A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SEEK TODAY: Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near.—Isaiah 55: 6.

LOANS MADE BY R. F. C.

In the three months ending with September the Reconstruction Finance Corporation approved 3109 business loans carrying $359,588,447. Since the corporation was organized $185,000,000 has been repaid. At the same time the relief organization has let applications for $44,000,000. Loans approved for the entire life of the corporation number 8235. Upwards of a billion dollars was loaned to banks and trust companies; $87,000,000 to building and loan associations; $75,000,000 to insurance companies; $83,000,000 to mortgage loan companies; $264,000,000 to American railroads; $405,000 to credit unions; $29,000,000 to federal bank banks; $2,000,000 to joint stock land banks; $2,000,000 to agricultural credit corporations and $12,000,000 to 17 livestock credit corporations. Speaking of relief loans, the total for three regional groups of Texas is now $1,832,000 in addition to the money applied for by Jewel P. Lightfoot, president of the state organization of community chests. All these are loans and not gifts. At least this was the intention of the administration and the congress and the eminent personages named as the personnel of the R. F. C. As for the federal farm loan board, it is said that the 12 federal land banks the first nine months of this year closed "about half a million dollars in loans per week." This volume is smaller than for previous years, "due is smaller than for previous years, "due in part to the low level of farm commodities and a shrinkage in the number of farm sales." According to a bulletin issued by the board, the 12 banks in the last three years have made loans to 34,000 farmers aggregating $130,000,000. Money makes the world go around.

DALLAS AGENCY TO BE LARGER THAN BANK ITSELF

Texas already has the chairman of the Board of the Ninth District of the Home Loan Bank of Little Rock; Texas has the president, executive vice president, second vice president and four of the board members of the Little Rock institution and Dallas is likely to get an agency also. It is said that the subscription record for the ninth district bank is the best in the nation. A reminder that Nathan Adams, one of the national directors, while in Washington, is said to have won national attention. Speaking of Adams, the Dallas banker, he was called to the city of Boston where he addressed the New England Bank Managing conference and declared that the federal home loan act should not be considered emergency legislation but an act filling a long wanted need. Discussing real estate credit, the Texan said it had been abused by the fact that many false theories were put into existence. His words: "Mortgages were guaranteed by many companies throughout the United States to an extent far beyond the value of the property. AND IT CAN BE LIKENED TO SOME EXTENT TO THE OLD DEPOSIT GUARANTEE LAWS OF STATES WHICH SOUGHT TO MAKE RESPONSIBLE ONE BANKER FOR THE DEBTS OF ANOTHER. IT IS A FALSE THEORY. The loans of this country should be made upon the appraisal of the property within the reservation of the federal home loan bank act and when this is done and the proper length of time given, we shall see a wonderful change." Heavy loans on false valuations have played havoc with thousands, nay millions, the country over. Now after the horse has been stolen the stable door will be locked. Experience teaches not any drastic but costly lessons.

THOUSANDS BACK TO FARM IN OLD GEORGIA

Hundreds of families that left farms and flocked to tenements in Southern towns are going back to their cabins in the cotton regions of Georgia, where dirt and labor will produce food and fuel that city streets denied them, according to an Atlanta dispatch. Indeed, a noted Georgia business man reports "the greatest back-to-the-farm movement is in progress." There were thousands of abandoned farms in Georgia. Hundreds of people have been re-established on abandoned acreage. Less than 10 per cent of the rehabilitated families have asked for aid. Land is furnished rent free with the landlord working on the assumption a tenant is an investment "whether he pays rent or not." South Carolina communities are rehabilitating families under a similar system. All those assisted or who have joined the back-to-the-land movement are going to live—that is by raising their own food supply. If prosperity were ushered in tomorrow there would be millions of idle, men and women who lost their jobs for the very outstanding reason that the inventive genius of man took the jobs away from them by the introduction of machines in mills and mines and factories and accounting houses and all other fields of endeavor. An adjustment will have to be made in the future. As for the machine, it is here to stay.

TEXAS' PLANS FOR A SHORT BALLOT NOVEMBER 8 SPOILED

AUSTIN.—Texas' plans for a short ballot in the general election Nov. 8 have been defeated. The state legislature declared it a nuisance to print the names of 23 presidential electors for each party and ordered the names of the party candidates for president and vice president put on the ballot instead. Despite the statute, the names of electors are going on the ticket. The attorney general has held them necessary. The Texas ballot will contain democratic, republican, socialist, communist, Jacksonian and liberty party tickets. There will also be a blank column for independents. Though Speaker John Nance Garner is a candidate both for vice president and for re-election to congress, his name will be on the ballot but once. Neither U. S. senator's term expires this year, so that office is blank on the ballot. Three congressmen-at-large will be named to provide for the extra congressmen allowed under the last census, the legislature having failed to re-district the state. State offices to be filled by election include: Governor, lieutenant governor, one member of the state supreme court, one member of the court of criminal appeals, attorney general, state comptroller, state treasurer, state school superintendent, state land commissioner, state commissioner of agriculture and two state railroad commissioners. One of the rail commissioners will serve for six years, the other for four.

Hello Company Now Rated As Big Business

NEW YORK.—America's newest and oddest business — telephone answering — has become a giant. Two years ago it was nothing. Today it owns property valued at more than $1,000,000, employs 500 persons, and has thousands of customers. Three companies operate in Manhattan alone. There are other companies in 30 American cities. But already the prophets of the new enterprise are talking consolidations and mergers so the number is likely to be reduced. This is the way the business works. Mr. Jones telephones Mr. Brown to find out when he will pay that $16.75. When Mr. Brown's does not answer so a sweet voiced young woman answers for him. She has her instructions and tells Mr. Jones that Mr. Brown is out of town. "The telephone answering industry has made remarkable progress," said Sherman Amnden, president of the oldest New York company, "but we've got to have some stability. Right now, I'm working on a consolidation plan that ought to put the industry right up among them." Amnden's company has a dozen exchanges in various parts of New York. He serves more than 3,000 clients. (The entire industry has more than 10,000 customers.) The telephone line of each client is connected with one of the exchanges. Amnden's girls are not "operators" but "telephone secretaries." They will transact any business from awakening a client in the morning to ordering his groceries. The service costs $14 a month, $10.50 to the telephone answering company and $3.50 to the telephone company for additional wiring. Doctors and professional men are the largest users, although the customers include many others.

The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". DEPARTMENT STORES SHOW BIG INCREASE

AUSTIN.—So good was the showing made by Texas retail clothing and department stores for September that an elaboration of some of the factors involved should be presented in order fully to bring out the extent of the improvement in sales during the month, it was pointed out in the report of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"To begin with, the increase in sales from August to September was far above that which should normally be expected at this season of the year," the bureau's report said. "During the four years from 1927 to 1930, the average increase from August to September was 31 per cent, and last year the gain was only 24 per cent. This year, sales of the 99 retail clothing and department stores reporting to the bureau were 37 per cent higher than in August—a seasonal improvement almost twice as large as might be expected on the basis of experience in the past five years, especially since more than seasonal gains were also made in August."

"This extra-seasonal gain was reflected in a sharp improvement in the comparisons of sales for September with those for September a year ago. Though sales are still in the 'minus' column as compared with last year, the decline has shrunk from 27.2 per cent in August to only 7.9 per cent in September, a showing particularly noteworthy in the light of the fact that prices in department and clothing stores on Oct. 1 were 15.8 per cent lower than on the corresponding date a year ago according to the Fairchild retail price index.

"Enthusiasm over the good showing as compared with a year ago should be tempered by the knowledge that last September was a distressing month in Texas—it was the beginning of a financial panic in the state which resulted in the failure of 33 banks during one month, a shock which exerted a powerful influence upon all Texas business and, as pointed out above, affected department store sales to the extent that somewhat less than the usual seasonal improvement was realized. The unusual improvement during September this year, however, was enough to reduce the decline in dollar value of cumulative sales for the year-to-date from 28.8 per cent for the eight months ending with August, to 26.1 per cent for the nine months ending with September.

"If the percentage declines in sales as compared with a year ago in the 12 federal reserve districts were arrayed in ascending order showing the smallest relative decline first, the Dallas federal reserve district in one month shifted from ninth place to first—from a decline as compared with a year ago of 28 per cent in August to only 7 per cent in September.

"Since the decline in dollar value of sales was not nearly so great as the drop in prices as compared with a year ago, it follows that the department and clothing stores reporting to the bureau enjoyed an increase in volume especially to be desired now because of the need to get more goods actually into the hands of customers in order to save the way for new production and employment in those industries supplying stores with goods. It remains to be seen whether this sudden gain, as shown by the extra-seasonal improvement, was due to increase actual or potential purchasing power because of the recent improvement in prices of agricultural products and to the fact that workers on payrolls have been increasing in Texas during the past two months, or whether consumers have reached the point where buying may no longer be delayed.

"The extent to which the improvement in sales may be attributed to the recent improvement in agricultural prices may best be pointed out by mentioning the cities in which the seasonal gains from August to September were larger than the average for the state and in which increases are shown as compared with September a year ago. These cities are Abilene, Austin, Corsicana, Lubbock and Dallas; Waco was only one per cent below last year. The next cities, Beaumont, Galveston, and Port Arthur, and the other remaining interior cities included in the Bureau's service, although they sharply reduced their declines in sales as compared with last year, were still in the 'minus' column.

"Some indication of the type of buying which was done during September may be gleaned from a study of the relative changes in sales by types of stores. That a large share of the business was in clothing as opposed to the specialized lines carried in department stores may be interpreted from the fact that whereas women's specialty shops showed a gain as compared with September a year ago and men's clothing stores were short by only 2 per cent as their sales in September last year, department stores having an annual volume of over $500,000 each made the poorest showing with a decline of 12 per cent, as compared with an average drop for the 99 stores of only 7.9 per cent.

"There was some improvement in collections during September, although they are still slower than last year. The ratio of collection to outstanding accounts during September for the 73 stores reporting credit information to the bureau was 31.9, as compared with 28.8 in September last year and 24 in August. However, a slightly larger proportion of the total September business was for cash than during the corresponding month a year ago. Whereas the ratio of

MA FERGUSON MAY BREAK MANY RECORDS

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent, AUSTIN.—If Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson is inaugurated governor of Texas on Jan. 17, a number of records will be broken.

She will have received more votes than any other woman.

She will be the first woman elected governor of a state.

She will have enforced her candidacy twice by a supreme court ruling.

She will be the first woman to move into the Texas governor's mansion three times.

She will be the first democratic candidate whose party opponent bolted.

She will have attended four inaugurations. Two of them have been the inaugurations of her husband. Two will have been her own.

Her two daughters are the only children of governor parents on both sides, both living.

Many Ups and Downs. The ups and downs of the Fergusons, Miriam A. and James E., have formed an interesting part of the political history of Texas. Strangely enough, their races have become intermingled with national party matters.

When James E. Ferguson, Temple banker and Bosque county farmer, decided to run for governor of Texas in 1914, President Woodrow Wilson endorsed his opponent, Tom Ball of Houston. Cannelly, Ferguson refrained from attacking President Wilson, then in the height of his popularity. He passed it off with the remark that the president was too busy with other matters to know personally of the situation in Texas and was badly advised by Texans in Washington. Ferguson won. Later, after Ferguson's impeachment, when he organized the American party and became its candidate for president, Ferguson let loose the resentment he felt toward President Wilson.

Cite Old Appeal. Opponents now are citing his attacks of that date in answer to his appeals for democrats not to be "bored" from the party this year. For this year Mrs. Ferguson, democratic nominee, is relying on the likelihood of democrats voting the ticket straight to pull her through a tight general election. Vote for Roosevelt, Garner and Mrs. Ferguson, is the slogan.

Texas' peculiar primary election law has at times helped and at times hindered Mrs. Ferguson's efforts to be governor. This law gives the nomination only to a candidate with a majority vote. If none has a majority in the first primary, another is held a month later with all but the two high eliminated.

"Vest Pocket" Vote. A so-called "vest-pocket vote," which always goes for the Fergusons, Pa and Ma, puts them into the second primary. But then they encounter the combined opposition of a group of defeated candidates.

No bitter has been the opposition that Mrs. Ferguson was the first governor since reconstruction days to be seriously endangered by a republican candidate for governor.

In 1924, Dr. George Butte, University of Texas professor, received approximately 294,000 votes on the republican ticket, and Mrs. Ferguson beat him by only 127,000.

This year the republicans again are making a strenuous campaign with O'Connell, Wellington, Wichita Falls oil man, as their nominee. Gov. Ross S. Sterling, whom she defeated for the democratic nomination by 3,333 votes, according to democratic committee count, says he really won the nomination, has bolted and is expected to support Hullington.

Texas headquarters of the national democratic campaign and State Democratic Chairman Maury Hughes of Dallas have both issued calls to "vote straight," so seriously do they consider the situation.

Simmons Will Play T. C. U. On Friday Night

ABILENE, Nov. 1.—Smarting from the upset of their defeat at the hands of the Southwestern Pioneers, the Simmons University Cowboys returned to home camp this week in an ugly and desperate mood to await with determination the coming of one of the Southwest's most powerful machines—the T. C. U. Horned Frogs—whom they meet here Friday night.

The Cowboys will have something to do besides wait, however. Coach Leslie Cranfill is going to send his men through the most strenuous week they have had this year. The Simmons mentor knows that the greatest task before his men will be to try to stop the powerful team that beat Baylor 27-0 last week, a machine that has rolled up 218 points in a season of unbeaten play while the opposition was getting 17.

Last year the Cowboys were able to hold the charging Frogs to one lone touchdown, made in the last minute of play. Can they repeat the miracle? Will be the question in the minds of West Texans here Friday night. They know that the Cowboys always put up their best exhibition against more powerful opponents, but they also know that T. C. U. this year has credit sales to net sales in September last year was 62.3, this year it was 61.6. Cash sales increased 2 per cent in volume.

As thrilling as a movie drama—with swift airplanes, cryptic codes and the mysterious mention of Europe's famed "war king"—playing their parts—was the flight of Samuel Insull, fallen Chicago public utilities magnate, who was arrested in Athens, Greece. Efforts are now being made to effect his return to America to stand trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement of huge sums.

From a master of billions and emperor of a public utilities empire that spanned 32 states, Insull descended swiftly to the status of an international fugitive with officers of several European countries on his trail at the request of Chicago prosecutors.

In the meantime, there flowed to him and his son, Samuel Insull, Jr., a series of cablegrams in a mysterious code, filed in Chicago by John F. O'Keefe, former confidential secretary to the elder Insull.

The elder Insull, it is recalled, left Chicago last June, shortly after the failure of his three principal investment companies, and retired to Paris to live on a pension of $8,000 a year. His son joined him in Paris three weeks later, having left Chicago suddenly about the time prosecutors began to dig deeply into the affairs of his father's bankrupt companies.

On Oct. 3—the day before Insull, Sr., was indicted in Chicago—O'Keefe sent to him in Paris a code cablegram which has been translated as follows:

"Samuel Insull should not comply with any request or demands for return Stop Have told John P. Wilson that I cannot consent in reduction of service annuity without your consent following conference with Samuel Insull, Jr. Stop Gilbert E. Porter Stop Samuel Insull Jr., has coke."

(Porter is a Chicago attorney—"Service annuity" is believed to refer to Insull's $18,000 pension.)

On Oct. 4, Insull and his son checked out of their Paris hotel and took a train for Turin, Italy. The second mysterious cablegram was addressed to Samuel Insull, Jr., at Turin, and when decoded, read:

"Gilbert E. Porter says advices from Washington state no extradition treaty with Greece George A. Cook says no existing treaty between Greece and United States but one being negotiated Stop This makes extradition impossible Stop Advise domicile there Stop Greek steamship is Greek territory."

Insull and his son proceeded to the greatest team in its history.

Regardless of the answer, West Texas will see in action Friday night at the Simmons stadium a team that is unanimously favored to fight it out with Texas University for the Southwest championship, and a team that always has and will prime itself to the highest fighting pitch for the invaders.

Army Has High Hopes For New Football Coach

Army's football coach for the 1933 season will be Lieut. Gar Davidson, 26, the youngest ever to hold that position, and West Point people have high hopes for his success.

Davidson is a good-looking chap with quiet manners and plenty of personality. His selection as varsity football coach surprised football fans on the outside, but to West Pointers it came as a logical and proper procedure.

Gar Davidson will continue to use the Warner system now in vogue at the Point. He will be up against a terrific assignment next season because much of the current West Point stadium will have graduated by next fall.

Passing of the present football regime at the Point will cause regret among newspaper men in the East. The big three of the current Army Philip Fleming, Major Ralph Sasse and Captain Walter H. Wells. Fleming is athletic director, Sasse is varsity football coach, and Wells is intelligence officer. The latter title is an army term for the public relations counsel or press agent.

Of the three Cappy Wells is best known outside of army circles. He has the tact that any good press agent needs, and is ingratiating only to the proper degree.

West Texas C. of C. Urges Improvements From Relief Fund

By United Press.

STAMFORD, Texas. — West Texas cities that receive federal relief funds through the applications recently filed by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce with Governor Sterling are being urged to use part of the funds in the creation of work relief that would advance the West Texas beautification program.

President Wilbur C. Hawk, of the regional chamber and Chairman Houston Harte of the beautification committee have made such a suggestion in a communication to the directors and chairman of local beautification committees.

Quoting the letter: "Your city soon should receive the federal relief funds for which it recently made application through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The West Texas applications have been approved by Governor Sterling and sent to the reconstruction finance corporation for its approval.

"These funds are to be used by your community for the relief of destitution and distress. The government is desirous of seeing it used—wherever practicable—for work relief rather than for direct relief. Our distressed people in West Texas are of the type that resent direct charity. They want employment—not alms. So the recommended policy of the government is ideal for our West Texas situation.

"The spending of these funds in your city affords an excellent opportunity not only to give employment to those who need it, but to get something worth while in return for the money.

"Therefore we urge that your city use at least part of the funds in conducting a cleanup and beautification campaign. This will create labor which can be paid for from these funds."

Texas Turkeys To Be Marketed Early This Year

By United Press.

FORT WORTH.—Feathers will fly in poultry marketing centers of Texas this month as 10,000 persons prepared the first of 1,000 varieties of picked turkeys for Thanksgiving day dinner, tables from Maine to Washington.

The Thanksgiving season shipment will bring approximately $8,000,000 to Texas growers, according to pre-season estimates. Prices will not be known until the market opens about Nov. 8. A 15 per cent increase has been predicted in the crop, which may react adversely on the market.

The 20-pound roasted-brown bird that was the crowning glory of the Thanksgiving day dinner table a decade ago will be scarce this year.

The average American household will buy a lighter bird. Whether the depression or the decrease in size of the average family is to blame, E. N. Holmgren, Texas A. & M. college poultry husbandman, is not certain.

"Turkey dealers are finding they are as out of date as the old ranchers were with the longhorn steer," said Holmgren. "The lighter fowls will be the only ones with a market in the near future."

"Since Thanksgiving will be several days earlier than usual the state speakers should be shipped so as to reach the market before Nov. 15," warned John B. Collins of the Fort Worth Poultry and Egg company. "It will take at least six days for a car to reach New York."

Birds for Christmas and New Year dinner parties will bring total carload shipment from Texas to about 1,600, marketed by Stanley director of trade and promotion division of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

A fund of $25,000 has been allotted by the federal farm plan for a Thanksgiving turkey pilot according to the Poultry Producers association, San Antonio.

A cash advance, varying with the market price, will be paid growers when their birds are weighed in and graded at buying plants or receiving stations, the balance of the sale price will be made when the pulps are closed.

Similar pools are expected to operate during the Christmas and New Year seasons also.

Texas produces over 20,000 turkeys annually, more than any other state, according to Holmgren. The total crop averages 31 turkeys per farm. North Dakota and Minnesota rank next in production areas.
