Blondie of the Follies

Popular Comedienne Makes First Appearance With Robert Montgomery in Film Opening Today at Lyric Theatre.

Blondie of the Follies

Although motion picture making is admittedly an industry—one of the five greatest—it is only by departing from the iron-bound rules of industry that the best results in film production are gained.

Blondie of the Follies

"Blondie of the Follies," Marion Davies' new starring picture with Robert Montgomery featured, serves to illustrate this point. This new Cosmopolitan picture comes today to the Lyric theatre.

Blondie of the Follies

"Blondie of the Follies" was a veritable snowball in the matter of cast names, gaining in size and importance as filming progressed. To begin with, there were, besides Marion Davies, Robert Montgomery, Billie Dove, James Gleason, Zaou Pitta, Sidney Toler, Douglas Dumbrille, Sarah Padden and Louise Carter.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

Since we worked too late to get out to the ball yard Friday and the rain kept us from going out to the practice Saturday, if any, which we doubt, we have little or nothing to report. (Who said "As usual"?)

Anyway, we picked up Eck Curtis this morning and he was overjoyed because another of his mainstays had reported and he was looking for Standard to show up in the very near future.

The coach said that the boys were pretty well advanced for the second day of practice, due to the fact that most were in good condition and that they had remembered the signals and plays given them in the spring training remarkably well.

We failed to get a report on Eck's blistered toe, acquired when he wore Gray's shoes to break them in.

And, since we failed to get a report for the customers of this column, if any, we will get out our shears and paste pot and swipe a few items out of other columns here and there.

We notice that Bloddy Cross, who tells them the wrong dope out in Tom Green county, complains about the huddle, in which we can agree, wholeheartedly, for once.

It is wondered how much longer the huddle nuisance is going to stay with football. It has stuck around mighty long to be just a fad.

Then, just to help fill up a little more space, we clipped this from LeRoy Menig's column: "The Breckenridge Buckaroos should prove another strong team again this season, says Bobby Campbell, Breckenridge editor, who was a visitor here yesterday.

Which is not the usual quota, but which is sufficient misinformation for one day, particularly a Sunday, so we will sign off.

HERE-- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Labor Day is something that sprang from the need of rest when workmen have been engaged in a seasonal and endless grind, that permits but small leisure and little chance for relaxation.

Labor Day also affords the opportunity for the meeting of various groups, who toil and do surely spin, and who can find on this one day, the hours for a mutual federation in labor consultation, a discussion of their problems, and a man to man talk of conditions in productive and unproductive labor.

Towards the close of the 18th century labor in large factories, and similar undertakings was organized, and great changes had begun to be made in the condition of workers in the early nineties.

Trade unions and co-operative societies were organized, and through organization, laborers have a share in the political life of the country. Another object in the organization of labor was to protect the weaker class of workers, who, unaided could not defy the reduction of wages, poor housing, long hours, and other injustices.

The American Federation of Labor consisted, in September of 1912, of five departments; building trades, metal trades, railroad employes, union label trades, and mining trades.

General objects of the Federation, consist in giving mutual assistance among unions, in aiding the sale of union label goods, and securing legislation in the interest of working people, and in influencing public opinion by peaceful and legal methods in favor of organized labor, and to aid and encourage the labor press. They worked for the eight-hour workmen's compensation, child labor laws, abolition of sweat shops, municipal ownership of public utilities, equal suffrage, and the initiative referendum and recall. The Federation gives political support to party lines, irrespective of politics, and to those friendly to Federation purposes.

The Federation was organized in Pittsburgh in 1881, and assumed its present name in 1886.

The Federation work in labor legislation, brings laws for the protection of children and women, and tries to regulate the work of women per day or per week.

Since 1910, workmen's compensation or accident laws obtain in 25 states. The United States Department of Labor, one of the 10 departments of the government, has as its object, promotion of the welfare of the workers of the country. Divisions in the department, consists of Bureau of Labor, of Statistics, of Immigration, of Naturalization, and of Children's Bureau. The department was created by Act of Congress in March, 1913, thereby making two departments, that of commerce, and labor.

The first secretary of labor was William B. Wilson. Labor Day is a legal holiday by State enactment, which sets apart the first Monday in September for its observance.

Hard and difficult has been the path of the labor union. Founded on the platform of equal rights, whether man be rich or poor, and harassed in expression, by the encroaching power of capitalism, the labor union has fought upward and upward, until it has gained that place in the respect and esteem of the people of large, which the union richly deserves.

There is still much in the way of missionary work for the union to accomplish. Children to be snatched from the shuttle and loom, lifted from the gloomy depths of the coal mines, and taken from the cotton fields, before their minds become blinded and chonding and health an impossibility.

The greatest laboring man in the world was Jesus Christ, the Carpenter. He laid down His path, to pick up the wooden cross. He did not leave this world in royal garb, or glittering crown, after His years of service for the poor, the sick, the oppressed and the unfortunate.

No! He left this world with a crown of thorns, pressed against His brow.

The labor union has its crown of thorns.

FARM STRIKE PICKET LINE AT NIGHT AFFORDS WEIRD SCENE

STOP FARMERS HOLIDAY

A three-man outpost of the farmers' "army" is pictured above, guarding a highway near Sioux City and ready to challenge any truck bearing produce to market. When these fellows say "Halt!" they really mean it, for a few hundred yards down the road are farmers ready to toss cross ties, logs and spiked boards into the path of any vehicle whose driver fails to obey the command. Below are two weary pickets who have just gone off duty, catching a little sleep in a nearby hay stack. The map shows the area around Sioux City in which the farm strike began and from which it spread.

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1932, NEA Service)
SIOUX CITY, Iowa.—The picket lines of the striking Iowa farmers present an interesting, unforgettable picture at night—a weird picture of half lights and deep shadows, with hard-headed grimaces lying beneath a veneer of gay humor.

The picket lines, of course, were established to keep farm produce from being moved to the markets until a higher price has been obtained.

In the Sioux City area, where the strike originated, the lines are just about air tight. It is not exaggerating to say that a regiment of regulars could hardly keep truck loads of livestock and other produce from entering the city any more efficiently than the farmers have been doing it.

There are six main roads that are being picketed—three on the Iowa side of the Missouri River, and three on the Nebraska side. There are never less than 40 or 50 pickets on each road. Sometimes each post has as many as 100 men on duty.

At night, when you approach one of these posts, going toward Sioux City, you find a military air which, at the same time, is coupled with a strange informality. The men are all dressed alike—blue overalls and shirts, battered hats of felt or straw, heavy boots. They lounge about carelessly, chatting quietly, presenting a stony front to strangers, and watching every car that passes with exceeding care.

The first thing you encounter is an outpost or two, three or four men. They will be standing or sitting beside a huge sign, illuminated by an oil lantern, which says,

"Oh, he wasn't carrying anything. His truck was empty. He just wanted to show us he didn't have to stop."

There are chuckles. Someone murmurs, "He showed us, all right." Another man tells a similar tale.

"There was a man and his wife in a little light truck tried to get by with a load of poultry this morning. He wasn't going to stop, either, until he started running over the ties. It like to jolt him right out of his shoes. His woman hollered as if she was being killed."

Two big trucks loaded with hogs came up out of the night, and are halted by the outpost. The drivers lean out as the situation is explained to them. They have driven 65 miles; will have to cart their hogs 65 miles more if they turn back. They peer down the road to where the main body, its attention caught, sits restlessly. The hogs grunt plaintively. They are getting relieved from the runways in the Sioux City stockyards, if they only knew it. The drivers accept fate, turn about, start for home.

One of the organizers of the picket lines isn't an easy job.

"You've got to keep up your enthusiasm," he says, "but you've got to keep it within bounds, too. This isn't a lark. It's serious business. We don't want any trouble, but we are going to do what we're out here to do. Keeping the boys keyed up without getting 'em keyed up so high that they get into fights with the truck drivers isn't an easy job."

HOK AND SLIDES By Henry L. Farrell

What is a Race Track?
DURING the interrogation of several Chicago Cubs, regarding their race track activities, Les Mc O'Connor, who is Judge Landis' secretary, asked a direct question of Rogers Hornsby and the reply was interesting.

O'Connor wanted to know if Hornsby ever had "taken any of these four boys"—Bush, Malone, English and O'Leary—to the race track with him. And Hornsby replied:

"I never went to the races, so they never went with me any place. I have never been to the races."

Bad Luck at Track
OF course you don't have to go to the races to be a horse player. Many inveterate followers of the ponies insist they have no luck at a track. They meet someone with a hot tip and are "talked out" of their horses.

The judge should have asked the Rajah, "What is a race track?" And, perhaps from his memory of pictures in the newspapers, Hornsby could have told him what one was like.

Others Go, However
AT different times, I have seen members of almost every major league ball club at race tracks, and included among the number were owners, managers, trainers and bat boys.

The entire point of Judge Landis' inquiry seems obscure, in the light of the fact that there isn't a ball club in either league which has a horse player on its roster.

The owner of one American League club operates a stable, though Colonel Joe Williams of the New York World-Telegram avers that he failed to win a bet placed on one of the owner's horses.

ing to move goods to Sioux City by truck. "Shucks," he says, "when no trucks come along it ain't exciting."

A little group of older men moves over to the reporter as he starts away. "Now then," they say, "be sure you give us a good write up, and make folks understand that we're out here to stick, because we're fighting for our rights, and we're going to get 'em. It isn't only ourselves we're fighting for. We're fighting for all America, because the wealth of the nation comes from the farms, and when the farmer is broke the whole nation is in trouble."

"How long will this strike last?" they are asked.

"We'll stay here," says an elderly man with white stubble on his chin, "until hell freezes over, and then we'll skate across on the ice. You tell 'em that."

Meanwhile, the husky farmers who patrol the roads outside of Sioux City seem to have the situation very well in hand. One man says that in ordinary times some 600 truck loads of farm produce reach the Sioux City markets daily. Soon after the strike began the number was cut to about 10.

From the outset, Sheriff John A. Davenport adopted anything but an aggressive attitude. In a farmer calls up and says that he wants to bring a load of goods to town, the sheriff will send out deputies to escort him; otherwise, he keeps hands off.

"I don't know where all this will end," Davenport says. "So far we have not had any serious trouble. I hope that we won't have any. We are doing all that we can to make the affair go along peacefully."

A husky farmer beyond the picket lines remarked: "One of our farm boys can lick any three of those deputies, and the deputies know it."

PARIS STYLES
By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS—Amelia Earhart Putman, the modern angel of aviation, managed to find time during her brief and much feted stay here to choose two Schiaparelli dresses. She has the kind of tall, slim figure that sets off to perfection the type of gown that has brought such fame to this particular French touch coupled with the frank, simple manner of the American Winged Victory, added a fashion laureate to her wreath of masculine achievement.

Beige and brown are her favorite colors and one of the dresses was of pale beige jersey with a tiny bolero of striped beige and a short straight jacket. She chose for daytime a brown crepon with a top and twisted girdle of pink rayon and a short cape of brown crinkly ribbon. Because of her very unusual slenderness, Miss Earhart can afford to let her waistline also soar above the normal.

New Chevalier Born Only Ten Years Ago

Maurice Chevalier was born little more than 10 years ago. The French star of the screen, whose latest picture, "Love Me Tonight," Arcadia theatre Sunday and Monday, has lived a good deal longer than that, of course, but the Chevalier that the movie public knows has not.

The movie Chevalier was born in the dressing room of a Parisian music hall when a dinner jacket and a straw hat replaced a bulbous red putty nose and baggy checkered trousers that a young "comique" by the name of Chevalier had been wearing ever since he had been on the stage.

"You see," he smiles, "I was a comique for many years. I was like the burlesque fellow with all those funny clothes and face. Then, one night, when I am making up, I stop suddenly and make up my mind. Before I can back out, I have all the plaster from my face red puttying on just what you call the juvenile make-up."

TOMATO CATSUP and chili sauce are easy to make in the home kitchen. Their keeping qualities are admirable and their ingredients simple. These sauces can be used in many ways to add interest to plain meals during the winter months, and if made at home are a decided means toward economy. Chili sauce added to mayonnaise produces a delicious Russian dressing to be served with head lettuce. Vegetables, soups and meats are made savory by the judicious use of catsup in seasoning. Fish sauces are improved if a dash of spicy catsup is beaten in just before serving. Vegetable and meat salads and sandwiches gain piquancy from this same sauce.

Tomato Catsup
Eight quarts ripe tomatoes, 1 pound dry onions, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 teaspoons white pepper, 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 2 cups light brown sugar, 3 cups vinegar, 2 tablespoons broken stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon peppercorns, 1 tablespoon allspice berries.
Remove stems and cut tomatoes in quarters. Peel and slice onions.

Chili Sauce
Eighteen ripe tomatoes, 5 medium sized onions, 4 green peppers, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 1-2 tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon white pepper, 1-2 teaspoon cayenne white pepper.
Scald tomatoes and slip skins. Cut in slices. Remove seeds and pith from peppers and mince them. Peel and mince onions. Put all ingredients into preserving kettle and cook slowly until thick, about two hours. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

YOU NEVER DO ANYTHING, ANYHOW !!

WELL, I'M GOING TO DO SOMETHING IN JUST A MINUTE

I WAS ALL WRONG! THOSE KIDS ALWAYS HAVE SCRAPPED AND THEY ALWAYS WILL!

GO AHEAD AND DO IT! I DARE YOU !!

I SUPPOSE THEY HAVE TO HAVE IT OUT, THOUGH! IF I COULD JUST CONCENTRATE, I'D BE ALL RIGHT.

YOU DARE ME, HUH! WELL, I'M TOO MUCH OF A LADY!

YOU A LADY! THAT'S FUNNY!

I'LL SHOW YOU HOW FUNNY IT IS! I'LL CALL FATHER AND HE'LL TELL YOU WHAT THE WHOLE FAMILY REALLY THINKS OF YOU - AND THEN HE'LL ORDER YOU OUT OF THE HOUSE

JUST AN IDLE THREAT! HE ISN'T BIG ENOUGH!

NOT BIG ENOUGH, HUH? WELL, I WAS GONNA KEEP OUT OF THIS - BUT WHEN THEY DRAG ME INTO IT, IT'S TIME FOR ME TO ACT!

GEE, POP, WE BEEN HAVIN' A CIRCUS READIN' THIS BOOK TOGETHER - LIL IS THE GIRL AND I'M THE LOVER

COMIC SCRAP BOOK

Of course you remember little Patricia—Patsy, for short. And she is rather short, isn't she? When we asked her to pose for a picture, she tried to be funny. And, maybe it does look funny. Anyway, cut the sketch out and paste it in your Comic Scrapbook. Then watch for more pictures of your favorite comic characters.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

By Blosser

MAGIC CORNER

PLACE TWENTY FIVE MATCHES ON A TABLE AND TELL YOUR FRIEND THAT YOU CAN MAKE HIM PICK UP THE LAST MATCH... YOU ARRANGE TO TAKE TURNS IN PICKING THEM UP, BUT NEITHER OF YOU MUST TAKE MORE THAN THREE AT A TIME... ASK YOUR FRIEND TO BEGIN PICKING UP ANY NUMBER FROM ONE TO THREE... FOR EXAMPLE, WE WILL SUPPOSE HE TAKES TWO... YOUR TURN IS NEXT, AND YOU TAKE TWO... YOU HAVE TO MAKE THE NUMBER UP TO FOUR EACH TIME... IF HE TAKES THREE YOU TAKE ONE—IF HE TAKES ONE, YOU TAKE THREE... YOU WILL FIND AT THE END THERE IS ONE MATCH FOR YOUR FRIEND TO PICK UP.....

WOULD YOU LIKE TO KNOW HOW TO REALLY TURN A GLASS OF WATER UPSIDE DOWN WITHOUT SPILLING IT? THEN WATCH FOR IT IN THE MAGIC CORNER NEXT WEEK!!

BEGAN HERE TODAY MONA TOWNSEND, beautiful young widow, inherits her husband's millions with the provision that she must not rewed. Her estrangement arranged by her husband's lawyer, who was Mona's employer, was a strange affair, leaving her free at the end of a year to become her husband's wife in actuality or secure a divorce.

Learning that Barry and Steve are on vacation at Holiday Island the girls leave their boat at Port of Spain. There they meet Bud. He agrees to take them by plane to Holiday Island. They make the trip next day as Barry and Steve are at the noon meal.

BARRY said the words over and over. "My dear, my dear! You are here!" She looked up at him. Tall, bronzed, glowing with health and vitality. His eyes strangely blue in his bronzed face. His skin darker than his hair.

"Not a motion picture!" teased Steve. "Well, you look handsome enough for us. Take my word for it!" He tossed a napkin on the table and seized Lottie by the shoulders.

He dressed in accessories of softly blending tones reflecting pastel color notes.

A token of friendship was expressed through the presentation of a lovely floor lamp finished in rich shades of black and gold, given by members of the club.

Barry placed a chair for Mona. "Sit down," he urged. "You must be tired. That air trip always nearly finishes us."

"We must look like wrecks," Mona added ruefully. "And we're starved!" announced Lottie frankly. "Do you suppose, Mister, you could spare a poor girl a sandwich?"

"The ladies will have coffee with American sugar, Florence. Papaw—do you like papaw, Mona? Steak and breadfruit. I'm glad you came today because we only have steak once in a blue moon. Ask Maria to toss together a salad too."

"Heavens, I thought this was breakfast," exclaimed Lottie. "You certainly don't care what happens to your figures here!"

"Your mother made pretty good coffee, I remember," Steve said, turning to Mona. "What is that old proverb? Black as night, sweet as love, hot as—you know the place!"

Steve mentioned baggage. "I think Bud put it somewhere," Mona said.
