HOUSE PASSES MEASURE

RIGHT-OF-WAY MEASURE IS ELIMINATED

Vote Is Enough To Make It Effective As Soon As Signed.

By United Press
AUSTIN, Sept. 16.—The Texas house of representatives today passed the right-of-way bill by a vote of 724 to 100, eliminating the right-of-way measure from the legislative program.

The bill, as now adopted, was introduced by Representative Broyles of Hughesville, Texas. A similar bill, offered by Broyles and another member of the legislature in 1928, was vetoed by the governor.

The bill, as now adopted, was drafted in a conference committee of house and senate members. It provides that one-fourth of the 4-cent gas tax shall be used to pay for the right-of-way which counties and cities are authorized to purchase with bonds used to construct roads now a part of the state highway system.

The state highway engineer, the state comptroller and the state auditor are designated as a board to determine what portions of local roads are to be included in this system.

The bill is to be applied only to roads of bond issues used in construction. It was an estimated $35,000,000 that will be used for the right-of-way. It will take up only the amount of obligation maturing annually, 10 per cent. Portions paid for by the state will be repaid by counties by selling bonds to retire the debt. Any portion of the debt which is not repaid by counties is also deducted from the state's share of the debt.

MEXICANS OF SOUTHWEST HOLD POWER

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN. — Former Mexicans, now citizens of Texas, and the descendants of Mexicans play a huge part in the Texas elections. Along the international border and in San Antonio, they frequently hold the balance of power.

Figures of the United States census bureau for 1930 placed the Mexican population of Texas at 483,681 or 11.7 per cent. Percentages on participation in elections cannot be had.

In 1922 the percentage of eligible Mexican voters was considerably reduced. Heretofore the wife of a Mexican who had become naturalized in Texas was entitled to vote. Since that date she, too, must take out naturalization papers. If they were married before Sept. 22, 1922, and the husband naturalized, the citizenship automatically passed to her with him and has not been removed by the action. Those married since 1922, however, must secure individual naturalization papers.

Importance of the so-called "Mexican vote" was emphasized in the recent state democratic primary contest between Governor Ross S. Sterling and former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Spanish circulars from both sides were widely distributed in San Antonio. The Ferguson circular recited the friendly treatment accorded Mexicans by Mrs. Ferguson during her administration and by her husband when he was governor. Mrs. Ferguson's pardon granted to General J. M. Rangel was also cited. General Rangel had been given a five to 10 year sentence on conviction of murder of Candelario Ortiz, deputy sheriff of Limitt county. Ortiz was killed after capture by a revolutionary expedition headed by General Rangel.

The Texas officers who had attempted to interfere were captured and carried along by the expedition. Others were released unharmed and it was claimed Ortiz was killed by a subordinate officer because of refusal to obey orders. Mrs. Ferguson's proclamation said it seemed General Rangel was inspired by patriotic motives and was not in actual command when the captive was killed.

Governor Sterling's workers countered with reproduction in circular form of a statement by the Ferguson Forum, then published by former Governor James E. Ferguson, declaring Mexicans should be deported. It was occasioned by a Mexican running amuck on a train and killing several passengers.

Similar appeals were made to the Mexicans in other cities. The so-called Mexican vote in many parts of Southwest Texas is really the true native vote. Many of the voters, so classed, are descendants of families who have been resident on the same soil since the days when it was a Spanish possession. Deeds direct from the Spanish crown attest their ownership of much of the land.

The real non-native vote in much of the lower Rio Grande valley is that of settlers from northern states who have been brought into the country, since its development as a citrus and winter vegetable area.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming? Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Equally tasty as a cereal with milk or cream, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Former Performer At Rodeos Fed Up on Her Luck

By United Press. FORT WORTH.—Miss Amazon McPherson, known to rodeo fans throughout the southwest as Miss Mack, is "fed up" on her luck.

She sustained a broken back in 1925 and left the broncho-busting arena to don a nurse's uniform. Six weeks ago her sight failed. Science failed to explain the loss of her sight.

A burglar entered her room recently and took $40 in savings from beneath the mattress on which she slept.

"And nowadays $40 is $40," sighed the former rodeo star.

Old Timers Believe Tales of 'Black Hank'

By United Press. SIDNEY, Neb.—Tales of "Black Hank," supposed legendary character of early western Nebraska history are again being related. Many old timers claim "Black Hank" was a living desperado.

The revival of the stories is by a group of local historians who believe they know the location of the deep, hidden gulch here, in which "Black Hank" is supposed to have lived.

Hank was supposed to have been a negro outlaw who roamed the plains of western Nebraska in the seventies and eighties.

Following his forays on cattle trains and early white pioneers, he was said to have retreated to his hidden, lonely gulch.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Issues being the two old parties being either too scarce or too controversial, they have taken enthusiastically to the business of washing each other's dirty linen and waving it before the public.

Both sides capitalize the squabbles, the discontents and the closed skeletons within the lines of the other party. Republicans seek to poison the minds of Democrats against Democratic candidates and Democrats try to play the acme trick on the Republicans. Each harps on the other's unfortunate domestic troubles to a degree that suggests the difficulty they encounter in finding more attractive appeals to the voters.

For instance, about every other statement issued through the Republican national committee under the name of one of the G. O. P. statesmen has a wisecrack or two about the feud between Al Smith and Governor Franklin Roosevelt or the way the latter and Jack Garner were nominated. That would seem to be strictly Democratic business, of course, but whenever a party is trying to heal its own wounds it is the other party's policy to pull out the scalps and rub salt in them.

THE committee issues a statement ascribed to Senator Vandenberg of Michigan which discusses Garner's references to the tariff, and it cannot refrain from alluding to "the Hearst-McAdoo deal in his behalf." After Roosevelt's speech at Sea-Port, N. J., there was a long statement from Congressman Hull of Peoria, Ill., purporting to give inside stuff on the Democratic convention and the way the Democratic prohibition plank came to be adopted. The Republican committee also issued a letter from one of the party's congressmen asking Garner why he didn't come to the telephone when Al Smith tried to force the nomination.

Then there was the statement of the famous Senator George Higgins Moses of New Hampshire, a leading party spokesman, who deplored the allegedly shabby way in which Roosevelt had treated Smith. Recalling the anti-Catholic propaganda which George used against Al in the 1928 campaign, one can imagine the tears he must be shedding now.

ON the Democratic side one finds similar tactics in use, although the minority party is so busy disparaging Hoover and his record that it doesn't have to go far into the G. O. P.'s internal troubles beyond capitalizing the sorrow of many Republicans who wish they had another candidate.

Roosevelt actually goes out and appeals to all good Republicans to repudiate Hoover. He concentrates not on the party, but its leadership, urging its members to purge it of an unfortunate affiliation for which the party, he says, is much too good.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By STUART CAMERON, United Press Sports Editor

New Football Rule Will Lower Defense Lines

The new football rule, which prohibits defending linemen from striking offensive players, is certain to bring about lower play by the defense forward wall.

While many good teams have used a low-charging line for some time, this style of play will be more popular than ever in the 1932 season.

In former years many coaches taught their men to come through riding high, and to strike the offending player with the butt of the hand. This practice was quite legitimate under the rules, but it brought about many a headache. Use of hands by defending linemen still is permissible, but players must merely meet the opponents and push, not strike as in former years.

One of the unfair developments of the old rule which permitted striking was that strikers never became striker of the man who had hit him. For example, a tackle, while on the defense, always plays off the opposing end. But when the end's side was on the defense, the end would be well out on the wing.

Striking was a great deal more prevalent than many football spectators believed. Some few coaches forbid their players to "butt" opponents, but most of them accepted the practice as legitimate under the rules and took full advantage of it.

With the use of the hands limited only by lowering the charge will defending linemen be able to overcome the advantage given the rule to the offensive side.

A British tennis player, appearing on the court in shorts, was one of those Americans who the recent national singles tournament. Not so deeply thought some more of our Americans shocked during the last few by Wall Street shorts.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

FAITH AND COURAGE

Text Num. 13:1-3; 25-33.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 16.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.,
Pastor of the Congregationalist Church of St. Louis, Mo.

Moses believed in the Lord's promise and the Lord's leadership of his people, he believed, the less in human agency in the need of doing everything humanly possible to make his mission and the goal of it clear to his people.

Instead of marching boldly to the Promised Land, trusting to providence to sustain him, he took the precautionary measure of sending out spies to reconnoiter the land, discovering its resources before him and the nations that might make for him.

The results, however, were not satisfactory, for the varied reports with which men estimate practical situations was manifestly a divided verdict of the spies as they returned. This report was unfavorable, emphasizing the difficulties of conquering the strength of the enemy in the wealth and resources of the country.

Only two of the 12 spies gave a favorable answer, and these took view that the children of Israel should go at once and possess the land, and that they were well able to conquer it. Caleb was the chief spokesman for this report based on hope and faith, and Joshua his associate in urging the people to go forward.

What was the difference between the viewpoint and vision of Caleb and Joshua, however, was the difference between the viewpoint and vision of the two, occasioning divergent reports? They were agreed, apparently, about the abundance of the country. It was a land flowing with milk and honey. But there was a very different way of appreciating and estimating the human elements.

Of 10 spies who advised against the land and power of the inhabitants, at the same time they apparently were ready to underestimate the strength and capacity of the cities. Caleb and Joshua, however, were not appalled by the size of the Canaanites. They knew that power is not all matter of size, but that it is also a matter of spirit and courage. They did not estimate things merely on a basis of numbers and apparent resources. It is not easy to put ourselves back into an ancient day and enter very heartily into the spirit of a conflict involving the driving of certain people from their country and homes that other people might occupy them. There is a flavor of might making right about the militaristic side of the matter, and there is so particular need that we should stress the lesson from that angle.

The real lessons lie deeper, and are found in the symbolism of the conflicting reports—the one based almost entirely on materialistic considerations and superficial observation, the other based upon deeper considerations of courage and boldness in action.

The saying that "God is on the side of the great battalions" is attributed to Napoleon; but Napoleon himself lived to see the overthrow of the military strength in which he trusted. It is interesting, also, to remember that the overwhelming defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo was occasioned partially through the riding of the flower of his army into a great ditch, which careful reconnaissance of the ground or battle might have prevented.

Small things have often made for great defeats and great victories. Caleb and Joshua apparently took that fully into account, and they had deep confidence in small things called "faith" and "courage."

THE funny man who owned the zoo said, "Now I'll tell you Tinymites who I am and all about my birds. My name is Gooey Guy. 'I've been around the world, you see, and caught things strange as strange can be. And now I have a gooly zoo. A real proud man am I."

"In this small cage each little bird is one of which you've never heard. That small one with the crimson head is called a clumy-crown."

"Of course you'll never guess just why until I let you see it fly. And then you will discover that the bird flies upside-down."

"Now eye the bird that's half asleep. His food bill, lads, is rather steep for all he eats is jingle bells. His tummy must be strong."

"He used to try to run away, but doesn't try that trick today because he knows that when he runs he'll jingle loud and long."

"Then Copsy said, 'Oh, please tell me what sort of bird that one can be that has but one eye in its head.' The man let out a sigh. 'He is a lazy bird,' said he. 'He sleeps half of the time, you see, and thus flies only half the time, so only needs one eye.'"

A BIRD then flew into a trap. It wished to come out of the cage. "It's crashing up against the bars," said Duncy, with concern. "Please let it come out here with us. I'm sure it will not sting a fuss." The man replied, "How wrong you are you'll very shortly learn."

The funny bird was then let out. It made the Tinymites run and shout when it began to fly around and chase them here and there.

Real quickly it nipped Duncy's nose and scared him near out of his clothes. Brave Scouty chased the bird away and shouted, "That's not fair!"

Eastland Firemen Have a Banquet

The Eastland firemen's entertainment of their families and friends, on Thursday night, at the firehouse in the city hall took the form of a banquet, instead of a barbecue as originally announced.

George M. Harper was master of ceremonies and presided at the tables and over the program.

The menu included barbecue, combination salad, potato flakes, pickles, onion condiment, Mexican peppers, bread and butter, coffee, lemonade and vanilla ice cream and cake.

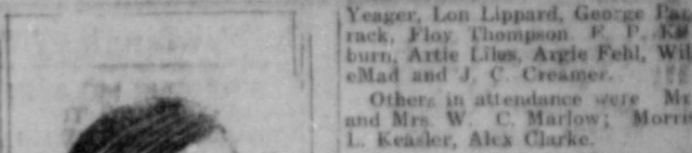

At conclusion of the banquet a program was presented, opening with violin numbers by Mr. Brown and son Elmer, who set the first tapping with their old-time music.

Poems, "The Woe of a Volunteer Fireman," written by Mrs. W. E. Baird, a former member of the Women's Auxiliary of the fire department, was read by Mrs. J. C. Creamer.

A group of readings was presented by Miss Brown of Weatherford. The quartet, Morris Keisler, A. E. Herring, B. M. Collier and John M. Knox, sang several popular songs, receiving several encores.

The address of the evening was made by Rev. Geo. W. Shearer, chaplain of the fire department, who gave a fine talk on the life of the fireman, his devotion to duty, and his usefulness.

Fire chief Hennessie, in an expression of appreciation, of the services of the firemen, complimented them on their fine work.

THE LITTLE girl who was named or brimstone, is a perfect "bird" this fall. Here is a dark green brimstone one, a dainty traped turban.

Guests were Messrs. and Misses J. C. Creamer, K. L. Smithman, Mrs. W. L. Mead, Webster, A. Q. Taylor; Misses Gladys Graham, Bessie Marlow, Marie Shoopman, Hattie Graham, Aubrey Grayson, Irene Williams, Aline Williams; Messrs. R. M. Collier, A. E. Herring, John Knox, Brown and Elmer Brown.

There were thirty-three children in attendance who after the banquet were loaded in the fire wagons and taken for a ride around the square.

Rev. F. W. Wallball, former pastor of the First Christian Church of Eastland, will preach again next Sunday morning, Sept. 18th, at the church here. He has been pastor at Moran and Haskell. His many friends in Eastland will be glad to hear him again.

EIFFEL TOWER'S HEIGHT CHANGES

PARIS.—The Eiffel Tower, still slim and trim after 43 years of watching Paris grow larger and larger, increased its height from 50 to 75 centimeters during the French day. When the excessive heat caused the steel structure to expand, when cold winds blow the tower shrinks below its normal 300 meters, due to contraction. The head sways from side to side as much as ten feet, but, like the Goddess of Liberty in New York harbor, whose head is empty and who sways noticeably from side to side, the Eiffel Tower is perfectly safe.

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

STAN BALL, an agent for cattle interests, faces ASPER DELO in his office in the city. Asper is accused by the cattle men of infringing on their range with his timber cutting. Ball accuses DeLo of crooked work at his Three Rivers camp. He accuses DeLo of having seen about who try to check up on him. Ball says he is going up to make a check himself. DeLo retorts that he will personally see that Ball does not. Standing before the office building Stan Ball sees kidnappers slip a girl into a car. He catches the car and saves DONA DELO, Asper's daughter. When he learns who she is she slips away after telling her he is STANLEY BLACK.

DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with Dona, agrees to get Asper DeLo back off his wild trip to Three Rivers if she will marry him. She gives him some encouragement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

DONA applied the brakes and pulled her trim roadster to a halt at the curb before a spacious apartment house. Without giving the early hour a thought she sent a raucous blast of the horn echoing through the maples that shaded the lower floors. She had only to signal once. A figure staggering under a load of khaki and leather appeared from the main entrance and moved down the walk. The pile of equipment reached the curb. There it erupted and Dudley Winters rose from its midst. He removed a soft felt hat and bowed.

"At your service, lady."

"What on earth have you there?" Dona gasped as she pointed a gloved finger toward the assortment scattered around Dudley.

"A sleeping bag, two guns, three fish rods, a camp outfit, two water bags, a collapsible canoe and several lesser items." Dudley surveyed the outfit proudly.

"You can't take any of that junk," Dona was positive.

"But my friend Herman at the outfitters recommended this as the minimum of equipment."

"Herman made you pay well for routing him out of bed last night. All you need is the outing clothes you're wearing and a suit case with a change of necessary things. You can get all the outdoor equipment you need at Three Rivers. Now aside that stuff back and pack a few clothes." Dona was more than a little vexed now that she was over being amused.

Dudley sensed his mistake and gathered up his new possessions. He stowed the stuff away and came back on the run. Leaping over the door of the roadster, he slid into place beside Dona.

"The car shot away from the curb and sped down the avenue. Dudley leaned back to drink in the fresh morning air. 'Boy, it's great to be out and zipping along! Never knew the mornings were so bracing,' he shouted.

"You haven't seen the sun come up for a good many summers," Dona shouted back.

DUDLEY grinned and sank deep into the soft cushions. He was excited and willing to admit it. Dona gave her attention to the road. She was an excellent driver though her shoulders and ankles seemed almost frail behind the big wheel. Her thoughts were not with Dudley. She was wondering if Stanley Black would call while she was away. Try as she would she could not put him out of her mind entirely.

The sun came up and the roads began to twist into the hills. Patches of purple sage showed among the bunch grass and far to the west a blue range of mountains marked the timber country. Dona set to wondering where Stanley Black rode and for what outfit. She knew that all the cow-fanches had their men in the high country where their white faces were grazing in the forest reserve. Several outfits ran cattle near the timber grant on Three Rivers. There was the Bar B and the Blind River Outfit. Dudley broke into her reverie by demanding that she stop at a lunch room for coffee and rolls.

Noon found them speeding into a foothills village where they had lunch. The stop was only a half hour and then they were off again. Dudley had rolled down his sleeves but not before his arms had burned to a fiery red. He was still in a spirited mood whistling snatches of new songs into the teeth of the brisk wind.

By four o'clock they were deep into the broken country. The hills looked dry and hot but the valleys were green with irrigated ranches. Dona knew the road and did not have to ask at any of the cross-roads for information. The yellow dust had darkened their clothes and smudged their warm faces.

SUNDOWN found the dusty roadster pulling up beside a spacious log hotel. At the side and back of the building high corrals ranged and lean cayouses gazed sleepily out at the newcomers. Dona sighed peacefully and leaned back against the cushions.

"Do we park here or do we un-load?" Dudley pulled himself up stiffly and surveyed the scene. "And is this a hotel or a barn? The signs say it's a hotel but my nose says it's a barn." His grin was broad.

"This is Seth Doby's place and we'll camp here tonight," Dona pressed the horn and began dusting herself off.

A gaunt man of great height appeared in the doorway and clumped down the worn steps on badly run-over riding boots. His gray hair stood up in an unruly whirl and his beard was long and unkempt with suspicious streaks of brown in it. He wore a blouse of denim and faded overalls.

"Howdy, strangers. Want to hitch and come in?" He smiled and his watery blue eyes twinkled.

"We are stopping with you tonight," Dona answered with a returning smile.

"Yes and eating, too," Dudley grinned.

Seth Doby carried their suitcases inside and deposited them in a ground floor room. He returned and motioned to a curi-cornered register. "Sign your name and your wife's in the book while I yep for supper."

"We wish two rooms," Dona hastened to explain.

"Old Seth grinned. 'Right, Well, jest sign up.' Without further words he recovered Dudley's suit-

MEXICO HAS A NEW PROXY PRESIDENT

President Ortiz Rubio gave the American as well as the Latin-Indian world a decided shock when he stepped down and out of the office of chief magistrate of the Aztec republic. He gave as a reason ill health. This was not the real reason for his retirement to private life. Rubio isn't a soldier. He is one of the noted engineers of the Latin-American country. He is a scholar and, as many statesmen, lacked qualifications. Gen. Plutarco Calles is the real ruler of Mexico. He is the spokesman of what is known as the people's revolutionary party. He has the army behind him. Calles made Rubio president. They came to the parting of the ways on account of policies of government.

Rubio saw the handwriting on the wall. He stepped aside.

He will "seek restoration of health in the United States and later may visit France and Spain." His successor is a powerful military figure and has been close to Calles for years. He will continue the same friendly and cordial relations with the United States that have existed. Calles will continue to be the power behind the throne. There is unrest in Mexico as elsewhere in the world over. There is poverty in Mexico. It is found in all lands. Mexico has had a stable government since the lamented Dwight Morrow ironed out the sore spots as ambassador from the United States to that country. Mexico has a heavy foreign debt. Mexico has a future. Mexico has many problems to solve. Mexico has vast natural wealth. Perhaps the day will come when its natural resources will be used for Mexico and the Mexicans.

MAYOR HOLY JOE McKEE

New Yorkers call their mayor, the successor of James J. Walker, "Holy Joe" McKee. He is said to be an outstanding executive and economist. He is strong for Roosevelt for president. He believes in cutting to the bone. His first act was to order a reduction of his salary from $40,444 a year to $25,000 a year. His next act was the taking of a city-wide census of unemployed to begin at once. He said the census would be taken by police and would be completed in 15 days. His purpose? To determine how many of the unemployed are residents of New York City, permanent residents mind you, and thus eligible for city aid. "Holy Joe" McKee is a hard-headed business man. He has served his city for years. He isn't a ballyhooper. He isn't a maker of wisecracks. All the offices he has ever held testify to the fact that he believes a public job isn't a private snap, and he has ever practiced that which he has preached in and out of political life. He is a regular democrat. He bows to the wisdom of the majority of his party. Chicago was ruled by Big Bill Thompson 12 years. It was the story of political pillage and plunder. Never a word of criticism away down here in Texas. Big Bill was a republican.

LAWMAKER SANDERS A SQUARE SHOOTER

Well, the house of the Texas legislature passed a senate bill to remit penalties and interest on delinquent taxes. One of the amendments adopted would require incorporated cities and towns, operating under home rule charters, to remit the interest and penalty on delinquent taxes. It was the contribution made by the irrepressible William Elmer Fops, of Nueces county. Rep. Phil Sanders will not be a member of the new house in January. He has a splendid record as a lawmaker. He would not stand for the remission of penalties and interest bill. He declared the amount of taxes that were allowed to become delinquent had increased from 8 per cent in 1929 to an estimated 26.6 per cent for 1932. Furthermore he said the estimated increase in delinquencies in 1932 was 4 per cent greater than 1931 delinquencies, "although the legislature last year passed a law to remit interest and penalties in the hope of cutting down the mounting total of lapsed taxes." Rep. Sanders is a straight-shooter. He invited his colleagues to place his offering in their pipes and smoke it. They did. And then they voted 115 to 11 for the enactment of the bill.

EASY MONEY FOR THE FARMERS

Business is business. Farmers between Fairfield and Mexia charged from $2 to $10 each to pull cars out of the mud with their teams, following torrential rains in that section. A Galveston dummer is responsible for the story. He said there were 75 cars on the road, waiting to get through the mud. About 250 people were marooned and a large number of cotton trucks were held up. One farmer made $17 in eight hours. Another made $20 and quit for the day. Yes, the mud was soft, and when a car was swamped, it was in the mud up to the hub. Isn't the laborer worthy of his hire? Why growl?

IS TEXAS WET OR DRY

Rep. Jack Keller jumped into the newspaper picture gallery early in the session. He introduced a resolution calling on Texas members of the national congress to support a movement for submission of the 18th amendment to a vote of the people. By a vote of 71 to 43 the house indefinitely postponed consideration of the Keller proposal. There will be a new house under the big dome in January. There will be 75 or 80 new members. Then the Keller proposal or a similar resolution will be given another inning. It will be well for ambitious lawmakers to postpone action until after the results of the November election are known to the American people.

WHY NOT TEXAS

Governor Pinchot and his state highway department employes removed 28,440 pieces of illegal advertising from Pennsylvania roadsides during the annual clean-up campaign. Why should illegal advertising be permitted on Texas highway roadsides? All the people who use gasoline are interested. All the people who believe the roadsides should be beautified and not desecrated are interested.

The Middlewoman

Thrills Galore

In "Unashamed"

"Unashamed," sensational drama of the modern age, in which mystery is dressed in the cloak of today's city life, marks a new phase of the many-sidedness of Bayard Veiller, famous author of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," and "The Thirteenth Chair." The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, written directly for the screen by the noted stage playwright, and now showing at the Arcadia Theatre, provides thrills that are all the more intense because of their ultra-modern appeal.

The story deals with a woman who sacrifices honor for love—then, when her brother kills the man who has disgraced her, must choose between disgrace and her brother's life, as only her story can save him.

Helen Twelvetrees runs the complete gamut of emotions in a remarkable series of episodes as the girl in the case and Robert Young and Monroe Owsley are pitted as the brother and lover respectively. Joan Herriott as the old German grocer gives a character interpretation that is astounding, and Lewis Stone and John Miljan battle in court as the attorneys fighting over the brother's fate. Robert Warwick gives a dignified and vigorous characterization as the girl's father, and Gertrude Michael plays the sympathetic role of the brother's fiancée.

The big dramatic highlight is the scene in the courtroom where the girl, desperate and remorseful,

What is a FIRST LINE TIRE?

Don't accept mere claims—a "First Line" tire is determined by quality—not claim. Make any tire dealer back up his claim by showing you what is actually in his tire—then—

Come to our store—examine sections cut from actual tires—a so-called "First Line" and our Firestone Oldfield Type. See for yourself the greater values—the price is practically the same. ★

WARNING!! In the welter of tire advertising do not confuse the terms "seconds" and "second line." A "second" is a tire not first class due to blentish, defect or imperfection, and customarily sold with the manufacturer's name or serial number buffed off the side wall at a price usually 25% to 40% below the regular selling price. "Second Line" is merely a term which does not always imply true quality and value.

Firestone "The Tire that Taught Thrift to Millions" Firestone do not manufacture tires under special brand names for mail order houses and others to distribute. Special Brand Tires are made without the manufacturer's name. They are sold without his guarantee or responsibility for service. Every Firestone tire bears the Firestone name and the quality excess that of special brand mail order tires sold at the same price.

Finally, they located the elder Nygaard.

Enrollment of Junior College Is Increasing

The enrollment in Ranger Junior College has already increased over 50 percent over the enrollment of 1931-32. 97 students are enrolled, and it is certain that the enrollment for the first semester will reach the 100 mark or over. All who are planning to attend this semester are urged to enroll not later than Monday, Sept. 19, as a late enrollment fine of $2.00 will be assessed against students enrolling after that date. The purpose of this fine is to make all enroll early so they won't get too far behind their classmates on the start, and it generally takes additional effort on the part of the instructors to help such students bring up their back work.

Courses are being offered in English composition and rhetoric, English literature, elementary principles of education, psychology of education, college algebra, analytical geometry, American history, economics, accounting, typewriting, stenography, business law, beginners French, first year college Spanish, advanced college Spanish reading and literature, chemistry, biology, otany and physical education. The second semester courses will be added in American literature, American government, trigonometry, and elementary and high school methods and management in education. Thus two full years are being given toward the B. S., B. A., B. B. A. and L. B. degrees, and practically two years are being offered toward engineering and premedical degrees. Ranger Junior College is fully accredited, so that a student upon finishing two years here may enter the junior year of a senior college.

British Are Ready To Launch Huge Battleship Plan

LONDON.—Great Britain is to start building battleships again, before next March contracts will be placed for 28 warships, the cost of which is estimated at $100,000,000.

This is due to the overlapping of naval programs since 1930, which involves placing the contracts before March instead of spreading them over two years.

Naval dockyards, private shipyards, marine engineering shops and armament factories, long stagnant, are preparing for one of the busiest seasons on record.

Large Orders.
Their orders include: 95,000 tons of new shipping; Machinery developing more than 1,000,000 h.p. Over 120 guns of 6-inch and 4.7 caliber, besides many smaller guns; Over 200 torpedo-tubes; Gun-mountings to the value of several million pounds; Many hundreds of tons of armor-plate.

Two Programs.
The two programs concerned are for the financial years 1931 and 1932, the former having been held back for 18 months. Together they provide for:

- Four 7,000-ton Leander cruisers;
- Two 5,500-ton Arethusa cruisers;
- Two flotilla leaders and 16 destroyers;
- Eight sloops;
- Six submarines;
- Two gunboats;
- Three depot, or auxiliary ships.

It is estimated that of the $100,000,000 to be spent, three-fifths of it will go in wages.

Soviet Russia has presented Col. Hugh L. Cooper, American engineer, with a flock of medals for directing the construction of Dniepropetrovsk, the world's largest power plant. Now he'll offer a medal to anyone who can pronounce it.
