Economist Calls Bonus Stimulus To Business

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES
The Ranger Bulldogs have our hearts—though unsolicited—approval of their selection of a captain for the 1932 season. "Squint" Williams, who was elected, should make as good a captain as we could have picked ourselves, so we suppose everything should be fine and dandy along that line.

Heads Bulldogs

"Squint" Williams, three-letter guard on the Ranger High school football team, who was elected captain of the 1932 team at a meeting of the squad held Wednesday.

WILLIAMS IS NEW SKIPPER OF BULLDOGS

Lettermen of Ranger High school met Wednesday afternoon and elected Ernest (Squint) Williams as captain of the Bulldogs football team for the season 1932. In selecting Williams the lettermen picked one of the most consistent players, one of the most respected men on the squad and one of the most capable to fill the position of captain of the football team.

Hawks, Wings Clipped, Recovering

With bandages covering severe facial injuries received in the crash of his speed plane, Captain Frank Hawks here is shown in the Worcester, Mass., city hospital, where he is "recovering satisfactorily." A plastic surgical operation is expected to restore his face to normal. Pictured with him is Nurse Agnes La Plante.

MINER CADIZ, Ohio, April 14.—A fierce battle in which 900 men took part was fought today along a road leading to a mine at Avondale, when 100 coal miners in cars attempted to pass a line of 500 strike picketers.

"Knees Queen"

These are the prize knees of Marysville, Calif., and they belong to Helen Farris, a student at the San Jose Teachers' College. She went home for a visit just in time to take part in the contest which made her "Queen of the Knees" in the Sacramento Valley.

TWO RADICALS ARE EJECTED FROM HEARING

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Dr. Willford L. King, professor of economics of New York university, today appeared before the house ways and means committee on behalf of the soldiers' cash bonus.

Our only comment for the team of praise and the only advice at this time is to give him 100 per cent cooperation next season. Maybe 112 per cent—we don't care.

LINDBERGH IS STILL FAR FROM SOLUTION NOW

NEW YORK, April 14.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was as far away today from a solution of his baby's kidnapping as on March 1 when the child was stolen. A night trip on a mysterious errand brought nothing tangible.

Williams will be playing his last year of football in 1932, having lettered in 1929, 1930 and 1931. During the 1931 season he was out of the line-up part of the time due to injuries, but when he was in the game the entire team felt confident that his position was being taken care of in a most capable manner.

FORT WORTH, April 14.—A jury today gave Clifford Fitzsimmons, 25, 99 years for his part in the robbery of the Western Auto Supply company here on Feb. 12, in which two Fort Worth policemen were wounded.

Federal Agents To Probe Pro Killing

DALLAS, April 14.—Two representatives of Col. Amos Woodcock, federal prohibition director, were here today investigating the murder charges against two prohibition agents in connection with the fatal shooting of Marion McGlothlin, grocer.

We tried to praise Williams a little, knowing that praise would go to his head, but found ourselves totally void when it came to thinking up good points about him because there were so many that we became confused. Suffice it to say that we hope "Squint" will 'em to many victories.

Conference Held After Al Smith Jefferson Speech

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Alfred E. Smith, J. Bennett Hoover, chairman of the democratic national committee's executive committee, and John J. Rankin met in secret conference here today, supposedly an outgrowth of Smith's startling speech at last night's Jefferson Day dinner.

ANOTHER RELIEF MEASURE FOR THE RAILROADS

Place this in the record: The house commerce committee of the American congress has voted to abolish the law requiring railroads to pay half their excess profits to the government. Chairman Sam Rayburn is a Texan.

In an interview, he said an overwhelming majority of the committee had approved retroactive repeal of the recapture clause of section 15A of the 1920 transportation act. At the same time the Texan asserted there was a unanimous vote for a provision in his bill to establish a new rate making base under which the interstate commerce commission, if it chose, could ignore valuations. Chairman Rayburn promised prompt action in the house and Speaker Garner is said to be favorable to the bill.

It has been estimated by the I. C. C. that the railroads owe the fund $26,000,000, having paid most of them under protest $10,000,000. Repeal would relieve the rails of the positive necessity of paying these rates in the future and entitle them to refunds of money they have already paid. A nation without railroads would be going back to the ox cart period of existence. They are ranked among the great builders of America and it is of vital importance to all the people as well as the rails that they should not be compelled to carry extraordinary handicaps. There is a new civilization functioning and thus far the competitors of the railroads as passenger and freight carriers have played havoc with the earnings until the rail heads are face to face to face with a crisis more alarming than any in their history.

ATTACKS ON HOME BREW AND BREWERS

Speaker Garner and his fellow lawmakers sent to the senate a billion dollar revenue bearing bill. In this bill there is a very interesting paragraph placed therein by the house insurgents who for a time broke down party lines and flouted party leadership. It is the tax of five cents a gallon on wort. Now wort is used in making home brew.

There is a humorous side to politics as well as to law making. Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills has a sense of humor that never deserts him. Called before the senate finance committee, he declared the treasury department had run out of new things to tax. He was asked the pointed question if he was working on any new source of taxation. His reply covered all the ground: "I cannot think of anything new to tax. That tax on wort was the last trick in our bag."

Is home brew intoxicating? Senator Morris Sheppard is high authority on intoxicants. He has a bill pending which will make it a crime to buy as well as to sell intoxicants. Will it be enacted and sent to the White House for approval, or will the senate permit it to die on the calendar?

RUBBER TIRE MAGNATES SEEKING CZAR

Here is an opening for a genius out of a job. Leading interests in the American tire and rubber industry are studying plans for the unifying of the industry to fight off present business stagnation and at the same time avoid running afoul of the Sherman anti-trust act. They plan a one-man control. The aforesaid individual to be the dictator of the industry, clothed with much the same powers as those given to Col. Will Hayes in the motion picture world and Judge Landis in the professional baseball field. Hayes takes down a salary twice as large as the president of the United States, while Dictator Landis draws a huge salary annually and keeps the sport pure and undefiled.

There are many wrecked Napoleons of finance the country over who are jobless. There will be many wrecked politicians and office seekers late in the month of November seeking new fields of endeavor. There is room for one Mussolini at the Rubber tire top.

PORT ARTHUR NAMES A CITY MANAGER

Port Arthur city commissioners elected Robert Cooper as city manager. At present he is city manager of Albuquerque, N. M. He will take office April 18 at a monthly salary of $500. At one time he was assistant state highway engineer in New Mexico. City management has stood the acid test the nation over.

It stood the acid test in the great city of Cleveland until the practical politicians captured the machinery and a bi-partisan board divided the spoils of office on the 60-40 basis. That is, the Democrats who were "outs" were given 40 per cent of the municipal jobs, and the republicans, who were the "ins," 60 per cent. They quarreled, speaking of the practical politicians. They abolished the city manager form of government. Then a democrat was elected mayor and now all the spoils will go to the democrats. Regardless of all this, he is said to favor the city manager plan above all others, and in the near future Cleveland may return to the time tried and always bitterly fought city manager rule.

RELIEF FUND LAW UPHOLD BY A HIGH COURT

Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania asked for $25,000,000 to be used for the relief of the hungry or the idle. His lawmakers voted $10,000,000 for unemployment relief. There was strenuous opposition. Legal proceedings were instituted. Now the state supreme court has ruled the measure constitutional. Under provisions of the law distribution of the money was to have begun last December and continued until May. Well, the month of May is on the way. Will the disbursers exhaust the fund in the coming three weeks or have the hungry of Pennsylvania spend the winter months in outside states?

BUILDING ACTIVITIES IN 16 STATES

There are white spots on the maps of Southern states. They show the South's construction awards for the first quarter of 1932 have figured above $63,000,000 in a survey by the Manufacturers Record of Baltimore. This leading trade journal editorially says the region covering 16 states in March was proportionately better than that of the rest of the nation. The survey did not include projects costing less than $10,000, and an aggregate of more than $80,000,000 was estimated as undertaken in the Southern United States in the three months period.

Tell it to the American world "that coming events cast their shadows before them" and that the old South and the new Southwest are ever in the picture.

TEDDY bear toys first made their appearance while Roosevelt was president and were given their name in his honor. For years a child's playroom was complete without one, and parents grew to regard the little bears as lucky omens.

HARRY PIDGEON, tiring of routine life, built a 34-foot yawl and started out to see the world. First he made a trial trip from Los Angeles to the Hawaiian Islands, and back. On Nov. 18, 1921, he again headed the small craft out into the Pacific, and it was not until three years, eleven months and thirteen days later that he anchored in Los Angeles once more. He had been around the world and had traveled 33,000 miles. During one stretch of the journey Pidgeon did not touch land for eighty-five days. The actual sailing time was less than a year.

THE TINYMITES
 STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

THE plane that swooped down to the ground bumped just a bit and swerved around. The Tinies hesitated as a queer man jumped right out.

Said Scooty, "Gee, I wonder what he landed for, upon this spot. Shall we run up and bravely ask him what it's all about?"

"Why not?" said Windy. "He looks kind and maybe he will help us find poor Duncy, who by now must be just miles and miles from here."

"You see, it may not be in vain if we ask him to loan his plane. If he says yes, I'll pilot it, and there'll be naught to fear."

"SAY! That's a grand idea, lad! It is the best you've ever had," said Cappy. "Come, let's waste no time. I'll gladly take the lead."

And then the Tinies promptly ran up to the funny looking man. As soon as Windy reached him he began to talk and plead.

"Please let us use your plane," said he. "We're just as worried as you can be about a little pal of ours who disappeared in air."

"He can't be very far away. We'd like to fly to him today, but we can't walk and we feel sure your plane would take us there."

THE man replied, "Well, youngsters, I am tired of flying way up high. You see, I am a sky cop and keep the air roads clear."

"I'm going to rest a while, so you can do just what you'd like to do. Just promise me that shortly you will bring my plane back here."

"Hurray for you! This will be great!" the Tinies shouted. "We can't wait until we're on our merry way. Just wish us lots of luck."

Then Windy said, "I fly real well as you can see shortly tell. Don't worry 'bout your plane because I know we won't get stuck!"

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
 By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT you should pin your faith on the future of your city, not on its past.

It costs nothing to be loyal to the home city. Every citizen should boost the home city and help steer the ship that carries them.

A good booster is not one who says something good about his home city only when he finds it convenient to do so.

A live booster doesn't wait; he hunts opportunities to boost.

A real booster is cordial and human. He boosts his city because he takes pleasure in doing it.

Real boosters are the men who build cities. They start somewhere and get somewhere. They are not only good starters, but they are good finishers.

FORT WORTH — West Texas raises 69 per cent of the state's peanut crop according to United States government statistics released to J. C. Watson of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

West Texas produced 1,557,311 bushels of 151,786 acres of land in 1931.

Comanche county led with 439,311 bushels, followed by Eastland county with 233,333 bushels.

What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

Dr. Tanner certainly did climb all over me this morning. He was hostile. He explained to me that it was his idea to get the car load of flour from the Red Cross to distribute out to the poor folks of the county. The flour was shipped to Cisco because Cisco is the home of the county chairman of the Red Cross local organization. One car load is not all the flour to be given away. I would tell you all exactly how many cars have been allowed for Eastland county but I'm afraid too many of the readers of this column would be up there signing up for a sack.

Furthermore the Doctor wanted me to know that the Mayor of Eastland affixed his signature to the sheepskin being hauled through the country by representative of the Bankhead Highway association. I can't see that it helps starving humanity a whole lot to go to all the trouble of sending a man and a sheepskin along the route, then to have the signature of all the mayors and present them to Mayor Jimmie Walker of New York. I am wondering if Jimmie will take the trouble to see if the mayor of Eastland or Baird or Olden or Cantey has his sign on it.

Collegiate Job Hunters Rated Poor Salesmen

Written for United Press By GEORGE PALMER PUTNAM Publisher

NEW YORK.—Times like these are particularly hard on youngsters just out of school and college, trying to get their first job. This period of unemployment will leave a very real stamp, psychologically speaking, upon those who are starting out now. The effect will show up in one way or another later. With those who succeed, I suspect the sum total will be for the good. For anyone who can find a job now, and keep it, has peculiar mettle.

In these times, hardly a day passes but that some fine young fellow, or recent girl graduate, comes looking for a job. Most of them have college educations. There is something about the book publishing business which seems particularly to appeal to the college girl and boy.

Interview Impressions.

In many of my interviews I have been struck with the fact that the applicants are pitifully poor salesmen. It seems to me our schools and colleges should do something about that. I would like to find what might be called a "school of articulation" in some up-and-coming university.

As I see it, in this school would be taught a sort of combination of public speaking and journalism. The youngsters would be helped in expression, written and oral. With the power of articulation developed, they certainly would have a better chance of winning a start.

Many Tongue-tied.

Most of them are tongue-tied, or if they can talk, they don't know what to talk about. Many of their letters are drab and stupid. Or if they do happen to have a flow of words, they don't know what to write about.

Rio Grande Valley Plans Co-Op Market

By United Press.

SAN BENITO, Tex.—The Lower Rio Grande Valley, which has been periodically agitated by co-operative marketing campaigns for two decades, is being stirred by the most general movement for co-operative marketing in its short history.

Mating of present citrus co-operatives and enlistment of at least 75 per cent of the citrus acreage in the Valley is the goal set by leaders in the present movement. First definite program for the Valley-wide system for marketing fruit was launched last fall at a citrus institute held in Edinburg. Since that time marked progress has been made in creating an interest in and demand for some method of controlling the marketing of the annual fruit crop.

The British Payoff

ONLY a handful of our local boys will compete at Sandwich this year for the British Open championship. Among others, there will be Henry Cooper, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen and Mac Smith.

Probably the reason why more of our young professionals do not care to make the journey was expressed by Wifly Cox, Brooklyn professional. Asked if he was going over, Wifly replied, "Guess not. They don't pay off over here on honors any more."

In other words, the cash prize involved in the British Open is negligible. And a great many of our young men figure that the fame doesn't amount to much. Can it be that our professional golfers are becoming mercenary?

Matches for Phar Lap

THERE are any number of race horses in this country capable of making Phar Lap snap out of his lethargy long enough to know he has been in a race. Twenty Grand is one. Mate is another. Equipse is reported sound again, having grown a new hoof. Jamestown is reported fit and ready.

These four into a match race with the Australian and you would have something to watch. Colonel Matt Winn of the Kentucky Jockey Club is reported trying to arrange just such a race. While it would be hard to bet against Phar Lap in such an encounter, it wouldn't be the easiest thing in the world to ignore Twenty Grand. Any match race in which Twenty Grand and Phar Lap meet promises to result in a great deal down the home stretch. Both are the finest kind of distance runners.

The Mauler's Views

COMING to the end of his exhibition trail, Jack Dempsey gives an interesting view of himself.

"I think the tour has done me a lot of good," he says. "I had proved to me that I can still take a punch."

Those who saw Old Will in some of his bouts, notably those with Kingfish Levinsky and Babe Hunt do not have to be told that he still can take a punch. In those two, at least, he had to take it.

But the ability of a man to take a punch leaves this ringsider a trifle cold. After all, Dempsey demonstrated that capacity in his affairs with Gene Tunney, when he not only "took a punch" but was cut to ribbons.

Dempsey is frank about his own abilities.

"The only things I ever had," says Old Will, "were a punch and the ability to take it. I think my toughness has shown that I can still hit."

Old Will forgot something there. He forgot YOUTH. Dempsey may be able to walk up to a man that very day and knock him for a loop. But that wouldn't prove a long punch still was there. In ring combat he might have to wade around for five or six rounds, or, as in the Chicago bout with Tunney, seven rounds, before he could get that old sock in there.

If Jack still thinks he would have that punch after seven rounds, he'd just trying to play a prank on himself. The same kind of prank that J. Jeffries tried at Reno in 1910.

"Mother, I do wish you were well and strong."

A "run-down" body can't stand up under work and worry.

Maybe that "fired feeling" is due to a lowered blood count. Worry, overwork, diet neglect or some sickness may reduce those precious workers that make for strength.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company is credited with having played a major part in speeding the development of automotive transportation by pioneering practically all the important advances in tire construction.

Each of these improvements marked a new era in tire building. Together they made possible the safe and economical high speed motoring with its important advances for 1932.

"The safety of millions and millions of car owners is daily entrusted to the rubber tires upon which they ride," according to Firestone dealers in this city.

"Most people give little thought to the heavy responsibility placed upon their tires, and yet the rubber tires beneath their fleetest motor cars assume the burden of transporting the precious human life in safety against all the tremendous stresses and strains of fast travel.

"On May 30 the great International Speedway Indianapolis races will be held. Think of the grinding strain on man and machine in these events. Five hundred miles in the short space of a little over five hours. Approximately one hundred miles per hour average they will travel during the long weary hours of relentless grind around the great oval track. It is a challenge to the character of the tires upon which they tear through space.

"It is the realization of this unusual responsibility that has provided the Firestone organization with its great business motive. Firestone is determined to make the tires safe. It is our privilege to send them forth as instruments of service, in which you may have complete confidence and we may have enduring pride and satisfaction."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS By Blosser

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By RONALD WAGONER, United Press Staff Correspondent. Lee Ramage Hailed as Second Jim Corbett.

California has given another favorite son to the fight world and there are plenty of backers of Lee Ramage. San Diego youngster, who claim he will climb to the heights once occupied by Jim Corbett, another Californian, a quarter of a century or more ago.

Ramage is a smiling, grey-eyed youngster of 21. Just recently he laid away his high school books and decided not to go to college. Without being cocky, Ramage is convinced that he has the makings of a heavyweight champion. Jack Dempsey is his fighting idol but he plans to use the methods and manners of Gene Tunney in the accomplishment of his goal.

Many fight fans—and especially the women—shuddered when Lee Ramage stepped into the Olympic auditorium ring in Los Angeles a few weeks ago to face Ace Hudkins, the mauling, pawing Nebraska wildcat. The Ace left the arena figuratively cut to ribbons. Ramage came in with his hair combed slick and left the same way. He had proved that a boxing underdog can beat a slugging favorite.

Steve Hamas, Penn State college athlete and a type of fighter, came next. Again Ramage was on the short end of the betting and the ring birds predicted he would lose by a knockout. The youngster out-boxed Hamas to take the decision. He closed one of Steve's eyes by left jab, an early round, and then outpointed his opponent, who had a 13-pound weight advantage.

Wrestlers and Boxers to Meet For State Titles

AUSTIN.—Nearly 150 amateur wrestlers and boxers in Texas will compete for state titles and awards here May 6 and 7 in contests sponsored by the Texas Amateur Athletic federation.

The entry list already totals over 90, with amateur boxers predominating, according to L. E. (Bill) Nitsche, T. A. A. F. vice president in charge of boxing and wrestling. The entry list closes May 5.

The tournament for fists and holds will be for more than honor and silver awards awaiting winners. Nitsche, young policeman and Bertillon expert, plans to make the meet a strong argument for repeal of the state anti-boxing law.

Modernization of Old Trail Planned

EUSTIS, Me.—To modernize the historic Arnold Trail, running from this village to the Canadian border, the state of Maine and Franklin county will spend $51,000. The roadbed will be made 24 feet wide along the 23 miles that remain to be improved, with construction work starting at once. Over this trail, back in 1775, Benedict Arnold led his troops in their unsuccessful march to Quebec.

In This Corner—Carpentier!

They say it's true that "Gorgeous Georges" Carpentier the French boxer who once fought Jack Dempsey for the world championship, is planning a come-back. Anyway, Georges is training in a New York gymnasium, and here you see him in his corner, with Irene Bordoni, musical comedy star, giving him encouragement.

Carmel Artists Safe From Collectors

CARMEL, Calif.—Carmel's painters, poets, and other artists who find the world unwilling to pay cash for their works, needn't worry about eviction from their lodgings, under a recent ruling of Herbert Heron, poet-mayor.

He told Police Chief Gus England not to bother anyone who, for lack of funds, sleeps on the newly-acquired benches in the city park.

England said his officers would not even awaken the sleepers.

Lost 24 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment." Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

The TIRE That Taught THRIFT To MILLIONS!

Firestone tires appeal to the thrifty. They give Extra Values at the lowest prices ever known. Firestone do not manufacture tires under special brand names for mail order houses and others to distribute. Special brand tires are made without the manufacturer's name. They are sold without his guarantee or responsibility for service.

You take no chances on Firestone tires. They are silent, safe, long-wearing—and each tire bears the Firestone name, which is a guarantee of satisfactory service.

Firestone's greater economies in buying, manufacturing, and distributing make possible these greater values and lower prices.

Stop at our store today. See sections cut from Firestone tires—special brand mail order tires and others. Take these sections in your own hands—compare Quality and Construction. Then you, too, will know why—"Firestone is the tire that taught thrift to millions!"

the man HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

MEET HERE TODAY
SUSAN CARNEY, 19, pretty and an orphan, lives with her AUNT MRS. W. on the West side of Chicago. On finishing a business course she is employed by ELLIOTT HEAVY, who has a store on the West side of the city. She is waiting around for a man who will marry her. Her father, who is a millionaire, died when she was a child. Her mother, who is a millionaire, died when she was a child. Her father, who is a millionaire, died when she was a child. Her mother, who is a millionaire, died when she was a child.

NEW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIV
"The place out on the Milwaukee Road" proved to be a big old house. It was such a house as one of Chicago's meat-barons might have built in the nineties—all curlicues and hybrid ornamentation. Outside it had a sort of remote Victorian dignity, but inside it was hung with the cheap colors of a temple of jazz.

The colored girl in the coat room accepted Susan's wrap with superb disdain. Susan was terribly nervous. There was something about the atmosphere of the place that disturbed her. Ray, however, seemed perfectly at ease. She demanded hairpins, spilled powder about, and bullied the check girl unmercifully. Delighted with the effect she had produced, Ray ordered Susan to follow her and the two—tall brunet and petite blond—joined their essers.

At the end of the long room an orchestra thumped out a monotonous jungle dirge. It was strange, sultry music. After a brief consultation of menus Waring asked Susan to dance. The tempo of the music had quickened. There was more life in it now. The saxophone had ceased complaining and seemed to be bleating as merrily as a soprano can. Susan gave herself up to the moment. It was months ago she had danced and then with a awkward boy. Waring's person had an ease and smoothness which she had never known. It was like poetry. It was like his eyes tightened about her imperceptibly.

"Good," he said in her ear. "I know you dance like this." Susan looked a little to read the expression in his eyes.

"You knew?" she questioned. "How?"
"Something about the way you walk."
She was pleased, though she could not have said why. When the music ended Susan was sorry to return to the table. It was rather like coming back to earth after a trip to Mars. For the first time she had a really good look at Ray's escort. He had been introduced as Mr. Webb. After a moment or two Susan realized who he was, the junior member of the real estate firm in whose office Ray worked. He seemed a rapid, amiable young man. He had red hair and, she discovered, had been recently graduated from Harvard.

Waring was at his best in the role of host. Considerate, agreeable and amusing. If the flask he carried in his pocket was emptied with alarming alacrity as the evening wore on Susan was too inexperienced to notice it. As a matter of course she refused to have her finger ale "spiked." Waring's courtesy seemed to offend her and if Schuyler Webb laughed noticeably now and then she put it down to collegiate high spirits and gave it no further thought.

They ate and danced and danced again. Susan had no idea of the time. But as group after group drifted in and the smoke began to hang in clouds over the big room, she was conscious of a sense of uneasiness.

"Isn't it terribly late?" she murmured to Waring. They were dancing and she was dancing. The tempo of the music made Susan's pulses throb.

"Nonsense!" he laughed at her. "The night's young. We've only started to play. I knew you'd be a wonderful playmate," he whispered. "Only you were so standoffish I never had a chance to find out." He was holding her closely, too closely, Susan thought, her instinct sharpened and revolted for an instant by the scent of liquor on his breath.

A moment ago he had been a quiet friend—flushed and visible, in truth, but still a friend. Now Waring was becoming a menace, a strange man with a reddened face, a man who had been drinking. Susan could see the little lines around his eyes. All of a sudden she thought of Bob Dunbar, his firm, clean, youthfulness. It was as if a clean, sweet breeze had blown across a stagnant waste. She breathed with aching certainty why she had been trapped into this indiscretion. If she could not have the real thing
