GRIPINGS

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

The fire siren failed to wake me when it sang forth its clarion call for help with the nozzles and pack-axes. Rather, it aroused me sufficiently to make me dream. I dreamed that I was in McAlester, Okla., and that the siren was that of the penitentiary there. You know... they blow the siren when a prisoner escapes so as to notify the guards out on the farm. In my dream I was sympathizing with the escaping convict who was no doubt trying to run the gauntlet of a barrage of bullets when a motorcycle started its motor somewhere out in the street and my dream was immediately shattered. I awoke with a start and started to get ready and go to the fire.

As I sat on the side of the bed and pondered over whether to wear a green shirt or a tan one to the fire, I feel asleep again only to awake in the morning and wonder what I was doing with one sock on and one off.

I have been invited to attend the Little Theater show Wednesday as the guest of Judge Funderburk. Not only have I been invited to attend, but I have been given the tickets to go in with. Now that's what I call a friend. The last time they had a show I had to pay to get in. However, I enjoyed the performance so much that I refused to let them give me my money back when they offered to make a refund.

There seems to have been a concentrated effort this week to impress me that people have no money to spend. I don't believe it. I see nearly everybody with a yo-yo and I haven't seen a second-hand yo-yo yet. They are all about three years ago and everybody had one. Nobody can find their old one and they have to buy a new one. And believe me, brother, they advertise them. Of course, they advertise themselves.

Ham McRae's clock has been keeping time pretty good lately. Jack Lewis Jr. is morose and blue and comes to me for sympathy and understanding, which is about all I have left after the market crash. Cottingham is wearing his straw hat, what a fine guy he is and how considerate he is and so forth, all of which I enjoyed reading because I believe Bobby told the truth.

However, we have a chief in Lee Reid of whom we are just as proud. May he be doing time in many places and is not as widely known as John Kelly of Breckenridge. But Lee does do his job well and is easy to get along with and treats people right. Eastland has a right to be proud of its police department. And I guess is.

Man Loses Foot In An Accident At Eastland

W. D. Baker, age 85, whose home is in Paris, Texas, was picked up in the Texas & Pacific railroad yards about 4 o'clock Saturday morning suffering from an injured foot. He was taken to the Payne hospital in Eastland where it was found necessary to amputate his left foot. His condition is reported as satisfactory. He told Dr. Carter that he was in this country looking for work and was riding a freight train. He got his foot caught in a car coupling, badly mashing it and amputation was necessary. Baker has a wife and five children in Paris.

Kept Alive By Water in Veins

Three quarts of water daily are injected into the veins of Mrs. Ludmilla I. Sinitzin, 45, to keep her alive. Mrs. Sinitzin, wife of Dr. Dimitri F. Sinitzin, Russian scientist, tried to kill herself in a tourist camp near El Paso, Tex., by pouring gasoline over her head and igniting it. The water is injected into her veins because the severe burns reduced the water content in her blood.

OIL TARIFF IS DISCUSSED AT HEARING

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Angered by refusal of Chairman Smoot to permit him to question witnesses on the proposed oil tariff, Senator Hull, Democrat, Tennessee, moved in the Senate finance committee today to "strike the tariff from the tax bill." Smoot, who favors a copper tariff, avoided a vote by recalling the stand Paul H. Harwood, oil importer, to permit Hull to question him. The known oil resources of the United States will "last a scant decade" importers of foreign oil told the committee. They were testifying in opposition to the proposal levying an oil tariff as part of the new billion dollar revenue bill.

Harwood, vice president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, which operates Venezuelan oil wells, denied the 42 cents a barrel levy, proposed in the revenue bill, would produce the estimated revenue or that foreign oil is produced with "cheap and peon labor."

Citing decreased oil imports in 1931 and increased mid-continent field production, Harwood said that the "cheap crude which is swamping the American market," comes not from the foreign market but from "the East Texas field, forming part of the territory sought to be protected by the proponents of the tariff."

Harwood estimated the 1 cent a gallon levy on imported gasoline would cost the American public $200,000,000 a year. "A large part of which would be paid by the farmer."

Twenty major companies controlling 95 per cent of the 621,000,000 barrels of oil stored in the United States would get most of the $200,000,000, Harwood said. He asserted that American capital went abroad in search of oil at the request of the Wilson and succeeding administrations.

Cox Jr., famous high school football star, has been in a hospital in San Antonio for several weeks. Information as to his condition indicates that he might fully recover without an operation being necessary, according to Army. Armstrong of Eastland, who visited the sanitarium last week. The many friends of Mr. Cox will be glad to hear of his continued improvement.

PATROLMAN IS KILLED IN AN AUTO CRASH

By United Press. ARLINGTON, April 16.—A. L. Moore, state highway patrolman, was killed near here today when his motorcycle crashed into an automobile on the highway. Moore sustained a crushed chest, two fractures of the right arm and left leg and head wound. X. T. Reeves, El Paso, driving toward Dallas, said he did not have time to swerve his car when Moore drove on to the highway after filling his gas tank at an oil station. Elzo Been of the 88th court, who has been in Longview for the past two weeks on a similar appointment, has returned and will resume his own court Monday.

Community Gas Company Gets a Ruling In Court

It is understood that Judge J. C. Wilson of the federal court in Abilene ruled in favor of the Community Natural Gas company yesterday in all matters in litigation before that court. A hearing was held on the injunction granted the company preventing the city commission from interfering with the company's charging a rate that would earn it a fair and legal return on the investment. This case had been pending since last fall. In the case wherein George Bryant and others had asked for an injunction to prevent the gas company charging the new rate put into effect on Dec. 20, Judge Wilson dismissed the case and refused to grant the injunction. The case originated in the 88th district court in Eastland and was transferred to the federal court on the motion of the gas company.

A note attached to a medal William won at a boy's camp, read, "Don't blame Albert. Let Albert have my things, Billy." The other read "Good-bye Albert. I go to Hell, Billy." Albert was the boy's 12-year-old brother.

Heaton, in connection with the fatal shooting of Marion McGlothlin in a liquor raid near here last week. Assault to murder indictments were also returned against the agents in connection with the wounding of Mrs. McGlothlin, who was shot in the hand at the same time. The agents are at liberty under $12,500 bonds, which will probably stand until their trial. The cases are expected to be tried in federal court with district Attorney William McGraw as prosecutor and a federal district attorney as defense counsel. Mrs. McGlothlin said she and her husband resisted in the belief that the agents were bandits. The agents said they fired in self-defense.

HOOVER TAKES ECONOMY PLAN TO THE PEOPLE

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Hoover, unable to convince the House economy committee of the soundness of his proposals to reduce government expenses, carried his rail to the country at large today with the argument that the administration plans would maintain existing salaries and establish the principal of a five-day week. Mr. Hoover came out with a defense of his program a few minutes after Chairman McDuffie of the House economy committee pronounced the administration proposals "very imperfect" and in need of "a great many changes." Details of the President's plan were explained to the committee at a three-hour session by director of the budget, J. C. Koop. The administration program is contained in a 26-page national economy bill and includes a plan for reducing the cost of service to World War veterans. The points of disagreement between the President and committee are concerned largely with divergent proposals for the handling of federal wages. Mr. Hoover wants a staggered furlough schedule which would maintain present salaries but introduced vacations without pay. The House group wants a general 11 per cent salary cut. CADDIE DIES WHEN SHOT BY EX-GAMBLER

TYLER, April 16.—Jimmy Frederick, 16, caddy, died today from bullet wounds received last night in an alleged attempt to hold up A. C. (Titanic) Thomas, internationally known gambler. Thomas was questioned by officers but was released today and no charges will be filed against him, officers said. The shooting happened in front of a fashionable apartment hotel here last night. Police found a large piece of black cloth with two eye holes cut in it tied around Frederick's head. A pistol and flashlight were found in his possession. Thomas, an expert pistol marksman and who once bet he could drive a golf ball 500 yards and did it on an ice covered Lake Placid, fired four bullets all of them striking the boy. The boy's sister attributed the attempted robbery to the youth's having read magazine fiction and seeing "too many detective plot movies." The youth's father is W. B. Frederick, Missouri-Pacific railway foreman at Palestine and he is said to have a brother, Rev. Joe Frederick, at Cisco. His mother is dead and he lived with his sister. Thomas, who has been here for some time operating in East Texas oil, said the boy probably had seen him exhibit $500 bills on a golf course where the boy caddied for him. Thomas is known as "Titanic," not because of his size, although he is six feet, well built and weighs 170, but because of the size of the stakes he often wagers.

Parents Anxiously Await Return of Another Girl Victim. COLBY, Kan., April 16.—Indignation which threatened to flame into mob violence over the abduction and slaying of a 7-year-old girl still simmered tonight despite the absence of the confessed perpetrator of the crime. Richard Read, 58, the confessed slayer, was spirited away to an unnamed jail after the sheriff received reports of high feeling against him. The sheriff said Read admitted kidnaping the girl, Dorothy Hunter, from her farm home near Seidman, 25 miles from here, holding her captive overnight and killing her. The body was found where Read said it would be in a haystack on a farm near Atwood. Authorities were unable to assign a motive for the crime nor would Read himself suggest one.

AN AMERICAN INVENTS AN INFERNAL MACHINE.
Lester P. Barlow is an American inventor. His latest is a deadly war machine. It is claimed for this engine of destruction that it could wipe out cities a thousand miles away by radio control.

Really the only place that there is harmony in this world is the graveyard, but it is a sad and solemn and sorrowful place to seek the repose of eternal sleep.

DIVISIONAL HIGHWAY HEADQUARTERS FOR WACO

Highway building is in its infancy in Texas according to the planners and promoters. The department is one of the largest units of our state government, handles more money annually than all other departments combined and its commissioners are making a record that is very creditable to all concerned.

Follow to the letter the slogan, "Those who use the highways should pay for the construction and maintenance of the highways." For sources of revenue for other departments—well, the legislative tappers should do some wild-cattling.

TEXANS HOLD THEIR FAT JOBS

President Hoover reappointed William D. Love of Houston and Eugene Black of Clarksville to be members of the board of tax appeals for 12 years from June 2, 1932. William D. Love, when given his first appointment, was a prominent member of the Texas bar.

Theme Song of the Gimme Guys!

For Commissioner WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Speaker John N. Garner, who now has almost enough gift gavels to supply all the state legislatures, bangs as loudly as any speaker in recent decades when the arid arises, according to experts on gavel-banging.

Gift gavels usually receive a tryout, but Garner customarily uses an "issue" gavel, done in dark wood, from the House carpenter shop. And his blows are mere taps with the hilt unless there is unusual disorder.

Perils of the Gavel. GAVELS are seldom broken, but despite the legend that Garner broke three early this session. Occasionally they crack. Ramseyer of Iowa once broke one when he was in the chair, but House attaches can't easily recall another occasion.

V. V. Cooper Is In Race For County Commissioner

V. V. Cooper of Ranger, who has announced his candidacy for re-election as commissioner of precinct No. 1. V. V. Cooper of Ranger Saturday authorized this paper to announce his candidacy for re-election to the position of commissioner of precinct No. 1.

Mr. Cooper was born in Mississippi and lived on a farm in that state as a boy. In 1891 he moved to Texas, settling in Ranger, where he has lived ever since. He was married in Ranger to a Ranger girl and has reared his family in this county.

In speaking of the office Saturday Mr. Cooper called attention to the fact that the precinct, which goes as far west as Mangum, takes in Ranger, Eastland, Cheaney and all that section of the county to the north to Stephens and west to the Palo Pinto county lines, embraces 55 per cent of the wealth of the county and 55 per cent of the population.

His experience in the office to which he seeks re-election makes him well qualified to represent this important section, which in more ways than one comprises more than half of the county. He has worked continuously to keep the rural roads in good condition and those farmers who live in his precinct know that he has made as good a job of keeping their roads in good condition as anyone could have done.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

By STUART CAMERON, United Press Sports Editor. "Four Centuries of Sport" Traced by Herbert Manchester.

A sports volume which is as non-technical as it is non-lightly prepared as it is non-technical is "Four Centuries of Sport in America," recently off the Derrdale Press, a copy of which was left on this writer's desk. The volume is the work of Herbert Manchester, veteran writer of some-what elaborate sporting tracts.

In "Four Centuries of Sport," Manchester has shown the origin of the various forms of athletics from Indian days up to more recent years.

For example, in writing of golf he shows that in 1729 the governor of New York was the possessor of "nine zoff clubs, one iron ditto and seven dozen balls."

The origin of the present day football game is also traced. Manchester tells how 25 men played on each side when Rutgers and Princeton universities held the first intercollegiate football play. The first competition was held in 1869 "when Princeton and Rutgers agreed to lay aside their feud over Revolutionary cannon in favor of a series of three football games." During the play Princeton tried to make goals with long kicks, while Rutgers made short kicks, one player to another, and dribbled the ball in efforts to retain possession of it.

Describing the game the New York Daily Tribune said:

"FOOTBALL

"This old English game is rapidly coming into favor in America. . . . A second contest between Rutgers and Princeton college was played last Saturday at Princeton, 25 to a side, and the victory fell to the latter, after eight successive games, Rutgers winning none. A third and final contest has been set down for today. . . .

But the third contest never was held. College authorities ordered it cancelled when the competition had threatened to develop into a riot.

These sports, golf and football, are but two of the many whose origins are traced in "Four Centuries of Sport." Hunting, polo, baseball, yachting, lacrosse, billiards, boxing, croquet, rowing and the turf are among the scores of others.

Soviet War For Desired Victory In Five Year Plan

By EUGENE LYONS, United Press Staff Correspondent. MOSCOW—No one who has not experienced it personally can possibly be made to understand the colossal concentration of purpose and energy that is being brought by Russia to its Five Year Plan.

The only analogy is war. France and Germany at the sharpest stage of the World war witnessed a concentration of all national economic, mental and cultural resources like the one now under way here.

But with them the fighting was largely restricted to the war areas. Far behind the lines life was profoundly disturbed, yet some of its peace-time features remained. The old class lines, the old economic relations, other aspects of existence continued as before.

"War" Covers Country

Here literally nothing is unaffected. The war zone covers every inch of the gigantic country and includes every department of human existence. It is a ruthless and terrible struggle against natural obstacles, against large layers of the population, against mental attitudes. The "General Staff" which conducts it has practically limitless political, moral or physical resources solely upon the desire for victory at any price.

In balancing up the costs money is the least of the items. The punishment meted out to millions of the "class enemy" must be added. So great is the concentration of effort that the old order is an ever smaller and more dictatorial group.

The country not only has harnessed its physical strength for the achievement of the plan. It has harnessed its intellect, its moral sense, its ethics, everything has been turned into motor power for the immediate tasks of the revolution.

Hope Fading

The hope that this strain, both physical and intellectual, would be relaxed with the end of the Five Year Plan is fading. In the outline of the second Five Year Plan notice has been served that there can be no let up. The dictatorship not only will not be softened but will be increased. The faintest deviation from the authorized ways of thinking will be punished summarily.

The communist leaders feel that the stake involved is too large to permit the slightest risk. The purpose for the first half decade was to lay the foundation for socialism. Construction of the second half decade is even more important from their viewpoint. It is the actual introduction of socialism. Officially that objective has been stated by the recent party congress thus:

"The conference holds that the chief political task of the second Five Year Plan is to do away completely with the capitalist elements and with classes in general; to destroy fully the causes giving rise to class distinctions and exploitation; to abolish the survival of capitalism in economy and in the consciousness of the people; to transform the whole working population of the country into conscious and active builders of a classless socialist society."

Figures of coal and steel and machines are not nearly as significant as this declaration of political purposes. It amounts to a new declaration of war against many strata of the population.

One of the more striking contradictions of the present time is that the government itself, under the lash of conditions, is encouraging some of the "survivals of capitalism in the consciousness of the people." In reference to co-operation, personal responsibility for work performed and other seemingly capitalist ideas which are being vigorously propagated since Stalin called for an end to "leveling of wages" and irresponsibility.

These things are explained as entirely compatible with socialism—in its early stage. Sooner or later these "survivals" will have to be forcibly eradicated in line with the party's political tasks for the second Five Year Plan.

People Depend On Lights, Batteries In Emergencies

"We have become so dependent on electric lights," commented Mr. J. S. Reynolds, the local Exide dealer, "that all kinds of complications can and often occur when accidents temporarily cut off the power supply."

"Recently I heard of a famous play that had a run in France based on the failure of electric lights. The plot was about the efforts of radicals to enforce their demands by capturing the power house and turning off the lights. . . ."

"By a coincidence, and the drama of the play was based on this coincidence, the child of the radicals' leader was about to be operated on in save her life when the lights in the operating room went out. The father had unwittingly killed his child by depriving the surgeon of light at a time when every second counted."

"Nowadays, a system of emergency lighting is taking the risk out of lighting failures, which in spite of the vigilance of the light and power companies do occur. Light to a surgeon performing one of the many modern delicate operations is virtually necessary. Many hospitals have installed batteries which operate automatically if an interruption in the service occurs outside. For instance, a storm tears down a pole. Wires snap. Lights in hospitals go out. On the operating table lies a patient undergoing an operation. Only a slight flicker of the light is noticeable because the instant the outside current stops, current from a large Exide battery down in the cellar is automatically switched and the surgeons continue without interruption.

"Banks, too, are turning to emergency lighting as a protection against not only accidents to the power lines but the possibility of tank hold-up men cutting the line and throwing the bank into darkness. This has actually happened."

"While storms, I understand, are the main cause of lighting failures, it is reported that wood borers and woodpeckers cause trouble in certain parts of the south. These weaken the poles to such an extent that when a strong wind comes up the pole topples."

The old slogan "Buy a Botta and save the difference" has been changed to "12 notes instead of 20."

Penney Celebrates 30th Anniversary

April 14 marked the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the J. C. Penney company and the entire month is being devoted to the celebrating of this landmark in the growth of the organization, according to Roy Gilbreath, manager of the store in Ranger.

Mr. Gilbreath came to this city in 1927 after having served his apprenticeship in the company at Fort Worth, Texas, Albuquerque, N. M., and Las Vegas, N. M. This is in line with the policy of the organization that all store managers must come on through the organization, learning every detail of the business before they are admitted to managerial opportunities.

Following the established policy of the company that managers should identify themselves with local organizations and take an active part in community affairs, Mr. Gilbreath is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Lions club and other civic organizations and is a member of the Central Baptist church.

Mr. Gilbreath states that, not only do the individual stores maintain memberships in civic organizations, but the executives of the J. C. Penney company are active in community endeavors.

Home Demonstration Club Houses

In Eastland County clubs have club houses for all club meetings and entertainments. These houses have been bought by some of the clubs and donated for the use of the club by some individual in the community. The first club house built in the county was that of the North Star Club, the money for purchasing the building, made by a banquet given by the club members. The husbands of the club members moved the building to the site, donated by Mr. Lee Berkhead, repaired the roof and put the house in good condition for the club. Following this, the Nimrod club was organized and the members got busy and raised money for the building. Mr. Notgrass, donated the site to be used by the club as long as needed, the men of the community met and built the house for the women. Next came the club house for the Elm club, a building bought with funds raised by the members at entertainments and by donations. The site for this building was donated by "Uncle Dick" Mason. This club house is located on the Eastland-Gorman highway and is the only club house with running water installed. Next was the organization of the Bass Lake club, with a house donated by Mr. Henry Capers for the use of the club. The last club house in use is that of the Cook Home Demonstration Club. This house was donated to the use of the club by Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner. The first meeting was held in the house Friday, April 8th, with 20 women present. The club members are to donate a chair each and one or two benches will be donated, making the house more comfortable for the meetings.

All the club houses are furnished, come by donations by the club members; others raised money by entertainments and bought the chairs, stove, tables and equipment needed. The women of the Elm club made two chairs, using willow limbs.

The other clubs meet at the school houses, churches, or in the homes of individual club members. The Okra club meets in the tabernacle, which was made over by the club women and the other people of the community. The club spent approximately two hundred dollars on the repair work.

April Gardening News Letter

Electric Hot Beds. For several years growers in Norway, Sweden and Germany have been using electricity for heating hot beds. In the U. S. electric hot beds have been on trial for about two years and very satisfactory results have been obtained. As compared with manure for heating purposes, electricity gives more uniform heat and the cost of growing plants by its use is no more than where manure is used. Electrical heating of the hotbed is done by placing a small electric cable in the growing soil in the hot four or six inches deep. A small electric thermostat governs the temperature, keeping the hot at a temperature of 70 degrees F.

The garden is planted and up but you haven't started your garden yet. You must remember that many of the vegetables are short lived and in order to have more of these same vegetables after the first planting is gone, a second planting should be made about the time the first planting is planting out. Let's see what can be planted again now and that will come along before it gets hot and dry. Radishes (Charter), spinach (Long), Bush Beans (Bountiful), Mustard (Giant Southern Curled), Beets (Detroit Dark Red), Leaf Lettuce (Iceberg). The varieties in parenthesis are hardy and will stand warm weather. During the hot growing months most of the vegetables dry up. But if you want some vegetables in hot weather there are certain warm weather vegetables that will grow well at that time. Tomatoes (Hawker-on's Bush), Okra (White), Vetch, New Zealand Spinach, Bull Bean (Baby King), Cow Plant (Florida Hot Bush), Cucumber (Yellow Crookneck), and Watermelon (Pep) should all be set out in April. To these hot weather vegetables this year and one if they will not have been well supplied after the early spring market has gone.

could you gather this news?

If you had a thousand fleet men at your command and you called them in and said, "Go forth into the world, in all directions, and bring back news of things which will fill my life with more pleasure and more comfort—"

If you did, you wouldn't learn as many helpful facts about this world's goods as you do by reading the advertisements in your daily newspaper!

These advertisements tell you, first-hand, of countless things which will give you more pleasure and more comfort. They quote dimensions, sizes, colors, qualities, prices, so that you may buy as efficiently as a purchasing agent. They announce the new, the smart, the unusual. They save you many steps in shopping and many dollars on the year's purchases.

Each day, as you read your newspaper, messengers come to you with good news from the merchants in your community and manufacturers all over the country. These messengers are the advertisements. Read them and know the best the world is offering you.

Illegal Voter For 36 Years

By United Press.

GAINESVILLE, Texas.—Although not an American citizen, for 36 years Thomas S. Crawford, division superintendent of the Santa Fe railroad, through misinformation has voted in Texas and national elections.

He hopes to vote in the election this fall, but as a bona fide American citizen.

Crawford came to America from Ireland when he was 17 and settled in Memphis, Tenn., with two uncles. The uncles told him they would attend to the naturalization and Crawford passed up the worry.

He came to Texas shortly afterwards, believing he was a full-fledged citizen.

A few days ago he began wondering how he could, if necessary, prove his citizenship as he had no naturalization papers. On inquiry at the naturalization department in Fort Worth, he learned he never had been naturalized.

"It never entered into my mind, about needing citizenship papers for in 1913 I made a trip to Europe and was admitted without a passport and re-admitted to the United States when I came back," Crawford said.

P. J. Fung, United States naturalization official, said Crawford could obtain his citizenship by applying to a district court and would not have to wait the usual five years required of immigrants.

Elks' Promoter Has Good Card For Monday Night

The wrestling and boxing fans will be given another treat in the stadium Monday night as a limbo over the program will reveal. The headliners will bring together two of the best boys on the mat at their weights. "Tuffy" McMullen of Dallas, formerly of Breckenridge, comes well recommended as being one of the toughest in the game. His opponent will be none other than "Our Own" Bobby Novack, the junior welterweight champion, who bars none of his weight. The boxing will consist of four matches of four rounds each and a certain ringer of a return match between Jack Porter and Garland Winger for four rounds, both are out for a win. He incomes one that the matchmaker unfortunately overlooked sitting on the display cards, between "Woody" Cole and "Straw" and "Pop Eye" Cole, a four-rounder. You know what "Pop Eye" can do, when he gets started. Another return bout between two ribs, Sam Evans and Bill Donowho, four rounds. Bill says he can't rip it if Sam did get his man in the last show, he will have to show more gloves than that to beat him. Last but not least is another four-rounder between Sergeant Tom Thomas and "Rip" Brooks of drawn, a new comes but not new the game. He is going to show the "Straw" fans that they won't go down in defeat, but that he will bring home the bacon.

Tennis Queen Shears Pigtails

The pigtail that once distinguished the flying figure of Helen Wills when, as a girl, she set the tennis world on fire, at last have fallen before the barber's shears. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is shown above in her first pose after having her hair bobbed in what she termed a "modified" fashion.

the man HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

HEIN HERE TODAY
I CAN CARELY believe business school and secure a job as secretary to ERNEST HEATH, architect. JACK WARRING, divorced, tries to flirt with her but is rebuffed. BEN LAMPMAN, a snooty young musician, takes Susan to a studio party but she does not like his friends. Susan realizes she cares deeply for BOB DENBAR, young millionaire she met at business school. At luncheon one day Bob is about to tell her something important when DENISE ACKERHOFF, a society girl, interrupts. Shortly afterward he sails for Europe. Susan's AUNT JESSIE, with whom she lives, departs for a visit. Susan is lonely and goes for a drive with Warrling. He kisses her and she resolves never to go out with him again. RAY FLANNERY, employed in the office across the hall, gives Susan some advice about being "a good sport."
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVI
T was Saturday afternoon during the third week of Aunt Jessie's absence. Susan had received a wire only that morning saying her aunt would return on the seven o'clock train. Now, at one o'clock, the long afternoon yawned before her. Is there anything in all the world so dreary as a half holiday spent alone? The world seems full of chattering, noisy groups and couples. Young men with tennis racquets, girls in thin white, elderly men with golf bags, mothers with children bound for the beaches.
Susan couldn't decide quite what to do with herself. She wandered down to Michigan avenue, decided against lunching alone, and finally managed to struggle to the top of a north bound bus. She would buy some sandwiches, she decided, and get off the bus in Lincoln Park and picnic all by herself. That would be better than going home to an empty house.
It was such a day as occasionally comes to Chicago in August, a day divinely blue, superbly cool. The sun was warm and yet already, so early as this, there was a hint of autumn's crispness in the air. Susan took off her hat and let the lake breezes ruffle her hair into little ringlets. She felt perfectly happy, at peace with the world. It was luxury, just to be alone on such a day. She felt superior to the noisy groups she had envied half an hour before. While they were wearing themselves out on tennis courts or golf links she, Susan Carey, would enjoy the glory of the day.
The bus was bowling along through the green park now. There were glimpses of the lake through the trees and to the west you could see the roof of the refectory. Susan decided to alight. As she proceeded down the aisle, swaying and clutching at the backs of seats to steady herself, she heard her name called.
"Hello, Miss Carey." The bus swayed to a stop and she turned around to catch the eye of Ben LAMPMAN.
"Am getting off here," she said wildly and unnecessarily, since her purpose was apparent. She flung herself down the stairs, the young man at her heels.
"I didn't mean—you needn't be bothered—I'm terribly sorry you—" He smiled at her. "I wasn't going to place in particular, thought I might as well get off here. It's a swell day."
SHE agreed although the description seemed to her highly inadequate.
"Where are you bound for?" Susan resigned herself to the inevitable. After all, she might as well be pleasant to this young man. Rose said he was lonely. He had no relatives in town and was "the queer moody sort who doesn't make friends easily."
"I was going to get some food and have a picnic by myself," she said. "Do you want to come along?" His lean, dark face lighted up. "That would be great," he said. "Look, there is the Casino, right over here. We can pick up some sandwiches. Gosh, I wish I'd known. I'd have brought my thermos."
"Will we can get ginger ale," Susan said comfortingly. What a strange young man he was. For a moment or two he seemed inconceivable over the absence of his thermos. Susan repeated a little impatiently, "It doesn't matter at all."
"Heavens," she thought, "is he going to spoil my lovely day just when I was beginning to enjoy myself?"
But the moment passed and soon they were laughing and talking like old friends. They sat on a little hillock near the lagoon. Ben spread out newspapers so that Susan's pink shantung frock should remain innocent of grass stain. Over the shared sandwiches and the ginger ale they came to a friendlier understanding of each other.
"Why, he's not half bad, really," the girl thought in surprise.
The boy said to himself, "Lord, but she's prettier than I remember and not as standoffish."
Susan brushed the crumbs from her skirt and Ben made a parcel of the debris which he deposited in one of those huge baskets park officials have disposed on tree trunks for the benefit of tidy citizens.
"Let's go for a row," he proposed. "I didn't know you could," Susan said.
"Sure. You get the boats over on that side," he pointed.
"I think that would be fun," said Susan, "but we've got to watch the time. I must meet my aunt with out fail."
"IT was pleasant to drift along on the green water, to dabble your hands and sit back luxuriously as a young man rowed. Susan wondered if Cleopatra had felt like this as she floated down the Nile. She smiled at the ridiculous thought and looked up to find Ben's eyes fixed upon her.
"This is nice," she said confusedly. He nodded. He had taken his coat off and for the first time she noticed how broad his shoulders were under the thin white shirt. A farm boy—wasn't that what Rose had said? Well, he didn't look much like a farm boy now. He looked more like a young poet or the musician he really was.
Mr. Heath wouldn't approve of Ben the girl decided. She flushed, wondering why it mattered. Mr. Heath would have thought Ben rangy and rather unkempt, although his linen was spotless and his shabby suit well brushed. All the young men who came to see Mr. Heath were clipped, assured, and perfectly turned out. Most of them had been to Harvard or Yale or Princeton. They knew the right people and belonged to the right clubs. Ben would never do either of those things.
They rounded the little turn and started to go back toward the landing. Susan, noticing with alarm the lengthening shadows, asked Ben the time.
"Don't you worry. I'll get you back with minutes to spare," he assured her.
They were in the shadow of a willow now. The light was curious and unreal and for no good reason Susan's heart began to pound. Perhaps it was something in the way the young man looked at her as he rested on his oars.
"I want to talk to you," he began. "I want to ask you something." She managed a smile. "All right, go ahead."
HE stumbled over the words but they sounded astonishingly clear. "I want to—I want to ask you to marry me."
Susan gasped. She felt as if a thunderbolt had fallen.
"What could she say? She could think of nothing. She looked at him and looked away again, unable to bear the terrible earnestness of his gaze.
She gasped. "But I hardly know you—I never even dreamed—"
Gloomily the young man said, "That's just it. I knew you would say that. Don't you believe in love at first sight?"
Susan stared. "Yes. I guess so. But what has that to do—?"
"Oh, dear, she had hurt his feelings again. The slow color suffused his cheek and stained his neck. Susan hastened to make amends.
"I am sorry. But honestly, I hadn't the least idea."
His eyes burned into hers. "I knew the first time I saw you that you were the girl for me. Sorta fasn—I thought—d'you know what I mean—I thought you were incurable. I liked that."
She was proud. She might have no least feeling for this boy but the word, the implied compliment, touched her deeply. Shyly she said, "Thank you for saying that."
He gripped the oars again, leaning forward in his eagerness.
"Don't answer me now. You can't decide that kind of thing all of a sudden. Take your time. I'm not a bad sort. I—I'd be good to you. I don't think your aunt would mind—"
Mystified, Susan asked what made him think that.
"Och, that night I had a little talk with her she seemed to think you were—well—too pretty to work downtown among all those millionaires and so on. She seemed to think it would be better if you were settled down."
"I never heard of such a thing," murmured Susan, scandalized. Ben nodded heavily.
"That's what she said," he corroborated.
They drifted back to the landing almost in silence. The sun was slipping downward now. The park had lost its pristine look of glory and had become just a city playground with a litter of papers on its surface.
Ben handed her out of the boat with chivalrous care.
"Don't answer me now," he admonished. "I know you're young and all that. But don't answer me now. Think it over."

Soviet's Hardest Task Is Making Peasants Workers

By United Press.
MOSCOW.—On its economic side, the Five Year Plan is more modest than is generally believed. The experience of the last three years has shown the enormity of the difficulties, particularly in relation to human problems.
It is easier to build factories than to turn millions of backward peasants into industrial workers. Nevertheless, if the specifications of the second plan are carried out, Russia will be second only to the United States in a number of the decisive industries, such as coal, oil, steel, machine building. In Europe it expects to outdistance England, France and Germany.
As recently as November, 1930, the Kremlin indulged in a flight of optimism, from which it has had to retreat rapidly. It announced new figures for the first Five Year Plan, which it has since been obliged to ignore. That disappointment seems to have affected the new schedules, at any rate, the second plan is less optimistic.
Cut in Pig Iron
At that time, for instance, the Kremlin called for 17,000,000 tons of pig-iron by the end of the first Five Year Plan. The figure now has been reduced to 9,000,000 and for 1937 it has been fixed at only 22,000,000.
The same recession has been made for steel: instead of 20,000,000 tons by the end of the first plan, it will be only 9,500,000 tons; the amount for the second plan has not yet been specified.
In November, 1930, coal production for the last year of the first plan was specified as 130,000,000 tons. The official figure now is 90,000,000; in 1937 it is to reach 250,000,000.
Among other essential industrial objectives for the second half-decade are 100,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electrical energy; non-ferrous metals "sufficient to meet the needs of the country"; 25,000 to 30,000 kilometers of new railroad lines.
Chief Task
The party asserted that "the chief task of the second Five Year Plan is to complete the reconstruction of the whole of national economy, to provide a new technical base for all branches of economy. To do this will require a headlong enlargement of machine-building industries."
Since the 1922 figures schedule 6,800,000,000 rubles worth of machinery manufactured at home, the output of this industry by 1937 should reach over 20,000,000,000 rubles. The plans are based on prices of 1925-27, when the ruble was stable.
Of special importance is the promise to increase per capita consumption of food, clothes and other products of light industry by two or three times. The living levels even then would be considerably lower than in Germany, England, or the United States for employed workers.
The Kremlin knows this and certainly will concentrate upon making more consumption goods. Cattle-raising on state-owned ranches, a huge canning industry, heavy investments in the textile industry are provided in the second Five Year Plan.
Farm Mechanization
For agriculture, complete mechanization is planned, on the basis of total collectivization, or the wiping out of private farming entirely. Heavy industry must provide the tractors, combined fertilizers, etc., for this. Cotton and flax acreage at least will be doubled, sugar-beets trebled and

Modern Cleaners Have Fur Storage

The Modern Dry Cleaners of Eastland are again calling the attention of the public to the fur storage vault installed there last year. The vault is the only one of its kind in this part of the country. It is burglar-proof, dust-proof, fire-proof and has a cedar lining to protect the clothing from moths.
Mr. Johnson invites women from the entire trade territory to bring their furs in and store them there through the summer months at a very reasonable charge for storage and with absolute safety.

The ABC's of Gardening

Good Taste in Landscape Gardening

Tucked away in the older residential sections of some of our towns, there are still to be seen charming old places of an age gone by. No doubt some of the old settlers could tell of the circular flower beds that once adorned the lawn, and of the iron deer that stood sentinel near the gate. These are the marks of an age gone by, for styles change in planting as in everything else.

The new style, as shown in the accompanying sketch, is to plan the lawn with open center, with mass plantings relegated to the boundary lines. Just as we furnish every portion of the home, just so they plant every part of the boundary lines. Just as we furnish every portion of the home, just so they plant every part of the grounds to secure the maximum in beauty and enjoyment.

And best of all, we are not handicapped today by lack of materials. There are hundreds of plants which once were rare and costly but now are available in unlimited quantity at very reasonable cost. There are trees and shrubs, vines and flowers for every use and purpose. There is a type of foliage, a color of flower for every effect imaginable.

Plant vines to climb up along the chimney wall and clothe it with a bit of green foliage. Bring a pleasing intimacy to your porch by training vines along the side and over the top.

In America it is the custom to leave the front yard open to the public. It is in good taste to make this portion of your grounds so attractive that it makes a pleasing impression on the passerby.

SNOW CRUSHED SUMMER HOMES IN NEVADA

By United Press.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

While all the old ways of serving the paste-foods are good, if you yearn for something rather out-of-the-ordinary, try a macaroni salad or two for your spring meals.

The cooking of macaroni for salads is most important for there must not be the slightest trace of stickiness or mushiness. Drop macaroni into plenty of boiling water—3 quarts and 1 tablespoon salt to 2 cups macaroni are good proportions—and boil until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain it well and rinse with cold water. Chill and have all the other materials cold, too, before combining them.

Macaroni Ham Salad
This salad is particularly good served on a bed of shredded cabbage.

One cup cooked and chilled macaroni, 1 cup chopped cold boiled ham, 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish, 2 pintenotes, 1 cup salad dressing (mayonnaise or cooked dressing), shredded cabbage.

Mix horseradish and ham thoroughly and combine lightly with macaroni and pintenotes which have been cut in shreds. Moisten with dressing and serve on a bed of shredded cabbage.

Mix horseradish and ham thoroughly and combine lightly with macaroni and pintenotes which have been cut in shreds. Moisten with dressing and serve on a bed of shredded cabbage.

Macaroni Fruit Salad
One cup cooked macaroni, 1 cup diced canned pineapple, 2 bananas thinly sliced and marinated in lemon juice, 1 cup whipping cream, 1-4 cup pineapple juice, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Mix sugar and cornstarch and stir into boiling pineapple juice. Cook, stirring occasionally in double boiler for 20 minutes. Add lemon juice and let cool. When ready to use fold in cream whipped until firm with salt. Add macaroni, pineapple and bananas to dressing and serve on lettuce hearts with a garnish of halves of fresh strawberries or maraschino cherries. A cube of bright jelly will also serve as an attractive garnish.

Macaroni Egg Salad
One cup cooked macaroni, 2 hard cooked eggs, 1-2 cup diced celery, 4 tablespoons sliced stuffed olives, salad dressing, shredded leaf lettuce.

Chop eggs and combine with macaroni, celery and olives. Add

Hungry Cow Eats 78 Baby Chickens

By United Press.

KERRVILLE, Texas.—A Jersey cow ate 78 baby chicks and part of the box they were in, according to C. F. Freeman, vocational agriculture instructor in the high school here.

Freeman owns a poultry farm near here. He had placed 84 baby chicks from an incubator in a cardboard box and placed it in the sun. When he returned a few hours later, the cow, probably suffering from diet deficiencies, had nosed the covering off and eaten 78 of the chicks and part of the box, he declared.
