WEATHERFORD PLAYS RANGER ON THURSDAY

The Weatherford Junior College Cayotes will invade Lillard field on Thursday afternoon to play the Ranger Junior College Texas Rangers in the fourth game of the season for the Rangers. Previous games have shown that the Rangers have a strong defensive team, and one that is dangerous at all times on the offense, though they have won but one game, tied one and lost one.

In their last appearance on the local field the Rangers held the McMurry College Indians to a scoreless tie, neither team being able to gain much ground against the strong defense against which they worked, but both turning in a good exhibition of football, the juniors holding the senior college in check so well that they never penetrated the 20 yard line.

The Cayotes are rated as one of the strongest junior college teams in the district, having defeated John Tarleton and having suffered their only defeat at the hands of the Decatur Baptist College which is acknowledged as probably the best team in its class in the state.

The Cayotes will be without the services of Roy Gracey, according to information received here today, as Gracey suffered a broken leg in an earlier conflict and will probably be out of the game with Ranger, though he is showing rapid improvement. The break was a minor one and probably would have been in better shape by now had Gracey not attempted to use it too soon.

The starting line-up shows that the Cayotes will have a little advantage in weight, the break being unusually heavy in the line and light and shifty in the backfield, which has proved to be a good combination. The lightest man in the line is playing at left end and weighs 170 pounds, while one weighs 180, two weigh 190, and 115 the heaviest weighing 220 pounds.

The probable starting lineup of the Cayotes, with their weights, numbers and the numbers of the substitutes follow:

COUNSEL IS ASSURED IN DEBT PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Counsel was assured President Hoover, as the administration today sought a solution of the impasse resulting from Europe's requests for war debt revision.

President-elect Roosevelt telegraphed Mr. Hoover he would be glad to talk over the debt problem with him at the White House. He indicated plainly, however, he did not propose to assume responsibility in advance of his accession to power on March 4.

"In the last analysis," Roosevelt pointed out, "the immediate question creates a responsibility which rests upon those now vested with executive and legislative authority."

Most congressional leaders declare America, facing a billion dollar deficit in its budget, cannot cancel or even postpone payment of Europe's debts.

Yet in the minds of some economists there is doubt as to the wisdom of forcing debtors to default if they cannot pay. Some officials feel default might endanger international credit everywhere.

Penney Employees Enjoy Banquet
The pre-Thanksgiving banquet by the J. C. Penney store representatives, Monday evening in the Ranger store was a decided success. Eastland Rotary Club Hears Good Musical Program

The Eastland Rotary club enjoyed a fine program of music at their luncheon, Monday at noon, on Connelley roof. The program chairman for the day, Carl Bender and Carl Angstadt, presented Wilda Drago, violinist, and Wanda Drago Beall of San Angelo, pianist, in exquisite rendition of musical scores, to Joyce Kilmer's "The Losses," and the ever popular "The Rose Tree." Both musicians are established artists, and greatly appreciated by their audiences.

A classification talk by Carl Angstadt brought items concerning the oil well supply business, and the interesting statement that it was Angstadt's twentieth anniversary that day, Monday, with the Jarecki company.

President James Horton appointed as program chairman for next Monday Sam Gamble and Ben Hammer and stated Sid Patzer, vice president, would preside at the meeting in his absence.

L. M. Smith of Plainview, visiting Rotarian, was the luncheon guest of Curtis Hertzig.

Air travel was paralyzed in much of the territory. Highways were rapidly drifting fast. Traffic on city streets moved slowly in many places. Sleet added to the hazards of travel, freezing into icy sheets as it struck the pavement.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MAKE YOUR CHOICE: Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is there will your heart be also.—Matthew 6: 19-21.

FARMER SEED LOANS FOR NEXT YEAR

Now it is announced that a survey of farmers' needs for credit is being made by Owen W. Sherill, regional director of the farmers' seed loan office for the Southwest, of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, looking toward possible continuance of seed loans next year. Meanwhile, it is said, payments on 1932 loans and unpaid balances on 1931 loans are coming into the Dallas office at a rapid rate, the total thus far repaid being $1,339,254.45. Many farmers are collateralizing their loans with cotton, on the basis of 9 cents per pound for middling seven-eighths inch staple.

This from the pen of Arthur Brisbane should close the seed loan story: "Take away the farmer, who transforms the earth's fertility into food, and civilization would crumble. His farm, absolutely necessary to life itself, is the work most poorly rewarded. The world rides on the farmers' back and shows little gratitude for the patient efforts on which it relies. The farmer is the foundation of civilization and has been ever since human beings ceased their existence as nomadic tribes, wandering from place to place, looking for fresh pastures and game supplies."

And the Old Alcald told it all when he said, "Civilization begins and ends with the plow." Perhaps the growers of things will write a new declaration of independence in the agricultural states of this republic on the eighth day of November.

MACDONALD AND ACREAGE CONTROL PLAN

Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. MacDonald has let it be known that the Texas lawmakers in fourth called session would not be asked to consider correction of the Texas cotton acreage control law which was held unconstitutional by a district court. He volunteered the information that Texas cotton leaders are now working out a new plan which will involve both congressional and state legislation for a rearrangement of agricultural credits and consequent control of agricultural production. He continues to be positive that regulation of cotton production is just as inevitable as is regulation of oil production. Well, the lawmakers are grinding. Petroleum is uppermost. Now it is said a bill will be drafted calling for proration subject to market demand and economic waste. Texas is the greatest of petroleum producing states. Texas is the greatest of natural gas producing states. It should be possible to enact legislation that will conserve the natural resource treasure wealth of this commonwealth.

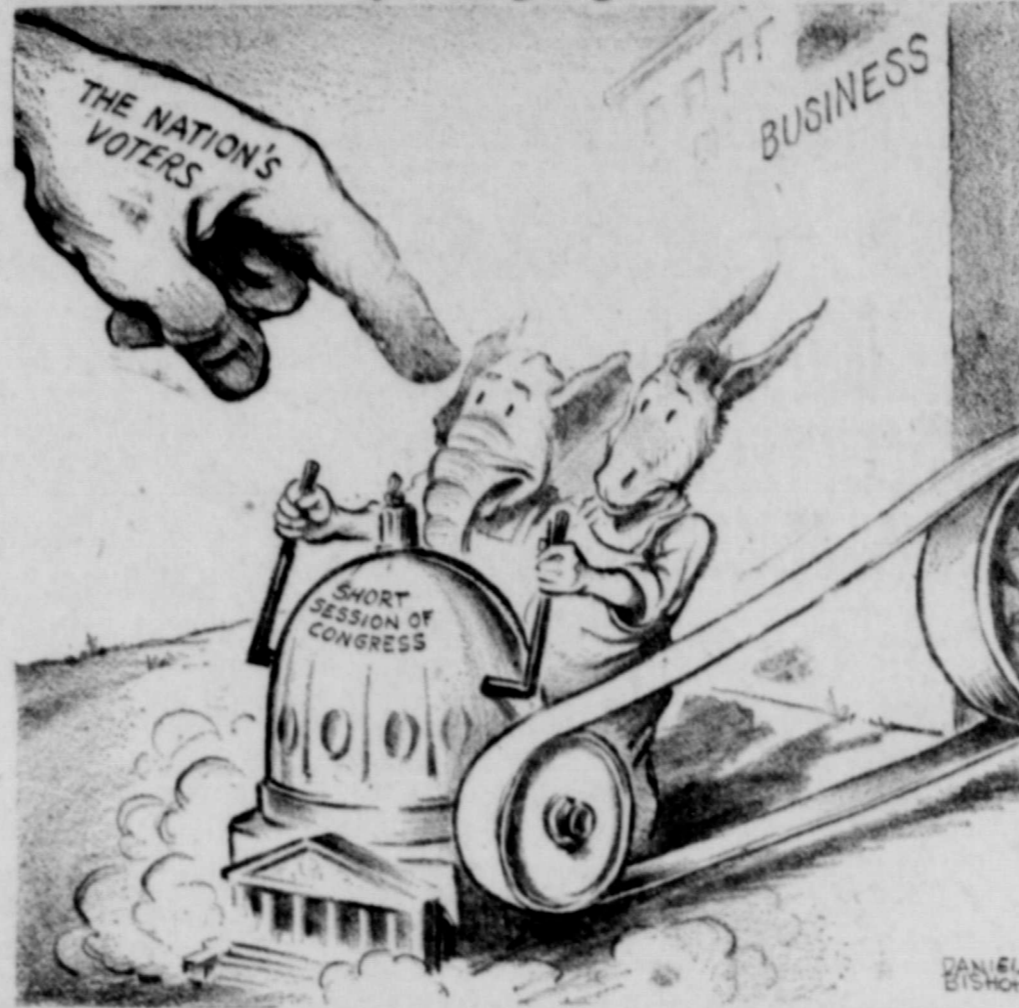

NEW YORK BANKERS FRIGHTEN TIGER

New York bankers hold the purse strings of the greatest of cities. They warned the board of estimates of the Tiger town they would decline to advance a loan of $15,000,000 unless sweeping cuts were made in the budget, high salaries were given sweeping reductions and the cost of government cut to the bone. What happened? The Tammany board of estimates promptly lopped off $49,750,000, made sweeping cuts in their own salaries, and 128 city-owned limousines were eliminated from the taxpayers' bill. A famous banker headed the committee of financiers. He bluntly told the political leaders, rather the office holders, that these reductions had to be made else "the already crumbling market for municipal securities would disappear and the city credit would be destroyed." There appears to be a way to force office holders to cut to the bone, toss out the dead timber and keep the expenditures of a municipality within its income.

SENATOR KENDRICK A HAPPY MAN

Senator John B. Kendrick of Wyoming is said to be one of the happiest of men. This former Texan is the democratic leader of the Rocky Mountain state. Wyoming returned a large majority for Roosevelt and Garner. Kendrick and his lieutenants led the democrats and progressives to victory. While they were about it, they won repeal of the pro state enforcement act by a very decisive majority. Away back in territorial days a Wyoming legislature gave the ballot to women. Indeed, Wyoming paved the way for the coming of the 19th amendment and the political emancipation of woman. Now a majority of the voters of the commonwealth have declared for repeal of the enforcement act and a revision of the Volstead act as well as a return to state control of a problem that was not a burning issue in the late campaign and election but resulted in the overwhelming defeat in a large majority of the states of ultra-pro candidates for major or minor office. It is said that "the voice of the people is the voice of God." Now the ultra-pros are not in entire harmony with the ancient maxim. Is it or isn't it?

Fired First U. S. Shot in War

On Oct. 23, 1917, the first American shot of the World War was fired. Fifteen years later, Staff Sergeant Thomas L. Wurster, shown above with his family, told of being a member of the crew that pulled the heavy French 75 all night through the mud, of arguing with a French commander to permit the shot in a sector where hostilities had been quiet, and then of aiding in sending that first U. S. projectile screaming back of the enemy lines near Rechicourt. Wurster is now stationed at Schofield barracks at Honolulu.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma
J. C. HOWERTON, Editor of the Cuero (Texas) Record, says:
THAT newspaper advertising will ever play an important part in the business world. It's a business getter when times are good. It's the "life saver" when business is slow.
One doesn't start coasting when he approaches the hill. And the wise man will take the same attitude in regard to newspaper advertising when business conditions are not at their best. To cut down newspaper advertising when the customers are passing you up could never be listed under the head of "economy." It's nothing less than plain business suicide.
In fact, newspaper advertising is the one cure for sick stock which has been "laid up" for some time. In the small town it is perhaps more valuable than in the city, for each and every ad in the small town paper is a personal message to the housewife, to the wage earner who is ever on the alert for values. It's "a record in black and white." It's a necessity!
Many railroads, hotels, and chambers of commerce in the United States have been pushing "See America First" campaign. Canada has drawn many visitors to that wonderful country by attractive advertising. Panama, Cuba, British Guiana and British West Indies attract many tourists to those beautiful countries by the same methods.
The movement in the United States is to impress people with the beauties of their own country, and we are glad to note a sort of mild amazement among people who usually spend time and money in Europe and neglect seeing their own country or neighboring countries in America.
It is becoming known to many Americans that the United States has riches in scenic and historic form of which they never dreamed.
We cannot imagine the time when Travel will cease to fling her allurements to all, but travel, to be satisfying, must be carried with judgement and a dash of sincerity.
To travel in Europe just because it is Europe is sinning against your own land and your own sense of values.
Consider the bee who is so busy making honey that he forgets to get out of the way of an automobile radiator.

Cows and Jobs Aiding Students In Texas Schools

By SAM D. HALES, United Press Staff Correspondent.
DALLAS.—Earnest young Texans who want college educations but haven't any or enough money for the necessities have turned to several new types of part time work this fall.
The working college boy is traditional college orchestras are familiar and student magazine-selling has been joked about but those and other usual types of student work have been eclipsed by some found in a United Press survey.
The Parker county farm boy who brought his cows to Weatherford college, staked them nearby and sold milk and butter to pay his bills, inspired a number of imitations. The survey shows he has imitators at four schools.
Five students at Howard Payne college, Brownwood, have cows and running dairies. Six others are selling home-cured meat to help pay their way. Several others sell home-canned products. Two boys at Baylor university, Waco, brought cows from home and are paying for their meals in a private home with the milk and butter.
Several students at John Tarleton college, Stephenville, have individual dairy herds and poultry flocks. Others there are feeding hogs and beef cows for the market. A group of Texas Technological college boys are paying their way by operating the college farm and dairy on the old XIT ranch.
One Austin college (Sherman) student runs his own cleaning and pressing plant. Countless others in nearly all institutions act as laundry agents.
One Texarkana junior college student drives a bus, another works for a telephone company and a third is a newspaper reporter. One Baylor university student is a city fireman after classes. At Abilene Christian college, the roster includes a shoe-repairer, a chauffeur, an electrician, several tutors and several students caring for children.
University of Texas students work in many state offices and one or two are members of the legislature. Some of them used to sleep in the treasury department as guards for the vault.
Part time ministers, barbers, bookkeepers, stenographers, instructors, graders, waiters, filling station operators, janitors, and odd-job boys among students run into the thousands.
Practically all the colleges have employment services or exchanges. These provide students for such work as lawn-mowing, chimney-repairing, picture hanging, fence-straightening and almost any other task an ambitious energetic boy or girl can do.

Smugglers' Planes Are Confiscated

By United Press.
SEATTLE.—For years your federal government has been confiscating automobiles used by smugglers and others, but not until this week—in the northwest, at least—has Uncle Sam confiscated airplanes on the count of smuggling.
Two airplanes, belonging to Van Bessell and Alfred Waterbury, were ordered forfeited, following trial of the men for smuggling aliens from Canada to the United States. Each machine was valued at $1,500.

Search for Famed Lost Mine Holds Interest for Many

EL PASO.—Search for the famed "Lost Padre" mine, extolled in legend as one of the richest ever discovered, was unday-way here today.

Seven men are digging in the recesses of Mount Franklin, at the edge of the northern city limits, about seven miles from the center of El Paso. They are employed by Mrs. Marguerite Hubbard, an El Paso woman who believes "that's gold in them thar hills."

Her "Lost Padre" claim and two others, the "Alladin" and the "Hornblende," adjoining it on either side, have been registered in the El Paso county claim award records.

Mrs. Hubbard said that an old Indian medicine man of Juarez told her about the abandoned shaft on the mountain in June. After a long search, she found the opening, she said.

She said that after digging 27 feet down the supposed abandoned shaft, her men came to a solid slab, which took 100 sticks of dynamite to blast out. At a 32-foot depth the shaft turned at an angle, and there were stone posts at five feet intervals.

Mrs. Hubbard showed reports of two assays that she said were made of specimens taken from the mine. The reports from an El Paso assay office showed $3,527 gold per ton and $3.56 silver in one assay.

WAR HERO --- PEACE VICTIM

WINNER OF NATION'S HIGHEST AWARD FINDS MISFORTUNE IN CIVIL LIFE Above, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barger with their children, Mabel Louise, 4, and J. E. 8; right, Barger in uniform wearing some of the decorations he won for valor.

By NEA Service
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 15. A Congressional Medal of Honor hangs at the home of Charles Barger here for his exploits in the Argonne along with valor medals from other nations and citations of bravery from the United States government.

But Barger looks at the medals, glances at his 8-year-old son, J. E. and remarks:

"I would rather see the boy in a penitentiary than see him take part in the kind of a war I was in."

Barger is one of the nation's unfortunate heroes. He went to war along with his two brothers. The brothers were killed. Barger came back decorated with the nation's highest honor for his rescue of a company commander and two other buddies under shell fire. He was cited for a single-handed raid of a German machine gun nest, where he had gone to rescue a captured comrade. After the war came misfortune.

Barger joined the Kansas City police department. In a shooting affray with a robber he was seriously wounded and had to leave the police department. His two children, J. E. and Mabel Louise, were seriously ill. His wife became ill. Bills piled up.

Barger could get no work. The war tension plus subsequent worries had undermined his stout nerves. He could not hold some of the jobs offered him. Furniture dealers started to remove his unpaid for furniture. A kindly landlord gave him a rent-free home to live in and just a month ago he was given a night watchman's job at $18 a week. The government gives him $18 a month.

Barger will take no part in the Armistice Day celebration because he is not the "flag waving kind," but he might go to war again if the country was threatened with invasion.

"Not across the water to protect other nations."

He thinks the bonus should be paid in full, right away. Of disarmament he says:

"I think the United States should use every resource possible to protect its own soil. Let the other nations take care of themselves. The last war showed the ill effects of disarmament."

His greatest worry now is how he is going to save enough money from his night watchman's job to pay off the debts he has contracted through the long siege of illness and injury that has visited his family.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

This column is used as a feature and should not be construed as representing the editorial views of the paper. The expressions contained in the column are the views of one individual and do not reflect the policy of the paper.

The modern girl has been weighed in the balance and found wanting everything she sees. That fact is a tragedy within itself. It is a result of what has been, a futile desire for what might be, and a hope for better things to come . . . and there you have the modern girl. But is she, after all, such a hopeless personality? This careless, care-free, thoughtless creature declared without reason and ideal . . . deep within herself a perfect mass of standards, ideas, plans, and brains. She's thinking hard all the time she's looking with those eyes heavy with mascara, and she's meditating on the what and wherefore of life she's welding a lipstick with such care and precision. Why, look what she's done; jammed right in the middle of business affairs, taken the airplane out of man's clumsy hands and hiked off across the ocean, walked into the greater newspaper offices of the land and told Mr. Editor how to get the news and write it up, led the city cops in the mystic ways of detectives, and stepped into Texas' governor's chair. All because she weighed herself and discovered what she wanted . . . everything.

We are a generation of imitators. We raise and lower our skirts according to Madame Fashion, and do the same to our trousers as Monsieur Style wishes. It has always been so since mother wore bustles and hats and dad balanced a derby and swallowed beneath a celluloid collar. Aha, and she pinched her cheeks to make them rosy and he wore a vest to match them . . . and why? Because it was fashionable.

There is another subject of imitation; mannerism. This is born of one or two things in most instances, attraction or envy. When a man or woman is attracted to some personality it is only natural to copy the most outstanding and interesting characteristics of that person. The imitation is never equal to the original because it is not natural. The same is true when envy is present. He or she who feels inferior hopes to gain charm and attraction through mimicry. It is seldom effective. Every personality is separate and apart from another through individual mannerisms. Adopted ones are never so graceful. The idea is: Be yourself.

Playhouses are the most serious bones on earth. They are the ideals of childhood, which, if kept alive, will develop into realities and make life a little more worth the living. That little lady on your back porch setting her tiny table so carefully and washing behind her dolly's ears is the American housewife of tomorrow . . . and if she continues her maturing perfection she'll be a model one. Maybe one cause for so many divorces today is the fact that the wives spent their childhood scaling trees and forgot when to stop climbing when they hit the social world. The world needs grown-up mud-pie makers and less skaters and bicycle riders, forever on wheels.

Mailing Schedule For Christmas Is Now Worked Out

HOUSTON.—Along about this time of year Fred C. Rogers' telephone rings and he hears questions like this:

"When must I mail a package so it will reach my papa in Germany by Christmas?"

The queries come from all parts of Southeast Texas, says Rogers, who is assistant manager of the district office of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

With Christmas just around the corner, Rogers has compiled a mailing schedule for the convenience of persons sending gifts abroad. It follows, in part:

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowels muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every step. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

Prison Football Basic Idea For "Hold 'Em Jail" Comedy

The thought of a prison football team is funny enough to begin with. But when it is carried out to the extreme in absurd equations, when the entire prison is given a collegiate atmosphere with bands, cheering sections and an enthusiastic alumni with quaint and original methods of obtaining new gridiron talent, the basic idea easily becomes a laugh riot.

Just how funny the whole nonsensical whim can be is demonstrated by the RKO-Radio picture, "Hold 'Em Jail," showing Tuesday at the Lyric theatre, with Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Edna Oliver and Roscoe Ates in the leading roles.

The vehicle is the happiest selection possible for Wheeler and Woolsey. The picture is delightful non-sense which makes it at once ideal for the comics' unique style of fun-making.

There never was and never will be a prison like Bidemore penitentiary, which is where Wheeler and Woolsey land when they boast of their imaginary football prowess in a tough dive where the "scouts" for Bidemore are looking for talent.

Also, there never was a warden like Edgar Kennedy, who had a sister like Edna May Oliver, who had a niece like pretty Grable, who supplies that necessary "love interest" in collaboration with Wheeler.

Wheeler is presented as the "world's greatest athlete, the man who invented athletic's foot."

The stuttering Roscoe Ates is the Bidemore quarterback who heartlessly accepts a parole at a critical moment of the "big game" and nearly wrecks Bidemore's chances for the "Penitentiary Conference Championship."

The action and dialogue of "Hold 'Em Jail" races through the field of slapstick. By the time the play is built up to the scene of the big game on should reasonably be all steamed up over Bidemore's chances on the gridiron, although there never was a football game played that even remotely resembled this one.

Wheeler and Woolsey win for Bidemore but not until they have resorted to every device of the alert gag writers' minds.

Besides the antics of Wheeler and Woolsey and Miss Oliver and Ates, Edger Kennedy bids for plenty of howls as the futile and apologetic warden. Warren Hymer as a dumb cluck convict and Paul Hurst coach are also in the fun contest.

Many famous all-American football stars appear in the lineup of the prison teams, but whether they can be recognized made up as "tough mugs" is another matter.

Norman Taurog directed the picture from a story by Tim Wheeler and Lew Lipton, with continuity by Albert Ray and dialogue by Walter de Leon and S. J. Perelman.

Garner Invited to Reception In His Honor At Laredo

By United Press
LAREDO, Tex.—John Nance Garner, vice president-elect of the United States, has been invited to attend a grand international reception here in his honor any time he chooses before Dec. 1. The president of Mexico and governments of both Mexico and American States will be invited.

The Laredo Chamber of Commerce is arranging the reception. They are confident Garner will accept the invitation, extended to him before his election. It was in Laredo 10 years ago that he was first nominated for Congress, and the town is still in his district.

Snowbound Men Eat Ice Cream

DURANGO, Colo.—Snow-bound 10,488 feet above sea-level, while a western blizzard blew its best and mercury carried on an avil flirtation with zero, was a serious situation, but 10 bus passengers, who were marooned on Molas Pass recently, figured that misery was heaped upon them when the only food they had was ice cream.

The bus became stalled when Roy Wendell, the driver, could not break through the high drifts. Wendell backed his bus over a mile to a power company's relief station—maintained in the pass for just such an emergency.

After the passengers had been established in the relief cabin Wendell brought out the ice cream which was part of the express he was taking to Silverton.

Spoons were whittled from a piece of board and the marooned travelers enjoyed an old-fashioned ice cream social.

Fuel was another thing that gave the snowbound party several moments during the 12 hours before a rescue party arrived.

A coal supply, usually kept at the cabin, had been pilfered. Wendell had chopped up a box and a door and was starting on the table when the state highway tractor arrived.
