HERE--- AND THERE

During this Thanksgiving season our nation is standing on the shores of our economic situation, scanning the boundaries and expanse of troubled waters of depression with eager strained gaze, watching for that ship of good hope, fortune and prosperity to come to the rescue of our starving and unfortunate children.

Women of culture who had left their protected homes in England, to help their husbands, found a new country in America, were starving. At Plymouth Rock settlement, Lady Arabella Johnson, wife of Isaac Johnson, unable longer to endure the awful hardships, passed away amid barren and harsh surroundings, in the cold, and with her delicate hands, coarsened by unusual toil, folded in supplication on her breast.

Dark came, the candle dips were lighted, the flares set aflame on the beach and watch for the ship was kept in the home and from the shore. At last, a clarion shout goes up! There, on the far distant horizon a ship comes creeping in. The colonists rushed to the shores on that day in November, 1621, with songs and hymns of thanksgiving, to welcome the good Captain Pierce.

BUCKAROOS-BULLDOGS MEET AT LILLARD FIELD, 2:30 TODAY

BOTH TEAMS DETERMINED TO WIN GAME

Largest Crowd In Oil Belt Will See Game In Ranger Today.

The largest crowd to witness an oil belt football game this season, and probably one of the largest within the past four or five years, is to be on hand this afternoon at 2:30 when the opening whistle blows for the Ranger-Breckenridge game, the outcome of which will have much to do with the championship of the district.

Much more interest has been aroused in the game because of the fact that on it hinges, to a large extent at least, if not entirely, the fate of at least three teams in the district race. A win for Ranger would mean that the Bulldogs would go into the bid-district race with the winner of District 1, which will probably be Amarillo. A tie would throw Abilene and Ranger in the running, while a win by Breckenridge will give the Eagles and Buckaroos a fighting chance for district honors.

Not since 1926, when Ranger and Breckenridge met in the district championship, has there been as good a chance of a Bulldog team going into the championship. In 1929 the Bulldogs finished third in the district race with 19 teams in the district. Breckenridge was the winner, winning nine and losing none with Abilene second with seven wins and two defeats and Ranger winning six and losing three.

Again in 1930 the Bulldogs had a good team, losing one game to Abilene by a score of 3 to 0 and paying Abilene a tie to finish second to Breckenridge with nine wins and one tie.

In 1931, the first year of the six-team district, the Bulldogs could not get started well for some reason, though they had a strong team, and finished behind both Abilene and Breckenridge, the Eagles winning five and losing none, while the Buckaroos were winning four and losing one. The Bulldogs lost to Abilene and Breckenridge, tied Cisco and won from Eastland and Brownwood to end the season in a tie with the labors for third place.

The tie game last week gave Breckenridge fans and the team renewed hope as it gave them a chance at the title again, because it placed the Bulldogs only half a game ahead, whereas they had stood one full game ahead, since the defeat of the Buckaroos at the hands of the Eagles.

In the nine games that have been played between Ranger and Breckenridge, Ranger has won five, tied one and lost three. The two defeats suffered at the hands of the Buckaroos have been overwhelming, however, one being by a score of 40 to 7, and the other being 25 to 0, which was made at Breckenridge last Thanksgiving Day.

The record of the two teams in the past nine years follows:

- 1923—Ranger 7, Breckenridge 5.
- 1924—Ranger 0, Breckenridge 0.
- 1925—Ranger 3, Breckenridge 3.
- 1926—Ranger 18, Breckenridge 0.
- 1927—Ranger 7, Breckenridge 6.
- 1928—Breckenridge 13, Ranger 7.
- 1929—Breckenridge 40, Ranger 7.
- 1930—Ranger 12, Breckenridge 7.
- 1931—Breckenridge 25, Ranger 0.

Five Buckaroo Linemen Who Will Play Against Bulldogs Today

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

So certain are Buckaroo fans of victory that many have reserved seats for the Abilene-Breckenridge playoff for the championship of the Oil Belt.

The playoff can come in only one way—by defeat of the Bulldogs this afternoon at the hands of the Buckaroos.

The Breckenridge American, on its front page Tuesday, ran a line in black type between each item reading "On to Ranger." This was not, necessarily an indication that the paper predicted a victory, but was probably used as a means of urging the fans to go to the game.

Ticket sales in both Ranger and Breckenridge have been tremendous. The demand still continues with very few reserved seats remaining Wednesday in either town, and these along the 5 and 10 yard lines. These are probably gone by this morning, so general admission tickets are probably all that can be secured at the gate.

A few quotations from the American, to show the attitude of the Buckaroo followers, show how confident they are of victory. Some of the expressions read:

"We hope those fans who are already reserving seats for the Buckaroo-Abilene game next week and the game the following week between Breckenridge and the winner in District 1 are correct."

"The fans mentioned are certain that Breckenridge will defeat Ranger in order that Abilene and Breckenridge can play for the title, with Breckenridge winning the play-off."

Another one reads: "Many Abilene football followers are pulling for a tie game between Ranger and Breckenridge as they say the Bulldogs will be easier to beat than the Buckaroos, although the Eagles topped the Buckaroos at Abilene on Armistice Day by a lone touchdown."

These fans point out that Pitzer was out of the game a good part of the time and the Bobby Wood, another star quarter, was in the grandstand and not on the field.

Still another quotes N. S. Holland as saying: "The Buckaroos can beat Ranger and after they do they can trim the Eagles even if the game is played at Abilene instead of Breckenridge. Games in the Oil Belt are played on a game and game basis and if Abilene comes here for the game next week the Buckaroos must journey again to Abilene next year to play the Eagles instead of having them in our own back yard."

To carry this quoting business still farther, we find this: "There is a feeling in Breckenridge that if the Buckies can beat Ranger they can take the Eagles to task for a win on the Buckaroo field. What with it not likely that Pitzer will get knocked out again and Bobby Wood now ready to prance in his place or help in scoring touchdowns, it doesn't appear improbable that the Buckies can come back for a few wins to cinch the district title."

All of which may mean nothing to the Ranger fans, but it shows that a very determined and certain bunch of Buckaroos are coming to Ranger for the game and they will be out there to win, and intend to do so. Whether they do or not depends entirely on the brand of football the Bulldogs play.

Velvet Gloves Are Latest From Paris

PARIS.—Accessory fashions have been revolutionized by Paris' latest invention—the velvet glove—not for the traditional iron hand but for fair and gentle hands, white and slim.

The soft lustrous fabric lends itself to graceful folds, and these gloves are made to reach just above the elbow, but worn wrinkled over the lower part of the arm just above the wrist. They are made in lovely shades of red, blue, green as well as black, in fact in every shade in which the evening gowns are made.

For the daytime there are shorter gloves of velvet. In brown and beige shades these are particularly attractive with fur coats, especially mink, beige breitch-wantz coat by ruby velvet gloves accompanied by a ruby velvet beret and perhaps a velvet bag.

Charming Christmas presents can be made of these velvet gloves and the dainty trifles that are made to accompany them. The evening gloves may have slippers to match. While gloves for the daytime match beret, bag and belt.

There are new black velvet gloves for the afternoon with the gauslet cuff with white kid. This is worn turned down over the hand and is extremely chic with black costumes trimmed with ermine.

Then there are corduroy velvet gloves for sports wear. These are made in a variety of colors with matching berets, bags and scarves. In every smart restaurant and every ball-room these velvet gloves are seen. They are worn by such leaders of fashion as the Duchess of Sutherland, the Duchess d'Albe, who has them to match each of her numerous evening gowns, the Comtesse de Cosse-Brisac, the Comtesse de Saint Phalle, and by most of the smart women here.

Origin of Towns Names Are Traced

WASHINGTON.—Speaking of names of places and how names originate, a spokesman of the National Geographic society here has pointed out that many of the unusual addresses mail clerks see on envelopes come about by the combination of exclamations and proper or common nouns.

For example, the practice of ferry passengers calling "hey" to "Si," who ran the ferry, resulted in Hays, Va.

And then there is Greasy Creek, Biscuit and Dimple, Ky., the origin of which may be guessed at if not directly traced. Added to a similar list is Horse Heaven, Gooseprairie and Steptoe in Washington state, Pie Town and Gallup in New Mexico, Needles and Jelley in California, and Frost-proof in Florida.

Speed, Economy and Harmony are in Indiana, Flues, Vim and Joes in Colorado, Asbestos and Appeal in Maryland, and Dead-water and Grindstone in Maine.

Some of the names, it is stated, may have originated in the days of the "western bad men." For example, Tombstone in Arizona, Razor and Gunsight in Texas, Fossil in Oregon, and Scrapper in Oklahoma.

Climate and temperature also seem to play a part in naming towns in sections of the United States. For example, there is a Tranquility in New Jersey, Twilight in South Dakota, What Cheer and Promise City in Iowa, Dewyrose in Georgia, Wynot in Nebraska, Prosperity in Arkansas, and Faith in South Dakota.

Pinchot Gives Hunting Rules

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Governor Gifford Pinchot, ardent sportsman, has released his "code for hunters" for thousands of Pennsylvania hunters.

Among his "do's" and "don't's" recommended for better hunting are more friendly feeling with the farmers whose lands are invaded were:

"Ask permission to hunt and respect the farmer's rights."

"Land owned by others is private property and the hunter's license grants no special privilege."

"Don't shoot into a lake, pond, or stream just to see the water splash."

"Don't shoot the farmer's poultry."

"Don't tramp across the field of winter wheat when the ground is soft."

"When a rabbit runs under a rail pile or stone fence, forget it."

"Replace what you have torn down. And that applies to fodder shocks in corn fields."

"When game goes in the direction of occupied buildings, or livestock, forget that you have a gun."

"Don't practice target shooting."

"Don't neglect to thank the owner or lessee of the land on which you hunt."

State Constabulary Raids Wrong Party

YORK, Pa.—State police sent to raid a political-social club in a former church building, burst in upon a party at another church and searched the place for intoxicants before they discovered their mistake.

The warrants called for a raid on the Twelfth Ward Republican club, where sale of intoxicants was alleged.

The raiding detail was informed the suspected club was located in an old church building. They entered such a building, after disregarding demands at the door for their admission tickets, and searched the basement. Finally they asked where they were. They were informed they were in St. Andrew's Episcopal church.

The club was on the next corner. They went there and reported finding the intoxicants they sought.

Amateur Mountain Climbers Hunted

TIFLIS, U. S. S. R.—Special expeditions of expert mountain climbers are conducting a search here for the bodies of four Austrians, all of them workers in the Rostov agricultural machinery plant, who perished while climbing Mount Ushba, in Svanetia, the Caucasus.

Traces of the lost Alpinists already have been found and the searching parties now hunting Mount Ushba are likely to find the actual site of the catastrophe.

BRITAIN'S SKY QUEEN AS AMY JOHNSON MADE READY FOR RECORD HOP ACROSS AFRICA

Aviation supremacy came to Amy Johnson, British flyer, when she piloted her little gull moth plane into Capetown South Africa, 10 hours ahead of the London-Capetown record established by her husband, Capt. James A. Mollison. She had flown alone on the 6200-mile stretch landing over the Sahara desert and the wilds of Africa, to make the new record. She is shown above in the cockpit of her plane shortly before starting from London.

Letter Is Mailed After Sixteen Years

HARLINGEN, Texas.—A letter written 16 years ago by a Harlingen boy to a friend in Maine has reached its destination but the mail service was not responsible for the delay.

The letter was found by Rev. Francis M. Sander in a coat given to a Harlingen welfare organization. He mailed it to Roy Stangor, the addressee, and it reached him though he had moved from Calais, Me., to Lowell, Mass.

Committee Formed Outline Progress

EAGLE PASS, Texas.—Five of the largest taxpayers in the Maverick county water control district compose a committee to assist and advise in a construction program for 1933.

This committee will pass on all contracts and purchases made by the water control board in spending the $1,476,000 granted by the reconstruction finance corporation for repairing and extending the county's 30-mile irrigation canal.

Besides rebuilding flood-damaged parts of the 32-mile first section, the money will be used to extend the canal for another 25 miles, giving employment to 2,700 persons for 18 months.

The committeemen are: M. L. Frank, San Antonio, member of the company holding the Indian title; F. J. Estrada, E. A. Kinzel, F. H. Schmidt and A. D. Eidsen, Eagle Pass.

COUPLE SHARE LIVES.

PORT WORTH.—In 1884, when Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Price were married, they decided their lives should be on a 50-50 basis. She was a girl of 14, he a youth of 19. Today, 48 years later, they still contend the 50-50 partnership in work and business is the basis of an ideal business. Mrs. Price operates their cafe half a day, her husband the other half. Their co-operation in business has survived cattle raising, a grocery business, and a helium plant.

WEEK-END MURDER

GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

AMOS FEARNEY, elderly cousin of LINDA AVERILL, falls to his death from the second-floor balcony of the Averill Long Island house. Linda reaches him just before he plunges to his death.

There are four guests in the house and all become suspects of the murder. All are strong physically, have violent tempers and all have quarreled with Cousin Amos. The four are: MR. STALLANDER, middle-aged manager of the firm TOM AVERILL works for; MARVIN PRATT, former suitor of Linda's; CAPTAIN DE VOS, handsome Belgian representing a European perfume manufacturer; and LEO SHAGHNESSY, Irish writer and lecturer.

Linda, realizing her cousin had tried to tell her he was murdered, rushes up the stairs to the balcony and steps behind her, tries to strangle her and she falls in a faint.

about her ears. She gulped, shut her eyes, and resolutely opened them again. Murder—murder! There, she had said it and faced it. Murder—in her house and she the only one who knew it. It was up to her, therefore, before Tom came back to decide several things. She must tell him, of course.

But should she tell anyone else? Dr. Parsons? The police? As Tom had talked, she had seen the whole affair through their eyes. And she knew not one of them except Tom could be trusted to see it through hers. To Dr. Parsons—and the police, too—she would be hysterical, imaginative, perhaps even a little delirious from shock. Murder—murder simply didn't happen in a house like this among well-bred people. She had been attacked—true! But how could she prove it? What trace did an attempted strangulation leave? A cloth of some sort had gone around her neck so there would be no finger marks.

And was she sure her own head was clear? Yes, that she knew. Everything had happened as she remembered and she alone held the key to the "accident." But if she were to tell the police—the incredulous, heavy-handed village police—one of two things would happen. They would laugh her statements to scorn and think her simply off her head. Or they would believe her—at least to the extent of detaining the men, questioning them blunderingly and fruitlessly, tramping through her house, making her repeat her own story endlessly and unavailingly—and find no possible support of her theory that she had been attacked, on which also hung the proof that Cousin Amos had been murdered. Then, the instant surveillance was removed, off would go those four men.

Just as they were going now—in a few brief hours! On her dresser the gay little clock ticked away in the hot, silent room. Almost half past 9. Voices came up through the open window from the breakfast room below. Someone was politely chatting there and wondering how soon she would come to consciousness and how much she knew. Soon that person—all the four, any one of whom was capable of murder—would be packing, would leave her life forever—but not as Cousin Amos had gone. This man would go confidently, safely.

Not if she could prevent it! Those men must not leave the house—until she knew!

WHAT LINDA she did, she could not stay in bed another moment. Swinging her feet to the floor, Linda stood up, a little shaky at first, and drank the contents of the

"That is simple enough. We can say I found Mr. Pratt bending over you."

SHE caught her breath at the suggestion. "Tom—Tom—how can you—" "How can I what?" "Think Marvin—" "How can I help it?" His hands clenched. "Linda—do you want to drive me crazy? I'm trying to hold myself in. It's for your sake I'm going to report it that way instead of—throttling him—choking the life out of him—"

"Tom!" She was beside him with one quick movement. "Tom, dear—I forgot that. Of course you think—but wait a minute, honey! Sit down here—"

HE heard her out grimly. Heard of the silent approach of the man behind her—the man whom she had trapped there and who, fearing detection, tried to silence her forever. Heard why she had involuntarily clutched at the air— a gesture so easily translated into a light-hearted wave! And as she finished with her vague memory that the choking pressure gave, just as she toppled into unconsciousness, he swore briefly, shortly, with the concentrated anguish of futile rage.

"So—what do you think of that?" she concluded, trying to relieve his evident tension by speaking lightly. Face set grimly, eyes burning into hers, he sat there a moment immobile. His look made her realize suddenly, as an outsider would realize, what she had been through, what she had so narrowly missed.

"I think it's murder and attempted murder," he answered slowly. "Good God—what might have happened—and I wasn't there!" Suddenly he engulfed her with tense, protective, angry tenderness.

Thursday Club Luncheon

A Brilliant Affair.
The Thursday Afternoon club members were complimented with a very beautiful luncheon Tuesday at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. James Horton, and which was handsomely decorated in big yellow chrysanthemums, ferns, and autumn foliage for this charming club event.

The house hostess received informally assisted by the committee women in charge of the game luncheon, and entertainment features to follow: Mrs. E. Roy Townsend, Mrs. Leslie Gray, Mrs. W. A. Martin, and the president of the Thursday Afternoon club, Mrs. B. M. Collier.

Seven luncheon tables were laid in exquisite linen and centered with wreaths of delicate, fresh ivy. Amidst the foliage a bronze deer lifted its startled head. Places were indicated by small deer in silhouette with name attached and with card back an autumn leaf.

The deer meal luncheon plate was accompanied by potatoes in cream dressing with condiment, topping, beans, molded fruit salad, hot rolls, coffee, and second course of apple pastry with cheese.

Those assisting in serving were Mrs. J. M. Perkins, Mrs. Grady Pipkin, Mrs. James Horton, and Mrs. W. E. Staller.

Following luncheon a charming review of the book, "Band," story of a deer, was given by Mrs. W. A. Whitley.

Games of dominoes, bridge and contract occupied the members during the afternoon, with favors for high scores presented by Mrs. Horton and Mrs. Collier to Mrs. Carl Springer, Mrs. Collier, and Mrs. E. M. Kenny, who received handsome books of adventure and travel.

Mrs. J. E. Hickman extended an invitation to the club members to be the guests of Judge and Mrs. Hickman next Wednesday evening when an exhibition of pictures by Texas artists will be shown.

All appointments prevented the forest and out of doors motif, and made a particularly pleasing setting for this club social affair, enjoyed by Misses C. U. Connelley, D. L. Childress, A. H. GROWTH

OBLIERATES CARVINGS

SISTERS, Ore.—Loggers felled an ancient tree near here. When axes hit through the trunk the loggers found carvings on an imbedded slash near the heart. The inscription was, "Government Survey, 1861, by E. S." The tree had grown completely around the slash. The tree was an old "witness" tree used in an early survey through Central Oregon.

Joe Brown Comedy Rib Tickling Hit At Arcadia Today

Never in the memory of the most ardent Joe E. Brown fan has there been such a riot of fun and laughter packed into six reels of entertainment as was unrolled last night at the Arcadia theatre in "You Said a Mouthful."

If the enjoyment manifested by the first night audience at Joe's struggles to be champion swimmer is any criterion, it's going to be difficult to get seats at the Arcadia theatre as long as "You Said a Mouthful" is on the screen.

With an inborn timidity about water that amounts almost to phobia, Joe finds himself mistaken by the girl of his dreams—at least, he starts dreaming about her as soon as he meets her—for the champion swimmer of Canada, Joe Holt, who is the favorite in the forthcoming swimming race from Catalina to the California mainland, a mere 27 miles away.

Between his determination to be everything Alice thinks he is, and the relentless coaching of his pick-anunny ward—a darky orphan—Joe somehow manages to get used to the water and learn the rudiments of swimming.

Of course, Joe wins the race—who ever heard of Joe E. Brown failing to do anything he started out to do?—but that's a mere detail. If anything funnier than this swimming match has ever been filmed on land or sea, we've forgotten what it is. And the race itself is only the hilarious, side-splitting climax to five reels or more of merriment that ranges from audible chuckles to deafening roars and shrieks of laughter.

It seemed to us that the only time the audience stopped laughing was when they were out of breath and couldn't do anything but gasp until they got their second wind.

It would be easy to pick out a dozen high spots in Joe's career as a champion swimmer and dwell upon them, but it would equally be a shame to give away any of the delightful twists and turns of "You Said a Mouthful." It's enough to say that anybody who misses Joe E. Brown in this picture will miss one of the funniest experiences of a lifetime.

The channel from the port of the dredger took of the schooner Favorita sank off Monroe harbor.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE WAR WHOOP
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the blood-curdling yells of war-mad savages, whose barbaric cruelty held America's early settlers in a constant state of terror. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
