United Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 2.—The automotive industry's fight to open the pocketbooks of the nation and the coincidental fight for the low-priced car market, was marked today by price reductions announcements by two companies and a great national exhibit by General Motors. Pontiac dropped in line on the price reduction started by the Ford Motor company and announced a new range from $635 to $795. The Hupmobile 'six, standard models, were reduced to prices ranging from $795 to $950. Chevrolet already had announced reductions ranging up to $55.

The new Plymouth, a Chrysler product and a factor in the low-priced field, also went on display throughout the country. The price to be announced today, is expected to be in line with Ford and Chevrolet.

The price reduction on Pontiac ranging up to $50 and the earlier announced reduction in the Chevrolet, added interest in the exhibits of General Motors products. All the corporations latest models were on display while in competitor's show rooms, the Ford V-8 announced reduction in the Chevrolet, added interest in the exhibits of General Motors products.

CAMERA 85 FEET LONG.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Armed with a camera 85 feet long, an expedition from the Franklin institute headed by James Stokley, will take photographs of the total eclipse of the sun from Conway, N. H., next August.

the man HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Susan Carey, studying shorthand in a Chicago business school, meets Ben Lampman, a dour young musician, at a party. Although Aunt Jessie, with whom Susan lives, objects to her having suitors, the girl lets Ben escort her home. Robert Dunbar, a young millionaire, is a schoolmate of Susan's at the business institute. Dunbar takes her to lunch and Susan finds herself deeply interested in the young man.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

They walked along through the summer dusk, two very self-conscious young people. Susan thought everyone on the block must be noticing her. At the corner where Schultz's drug store window showed a pink and purple display of cold creams and powders she shrank into young Lampman's tall shadow.

The usual hanger-ons were outside the cigar store, simply youth whispering to each other. Susan knew one or two but pretended not to see them. "Do you always walk so fast?" demanded Ben Lampman in a surprised tone as they arrived, rather breathless, under the theatre's blazing portal.

Susan shook her head. She was blushing. How was she to explain to him that this was the first time she had ever gone anywhere in the evening with a young man? She half started to speak, then checked the impulse.

No, he would think her what Rose Milton called "a dope." She wouldn't tell him. Susan was afraid of ridicule.

Silently they walked past the doorman in his white coat and silver buttons. Silently they slipped to their seats. Susan, crushing past knees in the darkness, wondered suddenly and agonizingly why she had come. She longed with all her heart to be safe and quiet and solitary on Aunt Jessie's front porch.

There was this much to be said about the pictures. You didn't have to talk to your escort. You could be the veriest clam and still be social success at a Nancy Carroll talkie. Soon Susan forgot to be self-conscious, forgot to wonder if there were all around her prying neighbors who could report her adventures to Aunt Jessie. She watched the screen with avid interest.

"Such rot!" She heard a low voice growling into her ear. She almost jumped with astonishment, having put the young man at her side almost out of her mind.

"This stuff is terrible," Ben Lampman muttered to her. "Where'd they get that chinsless hero?"

Susan smiled. "He is pretty bad. But she's cunning. I like her."

Ben groaned. "I think it's rotten. Want to stay?"

Susan wriggled with displeasure. "Yes—yes, I won't mind."

Lampman settled down with a martyred air. Was this, Susan wondered, the way all boys behaved when they invited you out? Somehow it didn't come up to her ideal of knightly conduct. She was a bit huffed and showed it.

Walking home Ben tried to take her arm but Susan broke away primly.

"Let's hurry. My aunt will be home—and—"

"And what?" he wanted to know.

"She doesn't like me to be out late. She'll be mad as hops. She's very particular." Susan tossed her head. Let him like it or not!

Ben loped along at her side, taking two long, indolent steps for four of the girl's short ones. "Oh, she is, is she?" he commented, drily.

"Yes," Susan told him. She began to feel decidedly uncomfortable at the thought of facing Aunt Jessie. She began to wish the tall, dark young man striding beside her was at the bottom of Lake Michigan. Anywhere—just so Aunt Jessie might not discover Susan's perfidy!

"Don't you want to leave me here?" the girl inquired nervously, under the street lamp at the corner nearest her home. "I can just as well go the rest of the way alone."

"You're not angry at me?" Ben asked.

with a man! What conclusions might she not draw?

The lamp in the sitting room window shone full out, but there was no rocking figure on the porch.

"Good night, and thanks for taking me," Susan said in a low voice, proffering her hand.

Ben Lampman took it and the dark gaze he bent on the girl made here uncomfortable.

"You're not angry at me?" he asked with unexpected humility. Susan softened at something abstract in his gaze. His eyes were like the dark eyes of a dog that has been beaten too often.

"No, I'm not angry," she said. "But I must go in now."

"Can I give you a ring some time?" pursued her escort eagerly. Susan, in a panic, thought she heard Aunt Jessie at the screen door, so she threw caution to the winds.

"Do, Any time at all," she murmured sweetly. She fled before he could say more.

She hoped her cheeks were not as pink as they felt when she braved Aunt Jessie in the kitchen.

"The idea of traipsing off that way the minute my back was turned," Aunt Jessie was grumbling dourly. "I've been as nervous as a wiper, watching—the clock. It's a wonder you wouldn't want to get to bed at a decent hour once in a while. You hate so to get up in the morning."

The complaint flowed on and on. Susan sighed and turned to her own room.

"Wasn't that a man's voice I heard just now as you came in?" Aunt Jessie demanded, looking stern.

Susan decided to brazen it out. "Yes, Mary Ruth wasn't home and that nice boy I met at Rose's met me and asked me to go to the movies."

Aunt Jessie, utterly scandalized, sat down in a hurry. She put one hand to her heart.

"The very idea!" she said bleakly. "I had a feeling you weren't at Mary Ruth's. I had a good mind to slip on my sheet again and walk over there. I am so jumpy. What the world is coming to with girls traipsing all over town with people they hardly know!"

"He plays the organ at St. Peter's Episcopal church," cried Susan.

Susan, remembering something Rose had said about Ben Lampman.

Aunt Jessie's tirade collapsed suddenly and amazingly. "Does he?" she asked, mollified. "Then he must be a real nice young man." She pouted this. Susan seized the opportunity to slip into the bathroom and run the water noisily into the tub. Her breath was still coming rapidly and she had the feeling of having escaped from some great danger.

But Aunt Jessie's silence endured only for a moment. She stood outside the bathroom door, calling loudly above the rumble of the running water. "But who is he? Where does he live? And who are his parents?"

Susan groaned inwardly. Aunt Jessie in one of her fiercely interrogative moods was trying.

She thrilled. "I'm in the tub. Can't it wait until morning?" She could hear Aunt Jessie snort unbelievably. Then, as she listened fearfully there came the heart-breaking sound of firm, heavy steps retreating down the hall. Susan sighed. She felt relief. She would have some hours, at least, in which to think up satisfactory answers for her aunt. Breakfast would find Aunt Jessie in her most uncomplaining mood.

"If she knew I'd gone to lunch with another man this week!" breathed Susan, feeling terribly wicked.

She sighed. Wasn't she ever to have any fun without such scenes. Not that going out with Ben Lampman came under the head of amusement, really. What a somber, disagreeable youth he was! Such a contrast to the sunny, blue-eyed heir to the Dunbar millions. Susan smiled a secret little curved smile, remembering the way Robert Dunbar had looked at her that morning. Almost as though they shared a secret together. She liked him, even though she realized they belonged to different worlds.

She frowned, sobered and annoyed in spite of herself, by the memory of the fierce and terrible intensity in Ben Lampman's dark eyes.

Susan looked down at her arm and fancied there was a redness where he had so impulsively squeezed it. He had frightened her. There had been a sort of fury in his gaze.

"Horrid thing! I hate him!" she muttered to herself impatiently.

Why had she gone out with him, anyway? Wasn't it better to sit at home with a good book than to spend your time with anyone so rude and uncouth as that young man?

"I'll not see him again," Susan resolved.

How soon she was to break that resolve she did not realize.

Valencia Coconut Cake.
1/2 cup butter or other fat, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, grated rind one orange, 1/2 cup shredded coconut, 2 cups flour, 2 tps. baking powder, 1/2 cup orange juice.

Cream butter; add sugar gradually, then beaten eggs, and grated orange rind and coconut. Mix well. Sift flour with baking powder and add to first mixture, alternately with the strained orange juice. Place batter in layer cake pans which have been lined with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes. When layers are cool, spread with cooked white icing which has been flavored with orange juice or orange extract.

Sprinkle layers with coconut and put them together. Sprinkle additional coconut over top and sides of cake.

Date Muffins.
1 cup white flour, 3 tps. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup graham flour, 1/2 pkc. pasterized dates, 1 cup milk, 1/4 cup shortening.

Sift white flour, baking powder and salt into a mixing bowl. Add sugar and the graham (or whole wheat) flour. Mix the pitted and sliced dates through dry ingredients with finger tips. Beat egg, add milk and melted shortening. Stir as little as possible to mix. Fill well-oiled muffin pans two-thirds full of mixture. Bake in a hot oven for 20 or 30 minutes. 12-18 muffins.

Grapefruit-Orange Canape.
1 can grapefruit, 8 slices pineapple, 2 oranges, water crout.

Separate the oranges into sections, remove the white membrane. Place a slice of pineapple on an individual serving plate. On the pineapple arrange alternate sections of the orange and grapefruit to form a semicircular mound. Decorate with a sprig of water crout or fresh mint. 8 servings.

Pimiento Potato Puff.
To 1 quart well-seasoned mashed potatoes add 2 egg yolks (or 1 whole egg), slightly beaten and 2 canned pimientos, finely chopped. Place lightly in a casserole or glass baking dish. Place in a hot oven, to reheat (about 10 minutes). Six servings. The 3/4 oz. can of pimientos is the most economical buy.

Spring Blossoms Farm Pretty Setting Class Party.
Spring blossoms blending from deep shades of pink to lighter tints of orchid were intermingled with greenery and Easter lilies, affording a colorful setting when Mrs. Roy Baker and Mrs. H. Bearden, co-hostesses, entertained with a party at the home of the former hostess Friday evening. Honorary guests were members of the Alathion class of the Central Baptist Sunday school.

Opening the hour, a short session was called to order at which time class matters were discussed. Games and contests composed the diversion for the evening. Mrs. Roy Baker and Mrs. H. Bearden, co-hostesses, entertained with a party at the home of the former hostess Friday evening. Honorary guests were members of the Alathion class of the Central Baptist Sunday school.

Mrs. Stein Entertains With April Fool's Party.
Mrs. H. Stein entertained with a delightful April Fool's party at her home, 816 Cypress street, Friday evening, with members and friends of the Royal Neighbor camp complimentary guests. A color scheme of white and gold was effectively used throughout the decorations and appointments. Games, contests, April fool's jokes and stunts were enjoyed. Prize winners were Mrs. Elmer Rogers and Miss Childs, as the gay diversion drew to a close. A plate

City Council of P. T. A. and Child Study Club Associations To Meet Wednesday.
The Ranger City Council of Parent-Teacher associations and Child Study Club associations will meet at the high school auditorium, Wednesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to attend. An interesting study is climaxed with the usual annual club luncheon, which has been arranged for May 25.

Glancing back into the earlier part of the course of study carefully chosen from the British and American Essay, University of Texas, much progress has been made by the club and its group of outstanding workers.

Several prominent dates will be listed in the little red book for the year, namely, the early fall tea held in the green room, at which function the New Era club acted co-hostesses. Then again in February the two active federated organizations entertained with a bi-centennial tea, given at the Ranger Country Club. This function has been registered as perhaps the most brilliant of its kind ever to have been held in the city.

Pins soon will be perfected for the luncheon under the capable arrangement of the hospitality committee. The club's president, Mrs. A. H. Allison, and her vice president, Mrs. R. M. Davenport, have proven their personal interest and worth as members.

Thursday afternoon, topics will be heard from Mrs. Pete Jensen and Mrs. Ross Hodges.

Young P. T. A. to Meet Tuesday Afternoon.
The Young School Parent-Teacher association will hold an interesting meeting at the school auditorium Tuesday afternoon at 3:45. Every member of the organization will be interested in the plans for spring.

Ivy Leaf Study Club To Meet Thursday.
Miss A. J. Bartrug will lead the program Thursday afternoon when the Ivy Leaf study club meets at the Masonic hall at 2:30 o'clock.

Eastern Star Meeting at Hall Monday Night.

PARIS STYLES
By MARY KNIGHT,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
PARIS. — When Mademoiselle Suzet Mails, creator of the new play now in full swing at the Palais Royal theatre—"L'Homme Nu"—gathers into herself added laurels, not only for her acting, which is superb, but also for her choice of alluring costumes, she is assisted by the Maison Heim.

M. Heim also has made for Miss Mails a negligee of crepe satin in yellow, a saut de lit—picturesquely literal, a "jump from the bed," also in yellow. Reversing the usual navy blue and rose combination her theatrical trousseau contains a charming dress in rose trimmed with the navy. Accessories to match in navy are works of art.

THE VOGUE for wide brims

in the Beau Brummel style for the fallored costume. This one is made of a brilliant blue satin, lined in white with pearl buttons.
