What follows is merely what one was thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

Earl Heflin lost a ring at the thing pool in Ranger last night. It was a 1931 senior class ring. He thinks it was put in basket No. 15 by mistake. No one knows who took it. If the finder of the ring will return it to Earl, he will appreciate it. And so will I. I'll tell you why later.

The postoffice didn't close in Ranger today, although the bank was on account of Jeff Davis' birthday. In response to the many who have asked me the reason, I'll tell you that this is a democratic holiday and not a republican one. Jeff Davis was the original president of the Confederate States of America and if his side had won the Civil War there wouldn't be any republican postmasters in Texas. Consequently they have to work all day today as much as they work any other day just to remind of how they ought to be tickled. Jeff Davis' side didn't grieve me deeply and pains me much to look over the list of expenditures of the county the month of May and that of the 1932. I'm sure it is a pleasant surprise to you. It is necessary to spend $62.69 out of the county. Of the $37.70 out to the home folks, the news got $6 for publishing the weekly Record and was awarded a prize contract of the month of $30 worth of stationery. I presume bids were asked for. If so it was in a whisper so low I couldn't hear it.

The boss said make this thing hot and sweet because we didn't have much time to fool with this trip. So I'll just pass the above information without comment and you may form your own conclusion, which I am sure you would do without my interference. I'll still stick to what I said before. . . the publishers of this paper have actually paid in county taxes in this county the year 1931 than all other counties in the county combined. I'm sure it is a pleasant thought to consider the generous amount of patronage we get in from the county. Yes, indeed.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson
JOSEPH: THE WORKER

Text: Gen. 41:46-57. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 3. By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist. The dreamer, in our common estimate of men, is often distinguished from the man of practical affairs and from the worker. The distinction, however, is not altogether warranted by a survey of the biographies of great men. The great artists, whom we think of as dreamers, were often men whose capacity for work, and for persistent application in putting their dreams into realization, was as marked as their capacity for dreaming. In every sphere of life, in art, in politics, and in business, there have been men of imagination who have made their lives great and significant by the working out of their dreams. Joseph, whom we have studied in the role of dreamer, occupies a commanding position in history because of the genius that he displayed for practical leadership. He was a worker both in the sense of showing great energy and in the capacity for careful planning. Joseph was an organizer, and organization, it should always be remembered, means work. No organization that is worth while can be effected without constant application to the end in view.

Joseph had to do with work in an environment and atmosphere that might well have tested any man's powers. In working for the future he must surely have had his labors challenged by those who were living mainly in the present. It requires a fine type of courage, and an almost uncanny sense of what is impending, to enable a man to work with intense energy to meet exigencies and problems that have not become immediate. Many of us who work are driven by the necessity of the hour. It is a very common thing to find men who have amazing energy when a crisis arises, but who are rather slack and ineffective as long as a crisis is far away.

One thinks, for instance, of such a man as General U. S. Grant, who had a marvelous power of concentration and persistency when face to face with an immediate and an inevitable task, but who had shown no adequate revelation of his powers until the emergency arose.

At the other extreme have been men like Count von Moltke, who had the German preparations in hand before the Franco-Prussian war actually began. It is said that on the day of the declaration of war Von Moltke went fishing, that he had the Prussian army all prepared and ready to move and strike.

Joseph seems to have combined both these characteristics as a man of affairs. He could look far ahead and plan and work with the utmost care and precision, and when the time came for immediate action he could work and act with a decisiveness and effectiveness equal to his power of organization and preparation.

Middies' Color Girl

Envious of girls throughout the land is Mary K. Douglas (above) of Manitowoc, Wis. She has been chosen as this year's color girl at graduation exercises to be held at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md. She is a student at Holton Arms school for girls in Washington.

Designed in balloon fashion, stressing the motif of red and green, carried the string quartet, composed of Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, Lennie Herring, Johnny Buckner, and Dr. C. C. Craig to the platform, where once again they offered a treat in their individual musical manner.

With all lights extinguished a huge spotlight operated through the courtesy of Chief George Murphy, added the desired effect to offset the beauty of the lovely girls. Posed in graceful way, each beauty wearing suits becoming to her particular type of loveliness were rowed to the platform where they were graciously assisted in stepping from the boat to the central platform by D. W. (Buz) Johnson.

The capable judges, who were: Judge W. S. Adamson, A. (Red) Neill, E. E. Crawford, C. D. Woods, and S. P. Boon, demonstrated what they learned in arithmetic and put their figures together after keeping the audience of 2500 guests impatiently awaiting their decision.

During a debate between the judges, the quartet had added another valuable member, none other than Harry Henry, who favored the listener with numbers.

The clowning of Harry and Dr. Craig kept the spectators in ripples of gay laughter. String music, spotlights and voices rendering notes of rare harmony together with the highpoint attraction, "The Bathing Beauties," provided a program of entertainment which will long be remembered.

Miss Opal Carter, was judged Miss Ranger for 1932's swimming season. Miss Ranger wore a peach colored suit, with a trim of powder blue, made more complete with white belt and pumps.

Miss Vancell Strong, was judged second, she wore a light blue suit, touched with fleecy whiteness. Her belt and sandals were of white.

Third was Miss Marie Cretzinger, who modeled a red suit, with white sandals and trimming of white and red.

The suits were designed for swims of 1932 featuring severe but decidedly attractive lines and cuts. The adorable suits were furnished through the courtesy of Montgomery Ward & Co., The Globe, and J. C. Penney, and a personal purchase made at Hassen company.

First prize was given by Montgomery Ward & Co., managed by H. J. Barham; second by Killingsworth, Cox & Co., managed by Lee and Floyd Killingsworth, and third by Davis Jewelry Store, owned and operated by Clyde H. Davis.

Beauties approved as Ranger's charming ladies, aside from the winners, were: Misses Bernadine Fribbs, Lorene Meroney, Marjorie Maddocks, Mary Lou Thrower, Charollette Ballard and Lila Harman.

Congratulations, Lions! Give us another treat soon. No doubt Charley Moore and H. C. (Andy) Anderson, will go rowing quite a bit this summer in memory of the occasion.

Mrs. Maddocks Suffers From Attack Of Acute Indigestion.

The many friends of Mrs. C. E. Maddocks were shocked and quite grieved to learn today that she is suffering from a severe attack of acute indigestion. The attack occurred after mid-night and a doctor was immediately called. Mrs. Maddocks was reported by her daughter, Marjorie, as resting somewhat more comfortably at press time this afternoon.

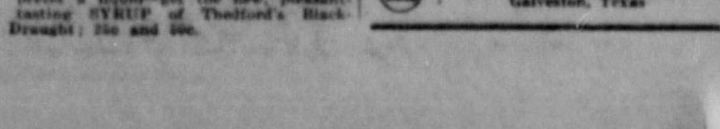

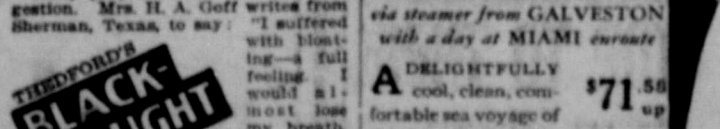

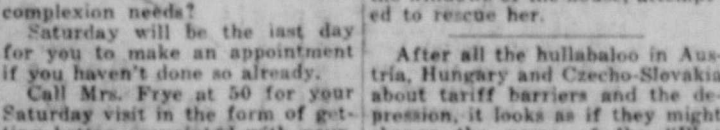

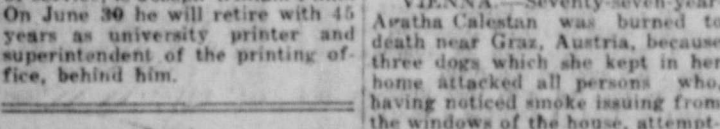

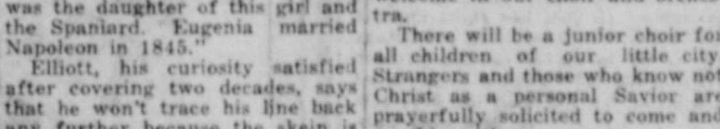

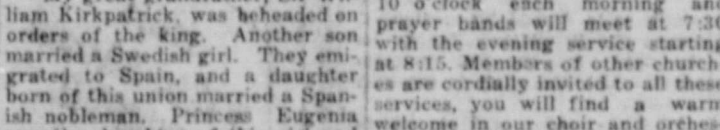

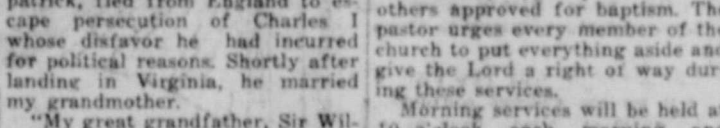

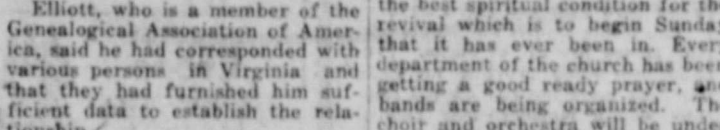

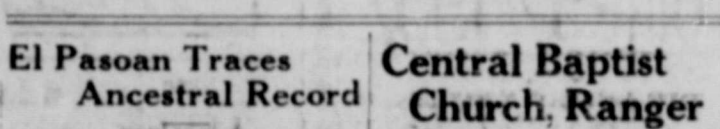

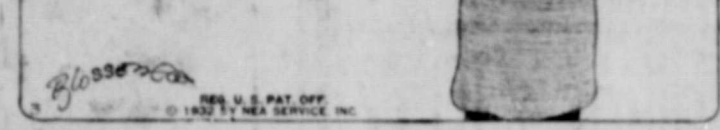

The host of friends are sincerely wishing for Mrs. Maddocks, a speedy recovery.

Special Guests To Attend Royal Neighbors Camp Meeting This Evening.

Mrs. Brad Henry asks that all members of the Ranger Royal Neighbors camp, be present at the ball this evening at 7:15 o'clock. Mrs. Rayfield and associate workers of Greenville will be honorary guests and it is desired that the Evening camp make a splendid showing in attendance.

Important communications will be read, a business session will be called and plans for the district convention which is to convene at Brokenbridge in the near future will be high points of the hour.

El Pasion Traces Ancestral Record

By United Press.
EL PASO, Texas.—Asa C. Elliott, El Pasion, recently concluded 20 years of genealogical research.

He had traced his ancestry back to the time of Napoleon III, and had established relationship with some other than that monarch's wife, Princess Eugenia, the woman who is responsible for those dinky hats.

Elliott, who is a member of the Genealogical Association of America, said he had corresponded with various persons in Virginia and that they had furnished him sufficient data to establish the relationship.

"My grandmother, Mrs. Polly Kirkpatrick, who was born in Virginia in 1804, was a second cousin of Princess Eugenia," said Elliott.

"My grandfather, William Kirkpatrick, fled from England to escape persecution of Charles I whose disfavor he had incurred for political reasons. Shortly after landing in Virginia, he married my grandmother.

"My great grandfather, Sir William Kirkpatrick, was beheaded on orders of the king. Another son married a Swedish girl. They emigrated to Spain, and a daughter born of this union married a Spanish nobleman, Princess Eugenia was the daughter of the girl and the Spaniard. Eugenia married Napoleon in 1845."

Elliott, his curiosity satisfied after covering two decades, says that he won't trace his line back any further because the skin is becoming too tangled.

BERKELEY, Calif.—Oldest University of California administrative officer in point of years of service, is Joseph William Finn. On June 30 he will retire with 45 years as university printer and superintendent of the printing office, behind him.

INDIGESTION

Take a Pinch of Black-Draught After Meals
If bothered with indigestion after meals, try taking a pinch of Black-Draught just after you leave the table.

Many people do this to avoid indigestion. Mrs. H. G. Cliff writes from Sherman, Texas, to say: "I suffered with bloating—full feeding—I would almost lose my breath. My food disagreed with me. I began taking a pinch of Black-Draught after each meal, and I found that was the best way. I soon was relieved of all such gas, and the smothering spells did not come on so bad. I soon began to feel much better. Since then, my health is much improved." A. G. Cliff writes from Sold at drug stores.

ANOTHER MAGNIFICENT PRO STRADDLE COMING

In 1920 the platform makers of the two major parties agreed that prohibition was "a closed issue." They had a gentleman's agreement let it go at that. Well, 12 years have been recorded in Time's hand book and prohibition as an issue is as acute as ever. Now Washington lets it be known that an attempt to lift the burning issue out of the presidential campaign by having both parties adopt identical planks on the question has been undertaken by some prominent republicans and democrats. Also, that Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, and Senator Joseph Taylor Robinson of Arkansas have endorsed the plan and hope the campaign can be fought out along economic lines.

Senator Reed is committed to the Swedish or Canadian liquor system. Senator Charles A. Dill of the state of Washington, a dry democrat, is said to be committed to the bipartisan plan.

Delegates make platforms and nominate standard bearers. Texas democrats, by action of their state convention, are committed to a nation-wide referendum vote by states on the issue of the repeal of the 18th amendment. Senators and representatives are servants of the people and should not be the makers of their platforms or all powerful in the selection of their standard bearers. Didn't Thomas Jefferson say that the people were the masters? If he did, then Thomas was a sly old apostle of freedom as well as the ablest statesman and most notable champion of constitutional liberty that the republic has known.

BANK DEPOSIT GUARANTEE BILL ON THE WAY

There is a democratic house; there is a coalition senate. Well, the democratic leaders steered the Stegall billion dollar bank deposit bill through the house. As it was sent to the senate there was only one major change from the original text. Representative Louis F. McFadden of Pennsylvania, ranking republican of the banking committee, declared it administered the federal reserve system against the worst blow ever received. He insisted that not a single one of the administration officials approved the bill. McFadden attempted the defeat of the bill by an amendment striking out the guarantee provision. As for the one major change it affected conditions for the participation for state banks and the guarantee fund. Originally it was proposed they be required to meet stipulations set by a new federal bank liquidating board and then pay twice as much for admission as federal reserve or member banks. A republican representative, Harold McGugin of Kansas, had an amendment adopted to permit admission of state banks provided they furnish certificates of soundness from the state regulating authority. They would pay the same fees as the reserve member banks. Lest we forget the Stegall bill proposed the establishment of a billion dollar fund to guarantee deposits.

Now what will the senate do with the Stegall measure? All he administration leaders are said to be bitterly opposed to its enactment. Indeed, it is said that the president, if it ever reaches his desk, will let out its lifeblood with his veto knife.

ALL IDLE LAND SHOULD BE TILLED

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt recommended to the people of New York where farm lands are idle and untilled that the jobless and the hungry should be given a chance by honest toil to feed and shelter themselves and their dependents. He asked that all idle lands the state over be placed at the disposal of local commissions directed by a state commission whose members shall be non-salaried and whose hearts shall be in their work of lifting the jobless or the hopeless out of the ditch of despair as well as the slough of despond. It was in August of last year that the New York governor said to the writer:

"I do not subscribe to the gospel that the world owes every man a living. I do not subscribe to the Christian theory and practice that no worthy person should go hungry in the state of New York because of unemployment through no fault of his own."

It was then that he put over the $25,000,000 relief program for the unemployed hungry by increasing the state income tax "in the higher brackets." And the higher bracket fellows didn't like it.

BRODERICK WINS A VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL

Joseph A. Broderick of New York is state superintendent of banks and banking. He was indicted October, 1931, charged with willful neglect of duty in not closing sooner the Bank of the United States with $160,000,000 on deposit by 400,000 persons. He was sent to trial. Evidence consumed eight weeks. Well, the jury listened to the instructions of the trial judge and read the evidence. "Twelve good and true men" return a verdict of not guilty.

Broderick is not popular with Tammany leaders. Broderick is a close friend and political supporter of the New York governor, and the New York governor refused to suspend him while under indictment, telling it to his constituents that Broderick was an honest man, a clean man, an upright man, and had been guilty of no wrong doing. Well, a jury picked in the city of New York gave Broderick a clean bill of health.

Now, what will happen to Mayor James J. Walker? His tongue work is extraordinary, his foot work fascinating, and his wisecracking never ending. Paul Block rushed to the rescue and perhaps he saved the face of the political playboy of America.

REMARKED HERBERT TO JOHN

"This is not unemployment relief. It is the most gigantic pork barrel ever proposed to the American congress. It is an unexampled raid on the public treasury. Our nation was not founded on the pork barrel and it has not become great by political log rolling." Remarkd John to Herbert. "You are all wet and mostly bank."

Passing the buck is a practice or custom as old and as wide as the whiskers of Moses in his mummy covering. For 50 years republican administrations have been the champion pork barrel manufacturers of history. They distributed to the beneficiaries of legislation the contents of the barrel in the shape and form of special privilege and the beneficiaries return the favors in presidential election years by huge contributions when the republican fat fryers walked in with their platters and then walked out again to tap like sources of fish revenue.

The Timmies eyed the rocket man. Then up to him wee Duncy ran. "Say, are you fooling?" he exclaimed. "Will that big rocket fly?" "Gee, if it will I'd like a ride inside of it. Has it been tried? It's hard to realize that it will sail up in the sky." The old man laughed and then replied. "Of course this rocket has been tried. Why, I would ride in it myself, but I'm too big for it." "When I go on a trip for fun, I want to be real comfy, son. You lads are very little. There is room for all to sit."

Political Follies of 1932

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—This campaign year of 1932 presents the greatest show on earth. It has everything. Everything, that is, except rhyme, reason and common sense. The biggest nation in the world in the trough of the worst depression in history, again piles into the two-ring circus of American politics, with the assurance that the clowns will be somewhat funnier, the tightrope walkers more numerous and agile, the barkers more hysterical and the animals nearly all a little more moth-eaten and bedraggled. The Tweedledum party and the Tweedledee party are about to nominate candidates for the presidency for whom there is hardly any enthusiasm even within party ranks. At this date no one has been able to discover any essential difference between these parties except that one party has all the government jobs and the other party is out to get them or die in the attempt.

Neither party will nominate its best man for the presidency. That wouldn't be good politics. Both however will write platforms designed to please everybody, which will be promptly forgotten. Far Enough, Not Too Far AS for the Chicago conventions, which are almost upon us, one will have to depend for excitement among the Republicans largely on the fight over the wet platform plank which the party is expected to adopt.

Like so many skilled artists dabbling on just the right amount of paint, the Republican politicians will try to go far enough without going too far. Then it ought to be a lot of fun watching the previously dry Mr. Hoover balancing himself on the plank. Dems More Spectacular THE Democrats nearly always put on a more spectacular program. They have not yet decided whether to nominate Governor Roosevelt on the convention, foot of someone else in a smoke-filled room.

The twaddling with that problem may provide as exciting a political spectacle as has been seen since 1924. Melodrama may reach its heights. Think of colorful hard-hitting Al Smith being allied with his old bitter enemies Hearst and McAdoo against his former pal Roosevelt! And of the probable desperate, canny maneuvering of the powerful eastern bosses as they clash with the more naive, but scrappy and more numerous Roosevelt supporters from the south and west. And dark horses prancing behind the scene. Ring up the curtain! The 1932 extravaganza ought to be a wow.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma
THAT live cities have leaders who are intelligent and courageous enough to lead. When they command the allegiance of enough citizens toward a program for development, it is sure to be carried out. If it were not for this class of men, many cities would be moving backward instead of forward. When cities wait for prosperity to hit them, without effort on their part, it usually misses them. The "waiting game won't work." When you want anything in this world you have to go after it.

EASTLAND TO HAVE TRADES DAY MONDAY

The question for many years practiced by Eastland merchants, of having a trades day on the first Monday in each month, will be revived Monday when a program arranged by Eastland merchants, assisted by a number of the county candidates, will be presented. The program has been arranged with a view of affording amusement and entertainment and will include horse racing, sack races, potato races, old men's races, etc. Also the various candidates for office in the county will make addresses. There will also be many valuable prizes given away free. Merchants of the city are offering special prices on seasonable merchandise for that day. The event has been joyfully advertised and a large crowd is expected. Farmers are invited to bring their livestock in.

Eastland Theatre Makes Improvements

The Comeltee Theatre, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Belcher, was this week completely renovated inside. The building was given a thorough scrubbing both downstairs and in the balcony, the seats were repainted and other improvements made. A new cooling system to augment the one now in use, is to be installed. The interior of the lobby of the theatre has also been repainted and redecorated. The Comeltee is one of the best theatres in West Texas and has a seating capacity of approximately 1100, 640 of which is in the main auditorium. Mr. and Mrs. Belcher, some time ago, reduced the price of admission at the Comeltee to ten cents, using the slogan, "Any Seat Any Time One Dime." They state that this rate is to remain in force. In order to please all theatre goers the Comeltee plans to show Western type pictures on Saturday up to 6:00 p. m., when the program will be changed to a different type picture.

We moved down a little and got a glimpse of the judges, but they were not such a beautiful bunch, so we lost interest in standing on tiptoe looking at them and gave it up as a bad job.
Ben Whitehouse, by counting the number of people between two posts and multiplying that number by the number of posts, said that there were between 1,400 and 1,500 people present. And he didn't make any allowance for the bids who were running back and forth or the ones who had ringside seats in the trees.

the judges came to some kind of a decision.
Guy Quirl, executive of the Comanche Trail council of Boy Scouts, was a visitor in Ranger Thursday. He said he had come over to find out if we had ever been able to find the way down to Haganan lake to fish. We told him that we had found the way to the lake, but had been unable to find the fish. He had no suggestions to offer in the way of luring fish onto a hook, though.

W. L. Garner, publisher of the Strawn Tribune, today sent us a marked copy of his paper in which he wrote that the people of Strawn were very much surprised last Friday because the Times did not carry copies of the resolution passed at the mass meeting at Mineral Wells on the following Monday night.

Not being a mindreader, and not having one on the staff at present, we did not know last Friday what the resolution passed on Monday night would contain. He says that a newspaper should be broad-minded enough to give the news, regardless of their position in the matter. For Mr. Garner's information we might state that as far as we are concerned the paper has no attitude whatever in the matter. We have never fought for or against the cut-off and have had little or no interest in the matter as we considered it a matter to be decided by the highway commission and not by the newspapers. The highway commission has not asked our permission to build the proposed road, and until it does we see no reason for getting all excited over it one way or the other.

Personally we would not consider the long-winded resolution passed at Mineral Wells of sufficient reader interest to take up several columns printing it in Ranger, because as far as we know there are not-half a dozen people in Ranger concerned in the controversy. We heard one advocate of the cut-off say that he did not read the resolution he saw in the Mineral Wells Index because it was so long he didn't want to read through it to find out what it contained.
We are not condemning Mr. Garner for his fight against the cut-off. We believe that he is sincere and is working hard in a cause to which he is devoting much of his time.
It has been explained to him, time after time, that the people of Ranger did not advocate Missing Strawn on the proposed cut-off, but that the highway commission had ruled that if it was built it would come the way their engineers and the commission thought best and Ranger had no choice in the matter of routes.

Reports got out over town this morning that Gus Coleman had shot a negro three times with a .45 pistol late yesterday, and that the negro had died this morning. Aside from the fact that the man who did the shooting gave his name as W. C. Coalman and his age at around 75 and that he was a negro and had used a shotgun instead of a pistol and shot twice instead of three times, the reports were substantially correct.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—Knitting needles have taught yarn a whole bunch of tricks it never knew before about doing loops and turns and twists over and under the ends of metal, wooden or bone sticks with blunt points on them for the purpose of producing a new form of sweater that is nothing short of a perfect forgery of printed silk!

This knitted and also crocheted forgery business is getting to be something else over here where we are quite used to seeing unusual things accomplished and seldom raise startled eyebrows at anything.

In some cases the sweaters, blouses and even entire frocks that are knitted and crocheted in this fashion, a large sewing needle has assisted in the good work by carefully threading a metal line in and out and around about the design to throw another handful of illusion into the work of art.

Snails a Menace To Texas Gardens In the Southwest

By United Press.

AUSTIN.—Spring gardeners, beware the stenogyra decollatus! The French spiralled agate snail, a menace to home and commercial gardens, arrived in this country about 15 years ago as a stowaway from Bermuda, according to J. M. Del Curto, chief entomologist of the department of agriculture.

The snail thrives in gardens that are frequently watered and feeds on succulent growths. It is commonly found in ravines, creeks, and moist places. It thrives in wet weather, but on hot sunny days shrinks to one-fourth its adult size, reverts into its shell, and awaits another rain.

Del Curto recommends three methods of removing the pest: poisoning eliminating breeding places, and trapping. Arsenate of lead or calcium arsenic in bran mash or sliced Irish potatoes dusted with Paris green are effective methods. Breeding places may be eliminated by disinfecting damp places with caustic materials.

The snails may be trapped by creating an ideal living place for them, such as a damp gunny sack or a board placed over a wet spot. After the snails congregate in their new homes, they may be shoveled up and burned.

Enterprising firemen in an east Austin station collected empty grapefruit halves, cut small doorways in them, and placed them in moist places. In one day 554 snails were trapped and killed, Del Curto reported.

Bible Still Remains World's 'Best Seller'

By United Press.

FORT WORTH.—The Bible, despite the numerous book agencies and drives of membership organizations, remains "best seller," according to Isaac Wachob and Ellis K. B. book publisher's representative from California. There were 600,000 Bibles sold last year, Wachob said, as compared with 750,000 copies of "All Quiet on the Western Front," a record "best seller" for the past years.

"What excuses can there be for the man who comes home at night after night?" asks a writer. He probably has a wife but his wife won't believe him anyway.
