Old People Are Honored At Ranger Revival

At the morning service of Central Baptist Revival, the hour was given over to the old people. A high hour was reached as they sang old time Gospel songs, testified of their conversion and what God had meant to them along the highway of life. An unusually large number of very old people present, the oldest being of 82 and 76 years respectively. A number of very old Gospel hymns were requested and sung, two specially were given, one by a young lady and the other by a very old man. The very gates of heaven seem to open as these old people who have banked the fire for the opening of the great eternal morning shall appear. So great was the spirit of the service that when the dismissal hour came they continued on in songs of praise and testimony.

Reports from the surrounding territory said that several well rigs had blown over, though the amount of damage done was undetermined this morning.

Many orchards were slightly damaged, limbs being blown from many trees and fruit that was beginning to ripen being blown off

Political Speaking, Bronc Riding To Feature Ranger Second Monday

Plans for a bronc busting contest, judging of horses and political speaking have been completed for the next Second Monday to be held in Ranger on June 13.

A program has been worked out by J. B. Ames, manager of Second Monday, that is sure to appeal to all.

Due to the hard rains recently, it will be impossible to get the race track in shape for Second Monday, but other entertainment features have been arranged and a large crowd is expected to be present.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the grounds will be judged and a cash prize will be offered for the best bunch of horses brought in. Anyone who wishes may enter in this judging and the prize will be given to the one having the best bunch.

At 11 o'clock in the morning several prizes, donated by the merchants of Ranger, will be distributed.

In the afternoon two of the main features of the day will be held.

At 1 o'clock a political speaking will be held, at which every candidate who is present will be given an opportunity to talk before the crowd. A speakers' platform will be erected and a man will be on hand to introduce each speaker who wishes to make his announcement.

Immediately following the speaking of the bronc busting, second feature of the afternoon, will be staged. As a prize is being offered for the hardest bucking bronc brought in on Second Monday some real riding is expected to be seen. Prizes will be awarded in the bronc riding, as in the past.

Plenty of free ice water and plenty of water for the stock brought in will be on hand and the whole program of the day will be carried out on schedule.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

DURING the summer, menus must be considered from a new angle. Careful eating will do much toward keeping one cool and comfortable no matter how hot the day and the intelligent choice of foods will go far toward preventing discomfort from excessive heat.

The energy requirements are naturally less with warm weather, so the caloric consumption of the winter months should be reduced. The heat and humidity as well as the tendency toward physical inactivity make it unnecessary and inadvisable to provide a diet rich in heat producing foods.

However, it is vastly important to eat nourishing foods which will regulate the functions of the body and guard against the annoying digestive troubles characteristic of hot weather. The stomach is as sensitive to the heat as any part of the human organism and overloading or overtaxing it in any way may cause much unnecessary unpleasantness.

A balanced diet must be maintained, using the minimum amount of fat and carbohydrates possible to keep the correct proportions. Protein is always needed to take care of the wear and tear of the body, but since protein foods tend to increase energy production in the system, it's advisable to use only as much protein as is actually needed.

Avoid Rich Foods
There are certain types of foods it is wise to avoid. Rich sauces and gravies, fried foods, rich cakes and desserts, hot breads and all kinds of sweets have a decided heating effect on the body. All fats are heat producers and some are difficult to digest as well.

The foods to eat are fresh fruits and vegetables, meat or its substitute not often than once a day.

Women Golfers To Meet June 20 At Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS—The elite of Texas' public links players, as well as entries from the smaller clubs throughout the state, will gather in Wichita Falls June 20 for the start of the second annual Women's Municipal Golf association championship tournament.

The event will be played over the Weeks Park course, one of the sportiest of Texas' public links, and a full week of competitive golf and entertainment is planned for the event.

While the tournament is the recognized public links championship, participation is not confined to the public course players. All feminine players members of club not affiliated with the Texas Women's Golf association are eligible, as well as non-club members.

Play will start Monday, June 20, with 18-hole qualifying rounds, in which the low 32 scorers will continue into match play the following day. Eighteen-hole rounds will be played daily until the 36-hole final Saturday. A sufficient number of flights will be arranged to care for all entries, with consolation in each.

A banquet, a dance and a tea are the principal entertainment features during the week.

Eagle's Wing Is Amputated To Save Its Life

FINLEYVILLE, Pa.—Two and a half feet of a bald eagle's wing was amputated by a veterinarian to save the bird's life after it was shot down by a farmer.

The eagle is to be turned over to the state game protector after its recovery. Dr. F. Z. Matthews, veterinarian stated that the bird now may live 80 or 90 years.

William Caster, farmer, shot the bird as it swooped low over his chicken yard. After Caster fired the shot, the eagle swerved and grasped the muzzle of Caster's rifle in its talons.

The eagle has a wing spread of six and a half feet, and it is 2,500 miles from its usual habitat.

"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

Her Constipation Overcome by This Delicious Cereal

If you are troubled with constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I would like to congratulate the one who discovered ALL-BRAN. It really does live up to its reputation when it is said to 'relieve constipation.'"

"I used to feel poor all the time—just down and out—and after reading an advertisement in a magazine about ALL-BRAN I got a box. It has evermore helped me, and it is not hard at all to eat."—Miss Mary Bundy, Bennettsville, S. C.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN brings two things needed to correct common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes.

How much safer than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved his way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Women Golfers To Meet June 20 At Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS—The elite of Texas' public links players, as well as entries from the smaller clubs throughout the state, will gather in Wichita Falls June 20 for the start of the second annual Women's Municipal Golf association championship tournament.

The event will be played over the Weeks Park course, one of the sportiest of Texas' public links, and a full week of competitive golf and entertainment is planned for the event.

While the tournament is the recognized public links championship, participation is not confined to the public course players. All feminine players members of club not affiliated with the Texas Women's Golf association are eligible, as well as non-club members.

Play will start Monday, June 20, with 18-hole qualifying rounds, in which the low 32 scorers will continue into match play the following day. Eighteen-hole rounds will be played daily until the 36-hole final Saturday. A sufficient number of flights will be arranged to care for all entries, with consolation in each.

Eagle's Wing Is Amputated To Save Its Life

FINLEYVILLE, Pa.—Two and a half feet of a bald eagle's wing was amputated by a veterinarian to save the bird's life after it was shot down by a farmer.

The eagle is to be turned over to the state game protector after its recovery. Dr. F. Z. Matthews, veterinarian stated that the bird now may live 80 or 90 years.

William Caster, farmer, shot the bird as it swooped low over his chicken yard. After Caster fired the shot, the eagle swerved and grasped the muzzle of Caster's rifle in its talons.

The eagle has a wing spread of six and a half feet, and it is 2,500 miles from its usual habitat.

Egyptian Papyrus Reveals Geometry

LENINGRAD—That the Egyptians were familiar with geometry 1,500 years before the Christian era is proven by the deciphering of a rare Egyptian document in the Hermitage museum here.

Prof. V. V. Struve, of the museum administration, after years of study, announced that the papyrus in question has been entirely transcribed. The deciphering was begun several decades ago by Prof. B. A. Turayev, a prominent Russian Egyptologist, and continued by Professor Struve.

The document deals with mathematics and in particular reveals an intimate knowledge of the laws of geometry.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

JUDAH, A TRUE BROTHER

E. GILROY, D. D.
Gen. 44:18-34
International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 12.

The Congregationalist of health reads of any one event in his career, even by any portion of it, taken by itself—that is, minutes. You see the character gives striking of some newness of life, that the real man is judged by the richest and hence that has happened.

He is thinking of the misery and the stricken condition of his father when he finds that in addition to the loss of his son in former days he has now lost, also, the child of his old age; and Judah's unselfishness rises to the full height when he pleads with Joseph that he may himself remain as a hostage while Benjamin goes on his way.

Forest of Fame Boast Trees From Many Countries

MT. VERNON, Wis.—In the "Forest of Fame" on the public square here trees have been planted in memory of some of the world's greatest figures. All of the trees have been taken from places associated with important events in the lives of those honored, which include: Napoleon, Joan D'Arc, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, U. S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Thomas Jefferson, Ethan Allen, Eben Rexford, author of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," Stephen M. Babcock, the scientist, and seven former Governors of Wisconsin.

Our lesson ends with the climax of this plea. It must be read in relation to the story of Joseph as a whole. Both the teacher and the student of these lessons might be warned against seeking to deal with any one lesson by itself. If one will take the trouble to read the chapters in which the story of Joseph is told as a whole, one will realize the essential unity of the story and the dramatic power with which the master writer who told it has developed to the full the factors of contrast and climax.

GRAF BROUGHT RARE PLANTS FROM BRAZIL

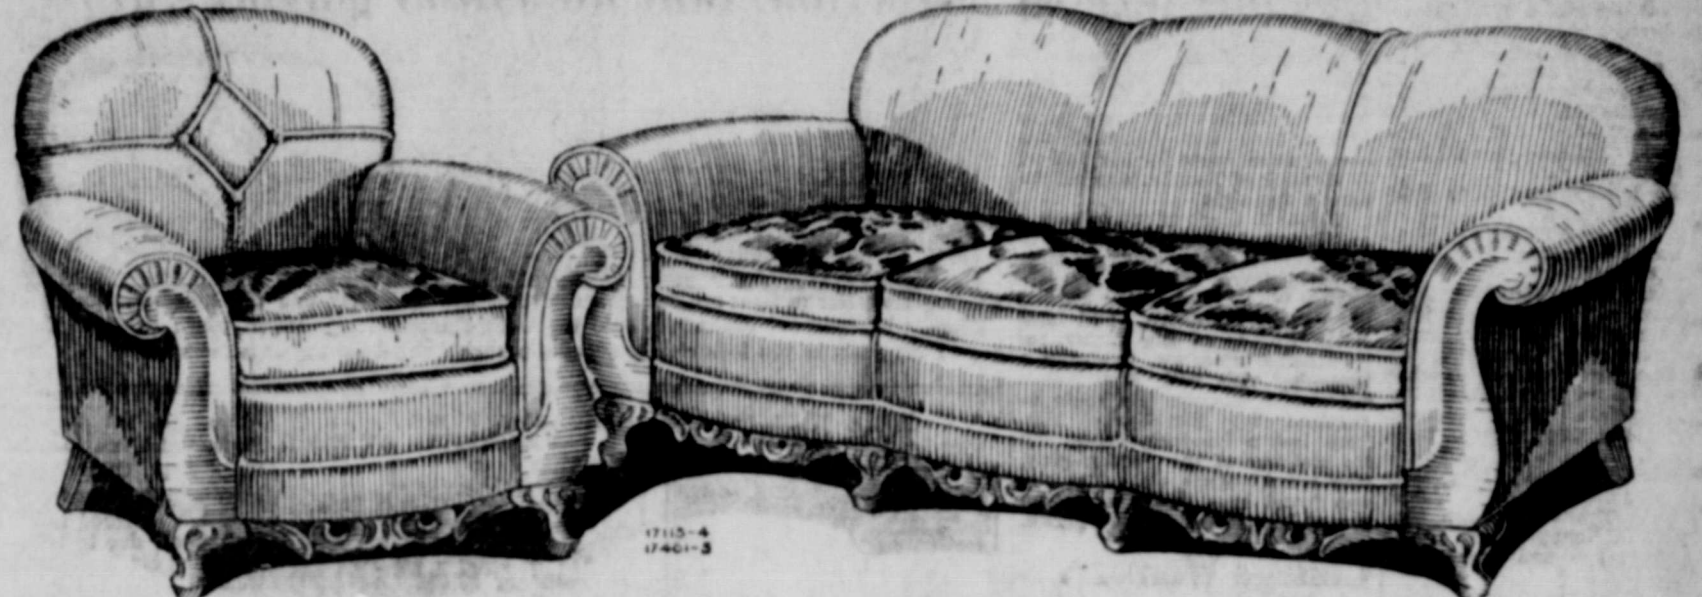

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany.—Transportation of rare tropical plants for transplanting in German botanical gardens, formerly impossible due to the long steamer trip, now is possible by the Graf Zeppelin's three-day schedule to Brazil. Among the plants now being grown for the first time in Germany, are two unusual varieties of mayacca, and a species of genisica, insectivorous plants.

Not Fair?

The most beautiful girl in Germany is what judges of a Berlin contest called Fraulein Helga Thomas (above).

Williams and Dean were beautiful frocks of blue organdies and carried arm bouquets of sweet peas.

The couple entered together, the bride was gowned in a lovely pink net with blue accessories and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

New Yorkers are beginning to lose their faith in Jimmy Walker following the disclosure that he overdraw his $10,000 letter of credit from a bus man on his three-month trip to Europe.

The explanation is not good enough. A number of the women have told their husbands that if they have to stay at home there isn't going to be any party.

Wrecking the Crew MAURICE MAHUT, president of the union of federations fostering rowing is very sad according to Saunders Mahut had whipped into fine form an 8-oared crew made up of men drawn from various clubs.

Your husbands are going to America," he said, "for the honor of their country. They have been chosen to represent France. How can you block their path to duty?"

The reply of the little women was that this was sport, not war, and while it would be nice if the men could go, France wouldn't fall if their husbands stayed at home.

"We can do nothing but leave the married men with their wives—and leave the rest of the crew at home, too. It is too bad for the bachelors."

The beautiful ceremony was spoken by Rev. J. L. Roden, in the living room before an altar of varicolored flowers and ferns.

Mrs. May and little daughter, Helen Williams and La Rue Dean were bridesmaids and little Miss Betty May was flower girl.

When Richard Arlen takes to the air in "Sky Bride," his newest picture for Paramount, it will be his first appearance in an aviation film since "Wings."

It was "Wings" that installed three players in the fore ranks of film popularity. Like Arlen, Gary Cooper and Charles "Buddy" Rogers greatly increased their following through their performances in the picture.

Arlen is thoroughly at home in the air. He was a combat pilot with the Royal Flying Corps during the World War.

Eastland Church Revival Has A Good Service

An unusually large attendance was registered at the revival services of the Methodist church now in progress, every bench in the open air tabernacle being filled last night, with not only the usual Methodist attendance, but large groups from all the other churches of Eastland, and several out of town visitors, including the Rev. Gid J. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan of Ranger.

The music was inspirational and the old hymns had a noble support in the orchestra of six violins, a flute, and two horns, and contributed by the Wilda Dragon orchestra, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Joe Gibson.

A. E. Herring, song leader, assisted. A stirring sermon was given by Rev. George W. Shearer, pastor of the Methodist church, whose talk was based on the third and fourth verses of Second Samuel.

The theme, "When Saul's son saw that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands were feeble, and all the Israelites were troubled." The points of the sermon developed the argument, that every man in the world has an influence over someone. That every man should be a leader, that it was hard to know how some could be influential in a world of leadership, because everyone has influence over someone. That youth had to look to older age for leadership, and that the older man, of prominent positions during the World War, had no influence if they did not live right, and set a good example to youth.

The speaker touched on golf playing on Sunday, and gun shooting clubs that took Sunday for practice, and other similar amusements, the modern world is prone to indulge in on the Sabbath day.

The sermon was of the good old-fashioned revival message vintage, spoken with sincerity, and the kind of a message this busy, hurrying world needs. There will be services tonight at the usual hour and place. The message will be one, Rev. Shearer stated, that he had never before delivered in the Oil Belt. Everyone invited.

BRYAN AND HANNA WON FAME AS PARTY BOSSES

McKinley's Mentor Put Business Into Politics; "Great Commoner" Was Democracy's Ruler for Years

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1932, NEA Service)
WASHINGTON.—The two outstanding political bosses at the turn of the present century were Mark Hanna and William J. Bryan.

Hanna, one of the most powerful and effective of leaders, decided that his friend William B. McKinley must not be left at the mercy of a group of machine politicians conniving in a smoke-filled hotel room.

So he went personally through the country, with plenty of money and plenty of promises, and signed up enough little bosses and delegates to insure McKinley's nomination by the Republicans in 1896.

Then he decided that election campaigns should be put on a business basis. He raised millions of dollars, chiefly from corporations who felt that McKinley's nomination was their best bet, and elected McKinley over Bryan.

During his period as Republican national chairman from 1896 until his death in 1904, Hanna had almost complete control over the party.

Hanna had observed hotel room nominations in previous campaigns. In 1875, when it appeared the Republicans were likely to win the following year, Hanna began systematically to weed out the cash, were praying they wouldn't have to stay in Chicago over Sunday. The senatorial group sent for Harding—who had told Harry M. Daugherty to cease efforts on his behalf, because he wanted to file for the Senate again in order not to lose his seat—and told Harding he was to be the next president.

The greatest modern politician among the Democrats was William Jennings Bryan, who guided the party in five national conventions and played important roles in two others.

Never elected to high office, he nevertheless held enormous political power over a longer period than any other private citizen before or since his time.

No man ever rose to such thrilling, effective heights in national political conventions. Anyone who saw or heard him in 1896, 1904 or 1912 or 1924 never could forget him.

Though he fought the bosses in many conventions, Bryan's own nomination in 1896 was not a hard Wood and Senator Hiram Johnson, Frank Lowden, runnerup to Wood, had been as good as licked by pre-convention disclosures.

boss candidates and the favorite sons. So well did his pre-convention campaign succeed that McKinley won without a struggle, although such bosses as Platt and Quay held out until the end.

When it became evident that Bryan had a real chance to win, McKinley, as national chairman, threw himself into a brilliant, expensive campaign. He set out to educate the country to the dangers of "Bryanism" and free silver. He used 1400 speakers and 120 million pieces of literature. He levied quotas on corporations, banks and insurance companies, raising an amount estimated at six to seven million dollars.

Hanna was the most talked-of man of his time. After McKinley's election, he refused a cabinet job and had himself made a senator from Ohio. Later, when a South Dakota senator attacked him and intimated he had bribed his way into the Senate, Hanna went to South Dakota and drove this senator out of public office.

The Republican party was not through with hotel room nominations, though. In 1920, the Senate old guard engineered the most famous one of all time.

Senator Boies Penrose—the fat, ruthless boss of Pennsylvania—dominated the senatorial clique that brought home the bacon at Chicago, while lying ill at Philadelphia with a telephone in his hand. Others were Simon of Utah, Lodge of Massachusetts, Wadsworth of New York, McCormick of Illinois, Brandegee of Connecticut and ex-Senator Murray Crane of New York. Their final decision for Senator Warren G. Harding was made in George Harvey's room at the Blackstone.

The New York-Pennsylvania clique was flatly opposed to Leon stampede for an unknown. A young congressman from Nebraska, he had become one of the free silver heroes of Congress and for a couple of years had been working toward that nomination. His memorable "cross of gold and crown of thorns" speech went over as a wow, but it had been carefully planned. In 1900 he held the party in his hand.

Bryan did not run in 1904 and Alton B. Parker's defeat that year was so pronounced that the nomination of Bryan, the strongest man in the party, became inevitable in 1908. Again that year, as in 1896 and 1900, he was beaten in the election and he gave up his hopes of being president.

In 1912, Bryan brought about the nomination of Woodrow Wilson as a progressive.

At San Francisco, in 1920, he was a delegate arrayed against the eastern bosses. At New York, in 1924, Bryan vigorously supported McAdoo against Smith in the historic deadlock.

Bryan's last notable piece of convention oratory was in opposition to the resolution which would have denounced the Ku Klux Klan. Again, he was the object of hysterical imprecations from the machine delegates. The speech was not one of his best efforts, although the resolution he opposed was defeated.

Meanwhile, Clem Shaver of West Virginia—a fairly shrewd and amiable fellow—and other friends of John W. Davis had been talking up Davis with every delegation. Bryan attacked Davis as a corporation lawyer, but Shaver built up a great second-choice following and Davis was nominated after more than 100 ballots.

Bryan's brother, Gov. Charles Bryan of Nebraska, was nominated for vice president. Bryan turned to and supported the ill-fated ticket through the campaign.

William Jennings Bryan—who showed his hatred for Tammany when he bolted the Tammany-supported candidate, Champ Clark, at Baltimore in 1912 and fought Al Smith in New York in 1924—died too soon to see the wet Tammany-reared Smith nominated almost by acclamation at Houston four years ago. He probably couldn't have done much about it. He had been talking vaguely about the nomination of a congressman named W. A. Ayers from Kansas.

Colorado Hens Lay Unusual Eggs

By United Press.
LOVELAND, Colo.—It may be the spring fever. Or it might be just plain originality.

Anyhow, hens at the Spaulding and Pettigrew poultry yards recently did themselves proud by leaving a couple of peculiar eggs in their nests.

"Dad" Spaulding found an egg with the letters L-Y-Z distinctly outlined on the shell.

An egg which almost wandered into the vegetable classification was found by Mrs. Thomas Pettigrew when she gathered eggs. The egg was extremely elongated, resembling nothing more than a Missouri paw-paw, or perhaps, an elongated squash.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—Nothing will do but the long and the short of it when it comes to coats for evening. What the short jacket lacks the long wrap makes up for with material to spare. There are no half way landings between these two extremes.

Vionnet goes into a Gothic trance and, with a bolt of Bianchini crepe in a superb red, cuts a full-length evening coat that is decidedly stingy with the glimpses of the frock beneath it lets itself reveal. The sleeves are cut in one piece with the shoulders and are large and gabby to the elbows where they taper to the wrist. The waist is fitted snugly to the normal line where it lies in a soft twist of material. The collar is small and crushed, with the ends over twisting just above the belt fastening. The skirt of the coat is full and falls in soft, tube-like folds to within half an inch of the hem of the dress beneath it, which is a dull pink.

"La Pluie d'or" is a short lace jacket designed by Rossi of Lucile's and it does, indeed, look like golden rain seen through a ray of sunshine—a thing that happens frequently here, strange as it may seem.

When asked what they would do if they were given control of the university, 358 out of 430 Princeton seniors replied, "I'd hire a good football team." Which proves that they haven't been frittering away their time learning about poetry or Greek.

WHY SHOULD CITRUS GROWERS BE PENALIZED?

Why should the citrus growers of Texas be penalized? It is said that these producers are handicapped by the fact that they cannot ship their fruit from March to October because of the quarantine regulations—not even into other portions of their own state. It is said that except for cold storage supplies it is impossible for Texans in other Texas cities to buy Texas grapefruit six months in the year, while Florida fruit may be shipped into the northern half of Texas and California to all parts of the state any month in the year. Why the handicap? Why place California first?

Charles A. Swift is the vice president of the Swift International Packing organization. He sent a letter to stockholders in which he stated the death of Edward Swift "in no way affects the business or financial status of the company; that the company has free liquid resources of over $25,000,000 United States gold and no bank debts or any other obligations except current trade debts not yet due. Moreover, estimated earnings for the first five months of 1932 compare favorably with those of the same period in 1931 and fully cover dividend requirements." This must have been a knockout blow for the gossip mongers and all their affiliated tribes.

BARKLEY OF KENTUCKY IN THE PICTURE

Senator A. W. Barkley of Kentucky is one of the outstanding democratic leaders. He is to be the keynoter at the Chicago convention. He voted for a duty on coal. Kentucky is a coal producing state. Hundreds of the miners have been idle for two years. Hundreds of families of miners go about in rags, hungry most of the time, and destitute of dollars all the time. Why criticize Barkley? He voted to keep foreign coal out. He voted to reopen the mines of Kentucky. He voted to give employment to idle miners in order that they could be able to feed their families. Why should men who object to the dole roundly criticize Barkley of Kentucky who insists that jobs should be provided for Kentuckians in order to avoid the dole system in the coal regions?

TEXAS STEEL OR TEXAS JOBS

Steel used in the construction of Texas bridges and Texas highways must, as far as possible, be of Texas fabrication. This is the flat of the Texas highway commission. The commission order stated there were 16 steel fabrication mills in Texas able to supply highway construction needs and that several hundred men would be thrown out of employment unless the commission specified Texas fabricated steel for highway work. Moreover, the commission also order that at least 85 per cent of the steel must be of American origin where American steel was available for highway work.

Why criticize Senator A. W. Barkley of Kentucky for voting for a tariff on coal? Many of the Kentucky coal mines have been closed for years. Hundreds of miners are ragged and penniless. Hundreds of their families are being fed by the charitable. "Laugh and the world laughs with you." Starve and you starve alone.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

I received a letter from my very good friend, H. G. Spaulding, former publisher of the Shawnee Morning News, who tells me he is now publisher of the Alameda, California, Times-Star, and that he and Mrs. Spaulding are making their home at the Hotel Alameda. This reminds me that some three years ago I spent some days in that charming city.

Alameda is dotted with public and private bathing beaches along its south shore where the floor of the bay descends gradually and assures perfect safety for children, many of whom learn to swim almost as early as they master their first steps. Along the northern shore is what army engineers consider the greatest potential industrial and terminal section on the Pacific coast, the inner harbor.

The playground of the San Francisco Bay metropolitan area, including two of the largest cities on the Pacific coast (Oakland and San Francisco), Alameda differs from other pleasure resorts in that its expansive sheltered beaches from only a small part of the advantages which it has to offer to the visitor and home-seeker alike. The beach resorts, the largest of which spreads over many acres and offers both tank and surf swimming, were undergoing their annual spring cleaning when I visited them. It required no great imagination, however, to visualize the tens of thousands who throng these beach parks each week.

It is in Alameda's harbor that I saw the world's largest fleet of "windjammers" wintering, their towering masts piercing the sky. The Alaska Packers' association, one of the first to realize the possibilities which Alameda offers as a terminal, operates this fleet in bringing back its salmon packs from the Alaskan canneries. Extending to the east and west are the industrial plants, including two of the largest shipyards of the state.

Symbolical of the new vision which is Alameda's, the slogan: "What Alameda Builds Builds Alameda," coined for the financial campaign conducted for new Hotel Alameda, has become the representative of the city as a whole. Several years ago civic leaders conclude that Alameda needed a new hotel. Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and backed by various civic organizations, citizens launched a memorable community drive. Today the new Alameda Hotel, a $500,000 community built hotel stands as a monument to Alameda's civic spirit. Typifying in its architectural design the early days when the Spaniards ruled California, the new hotel has become at once the city's cultural center and a mecca for travelers—a place one has in seldom seen and so unique and homelike as to be not readily forgotten.

Here's a March on Washington That Would Be More to the Point!

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

Now that Judge Sam Russell has ruled that he cannot grant an injunction to prevent the building of Highway 89—the cut-off route from Weatherford to Ranger, which would reduce the distance by some 14 miles, a little explanation seems to be necessary because a few have received wrong impressions about the road, the work and what effect it will have on other roads.

In the first place the saving on the trip to Fort Worth from Ranger will be a little over 14 miles each way, not 14 miles on the round trip as some seem to believe. The saving on the round trip will be approximately 29 miles.

Then, there are some who have been told, probably by the opponents of the cut-off, that the old road from Weatherford to Mineral Wells, Palo Pinto and Strawn will be torn up and this would be a gross waste of money and would be unfair to the towns along the present route. The present highway would be left intact and would be maintained, just as it is now, and the towns along this route will have the same road they now have, with the addition of a north and south road running from the Rio Grande Valley through Mineral Wells to Wichita Falls, which the commission intends to build sometime in the future.

D. K. Martin, member of the commission, made it plain that the present highway through Mineral Wells to Strawn would be kept as it is and would be maintained in the same way it has been in the past.

Some years ago when a paved road was needed between Ranger and Eastland it was built, but the other roads were not torn up and are still there for use in case anyone wants to use them, which is the case with the Highway 89 cut-off.

Milburn McCarty of Eastland, one of the attorneys in the controversy, brought out a good point when he asked a witness from Mineral Wells how much traffic Mineral Wells would lose to the new route if it was built. The answer was that approximately 80 per cent of the traffic would be lost. Judge McCarty then asked if it wasn't a fact that if 80 per cent of the traveling public would prefer the new route, that it was a pretty good indication that the road was needed and wanted by the majority of the people who would use it.

Chairman Ely of the highway commission brought out a similar thought in a different way. He said that the opposition to a road was a sure indication of the need for that road. He did not explain further, but it is easy to see that where a road is opposed strenuously it is an indication that the people fear the majority of traffic would go by the new route, proving his need.

However, Judge Ely has said that it will be about January 1, 1934 before the road could be completed under any circumstances, which is too long a way to worry about now, and, too, there is a possibility of an appeal of the case, which will take some more time and may help to delay construction a little.

Yesterday afternoon we went out to the dam at Lake Haganah to see the damage that was done. We found M. H. Haganah and Leslie out there preparing to fill in the gap made by the water. They said that a little concrete work was to be done today, if it

Political Follies of 1932

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NIA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—What this country needs, our foremost statesmen seem to agree, is a good 5-cent hero.

So the boys are all doing their very best to provide us with one. Very successfully, too, one might say, because heroes seem to be all over the place.

The epidemic of heroes is likely to become rather horrible before this 1932 campaign is over because the heroism disease is both highly contagious and insidiously progressive in the individual system.

Pathetic Heroes

MOST of our current heroes are pathetic. One need not overlook the fact that job-holding politicians are likely to work themselves into lathers of self-allocated heroism with the utmost ease. But neither can one forget that the national emergency has not yet produced an office-holder willing to take any chances.

Political heroism appears to differ from ordinary heroism in that an act of ordinary heroism involves some risk—of your life or job or something. Political heroism involves no risks at all. Any way.

The heroism season seems to have started when old Charlie Crisp of Georgia suddenly became acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, began to defend the sales tax.

His "Sacrifice"

HE made an instant hit when he bared and beat his chest, announcing that he was willing to sacrifice his political future for his country.

His performance still looks creditable in retrospect, but when he found the House rising to applaud him every time he spoke he began to go through the same act day after day until finally he was didn't rain, and that four or five teams would be put to work hauling the dirt needed to fill in the cut.

After looking over the sky in a knowing way we informed them that we didn't believe it would rain that night, which shows what kind of a weather prophet we are.

The lake looked pretty low yesterday and looked pretty narrow in some places, but we were told that the water level stood exactly where it did when the lake was full four years ago, before the dam was raised, or whatever it was they did back in 1928 to empond more water. The present supply of water is sufficient for the needs of the city for a whole year without a rain and the lake will fill rapidly after the cut is filled and a good rain falls.

We have been told that a number of men and boys have been seen in the creek and water holes below the dam since the break occurred and that they have been taking out bass, perch and other fish in large quantities. We are not sure, but are under the impression that there is a law against taking bass in a seine. And we have heard that they are taking bass under the legal length, which might also constitute a fine of some kind.

We have some good information from the Texas State Board of Medical examiners about fakirs in Texas who are giving free lectures and then collecting fees for so-called cures and methods of prolonging life, which we will run sometime soon for the information of the people. We once saw one of these men at work and he took a lot of good money out of town for which the people got absolutely nothing.

a candidate for the Senate with every chance of being nominated and elected.

Single-Handed Saviors

THAT started most congressmen trying to out-hero each other. Minority Leader Henry T. Rainey was tearing his hair over the sales tax, threatening awful panics and dollars worth 20 cents if no sales tax were passed.

Even Speaker Jack Garner, who usually hates bunk, leaped into the breach after it had all been closed up and joined the ranks of those who had saved the country single-handed.

President Hoover himself, who is going to be heroized more than anyone else in the campaign—and damned more as well—went into the Senate the other day to demand that it pass a tax bill which it would have passed the night before had he not sent word through Senator Dave Reed to please wait until the treasury provided new estimates.

Don't Forget Pat Hurler

OTHER administration heroes are headed by Secretary of War Pat Hurler, who can be depended upon for publicity making histrionics as often as he gets the chance. And every pre-convention season finds Senator Borah making a last ditch fight for something or other, threatening havoc if he isn't heeded. In 1928 it was for honesty in government and this year it's a dry platform plank. Borah has yet to wreak havoc.

In the campaign nearly all candidates will be offering to lay down their lives to save the country from the Bolsheviks, the wet, the dry, the grasshopper plague, foreigners in general, the Mediterranean fruit fly, Tammany Hall, the pope, bimetalism, the Farm Board, the natives of Hawaii of the Lindbergh kidnapers.

It ought to be a big year for the tomato farmers.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By STUART CAMERON,
 United Press Sports Editor.

Trackers Hurt Least
 By Olympic Downfall.

Of course it's quite too bad that there is a depression and that one of its results is the reduction in size of the United States Olympic team, but the reduction, after all, is no more than fair, since European teams already had been curtailed, and some of them eliminated.

Actually, the reduction isn't as bad as some sports followers seem to believe. The cuts will affect the events in order of their importance, and track and field is at the top of the list. The best of the United States runners and jumpers will be in Los Angeles at the proper time, and the U. S. will win the Olympic games unless a miracle (possibly in the form of a Japanese team) happens to occur. Descamps Watching Carpenter "Comeback."

Georges Carpenter started a "comeback" a few weeks ago, and maybe he's still engaged in the process, although boxing writers of the east have sort of lost track of his activities.

There is, however, one man who is keenly interested in the outcome. He's the dynamic Francois Descamps, old ring fox and manager of Georges' destinies in happier days eight years ago.

If Carpenter gets his weight down to the old fighting trim and his legs and lungs prove their worth, Descamps, now grizzled and gray, will take the first boat to America and stand again in the corner of his first and only champion.

Descamps has had hard days since Georges quit fighting, and the old man shows the wear and tear of trying to make a living out of a second rate boxing stable. His best men are Maurice Grisse, heavyweight champion of France, and "Tiger" Hummery, but Descamps recently had the misfortune to see both of them knocked out on the same card, in Paris.

The Tinnies were tickled pink. Said Happy Duncy, "Gee, to think that we are going to have a ride right in a big parade."

"We'll sit upon this wagon, high, and wave at folks as we pass by. Tonight we will be dreaming of the hit that we have made."

Just then they heard a bugle blow and Scouty shouted, "Here we go! The parade is starting from the grounds. Say! When do we fall in?"

"Don't worry," said a man nearby. "Just sit real quiet, lads, and I will turn and wave my hand when it is your turn to begin."

AND so the Tinnies sat real still. It really was a wondrous thrill to see the sparkling horses pass, with wagons painted bright. Soon Scouty said, "Unless I'm wrong, this great parade is very long. If anyone stands up to see it all, they'll stand all night."

"Oh, your imagination's strong," said Windy. "I am sure you're wrong. We'll only stretch a little block." A man (he

YOU remember him when he was fresh from college—lithic and healthy and fit. He wants to keep as young and as athletic as he was then.

Here's a delicious ready-to-eat cereal that will help. Made especially for active people. Serve Kellogg's PEP Bran Flakes.

These better bran flakes are full of a flavor men love. But even more important, they're filled with whole-wheat nourishment. Whole wheat is a favorite food for active people. Nature has made it a storehouse of the food elements that build and nourish. And just enough bran to be mildly laxative. An ideal dish for the whole family.

Have Kellogg's PEP Bran Flakes for breakfast tomorrow. For your own lunch. For the children's supper. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. In the red-and-green package. Quality guaranteed.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 CHERRY DISON, is and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter whom her wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone number she has kept from her father she steals out of the house to meet him. Her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.
 She goes to Dan, tells him what has happened and asks him to marry her. The ceremony is performed that night by a Justice of Peace. Next day Cherry makes some purchases on a charge account but returns them when her former maid comes to see her and promises to send her clothes. Cherry looks for an apartment but is discouraged to find them so expensive. Dan telephones her and she is delighted to hear that he will be staying with officers. Cherry that TONY TOSCALLI, gangland chief, is expected and that he is waiting with officers who intend to arrest Toscalli. Cherry makes for an apartment. DRINKS, reporter on a rival newspaper, and occasionally tells him about Toscalli.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV
 It was almost midnight when Dan came. "Hello," he said as he paused on the threshold. "Thought you'd be asleep."
 The only light in the room came from the lamp on the table, casting white light in a circle of a dozen feet and leaving the rest in darkness. Cherry sat in the big chair, half obscured by shadows. She sprang up.
 "Oh, I'm so glad you've come! Is everything all right? I thought you'd never get here. I've been so worried, Dan!"
 She slipped her arms about him, clung for an instant and then raised her lips for the kiss she expected. It did not come.
 Cherry's startled eyes rose to meet Dan's. She saw that he looked tired and rather pale.
 "Is anything wrong?" she demanded.
 He drew away. "Nothing," he said indifferently, "except that the whole thing was a flop. Mac and I hung around that damned station until every seat-bus train until tomorrow morning came in. Not a sign of Toscalli. Not unless he knows how to make himself invisible. Lord! That's the sixth story that's flopped on me this week. Bates swore the tip was authentic. Just talked to him over the phone and he still insists it was. Seems to blame me because the big bono didn't get here!"
 Phillips flung himself into a chair. The girl looked down at him. "Aren't you going to kiss me?" she asked quietly. "Aren't you—glad to see me?"
 "Of course I am." He arose, kissed her cheeks absently and then sat down again.
 "What a day!" Dan sighed. "Boy I wish tomorrow was my day off!" It was the first time he had ever been remiss in the attentions of a sweetheart. Cherry was hurt. Dan scarcely seemed to realize she was in the room. After worrying all evening about him this was the way he came back to her!

She sank to the floor in front of him, settled herself comfortably and rested one arm on his knee. Cherry was determined to win him from this mood. Smiling, she looked up. "Maybe I shouldn't be," she said, "but I'm glad that terrible man didn't get here."
 "Why?"
 "Because I was so afraid for you! Think what it would mean to me if anything should happen to you. Dan, I couldn't stand it. I just couldn't. That's why I was so frightened."
 "H" put a hand on her shoulder, patted it reassuringly and told her that she had been a foolish child.
 That was better. Much better. He was her Dan again and he was smiling. Suddenly Cherry remembered her own conscience was not clear. Not exactly. She said hesitantly:
 "There's something I think I should tell you. It's—something I'm afraid I shouldn't have done."
 Dan was amused. "Confession!"
 "Well, something like that."
 "What could you have done that is so terrible?"
 "I don't believe you'll like it—" "But what is it?"
 Cherry found it harder to explain about her conversation with Garth Hendricks than she had thought it would be. She told Dan about going to dinner at the Maple Leaf tea room and seeing Hendricks there.
 "Then I really don't know how it happened, but he told me he was on the Sentinel and we began talking about newspaper work and about its being exciting and—well, I said that if you weren't a newspaper man you'd have been with me instead of with Tony Toscalli."
 "Cherry! You didn't!"
 "Yes. And then he asked some questions and I explained you weren't really with Tony, but you were waiting for him."
 "Did you tell him where?"
 "I guess so. Oh, Dan, I didn't know you wouldn't want me to tell I didn't know it was wrong!"
 "Wrong! My God, Cherry, so that's what happened! That's why Toscalli didn't come. If the Sentinel thought they could spoil our story—if they had any way to get to him—Oh, you little idiot, don't you see what you've done!"
 He was on his feet, staring at her half in anger, half in amazement.
 "Dan!"
 Apparently he did not even hear her. If Bates knew about this he'd fire me in a minute. Yes, he would! Kicked Brown out six weeks ago for look. Do you want me to be fired? Do you? Lord, I don't see how you could do such a thing! To give away the biggest story I've had in months and to a Sentinel reporter, of all people—"
 "But I didn't mean to, Dan, please—oh, please don't you see?" "I don't see anything except that you've ruined a great story and nearly lost my job for me! I was a fool to have told you anything. Well, I've learned one thing—I won't do it again. To think Mac and I waited around for four hours after you deliberately gave the story to the Sentinel!"

 "Hate you? Why, darling, you know I'm crazy about you! Let's dry those tears now and tell me I'm forgiven. It was my fault, Cherry, every bit of it, but I'll never be such an imbecile again. I swear I won't! Now then—is that better?"
 In five minutes the storm was over. In five minutes Cherry was bright-eyed and smiling and recounting her experiences of the morning. Dan, pulling off his tie before the mirror, turned and caught the girl's two hands.
 "Everything's o. k. now, isn't it?" he asked.
 Cherry nodded. But everything was not o. k. Cherry and Dan had had their first quarrel and, though each might deny it, the memory had left its scar. The perfection of their happiness together had been marred.
 "CHERRY took up her search for an apartment again next morning. She acted on knowledge gained the day before and ignored the attractive advertisements of buildings in Eastwood, exploring neighborhoods closer to the downtown section. There were plenty of vacant apartments in the east 40's and 50's, but none of them approached Cherry's ideal of the big studio with sunny windows and a fireplace. Most of them were over shops with noisy street cars clanging past. When there were windows they looked out on dark courts or neighboring buildings that shut off the sunlight. Frayed furniture, ugly walls and floors—and for such quarters the astounding high rental of $50 and $60 a month!
 Cherry tried not to be discouraged. Last night's experience had made her humble. She must show Dan that she could shoulder her share of the load, that she could play a wife's part.
 At five o'clock she conceded defeat for the day. She had agreed to meet Dan at the entrance of the public library at 1:30 and there was just about time to keep the appointment.
 She arrived exactly on time, but Dan was not there. At last she caught sight of his gray hat in the crowd crossing the street. He was walking with his head slightly forward, hands in his pockets.
 Cherry went to meet him and called brightly, "Hello."
 The young man looked up. She knew instantly that something was wrong. Something had happened! "Sorry to be late," Dan began.
 "The Boss called me in."
 "Oh, Dan—?" Her eyes darkened with the unspoken question. Phillips nodded.
 "Yes," he spoke harshly. "You've guessed it!"

The lights from the car seemed to blind the horse as it went to turn the corner and it reared on its back legs and came down on the car, though it was said the driver tried to get off the road to avoid the collision. HERE--- AND THERE

By ELVIE B. JACKSON

Youth must have its day, and happy indeed is that youth that has the privilege of constructive leadership.

Up to within 15 years ago demonstration clubs were unknown, but the establishment of colleges for training in farm work, farm engineering, etc., has developed a department for youth, which finds its expression in demonstration work, conducted under qualified leaders at stated periods.

In this way, gradually, a group was organized known as the 4-H club.

This mysterious title, translated means, head, heart, hand, health. This club was organized 12 years ago by Rufus H. Bush, at that time Eastland county demonstration agent, and who was living in Eastland.

The first meeting was held at the old Conlee baseball park, and was attended by boys only. A year later, the home demonstration county agent, Miss Eloise Trigg, now Mrs. Earle Johnson, had active charge of the encampment, and girls also attended as club members.

The club pursues its home demonstration work, with agriculture and home making, studied, and farm occupations.

The club is financed through state and county funds. Headquarters of the organization are at A. & M. college for the Texas group.

It is interesting to note that the four-leaf clover is the club flower and significant, that the club motto is "To Make the Best Better."

They recite a club cleft, at every club encampment, and it is something spectacular to hear these 150 young voices, ring out in their club song, the national "Flowing Song" sung at every 4-H rally over the United States.

Each club has a song leader, and quite a little rivalry exists, as there are 10 clubs in this organization.

A number of group songs will be presented at this encampment, and recreational games introduced, under the guidance of Mrs. J. M. Perkins, president of the Eastland County Federation of T. F. W. C., and who, with Miss Ruth Ramey, has been demonstrating these play games and songs over Eastland county for several months, at Eastland county club meetings.

This special feature of the encampment is the result of the recent school of play, conducted in Eastland in the fall, by a representative of the New York Play-ground association.

All county demonstration clubs are using this play system, in connection with their heavier work, on the principle of the old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

The 4-H club began to increase in membership about nine years ago, at the time Miss Ruth Ramey came to Eastland as the Eastland county demonstration agent.

The purpose of these encampments, largely, is to bring the work of the boys and girls in contact under proper conditions.

Perhaps there is nothing so interesting as to assist in the development of health, strength and happiness, in youth, and to be able to impart to them right ideas of living and working.

Miss Ramey has done a wonderful missionary work in this field for some years and is untiring in her devotion to her cause.

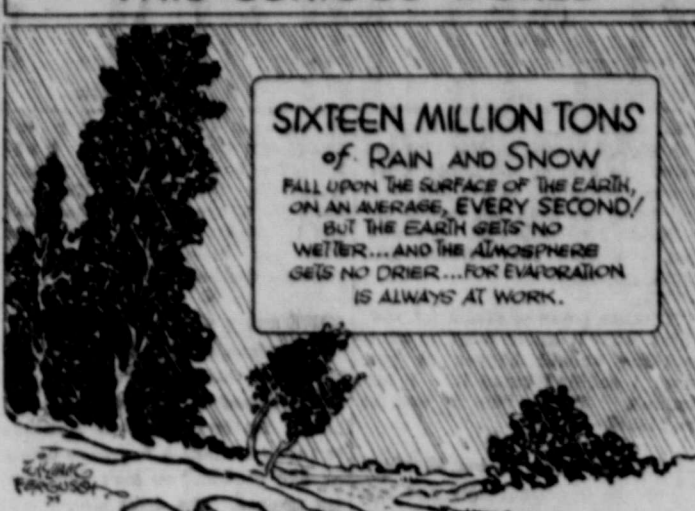

The originator of the 4-H club idea, R. H. Bush, is now pasture specialist at A. & M. college.

Visit the encampment today and Saturday, and see the unusual and novel program of games and other diversions.

The city park will be a lively scene, teeming with youth, gay voices and happy play.

Mineral Wells Host to State Associated Press Group

Between 400 and 500 members of the Texas Press Association, marked the opening of the three-day session yesterday, which is in full sway at Mineral Wells. After a cordial welcome to the city by Mayor Charlton Brown, the resort city is upholding the standard for a perfect host to the group of newspaper associates, family members and friends.

The social part of the program proved a high point of the opening which included a dinner and program at Camp Walters, followed by a dance at the Baker.

The American Legion Tickville band of Ranger, under the direction of Dr. Harry A. Logsdon and D. W. (Buzz) Johnson, announcer, again won one round of warm applause after another. Their individual ability as unique entertainers never fails to lend that touch of perfection in the form of a rare treat. The sessions are being presided over by R. L. Scott of De Leon, president of the Texas Press Association.

Included on the receiving and hospitality committee is Walter Murray, publisher of the Ranger-Times Publishing Company.

Numbered among the newspaper representatives from Ranger were R. V. (Rip) Galloway, publisher of the Eastland County News, and Arrietta Davenport, Ranger Times, and Miss Faye Heck, associate of the Eastland Telegram, of Eastland.

In the canning demonstration tomorrow, Mrs. Eastland will use glass jars, varying from the tin jars used earlier in the series of canning.

Eastland Radium Baths to Be Opened

A number of Eastland people have taken baths at other places where these attendants have worked and these have written Mr. Davis complimenting him upon his securing them as attendants.

GERMAN SOCIALIST NAMES DOG AFTER BRUENING

BERLIN.—A national socialist resident of a Berlin suburb has named his dog "Bruening" according to the "Frankfurter Zeitung." This is in order to avoid possible charges of slander when he shouts "Bruening, you dog!"

The paper cites this as evidence of a psychology, it says, which will tend to make governmental collaboration between moderate parties and Hitlerites impossible.
