Lindbergh Trail Leads to London And Scotland

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 4.—Important leads in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby continued to withstand investigation, police announced today, a few hours after Colonel Lindbergh had returned from a mysterious visit away from Hopewell.

The Colonel, garbed in a flying coat, drove to his estate shortly after midnight. He was accompanied by one man whose identity was not certain. Nothing definite could be learned of where he had been, although the visit of a seaplane to Martha's Vineyard, Mass., had been common by some with the trip of Lindbergh.

LONDON, April 4.—The trail of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was following with vigor today by Scotland Yard and Major Charles Schoffel of the New Jersey state police.

Oil Problems Are Based On Supply and Demand Rule

AUSTIN.—More and more it is becoming apparent that the problem of the oil industry as a whole is based primarily upon the ability of that widely extended industry to obtain a better balance between production of oil products and consumption requirements, it is stated in the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research preliminary report. Although the output of crude oil has been drastically restricted, the difficulty of keeping production under control may be judged from the facts that while the average production of crude oil in the first two weeks of March averaged about 2,142,000 barrels daily, the current shut-in production has been conservatively estimated at 3,000,000 barrels a day, the report said.

"Although the refiners of the United States in the 12 months ending March 12, operated on a weekly average of around 60 per cent of capacity, yet gasoline stocks during 1932 have closely paralleled those for the corresponding period of 1931, the report continued.

"For the week ending March 12, Oklahoma's daily crude oil production was nearly 18 per cent below that of the same period in 1931; Kansas production likewise was less than that of a year ago. In most Texas districts, production is less than a year ago—in several districts considerably less; East Texas, however, produced in the week ending March 12 at the average rate of 323,000 barrels in contrast to daily average rate of 32,700 barrels a year ago.

A BILLION ADDED TO LIFE INSURANCE

Men are protecting their own. Notwithstanding the influences of economic conditions, life insurance companies of the United States added $1,320,000,000 to their assets in 1931. This increase brought the total investment of the legal reserve life insurance companies up to $20,200,000,000. This represents the equities of more than 68,000,000 policy holders or an average $297 per policy holder. It is said the life insurance companies have been enabled to continue to serve the financial needs of the nation by adding their ownership of the fundamental securities of the country; that these new investments have assisted in maintaining work and capital by financing public projects, and by making possible public work by the absorption of state and county and municipal bonds.

This old world is jogging along as it has jogged for millions of years. It always blunders through. It turns right side up. It is not made of glass.

PIPE LINE FROM TEXAS TO THE PACIFIC

Now oil promoters who are engaged in the pipe line business are planning construction of a new pipe line from Midland, Texas, to Topolobampo, Mexico. For what purpose? To carry West Texas crude to the pipe line to connect Midland with the West Texas Pipe Line Gas company and the Amarillo gas field. An engineer has made a survey and submitted his report to the promoters. It is said that the plan contemplates piping natural gas which would supply all cities along the 660 mile trek between Midland and the west seaport of Mexico. All the promoters are said to be Californians, with James F. Sadler as chief executive and directing head.

It is said that tank steamers are now loading at San Francisco daily for Japan and other countries of the Orient. Topolobampo is the largest land locked harbor in the world and has 40 feet of water at its dock. Moreover Topolobampo is nearly as close to the Texas oil field as Houston or nearly as close as Port Arthur. There is something doing every day in the oil fields of the world.

CIGARET SMOKERS FRIENDS OF EDUCATION

There is a federal excise tax on tobacco including cigars. There is a state tax on cigars. Well, the state tax has made it possible for Texas to pay its per capita apportionment of $17.50 to Texas schools. State Supt. S. M. N. Marrs has the figures. He predicts that the per capita quota next year will be $16. He is advocating that the burden of the ad valorem taxes on property be shifted to other sources of income. He stresses the point that the cigarette tax alone had poured approximately $2,000,000 into the coffers of the state school fund. He classified the gasoline tax "the greatest windfall the schools have ever had." He viewed with some anxiety an impending constitutional amendment exempting homesteads from $3,000 in state tax regulation. He predicted that it would affect the rendition of property as well as the pension, general revenue, and 35 cents ad valorem funds for schools. This will make it necessary for the state to tax other sources of revenue for taxes for school funds.

Incidentally, the State superintendent discouraged teachers becoming affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, explaining, that "while he had the highest admiration for that organization, it was too materialistic for the teaching profession." Workers are wage earners. Aren't teachers wage earners?

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS TAKE THE WET ROAD

Former Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York is an outstanding leader of the wet Republicans in the Empire State. He has won a notable convert to his cause—Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University. President Farrand introduced the former senator to an audience of men and women of the Empire State who are clamoring for the repeal of the 18th amendment. This eminent educator appears to have gone all the road. This was his introduction:

"In my judgement there has been no social experiment in our later American history which has proved to disastrous a failure as has the 18th amendment. I am not discussing the misguided idealism, often sincere, which led to its adoption. The fact remains that it has done more to debauch the public conscience than any other factor to which we can point, and is responsible in high degree for the widespread disregard for law and order, which constitutes today the chief menace in our American life."

Republicans are having their own troubles these balmy springs days but when the Chicago convention assembles President Hoover will be given a renomination for a second term and the platform will declare as usual for "strict enforcement of all laws."

A majority adopts the platform and a majority names the standard-bearer of the Republicans. If the Democrats would abrogate the two-thirds nominating rule on the opening day of their convention, peace would come to the Democratic factions and the power of the extreme right wing and the extreme left wing would be broken for all time. Otherwise—otherwise.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT many people should learn to live at home and for home and not for pleasure alone. The failure of many people to succeed is due to extravagance and lack of attention to their business affairs.

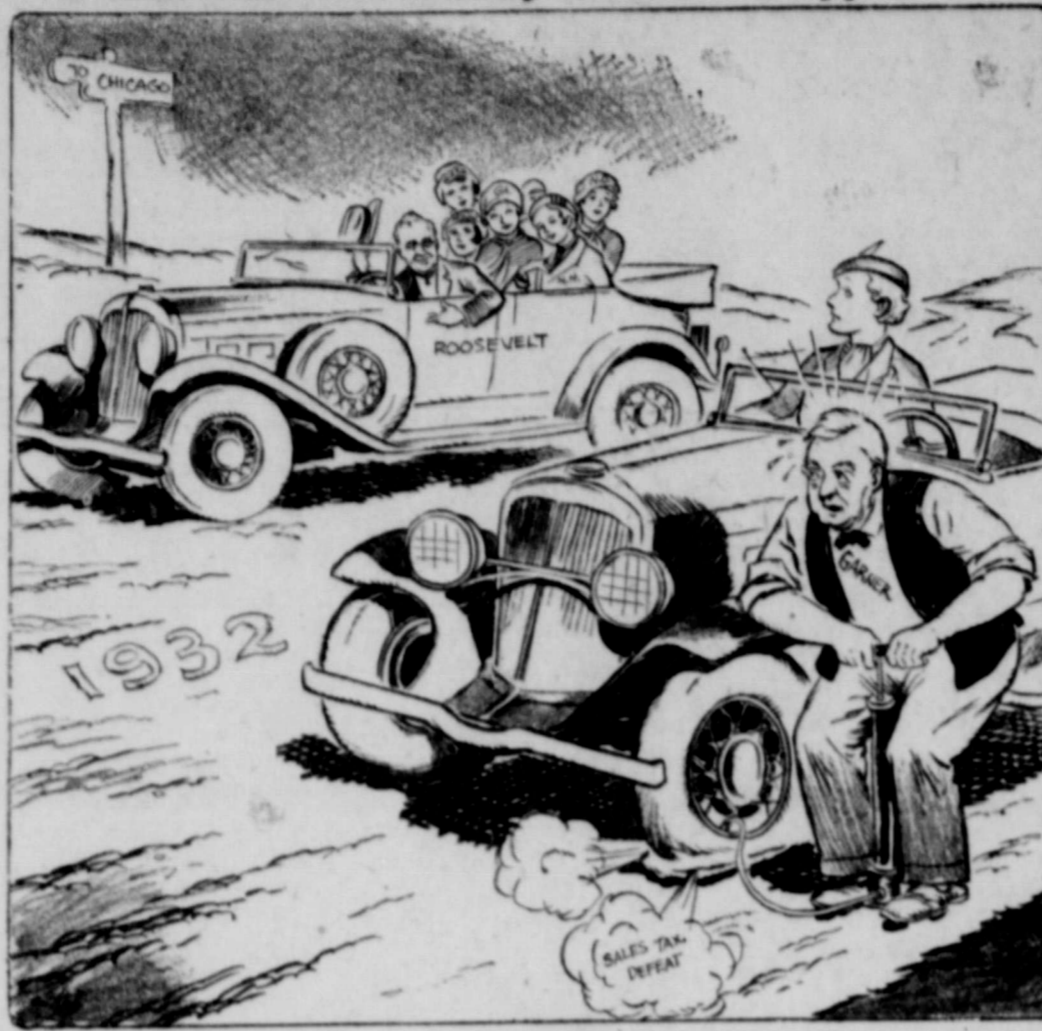

Many people are broke because they spend foolishly every cent they make. The faster they make money the faster they spend it.

The man who earns money should save a part of it and then invest his savings in the home city. Investing in the home city not only helps the investor, but every citizen in it.

The average person wants to make money of their savings honorably and safely without work and worry. Putting savings in the home city is a good investment. It brings returns.

A WISE SPENDING OF MONEY HELPS TO SAVE. IT IS WHAT YOU SAVE THAT COUNTS.

Some Folks Will Probably Want This Stopped!

DAILY WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—Legislative history records many famous files after preliminary trumpeting and drum-beating, but the administration's proposed investigation of the bears of Wall Street threatens to develop into the prize washout of all time.

It all grew out of a theory held by friends of Mr. Hoover that every time the administration put through one of its reconstruction measures a group of gentlemen immediately proceeded to drive down stock prices.

And one night Hoover's right-hand senator, Walcott of Connecticut, came from Hoover's office roaring that the thing had gone far enough and that the "culprits" would be exposed. He said he had a list of them and it is reported that the names were those of Democrats.

Order Usual Investigation

THE Senate passed a resolution to investigate the operations of that great gambling house called the Stock Exchange, but not until Democrats and Progressives had seen to it that the banking committee would investigate bulls as well as Walcott's bears.

Whereupon everyone began to be afraid of the investigation. It was learned that there were Republican bears as well as Democratic bears. People here began to hear from Wall Street, with advice that they found a sure-fire method of further damaging the business situation. Bears, it is said, promise to show that general conditions—unvalued by the administration program—were responsible for stock drops, not their operations.

Dropped Quietly

SO, although ordered by the Senate, the investigation was indefinitely postponed. Walcott, asked for the list, replied: "What list?" And there will be no more heard about the matter unless Senator Brookhart of Iowa, Allen Property Custodian's office, after a loud campaign for it. But then it was found that the Senate hadn't authorized any money for the investigation. So it never came off.

It Became "Too Hot"

IN other words, the investigation became "too hot" Chairman Shortridge, the chief investigator, suddenly postponed hearings for three months, resumed them for an hour or so and then never made any report. We kept asking him about that report for months, but finally grew tired of it.

Shortridge, by the way, had been in charge of a Senate investigation of the "dye trust" some years before—and had never reported on that, either. Senator Borah once got a resolution through the Senate to investigate alleged scandals in the major leagues. The players "go for him." Now he is guiding a crowd of misfits at Cincinnati. The team almost certainly faces another losing year, but Dan says:

"We're improving." With very little to go on, Howley still is fighting. Red Lucas is THE CINCINNATI PITCHER. Last year he labored in 29 ball games. Twenty-four of those games he started and finished. He won 14 and lost 13. That is a wonderful record, considering the men he had to help him.

Red Has the Spirit. LUCAS is one of those fellows who will pitch the first game of a double-header and then sit on the bench in his uniform during the second game, praying for a chance to pinch hit. He would play left field in the second game, if Howley should ask him.

Lucas, one of the greatest pitchers in the major leagues today, is doomed to struggle for a tail-end.

And, this spring, they tried to cut his pay $2500.

CANDIDATES TO BE WET OR DRY IS PREDICTION

By United Press.

BY GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN.—A "declare yourself" movement is gathering force in Texas. It is no far-fetched prediction that before the democratic primary election is held all candidates for places at Washington will have to get on the dotted line for or against prohibition repeal.

Candidates seeking places held by present incumbents can be asked by the present incumbents to do as they have done in the Washington roll call—place themselves on record. Failure of Speaker John Garner to exercise his possible vote on that issue may for a time hinder the "declare yourself" movement. Texans are so anxious to place him in the running for president that they are willing to pass almost anything which might hamper him.

But those who know Garner of old have no doubt that if he becomes actively a candidate for the presidential nomination, he will state frankly his views on the eighteenth amendment. As speaker, they point out, he has somewhat the functions of a judge who should be neutral.

Thomas B. Love, former national democratic committeeman, knows political psychology perhaps better than anyone else in Texas. He did not hesitate a minute to declare that even Garner could not expect support from him unless Garner declared himself. Love, of course, wants a dry pledge from the candidates but there are many others who are wets who are equally insistent on knowing how a candidate stands on prohibition.

About the state capitol there are many who say that they no longer will permit the wet and dry question to decide their way of voting this year. But they do not mean that they are willing to vote for candidates who do not declare themselves on the topic.

"There are sincere dries for whom I would vote," you can hear some wets say.

"There are sincere wets for whom I would vote," you can hear some dries say.

The candidate who does not declare this year is likely to find himself worse off than the declared candidate regardless of which side the declarer favors.

Jobless Operate Stills in Penna.

By United Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Unemployed in the Pennsylvania mountain regions are operating stills, under the supervision and sanction of the state department of forests and waters. No moonshiners these, but distillers of wintergreen oil, a valued commodity.

According to the forestry department, a man can pick about 75 pounds of wintergreen a day. The stems and leaves are placed in a still one-third filled with water. Two hundred pounds of wintergreen are used in each distillation and the process produces about one and one-half pounds of oil in six hours.

HOUSE SUCCEEDS

By United Press.

MADISON, Wis.—Reported success of the first co-operative house for men on the University of Wisconsin campus indicated it may be possible for students to attend the university for as little as $200 a year for board and room. The house in which the experiment was staged is that of the late Stephen Moniston Babcock, dairy experimenter and inventor. The house cost the students nothing.

Reds Not So Rosy

WHAT does the future hold for a team such as the Cincinnati Reds? In the last five years the team has finished in the second division, once in last place. Now it faces a new season with only two ball players who could be called great, "Red" Lucas and "Babe" Herman.

A glance at the roster reveals the names of more castoffs than it seems possible could be assembled by one team. Beginning with the mound corps, there is Larry Benton, 35-year-old pitcher, formerly of the Braves and Giants. Another is Owen Carroll, fired from Detroit.

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

HEY, youngsters, meet 'THE TINYMITES,' who travel 'round to see the sights. Their lives are all adventure and they have a heap of fun. You're going to like them very well, as of their daily pranks we tell. Now, first of all, we'll introduce them to you, one by one.

There's Scouty! He's a brave Boy Scout who, when he travels 'round about, is always glad to do things that are right. He's trained that way.

He helps the others when he can, which makes him quite a fine young man. It is all Boy Scouts' plan to do a good deed every day.

Now Windy is the next you'll meet. From time to time he'll bring a treat through little things that he will do. Some day he'll rise to fame.

He is a flyer bold, you see, and he's as clever as can be. He sails around in air and that's why Windy is his name.

Then Copsy! He's a brave young lad, who knows the good things from the bad. He's just a fine policeman, as you likely know, we guess.

And, last, there's Duncy. He's a duffer, who does a lot of crazy stunts. It's funny just how many things he turns into a mess.

TODAY the Tinies chanced to see a box and Scouty shouted "Gee! I think that I will open it. That is the thing to do."

Then, with the whole bunch gathered 'round, the lid flew up. Guess what they found! A great big bowl and bubble pipes. And soap and water, too.

Then Duncy jumped and loudly cried, "I've found a little note inside. I'll read it and see what it says. Be quiet as can be."

The note said, "Blow soap bubbles till a big one brings a sudden thrill. The biggest one of all will have a funny sight inside."

(The Tinies get the thrill in the next story.)

Texas Farmers Not Expected to Cut Cotton Crop

By TOM MAHONEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

DALLAS.—Cotton planting will begin in earnest next week in most of Texas, the state which produces usually one-third of the American crop and one-fifth of the world production of the staple.

Stalling to call the legislature to reduce the cotton acreage 25 per cent. This was ordered by the secretary of an institute because of the great cotton carryover last year. Officers of the Texas Cotton Co. also are urging acreage reduction.

Failure of all southern states to enact acreage reduction legislation caused many Texans, whom last year petitioned Governor Ross R. Sterling to call the legislature to pass the law, to petition the governor this spring for a session to repeal it. Commissioner McDonald, however, is urging farmers to follow their banks, feed their families, says Commissioner McDonald.

Texas Towns Take Part In Better Homes Movement

Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON.—More than 350 Texas communities are taking part in the nation-wide home improvement campaign which will have its culmination in the observance of Better Homes week, April 24 to May 1. The state program is being arranged through a committee headed by Mrs. D. S. Peden of Dallas, as chairman. Mrs. John Perry of Sweetwater, is vice chairman of the state Better Homes committee, and Mrs. J. L. Young of Mineral Wells is secretary.
The Texas committee serves as the co-ordinating agency for the Better Homes movement sponsored by President Hoover. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur heads the national organization as president and the work is carried on in Washington headquarters under the direction of Dr. James Ford.
Emphasis is being laid upon home reconditioning and remodeling as a means of relieving unemployment, and hundreds of persons are finding employment through the stimulus of these committees. The state committee acts as a clearing house for the distribution of material which will guide home owners and community groups in making repairs or alterations which will serve both as a means of relief and of preserving community morale.

Faalty Pledge Fight Appears To Be Refeated

By United Press.

AUSTIN.—Efforts to reconvene the state democratic executive committee to rescind the fealty pledge adopted in Fort Worth, apparently have been defeated by opposing members.
Mrs. Claude de Van Watts, leader of women prohibitionists and president of the state W. C. T. U., had asked Chairman W. O. Huggins to call a special session. He replied the committee would be reconvened only if a majority of its 31 members desired it.
Fifteen days later only eight members had expressed an opinion on the move, and but three of those desired destruction of the pledge. Excerpts from the answers given Mrs. Van Watt's plea for support follow:
Charles J. Francis, Wichita Falls—"Only those democrats should participate in a nominating convention who propose to remain loyal to the party in its fight to wrest control of the government from the republican party."
W. J. Ebrey, Brenham—"Every one who belongs to any organization, desiring to participate in its councils or deliberations, or receive its privileges and benefits, should subscribe to its rules and regulations and support its officers, nominees and platform as selected by the majority of its members."

J. I. Wheeler, Texarkana—"I cannot consistently join in a request to Judge Huggins to recall the committee. I voted for the resolution, and should the committee be recalled I would vote against rescinding the action."

Sam C. Lackey, Cuero—"I see no reason to request a call of the committee for that purpose along."

C. G. Kruger, Belville—"To my mind it would be futile to have a party organization if its members do not want to abide by ETOINN of the majority. It would be destructive of party solidarity."

O. L. Kidd, Cameron—"It is evident that this action of the committee has served, and can serve, no good purpose. I am convinced that it was wholly unnecessary and not in the interest of the party."

Carl P. Collins, Dallas—"I have written Chairman Huggins requesting the committee to reconvene to rescind this action."

Frank Hill, Austin, also joined in requesting the meeting.

State's Mexican Births Decrease

By United Press.

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—California's large Mexican population is decreasing rapidly.

This is the interpretation given birth statistics by state and federal officials. The figures show that there was a decrease of 2,829 births in the state last year, of which 1,586 were Mexican.

In 1930, state records show, there were 14,472 Mexican births, or 17.2 per cent of the total, while last year the percentage dropped to 15.8.

The reported departure of large numbers of Mexicans to their home country "is largely responsible for the birth decrease," the state report pointed out.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

PHILADELPHIA.—Philadelphia's first international six-day bicycle race, although not a big money maker for the promoters, served its purpose of introducing the sport to Quaker City fans.

The race, just ended at Convention Hall, Philadelphia's new $5,000,000 gathering place, was won by the French team of Alfred Letourner and Marcel Gumbretter, on points, four teams being tied on miles and laps.

More than 10,000 fans paid to see the windup 10 minutes before midnight, Saturday. The race was started five minutes past midnight the previous Monday, there by avoiding any complication with Philadelphia churches and the ancient Pennsylvania blue laws which prevent commercialized amusement on the Sabbath.

Throughout the week more than 25,000 Philadelphians visited the hall, John Capman, Newark, N. J., promoter, who staged the race, said.

"We were well satisfied with the manner in which Philadelphia received the race," Capman said. "Although we didn't make any money to speak of, the sport has been introduced to the city. Probably we will hold another race here within the next year."

Since the open-air motor-paced races will start Memorial Day, it is thought probable that Philadelphia will get its next six-day race in October with another in February.

Capman believes the second event of its kind in the Quaker City should be profitable.

Some of the racers said they were paid on a percentage basis only. Not knowing how the event would turn out they agreed to gamble on 35 per cent of the receipts. If the race went over with the fans, they said, it would mean another week's work later on which would mean more money.

The favorite rider, Jules Audy 1-year-old Montreal lad was injured the fourth day of the race when he and his teammate William (Torchy) Peden of Canada, were leading the grind. Audy suffered an injured head in a crash

"DORMS" NAMED FOR RANCHES

By United Press.

AUSTIN.—Names of the famous ranches of Texas will be perpetuated in naming men's dormitories at the University of Texas. First of seven such dormitories now is being built. It likely will be named for the famous King Ranch, the headquarters of which is known as Santa Gertrudis, or the XII ranch in the North Plains.

Suggestion for this plan of designation has been made by the Scribblers' Club, University organization.

ALVIN MOODY
SAYS PLEDGE
HORNETS' NEST

By United Press

HOUSTON.—Alvin S. Moody, who managed the successful state democratic bolt to Hoover in 1928, believes a hornets' nest has stirred up by the party loyalty pledge prescribed for participation in the precinct primaries by state democratic executive committee.

Moody expressed the fear the committee's recent action would result in the election of Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson.

The executive committee aroused widespread antagonism among the "drys," said Moody. "I don't understand why the committee should have done such a thing. They should be trying to win votes—not lose them."

At the same time, while the democratic party is debating this issue, they are themselves, the "Young Democrats" of Texas are laying out for a meet to be held here on the 23rd day before the state convention.

Senator W. K. Hopkins, Dallas, moving spirit of the "Young Democrats," says this group is "interested in maintaining party loyalty and regularity, in barring bolter leaders from councils of the party," Hopkins said the new party loyalty pledge had been approved by the "Young Democrats."

Alvin Romansky, local leader in the "Young Democrats," is issuing the following statement:

"Senator Hopkins, Harold Young, Dallas, and myself are sending letters to young democrats of the state, mainly of the liberal group, who we think would be interested in attending our meeting. We haven't any platform and doubt that we shall take a stand on any state or local issues."

Strus Fruit Season
Closed Last Friday

By United Press

AN BENITO, Texas.—The 1932 citrus season officially closed Friday night with the season's shipments totaling 8,000 loads, nearly double production any previous year.

All fruit was ordered off the trees by Friday night in a special order issued March 19 by the federal plant quarantine and administration department in Washington.

The new order, setting March 19 as the date for removing fruit from trees was issued following the discovery of an infestation of the Morelos scale.

Some fruit will be placed in storage for later shipment but the season will virtually come to a close this week-end.

Only four kinds of taste exist, scientist tells us. He must mean sweet, sour, bitter and spinach.

Budding of Native Pecan Trees Urged By "First Ladies"

AUSTIN.—Two "first ladies" of Texas—Mrs. Ross S. Sterling, wife of the governor and Mrs. Dan Moody, wife of the former governor—have joined in the Department of Agriculture's campaign to get native stock pecan trees of Texas budded with commercial varieties in order to secure larger production of better quality nuts.

They watched with interest the top-working and spraying of a large, 20-year-old native tree on the Mansion grounds which the department's pecan specialists are budding with the famed Burkett variety.

"I think that on the Mansion grounds of Texas there should grow the best of pecans," Mrs. Sterling said as she explained that the trees there have produced in the past nuts of inferior size and quality.

"I know that I will not get to gather the large nuts from this tree, but I hope that those who do will enjoy them. There is just no use in a large, wonderful tree like that, growing nuts that are inferior when it can be budded to grow large, paper-shell ones," she said as she exhibited for comparison a handful of large nuts of Stuart and Schley varieties that she grew at her Houston home.

"The trees on the Mansion grounds should be ones that will set an example for all Texans to follow, and for that reason I am glad the department's men are improving this tree, just to show Texans what can be done with native trees."

Two or three years will be required before the two trees that are being budded will produce the new type of nuts.

Mrs. Moody likewise pointed out that the native trees had a stock growth of exceptional hardiness but that during the four years she lived in the mansion the inferior quality and size of the nuts decreased the value of the trees.

"There are millions of native pecan trees in Texas that should be budded with commercial varieties in order that Texans may get the best from their trees," said Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald, who also witnessed the work.

"The cost of the work is practically negligible, and the art of grafting is so easy to learn that it behooves every young farmer to learn how to bud his trees. The results are of such great value that all hardy native stock pecan trees should be rebudded with a good commercial variety."

Budded with a good variety, the larger tree is expected to produce three times as many pounds of nuts which will be about five times bigger than before.

Mrs. Adrian Pool, wife of Board of Control Member Pool, an ardent advocate of bettering the quality of Texas pecans, was one of the first to suggest the work, which has the approval of the Board of Control, the mansion board, of which Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Pool are members, and Mrs. Sterling.

J. H. Burkett, chief of the pecan division, and the creator of the Burkett variety, planned the work while J. T. Kelly, assistant to Burkett, had actual supervision of top-working and preparing the trees for budding, which will be done later in the summer. The second native tree on the mansion grounds, which is smaller in size and has produced smaller nuts than the large tree, will be budded with either the Texas Prolific or Western Schley variety.

Violations of Full Weight and Measure Low Shows Decrease

AUSTIN.—Computing scales that are out of adjustment more often favor the buyer than the merchant, but gasoline pumps are just the opposite, in that when out of order they tend to give short measure, according to M. S. Fraze, chief of the weights and measures division of the department of agriculture.

Short-weighting by merchants is on a rapid decline and buyers can be relatively sure of getting full weight, more so now than ever before, reports his inspectors lead Fraze to believe.

But in the matter of gasoline pumps it is different. At least 20 per cent of those tested by state inspectors are out of the tolerances and are condemned for repairs. Their reports show that around 75 per cent of the pumps out of order favor the seller and not the buyer.

Those figures are gained from inspections made of apparatus legally out of order, and do not include those "jimmied" to short weight or short measure intentionally, Fraze points out. Violations of the state full weight and measure laws are fewer now than in several years following an intensive campaign waged by the weights and measures division in co-operation with the federal bureau of standards, Fraze said.

1,308 Coyotes Are Killed In Texas

SAN ANTONIO.—Agents for the federal biological survey trapped 1,308 coyotes in Texas during February, headquarters for predatory animal control has announced here.

Of this total, 535 were trapped in Webb county, 121 in Kennedy county and 96 in Zavalla county. Animals slain during the month totaled 1,351 and included 181 bobcats, six mountain lions and 56 red wolves. All of the mountain lions were caught in Webb county.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS TO MEET

the man HUNTERS
BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Susan Carey, 19, and very pretty is learning stenography at a Chicago business school. Here she meets Robert Dunbar, son of a millionaire, who studying shorthand because of a whim of his father's. Dunbar takes Susan to lunch and she likes him. Ben Lampman, a dark, intense youth Susan has met once at a party, takes her to a motion picture. On the way home they quarrel. Susan decides not to see him again. The girl makes her home with Aunt Jessie, middle-aged and very quiet. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Susan consulted the slip. Yes, it was the right number.

The weeks wore on and soon it was June. A suddenly hot and breathless summer brooded over the city. The lake burned under a summer sun and girls began to wear their thinnest frocks and shaded hats even in the downtown district.

To Susan, young and radiantly healthy, it was a pleasant enough time. She looked her best in the summer heat, her hair curled in little ringlets around her delicately flushed face. She had a new sweater suit of blue knitted stuff and felt very much the young business woman wearing it.

Still there seemed no chance of her securing a job. Calls came in her, dribbled into the office, where a superior young woman in white linen received them and passed them along to the super stenographers of Mr. Claude Block's vainly to be called. At last there arrived a day when Mr. Block himself stood in the doorway and beckoned to her.

Petterman hitched his own chair several inches nearer.

"Salary's $18 to start and we work Saturday afternoons. No nonsense about us. Eight to 5:30. Expect punctuality."

The pale blue eyes bulged at her. The man seemed to be waiting for an answer. Susan murmured "Of course."

Petterman nodded. "You'll do. You'll do. How old are you?"

"I'll be 20 in October," Susan faltered. The answer seemed to please him. He leaned toward her and she caught the repliant odor of old cigars.

"Youth's no sin. It's a fault soon overcome," he mouthed, managing to come as close as possible to Susan. "We'll get along."

Petterman's bony hand snapped out and closed over her round wrist.

"Mighty pretty little piece," he whispered hoarsely. Susan had great difficulty in repressing a scream. She got to her feet. There was a brief struggle in the course of which the swinging bulb was broken and the man received a short but stinging slap on the cheek. Through the nightman Susan was conscious of the red-haired boy staring at her. How she got past the wooden gate, how she managed to pull open the heavy door and reach the street she never knew. But suddenly she found herself, dazed and shaking, walking safely along under the L.

She had the utmost difficulty winking back the tears. So this was what life downtown was like! This was the sort of thing you had to endure if you were to earn your living. She thought, almost with awe, of Aunt Jessie's prophecies about lecherous old men in the Loop district. Aunt Jessie had been right!

Managing by a heculian effort to wink back the stubborn tears she wended her way listlessly back to the commercial school. All the glory had gone out of the day. She wondered why she had ever imagined herself as a brisk and confident wage-earner.

As Susan joined the smart promenade on Michigan avenue she heard an agreeable masculine voice calling her name.

"Miss Carey. Ahoy there! Why the rush?"

She turned to meet the smiling eyes of Robert Dunbar, looking at her. How she got past the wooden gate, how she managed to pull open the heavy door and reach the street she never knew. But suddenly she found herself, dazed and shaking, walking safely along under the L.

She turned to meet the smiling eyes of Robert Dunbar, looking tall and well groomed in gray flannels.

His smile faded and, swinging along beside her, he inquired in a solicitous tone, "What's the matter? You look as though you'd had bad news."

Susan's forced calm threatened to desert her. Her under lip appeared rather like a pitiful child.

"Here, now!" A firm arm stored her into the doorway of a sweet-palace on the avenue. She found herself seated at a tiny marble topped table. "Tell uncle," said Robert Dunbar masterfully. "What's up? Who's been making you cry?"

She told. The words tumbled forth tempestuously. She bit back a sob and described the monster of the stove works in all his apidry, ugliness. A short, sharp epithet escaped the lips of her companion.

"I beg your pardon!" muttered Robert Dunbar. "I'll go up there and tear the hide off that baby in a few minutes." The young man's job was set. He looked equal to the task.

Susan shuddered. "No, you mustn't. Please don't. Forget it! I told you! I got away and— here she regarded her still tingling fingers with some pride—"I left the print of these on his face."

"Atta girl!" Young Dunbar regarded her with admiration. "But I'd like to leave a few prints myself."

Susan's great eyes implored him. "Don't, please. It would only make trouble. You're awfully kind, though. And I appreciate it."

She straightened her hat, powdered her nose. "I must get back to school. I'll have to report to Mr. Block. By the way, where have you been the last few days?"

He shrugged. "Family's going up to Geneva and want me to come along. Father made a row and said I was to stay in town and slave this summer. We compromised and I'm going into his office."

"Then you're through at Block's?" murmured Susan, her heart sinking at the thought.

"I guess I am," Dunbar admitted, paying the check. He grumbled, "Wish you didn't have to go back this afternoon. We might play hooky— go places and do things."

Susan regarded this prospect and recoiled it with a sigh. "I mustn't. I've got to get a job and I mustn't do anything to spoil my chances."

HE WAS a darling, she reflected as she walked along. Many an envious glance was cast her way. Why couldn't he be the sort of boy she might conceivably marry? There were dozens of girls in her own world. Why on earth should he bother with her?

They parted at the entrance to the school. Susan thought rather sadly, "This hasn't meant anything to him but to me it's been a wonderful adventure." Then she set her teeth and prepared to face the terrifying Mr. Block with details of her failure as a job-hunter.

Mrs. True Presides At Smart Mexican Dinner Honoring 60 Guests
The smart and unique Mexican dinner recently given under the arrangement of Mrs. H. H. Stephens, superintendent of the Young Peoples' department of the Central Baptist Church, took a prominent place in social happenings for early spring entertainments.

A panorama of Spanish splendor was perfectly revealed through the striking decorations and quartet tables arranged to effect an outdoor Mexican cafe. Each table was covered with choice linens and centered with bud cases filled with fern in which clusters of deep red rosebuds nestled. The table at which the honorary speakers and distinguished guests were seated was laid with matching linens and centered with a mound of red roses intermingled with fern sprays.

HOW LIVING COSTS HAVE COME DOWN SINCE 1929
Purchasing Power of the Retail Dollar

By NEA SERVICE
There's at least one bright side to this depression—it has added 25 cents to the buying power of every dollar the Average Family spends for living.

Because of lower retail prices, a family budget of $100 a month today will buy as much as a family budget of $125 a month bought in 1929.

This change in the dollar's purchasing power is computed from index figures on the cost of living compiled monthly by the National Industrial Conference Board. The record has been kept for many years. Its statistics are based on the purchasing power of 100 cents in 1923. This has become the "standard" dollar.

On the 1923 base of 100 cents, today's dollar buys $1.33 worth of food, as against 95 cents worth in 1929, 72 cents worth in 1920 and $1.49 worth in the pre-war days of 1914.

Housing, clothing, fuel and light, sundries—which are also included in the Industrial Conference

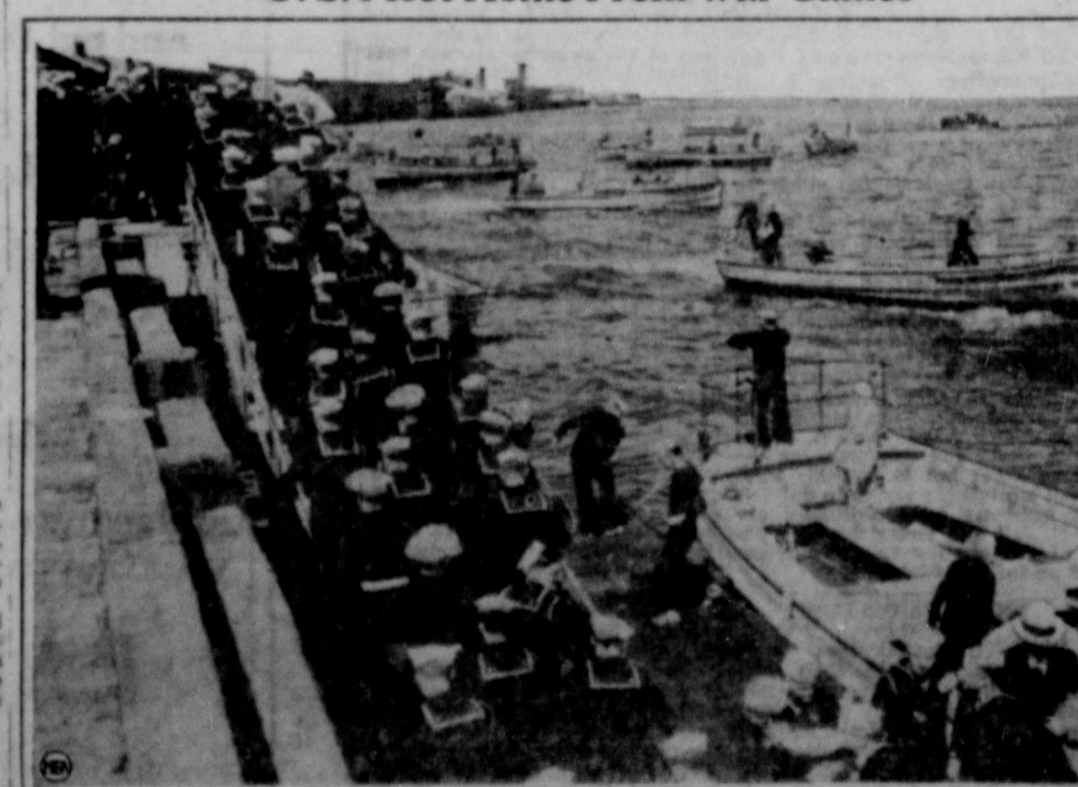

Board's "cost of living" statistics—have also changed greatly in price, as shown by the accompanying chart.

It is shown that while the dollar's buying power has increased greatly since 1929 and is far greater now than it was during the high-price era of 1920, it still falls far short of a return to the pre-war level.

Some interesting comparisons may be drawn. For example: If a man had deposited $161 in the bank in July, 1914, and left it there, it would have been worth only 384 in merchandise in 1920, $100 in 1929 and $125 today. This does not consider interest earnings.

The relative value of the annual return from a fixed investment is another angle for comparison. Take the man who owned $20,000 worth of 5 percent bonds and enjoyed an income of $1000 therefrom in 1929. The same income would have yielded him, in retail buying power, $1610 in 1914, $840 in 1920 and $1250 today.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

WITH housecleaning and garden-making days upon us, shortcuts in cooking are welcomed by home-makers. The meat dish that combines vegetables and meat in true labor-saving fashion is a boon to the busy mother. Precious minutes saved not only from cooking but dishwashing, too, mean more time to spend in the garden.

The following recipe for breast of lamb makes a dish that needs only a salad and simple dessert to provide a nourishing spring dinner. The meal is not "make-shift" and does it sacrifice important food elements for the sake of economy or time.

Steamed Breast of Lamb
Steam breast of lamb for three hours. Arrange on a hot platter with parsnips which have been boiled, peeled and cut in quarters. Pour over creamed peas and serve. The liquid under the steamer should be saved. Cooled and freed from fat it makes choice lamb broth.

Chop Suey
Chop suey is another meat and vegetable combination that is easy to make and serve. One-half pound pork loin, 1-2 pound round steak, 2 onions, 1 head celery, 1 small head cabbage, 1 radish, 4 cups canned tomatoes, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 slices bacon in 1/2 cup. Cut bacon in small pieces and fry out fat in a large iron frying pan with a tight cover. Add meat cut in half inch cubes and brown quickly on all sides. Add onion finely minced, celery cut in cubes and cabbage finely shredded and thoroughly with meat. Add tomatoes, salt and pepper and sprinkle rice over top. Cover closely and cook over a low fire for one hour. Serve very hot. Dried, canned or fresh mushrooms can be added and chop suey sauce or Worcestershire sauce can be used in seasoning.

Ham Casserole
Ham casserole served with spinach and a dessert of fresh fruit makes an appetizing meal. One slice ham cut an inch thick, potatoes, onions, pepper, mustard, ginger, 1 cup milk.

Slice enough raw potatoes which have been pared to more than half fill a baking dish or casserole. Season with pepper. Cover with a thick layer of onions sliced thin. Season with pepper. Place on top the slice of ham which has been soaked in cold water for two hours. Sprinkle over 1-3 teaspoon each of ginger and mustard. Pour in milk on one side of the dish. Cover and bake 1-2 hours in a moderate oven. Serve from casserole. Choose ham with a rim finely minced, celery cut in cubes

Quality of Texas Seed Increasing State Test Shows

By United Press
AUSTIN.—An unprecedented high germination percentage—the percentage of a given number of seed that will sprout under normal conditions—has been found in seed tested this season by the seed laboratory division of the department of agriculture, according to Miss Wynona Robbins, chief analyst.

The high germination percentage found in seed this year is attributed to the excellent harvesting conditions under which they were produced. The high quality of the seed, as shown through purity tests, is attributed to the continued efforts of the department in getting farmers to demand high grade seed for planting purposes.

A marked increase in the number of seed samples submitted to the department for testing is another evidence of the increasing use to which farmers are putting the free state service, Miss Robbins believes.

A total of 3,450 seed samples tested, one-third more than at this time last year, include 2,000 field seed, 600 vegetable seed and 250 state inspection samples. Of the 260 samples selected by state inspectors from seed offered for sale with a state tested seed label, 17 were found to have been falsely labeled. The 17 violators were made to either change the label to show the correct analysis or replace the inferior seed with seed which tests show to be of the quality stated on the tag.

Over 350 samples have been tested at the subsidiary testing station of the department, which was established in January at the Texas Technological college at Lubbock.

The bulk of the tests this season have been on sorghum, sudan, millet, alfalfa and cotton seed. During the early fall winter grain seeds will be submitted for testing before planting, and as cotton ginning starts, cotton seed will be submitted in larger quantities.

Time required for the tests varies from six to 40 days. All tests on cotton seed can be completed in seven days, but 21 days are required to test Bermuda grass seed and 40 days for carrot seed. An average of two hours labor for each test, Miss Robbins estimates.

Tags issued for seed that have been tested show the percentage of purity; the percentage of noxious weed seeds present; the percentage of inert matter; the percentage of germination and the date of the test.

Tests are made free of charge for residents of this state.

Electric Eyes Will Guard Passengers

By United Press
PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Electric "eyes" will guard users of elevators in Rockefeller Center, New York, according to the Westinghouse Electric Elevator company.

Light beams are to be projected across elevator entrances in such a way any person intercepting them will cast a shadow on a photo-electric cell. The cell controls operation of the doors and the falling shadow will keep them open or shoot them back if they have started to close when a passenger is stepping in or out of the car.

SWIMMING POOL WATER USED TO QUENCH FIRE

By United Press
BERWICK, Pa.—Fire men pumped water from the swimming pool in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. building here to fight a fire on the third floor of the structure. Water lines feeding the pool were turned on simultaneously. Firemen estimated the pool would supply water for three hours of fire fighting.
