Capone Pleading for Release From Prison

HEAVY GUARD TAKES HIM TO COURT ROOMS

Thousands Stand In Rain To Get Glimpse Of Gangster.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 16.—Alphonse Capone, the former Chicago gang leader, pleaded in federal court today for a writ of habeas corpus that would free him from the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Still fast and not as carefully dressed as in his happier days, Capone seemed bored by the arguments of his attorneys for the writ that would free him from a 10-year sentence for income tax fraud.

Under the heaviest guard seen here in years, Capone was brought to the federal building through a back door. At the front of the federal building scores of persons stood in a beating rain in an effort to see the convict.

Ranger People Urged to Back College Game

Ranger Junior College plays its most crucial game of the season here on Lillard field tomorrow, Thursday, at 3:30, and the public is urged to back the Texas Rangers in their game with the Weatherford College Coyotes. Because of the Ranger-Brownwood game here on Friday afternoon, every effort was made to get the game with Weatherford Junior College at Weatherford or to play on some other date, but it was impossible to do so.

HIGH COURT HEARS MARTIAL LAW ARGUMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Gov. Ross Sterling's attempt to impose martial law in the East Texas oil fields, were described as "arbitrary and capricious" before the supreme court today by J. W. Bailey, Jr., counsel for the East Texas operators.

The supreme court took under advisement Sterling's appeal from the injunction of a three-judge federal court in Texas forbidding him to call out troops to enforce his orders limiting oil production. Sterling's representative at the time, Bailey said, admitted they were not attempting to carry out the civil law.

Bank Was Robbed Of All Its Cash

STINNETT, Texas, Nov. 16.—First State bank officials said today a final check of the bank's records showed that four bandits, who robbed the institution late yesterday, obtained only $1,200.

This, however, was every cent in the bank, they said. No trace of the bandits had been found at noon.

Cashier G. W. Newsome said the bandits threatened he would be killed if they were caught. The cashier was kidnapped but later released on a highway several miles from Panhandle.

Ranger Teachers To Meet Thursday

Eastland Lions Hear Discussions On Book Week

The Lions Club heard an interesting but informal program of discussion on Children's National Book Week at their noon luncheon presided over by Earl Woody, first vice president, in the absence of the president, G. M. Harper, who is on a deer hunt.

The program chairman, P. B. Bittle and Joe A. Gibson, had expected to present Laurant, the magician, but were disappointed at last moment, and engaged Rev. Frank Singleton, former pastor of the Methodist church of Eastland, for an address.

EX-WARDEN MAY BE SENT TO OLD PRISON

AUSTIN, Nov. 16.—Former Warden N. L. Speer, today had only a possible rehearing or executive clemency between him and a three-year term as a convict in the prison where he once was ruler. The board of criminal appeals affirmed his sentence on conviction of theft.

Speer, a former sheriff, was convicted of cashing a state fee warrant which had been erroneously drawn for $1,000 in excess of the amount to which he was entitled.

Beer Advocates See Forlorn Hope Of Repeal Soon

AUSTIN.—Beer advocates in the Texas legislature see only the forlorn hope of a peculiar wording of the 18th federal amendment. Texas has a constitutional amendment that will not be modified for many years at least, and the stringent Deane law that imposes prison sentences, liquor cases where the federal law provides only jail sentences or fines.

Krag Rifles Are "Just a Memory"

WASHINGTON.—The rifles which inspired that lusty Philippine campaign, "Civilize them with a Krag" said a memory in the army now, Maj. Gen. Samuel Hof, chief of ordnance, revealed in his annual report.

These rifles were used extensively at the time of the Spanish-American war and Philippine campaign. At the close of the World War the army still had 135,000. But Hof says all but 2,000 have been loaned or sold to individuals or veterans organizations and schools, the 2,000 are not in use.

Kansas Elects Her to Congress

A belief that lining up with women's organizations might not be effective caused Miss Kathryn O'Laughlin to seek out the male vote and she thereby became the first Kansas woman to go into Congress. She is a Democrat and a lawyer. Miss O'Laughlin, above, was raised on a western Kansas ranch. She studied law while she worked as a bookkeeper in her father's garage.

Good Crowd Hears Dr. Surface At Ranger Revival

In spite of the cold, a goodly company assembled last night at the Presbyterian Church in Ranger to hear the great sermon on "Faith," by Dr. E. B. Surface. A resume of the discourse appears here:

The speaker addressed the students of the high school. At one moment he would have the young people convulsed with laughter and the next moment so heard with a well spoken thought on the seriousness of life. His subject was "R. Natural." He had the pianist to strike that key on the piano, and from that proceeded to charm them with his wit and wisdom.

TWO CHILDREN BADLY BURNED WHILE PLAYING

DALLAS, Nov. 16.—Two children who had been playing "dead" in their back yard, were taken to a hospital today, probably fatally burned as a climax to their game. Physicians said Ricardo Garcia, 3, and his sister, Aurora, 2, were burned over their entire bodies and had little chance to live.

The two had been playing in a large wooden box, taking turns at burying each other in a quantity of leaves and trash it contained. Other children romped about the yard.

KEEPING TEXAS HOME FIRES BURNING

According to a bulletin issued weekly by the Progressive Texans, Inc., production by Texas cotton mills during September was unusually heavy and the increased activity brought about the reopening of three Texas mills that had been inactive . . . Tarrant county farm wives canned 1,108,869 containers of foodstuff during the year. It is estimated that Texas as a whole in 1932 put up more than 100,000,000 containers of foodstuffs from farms with a considerable sprinkling of home cured meats. . . . In one day recently, express shipments of Dallas-made wash dresses, hats and frocks, were made to 26 states. . . . There are 61 butter making plants in Texas, giving employment to 540 officers, salaried workers and wage earners receiving $745,339 annually. Using $8,489,444 worth of raw material, they produced goods valued at $11,043,201, adding $2,404,277 to the annual income of the state.

A box factory at Waco that was closed down in September has reopened with a payroll of 60 men. . . . A Progressive Texans bulletin "pointed out some weeks ago" that in industrial New England eggs and butter were bringing 22 cents and 23 cents a dozen and pound, respectively, when the same products were bringing seven cents and eight cents in Texas. This was the reason given: The essential difference between New England and Texas is industrial development. Texas has 156,000 industrial wage workers with an annual payroll of $200,000,000. New England, of less area and population, has 1,100,000 wage earners with an annual payroll of $1,345,000,000. Yes, and New England is not a producer of mineral wealth. It is not a producer of cotton or mohair. Massachusetts was the greatest of textile manufacturing states. Now the Carolinas have captured the prize. Massachusetts landed in the democratic column of states. Rhode Island, another manufacturing state, landed in the same column. New Hampshire missed the landing by less than 3000 majority, but defeated Senator George H. Moses for re-election. Connecticut, another industrial state, re-elected a democratic governor, elected a democratic United States senator and three of the four congressmen, yet it landed in the Hoover column by a majority of less than 7000.

Texas should be the great of all manufacturing states. It has all the minerals, all the clays. It has bituminous coal and lignite. It has all the raw materials and it is the largest producer of cotton and wool and mohair of any of the American commonwealths. For the first time in American history the growers of things in the agricultural states formed a political union and swept the nation. Now perhaps in the making of tariff laws the growers of things and the makers of things will be placed on a parity and then it will be accurately written into economic literature "There is no competition between industry and agriculture—indeed, they are complement to each other and both thrive best where both are fully developed, for the prosperity of the one is essential to the permanent prosperity of the other." On with the battle for greater industrial development in Texas until there will be no competition between the growers of the staples and all the raw materials and the makers or the manufacturers of the American world.

SPEAKING OF 'THE HAPPY DAYS TO COME'

According to the United Press writers, leaders of American business expressed relief at the conclusion of political uncertainty and belief that a single minded nation "may now proceed to consolidate recent economic gains and go forward toward prosperity." Indeed, the general tenor of opinions gathered by the United Press from representative bankers and industrialists was optimistic. It seemed to be agreed that the change in political administration will not halt an upward trend in economic conditions, although it was emphasized that cooperation from all parties and all classes will be essential from now until the return has been strongly demonstrated. Why not a long vacation for politics? Why not sweeping reform and redemption of the pledges made to the people by the winners from president to the smallest minor office in the precinct? Heaven help the administration that fails to track the pledges given by the major political party platform.

THE HAPPY WARRIOR SUGGESTS WISE PLAN

Alfred E. Smith is the editor of The Outlook magazine. In a recent editorial he appealed for abolition of the antiquated electoral college and the election of president by a direct popular vote. Very timely. Very democratic and a change that should be made. A president should be elected by a direct popular vote. This is a democracy. Why shouldn't the people and not the practical politicians rule in a democracy?

Beer-Conscious!

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma
A conductor on the Market Street Railway of San Francisco recently returned to its owner a pocketbook containing a large sum of money and papers. The wallet belonged to a passenger who hadn't the least idea where he had lost it, but, when he discovered his loss, he used good judgment and immediately put a classified ad in a local paper, describing what he had lost and giving his name and address. The conductor read the ad and immediately returned the pocket-book to the owner. He declined any reward with the remark, "This is just a part of my job." The little classified ad was the connecting link between the loser and the honest and courteous conductor. It is always interesting to read the classified ads—and profitable too. If you lose or find anything, if you have anything anyone else may want, or if you want anything someone else may have, use the classified ads.

Whatever the real situation or whatever the possibilities may be, there is no question about the state of mind and pocket-book of those thrown out of work by the economy drive.

Oregon's Lava Beds Graveyard For Old Fossils

By United Press
BEND, Ore.—Buried for thousands of years in lava beds of Eastern Oregon, 28 miles south of Harper, the fossilized remains of giant mammals, which roamed this section in the indistinct past have been unearthed by paleontologists. The beds, which first were brought to the attention of paleontologists by C. J. Bush, Harper, Ore., have yielded many valuable forms of creatures heretofore known only vaguely by scientists, and it is believed the discovery will be the inspiration for more acute searches of the fossil beds of Eastern Oregon.

Three Types of Horses
Three forms of horses, likened to those of Mid-miocene periods, two types of ancient deer and bear dogs, and huge mammals termed chalicotheres, gigantic animals having long curved claws instead of hoofs—used probably for digging roots, and water—have been found to date.

One Rhinoceros
Only one form of rhinoceros has been found. One of the types of three-toed horses, called merhippus isenensis, originally was found in the Mascall horizon. This species was about the size of a small pony, with two recumbent side toes and but one functional toe.

RARE FOSSIL FOUND

This practice is expressly prohibited by the radio act of 1927, section 18 of which places on licensees of broadcasting stations the obligation to treat all political candidates alike in granting them time to their radio facilities.

When the inquiry into broadcasting gets under way, several of the more inquisitive members of congress plan to ask the National Broadcasting company a number of questions concerning its finances.

It seems that the National Broadcasting company, despite its continually increasing revenues, is always reported that it was operating at a loss.

The feverish course of the campaign has opened the eyes of many members of congress, old and new, to the fact that the so-called American plan of broadcast commercial exploitation of the limited number of other channels for private profit does not and cannot be made adequately to serve the public interest.

Undoubtedly there will be a careful, impartial study of American broadcasting authorized by congress soon after it reassembles.

Governor Roosevelt, for example, was shut off the air just at the point when he was about to present the big points of his Portland address, and the millions who were listening in had to wait in exasperation until morning to read the peroration in their morning newspapers.

The national and state headquarters of the major parties were flooded with complaints from the typographical unions, protesting against the almost exclusive use of radio for advertising purposes.

DERRICK SHADOWS

Women amuse me. Perhaps that is because I am one myself and can safely criticize the sex. We adorn ourselves in tipping hats and guffed sleeves and troublesome veils.

Free Bridge May Hinge On An Old Indian Treaty

By WINSTON W. COPELAND. United Press Staff Correspondent DALLAS.—Whether an old Chickasaw Indian treaty made in 1876 still is valid is the question involved in the litigation and sensational maneuvers over operation of a free bridge across Red river north of Denison, Texas.

A copy of the Indian treaty, providing that no other means of conveyance shall be operated in the immediate vicinity of the toll bridge as long as the toll bridge exists, is owned by W. J. White, part-Indian from the Cherokee reservation in Georgia.

White, interested in the affairs of his race, carefully preserved the old treaty and the treaty creating the Chickasaw nation.

Last year, in violation of the treaty, Gov. William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, created nationwide attention when he personally supervised state militia in keeping open free bridge newly erected beside the toll span.

According to the Indian treaty a franchise was granted to B. F. Colbert by the Chickasaws to erect a toll bridge and "that the said B. F. Colbert, his heirs or assigns, shall have the right to exclude any and all corporations, companies and persons from building any toll bridge within two and one-half miles of the said bridge."

The Indians stipulated the price Colbert should charge should range from two and one-half cents a head on sheep, goats and hogs to 50 cents for a wagon drawn by one animal and $1.50 for a vehicle drawn by six animals. The Chickasaw nation as a separate political entity died with its absorption as a part of the state of Oklahoma in 1907.

Remember Only Medicine Helps A Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes.

Results are among the most extraordinary in medical science. On doctors' advice, millions are following this way—discarding old-time "washes" and "antiseptics."

Simple To Do. All you do is crush and dissolve three BAYER Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water. Gargle with it twice—see picture above. If you have any indication of a cold—before gargling take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles. Watch this when you buy.

NO TABLETS ARE GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WITHOUT THIS CROSS

"Say! even if you never hit 50 you need an oil that can do 100!"

"WHAT!" you may say, "Me—a 30-mile-an-hour driver—need Gulf Supreme, that 100-mile-an-hour oil?"

Yes! Think a minute and you'll see why...

The faster an oil travels, the more punishment it gets. And the oil that is good at 100-miles-an-hour, is a better, safer oil at ANY speed!

It gives extra protection against wear. Extra protection against heat.

Extra protection against costly lubrication troubles.

Gulf Supreme can take super-punishment! That is not just a claim. In two of the stiffest tests an oil could get, Gulf Supreme proved itself a "fighting oil"...

First, by successfully lubricating a motor running at nearly twice the heat of a normal speeding engine for 14 solid hours!

Second, by out-performing special racing oils in an Official AAA test on the Indianapolis Speedway. On a sizzling day last August, it lubricated a roaring Duesenberg racer in a one-hour, non-stop run—at an average speed greater than 100-miles-an-hour! Nearly two miles a minute on the straight-a-ways!

Drive into any Gulf station. Drain worn oil. Re-fill with Gulf Supreme. Watch it cut costs. Minimize repairs. And last longer! Use the winter grade in severe weather.

WARNING! ... OIL that isn't good at high speeds, isn't good enough at ANY speed!

Inventions Aid To Cotton Crop

WASHINGTON.—Higher quality standards for the southern cotton crop will be set with the increased use of devices for accurate determination of fiber features, the Agriculture Department predicts.

Technologists of the Division of Cotton Marketing, using the most improved methods, are gathering information on the length, strength, maturity, color and other attributes which determine cotton quality.

These findings, the department says, "should assist in giving an accurate basis for determining and describing the characteristics and properties of cotton fibers and for evaluating them in terms of their spinning behavior and the properties of their manufactured products."

Among the new devices the department lists are The Suter-Webb girther, "which enables the operator to measure the length and relative length uniformity of the fibers in a single sample," and a machine for accurate termination of the strength of fiber bundles.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

World Series Football Contest Due Next Year

The baseball magnates have decided to extend the 1933 season and it will serve them jolly well right if the conflict with football certain to develop serves to cut already drooping World Series gate receipts.

The 1933 season will be started on April 12, the same date as in 1932, and it will end Oct. 1, instead of Sept. 25, the 1932 closing date.

Thus the World Series is certain to conflict with football on one or two gridiron days, Oct. 7, and might well conflict with a second important date, Oct. 14.

This year the series was completed Oct. 2, conflicting with football only on Oct. 1, which mattered but little as compared with next year's conflict with the Oct. 7 date, when football will have passed out of the preliminary stage.

One would suppose that this year's sagging gate receipts would have made the baseball bosses see the light. There were some 20,000 vacant seats at the Yankee Stadium at the second 1932 series game with the Chicago Cubs. This despite early predictions for a sell-out based on the intense natural rivalry between the Cubs and the New York Yankees.

Some of the decrease in attendance is chargeable to hard times, but this is only one reason. World Series of these years isn't what it was 10 years ago, and the baseball magnates are just kidding themselves, if they say it is.

Most major league clubs lost money in 1932, and they would have lost less if they had had a shorter and snappier season. The series could then have held virtually undivided attention of the sports world and interest in the series would have been heightened with corresponding gains in box office receipts.

Some baseball men are free to point out that it isn't baseball which is encroaching into football's time, but that football is being started earlier. Granted that this is true the fact remains that football does cut into baseball interest.

To the magnates could do well to get on a shorter schedule and get the series out of the way before the collegians go into their annual football frenzies.

Hornsby Manager?

THE Sporting News is a paper printed weekly in St. Louis, and is devoted exclusively to baseball. It might be regarded as being "in the know" regarding any inside talk concerning Hornsby's possible succession to Gabby Street as manager of the Cardinals. Says the Sporting News:

"Although Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey, as well as Hog Hornsby himself, went out of their way to assure everybody that the engagement of the Rajah as player on the 1933 Cardinals was not the forerunner to his eventual elevation to the management of the team, the man on the street arched a quizzical eyebrow when the news became known.

"Somehow, the man on the street could not be convinced that the Messrs. Breadon and Rickey were not looking ahead for possible eventualities that might bring the Rajah back in charge of the team on which he won his greatest distinction as a field leader in 1926.

"This was a manifestly unfair attitude toward Charley Street, who has given St. Louis two pennants during his three years' incumbency, but you can't shoot a fan for making the first and last guess."

Shooting Stars

THERE you have it—the excitement has begun already! You know, that wherever Hornsby has gone—to the Giants, Braves and Cubs—stories of discord have followed him.

The Sporting News suggests that St. Louis fans are "guessing that Hornsby will succeed Street, and that the fans see Breadon and Rickey getting ready for such an eventuality.

Who knows? It appears that...

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

Yesterday we wrote at some length on the value of blocking and the necessity of interference and claimed that it was this department of the game that had kept the Bulldogs on top so far this season. That and the fact that we had an excellent backfield and so far the boys hadn't become chummy and overconfident.

We ran out of space before we could call attention to John Bray at center, so the rest of the team need not feel slighted today if we hang on him a little.

John came out for center this year with little or no experience. We are not sure whether he had played the position to amount to anything before this year. Anyway, he now has become one of the outstanding centers in the Oil Belt.

Early in the season he had trouble with his passing, but he has overcome this handicap by constant training so that a bad pass back from center is almost unknown among the Bulldogs. Armistice Day we noticed one that was a wee bit high on a punt formation, but it was not enough off to make any difference, so it probably should not be mentioned. One was slightly low, but it was not enough off to cause any trouble and anyone cannot be perfect throughout the game with as many times as a center has to pass the ball and pass it right.

But Bray's blocking is where he shines. Now he passes the ball accurately and at the same time guards come out for interference. He has developed into one of the mainstays on the defense and it was largely due to his defensive work in the Abilene game that made Wyatt look so pathetic. He learned to stop Wyatt in the first half and put his experience to such good use that Wyatt was just a ball carried that was starting places but not going anywhere.

In the Eastland game he paved the way to one of the touchdowns. Lyon punted out to the 15 or 20 yard line where Burgamy took the ball and started down the field. He met Bray and Bray's tackle was so hard that Burgamy was knocked one way, the ball was knocked another and was recovered for a nice gain and a first down. A touchdown resulted a few minutes later.

A center that can fill all his assignments must be a good passer, a good blocker and must be able to tackle along with the very best. Bray has developed along these lines as much, if not more, than any man on the team so that what was feared would be a weak position early in the season has been turned into one of the mainstays of the offense and defense. When the center passes the ball back to the backfield his real work is just beginning, because he has to plug in the holes that have been left when the guard pulls out to run interference. If the center falls down on this assignment the play is snared for a nice loss.

The fans of Ranger will have to learn a new set of numbers this Friday to keep track of the play-stunt training so that a bad pass back from center is almost unknown among the Bulldogs. Armistice Day we noticed one that was a wee bit high on a punt formation, but it was not enough off to make any difference, so it probably should not be mentioned. One was slightly low, but it was not enough off to cause any trouble and anyone cannot be perfect throughout the game with as many times as a center has to pass the ball and pass it right.

He has developed into one of the mainstays on the defense and it was largely due to his defensive work in the Abilene game that made Wyatt look so pathetic. He learned to stop Wyatt in the first half and put his experience to such then defeat the remaining team. They have adopted a slogan "We Can Beat Ranger" and are planning on doing just that thing on Thanksgiving Day.

"I sat down and another man took the floor. He talked in French, with gestures. He was applauded at every pause.

"I joined in the applause until a neighbor whispered, 'I wouldn't applaud so much if I were you, mayor; that man is interpreting your own speech.'

"I never did learn what the fellow did with my speech. I only talked 15 minutes—he grated for an hour. It must have been good, however, for several Frenchmen kissed me when he finished."

Couple Live a Life of Swiss Family Robinson On Unique and Thrilling Honeymoon

By United Press.

Meng took turns nursing and watching the horizon for a ship. Finally sighting smoke on the horizon they built signal fires and set out in the punt over a treacherous three miles of swells. The boat was an Australian freighter bound for San Francisco. They obtained supplies and sent wireless messages to Honolulu for a rescue party to come for them. The freighter plied on.

Two months later the U. S. Eagle Forty, with a large survey plane aboard, dropped anchor along the island. Their side in Honolulu had been unable to hire another sanpan after the Japanese captain had returned with weird tales of getting lost in the Pacific. He appealed to the commander of the naval air service and obtained aid.

Meng now operates a small wood-working plant here, and he and his wife have sworn off adventure, but the sea is still there and an invitation to join friends in the Adventure club of Los Angeles for a big game hunt in Africa is weighing heavily on their minds.

High Court Will Rule On Lotto

By United Press.

WASHINGTON.—Whether the once popular parlor game of keno, or lotto, can become a lottery is one of the questions the staid supreme court must decide this term.

On its answer will hang the fate of Mark Roasberg, New Orleans, La., who, if the court says it is capable of becoming a lottery will have to serve a prison term and pay a fine.

Roasberg was indicted for mailing circulars inviting the recipient of a keno game. The prosecuting attorney claimed that, since money would be used for stakes, the game became a type of lottery and the mailing of the circular a violation of the federal lottery laws.

Jury's Finding

At his trial the jury was given the question to determine and found that the game as conducted by Roasberg was a lottery. On appeal its judgment was affirmed.

The Circuit Court, however, produced a dissent which may prove valuable to the supreme court in writing its opinion.

Circuit Judge Rufus E. Foster noted that the evil which Congress sought to remedy when it passed the lottery laws was the Louisiana State Lottery.

He added:

Judge's Remarks

"Keno or lotto, which terms are interchangeable, is a well known game played by many persons in homes. . . . Certainly Congress never intended to close the mails to letters or advertisements concerning all gambling games. If keno is to be considered a lottery, the sending of a letter by a host inviting his friends to a lotto party would be a violation of the statute.

"The mails would also be closed to advertisements of stores selling the game. The Congress in my opinion did not so intend.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—When the bold and skillful hunter hung around his neck the teeth of the wild beast he had slain, he thereby decorated himself with an order, which proclaimed his service to the community in quite unmistakable fashion. In New Guinea the natives make themselves armlets from the jawbones of defeated enemies, while the Appalachian Indians used to wear necklaces of dried finger-bones.

Today we wear elephant teeth and tusks in the name of fine, hand-carved ivory and monkey molars have been disguised to make necklaces, rings and bracelets.

The connection between ornament and amulet—or charm—is so close that a lot of historians try to explain man's primitive desire to decorate himself as an effective means of protection against supernatural powers. Whatever it is there is a strong link between then and now. In the Rue de la Paix today there is an exclusive jewelry shop devoted entirely to charms of such variety as to satisfy the most superstitious.

China Planning On Flood Work

By United Press.

PEIPING, China.—Following extensive floods in Shansi province, resulting in the destruction of 12,150 homes and the death of 220 persons, O. J. Todd, chief engineer, China international famine relief commission, has gone to Taiyuanfu to discuss relief measures.

During his stay Todd, an American, will consider with authorities plans for flood prevention and irrigation work involving the construction of dykes, reservoirs and ditches. During the past summer and autumn 75,000 farmers lost their crops in Shansi and the China international famine relief commission hopes to be able to avert similar disasters in the future.

Not only is the relief agency interested in river conservation, reforestation and irrigation, but it is responsible for much road building. During periods of famine the China international relief commission gives employment to thousands of destitute men and boys on highway construction projects. Already the work done by the China international famine relief commission has done much to reduce the ravages of flood and famine in the interior provinces of northern China.

General Ho Yung-chang, governor of Shansi, and General Yen Hsi-shun, the most powerful military in the province, have agreed to co-operate in the projects.

Ontario May Close 22 of Its Hospitals

By United Press.

TORONTO, Ont.—Twenty-two hospitals in Ontario may be closed at the end of 1932, it has been learned. A drop of more than $1,000,000 in the income is given as the reason for the anticipated curtailment by the Ontario department of public health.

Dr. J. M. Robb, minister of public health, addressing the delegates of the ninth annual convention of the Ontario Hospital association outlined the seriousness of the hospital problem within the province.

"In 1930," he said, "the income from hospitals was $8,600,000. It dropped to $7,800,000 last year and this year I fear there will be a drop of another million. Municipalities will be asked to pay an additional $400,000 and the government, which last year contributed $1,775,000 already has paid out about $180,000 more than that this year."

Dr. Robb stated that at the present time there were more than 5,000 empty beds in Ontario hospitals.

It was pointed out that there was an increasing number of free patients. Twenty-two hospitals in the province could be closed and no patient would have to travel more than 21 miles before receiving general hospital care.

The matter is being given careful attention and it is expected that some action may be taken at the next session of the Ontario legislature.

Crow Wins Air Battle With Hawk

By United Press.

SHAMOKIN, Pa.—A battle between a crow and a chicken hawk in mid-air interested road workers engaged in repairing the highway over Cameron Mountain near here.

The crowd surprisingly won the battle, according to the witnesses.

When they first saw the unusual conflict, the hawk was pursuing the crow. Suddenly the crow circled above the hawk and dropped on its back.

From this vantage point it pecked at the hawk's head. The larger bird shook off its tormentor. The crow maneuvered back to its position on the hawk. Again it pecked steadily until the bird of prey dropped.

The workers found the hawk dead. It measured two and one-half feet from wing tip to wing tip. The crow was a medium-sized representative of its kind.

Slim, white-haired and still bearing a soldierly attitude, Ferris enjoyed a ride with Sam Jones, a pilot, whom Ferris has known since boyhood. They were accompanied by Earl Zink, Ferris' grandson.

Ferris explained that during the stage coach days he became acquainted with Jesse James. "He stayed at our house sometimes," Ferris said. "We joked and swapped stories many times. He was jolly and kindhearted, not black like he has been painted."

Week-end MURDER by GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

MEAN HERE TODAY. The story opens with a prologue in which a murder is committed by a homicidal maniac. Later he boards a train for Long Island, thinking of the pleasant weekend he is to have there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII. DRIVING to the Country Club that afternoon, Tom reflected that there had been no trouble for at least three hours.

Through the several sets they watched—the semi-finals of a good amateur tournament—there was little chance for Cousin Amos to make trouble, though his blandly audible comments caused some suppressed annoyance to others near them.

Somehow to Linda's surprise, Cousin Amos did not spurn the cool drink offered him. Gradually it was borne in upon her that innocence was responsible for this. Murmuring, "Delicious, delicious!" So stimulating and refreshing!

"Your remarks are ill-chosen, sir. I take them very much amiss!" Cousin Amos drew himself up with sudden and intense dignity. "Never in my life—and I am an older man, sir, than you might suppose—have I indulged in spirituous liquor. It is an insult to the ladies present to class this cooling punch with dangerous and illegal intoxicants."

"You will not, sir, while I am present, presume to suggest that Mrs. Averill and her guests would accept the type of beverage with which you—and perhaps the ladies of your acquaintance—are probably all too familiar. The suggestion is, I repeat, an insult and your apology is called for at once. Your remark was unworthy of a gentleman."

HEATED surprise fairly glittered in the air. No one had had any idea of the depths of national chapter, the balance remaining for local memberships are: supporting at $25, and life membership at $50.

Linda's face went white under her tan. She said, "How terrible! I forget all this afternoon that it was one of those men!" Cousin Amos' innocence. As Linda tried desperately to think of some way to smooth over his deliberate affront to the Belgian, Tom stepped forward, hastily starting to speak.

RETREATING voices told him that Linda and others were going toward the car. At his right, he felt rather than saw Pratt's decidedly comforting support. Then the merriest flicker of eyelashes showed that the taut, terrible figure was after all human.

"I understand your position, Mr. Averill. It is indeed—unfortunate—" The Belgian spoke softly, in his voice a glinting undercurrent of venom. "Nevertheless, I must—regrettably—refuse your further hospitality and leave your delightful home—at once. You will understand my position. I cannot remain."

Three Song Hits In "They Call It Sin" The inclusion of music in the 1933 manner gives added flavor to the unusual drama of the First National picture, "They Call It Sin," which comes tomorrow to the Astoria theatre, Ranger, with Loretta Young, George Brent and David Manners in the leading roles.

YET driving home with the decidedly subdued party (Linda) and gone ahead with the still-agonized uncertainty which she would say, whether he had done the right thing, and how they would manage tactfully to avoid the older man.

FOR the first time he realized another growing cause of discomfort—the rising, ominous heat, brooding more and more heavily over the still water and land.

Why didn't Linda come? He must talk to her. He had promised DeVos the old man should go and that he should go at once. It was nearly dinner time—ah, at last! That was her step—

"I suppose he exaggerates his misery just as he does his good health." "Exactly. Feels he can have proper care and attention only where his difficult case is understood. Frankly, I think his nose is out of joint, even aside from the quarrels. He's used to being an oracle and the center of every family group and we just haven't had time to kotow to him properly.

"You can't let Mrs. Averill down that way. She has planned to entertain us all. After all, I understand that Mr. Peabody came, unexpectedly, and was not of the original party—isn't that right, Averill?" "Quite so," Tom made his decision. Older man, relative though he was, the one to leave must be the elderly trouble-maker, not this invited guest.

Beware the Cough or Cold that Hangs On Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with three-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

TO THE CITIZENS OF RANGER:

Every once in a while... possibly a decade... a picture is made that is more than something to be entertained by. It is my privilege to have such a picture in my theatre today. "The Washington Merry-Go-Round," which I honestly believe is the greatest motion picture ever to reach the screen... a picture so big that it will make you wonder after you leave the theatre if our government is really run by the people or by a number of gangsters.
 I believe that every taxpayer and voter in every state in the United States should see "The Washington Merry-Go-Round" and decide for yourself what is the matter with this country.

Chief Meyers, famous old-time Indian catcher, could sure handle the hot ones served up by National League pitchers during his stay with Boston, Brooklyn and the New York Giants from 1909 to 1917. But the chief doesn't handle them any more. He's dishing them out himself. Above you see him as chief cook, dish washer and proprietor of a cafe he recently opened at Duarte, Calif., testing a tasty lade of soup.
