

Home Rule For Texas Counties Being Advocated

By United Press.
FORT WORTH—Home rule for Texas counties and sweeping reorganization of local government systems are advocated here by J. M. Callaway, attorney and president of government.

Consolidation of overlapping jurisdictions will result in decreased overhead costs of government, he claims. At present, one-half or two-thirds, he has estimated in public addresses here.

He suggests the combination of assessors' and tax collectors' offices, of county and district attorneys' offices, and the merger of sheriffs, constables, juvenile officers and county highway officers' departments.

He would also remove precincts in county government. "Under the present system there are four commissioners working for the improvement of their own districts and frequently against another. There should be one organization, working for the good of the whole," he declared.

He contends each of more than 100 county departments operates independently and with harmony. That fees collected for their services are enormous.

OH, I KNOW! NOW WE CAN HAVE THAT ELECTRIC FRUIT SQUEEZER WE'VE BEEN WANTING FOR SO LONG!!

Down through the young spruce the roan thundered, his steel-shod hoofs showering loose stones from the trail. Dona could hear her pursuer racing along through the second-growth timber on her left. He was riding a good horse because the roan was sprinting at a terrific speed but was not pulling away.

The rider on the left edged ahead, then suddenly burst from cover and fell upon Dona. As he swung to clear her, his horse reared and she was plumed with surprise. The rider was Glotter Swergin and he was plainly angry. Dona felt a flush of color mount into her cheeks as she met his eyes. What right had he to stop her?

Swergin pulled the roan to a pasting halt. "Didn't tell you not to ride out of camp?" he snapped. "Just when did you start giving me orders?" Dona was suddenly very angry.

Swergin jerked the roan's head up. "I'm taking you back to camp."

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. © 1932 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. 9-25

He stated grimly.

"You are not! I am returning to camp when I get ready."

Dona's temper was roused. Swergin had apparently ridden out simply to bring her back. If there had been any apparent danger she might have gone back with him but his attitude seemed unreasonable.

Swergin sensed her objection. "You heard those shots?"

Dona suddenly remembered the rifle shots and nodded. She was still angry but she wanted to know who had done the shooting.

"I came upon Ball. He was trailing you. We had a little argument with lead." Swergin's lips twisted into a half snarl.

"Did you hit him?" Dona asked eagerly, her anger forgotten for the second.

"I must have winged him. He went out of the picture right now. Next time I'll drill him clean." Swergin's little eyes lighted up queerly.

"We'll have to go back and find him." Dona spoke her decision. She wanted to see Ball and this seemed a fine chance to capture him.

"I'm taking you back to camp. Then I'll come out and finish the job I started." Swergin pulled up on the roan's head and made as if to start toward camp.

Dona's anger flared up again. "We're going to bring that man in! You act as though I were incompetent or a child." With a jerk she freed the roan's head and set him back on his hind feet.

Swergin leaned far out of his saddle and with one huge arm swept Dona clear of her saddle. With the other hand he cut the roan smartly across the hips with his saddle quirt. The horse snorted and leaped away and Dona found herself swept to the saddle in front of Swergin.

Her struggles did not disturb his soiled balance in the least. Grimly he pushed his horse down the trail while Dona choked down her wrath and kept silent. There was little use in arguing with the big timber boss.

They rode into camp and up to the wide porch in front of the main building. Dudley came running down the steps as he saw them coming. He held up his arms to Dona but she slid to the ground unassisted. Like a flash she whirled upon her uninvited rescuer. Her blue eyes blazed black and she swung the light quirt that hung at her wrist. With a wicked snarl she slashed out with it and struck Swergin across the cheek. The rawhide lashes on the quirt left purple welts across his wind-hardened skin.

Swergin did not move a muscle but his eyes hardened. Slowly his lips pulled into a grin. "You're a little hell-cat when you can't have your way," he said slowly.

Dudley, who had stepped back at Dona's sudden action, crossed close to Swergin's stirrup. "What have you been up to?" he flared.

SWERGIN bent low and his grin vanished. "If you had any brains or any sense you'd watch this kid and keep her out of the timber. I ought to plant one right on your pretty nose! You need something to bring you around."

Dudley opened his mouth twice but he was too angry to speak. Dona pulled him back.

"We're going inside, Dad. I'll settle with this fellow later."

Swergin bowed and rode away without any trace of concern. Dona unable to control herself, burst out. "He acts as though he owned the works at Three Rivers!"

"I would have taken a punch at him but he has been of service to you and your father," Dudley grinned. "Boy, you're a knockout when you're mad, D!"

Dona halted just inside the door. She held Dudley away with one hand while she smoothed her wind-ruffled hair with the other. Her anger vanished rapidly and she joined Dudley's laugh.

"I guess I'll have to take it all back and give you around makes me furious. We owe him so much I will have to take it, I guess. I'm sorry I slapped him."

"Slapped? Dudley screwed his mouth into a comical twist. "Don't ever slap me!"

"It didn't even make him flinch."

"What was the beginning of all this?" Dudley demanded.

"Swergin caught our bad man, Ball, trailing me and wounded him. I wanted to stay and help him escape the outlaw but he paroled me home." Dona explained briefly.

"I agree with him. From now on you stay in camp!" Dudley tried to appear masterful.

"And you get the same answer as Swergin's—no!" Dona turned and walked to her father's room.

ASPER was awake and very restless. He greeted Dona with a question as she entered. "Have they got Ball yet?"

"No, Dad, but Swergin wounded him and is on his way right now to bring him in." Dona patted her father's hand and pushed him gently down on his pillow. "Remember what the doctor told you—no getting into a fret and no moving around until he says so!"

"Hang the doctor! If Ball isn't brought in within the next 48 hours I'll get up and go after him myself. I have a score to settle with that cow puncher!" Asper settled back in spite of himself and a flush of pain crossed his face.

"Swergin will bring him in," Dona promised.

"When he does Ball is to be brought here. Understand? I have a lot to tell that coyote." Asper closed his eyes and lay still.

Dona sat beside him, a worried frown on her face. It seemed much worse than when she had left him. She hoped Swergin would bring Ball in and end the senseless of the situation. Asper drifted into a troubled sleep and Dona walked to the window.

Folly Mountain rose high above and seemed to frown down on the camp. Somehow she did not believe the timber boss would bring Ball in. The man was becoming almost like a mythical character. She had seen flashes of him, had heard the way they had seen him and she was eager to stand face to face with him.

Her thoughts drifted back over what seemed weeks ago instead of days to the man who had saved her from the thugs who had kidnaped her. She wondered if Stanley Black was riding a near race. She would have been glad to have gone to him with her troubles just then.

An idea came to her. She would ride to Blind River at the next chance and see for herself what the situation was. She could inquire there for Stanley Black. This decision made her smile as she thought of Swergin and Dudley. They would both have to be judged carefully and they would both be angry when she told them where she had gone. Asper stirred, groaned and Dona returned to his side. He was muttering in his sleep in angry muttering tones. Suddenly panic struck at Dona's heart. Perhaps she should take him to the city. But would he go? All at once she remembered the marriage certificate that had been signed. If she had to, she would see that, but first she wanted to slip away and ride to Blind River. She would have her chance the next morning and she would take it.

HERE--- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Have you ever wondered how in the world people got along without teeth or with miserable substitutes for natural teeth, before the days of the dentist?

It is presumed that in the early days of our colonial history men, women and children ate such heavy strong food, that the act of mastication kept the gums hard and viable, the teeth well nourished and the danger of decay far away.

It is known that George Washington wore a set of hand-carved wooden teeth, which used to embarrass him occasionally by having to be kept propped up with the finger tip, during some delicate discussion.

The modern habits of people have been largely conducive to rapid decay of the teeth.

Soft rich foods that need but little mastication, too many sweets and a careless habit of not brushing the teeth just before retiring, all this has caused the rapid deterioration in teeth beauty and lengthened the dentist's bill.

Certainly there is nothing more vital, or of greater importance than to protect the health of growing children.

Among things they are suffering from in these modern hours are the evils of juvenile rheumatism, which in turn causes heart complications or chronic heart disease. And what causes this? Specialists and physicians concur in the decision that rheumatism in the child is caused by a group of Streptococci which enters the body by way of diseased tonsils and teeth.

Therefore rheumatism is caused by infection. Every child should be required to brush their teeth after each meal, and an extra brushing after eating candy and just before going to bed.

The brush should be rather soft, and bought anew at least each two months. Hard brushes are apt to scratch the tender gums of a child who is not at any time to deft in its use, when a very little tooth.

Mothers have a field for originality in making a game of brushing teeth. So many pins or pennies for so many minutes of little son or daughter tooth brushing many times a day, setting of course a time limit for each brushing on the required schedule.

Juvenile heart trouble may be so easily avoided by the careful parent, if a few simple rules concerning their little ones are followed.

It seems most unfair to handicap a child in its early years of irresponsibility through our own grown-up lack of responsibility concerning them and their future. The socialist is familiar with the

Cotton Experts Disagree Upon Nations New Crop

AUSTIN.—Opinion of cotton interests is divided as to whether the country's cotton crop has increased or decreased, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Bureau Research and world recognized authority on cotton.

The prospective crop of the United States still holds the center of the stage in so far as cotton market news is concerned.

Dr. Cox said, "Most private estimates have been shooting wide of the mark if the government is right. On an average, private estimates were much larger than the government report on Aug. 8. On Sept. 8, the opinion among private estimators indicated a decline of at least 3,000,000 bales from the August report. The government estimate was 11,510,000 bales, or an increase over August of 4,000 bales. Opinion now is divided as to whether the crop as a whole has made a net gain or loss.

The prevailing opinion among traders now seems to be "stay on the conservative side, or wait and see."

"This conservative attitude has also been strengthened by the increasing attention being given to cotton crop prospects outside the United States, especially in India and China. World supply of cotton for the year 1932-1933 bids fair to be approximately the same as that last year. In other words, the large increase in the carryover of American cotton over Aug. 1 last year plus increased prospects in India and China just about offset the indicated decline in American, Egyptian, and sundries production for this year."

Sales of cotton carded cloth during August were 510,531,000 yards; this was 282.4 per cent of production, according to the report of the association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. Stocks on hand decreased from 281,249,000 yards Aug. 1 to 209,497,000 yards Aug. 31, and unfilled orders jumped from 227,952,000 yards Aug. 1 to 485,860,000 yards Aug. 31.

Last year during August, sales amounted to only 187,555,000 yards and unfilled orders at the end of August were only 217,505,000 yards. These figures indicate that cotton is in a stronger position now than it was on this date in 1931 due to stronger demand.

INVENTION TRAPS MOSQUITOES

By United Press.
PARIS—Catching mosquitoes by the pound has now been made possible by means of inventions perfected and put on exhibition at the 30th Concorde Exposition, here.

Testing out the contraptions, an expedition of mosquito catchers set out from here for the Camargue plain, at the mouth of the Rhone River, near Marseilles. One apparatus is said to have trapped five pounds of unwary mosquitoes within 60 minutes. The invention consists of a mercury lamp, which attracts the biters in swarms, only to be killed, upon arriving, by a powerful insecticide, and collected in a tray.

As has been pointed out before, when the supply is above average, a change of 100,000 bales in supply causes less than average change in price. When that is taken into account, the indicated price is 7.17 cents for New Orleans middling spots.

"When the price calculation is based on average percentage change in price corresponding to percentage change in supply, the indicated price is only 6.84 cents. The supply price chart for September indicates a price of between 6.50 cents and 7 cents."

Delightful Meeting Home Makers Class.
Mrs. Charles T. Lucas opened her lovely home Tuesday afternoon to the members of the Home Makers class of the Baptist church, who entertained their membership in honor of the outgoing and incoming officers with a delightful social affair, which opened with a brief program introducing Mrs. W. P. Palm, in a voice solo, "Smiling Through," with Mrs. O. B. Darby as accompanist.
An interesting reading, "A Remarkable Case," was given by Mrs. Lee Bishop, followed by a group of piano solos by the little daughter of the hostess, Helen Lucile Lucas.

Short talks and plans for the new year's work were made by each of the incoming officers.
A delightful feature of the afternoon was the presentation to Mrs. O. B. Darby of a handsome cloisonne vase as a token of their appreciation of her services as class teacher the past year.
Mrs. Nash was presented with a charmingly arranged gift shower, a mark of the friendship and esteem of her fellow class members.
The pretty custom of the exchange of forget-me-nots between members each three months was followed and affected many warm friendships.

The games for the afternoon, unique and delightful, were directed by Mrs. E. R. Weatherford, and other features were under the direction of the hostess groups, No. 2 and No. 3, directed by Captain Mrs. W. J. Sherriffs and Mrs. R. L. Slaughter.
A delicious tea plate of chicken salad sandwiches, fruit salad with whipped cream topping, devils food cake and coffee, had plate favor of bachelor button bouquets tied in pink and green colors.
The entire home was beautifully decorated with bouquets and vases of roses and zinnias. Tall jars and baskets filled with Indian paintbrush were also effectively employed.

The dining table was surfaced in handsome tapestry, centered with a bowl of roses.
The date for the next meeting was announced for Tuesday afternoon, following the fourth Sunday in October, with Mrs. S. D. Phillips as house hostess.
Those present, incoming officers, Mrs. Elvise L. Garritt, teacher of class, Mrs. L. V. Simmonds, president; Mrs. W. T. Morgan, first vice president; Mrs. Artie Liles, second vice president; Mrs. Claud Maynard, third vice president; Mrs. W. P. Palm, fourth vice president; Mrs. C. T. Lucas, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. Weatherford, Morgan Myers, and house guest, Mrs. Douglas Wilson of San Angelo.

Readers Luncheon Club Opens New Season.
Mrs. James Horton was a charming hostess Tuesday noon to the Readers Luncheon club, entertaining at her handsome home, beautifully decorated with roses and tuberoses, which also centered the daintily appointed luncheon table, arranged for eight covers and accented by Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, Mrs. Grady Perkins, Mrs. J. E. Hickman, Mrs. Leslie Gray, Mrs. T. J. Hahn, Mrs. Carl Springs, er, Mrs. B. M. Collie and hostess, Mrs. Horton.

The only absent members were Mrs. M. L. Kessler, the president, who is visiting in Midland, and Mrs. W. B. Collie, who is in Fort Worth.
The literary table discussion was given to the policies and makeup of the various prominent magazines now extant, each member having an assigned subject.
The luncheon menu, of mock turkey drumsticks, peas, creamed potatoes, dressing, asparagus tips on toast, with pimento sauce, hot muffins; had combination salad, second course, and a cream marshmallow nut confection, with cream topping last course.

South Ward School P. T. A.
The splendid meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the South Ward school Tuesday afternoon, opened the new school and association season, with every promise of an interesting and successful year.
The session was held in Mrs. Hampton's schoolroom, and conducted by Mrs. J. M. Armstrong, the president, who met with a warm response from her co-workers on this her first appearance as the new presiding officer.
Mrs. Armstrong's delightful greeting included practical plans for future work and many pleasing features in addition.
The minutes of Mrs. Lewis Pittzer, recording secretary, presented the activities of the P. T. A. executive committee during the summer vacation months, and showed a play had been decided upon, to be given by the school, early in November. Minutes were approved.
Miss Reva Seaberry and Mrs. Hampton were appointed as committee by chair to secure place for production, and set date, and Mrs. J. Frank Sparks, corresponding secretary, directed to confer with the theatrical house in Kansas City, about details of producing the play.

Mrs. Earl Bender and Mrs. L. A. Hightower, membership committee reported the work of securing members still continuing.
Mrs. Armstrong appointed the following as room mothers:
Mrs. Carter of Lena street for Mrs. Hampton's room.
Mrs. C. M. Murphy for Miss Seaberry's room.
Mrs. Wood Butler for Miss Day's room.
Mrs. Marvin Hood for Miss Lillian Smith's room.
Mrs. Virgil T. Seaberry for Miss Leora Huggins' room.
Mrs. Earl Dick for Miss Sallie Howlin's room.
Mrs. F. M. Kenney, finance chairman, announced the following as Finance committee, Mrs. W. H. McDonald, Mrs. Dixie Williamson, Mrs. E. K. Freyschlag, Mrs. H. P. Brelsford Jr., who will have charge, assisted by P. T. A. members of the Halloween carnival to be held by South Ward school, Monday evening Oct. 30, place to be announced later.
The social service committee, Mrs. Guy Dunnam, chairman, Miss Edna Day and Miss Sallie Howlin, stated the school's needs and urgencies.
Mrs. A. C. Simmons, principal of the school, gave an interesting and virile talk on the school life and outlook, and made several requests for supplies, which were approved.
A new football will be purchased and the first aid kit replenished.

A piano solo by the popular Jean Johnston, prefaced the introduction by Mrs. J. M. Armstrong, president of Mrs. F. R. Bell of Thurber, president of first district Parent-Teacher association, whose subject, "Why a P. T. A.?" was developed along original and entertaining lines and proved most interesting.
A dainty plate of small cakes and hot tea with spiced lemon was served by Mrs. W. H. McDonald, chairman of hospitality, and the committee at close of session.
Signed up members at this meeting were Misses J. M. Armstrong, A. E. Taylor, Scott W. Key, F. M. Kenny, Marvin Hood, W. H. Haasen, W. E. Kallett, Maureen Taylor, W. L. Meade, Herbert Reed, J. Crossley, Guy Dunnam, P. L. Michael, W. K. Jackson, A. C. Simmons; Misses Reva Seaberry, Leora Huggins, Sallie Howlin and Edna Day.
Mrs. F. R. Bell was the honor guest of the afternoon and met the association following the regular P. T. A. session.
Adjourned to four weeks hence.

Entertained
Wife Luncheon
Mrs. F. R. Bell of Thurber, who was visiting friends in Eastland, Tuesday was the honor guest of a delicious noon luncheon party at the J. M. Armstrong home, where covers were laid for hostess, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Scott W. Key and Mrs. Lonnie King of Thurber, in town for the day, and to accompany Mrs. Bell upon her return home.

Church of God Auxiliary
The Womens Auxiliary of the Church of God met at the home of Mrs. Eliza Parsons, Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. E. W. Barnett, leader of devotional service, whose discussion was based on that portion of the Lord's Prayer, "Thy will be done."
Hymn, "Draw Me Nearer Nearer Lord," followed and prefaced the prayer service held by the auxiliary.
The association will meet for a personal evangelism program next Monday instead of Tuesday as heretofore, and hereafter sessions will be held on Monday at 3 p. m., Mrs. E. O. Bailey, hostess for the meeting.
Those present, Misses E. O. Bailey, E. F. Ganow, J. T. Wilson, E. W. Barnett, J. W. Butdorf, H. A. Perry, Miss Parsons, and Mrs. Eliza Parsons.

Young Womens Association
Has Missionary Program
The Young Womens association of the Baptist Church presented an interesting line of subjects Tuesday evening at their regular meeting conducted by the president, Miss Aline Williams, and opening with a song service and prayer.
The visiting committee was instructed to make their postponed calls today, Wednesday. Other minor business was transacted.
The mission study, "Send The Light," was prefaced by a devotional reading from the third chapter of John, verses 16, and a fine story in connection, "Are You Ready Help," presented by Miss Mamie Armstrong.
"Silent Preachers in China," Miss Hassie Graham.
"Some Conditions That Cause Us To Be Faithful in Sharing the Gospel," by Aline Williams.
"School Boys and Girls in Liberia," Miss Thelma Wood.
Prayer, Miss Opal Hunt.
Those present, Misses Mozelle Duminick, Hassie Graham, Opal Hunt, Aline Williams, Thelma Wood, Mamie Armstrong, Irene Williams, and Mrs. L. J. Lombert, counselor.

Knights of Pythias Develop New Plan
The Knights of Pythias met in regular session, Tuesday night, with meeting conducted by Artie Liles, chancellor commander.
The regular business routine occupied the preliminaries, rank work was postponed until Oct. 11. An interesting discussion was on tap; centered about the instrument received from the supreme lodge of America, which provoked a general discussion.
A plan is being considered of having a social feature in connection with their meetings, whereby the Pythian Sisters, Temple, their auxiliary, may have a share in the regular meetings of the Knights of Pythias.
There was a good attendance, 19 members being present.

Mrs. Durham Presents Excellent Program
Mrs. H. H. Durham was reappointed to the successful and profitable program given at Hodges Oak Park school's P. T. A. Tuesday afternoon when she arranged the program topics taken from "Mental and Social Hygiene."
All the instructive points of the well rounded out program period proved immensely interesting to the 43 members in attendance.
Dr. Walter Jackson, who was unable to attend the last session was present and favored the occasion with a talk on "Health" and its importance to the child's early life.
The P. T. A. has arranged for a program to be given Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at which hour all the students of this school will participate. Admission will be 5 cents and all parents and friends are invited to attend this entertainment.

Musical Recital To Be High Point Of Week's Social Functions.
The musical recital to be given by the 1929 Club, Thursday afternoon, presenting artists from McMurray College of Abilene, at the First Baptist church, comes as the high point of the week's social functions.
The personnel is composed of the following: Mrs. E. G. Wiley, head of the Pine Arts department; Miss Ruth Laxley, violinist, and Mrs. Whisenant, accompanist.
The club's fall group of members will act as house party hostesses with the past presidents included in the receiving line.
All members from the New Era and Junior New Era clubs, together with other guests will form the afternoon's recital audience.
The artists will be honored with a prettily appointed buffet supper following the recital at the home of Mrs. C. D. Woods, Cypress street, numbered as one of the past presidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Announce Arrival of Daughter.
Mr. and Mrs. William Rowland are happy to announce the arrival of an eight pound daughter, who arrived at the City-County hospital this morning, at 4 o'clock.
Mrs. Rowland is remembered by her Ranger friends as the former Miss Doris Murray, a graduate of Ranger high school.
Mrs. Rowland, whose home is in Waco, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Walter Murray, for the past few weeks. Mother and daughter are resting quite well, according to attendants.

Chair Fracture At Presbyterian Church This Evening At 7 o'clock
All members of the Presbyterian church choir are asked by the director, Miss Maxine Henderson, to be present this evening at 7 o'clock. Important and interesting features for the choir service will fill the hour and the director is anxious all members be in their places.

Young Cecilia McDowell is ill at her home, Cypress street, suffering from scarlet fever.
O. D. Dillingham and young son, Richard, of Abilene, were visitors in Ranger today.
Messrs. Milklin and Wharton, associates of the Texas-Louisiana Power company at Fort Worth, visited the local office this week.
We do not remember the name of the man who discovered the elephant, but the cartoonists seem to have copyrighted the animal.

PARIS STYLES

United Press Staff Correspondent.
PARIS.—Three little maids in Jersey tell a fashion story that is well worth remembering, and one that is destined to be retold around the world where smart fabrics are the topic of conversation.
The first is of just brown color and a ribbed weave with a guimpe of barred tseyph Bob with short puffed sleeves and a small collar and large lapels. A panel is set in the skirt at the waist which widens to the hem of the dress. It seems to button on with two buttons. It is the sleeveless jacket (double-breasted) and V-neck. White gloves, a brown bustier and pumps complete the costume.

The second also is ribbed jersey in a light beige with the skirt so that the ribs run into each other in a point. Puffs appear above the elbow which continue into the shoulders, and the lower half of the sleeve fits the arm snugly. Belt, loop tie, purse and toque of powder blue. The material of crepe de chine.
The third is of dark green jersey, tailored in line with an opening over a cravat of white silk-pique. The skirt is formed in sections but remains straight-line the belt placed at a slightly high waistline with one button fastening at the left.

Several numbers were rendered by the Ripette brothers, accompanied by Mr. Arnold. These selections were enjoyed very much by everyone present.
Rev. Gray, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, gave a very educational and enjoyable talk, choosing as his subject, "Prepare Yourself."

"Now my kitchen is the cleanest room in the house"

The range pictured above is the Hot-point Hostess... the last word in modern electric range design and construction. No finer range has ever been installed in a home than this new creation with the magic Calrod heating coil.

A difficult problem has confronted the housewife since time immemorial... how to keep the kitchen clean without hours and hours of tedious labor when the day was already filled with other things that needed doing.
We've solved that problem for you... or rather, the electric range has solved it for both of us. It is a simple matter now to keep your kitchen just as spick-and-span as any other room in the house.
Gone are the troubles with soot, smoke, flying grease and the many other faults of old-fashioned cooking. Walls stay spotless, pans keep shiny, the range itself needs only the light touch of a cloth once in a while to remain as clean as a china plate... just as it was the day it left our store.
You'll like the cleanliness of electric cookery.
