DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT the love for a band-wagon often makes many followers for the leaders in civic work.

The dread of a steam-roller makes more of them.

The band-wagon and steam-roller often make workers out of slackers; they also occasionally cure the buck-passers.

A lot of cities should hang up a new speed mark and get busy.

With the right kind of cooperation it won't take them long to get on the home stretch with victory in sight.

This is no time to slow down; it is the time to pep up, sick out your chest and go ahead.

You should have a good program for city development and the affairs of the home city will soon be running smooth, the wheels will be turning around and the world will look better to you.

All your forces should work together and put every ounce of energy they have into making the home city a bigger, brighter and busier city.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

Prexy Anderson, Abilene scribe, who saw the Bulldog-Eagle massacre, informed us Saturday afternoon while the game was in progress, that the 20 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Bulldogs was the second worst beating the Eagles had ever taken in the Oil Belt.

On one other occasion the Eagles were defeated by a score of 26 to 0. In the excitement we failed to take particular notice of the occasion of the other defeat but, as we remember it, Brockenridge defeated the Eagles by a score of 26 to 0 back about 1925. Maybe we misunderstood Anderson as to the time and the team.

In writing about the game Anderson also said, "J. L. Jones and Glynn Lyon of the backfield and the whole opposing line made constant trouble for Abilene today. They fondly refer to Jones as 'Corporal.' The boy should be a general. He is a little slow getting started with his 200 pounds, but once under full steam he is very, very hard to stop. His line gave him plenty of time in which to start. Lyon is as tricky on his feet but lacks the drive. He is an excellent punter, too. Aaron Anderson gives the teams a third running threat."

Which, as we pointed out yesterday, gives part of the glory where the glory belongs. It was the line, the blocking and the interference, plus the driving power of Jones and the generalship of Lyon, the ball carrying of Anderson and the play turned in by "Rabbit" Jones and his substitute, Cole, which made the victory possible. Teamwork at all times. That's the whole story in a few words.

H. S. Von Roeder informs us that the Texas Rangers from the Ranger Junior college are due to clash with the San Angelo Junior college at Lillard field this weekend, the game being called at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

We have found out very little about the San Angelo team, but have sent out hurried inquiries to Blundy Cross of San Angelo to give us a little information on the team. Probably by tomorrow we will have something to tell the customers, if any. In the meantime the best we can do is to agree that there will be a football game and the Texas Rangers will be in the thick of it from start to finish. At least that is the way they have been playing ball to date.

One fan from Weatherford, when he saw the score of the Ranger-Tarleton game, remarked that the Weatherford Junior college team, which is tentatively scheduled as the next foe of the junior college, would have a harder time with the Rangers than they had anticipated. That's nothing. So did John Tarleton. And those who saw the Tarleton game insist that the lone touchdown was secured because a near-sight'ed official could not see the Vaid and didn't see that the touchdown was made after the ball carrier had run two or three steps out of bounds. Anyway, Tarleton won.

In the meantime the Bulldogs get a rest, as no game is scheduled for this week-end. On Nov. 11 they take on Eastland and a class B team may be scheduled for Nov. 4.

The hardest assignment of the team comes later in November when they must play Eastland and Friday, Brownwood the next and Brockenridge on the following Thursday. This will make three hard games in a row for the Bulldogs.

Eastland's Mavericks officially open their grid schedule this week-end when they play the ex-champions of the state at Abilene. The Eagles may have lost some of their confidence this past week the streets of Round Rock before the robbery was attempted and mortally wounded Bass.

The mettle of the bandit with whom the Rangers were forced to deal, almost daily was revealed in this battle.

Frank Jackson, cousin of the betrayer, Bass and Sobe Barnes had ridden into the town to get the "lay-out" for the robbery when Bass shot down a deputy sheriff in cold blood and the three Rangers started firing.

With Barnes killed and Bass wounded, Jackson held the Rangers at bay, put Bass in the saddle and rode away, bullets whistling past him. Early the next morning, Bass was found wounded on the outskirts of Round Rock, where he had forced Jackson to leave him. Bass died the next day telling nothing.

The self-styled bad man was a constant menace. The reputation of certain Rangers, the "glory" of beating one of them caused many a battle.

Not always were they bandits, sometimes they were indiscreet sheriffs or citizens. Captain William Jesse (Captain Bill) McDonald's record of facing the Davidson and Williams gangs single-handed and disarming them and his reputation as the best all-around rapid fire marksman in Texas, created no little jealousy of him.

John Pierce Matthews as sheriff of Childress county took it on himself to settle a grudge with McDonald and blot out the Ranger. Matthews had the record of having killed a steamboat captain in Louisiana and of dropping another man in the Panhandle.

The grudge arose when Matthews was refused admittance to a secret order in Wichita Falls which McDonald headed. Matthews began practice daily with the pistol making his brags to sympathetic cronies some day he would look up McDonald and kill him.

Frequently they met on the streets, but Matthews made no advances. Finally, his practice completed, he began carrying a plug of tobacco and a pocket book in his shirt pocket over his heart. He was ready.

One night McDonald was called to the street by a Matthews emissary, saying Matthews wanted to "fix things." Matthews, flanked by two cronies and a neighboring sheriff, approached McDonald.

"I understand you are going to wipe up the earth with me," McDonald said. "Is that so?"

"No," replied Matthews, cursing. "But I'll tell you what I did say.—" He pointed his finger in Captain Bill's face.

The finger pointing trick failed. McDonald was on his guard. Matthews went for his gun. McDonald

No raw tobaccos in Luckies—that's why they're so mild

We buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given benefit of that Lucky Strike toasting process, described by words—"It's toasted".

DERRICK SHADOWS

Ranger is to be commended for her unusual set of younger girls. During the summer months thru which we have just passed, I have seen less smoking among girls between the ages of 16 and 22 than I have observed in other towns and cities where I have visited and lived. The habit is not, I think, a condemning one. I have known scores of charming, cultured girls who were habitual tobacco fiends. A clever little co-ed in one of Texas' most outstanding universities told me not long ago that the only reason she did not smoke with all her friends was the "kick" she got out of seeing the surprised and pleased look on a man's face when he offered her a cigarette and she refused it. Of all the male creatures I have known only two admit they admire girls who use tobacco. And still the little ladies smoke and murmur something about not believing in a double standard. Personally I do believe in such a standard and perhaps you smoke - and in either case, that is alright.

about two years. He tells me that up until this summer divorce merely meant a new suit for him or some sort of gift for his best girl, but now they're beginning to worry him. During the last month he has divorced 14 couples with bright prospects for more to come, and the little game has passed the funny point and just about reached the tragic. What's the matter with the modern home, that people insist on dragging the heartstone into the divorce courts and wiping out all the loveliness with the harshness of law? Has the depression won the fight? Are our wives not willing to endure a few hardships until America can "snap out of it" and stagger back to her feet? Or are our husbands beginning to tire of having to slave for a home and happiness? You can answer such foolish questions yourself - much better than I, no doubt. But isn't it foolish to tear out the heart of the home and expect its various members to go on their separate ways not hurt by the loss?

Kirby Page has named ten steps toward living creatively, each reflecting the truth that "Man does not live by bread alone. Roses and sunsets, songs and symphonies, essays and poems are also means of grace." According to the author these steps include: relieve human misery, transform unjust social systems, gain vision and serenity through silence, seek beauty, cultivate friendship and fellowship, recover strength through penitence, explore great biographies, follow the noblest personality, cooperate creatively with God, and run risks and accept penalties. The latter is perhaps the more difficult of the list. Even the best of us are willing to run risks, but when we face ultimate penalties we adopt a horrified expression and ask the world, "But what have I done to deserve this? It just isn't fair." The writer suggests that "Black despair will scarcely clutch and hold for long if one can talk it out with a friend who understands." Friendships! That inexpressible something that makes sorrow and disappointment easier to bear and the world a little better place in which to live. To be a friend one must forget the trivial problems of self and go forth to help. And there are numerous times in every man's life when a feller needs a friend, and the need is urgent.

The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You

Unarmed and helpless, 390 Texans, prisoners of war, were shot down in cold blood, massacred, at Goliad, March 27, 1836. They died for Texas as truly as if they had laid down their lives on the battlefield.

We enjoy freedom and security in Texas today because brave and devoted men were willing to sacrifice everything, even life itself, to obtain them for us.

One hundred years of freedom and independence in Texas will be rounded out in 1936. And a long era of freedom and independence stretches before us in the future. All of this has been the fruit of the sacrifices of the men of 1836.

We are now facing the question of whether we shall pay due homage to the memory of those men in 1936. Can there be any doubt about the answer to that question? You will be called upon to answer it by your vote on the Texas Centennial Constitutional Amendment.

Vote with the knowledge that "the eyes of Texas are upon you," and you will vote as a Texan who knows what he owes the past, and who is proud of the heroic traditions of Texas.

Try this in your back yard some morning. If your life is very heavily insured and you have no further desire to prolong it, you have a very good chance of ending it all very suddenly by trying this stunt which the Gordon Troupe of equilibristas perform twice daily with Dill's Circus which is scheduled to give two performances at Ranger, Oct. 28. The management of Dill's Circus was very fortunate in securing the services of the Gordon Troupe as they were contracted for a summer engagement with a large European circus and were persuaded to cancel and remain in the States. From the dizzy heights of the big-top, the Gordons perform feats of balancing that actually seems to defy all laws of gravitation.

T. & P. Offering Reduced Fares for Armistice Day
 Special Correspondent.
 DALLAS, Oct. 25.—Unprecedented in the annals of railway passenger transportation, the Texas & Pacific railway is offering drastically reduced round-trip rates for a mammoth Armistice Day excursion from all points on all Texas & Pacific trains departing Nov. 11 and 12, allowing three full days at destination of desired.

While there have been many requests for an excursion of this type, the ridiculously low round-trip rates are being offered in the nature of an experiment," Mr. Jensen said. "The experiment is based on the theory that a sufficient volume of business can be created to enable the railroads to justify such reductions."
 From Ranger the round-trip rate to El Paso is only $4.50 and to Dallas and Fort Worth it is only $4.50. Pullman car fares have been reduced for this occasion also, and children will be carried for half the adult fare.
