Planning Problems Explained at Cooking Demonstrations presented by Mr. Wells.
The many Ranger housewives who are busy canning foods and meeting with various problems along the line of the proper method to obtain the very best results are cordially invited to attend the cooking demonstrations which are being conducted at the Montgomery Ward store this week, under the capable instruction of Mr. Wells, factory representative.

There has been in the past few days a general comment on the proper way in which green beans should be canned to eliminate acid forming on the top when opened. This feature of canning among other vital hints of importance will be pleasingly explained during the entire time done away with after attending one of the afternoon demonstrations opened each day at 3 o'clock.

In quite a pleasant interview with Mr. Wells this morning he made interesting conversation giving the demonstration proving the value of pressure cookers, time and fuel saved by nothing of the marked convenience of preparing foods in a modern and successful manner.

A chicken cooked in 30 minutes was demonstrated by Mr. Wells, giving further emphasis to the time saved and natural flavor retained. Beans which were canned yesterday were opened at the session this afternoon proving the rust top can easily eliminated.

Italians Urging Shorter Hours and Boost in Wages
By GIOVANNI AGNELLI
Member of the Italian Senate
ROME.—I think that no crisis in history has been so far-reaching and deep as the present one. It has struck the entire world. It is not one of the usual crises which occur periodically, the so-called cyclic crises, but one that affects the whole framework of the world economy. Should its solution be left to the natural evolution of the economic forces, we would have to wait a very long time, and perhaps go through many upheavals.

This crisis, in fact, gives rise to social consequences which find no precedents in history. Suffice it to think of the masses of unemployed: 25 million, according to the statistics of the International Labor Bureau, whose situation has a special character, America and Australia, and omits the whole Asiatic world and Africa. These 25 million of unemployed represent at least from 60 to 70 million of people deprived of a livelihood, derived either from their own activity, or from that of their supporters.

System Suggested
Unemployment is a wound which the crisis has made in the social body, whose tissue is an interwoven and delicate as never before. To break its backbone, reduce or eliminate it, is a thing demanded by the situation. It is a question of humanity and civilization, before being a problem of economy. We ought to suspect our economic system should we fail to solve this problem.

It is known to everybody that any economic crisis lies in the lack of balance between production and purchasing power. The needs are limitless, and they cannot be met but through the limit of everybody's own means in securing goods or services.

Figuring out an average salary of one dollar per day for each of the 25 million unemployed, we have a lesser circulation in salaries in the sum of seven and one-half billion dollars a year. To this loss must be added the smaller salaries which those having a job earn at present, considering that most of them are working on a reduced schedule through their pay has not been raised.

Haskell Bohn, 20-year-old son of a wealthy Minneapolis refrigerator manufacturer, who was held nearly a week by kidnapers who demanded $35,000 ransom, is shown here with his father, Gebhard C. Bohn, after his release. The Bohn family does not admit that a ransom was paid, but there are reports that some sort of agreement was reached with the kidnapers. This picture shows young Bohn at the left and his father at the right.

Near East Drug King Outwitted By An Englishman

By United Press. CAIRO, Egypt.—Mohamed Mustapha Nafei, king of drug-smugglers in the Near East, has gone where he never expected his fantastic career to lead him—to jail. Losing a long duel of wits with Major General T. W. Russell Pasha, English director of the Egyptian central narcotics intelligence bureau, east Nafei (and four accomplices) a five-year sentence and heavy fine.

Many Branches. In its operations throughout the Levantine underworld, the drug ring used its own ships, camel trains, armed motor cars and even airplanes. In Cairo it had chemical laboratories, gambling clubs, and wonderful villas on the outskirts of the city. Nafei, the brains and leader of the outfit, has had a sinister and remarkable career. He began life as a junior official in the Egyptian state railways, but soon found the path of right too irksome. He ring-necked geese he killed while coming involved with a gang of international criminals, he found it necessary to seek refuge in Syria.

UNUSUAL CORN FOUND IN MICHIGAN GOOSE. SAN ANTONIO.—A species of corn cultivated 2,000 years ago, taken from the neck of a goose, has been received by the Huth Seed company here. Each grain of corn has its own individual shock. The specimens were obtained by S. M. Boughton Sr., who held a post-mortem for a large ring-necked goose he killed while hunting on the Michigan lakes.

Airways Complete Sixth Year of Carrying Mail

By United Press. NEW YORK.—On June 30, 1932, American Airways, Inc., pioneer air mail operators, completed six years of air mail service between the cities of New York and Boston. During the first year of operation the line carried 6,631 pounds of mail. During the year just ended, 58,301 pounds were carried. This was the first air mail contract awarded by the government to a private operator under the Kelly Air Mail Act of 1925, the law which started the establishment of a network of air mail lines which now extend to all parts of the country. Growing out of an experiment, air mail has become a necessity in the transaction of the nation's business and its importance is as well recognized as that of the telegraph or the long distance telephone in the handling of transactions in which time is a vital element.

Priest Carries On Family Tradition

NEW ORLEANS, La.—When Robert Emmet Tracy, Jr., said his first mass as a priest at St. Francis of Assisi Church, he was carrying on a family tradition. The Reverend Tracy's sister is a nun, his cousin is a nun (the same order of the sister; his uncle a priest. Only 22 years old, Rev. Tracy could not be ordained until a special dispensation was obtained from the Pope at Rome.

increase wages should have international action. There is a precedent in this regard: the eight-hour Geneva convention. Why should it not be possible to have a 36 or 32-hour week, including a provision for the increase of wages per hour? I do not see any difficulties that could be raised against an international agreement of this sort.

National Anthem Was First Printed in Philadelphia. PHILADELPHIA.—Add another first to the list of historic firsts for Philadelphia. It was here that the Star-Spangled Banner was first published in sheet form. For more than 116 years Baltimore has claimed the honor, but now a Philadelphian has wound a copy of the national anthem published here about Oct. 21, 1814. Baltimore claims the song was published there in 1815. The owner of the sheet, Joseph Klein, bases his claim on its typography of the song, on its appearance, and on the fact that the Library of Congress has made an offer for the precious sheet. The published song, owned by the Philadelphian, is entitled "Fort McHenry, or The Star-Spangled Banner," which was the early name of the piece Francis Scott Key wrote during the bombardment of Baltimore. Construction to start soon on Zapata highway extending from paved Webb county highway north through Zapata county, distance of about 50 miles.—Pharr Clarion.

"They say..." KILLED BRUTUS Brutus was a good dog, the family, tail-wagging, smiling kind of dog. Wanting to be petted he jumped upon the lady, who was frightened. The person she told this to said Brutus had jumped and snapped. The next person had said Brutus was frothing at the mouth. Some boys saw Brutus and threw stones. Brutus ran, "Mad dog! Mad dog!" the boys cried. Brutus was cornered and shot. From gossip to scandal is a short step, and heaven help the person or thing against whom the public mind is poisoned. Successful merchants and manufacturers are those who realize the mischief that can be created by "They say." These business men, determined to say the truth, themselves, about their own merchandise and service, employ advertising to protect themselves and the public from half truths, from falsehoods and from the common garden of ignorance that works havoc among the very best of intentions. These merchants and manufacturers are under no delusions. They know they cannot tell untruths about their products and get away with it because there is nothing that will bring ruin so fast and sure as to turn the bright, white light of publicity on inferior wares or unsatisfactory service. Advertising forces manufacturers to compete for your trade and your dollars. It compels the offering of better merchandise, better service, fair prices. You can trust the advertisements in this paper!

Sterling's Election Urged By Women

Special Correspondent.
 AUSTIN, July 14.—Revising a time-honored device, a chain letter signed by 15 women from as many sections of Texas started on its rounds today as a contribution of Texas women to the candidacy of Governor Ross S. Sterling.

Initial signatures on the letter were:

(Mrs. Cone) Ethel Hilton Johnson, Tyler.
 (Mrs. Henry) Ethel Drought, San Antonio.
 Mrs. Stone J. Robinson, Dallas.
 Mrs. W. R. Chapman, Abilene.
 Mrs. R. W. Rogers, Galveston.
 Mrs. R. M. Traylor, New Waverly.
 Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, Austin.
 Mrs. Fred H. Minor, Denton.
 Mrs. Floyd Cooper, Amarillo.
 Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, Austin.
 (Mrs. Alex) Ruth Potts Spence, Dallas.
 Mrs. Clarence C. Floore, Cleburne.
 Mrs. W. H. Wentland, Manor.
 Mrs. Maude H. Gerhardt, Corpus Christi.
 Mrs. Julius Mehlitz, New Braunfels.
 Mrs. Chansior Weymouth, Amarillo.
 Mrs. J. L. Brock, Bryan.
 Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum of Austin, who has been prominent in anti-Ferguson drives for 16 years, initiated the unique campaign document. The inaugurators of the letter hope to have not less than 200,000 signers before July 23.

"I'm not quite clear," said Mr. McCallum, "as to whether the traditional curse will be visited upon the first to break the chain; but we hope that the curse will descend upon 'power without responsibility' in Texas, and end that dark chapter in our state, once and for all."

The letter reminds women who will receive it that the Fergusons have sought office no less than seven times since the impeachment of Governor James E. Ferguson in 1917. "The Fergusons," the letter observes, "evidently find running for office so remunerative that they have adopted it as their vocation in life."

"Women of Texas have in each campaign fought shoulder to shoulder against the menace and humiliation of Fergusonism, and together with loyal men have defeated it in each instance except one," the letter said. "Every fight we thought would be our last and we certainly expected to be spared

What's in Name? Ask Will Rogers!

Without spending a cent or making a speech, Will Rogers (above), 33-year-old school teacher of Moore, Okla., led a field of 25 candidates for the Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large in Oklahoma's primary. Flabbergasted politicians laid his victory to the fact that his name, on the ballots, was the same as that of Oklahoma's famous cowboy philosopher, and that many persons thought they were voting for the latter. Now Rogers will oppose the runner-up, Mrs. Mable Bassett, in a runoff primary.

having Ferguson harass and harangue us during these unprecedented times, when the crying need is for all loyal citizens to be striving together to alleviate sorrow, suffering and actual horror.

"We appeal to you, as Texan to Texan, as woman to woman, to join us under the flag of the man in this race, Governor Sterling, who can most surely this year defeat our biennial menace of Fergusonism."

General Ma Is Reported Alone In Outer China

By United Press.
 CHANGCHUN, Manchukuo—A year ago General Ma Chan-shan was military governor of Heilungkiang Province—commander of thousands of soldiers.

The last dispatch concerning him to reach here was that his family had fled into Outer Mongolia for safety after the Soviet had refused to permit them to cross the border into Blagovestchensk.

Ma himself, it was reported, was at Heiho—without even a guard left of the troops he once commanded.

Status Changed
 In that brief 12 months, Ma's fame grew from that of a subordinate warlord to the proportions of a world hero. He has been called "traitor" by both his old chief, Chang Hsueh-liang, and the leaders of the Manchu "state."

When Japanese seizure of Mukden last September set in motion a train of events that are still going forward, General Ma elected to defend his province against the green-clad troops of the Mikado. His army was forced steadily back, retreating in the sub-zero weather of a Manchurian winter.

At Tsitsihar, in the heart of the province, he issued a manifesto that rang around the world. "We are helpless," he said, "but we will defend our land with our lives." Roundly, he denounced the "pretended state" of Manchukuo.

Took Oath
 Two months later he took oath as its minister of war.

Ma soon climaxed this startling about-face with another one. He resigned and took part of his army with him.

He next appeared at Blagovestchek, in Soviet territory. Speculation on whether he stood with the Manchus, or was attempting to secure Soviet support for a coup against both, was widespread.

Ma ended it with a lengthy telegram to the Nationalist Government. He proudly swore eternal allegiance to the Chinese government and declared he had duped the Manchus by pretending loyalty.

There was silence then concerning his movements for a month.

 Then, from somewhere in the rough north country, he descended

Lloyd George Still Justice of Peace

By United Press.
 CAERNARVON, Wales.—Lloyd George is apparently never busy being a Member of Parliament in London to be a Justice of the Peace among his own people.

For the first time since his death he presided here recently as chairman of the county magistrates over the county quarter sessions.

Dame Margaret Lloyd George, another member of the bench, took a seat next to her husband. The building in which the court was held was the scene of Lloyd George's practice as a local solicitor nearly half a century ago.

Immediately upon conclusion of the session, Lloyd George and Dame Margaret made the journey back to London by automobile. It so happened that there were no cases for actual trial before the distinguished magistrate and the granting of an appeal in a motoring case was held enough to have fatigued them, commemorating the clean death of Lloyd George was presented with a new pair of white gloves.

LA FERIA—New ice cream plant added to local dairy.

ed on Hailun, terminus of branch-line railroad into Harbin. With 2,000 troops, he occupied the city.

For three weeks, he held against repeated attacks by Manchukuo and Japanese troops directed by General Honjo. The Japanese claimed they had lost his troops, taking a large toll of life.

The defeat, many here believe, marked the final eclipse of a changeable warlord.

Graduate Wears Cap and Gown Her Father Wore

By United Press.
 FLORENCE, Col.—When the name of Margaret Leona Roberts was called to receive her diploma at the Colorado State Teachers college commencement exercises, she walked to the platform wearing the same cap and gown that her mother had worn for similar honors years before her.

Miss Roberts and her mother, only "mother and daughter" pair among the many graduates and Mrs. John E. Roberts, were the parents attending the ceremonies.

Taxi-Driver Invents Shock-Proof Seat

By United Press.
 PARIS.—The floating rib has long been known to the medical profession, but it has taken a Paris taxi driver to invent a floating seat for his cab, that renders the rider immune to certain shocks and sudden impacts with oncoming vehicles, which, otherwise, might pitch him through the windshield or windows. The inventor of the new floating seat is Emmanuel Bellelli, and is device consists of a series of levers so placed that the seat slides forward (as in a racing shell), but the passenger is not disturbed. He is merely rocked slightly backwards like sitting in a deep cushioned chair.

"I'm working for humanity," he says, "but now I'm faced by the problem of marketing my invention. I'm trying to persuade the Prefecture of Police to have one of their men make the test and, and if that succeeds, all will be well. Next, I shall try to make an amphibian automobile. After all, why shouldn't an automobile run on the water as well as on the road? All it needs is someone to discover how to make it do it and the rest is easy."

AFTER all, living a la mode is just living comfortably—according to sensible American standards. If it were all simmered down to the very minimum of what we are pleased to call "necessities" and "luxuries," the people of many other nations might still consider us to be very extravagant.

To be clothed—by our standards—means to be fairly well-dressed. To be sheltered means to be housed in comfort, in decent surroundings. To be fed means to enjoy, in balanced proportions, an adequate fare of wholesome, nutritious food—and, occasionally, a dab of ice cream on our pie!

Domestic budgets may be curtailed, but actual misery and stark want happily are absent from most homes.

Buying continues—and well it might!—for the buying power of the dollar today is more than 15 per cent greater than it was in 1929.

It will buy not only the necessities, but will buy as well a great many of those things that we've been fooling ourselves into calling "luxuries"—the possession and enjoyment of which has much to do with sustaining morale under trying conditions.

After all, living a la mode is just living comfortably!

Under all circumstances—regardless of conditions—regardless of reduced purchasing ability—people look to advertising as their guide to obtaining their wants. They still read, still gather from advertising their impressions of quality and value, and from it make comparisons and reach decisions for the disposal of their means, whether ample or slender. It is so because advertising has proved its worth to the buying public. And public confidence has made advertising the keystone of modern commerce.

Jobless "Sold" On Auction Block

Pre-Civil War days when slaves were sold from auction blocks were recalled in Los Angeles when the labor of unemployed persons was auctioned off by Louis Byrens, welfare worker and philanthropist. He is pictured on the block with Vivian Roberts, 22-year-old waitress, whose services were bought on a bid of 50 cents an hour. The labor of salesmen, clerks, cooks and other workers was "knocked down" to the highest bidder.

would take the davenport where the light was flittering and the table for the cocktail tray conveniently near.

Brenda moved to the fireplace, held out fingers that were icy to the blaze.

"It's because I'm nervous," she told herself, "and there's no reason for it. Of course everything's going to be all right!"

She went back to the kitchenette to give Yvonne final instructions. It was 20 minutes past four now.

"He'll be here any minute," Brenda assured herself. She took a cigarette from a lacquered box, lighted it and placed it to her lips. Then she sat down. It amused her to think of Dan Phillips. Head-ache—she had managed that very nicely! How could she bother with that tiresome youth when the great chance of her career was at hand?

"So he's given up his job!" she thought. "Won't he be surprised to hear the news. The idiot! There'll be a scene, of course. Well, he's brought the whole thing on himself."

Brenda shrugged, smiling. An instant later the bell rang and Yvonne hurried through the room to answer it.

"Now!" Brenda whispered to herself. "Now—"

There were voices in the foyer. Another instant and a figure flung itself through the doorway. Dan Phillips stood there waving something in his hand.

"Brenda!" he cried. "What does this mean?"

British Noises Hurt Islander's Hearing

By United Press.

LONDON.—The noise of modern traffic, riveting and pneumatic drilling machines, is straining British ears "more than God ever intended them to be," and is increasing deafness at an alarming rate. Thus spoke an official of the National Institute for the Deaf recently.

It is estimated that there are more than 3,000,000 cases of impaired hearing in this country.

Extensive preventive work has been undertaken by the school authorities.

YOUTH GETS STRENGTH IN BRITISH POLITICAL CIRCLES

By HENRY T. RUSSELL.

LONDON.—Although still captained by well-known men of experience, more and more the British ship of State is being piloted by men and women who are younger and less well known abroad.

Gradually youth has been creeping to the fore in British politics and since women were given the vote their subtle minds have increasingly influenced the political life of the country. Twenty years ago none but men of note received any attention.

Today some of the most momentous decisions, though still taken by the older and better-known statesmen, are largely forced—or to say the least "inspired"—by men and women many years their juniors.

Perhaps the most typical of the sort was Edward Majoribanks, recently found shot dead, whose loss to Britain was deplored by many of the better known men whom he helped in politics. Not a few of the measures recently advocated in Parliament owe their passage into law to the action of Majoribanks' brilliant political mind upon the older minds in the political world. From a rank and file member of parliament, it is freely stated, Majoribanks would have climbed to the post of Prime Minister, had he lived.

LABORITE SWAY DECISIONS

Two men who sit on the opposition bench in Parliament, Sir Stafford Cripps and Major C. R. Atlee, are typical examples of scholarly Labor men who are exerting modern and brilliant minds in Britain's political arena. Of the former a political rival told the United Press, he had "probably the best brain in parliament." Of the latter political opponents fear his almost uncanny foresight among other things.

Cripps is said to be one of Britain's most formidable legal minds, the type that one imagines winning a case regardless of what side he takes. Atlee is said to be an organizer capable of carrying out in practice—and successfully—ideas which hitherto have been restricted to the realms of theory.

Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative member of parliament from the same district as his intimate friends, Neville and Sir Austin Chamberlain, is fast leading which lies between Fascism and straight patriotism. His idea is to fight Communist propaganda by "peaceful means." Twenty years ago he would have been openly laughed at, then ignored. Today he has over 100,000 supporters all over Britain, and applications for membership in his newly formed Anti-Communist clubs are pouring in.

DON'T BE SLOWED DOWN BY STALE GAS

YOU PAY FOR POWER... GET IT!

Only FRESH gas gives you all the power you pay for. Why? Because as gas gets staler, it gets weaker. Loses volatile "easy starting" elements. Falls victim to a chemical change—and gets sluggish and feeble.

Another thing. The staler the gas, the stickier it is. And the more apt it is to knock.

That's why Gulf is pleased to announce a system that assures you of getting FRESH-MADE gasoline. Two things make this possible...

First, Gulf refines out of its fine gasoline certain complex elements—the very elements that cause rapid deterioration.

Second, Gulf takes pains to speed this FRESH gas to you in a hurry, before it can get stale.

Huge Gulf refineries are located in many parts of the country—so that every Gulf station is close to a source of FRESH gas. A vast fleet of tank trucks rushes FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day.

Don't let stale gas deaden your motor! Get FRESH-MADE gas—packed with power. Get Gulf—for a faster, cleaner, quieter motor.
